STATIONS, CLERICAL AND LAY MISSIONARIES, AND NATIVE CLERGYMEN,

ON JUNE 1, 1895.

 A STATION is the place at which a Clerical or Lay Missionary is stationed, or at which Native Christians are located under Native pastoral superintendence in connexion with the Society.

The figures after the Names of the European Labourers show the date of their first sailing for the Society's Missions, or of their reception into connexion in the field. Their University or College is indicated thus: Oxford, "Oxf."; Cambridge, "Camb."; Dublin, "T.C.D."; Durham, "Dur."; London, "Lond."; Archbishop of Canterbury's Degree, "Lamb."; Islington, "Isl."; London College of Divinity, "Lond. Coll. Div."; King's College, London, "K.C.L." In the case of men trained at the Society's Preparatory Institution, Clapham, or of ladies trained at The Willows, and at the Society's Highbury Training Home, "Clapham," or "The Willows," or "Highbury," occurs after their names. The letter D after the names of ordained men, whether European or Natives, indicates that they were Deacons at the above date.

The terms "Hon." and "partly Hon.," in parenthesis, after the name of a Missionary, means that such Missionary draws no allowances, or only a portion of the usual allowances. Where Missionaries are supported by individual friends of the Society, or by Associations, or other bodies, the fact is indicated. In the case of the Colonial Associations (N. S. Wales = New South Wales, Vict. = Victoria, New Z. = New Zealand, Can. = Canada) the Missionaries have been selected, and, when necessary, also trained by the Associations.

*This mark * denotes that the Missionary to whose name it is prefixed is in Local Connexion. It includes Europeans who have joined in the Mission, and Clergymen who were born in the country in which they labour.*

The mark ‡ denotes that the name to which it is prefixed is that of an Agent supported by Native Church Funds, which are in most instances aided by the Society. The Native Ministers in New Zealand are supported partly by Subscriptions from Native Christians, and partly from the rents of lands belonging to the Society in the Colony.

The Names of Native Clergymen are printed in Italics. The figures after their names show the date of ordination.

The Maiden Names of Wives of European Missionaries, and the year of marriage, when known, are given in parenthesis; in the case of each lady who was a Missionary of the Society before marriage, the Mission in which she laboured, and the year of joining it are given; and in the case of ladies who were Missionaries of other Societies, the initials indicating the Society ("C.E.Z.M.S." = Church of England Zenana Missionary Society; "Z.B.M.M." = Zenana Bible and Medical Mission; "F.E.S." = Female Education Society) are given, as well as the country and year of joining. Wives of Missionaries, &c., are always expected by the Society to lay themselves out to do good, in every practicable way, among the Native women, such as cultivating familiar intercourse with them, educating children, and instructing the adult women.

The Names under each station are printed in order of date, without reference to nationality, sex, orders, or other difference; except that, the Secretaries of Missions are placed first in order at the stations where they reside, and wives of Missionaries are placed, in almost every instance, immediately after their husbands.

At the Annual Meeting of the Church Missionary Society held at Exeter Hall, London, Tuesday, April 30, 1895, being its Ninety-sixth Anniversary—

SIR JOHN H. KENNAWAY, Bart., M.P., President, in the Chair,

AFTER READING OF SCRIPTURE AND PRAYER;

The General Review of the Year was read, followed by the CHAIRMAN'S Address, after which, on a Motion by the MOST REV. THE LORD ARCHBISHOP OF DUBLIN, D.D., V.P., seconded by the REV. H. E. PERKINS, of the Punjab Mission, and supported by the RIGHT REV. THE BISHOP OF SALISBURY, D.D., V.P., it was Resolved—

I. That the General Review which has just been read, together with the Report, of which an abstract has been presented, be adopted and printed under the direction of the Committee; that the thanks of the Meeting be given to the Right Reverend the Lord Bishop of Durham for his Sermon before the Society last evening, and that it be printed and circulated; that the thanks of the Meeting be given to Sir T. Fowell Buxton, Bart., for his services as Treasurer since the year 1886, with the assurance that he carries with him to the responsible duties to which he has been called in South Australia, the prayers and cordial good wishes of the Society; that Colonel Robert Williams be the Treasurer of the Society; and that the Committee be appointed for the ensuing year, with power to fill up vacancies.

On a Motion by CHANCELLOR P. V. SMITH, LL.D., V.P., seconded by the REV. G. F. HEAD, M.A., Vicar of Christ Church, Hampstead, it was Resolved—

II. That this Meeting, in reviewing the experiences of the past year, is devoutly thankful to Almighty God for the many and manifest tokens of His good Hand having rested on the work entrusted to the Society; but recognising the appalling fact that hundreds of millions in the world have never heard the name of Christ, the urgent call for reinforcements for East, West, and Central Africa, and for India, and the comparative supineness of the Church of Christ to the claims of the risen Lord on each individual to engage directly or indirectly in the evangelisation of the world, would to this end unite in earnest prayer for the outpouring in an increased measure of the Holy Spirit upon the Church at home.

On a Motion by the REV. W. P. BUNCOMBE, B.A., of the Japan Mission, seconded by the RIGHT REV. THE BISHOP OF SIERRA LEONE, D.D., V.P., it was Resolved—

III. That this Meeting rejoices at the prospect of peace being restored between the two great Empires of the Far East; and while pleading with God that the treaties which shall ultimately be ratified may be overruled for extensive enlargement of Missionary opportunities, calls upon the Church to do all in its power to enable the Society to avail itself of every opening for a still wider dissemination of the Gospel both in China and Japan.

The following Meetings were also held in London on the same day in connexion with the Anniversary:—

At ST. JAMES'S HALL, Piccadilly, simultaneously with the Annual Meeting; Sir Thomas Fowell Buxton, Bart., V.P., Treasurer, in the Chair.

At PRINCES HALL, Piccadilly, at 3 P.M., for Ladies only; the Rev. F. E. Wigram, M.A., Honorary Secretary, in the Chair.

At SION COLLEGE, Thames Embankment, at 3.30 P.M., Conference of Younger Clergy Unions; the Right Rev. Bishop Royston, D.D., V.P., in the Chair.

At EXETER HALL, Strand, at 7 P.M.; the Ven. the Archdeacon of Westminster in the Chair.

At LOWER EXETER HALL, Strand, at 7 P.M.; H. R. Arbuthnot, Esq., in the Chair.

Addresses were delivered at these Meetings by the Chairmen, the Right Rev. Bishop Moule of Mid-China, and Bishop Ridley of Caledonia; the Vens. Archdeacons H. A. Favell and C. F. Warren; the Revs. C. H. Bradburn, A. R. Blackett, T. Harding, E. T. Higgens, P. Ireland Jones, H. Newton, W. J. Richards, E. Bachelor Russell, and C. H. Stileman; Messrs. T. Cheney Garfit, D. Marshall Lang, and H. E. Thornton; also by Mrs. Kember and Mrs. Piper, and the Misses O. Julius and M. West.

X. An Anniversary Sermon shall be preached at some Church in London, by a Clergyman appointed by the COMMITTEE. An Annual Report of the Society shall be printed for the use of its Members.

OF THE COMMITTEE.

XI. The COMMITTEE shall consist of the following, being members of the Established Church of England or of the Church of Ireland:—(a) Twenty-four Lay Members of the Society elected at the Annual Meeting. (b) All Clergymen who are Members of the Society and have been so for not less than one year. (c) All Honorary Governors for Life, and all such other Governors as have been so for not less than one year. In every year so many of the elected Members shall go out of office as, with the vacancies, if any, occurring among them during the preceding year, will make six vacancies, and shall not be re-eligible until the following year. The COMMITTEE shall decide which Members go out of office in each year.

XII. The COMMITTEE shall elect, at their First Meeting in every year, either from among themselves, or from the other Members of the Society (being members of the Established Church of England or of the Church of Ireland), a Committee of Patronage, a Committee of Funds and Home Organization, a Committee of Correspondence, a Committee of Finance, and a Committee of Estimates, and shall have power to fill up vacancies. Each of the said Committees shall keep Minutes of its Proceedings, and shall make such reports of its proceedings to the COMMITTEE as the COMMITTEE shall require.

XV. The office of the Committee of Correspondence is, to seek for proper Missionaries, to nominate them to the COMMITTEE, to superintend their instruction, when necessary, to recommend their location, and to correspond with them when sent out, and generally to direct the foreign work of the Society. Subject to the control of the COMMITTEE, the Committee of Correspondence may delegate any of their duties to Committees elected from among themselves, and may authorize such Committees to report directly to the COMMITTEE, and may fix their Quorum.

XVI. The office of the Committee of Finance is, generally, to superintend the accounts and financial affairs of the Society, and from time to time to note and to report to the COMMITTEE how far the expenditure corresponds with the sanctioned Estimates.

XVII. The office of the Committee of Estimates is, to prepare and submit to the COMMITTEE an estimate of the probable expenditure of the Society.

XVIII. The Committee of Correspondence shall appoint from among themselves, at their First Meeting in every year, a Clerical Sub-Committee, and may appoint at their discretion other Committees, for the examination of Missionary Candidates.

by the other Committees, and subject to and so far as not inconsistent with any such regulations for the time being in force, the COMMITTEE shall receive and deal with the Reports of the other Committees, shall decide upon the countries where Missions shall be carried on, and shall superintend and control the affairs of the Society in general. The COMMITTEE may authorize any Committee appointed under Law XII., and with the consent of the Committee of Correspondence any Committee appointed under Law XV. to deal with and dispose of any matters and classes of matters the consideration of which falls within its province, reporting its action to the next meeting of the COMMITTEE. Subject to the control of the COMMITTEE, every Committee may make Bye-laws for its own government, and may appoint Sub-Committees and fix their quorum.

XX. The COMMITTEE shall have power to appoint such Officers and Assistants as they shall deem necessary for the well conducting of the affairs of the Society, subject, in the case of the appointment of Secretaries, to the approbation of the next Annual Meeting. One, at least, of the Secretaries shall be a layman. The COMMITTEE shall also have power to acquire property of every description for the purposes of the Society, and to invest the funds of the Society as they may deem expedient, and to vest all or any portions of the property and funds of the Society in such Trustee or Trustees, or corporate body, as they may in each case think fit.

XXI. The COMMITTEE shall meet on the second Tuesday in every month, and oftener if needful. The other Committees shall meet as often, and at such places, as shall be by them agreed on. All Committee Meetings shall be opened with reading a Form of Prayer composed for that purpose, or one or more suitable Prayers selected from the Liturgy.

XXII. The Patrons, Vice-Patron, President, Vice-Presidents, Treasurer and Secretaries shall be considered, ex officio, Members of all Committees.

XXIII. Five Members shall be necessary to form a Quorum of the COMMITTEE; and Three of each of the Committees provided for in Law XII.; in each case exclusive of the Secretaries. In cases of equality of votes, the Chairman shall be entitled to a second or casting vote. Every Committee may act notwithstanding vacancies.

XXIV. All payments on account of the Society shall be signed by Three Members of the COMMITTEE, in Committee, and the Lay Secretary, or in his absence by one of the other Secretaries.

XXV. The accounts of the Society shall be audited and reported upon by Public Accountants appointed by the COMMITTEE, and Five Honorary Auditors, Members of the Society (of whom not more than two shall be Members of the COMMITTEE), shall be appointed annually by the COMMITTEE for the purpose of considering the Reports of Public Accountants, and of making recommendations thereon, and generally on the Accounts to the COMMITTEE once at least in every year.

OF MISSIONARIES.

XXVI. Every offer for Missionary Service shall be referred by the Secretaries either to the Committee of Correspondence or in the first instance to the Clerical Sub-Committee or other Committee appointed under Law XVIII. to which it shall belong under rules laid down by the Committee of Correspondence; and the Committee of Correspondence shall have power to deal with the offer, both as to the training and as to the nomination as a Missionary of the Candidate. Provided that no one shall be sent out as a Missionary without having been approved by the Committee of Correspondence; and without, as a general rule, having appeared before them.

XXVII. Candidates nominated by the Committee of Correspondence, and accepted by the COMMITTEE, shall receive instruction in such parts of knowledge, and be prepared in such a manner for their future employment, as the Committee of Correspondence shall judge expedient.

XXVIII. Candidates shall consider themselves engaged to go to any part of the world, and at any time that the COMMITTEE shall decide, and be subject to such regulations as may be established by the COMMITTEE for the direction of the Missionaries: respect, however, being had to their personal circumstances, or to any previous stipulation made by them with the Society.

XXIX. Men who have been duly prepared and finally approved for Missionary work, shall go out, either ordained or unordained, at the discretion of the COMMITTEE.*

XXX. The Missionaries who go out under the direction of this Society shall be allowed to visit home, permission having been previously obtained from the COMMITTEE; and after having laboured in the cause of the Society, to the satisfaction of the COMMITTEE, at the Stations committed to their care, until age or infirmity prevent further exertion, such provision shall be made to render their remaining days comfortable as in the judgment of the COMMITTEE is suitable. The COMMITTEE shall have the power to assist also, in particular cases, the dependent Relatives of those Missionaries, who, by devoting themselves to the service of the Society, are prevented from contributing to their support. The COMMITTEE shall be further empowered in special cases to make such arrangements with those employed by them as they may think fit.

GENERAL.

XXXI. A friendly intercourse shall be maintained with other Protestant Societies engaged in the same benevolent design of propagating the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

XXXII. All questions relating to matters of Ecclesiastical Order and Discipline, respecting which a difference shall arise between a Bishop of the Church of England abroad and the COMMITTEE, shall, in the absence of any tribunal having legal cognizance of the same, be referred to the Archbishops and Bishops of the Provinces of Canterbury and York, whose decision thereupon shall be binding upon the Society and its agents, and representatives. The proposed reference shall be made by the COMMITTEE, through His Grace the Primate, accompanied by such explanations and statements as the COMMITTEE may deem advisable.

XXXIII. The object of the preceding Law being only to provide a mode of settling questions relating to Ecclesiastical Order and Discipline as to which no provision has yet been made by the Society, it is not to be so construed, as in any other respect to alter the principles and practices of the Society, as they are contained in its Laws and Regulations.

XXXIV. It is recommended to every Member of the Society to pray to Almighty God for a blessing upon its designs; under the full conviction that, unless He "prevent us, and [illegible] our doings, with His most gracious favour, and further us with His continual help," the Society cannot reasonably hope to meet with persons of a proper spirit and qualifications to be Missionaries, or expect their endeavours to be crowned with success.

* The Bishops of the Church of England under the authority of the law of the land ordain and send forth [ecclesiastically speaking] the Society's Missionaries; and in the event of their being appointed by the COMMITTEE to labour at stations within the jurisdiction of a Bishop of the Church of England abroad, it is the practice of the Society to apply to the Bishop for licenses in which are specified the districts to which the Missionaries have been assigned. This is done on the understanding that licenses will neither be refused nor when granted be withdrawn from the Missionaries during their connection with the Society, except for some assigned legal cause.

PRAYER USED AT THE ANNUAL MEETINGS OF THE SOCIETY, AND AT THE OPENING OF MEETINGS OF THE GENERAL COMMITTEE.

ALMIGHTY and most merciful FATHER, we give Thee humble thanks for the light of Thy Gospel. Make us more grateful for this Thy mercy, and more zealous for the salvation of all mankind.

Visit in mercy the Church of Christ; enrich it more abundantly with the grace of Thy Holy Spirit; and bless its endeavours to make known Thy Truth. Unite, as one man, all who are truly labouring for Thee. Disappoint the designs of Satan. Let all Christian Societies live in harmony and love; give them wisdom in all their plans; perfect Thy strength in their weakness; and direct their labours to Thy glory.

The harvest truly is great, but the Labourers are few! O Thou Lord of the Harvest, send forth labourers into Thy Harvest! Fill with Thy Spirit those whom Thou hast sent forth; and enable them faithfully and boldly to preach, among Jews and Gentiles, the unsearchable riches of Christ. Keep them from the snares of the world, the flesh, and the devil; deliver them from all evil; and make them wise to win souls.

Upon all the Native Converts whom Thou hast gathered to Thyself, through Thy labouring servants throughout the world, pour out Thy Holy Spirit, that, as Thou hast begotten them again unto a lively hope, so they may ever be followers of Thee as dear children. Deliver them from all remaining darkness and ignorance; destroy and abolish in their hearts all that remains of Satan's kingdom; grant that their faith, and hope, and love may grow exceedingly; make them to be ready to every good work, and more especially to exert themselves for the salvation of those around them; that so, by their zeal and faithful testimony, by their holiness and fruitfulness, they may glorify Thy name before their countrymen, and bring in unto Thee, from the midst of them, such as shall be saved.

Have compassion, O Most-merciful Father, on all those who have come under instruction, though they be not yet altogether Christians. Convince them effectually, by Thy Word and Spirit, of their sinful and miserable state; pour upon them the spirit of grace and supplication, and draw them to Jesus.

Take away blindness from the Jews. Let them receive Thee, O Jesus, as their Messiah, and proclaim Thy saving Name among the Gentiles.

Deliver all Mohammedans from the delusions of the False Prophet! O Thou True Prophet of Thy Church, enlighten them by Thy Holy Spirit, and bow them down at the foot of Thy Cross!

Pity blind Idolaters who are kept in cruel bondage by the god of this world. Turn them from idols, that they may serve the Living and True God.

O Thou Almighty Saviour, who by the right hand of God art exalted, and hast received of the Father the promise of the Holy Ghost, shed forth His light and grace on this dark world!

Cause all Christians, we beseech Thee, to sow bountifully; that they may reap also bountifully. O Thou that lovest a cheerful giver, let all grace abound toward them, that they may minister liberally of their substance to the making known of Thy Name!

With these our humble prayers, we join our praises and thanksgiving for what Thou hast already done in making known Thy salvation; perfect Thy work, O Lord; shortly accomplish the number of Thine elect; and hasten the coming of Thy Kingdom.

Be present with us, O Lord, at this time. Give us all a single eye to Thy glory. May Thy blessing rest upon our meeting; and may all our hearts be this day quickened and encouraged to fresh and persevering efforts in Thy Service.

We ask these mercies for the glory of Thy Name, through the merits and mediation of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ; and would ascribe to Father, Son, and Holy Ghost, Three Persons in One God, everlasting praise. Amen.

OUR Father which art in Heaven: Hallowed be Thy Name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation; but deliver us from evil: for Thine is the kingdom, the power, and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

PRAYER USED AT THE OPENING OF MEETINGS OF THE COMMITTEE OF CORRESPONDENCE.

ALMIGHTY GOD, our heavenly Father, who hast purchased to Thyself an Universal Church, by the precious blood of Thy dear Son, we give Thee hearty thanks that it hath pleased Thee to call us to the knowledge of Thy grace and Faith in Thee, and to appoint our lot in an age and country where the true light shineth. We bless Thee that Thou hast awakened us in some measure to feel our responsibilities. We praise Thee for what we have seen and heard of the power of Thy Word among the heathen, we adore Thee for Thy many servants who have gone out from amongst us to toil, and suffer, and die in making known Thy salvation; and we thank Thee that Thou dost allow us, unworthy sinners, to unite together in this work of faith and labour of love.

We humbly confess our past lukewarmness in this Thy service, notwithstanding these Thine inestimable benefits and mercies. For our Lord Jesus Christ's sake, forgive us our past negligences, and so endue us with Thy Holy Spirit, that we may more earnestly seek Thy glory in the salvation of souls.

Grant us, we beseech Thee, Thy very present help at these our meetings. We ask, most gracious God and Father, for a constraining sense of the love of the Lord Jesus, and for wisdom to direct us in all our endeavours. Increase upon us the spirit of power, and of love, and of a sound mind. Give us faith and courage; give us zeal and patience; give us a single eye to Thy glory, and help us to bear and to forbear. The silver and the gold are Thine, O King of kings! Supply us with what is needful for our great work, and make us faithful stewards of Thy bounty, for proclaiming to the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ.

We pray also for all who are united with us in the direction of this sacred cause.

May Thine especial blessing rest upon our Committees, with their Secretaries, throughout the world. Bestow on them the help that we feel so needful for ourselves. Enable them to maintain the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace, and ever to find favour in the sight of all with whom they may have to do.

Especially we beseech Thee to look, O most merciful Father, upon our Missionary brethren. Draw out our hearts towards them more and more; and while they are bearing the burden abroad, give us grace to help and succour them by our sympathy and prayers at home. Bless every letter written to them from this house, and all our intercourse with them. We pray for them that they may be filled with Thy Spirit. Grant that the same mind may be in them which was also in Christ Jesus. Let them never lose their first love. Raise them above the cares of this world. Help them to deny themselves and to endure all things for the elect's sake. Give them the tongue of him that is taught. Clothe them with humility. Teach them to follow peace with each other, and with all men. Support them under spiritual distresses, temptations of the adversary, bodily sickness, domestic anxieties, and hope deferred. And so confirm Thy word from their lips by the power of the Holy Ghost, that through them multitudes may be turned from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan unto Thee, our God.

We commend to Thee the Missionaries' children entrusted to our charge. Bring them all to a true knowledge of, and faith in Thee. Defend them with Thy heavenly grace, that they may continue Thine for ever; and daily increase in Thy Holy Spirit more and more, until they come unto Thy everlasting kingdom. Give all needed grace to those who have the direction of the Home in the discharge of the arduous work with which Thou hast been pleased to entrust them.

We most heartily thank Thee, O Lord, for those whom Thou hast already sent forth through this Society; and we pray for a yet larger outpouring of a Missionary spirit on our younger Clergy, on the members of our Universities, on those who are elsewhere preparing for this holy work, on the young men of all ranks and orders throughout our land. And herein do we implore Thy special favour on our Islington Institution, that its numbers may be replenished continually: and that none may go forth thence but such as shall be able ministers of the New Testament, full of Faith, and of the Holy Ghost.

We praise Thee, O Thou God of all grace, for the Converts, the Native Catechists, and the Native Clergy, whom Thou hast granted to us in our several Missions. As Thou hast raised the Native Churches thus far, bring them, we pray Thee, to full ripeness and perfectness of age in Christ. Pour out upon them Thy Holy Spirit. Stablish, strengthen, settle them, and so enlarge their liberality, that they may both maintain Thy Word among themselves, and may make it known to the regions beyond them, till all the Gentiles hear the glad tidings of Thy love.

And now, O Lord God, be Thou in the midst of us to-day. Give us a constant sense of Thy presence, and may all our undertakings be begun, continued, and ended in Thee, to the honour of Thy great name for the sake of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. Amen.

PRAYERS FOR MISSIONS,

SUITABLE TO BE USED AT MISSIONARY MEETINGS AND IN PRIVATE.

I.—From the Book of Common Prayer according to the use of the Church of Ireland.

Almighty God, who by Thy Son Jesus Christ didst give commandment to the Apostles that they should go into all the world, and preach the Gospel to every creature; grant to us whom Thou hast called into Thy Church a ready will to obey Thy Word, and fill us with a hearty desire to make Thy way known upon earth, Thy saving health among all nations. Look with compassion upon the heathen that have not known Thee, and on the multitudes that are scattered as sheep having no shepherd. O heavenly Father, Lord of the harvest, have respect, we beseech Thee, to our prayers, and send forth labourers into Thy harvest. Fit and prepare them by Thy grace for the work of the ministry; give them the spirit of power, and of love, and of a sound mind; strengthen them to endure hardness; and grant that Thy Holy Spirit may prosper their work, and that by their life and doctrine they may set forth Thy glory and set forward the salvation of all men; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

II.—For a Blessing on Missionaries and their Labours.

(By Archbishop Sumner.)

O most merciful Saviour and Redeemer, who wouldest not that any should perish but that all men should be saved and come to the knowledge of the truth, fulfil Thy gracious promise to be present with those who are gone forth in Thy Name to preach the Gospel of Salvation in distant lands. Be with them in all perils by land or by water, in sickness and distress, in weariness and painfulness, in disappointment and persecution. Bless them, we beseech Thee, with Thy continual favour, and send Thy Holy Spirit to guide them into all truth. O Lord, let Thy ministers be clothed with righteousness, and grant that Thy word spoken by their mouths may never be spoken in vain. Endue them with power from on high, and so prosper Thy work in their hands, that the fulness of the Gentiles may be gathered in, and all Israel be saved.

Hear us, O Lord, for Thy mercy's sake, and grant that all who are saved by Thy Name may be one in Thee, and may abound more and more in prayers and in free-will offerings, for the extension of Thy kingdom throughout the world, to Thy honour and glory, who livest and reignest with the Father and the Holy Ghost, ever one God, world without end. Amen.

III.—For Missions and for Grace to help them.

(By Bishop Christopher Wordsworth.)

O Lord Jesu Christ, Saviour of Mankind, who hast commanded Thy disciples to go into all the world and to preach the Gospel to every creature, and who hast declared that this Gospel of the Kingdom shall first be preached to all nations, and that then the end shall come; we humbly beseech Thee to raise up men full of faith and of the Holy Ghost, and send them forth to do the work of evangelists by spreading abroad the glad tidings of salvation; and so to fill us with Thy love, and to quicken us with Thy grace, that we may labour joyfully with them by prayers and offerings for their work, so that finally at Thy Second Coming to judge the world, we together with them, and with those who have received the Gospel at their hands, may rejoice in Thy presence with exceeding joy, and may praise Thee for evermore, our holy and most merciful Redeemer, our most worthy Judge Eternal, our most mighty Lord and God, to Whom, with the Father and the Holy Ghost, be all honour and glory now and for ever. Amen.

IV.

(By Bishop Cotton, of Calcutta.)

O God, who hast made of one blood all nations of men to dwell upon the face of thy whole earth, and who didst send Thy blessed Son to preach peace to them that are afar off, and to them that are nigh, grant that all the people of heathen and Mohammedan lands may feel after Thee and find Thee; and hasten, O Lord, the fulfilment of Thy promise, to pour out Thy Spirit upon all flesh, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

THE ANNUAL SERMON,

Preached at St. Bride's Church, Fleet Street, on Monday Evening, April 29, 1895,

BY

THE RIGHT REV. B. F. WESTCOTT, D.D.,

LORD BISHOP OF DURHAM.

"THAT THEY MAY KNOW THE MYSTERY OF GOD, EVEN CHRIST, IN WHOM ARE ALL THE TREASURES OF WISDOM AND KNOWLEDGE HIDDEN."—Col. ii. 2 and 3 (R.V.).

IT has been most truly said that "the hours of worship are the great, the sacred hours of life." The conviction must be forced upon us now when we are met together in the Name and in the Presence of Christ to think upon the commission which He has left to His Church, upon His present continuous call, and upon our corresponding duties. Here we may assume thoughtful preparation on the part of all, met with one heart and mind, to catch the faintest voice of His Spirit. Here one prayer rises now from all, as it has already risen, that He will guide and bless every effort directed to His glory.

On such a unique occasion every part of the service, however familiar, takes a fresh colour from our own thoughts. God Himself speaks to us. Old words become charged with new meanings, and so many while they listened to the Second Lesson must have felt that St. Paul gives us in that an apostolic commentary on Foreign Missions, fertile in consolation, in warning, in encouragement. He shows us the freedom and the universality of the Gospel as the mystery, the opened secret of God, first made known after Christ's triumph. He shows us the whole world as the object of God's love, and the realm of Christ's Sovereignty. He shows us the work of the evangelist fulfilled through suffering, lightened by hope—"the hope of glory." He shows us the message of redemption preached within a few short years, "in all creation under heaven," and claiming the allegiance of "every man." He shows us that no human faculty lies outside the hallowing influence of the Gospel, and that no human want is unsatisfied by its power. He shows us Christ Himself, "a light for revelation to the Gentiles," justifying the ways of God, so that he who welcomes Him knows God's counsel of love and discipline of patience. "Christ dwelling among the Gentiles" is the mystery—the revelation—of God. In Him, the Son of man, and not the Son of David only, "are all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge hidden"—hidden, that they may be made known in the course of ages, as believers gathered from every tribe and tongue are able to bear and to use the truths which they contain. We linger over the pregnant sentences, and we come to understand how the earliest and greatest of missionaries to the Gentiles brings before us the meaning, and the message, and the power of the work which was first entrusted to him. Foreign Missions, St. Paul teaches us, are an open witness to the Will of God for the world. Foreign Missions proclaim a living Saviour and King of all men. Foreign Missions vindicate for the Church the energy of a Divine life. Foreign Missions, in a word, express a great hope, kindle a sovereign love, feed an unconquerable faith; and we, too often depressed, chilled, disheartened by the cares of the passing days, require the inspiration which they bring for the blessing of our lives.

I. Foreign Missions are a witness to the Will of God for the world. To know that Will is to gain light on the dark places of the earth; and those who look with open eyes upon the world must confess that we need it. If we endeavour to realise the condition of mankind at any time, the outward spectacle as it meets the eye may well fill us with dismay. We seem to look upon a tumultuous conflict of selfish forces, swayed to and fro without any common aim or growing result. It is hard to see in it the signs of a victorious counsel of love. So it was in the Apostolic age, both within Israel and without. The Tempter could claim that all the glory of the civilised earth was his; an Apostle could say that the whole world lay in the Evil One. Yet when we look back now over the age-long history of which this was the issue under one aspect, we can see that from first to last the purpose of God had been accomplished; that the time of anguish and distress, of failing hopes and overwhelming terrors, was indeed "the fulness of the seasons"; that in "the people" and in "the nations" there had been a preparation for the Advent; that the Divine object of man's creation, even that he should "seek after God," had not been frustrated; that on the one hand, through tragic vicissitudes of a stern discipline faithful Jews had been led to look for some personal manifestation of the Lord among them; and on the other hand, men of different races, freely following the leading of nature had defined wants for which they could find no satisfaction; that, in other words, "the Christ had been in a true sense prepared for the world, and the world for the Christ," when the Christ came. It is true that as we follow the chequered course of this twofold preparation we wonder at the silence, the slowness, the reserve, if we may so speak, of the working of God, at His patience, His long-suffering, His forbearance. But we are reminded that time is no measure of the action of God; with him "a thousand years are as one day." In nature and in grace He works to our eyes in the same way; yet works so that on a larger view we can recognise both in the physical and in the moral order through all perplexities and checks

> "one law, one element,
> And one far-off Divine event
> To which the whole creation moves."

We wonder, then, and we draw hope from the marvellous vision, when we see that God works still after the Advent as He worked before it. It no longer disturbs us that He prepares "in many parts, and in many fashions," the kingdom of His Son even as He prepared His coming. And so, as we labour, taught by the past, "we win our souls in patience," the patience not of indolent or selfish unconcern, but the patience of loyal hearts which feel the disappointment and the evil, and trust the Lord of life. We wonder and we draw hope even from apparent failures. For God works still (and thus works most effectively, we are justified in believing) as He worked in old time, not only slowly but by a few, by a remnant. We indeed should have looked for different methods and results, but, as far as we can yet observe, the Divine action is everywhere in the same form. And, if we are saddened by what appears to be loss and waste, infinite depths of consolation lie in the Apostolic words, which describe Christians as "a kind of first-fruits of the creatures" of "the Father of lights." "A kind of first-fruits"; we take the phrase to our hearts. The Will of God for the world remains unchanged, and it is our privilege to serve it.

The Will of God goes forward, and therefore we are bound to take account of the circumstances under which we are set to serve it. Missionary enterprise has now passed beyond the stage of experiment. We have experience of every variety of manner and condition of evangelisation. During this century the whole field of Missions—the world—has been laid open. The Sacred Books of all the great religions have been made accessible in trustworthy forms. We can feel as never before what is needed. We can see by what thoughts Gentile faiths have prevailed. We can hear and distinguish the manifold cries of various races which they contain. We can trace out with reverent devotion in all the records of human activity the progressive action of the Word, the Son of God, the Maker and the Heir of the world, in the many phases of its development through time. We can discern the broad outlines of that which we may speak of without presumption as the Divine plan in the education of the world, using the privilege which the Lord bestowed upon us when He called

His disciples "no longer servants, but friends," as capable of entering into the Father's counsel.

This perception of a Divine plan in the movement of human life brings home to us a fact of momentous interest. In this plan of God we have a definite place. Our office is not of our own choice or of our own devising. We are "God's workmanship, created in Christ Jesus for good works, which God afore prepared that we should walk in them." We are included in the Divine idea of the world, "created in Christ Jesus." Our works are ready, "prepared afore by God." There can be no failure if we claim them. No labour will be lost if we offer ourselves in perfect humility for the fulfilment of the Will of God.

Our works are ready; and what these works are can be seen from our position and endowments. For if as Englishmen, as English Churchmen, we consider our national character, our history, our necessary influence, our possessions, we cannot fail to acknowledge that we are called, as no other people have been called, to missionary labour. More than a hundred and fifty years ago Bishop Butler, the soberest of great thinkers, pleaded in this city that "navigation and commerce should be consecrated to the service of religion by being made the means of propagating it in every country with which we have any intercourse." * He spoke when the foundations of our Colonial Empire were barely laid, when our foreign trade had not reached more than about one-thirtieth of its present volume; and how can we measure now the weight of the obligation which his words lay upon us? Since Butler wrote, not to speak of remoter if unquestionable duties, India has been added to our sovereignty—the most splendid, the most arduous trust ever committed to a nation—committed to us as stewards of God, that by patience and tenderness and sympathy we may interpret and complete the thoughts of many races, and, taught by the Spirit sent in the Name of Christ, may confirm and satisfy the aspirations of many faiths.

It has required a long discipline to teach us the conditions under which, a task far greater and more difficult than the conversion of the Roman Empire, the conversion of India has to be accomplished. At length, perhaps, we have justly ceased to look for speedy and wide successes if our mission is to be surely fulfilled. We are beginning to understand the variety and complexity of the problems with which we have to deal in a population three times as numerous as the subjects of Augustus, and held together by a strong and penetrative organisation. At the same time, such knowledge forces us to confess that we have not yet made any adequate provision to satisfy our obligation. We must give freely, as we have not yet given, of our greatest teachers to India, where the respect for teachers is highest, if we are to substitute for the sterile theism of Islam and the shadowy vagueness of Hindu philosophy a belief in a living and speaking God; if we are to call out in a people enfeebled by long subjection that sense of personal responsibility from which spring the consciousness of sin and the devotion of love. We must establish in the representative centres of native life strong missions, which may present in an impressive form, where the ties of family are strongest, the free and generous relations of Christian brotherhood; if we are to secure the continuity of our work through the necessary changes of workers, and found a Church which shall be independent of our presence and support; if we are to replace the hierarchy of caste by that fellowship of mutual and ordered service of which caste is the mechanical representative, and show that religion is not the performance of multitudinous rites, but a continual communion with a Father in heaven. We must, above all things, seek in the fulfilment of our Evangelistic office, with all meekness and lowliness of heart, the spirit of self-repression and self-sacrifice, which gladly accepts a preparatory and transitional function, which guards and cherishes strange and weak beginnings of faith, which rejoices to leave a free course for unforeseen operations of the Holy Ghost, if we are to enable peoples widely different from ourselves to bring to God the gifts with which He has endowed them in all their freshness and purity.

Let us ponder these great and difficult requirements in the light of our obligations and our opportunities; let us consider them in relation to what we can see of the past teaching of God's ways; let us ask calmly, humbly, patiently, if they do not correspond with the Apostolic work which He has prepared for our country, and for our generation; and then, if we feel, as I think we shall feel, that they answer to the present revelation of His will for us, let us turn to Him with the prayer of self-devotion, and He will assuredly raise up from among us those whom He will bless so to serve Him. Our need is urgent, more urgent because the time is short—but we believe that God has called us to be a missionary nation and a missionary Church. We believe that it is His will that India should find its unity in Christ, and find it through our ministry. We believe that Missions, which express the loftiest faith in the love of God and the destiny of men, have, through all time, confirmed the faith out of which they have sprung.

II. Foreign Missions are, I have said, a witness to the Will of God for the world; and it is through the Church, "the congregation of faithful men," that the Will of God is to be fulfilled. The Church—the Body of Christ—exists for this very purpose. We may well be overpowered with awe at the thought that the salvation of men should be made dependent on the labours of those that believe. Still, nothing less than this is the good pleasure of God. Man made in His image is taken by Him as His fellow-worker in accomplishing the end of creation. Even as the Word became flesh, He now carries forward His purpose of infinite love through those whom before the Incarnation He was not ashamed to call His brethren. The Divine Head acts through human members. The Vine is fruitful through the branches. Fear, doubt, pride can have no place in us when we reflect on our position. Our very life is the acceptance of the Father's Will for our own, and the doing His works. Self is lost in a Divine co-operation. If we plead with men, it is as giving an articulate voice to the pleadings of God. If we rejoice in afflictions for the sake of Christ's body, it is that Christ deigns to apply through us the virtue of His passion to a later generation. If we bear witness to Christ, it is that our own experience, widening and deepening with our life, may give distinctness to the witness of the Spirit of truth. Our work, while it is in one sense, through that glad self-surrender which is our only freedom, our own work, is in its origin and strength the work of the Triune God—Father, Son, and Holy Spirit.*

This fellowship determines our message. We proclaim Him in Whom we are, Him whose perfect obedience has made our obedience possible. We proclaim not merely a system of theology, not an abstract idea, but a "Person" Whom we ourselves know, a "Person" loving and to be loved, speaking and to be spoken to, a Saviour, Priest, and King, present with us all the days. Our message is the test of what the Gospel is to us. We cannot in the case of races among whom the historic sense is undeveloped, at once appeal to the events of the Passion and the Resurrection as past facts of unique and infinite significance, but we can point them to the present effects of the love and power which those events revealed and still communicate. We can make clear what they are to us; we can make clear how they fill us with tenderness and courage; we can make clear that we believe and act as believing that Christ not only died and ascended for the most desolate, but that He lives for them now, that He bears them in His heart on His Father's throne, that He is as near to them as He is to us. The living, loving, reigning Christ, Son of Man and Son of God, uniting in Himself earth and heaven, time and eternity—this is the Gospel which we are charged to publish.

We shall, indeed, always feel and show tender and sympathetic regard for the partial truths, not untaught by the Word "that lighteth every man," through which great faiths have preserved the life of nations for long ages; but we shall not exaggerate them, and we shall not dissemble our own claims.

* Compare Dr. Pierson, The Divine Enterprise of Missions, pp. 103 ff.; and on the whole subject, a noble missionary sermon by Dr Dale, Fellowship with Christ.

We have committed to us "a new thing in the earth," a revelation absolutely unique, essentially different in kind from all other religions. The "repentance"—a most inadequate rendering of the original word—which we preach is not simply genuine sorrow for the past, but a complete revolution in our natural view of God and self and the world. The "remission of sins" which we offer in Christ's Name is no simple act of sovereign mercy, but a disclosure of human and Divine relationships, reaching to the depths of the individual soul and to the utmost extent of being, as we with our poor powers can conceive of them. We set forth, as I said, Christ Himself, in His self-sacrificing love, as "the image of the invisible God through Whom it was the good pleasure of the Father to reconcile all things to Himself, having made peace by the blood of His Cross," the spring and the support of life. Of this Gospel there is no anticipation in the noblest utterances of præ-Christian Gentile teachers, though their speculations and their hopes cannot find satisfaction without them. And we must not scruple to insist on the novelty of our message. At the present time there is great danger from loose, vague ways of thinking by "ungirt minds." There is a temptation to transfer to primitive times thoughts which we recognise as answering to our nature and our condition when once they are made known. Christ is indeed the touchstone of humanity. He answers to the witness which God has left of Himself among all peoples. This is our starting point, but it is not our end. He is what He is revealed to be, that in Him every desire of man as God made him may find full expression and be satisfied.

Now, as I have said, within the last generation we have been enabled to learn what is in man, his achievements, his failures, his wants, his hopes, over the whole field of life. "In Christ" we can regard the result with untroubled trust. The universality of our faith has been proved by all past experience. From age to age believers have brought out new treasures of Christ, to match new capacities of men; and the world-wide, time-long, unanticipated correspondence of human nature with the Gospel brings to us the strongest conceivable assurance that He Who gave the Gospel is the Creator of men. So encouraged, we lift up our eyes to the loftiest promises of God, which pass into light unapproachable. We see infinite possibilities of Divine love wherever there is in rude and wilful natures a faint sympathy with higher things. We see glimpses of some larger fellowship, when the revelation of the sons of God shall fulfil the earnest expectation of Nature, and her travail-pains shall issue in a new birth. We see, if with failing vision, innumerable worlds with which we are bound together, rejoicing in the triumph of Him to whom "all authority hath been given in heaven and on earth," even as "there is joy in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner that repenteth."

We have, we cannot doubt, still much to learn. The treasures of the Son of Man are not yet exhausted. And, if we watch with reverent care how the old message is received by men of childlike nature and by men of ancient civilisation, we shall be enriched by the thoughts which it reveals out of many hearts, and the glory of God will be more fully known. And meanwhile, as we keep hope undimmed and unlimited, we shall not forget the lesson of the Lord's tears, and the awfulness of our own relation as men "in Christ" to other men. But, cheered alike and chastened, we shall strain towards the things above. "We know no man after the flesh; though we have known Christ after the flesh, yet now we know Him so no more." We fix our eyes upon Him Who is at the right hand of God, and from the Mission-field comes the assurance that He finds willing subjects and precious tribute in every nation.

III. Foreign Missions are a witness to the Will of God for the world. Once more, Foreign Missions proclaim the sovereignty of a living Saviour and King of men. Foreign Missions vindicate for the Church of Christ the energy of His life, Christ Himself is their message, and Christ Himself is their strength. His universal authority is the spring of His disciples' power. The present and constant action of the Holy Spirit is alone sufficient to guide and to sustain the Missionary, and to give effect sooner or later to his labours. A sense of duty, heroic resolve, strong conviction, are in themselves inadequate for this end, but they lead those to whom they are given to Him from Whom they come. This is made clear to us by the representative record of the Acts, which lays open the workings of the Spirit at the foundation of the Church. In that we can read how the Spirit sent in Christ's Name prepared and endowed the Apostles and believers for their mission; how He inspired them with courage and wisdom; how He opened glimpses of the future for their guidance; how He directed their judgment at crises in the history of the Church; how He separated and sent forth the workers and determined the fields of their work. And all this is written for our learning. He is with us no less truly and continually and effectually than He was with the first generation of Christians. The fruitfulness of our work depends on the directness with which we realise our Divine fellowship. We ourselves must feel that our message is indeed His message, feel this by our own experience, and help others to feel it.

The life of Christ, the Head, is, I repeat, the life of the Body, the Church. In Christ the Church is not only strong against all assailants, but assured of their final overthrow. Yet here, while we abate nothing from our largest hope, nothing from our most confident trust, we require to learn a lesson which is hard and unwelcome. If the life of Christ is our life, His life must be the type of ours. If His strength is our strength, we must be strong as He was. We must accept His pattern of sacrifice as the rule of our noblest service. We must seek to make His mind our own, Who did not call down fire to consume His enemies or legions of angels to guard His Person, but "emptied Himself, taking the form of a servant." The truth has an application in the Mission-field which is commonly overlooked. There our very advantages become a danger. For in spite of the consciousness of social and intellectual superiority with which we are filled, in spite of the national force which sets us as conquerors where we come as evangelists, in spite of the distrust and suspicion with which those who receive our Gospel are inclined to regard ourselves, we must loyally and lovingly remember that we come among them "not to be ministered unto but to minister," yes, and, if need be, to give our lives for those whom we serve. Sympathy was the mind of Christ, and sympathy is the soul of Missions. The great word, "Except a grain of wheat fall into the earth and die, it abideth by itself alone," holds good of nations and churches and men. We can see how St. Peter and St. Paul and St. John died to much that was dear to them before they did their work. May it not be that for some of us corresponding experiences are prepared? It is still true that the way into the kingdom of God is through many afflictions; it is still true that believers must fill up "that which is lacking of the afflictions of Christ;" and yet we are tempted to believe, even as our faith is surest, that when we overthrow beliefs which have had a longer sway than our own, we shall at once be received as benefactors; that the truth which we declare must at once be welcomed by those who share the nature of the men who killed the Prince of Life. Do we not practically forget that "a servant is not greater than his lord"? If men kept not Christ's Word, how will they keep ours? There must still be the deaf ear, and the hard heart, and the pitiless will. There must be suffering for the teacher no less than for the taught, suffering which brings him nearer to his Saviour and to the springs of Divine love, suffering in which he can learn to rejoice.

Such thoughts have a most pathetic application to our work in India,—and forgive me if I speak of India again. What are the sacrifices which we make there in comparison with the sacrifices which we demand? Can we say that those who, touched by the Spirit of God, "have left wife, or brethren, or parents, or children" at our call "receive manifold more in this present time," in the affectionate intercourse of Christian life? Or do we allow them to think that divisions of race are, in fact, of more power than the uniting force of the one Faith? Have we made any serious endeavour to show, even now, on the Mission-field that "there can be among Christians neither Jew nor Greek, there can be neither bond nor free, there can be no male and female, for they are all one man in Christ Jesus"? I know that the question may be addressed to us at home with even a sterner voice; but I know, too, that if we strive humbly, patiently, tenderly to answer it in the spirit of our Creed, there can be no more convincing sign of the power of God among us. The unity of love, for which we so feel, is that which will, as the Lord has said, lead the world to believe in His Mission. Perhaps it is here that we shall find the true interpretation of the words in which Christ bids the disciple "take up his cross," not to bear some trivial vexation, but to die shamefully in the eyes of men, to die to all that keeps Christian apart from Christian—the vain-glory of life in its countless forms—that so he may know the fulness of the eternal life which is untroubled by differences of time. If this seems a hard saying, an impossible demand, I will only ask whether we have brought into a living connection with our own position the circumstances under which the Lord said, "The things which are impossible with men are possible with God."

This is not the time to follow out these far-reaching thoughts, but in new Churches we can at least aim resolutely at this ideal of a brotherhood of believers, and perhaps hereafter we shall ourselves be brought nearer to it. Meanwhile, we shall not look anxiously for large results. Results will answer to the wise counsel of God. Of the immeasurable scheme of His working we can see little, but we see enough to determine our duty and to support our faith. There is a Divine "must" and there is a Divine "cannot." Yet already "a great multitude out of all tribes and peoples and tongues" in answer to our appeals, feeble and intermittent, have borne witness that the Gospel has been to them a new life; and the experience of the past enables us to look forward to the time when "the kings of the earth shall bring their glory" into the sanctuary-city of the Lord. But success, I repeat, as we count success—and in my judgment the success of Foreign Missions is out of all proportion greater than the efforts which we have made—is no measure of the power of God that is with us. Missions, as we believe with a conviction wrought by spiritual experience, answer to the Will of God for the world; and, as we offer ourselves for the fulfilment of His Will, He is with us—with us even in what we count failures, with invincible might.

IV. These thoughts which Foreign Missions present with commanding force—the thought of the Will of God for mankind to be fulfilled by our service; the thought of a glorified Saviour waiting to satisfy every human need and to hallow every human endowment; the thought of God Himself, as the worker of all that we do in His Name—touch us all nearly.

We have in a great measure forgotten that it is the privilege, not of the clergy only, but of all believers, of women no less than of men, to bear witness to the truth according to their experience of it. As Christians, all have become partakers of the Christ, and are debtors to all men.*

We have failed to realise adequately the majesty of the Ascended Son of Man. Yet, if we look up, we can understand that it was expedient for us that He should go away. Out of heaven He called the Apostle of the Gentiles to his work; and at the Father's right hand He is brought equally near to the whole world in His present glory.

We have lingered at the Cross, and not followed the Lord through the rent veil into the Holiest, to the very presence of the Father—His Father and our Father—in order to claim in Him the power which He has gained for us, and to use it after His example.

In each direction the lessons of Foreign Missions correspond with our present trial. They bring back to us a true sense of our inheritance in the nations as "heirs of God and joint-heirs with Christ," and move us each to seek some share in gathering the fruits of His victory. They constrain us to look beyond the noblest results of man's thought and feeling in the past to a living Lord Who is the Truth, and Who still discloses fresh treasures to His disciples as they have power to guard and to administer them. They raise us above ourselves and inspire us with sure trust in the infinite resources of a Divine fellowship. They bind earth and heaven together in one great work of love, and reveal the awful calling of believers as God's ministers for the salvation of men.

Such thoughts, I say, touch us all; but to you, my sons in the faith, to whom the ways of life are still open, they come with a fulness of promise which is able to transfigure all work. All true work for Christ, wherever it is offered, is one work, one as the answer of unquestioning obedience to His voice, one by the unuttered intercession for the fulfilment of His Will, which is its informing Spirit, one by the quickening force through which it calls into action every capacity for service with which it comes in contact. Take, then, thoughts from the Mission-field as master-principles of all your ministry, whether as clergy or laymen. You will be tempted, perhaps, when you look on your narrow range of labour, to think that the affairs of men are swayed by some blind fate. At such a time lift up your eyes, and see how God's counsel of love for His creatures has gone forward through all the ages and over all the earth, and never more surely than to-day. You will be tempted to rest in forms of words which enshrine the precious experience of our fathers. At such a time lift up your eyes to the Risen Christ, and see how He still speaks through His Spirit to new nations in their own language, and justifies His sovereignty by their glad allegiance. You will be tempted to lose heart when you contrast your weakness with the requirements of your charge as believers. At such a time lift up your eyes, and remember, penitent and humbled, that you are in Christ, lest you should accept any earthly measure for your duty, and that Christ is in you, lest you should be dismayed by any earthly difficulty or disappointment.

So may God in His mercy enlarge the hearts of all of us through the teaching of Foreign Missions to welcome deeper currents of His love. May He enlighten our understanding to master fresh lessons of His truth. May He confirm our souls to use to the full the gift of His strength for suffering as for doing. May He enable us to discern with pure eyes "the good work which He has prepared for us to walk in" and move us as a nation, as a Church, as believers, to do them. May He grant to us the Christ-like joy of sowers, that we may hereafter share the gladness of those who will enter into our labours, when "the hope of glory" becomes fruition, when nature and life are revealed as they are according to the Will of the Father, and "all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge," answering to the rich results of human thought and observation, which are in the Son of Man, in the unity of His Divine Person, have been brought to light through the ministry of the nations.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE.

General Review of the Year.

(READ AT THE ANNIVERSARY AT EXETER HALL, APRIL 30, 1895.)

"Not by might, nor by power, but by My Spirit, saith the Lord of Hosts."—ZECH. iv. 6.

YEAR after year these familiar words of the Prophet Zechariah might well form the motto of the Church Missionary Society's Annual Report. They are always true, always applicable to every part of the Society's work, and always a wholesome reminder of the one only secret of success. But in reviewing a year in which Foreign Missions have held a place of unusual prominence in the life of the Church of England—when a Missionary Conference of the Anglican Communion, unique in importance and influence, has been held under the auspices of the chief pastors of the Church—when at the Exeter Church Congress the Presidential Address set forth the evangelization of the world as the very purpose for which the Church exists—when the annual Evangelical gathering at Islington was devoted to Home and Foreign Missions—when the Bishop of London has been urging his clergy in a series of ruri-decanal meetings to take up Missions as an integral part of ordinary parochial life and work—it is especially incumbent on the Church Missionary Society to inscribe this motto on the banner she uplifts at her Ninety-sixth Anniversary. "Not by might"—that is, as the margin of the Revised Version has it, "not by an army," the army of missionaries abroad or fellow-helpers at home; "nor by power," the power of intellect, the power of organization, the power of reputation, the power of worldly wisdom, the power of patronage, the power of the purse; "but by My Spirit," by the Holy Ghost, the Lord, and the Giver of Life. The calling of the Ecclesia, the elect Church of God, out of a world of darkness, out of a rebel race, is a spiritual work, to be done by the instrumentality of spiritual men, through whom the one Supreme Divine Agent performs His miracles of grace. It is inevitably the temptation and the danger of a growing Society, in the development of its organization, in the increase of its income, in the multiplication of its staff, in the extension of its world-wide influence, to lose sight of this essential truth. From that temptation, from that danger, the good Lord deliver the Church Missionary Society.

In reviewing the work of the Society's ninety-sixth year, the Committee, with deep thankfulness, see many tokens of the Holy Spirit's presence, many signs that the Divine Administrator of Missions has not withheld His guidance and blessing. In a few brief paragraphs they now seek to set forth the evidences of His gracious working.

New Missionaries.

I. One of the most signal tokens of the Divine blessing is the increasing number of missionaries. In the seven years from October, 1887, to October, 1894, the total had just doubled. At the anniversary of 1888 the number reported was 333; to-day it is 634, in both cases exclusive of wives. Clergymen have increased from 261 to 349; laymen from 40 to 92; single women from 32 to 193. In the past year 83 candidates have been accepted as missionaries, in many cases after longer or shorter periods of training—viz., 42 men and 41 women. Of the former 17 were University graduates. Yet much larger accessions to the staff are needed. Almost all the Missions are starved for lack of labourers; and notwithstanding the increased rate of annual supply, the task of distributing the small and inadequate reinforcements becomes year by year more difficult. Let it not be forgotten that the real increase is only arrived at after allowing for deaths and retirements. It is the loss of devoted young labourers like Edmund Fitch, Henry Francis Wright, William Fremantle, and Edwin Jackson, that emphasizes the call for men; men who, like them, will go to work inspired by the words of the motto of this Report, "Not by might, nor by power, but by My Spirit, saith the Lord."

Young labourers deceased.

Funds.

II. If, seven years ago, no one could have anticipated the doubling of the missionary force within that time, still less would it have been thought possible that such an increased staff could be supported. A few months ago last year's heavy financial deficit seemed to call upon the Committee to reconsider the policy, pursued throughout the seven years, of refusing no suitable candidates and keeping back no qualified missionaries on financial grounds. The continuance of such a policy is of course largely in the hands of the general body of members and friends of the Society, with whom, under God, the provision of funds rests. But on this occasion, surveying the astonishing progress that had marked the seven years, and recollecting the unlooked-for extinction of the deficit within a fortnight, chiefly by the glad voluntary offerings of some of the less known among the Society's friends, the Committee felt constrained, not in careless fatalism but in humble faith, to reaffirm a policy so signally blessed; while at the same time they agreed to institute a fresh inquiry into the details of expenditure, being determined, as always, to make the very best use of the funds entrusted to their administration. And to-day they have to report, with deep gratitude to the Giver of all good gifts, that the large deficit which at one time seemed inevitable turns out to be only 1,422*l.* Without entering into details, three remarks may be made. (1) The total Receipts in the year, General, Appropriated, and for last year's Deficit, but excluding gifts to Special Funds not available for the Society's general work, have amounted to 272,000*l.*, thus exceeding by more than 20,000*l.* those of any former year. (2) The Expenditure has exceeded that of the preceding year by only 960*l.*, a result mainly due to the continued fall in the price of silver. (3) The small deficit is caused by the more accurate arrangements now made for dealing with Appropriated Contributions. (See explanation at pages 21 and 22.)

"Our own Missionaries."

The Committee note with pleasure that one way in which the increase in the missionary force has been effected is by the addition both of honorary missionaries and of missionaries specially maintained by their own families, or by individual friends, or by the Gleaners' Union and its Branches, or by bodies like the Royal Irish Constabulary, now numbering altogether (including a few partially supported) no less than 154. In most cases these contributions to support the donors' "own missionaries" are independent of, and additional to, their regular subscriptions; and they come chiefly, not from the wealthy, but from the rank and file of the Society's supporters. Thus the financial accounts also illustrate the text: "Not by might, nor by power, but by My Spirit, saith the Lord."

Secretaries retired and new.

III. The year has been a year of change in Salisbury Square. The Rev. C. C. Fenn's retirement, reported at last anniversary, has been followed by that of the Rev. W. Gray and of General Collingwood. The Committee thank God for the faithfulness of all these brethren to the Society's spiritual principles—in the two former cases throughout lengthened periods of devoted service abroad as well as at home. And they rejoice in being able to submit for the approbation of this General Meeting, in accordance with Law XX., the names of three new secretaries, who have entered upon their duties in the deep conviction that their work is to be done "not by might, nor by power, but" in dependence upon the Holy Spirit alone. Mr. David Marshall Lang becomes Lay Secretary; the Rev. Philip Ireland Jones, forbidden by the Medical Board to return to India at present, takes charge of the Indian Missions; and the Rev. W. E. Burroughs, of Kingstown, succeeds to the Central Home Secretaryship, vacated by the Rev. B. Baring-Gould upon taking Mr. Fenn's foreign portfolio. The Treasurership also has been resigned by Sir T. Fowell Buxton on his acceptance of the Governorship of South Australia, in which office the whole Society will heartily wish him God-speed. This Meeting is asked to elect as his successor Colonel Robert Williams.

Debt to Church of Ireland.

IV. The appointment of Mr. Burroughs will remind the Society of its debt to the Church of Ireland. The sister Church has contributed a noble succession of missionaries in Bishops Russell and Bowen; Archdeacon Maunsell (taken to his rest in the past year, after 60 years' labours in New Zealand), William Gray, Welland, J. Ireland Jones, and Bruce, besides many still labouring, not forgetting the devoted Irish ladies of the Church of England Zenana Society in China. No less than 41 graduates of Trinity College, Dublin, have been on the roll. At the present time the Church of Ireland is conspicuous for the zeal of its members in the missionary cause. The advance of 2,200*l.* in its contributions in the past year is ascribed by the Dublin secretary to "no apparent cause but the working of the Spirit of God"—words which again remind us of the motto of this Report.

Colonial Associations.

The Associations in Australia and New Zealand also are progressing steadily. They have added five to the number of their missionaries, making fifteen, including two wives: and two others would have sailed for China but for the war. All these they are supporting with their own funds. The latest of their recruits is a Melbourne clergyman of age and experience, who gives up an important parish to go to Persia, and who is welcomed in this Hall to-day. The new Canada Association has been definitely established, and awaits a deputation from the Society this year. In Cape Colony, where there is no regular Association similarly organized, three Evangelical parishes have remitted to the Society 500*l.*, against 60*l.* four years ago. Certainly in these Colonial Associations there is little of earthly might or power, but they have the Spirit of the Lord, and in Him is their strength.

Baptisms of year.

V. Surveying next the foreign field, the Committee praise God for the manifest evidences of the working of His Spirit all round the world. The recent average of some 3,000 baptisms of adult converts in the year has been considerably exceeded, the total already known being about 4,200, including 1,500 in India, 1,400 in Africa, 650 in China; and as the Society's missionaries ever set their faces against the system of hasty and wholesale baptisms, and converts are carefully instructed and well tested, there is every reason to hope that a large proportion of the new accessions to the visible Church are also living members of the true Body of Christ. Many individual cases reported are of deep interest. Mohammedans have accepted the Son of God as their Saviour, in the teeth of violent persecution and at the risk of their lives; and among these are a notable band of prominent men in the Punjab, the fruit of the memorable public discussion at Amritsar in the preceding year, described so graphically by Dr. Clark. "Such splendid fellows," a recent visitor writes regarding these: "with gentle yet strong faces; it is an inspiration to see them." Brahman converts, the fruit of educational work, have suffered the loss of all things for Christ's sake. In East Africa the catechumens have stepped into a little river for baptism from the side where the Heathen spectators stood, and come out on the opposite side to join the Christians standing there to welcome them; while in the snowy wastes of Moosonee the Red Indian convert and his family, arriving too late for the regular service, and hastening after the journeying missionary, have been baptized in the pine forest with a cup serving as a font. The Hindu fakir, the Jewish travelling merchant, the Mussulman judge, the Afghan chief, the Gond villager from the jungle, are among the types of men brought to the Lord in India alone; while in Ceylon, and China, and Japan, and Africa, individual cases, when looked at one by one, call for fervent thanksgiving. In the cases of educated men, it is frequently the reading of the Word of God that has been the instrument of conversion; but whatever the immediate agency, the words are again and again illustrated, "Not by might, nor by power, but by My Spirit, saith the Lord."

General Effects of Missions.

VI. Not less manifest is the working of the Spirit of the Lord in the communities of Native Christians. Even the general effects of Christianity are acknowledged by witnesses in no way prejudiced in its favour. Thus, the Brahman editor of the Travancore Census Report says:—"By the unceasing efforts and self-denying earnestness of the learned body of Christian Missionaries, the large community of Native Christians are rapidly advancing in their moral, intellectual, and material condition;" whilst the recent election by a mainly non-Christian constituency of a Tamil Christian to a coveted fellowship in the Madras University illustrates the growing reputation of the still relatively small body of converts. But although these signs of external success are to be noted with thankfulness, the spiritual influence of the Holy Ghost is that which is most earnestly to be looked for. Hereditary Christianity, which is now largely represented in the older Missions, needs everywhere, abroad as well as at home, the same Divine Breath to breathe life into it. Complete organization may co-exist with a low standard of Christian life; and for the Church in outwardly prosperous Missions fervent prayer should continually be made. In Travancore, special Mission Services, both in the Reformed Syrian and in the Anglican communities, have been graciously blessed to the quickening of many souls. Alike in the old Maori Mission in New Zealand, and in the new Uganda Mission, the same Spirit's power has been plainly exhibited. And while holy lives are the best fruit of His gracious work, the peaceful deaths of God's children, of which many striking cases are reported, are none the less subjects for thanksgiving. When the once degraded savage, or polished but bigoted opponent of the Gospel, meets death with the same calm hope that lights up the Christian's dying bed at home, the words once again leap to the lips, "Not by might, nor by power, but by My Spirit, saith the Lord."

China and Japan: War, and openings.

VII. Both the external and the spiritual results of missionary work are especially to be seen in the two great nations lately at war—and the Committee rejoice to be able to say "lately" instead of "now" at war—China and Japan. The Rev. B. Baring-Gould, who recently visited those countries, bears the warmest testimony to the zeal and devotion of the humble village Christians in the Fuh-kien province of China. In the victorious Japanese army there are Christian officers and soldiers who read the Word of God and pray together; while the permission given by the Emperor to Christian pastors to accompany the troops, and the careful protection provided for mission-houses in the captured cities, illustrate the indirect influence of the Gospel. The openings in both countries call for large reinforcements. Archdeacon Wolfe writes that in thirty-three years he has never seen such a keen interest in the message of salvation as lately in the Hok-Chiang district. In the T'ai-chow district, in Cheh-Kiang, 112 adult converts were baptized in the year. From Si-chuen, Mr. Horsburgh sends appeal after appeal for more labourers. In Japan, the new treaty with England gives fresh facilities for evangelistic work. Among the Ainu there are now more than four hundred Christians. The Committee thank God that the Society's Missions in both China and Japan have been undisturbed by the war; and while they trust that in its ultimate results it may prove to have turned out rather unto the furtherance of the Gospel, they do not forget that the real work upon the souls of both peoples must be a spiritual work. "Not by might, nor by power, but by My Spirit, saith the Lord."

Native Clergy, new and deceased.

VIII. The body of Native clergy has again received an addition of twenty-two men, including three African graduates of Durham University, and representatives of Palestine, India, Ceylon, China, Japan, New Zealand, and Moosonee. But their ranks have suffered heavy loss by the deaths, among others, of the venerable Sorabji Kharsedji of Poona, the devoted Raj Kristo Bose of Calcutta, and the beloved Jani Alli, M.A. (Camb.), true witness for Christ among the Moslems, of whom he himself had been one. In the persons of these three brethren, Zoroastrianism, Hinduism, and Mohammedanism had given the Church true sons and faithful ministers. Such victories of the Cross are indeed won "not by might, nor by power;" and it is to the Spirit of the Lord that the Committee look, to fit all the Native clergy for their high and holy work.

Recent Developments: Medical Work;

IX. The special developments of the Society's work which have marked the last few years continue to afford grounds for thankfulness and hope. Medical Missions have quickly won a front place in the sympathies of those who follow current missionary history. Their influence is unique in Mohammedan centres, such as Mombasa, Cairo, Gaza, Baghdad, in Persia, and on the frontiers of British India; while on the populous plains of the Punjab and Bengal, and in the crowded cities of China, their importance is increasingly felt. In village work in India, whether among the Hindus or Moslems or aboriginal tribes like the Gonds, the Bands of Associated Evangelists are winning their way by patient itinerant preaching; and more bands are called for from many districts. But the most notable development of all is the work of Christian women. While for this branch of their operations in India the Society's Missions are chiefly dependent on the devoted ladies of the Zenana Societies—the C.E.Z.M.S. also providing one of the noblest missionary bands in the world for the Fuh-kien province of China—the Church Missionary Society has been enabled to give unlooked-for strength to its work in East and West Africa, in Egypt, Palestine, and Persia, in Ceylon and China and Japan, by its employment of women in those Missions, some two hundred having been sent out in the past seven years. It would be hard now to imagine Abeokuta and Mombasa and Cairo and Jerusalem and Julfa and Hang-chow and Osaka, to name a few out of many places, without the Christian women whose advent, recent as it is, has changed the whole aspect of the Missions there. The Society has been led, step by step, by the unmistakable providence of God, to this happy development of its work; and the increasing number of women offering for service is an additional token that it is the Lord's doing. The help of Christian ladies at home is now urgently needed in the guidance of these Female Missionaries; and one of the questions awaiting early consideration is, how best to supply this need. The Committee will look in this matter, as in all others, to the guidance of the Holy Ghost. "By My Spirit, saith the Lord."

New Extensions.

X. While the Society's established Missions have been yielding blessed fruit to the glory of God, and developing their operations in the ways just indicated, extension into the regions beyond has not been wanting. The Committee watch with deep interest the journeys of Bishops Tugwell, Phillips, and Oluwole in populous West African districts scarcely ever visited before. In the Mohammedan countries, one of the latest advances is to Kerak, the old Kir of Moab, a small independent Mission there having been made over to the Society; while in Persia the Gospel has been carried to towns previously unreached, and the missionaries, with Bishop Stuart at their head, are planning important extensions. The brethren and sisters in the distant province of Si-chuen, in Western China, are now, through God's goodness, in the definite occupation of five cities, and are no longer dependent, as in the first stage of their enterprise, upon the unfailing kindness of the China Inland Mission. The intrepid sailor-missionary, Edmund Peck, has been conveyed in a whaler, with a young companion, to Cumberland Sound, in the Polar regions, where the Eskimo have put up for them a little "tabernacle," twenty feet long, made of whales' bones and sealskins. This is now the remotest of all the Society's posts, letters being expected there only once in two years. To all these newer and more distant Missions the text applies with especial force, "Not by might, nor by power, but by My Spirit, saith the Lord."

Uganda: XI. Last of all, the Committee turn to Uganda. Every year the history of this Mission seems to call for more fervent though humble praise. The Society has never yielded to the temptation to take part in political controversy regarding Uganda—all assertions to the contrary notwithstanding; and when, after the murder of Bishop Hannington, there was a cry for an expedition to avenge it, the Committee instantly repudiated any such leaning on an "arm of flesh." But when the I.B.E.A. Company had virtually annexed the country, the Society, which had originally gone there without a thought of Government protection, was bound to let the public know that the withdrawal of British influence would cause anarchy and bloodshed; and now the Committee cannot refrain from sharing in the satisfaction expressed by the Christians of Uganda at the final proclamation of the British Protectorate in August last. But their chief grounds of thankfulness this year are of a very different character. The work of the Mission has taken a remarkable, almost a sudden leap forward. Its extension from the capital into the outlying provinces has been rapid and fruitful. Three of these provinces are now occupied by resident missionaries; and Native evangelists to the number of 130, supported by the Native Church, are posted at no less than eighty-five stations. There are about 200 buildings for public worship and teaching in the country districts—"synagogi" is the name given to some of them; and in these the daily worshippers average 4,000, and those on Sunday 20,000, exclusive of the capital. More than 800 adult converts were baptized during the year, most of them after four months' careful instruction.

British Rule;

Mission Progress;

So rapid a development of the work is undoubtedly fraught with danger, lest a low standard of nominal Christianity should prevail. But here the Committee rejoice to recall again the motto of this Report. It is plain from the letters received that the marked blessing which has fallen on the Mission is in continuation of that reported by the Committee last year, when, after special services held at Mengo in December, 1893, many of the Christians seemed to enter into a fuller spiritual life, realizing the completeness of the work of Christ for them, and the power of the Holy Ghost within them. It should now be added that among these were two or three of the missionaries themselves, who were enabled by faith to realize the power of the Holy Ghost for sanctification and service as never before. The Committee earnestly trust that this revival of spiritual religion in the Church will continue to attest its Divine origin by its lasting effects. "Not by might, nor by power, but by My Spirit, saith the Lord of Hosts." Spiritual Revival;

Men of spiritual and mental gifts, however, are more needed than ever for the Uganda Mission, especially to teach the teachers. A party of four men went out last autumn; and a new party of at least ten are now on the point of sailing. These include five ladies, who, if permitted in the gracious providence of God to accomplish the long march safely, will be the first English women in Uganda. The Committee have given much time and thought to this important development of the Mission, and they earnestly ask for continual and fervent prayer that the Hand of the Lord may be with their brethren and sisters for guidance, and protection, and blessing. They cannot refrain from expressing a hope that ere long the mission parties may be able to go, for at least some small part of the way, by the long-talked-of railway; and they hope also that by means of the funds raised four or five years ago at Mr. Stanley's instance, a steamer on the Nyanza may now soon be provided. New Party: the First Ladies.

In conclusion, the Committee cannot but feel that the bare recital of facts which they have now given presents a bright picture of the Society's work; and assuredly much brighter touches could be given if details were added. Yet there is another side. The Committee themselves are but men, and they and the missionaries are encompassed with infirmity. The Native Churches present many causes of solicitude. Progress in many lands is slow, and faith and patience are sorely tested. But obstacles like these are the inevitable accompaniments of all Christian work, and a reminder that success is "not by might, nor by power." What is needed at home and abroad is a fresh outpouring of the Holy Ghost. "By My Spirit, saith the Lord." The Committee do thank God for many signs of His gracious The Dark Side.

working upon the hearts of His people, and especially for many individual instances of devotion and self-denial, often among the humbler brethren and sisters. Yet in view of the paucity, even now, of offers from those really qualified for the highest of all services, and in view of the utterly inadequate contributions from many parishes that are enjoying every spiritual advantage, they cannot but feel that the Church is still slumbering, when it is high time indeed to awake out of sleep. Instead of boasting of a "great Society" and a "magnificent income," Christian people need to humble themselves before the Lord, to repent of their half-heartedness, and, though the privilege be not given them in this dispensation of bringing the world to Christ, to resolve, in dependence on the Spirit of God, to bring Christ to the world. A new missionary crusade needs to be preached throughout the land, as it was preached eighty years ago by men like Pratt, and Marsh, and Bickersteth, and Legh Richmond, and Haldane Stewart, and in this crusade all those clergymen and laymen should take their part who have their own eyes opened to the realities of the case—namely, that hundreds of millions have never heard of Christ, and that not one per cent. of those who do know Him go forth to teach them. With a view to definite action in this respect, the Committee have appointed four clergymen to hold "missionary missions," and otherwise seek, in conjunction with the valued staff of Association Secretaries, to rouse Christian people to a livelier sense of their obligation. The need of such fresh efforts is emphasized by the fact that half the counties of England are actually giving the Society less than they did fifteen years ago. Moreover, when old standard-bearers are removed, like Bishop Pelham, Deans Fremantle and Payne-Smith, and Canon Edward Hoare, and when both sacerdotalism and rationalism are distinctly advancing in the Church of England, the Committee cannot pretend that the prospects at home are without very dark shadows. Yet with such a year's record as that now presented, it would be the height of unthankfulness if apprehension were not swallowed up in praise. And whatever be the forces of error, whatever the devices of the Evil One, whatever the fallibility and infirmity of man, the Committee must close by once more striking the inspiring note of their motto for the year, "Not by might, nor by power, but by My Spirit, saith the Lord of Hosts!"

The Church Slumbering.

New Efforts.

Home Operations.

INDICATIONS of a growing interest in Foreign Missions among the leaders and members of the Church of England are ever hailed with thankfulness by the Committee of the Church Missionary Society, who may indeed humbly claim that for well-nigh a century the Society has continuously laboured to create and deepen such interest. During the year under review there were several events calling for notice under this head, the first of which, both in order of time and in the measure of its importance, was the Missionary Conference of the Anglican Communion held in London from May 28 to June 1, 1894. In 1877, and again in 1888, General Conferences of Protestant Missions were held, the representatives including those of various denominations in England, Germany, and America; but no Missionary Conference under the patronage of the Archbishops and Bishops of the Church of England, and inviting all branches of the Anglican Communion to its deliberations, had been held before. The arrangements were made by a large and influential Committee of clergy and laymen, and a body of exceptionally eminent ecclesiastics and public men and of veteran missionaries responded to their invitation to read papers and otherwise to take part in the Conference. The inaugural sermon was preached by the Bishop of Durham in St. Paul's Cathedral on May 28, from Eph. iii. 8, and the closing words of the preacher may be quoted here:—"The day marks an epoch in our religious life. May God, in His infinite mercy, grant that our solemn gathering may be not a lost opportunity, but a spring of new life. May He enable the English nation and the English Church to fulfil their Divine stewardship for the salvation of the world."

Anglican Missionary Conference.

The chairmen at the various sessions were the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Bishops of London, Winchester, Durham, Ely, Gloucester and Bristol, Norwich, Wakefield, Southwell, Capetown, Bloemfontein, Newfoundland, Rangoon, and Bishops Barry and Selwyn. How wide and varied was the programme will be seen by the subjects allotted to the following members of Committee, officials, and missionaries of the C.M.S.:—Prebendary Webb-Peploe read a paper on the Call to Missionary Service; the Rev. T. W. Drury on Methods of Training; Archdeacon Richardson on Judaism; the Rev. W. T. Storrs on Paganism; the Rev. Rowland Bateman on the Right Time for Baptizing Catechumens; Mr. Eugene Stock on Relations with Missions of the Church of Rome and other Christian Missions; Archdeacon Koshi Koshi and the Rev. H. E. Perkins on Indian Problems; Bishop Moule on Chinese Problems; the Rev. J. B. Wood on African Problems; the Rev. W. Salter Price on Polygamy; the Rev. R. P. Ashe and Chancellor P. V. Smith on the Danger of Secular Influences; the Rev. C. C. Fenn on the Danger of Undue Introduction of Western Ways; the Rev. John Barton on Spiritual, Moral, and Social Dangers to Missionaries; the Rev. H. M. M. Hackett on Associated Missions and Family Life; Bishop Hodges of Travancore and Mr. Henry Morris on Educational Missions; Dr. E. Downes on Medical Missions; Bishop Stuart on Church Organization and Discipline; Bishop Speechly and the Rev. F. A. P. Shirreff on Native Agencies and Episcopate; Mr. Sydney Gedge on Relations of Missions to the Church at Home; Archdeacon Long on Spiritual Influences affecting Home Interest in Mission Work; and the Rev. A. R. Buckland on Missionary Publications. In the Women's Section, Mrs. Benson, wife of the Archbishop of Canterbury; Lady Vincent; Lady Laura Ridding, wife of the Bishop of Southwell; and Lady Kennaway, occupied the chair at the various sessions. The following ladies of the C.E.Z.M.S. and the C.M.S. took part:—Mrs. Bannister read a paper on the Call of Women to Missionary Service; Miss Schröder on Methods of Training; Mrs. A. E. Ball on the Need and Scope of Women's Work; Mrs. Piper, the late Miss Marion Goodall, and Miss H. Newcombe on the Dangers and Difficulties of Missionaries; Lady Kennaway on Home Interest in Mission Work; Miss L. H. H. Tristram on the Collection of Funds; Mrs. Percy Grubb on Unions and Meetings. One who had been present at the two Protestant Missionary Conferences referred to above, and also at the Decennial Missionary Conference at Bombay in 1893, wrote: "I cannot but avow the conviction that rarely, if ever, before has so much real ability been brought to bear upon Missionary questions at one time as during the Anglican Missionary Conference."

Again, at the Church Congress in October, 1894, the subject of Foreign Missions was assigned an unusually prominent place in the proceedings. In Exeter Diocese, which has welcomed the importation of a Missionary element into the composition of its Cathedral Chapter, and which is presided over by Bishop Bickersteth, the son of a former C.M.S. Secretary, and the father of a Missionary Bishop, it was to be expected that such an opportunity for bringing forward an all-important but much-neglected subject would not be allowed to pass. A session of the Congress, presided over by Sir John Kennaway, discussed "How best to awaken the Church to her Missionary Responsibility," "The Supply and Training of Missionaries," and "The Missionary Influence of the National Life of England." But the emphatic prominence given to Foreign Missions was derived especially from the opening address of Bishop Bickersteth, which treated the evangelization of the world as the first and greatest duty of the Church—as the purpose, indeed, for which the Church exists at all—and urged various reforms at home on the express ground that they would fit her the better for her one great task. The Bishop said:—

> Why then are two-thirds of human-kind unevangelized? Why has not the Church of Christ arisen in her might, which is God's might resting on her, and done her duty herein? I know the question ought to thrill the heart of all Christendom. But to-day we ask, Why has not the Church of England done her part? We are the sworn liegemen of Christ: the cross was stamped upon our brow in baptism; at His Holy Table we continually offer ourselves soul and body to be a reasonable, holy, and lively sacrifice unto Him. The charge is plain as the noonday, "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature." We ought, for He commands us; we can, for He never mocks when He commands. All other questions seem to me to occupy a secondary place.

Bishop of London's Ruri-Decanal Addresses.

Once more, the Bishop of London, in the ruri-decanal meetings in which he is wont to address his clergy, took Foreign Missions as his subject during the winter of 1894–5. He told the clergy with perfect plainness that they were bound to instruct their people about Missions, not as an outside matter, but as an integral element in religious life; and that they first needed to instruct themselves. How the Bishop dealt on one of these occasions with objections which are frequently urged against Foreign Missions has been briefly summarized by one who was present:—

> First, the "home claims" counter-plea; upon which the Bishop drew a graphic picture of Judas Iscariot probably grumbling at the five loaves and two fishes, not enough for the apostles themselves, being given to others; "but," said the Bishop, "when they gave away their all at Christ's bidding, they found at the end that they had more for themselves than they had at the beginning." Secondly, the objection that we increase the responsibility of the Heathen by giving them a higher moral law—"Better leave them as they are, and they will be dealt with mercifully." "Why then," said the Bishop, "do you educate your children, and thus add to their responsibility?" Thirdly, "No results;" upon which the Bishop pictured, with extraordinary vividness and force, Gallio telling his brother Seneca about a remarkable man he had come across in Greece, called Paul, who proclaimed a lofty philosophy combined with some foolish superstitions, who had made perhaps 100 converts, but whose influence beyond them would certainly be nil. Fourthly, "Missionaries live too well," which common remark was referred to by a clergyman present. "I do not find," drily observed the Bishop, "that the demand for self-sacrifice usually comes from self-sacrificing people." He further urged the lifting-up of the missionary cause above the idea of money collections, and said he wished his clergy would preach twenty missionary sermons every year as an indispensable part of the Christian instruction profitable for the people themselves.

It may well be doubted whether ever before in the Metropolitan Diocese, or in any other, the Bishop has thus gone among his clergy to bring home to them the Missionary duties and privileges of the Church.

Islington Conference.

One other event of the year must be noticed as an indication of a deepening and strengthening missionary purpose among that section of the London clergy in whom, under God, the hopes of the C.M.S. peculiarly rest. The Islington Clerical Meeting, summoned yearly by successive Vicars of Islington for sixty years, is an opportunity much prized by the Evangelical clergy generally for hearing from the lips of trusted brethren and fathers expositions of fundamental doctrines, vindication of Evangelical Church principles, and refutations of error and warnings of danger. In 1895, however, the Rev. W. H. Barlow (who for twenty years has been a never-failing member of the Sub-Committee which examines and chooses candidates for training, and for a large part of that period has been chairman of the same) invited the meeting to consider the Church's great practical duty to evangelize mankind, and the topics for the day (January 15) were, Missions to the Jews, Missions to the Heathen, and Missions to the nominal Christian population in the home parishes. Bishop Moule, and the Revs. A. J. Robinson (Vicar of Holy Trinity, Marylebone), and F. S. Webster (Rector of St. Thomas, Birmingham) were the chosen speakers on Foreign Missions.

Relation of Missions to the Church at Home.

One of the subjects treated at the Anglican Missionary Conference ("The Relation of Missions to the Church at Home") seems to call for a word of notice in this Report, not only because the discussion was directed by the opening paper to an issue which challenged the continued existence of all voluntary societies of Churchmen for the purpose of evangelizing the non-Christian world, but especially because the Archbishop of Canterbury in his inaugural address at the opening of the Conference spoke so significantly on the same subject. The Archbishop, reviewing the history of missionary efforts, divided it into four eras: the Apostolic era, when, he said, the Church herself was the great Mission power; the Personal era, when great saints, filled with the spirit of God, went forth, but without commission from any particular Church; the Governmental era, when kings and conquerors gave to tribes the choice between baptism and the sword; and the era of Societies, which "are banded together upon principles" which "engage enthusiasm," but which after all "are Societies within a Society whose special business it is to do this work for Christ." Regarding this fourth era, that of Societies, the Archbishop added: "It is all very saddening if you compare it with Christ's idea. It is a great success, but it is a pathetic success." "The time will come when the work will not be done by others, but by the Church itself." The ideal presented by his Grace of a Church permeated with a sense of responsibility, acknowledging universally by word and act the duty of Missions, is one of which all earnest Christians must recognize the beauty; but unless contemporaneously with this zeal for Missions there should be given to the Church a unity of heart and mind regarding the great doctrines of Revelation, it is difficult to see how the Church, even then, in her corporate capacity would discharge her duty more efficiently than is done now by Churchmen through voluntary societies. Mr. Sydney Gedge presented this practical difficulty, and its force was urged with equal emphasis by the Rev. Berdmore Compton, who represented the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel. Mr. Gedge said:—

Advantages of Voluntary Societies.

It is a characteristic of our Church that she is widely comprehensive. Men holding very different views on the Sacraments, on Church order and discipline, and even on the essentials of a Church, are to be found within her borders, and claim to be her loyal sons. But it cannot be denied that there is such diametrical opposition in the views so permitted, that what one party teaches as sound truth is considered by another party as dangerous error. Christians of strong religious convictions will not assist in promulgating what they believe to be heresy. Voluntary missionary societies give full scope for this variety. They enable those members of the Church who are closely united by common views and sympathies to work together with hearty zeal and mutual confidence. Thus, the C.M.S. was founded by men who impressed upon it, what it has always maintained, a thoroughly Protestant and Evangelical character. It is idle to suppose that the supporters of that Society would show the same enthusiasm in its cause, or contribute with the same liberality to its funds, if the Committee were to admit to the ranks of its missionaries men to whom the word "Protestant" is abhorrent.

And Mr. Berdmore Compton to the same effect, but from a different point of view:—

But is such a single centre of administration a workable proposal on other grounds? A preliminary obstacle is insuperable. Such a board, in its corporate aspect, must necessarily be of a colourless doctrinal complexion—that is, a complexion of which no earnest individual supporter altogether approves! I do not venture to apportion the merits of the different hues in the Anglican spectrum. But whether it be from the want of a greater heat-force at the red (or super-Anglican) end, or of a greater actinic energy in the lavender (or more ethereal) rays, we know by sad experience that the via media of steady old S.P.G. leads to an income only half of that entrusted to the C.M.S. What, then, can be expected from the appeals of a central body which artificially combines all the artificial hues of an artificial spectrum into one dull neutral grey which nobody likes? To give an extreme illustration of the principle: How many voluntary subscriptions would an undenominational school-board get? The central board would break down from sheer inability to arouse the enthusiasm which alone will open the heart and the purse. You may say it ought not to be so within the limits of the Church of England. But certainly it is so, and therefore probably will be so. Religious convictions are becoming more definite as they are deepening. Sanguine predictions of the contrary have no guarantee of fact. The Missionary Church abroad would be starved.

"The Mission-Conscience of the Church."

The Archbishop fully recognized the difficulties in the way of what he esteemed a preferable order of things. He anticipated that the era of Societies "has still a good while to last," and he heartily commended their support. He said that they are "the Mission-conscience of the Church." "They are the only people in the Church who have recognized their responsibility, and the work is theirs, and God's great blessing is upon them. . . . They are doing to the utmost of their power the great work of endeavouring to make the whole Church feel its responsibility. When that sense of responsibility is felt, and when Missions are a universally felt duty, then I do not think that the candlesticks of the Societies will be removed, but to a great extent their work will be changed. Meantime we must work through the Societies with all our might. We must support the noble work they are doing which the Church has not done."

Support of Home and Foreign Missions.

The sense of duty hitherto has been and still is very far from being universal. Nearly one-fourth of the parishes (3,209 out of 13,650) in England do not contribute to either the S.P.G. or C.M.S. A singular misapprehension is widely prevalent that the sums given for Foreign Missions are in excess of those which are available for Home Missions. A glance at the Official Year Book of the Church of England would dissipate that impression. The contributions of all kinds for 1893 were £5,591,141. This included contributions to Assistant Clergy, Church Expenses, Day and Sunday Schools, Church Societies, Relief of the Poor, Church Building, &c., &c. The contributions of the Church of England to Foreign Missions during the same year, according to Canon Scott Robertson, amounted to £518,663, less than 10 per cent.

Supply of Clergy.

In like manner, in view of the difficulty of finding earnest and devoted Evangelical curates for the home parishes, the little bands of University men which leave our shores at the close of each year to reinforce the world-wide Missions are eyed with a certain measure of jealousy by some who, with large missionary hearts, yet have a special care for the needs of the Church at home. The Rev. H. Sutton, in an article in the Intelligencer for February, 1895, has carefully examined the grounds of fears which have been expressed on this score. During the sixteen years from September, 1872, to September, 1888, there were 11,936 deacons ordained in the provinces of Canterbury and York, an average of 746 a year; and during the five years from 1888 to 1893 the number was 3,672, an average of 754. During the former period the numbers included 8,223 graduates of Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, and Durham, about 69 per cent.; and during the latter it was 2,630, or 71 per cent., from which Mr. Sutton concludes (1) that the number of men taking Holy Orders does not show any falling-off, (2) that the Universities still supply a very large proportion of the clergy, and (3) that this proportion has varied very little in recent years as compared with the period preceding. On the other hand, Mr. Sutton gives the number of University graduates who have gone to the Mission-field in connexion with the C.M.S. between 1815 (when the first graduate was sent out by the Society) and 1894 as 312, and some of these graduated after joining the ranks of the Society's missionaries. Oxford has given 61, Cambridge 180, Trinity College, Dublin, 48, Durham 9, London 4, University of Ireland 1, Manitoba University 6, and that of New Zealand 2. Mr. Sutton adds: "Of course I do not forget that out of the 20,000 home clergy there are probably not more than 5,000 who would rank themselves as Evangelicals. Is it cause for anxiety that out of such a number during the last seventy-nine years there has been a drain of about four graduates per annum to the Mission-field?" Mr. Sutton confines the comparison to graduates because the Missionary clergy who were non-graduates have been, with a few exceptions, educated for Missionary work. For its graduate missionaries the C.M.S. owes a great debt to Ridley Hall, Cambridge. It is the only non-missionary Theological College whose alumni have gone forth to the Mission-field in any appreciable proportion. Of the 350 students who have passed through its course about 68 have gone into the foreign field, all except four under the C.M.S. The proportion is about one-fifth. If this example were generally emulated the fears expressed would be more intelligible than they are, but would the proportion even then be unreasonable—to send one man to evangelize the thousand millions of non-Christians for every four remaining to shepherd the 38 millions of professing Christians at home?

Ridley Hall, Cambridge.

But even without summoning up the dark million-hosts of the unevangelized to enforce the argument, it would be difficult to express in too strong terms the need of men and women to occupy adequately the ground which the Society professes to cover. When in 1890 certain leading friends of the Society proposed prayer and effort to send out a thousand additional missionaries, several of the Missions were asked to state how many were really needed. From the India Missions at once came a fairly complete indent of immediate wants, and the total demanded for them was two hundred new men to begin with. In the four years sixty have been sent out, but owing to deaths and retirements the net increase is forty, just one-fifth of what was asked for. A fresh indent of men absolutely needed for that year for Bengal alone was received in the autumn of 1894. It was as follows:—

Need of Men for Mission Field.

Needs of the Bengal Mission: (1) Vice-Principal Calcutta Divinity School: (2) missionary for Bhagalpur; (3) European headmaster Chupra School; (4) second missionary, Burdwan; (5) helper for the Rev. Jani Alli; (6) second minister for Old Church; (7) two more men for Calcutta Band; (8) Shikarpur Band, three Associated Evangelists; (9) Krishnagar, evangelistic missionary.

In response to this demand, the reinforcement for Bengal was three men—namely, a clergyman for the Mohammedan Mission and two lay agents; a fourth man to meet a requirement which could not be postponed had to be obtained by robbing another Mission. The Missionaries in Uganda urge that there is an "enormous waste of valuable Native help through the want of efficient European supervision."

Increase of C.M.S. Missionaries.

At the same time, there has been a very remarkable increase in the number of Missionaries sent out during the past few years. In November, 1894, a statement was laid before the Committee which showed that this increase was greater than any one had suspected. Between October, 1887, and October, 1894, the total number of Missionaries (not counting wives) had increased as follows: Clergymen, from 247 to 344; laymen, from 40 to 82; women, from 22 to 193; total, from 309 to 619, or just double in the seven years. The increase in some missions was especially noticeable. West Africa (including Sierra Leone, Yoruba, and the Niger) had 11 at the former date, and 43 at the latter. East Africa increased from 26 to 58; the Mohammedan Lands, Egypt, Palestine, and Persia, from 17 to 63; India, from 133 to 222; China, from 30 to 85; and Japan, from 14 to 53. It was at the end of 1887 that the plans for Associated Evangelists were formed and the large extension of women's work began, and the number of medical Missionaries more than doubled during the seven years.

Policy of accepting all suitable candidates.

The starting point in the comparison disclosed by the above figures—October, 1887—was the month when the Committee began to act upon the policy of accepting all suitable candidates and sending out all duly qualified missionaries. The alternative policy of putting a limit to the numbers sent out in accordance with the estimate of probable income, had been adopted after a succession of deficits had accumulated to a considerable sum, and the Committee's resolution did not mean that in such a similar case, should it unhappily arise, they would pursue a predetermined course, disregarding the dictates of prudence and the leadings of Divine providence. It meant only that if the Lord would honour His people by answering their prayers for men and women to carry His Gospel to the Heathen, the Committee would honour Him by trusting Him for the necessary funds. But in 1894, for the first time since October, 1887, a serious deficit did occur, and it appeared to some members of the Committee when the foreign estimates for 1895 were presented for adoption that the policy above referred to should be reconsidered. Accordingly, on November 13, it was moved that all candidates should be informed at the time of their acceptance that the date of their being sent forth would depend upon the state of the Society's funds. It was in view of the debate on this motion that the above comparison was instituted and the statement laid before the Committee.

But the statement did not end there. It showed how marvellously the Lord had supplied the needed funds. In the year ending March, 1887, the General Fund income was £200,777; in that ending March, 1894, it was £237,797—a growth of £37,000 in the seven years. The year 1887–8 began with £10,500 to the good, being the balance then in the Contingency Fund. The year 1894–5 began with about £4,000 to the good, the surplus of the special contributions to clear off the previous year's deficit. The Society, therefore, after the immense development indicated, appeared to be only £6,000 worse off than at the beginning of the septennate. But within the same period a mortgage debt of £20,000 on the Children's Home had been paid off, so that in reality it was £14,000 better off! After seven years' experience of such signal tokens of the Divine blessing, the Committee reaffirmed the policy which they had been led to adopt, and the following resolution, moved by Prebendary Webb-Peploe and seconded by Archdeacon Richardson, was carried without a division :— Policy reaffirmed.

That while it is a right and reasonable thing to govern the extent of the Society's operations by the amount of means that it pleases God to place at its disposal, yet, in view of the unparalleled increase of the missionary staff since 1887 (the total having just doubled in the seven years), and the remarkable development of the missions in that period, and the wonderful way in which the pecuniary means have been provided, the Committee cannot believe that the course adopted by them since October, 1887, has been displeasing to God; and they consider that, although every effort should be made to promote economy, it would be inexpedient at the present time to adopt any resolution that might check the growing spirit of faith and zeal among the supporters of the missionary cause in all classes of society.

The candidates accepted during the year ending April 30, 1895, were 42 men and 41 women; total, 83. Thirty-six of these had been accepted for training in previous years, seven were accepted by the Colonial Associations, and eight were accepted in local connexion by Corresponding Committees or other bodies in the Missions so authorized by the Committee. Twenty-three of the 81 were ordained, of whom 13 were graduates—namely, ten from Cambridge, one from Oxford, one from the Royal University of Ireland, and one from the University of Sydney; three were from the London College of Divinity; seven from Islington, of whom two were formerly agents of the China Inland Mission. Of the 19 laymen, three were graduates of Cambridge; two had medical degrees (one of whom is included in the three laymen from Cambridge); ten were from Islington, two of whom were formerly agents of the Church Army in India; three were taken up in the Missions, of whom two went out independently with the Rev. J. H. Horsburgh, and one was a soldier in India. Among the honorary lady missionaries accepted, one name must be specially mentioned—that of Mrs. Durrant, daughter of the late Rev. Edward Bickersteth, a former Candidates of 1894–5.

secretary of the Society, widow of a former director of the Missionaries' Children's Home, and sister of the Bishop of Exeter; she, with her daughter, also an honorary missionary, has gone to India. The number who made definite offers of service or inquiries with a view to service during the year exceeded 350, of whom about 200 were men and 150 women.

The following list of the 88 accepted for service gives the places from which they offered, and the Missions to which those who have sailed have been assigned; in the case of the men their college and degree is also given:—

The list of Missionaries on pages xx. to xlii. includes only those of the newly-accepted who had sailed for their Missions before June 1, 1895. It gives in parentheses particulars regarding the sources of support in the cases of all who are not dependent upon the Society's General Fund. Fifty of the Missionaries are honorary—that is, they draw no allowance from the Society's funds; sixteen are partly honorary—that is, they draw only a portion of the usual allowances; forty-three are supported by individual friends of the Missionary or of the Society; and fifty-six are supported by various bodies, such as the Gleaners' Union and its Branches, local C.M.S. Associations, &c.

Honorary Missionaries.

In the case of the last two classes the funds for their support are received by the Society as "Appropriated Contributions." It has been mainly with the view to encourage such special gifts that the Committee have made arrangements during the past year to open special accounts for all such subscriptions or donations, and to show, as is done in the present Report (see "Statement of Account of Appropriated Receipts"), how they are appropriated to the particular Missions, or agents, or branches of work for which they are given. The objects for which such gifts will be received may be thus classified:—

(a) For the general work in a particular Mission, say "for Uganda," or "for Bengal," or "for Persia."

(b) For the support of particular agencies or branches of work in a Mission, say Native Agency or Schools.

(c) For the support of individual European missionaries.

(d) For Mission buildings of various kinds.

(e) For any new work or outlay specially appealed for under sanction of the Committee.

(f) For particular branches of Home Expenditure, such as Training of Missionaries, Outfits and Passages, Sick and Disabled Missionaries, the Children's Home, and various items of Home Organization, &c.

In previous years all such contributions were absorbed into the year's income, the donors having been informed that their gifts would be dealt with in that way; but in the present Report contributions not expended or only partly expended during the year are shown as balances carried forward to the year 1895–6, and this will be done in future Reports. In fact, these Appropriated Contributions are now treated precisely as the "Special Funds assisting the General Fund," of which the "Extension Fund" and the "Mid-China Evangelistic Fund" are examples; and accordingly the term "Special Fund assisting the General Fund" now disappears, these funds being included under the term "Appropriated Contributions."

Deficit of £1,400.

A further effect, and an unforeseen one, of the arrangements above briefly described has been to occasion a deficit in the year's account of £1,422, inasmuch as, had the method of previous years been followed, the balances would have been applied to meet the year's expenditure, and thus a deficit would have been avoided. A deficit arising from so accidental (as it may be called) a cause, and so small in amount, cannot be regarded as in any sense a serious matter when the fears, undoubtedly well founded from the human point of view, which were entertained by many during the course of the recent financial year are recalled.

Income and Expenditure.

The estimates of the Committee in June, 1894, anticipated an expenditure of £273,255, an advance of £11,000 on the actual expenditure of 1893–94. But the income of 1893–94 had fallen short of the expenditure by £12,600, consequently it seemed clear on the most careful forecast that only an income exceeding that of 1893–94 by about £24,000 could avert a deficit. Toward this a surplus of £4,000 was in hand of the generous gifts bestowed to extinguish the deficit carried forward from 1893–94; but it was difficult indeed to discover amidst the reports from all quarters of commercial and agricultural depression grounds for expecting an income adequate to meet the need. Yet once more it has to be recorded to the glory of Jehovah-Jireh that the year's supplies have sufficed for the year's necessities: there has been "no lack," and there is "nothing over."

The salient features of the year's accounts appear in the following statement:—

The year began with a Deficit of.....		£12,610
The Expenditure of the year was		263,083
Making a total to be met of		£275,693
The funds applicable to this Expenditure have been:—
(a) Contributions to meet last year's Deficit	£16,676
(b) General Contributions	233,414
(c) Appropriated Contributions (including portions of the balances of certain Special Funds in previous years, but excluding other balances carried forward)	22,966
(d) Drawn from Contingency Fund.....	1,215
		274,271
Leaving a Deficit on March 31, 1895, of.....		£1,422

Current Financial Year.

It will be seen that the actual expenditure was some £10,000 short of what the Committee had estimated nine months before, as mentioned above; it was indeed only £960 in excess of that of 1893–4. This result was mainly due to the continued fall in the price of silver during the year. The receipts during the year under Appropriated Contributions amounted to £21,881, and the total receipts, excluding special funds, was £271,971. This is more than £20,000 in excess of any previous year; the corresponding figure in 1893–4 was £248,466. If Special Funds be included in the comparison, which in addition received £7,713 in the year, the total has been twice exceeded—namely, in the year of Mr. W. C. Jones's great gifts, and in the year of the Spurrell legacy. Legacies amounted to £40,432, higher by £420 than in 1893–4, when they were some £16,000 above the average of the few previous years; and Benefactions, apart from the sum contributed towards the deficit, were £26,276, about £3,000 in excess of 1893–4. It must be borne in mind: (1) that the financial year 1895–6 commences with a deficit of £1,400 instead of a surplus of £4,000; (2) that legacies cannot reasonably be expected for a third year in succession to produce the high figure of £40,000; and (3) there is no ground for hope that expenditure will again be stationary. There is still, therefore, need for the fullest exercise of faith, prayer, and effort.

Home Expenditure.

A jealous watchfulness is ever exercised over expenditure by the Committee, and it is encouraging to observe that during the seven years since 1887 there has been a progressive diminution in the proportion of the Society's annual expenditure in respect to the home charges—the cost of collecting funds and of administering the missions. The following table shows this proportion. It will be seen that out of every sovereign expended the proportion spent in the direct service of Missions increased from 15*s.* 10½*d.* in 1887 to 16*s.* 6½*d.* in 1894; while the expenditure on Retired Missionaries decreased from 11*d.* to 7*d.*, Collection of Funds from 1*s.* 7*d.* to 1*s.* 3½*d.*, and Administration from 1*s.* 1½*d.* to 10½*d.* These reductions, it must be borne in mind, are not necessarily reductions in amount: the table only shows that the proportion of the home expenditure grows less.

Associations.

The amount forwarded by Associations during the year was £162,665, of which £1,483 was towards the deficit, and £5,079 towards Appropriated Funds. The total was an advance of £3,820 on the previous year, of which advance £2,200 must be credited to Ireland. A painstaking analysis of the Contribution List in the last Annual Report, for 1893–4, was instituted by the Editorial Secretary, and a comparison was also made between the average yearly returns from the English counties of the five years from 1888–93 with those of the three years from 1877–80. The result of the latter calculation is shown in the following table :—

In view of the remarkable advance made during this period in the Society's general income, it was naturally a surprise and revelation to many to discover that almost one-half of the counties give less through their Associations than they did fifteen years ago. In reference to these figures it is necessary to bear in mind what friends in the North and the Midlands have written, lest unwarrantable inferences should be made. One wrote:—

North of England and Midlands.

> Within the period embraced by these calculations, the whole of the cotton industry of the North has been changed in its manufacturing processes, and reorganized. Wealth accumulated in the past has gone to build new mills and to provide new machinery to meet the demands of trade. Where the capital was wanting, the ruins of the old mills and empty cottages witness to a population dispersed, so that not only is the capitalist the poorer, but the wage-earner has been in serious difficulties. In some cases new districts have been formed where circumstances have been favourable, but these have required new Church organization and extension, where no such provision was required before. The keenness of foreign competition has also affected other industries, and led their leaders to revise their processes and alter their procedure, with the same result of a disturbance of social and financial relations. The great questions between Labour and Capital have also been severely contested in the North. The cotton strikes and coal strikes are instances wide-spread in their influence, affecting other occupations as well as the trades immediately dependent upon themselves, and, from the system of contributions from other districts besides the immediate area of disturbance, more extended in their influence than many suppose. These conditions must be taken into consideration in a comparison made between different parts of England.

Another, regarding North Northumberland:—

> The population has diminished; one-half of the country mansions are tenantless or temporarily let as shooting-boxes to strangers; the resident proprietors are in great straits; the once substantial gentlemen farmers are no more; the land is going out of cultivation; the farmers are on the verge of bankruptcy. I will give an instance. A farm belonging to the Dean and Chapter of Durham, which used to let for £1,400 a year, has been lately abandoned by its ruined tenant and let for £650. Another farm which used to maintain eleven cottagers and as many pair of horses, now is worked by one man and two lads. There are no manufactures whatever in the district. The clergy, more than any other class, have suffered from diminished incomes. Considering these facts, it is a cause for wonder as well as thankfulness that the contributions have not diminished to one-half.

And a third, regarding Yorkshire:—

> The West Riding has suffered severely owing to the McKinley tariff. Towns like Bradford and Huddersfield have been passing through a crisis unparalleled in their histories. The terrible coal strikes have also left their mark, and it will take years before their effects pass away.

The above considerations undoubtedly deserve the fullest weight. On the other hand, a careful analysis of the contribution list, parish by parish, shows that in the very heart of the districts most affected by strikes and depression instances are found in which there has not only been no retrogression, but where, on the contrary, there has been marked advance. Several instances in proof of this were cited in the Intelligencer for December, 1894. The true inference appears to be that the difference between one county and another, or one town and another, or one parish and another, is due to a difference, not of wealth, but of work.

How the Money is contributed.

The different ways in which money is contributed is an interesting study. In Lancashire the amount raised by missionary boxes is £3,534, one-fourth of the total sent up to the Society, and of this sum over two-thirds, £2,434, are given by Sunday Schools. In the great parish of Islington (London), from £900 to £1,000 out of a total of about £3,000 contributed year by year by the Islington Association, comprising thirty-eight churches, comes from Sunday Schools. In many places sales of work supply the bulk of the funds raised. Altogether, from the English counties £31,704 was raised by boxes, and £21,555 by sales of work during the year 1893–4. The following illustration of the relative productiveness of the different methods of raising funds was gathered from tables furnished by the Association Secretaries. The first four examples are the four dioceses which are included in what is called the North-Western District. The next three are the three counties, excluding the Metropolitan district, which constitute the South-Eastern District; and the last four are the county of Middlesex and those portions of the counties of Surrey, Kent, and Essex which are in the Metropolitan district:—

Association Secretaries.

Five Association Secretaries have retired:—The Rev. H. A. Bren from the West Yorkshire District, appointed Principal of Cheltenham Training College; the Rev. C. W. R. Higham from the district included in the Diocese of Norwich, on his acceptance of the parish of Wynberg in Cape Town; the Rev. J. W. Dixon from part of the Midland District, on his becoming Vicar of St. James's, Wolverhampton; the Rev. A. J. Shields from the Central District of Ireland, on his going to Scarborough as Vicar of Holy Trinity; and the Rev. J. Haythornthwaite from the Southern District of Ireland, on his accepting the curacy of Zion Church, Dublin. The Rev. T. T. Smith has been transferred from the huge North-Western District to Yorkshire, where he succeeds Mr. Bren; and the Rev. P. B. de Lom, of the East Yorkshire District, succeeds Mr. Shields in the important Central Secretaryship of the Hibernian Auxiliary. Mr. Smith's former district has been divided: the Rev. Charles Francis Jones, curate of Baildon, near Shipley, Yorkshire, who is so widely known through his energetic work in selling foreign postage stamps for the Society, has been appointed Association Secretary for the dioceses of Liverpool, Chester, and Sodor and Man; and the Rev. Charles Trevor Horan, formerly Missions to Seamen Chaplain at Liverpool, has succeeded to the other portion of Mr. Smith's former charge, the Dioceses of Manchester and Carlisle, Manchester and Salford remaining as before under the secretaryship of the Rev. C. N. Keeling. The Rev. George Frederick Grace, B.A., curate of Holton, Halesworth, takes up the work in the Diocese of Norwich; and the Rev. J. E. Browne, B.D., senior curate of Banbridge, co. Down, succeeds Mr. Haythornthwaite in the South of Ireland. The Rev. W. M. Roberts has been appointed Association Secretary for the Diocese of St. Asaph, and the counties of Cardigan, Carmarthen, and Pembroke.

Home Clergy on Deputation Staff.

Of the Home Clergy on the Deputation Staff the Rev. A. H. Arden has retired, in order to return once more, a third time, to India, where he has taken up temporarily the important duties of Secretary of the Madras Corresponding Committee. Mr. Arden was an Honorary Association Secretary from 1881 to 1890, and since the latter date has continued to give most valuable service as a Deputation. The Committee have made a substantial addition to the permanent Deputation Staff, as distinguished from that of Association Secretaries, who have, in addition to deputation work, a large amount of organization and business arrangements dependent upon them; and from Missionaries on furlough, whose engagement as deputations is only temporary. They have been reminded, in the valuable chapters on the early history of the Society by the Rev. C. Hole in the Intelligencer, of the blessing which attended the tours as Missionary Deputations of Basil Woodd, Melville Horne, Legh Richmond, Haldane Stewart, William Marsh, and Daniel Wilson, in the early years of this century. The message of those fathers to the churches was not to report results, for there were almost none to report; nor to describe foreign countries and peoples, for they had not visited them; but, taking their Bibles in their hands, to call upon Christians to obey their Lord. The Committee believe that the same needs to be done now, and to be done systematically and on a scale which it would be unreasonable in these busy days to expect that the clerical friends of the Society who have the responsibility of populous parishes on their shoulders should be able to undertake. The following clergymen have therefore been appointed: the Rev. Dr. Bruce, who has lately retired from missionary service after thirty-six years' labours, but has joyfully, while devoting part of his time to the continuance of the important literary and translational work in which he has long been engaged, undertaken to give the rest in taking a share in the new crusade to which the Committee have invited him; the Rev. Henry Newton, Vicar of St. Mark's, Brighton, who has resigned his parish, where his ministry was most acceptable, and where the contributions to the C.M.S. rose year by year and reached in 1894 £470; the Rev. W. J. L. Sheppard, Curate-in-charge of St. Elizabeth's, Altrincham, Cheshire, who has been most successful in awakening there a genuine spirit of missionary zeal; and the Rev. E. N. Thwaites, Rector of Fisherton, Salisbury, for many years past the chief promoter of C.M.S. interests in his own neighbourhood, and widely known as a deputation, especially since his visit to India in the winter of 1893–4, who will give to the Society for Special Missionary Missions six weeks a year in lieu of taking a holiday.

Missionary Missions.

The zeal and resourcefulness of the friends up and down the country are being exercised to extend Missionary interest and to raise funds for the cause. Missionary Missions do not appear to have been very heartily taken up hitherto. The Society's ever-active friend, the Rev. J. B. Whiting, is almost alone in experience of conducting such efforts, and he held a ten-days' mission of this nature in St. Matthew's parish, Rugby, in the summer of 1894. In St. Peter's, Islington, also, a Missionary Week was observed in July. On that occasion open-air meetings were a special feature of the effort; sixteen maps and diagrams were carried by the procession of workers to the various speaking-stations, and some 2,000 people who would never attend a missionary meeting heard something about the Heathen world. Thirty-five speakers took part at the various gatherings. A Sowers' Band and a training class for "candidates in waiting" were among the visible results. One of the Association Secretaries mentioned at the Annual Conference in Salisbury Square in January that he had been allowed opportunities from time to time of addressing communicants at early Sunday morning administrations on their solemn obligations as Christ's redeemed servants to make His salvation known; and of holding after-meetings in church at the close of evening services, when a large proportion of the congregation gladly remained to have their hearts stirred.

Loan Exhibitions.

Missionary Loan Exhibitions were held during the year at Ystradyfodwig in South Wales; at Merthyr Tydvil; at Hereford, opened by the Dean; at Bewdley in Worcestershire, in the grounds of Winterdyne; at Worcester in the Shire Hall, opened on four successive days by Canon Teignmouth Shore, Sir Richard Temple, Bishop Ridley, and Mr. F. C. Bourne, the Honorary Treasurer of the Worcester Association, and some 7,000 persons visited the exhibition; and at Nottingham, opened by the Bishop of Southwell, Sir T. Fowell Buxton, and Sir John Kennaway. Of the last the report says:—

> The results of this effort cannot be defined; but thus far the most definite and tangible results have been seen in—(1) the remarkable spirit of unity and earnestness which pervaded the workers, as if by an outpouring of the Holy Spirit; (2) the numbers who were brought into contact with missionaries and missionary sights; (3) the financial success, £1,260 gross proceeds. Of the net proceeds the Executive Committee have had the satisfaction of sending up £400 to Salisbury Square, £240 to C.E.Z.M.S., and £120 to the Missionary Leaves Association; (4) last, but not least, an increase of missionary zeal, already leading to some offers of personal service. A hearty thanksgiving service was held at St. Andrew's Church on the Tuesday evening following, attended by more than twenty clergy and a large congregation. The final results are with God. To Him be all the praise!

Missionary Unions.

Few of the English counties, if any, are without Missionary Unions; and Ladies' Unions, Lay Workers' Unions, and Younger Clergy Unions are rapidly spreading over the country. In Yorkshire alone there are six Y.C.U.'s: at Leeds, Sheffield, Bradford, Huddersfield, Hull, and Wakefield; three Lay Workers' Unions, at Bradford, Sheffield and York; and eight Ladies' Unions, at Sheffield, York, Bradford, Huddersfield, Hull, Barnsley, Leeds, and Halifax. A list of these Unions is given on pp. xvi. and xvii. A forward step was initiated in January, 1895, by the Committee of the London Younger Clergy Union. A Conference of delegates of the various Y.C. Unions to discuss steps for the consolidation and extension of such Unions was held at the C.M. House. Delegates attended from the Birmingham, Bradford, Exeter, Leeds, Liverpool, Manchester, Nottingham, and Sheffield Unions, and it was resolved to submit to the several Y.C. Unions a scheme for their federation. At a second meeting, held at Sion College on April 30, cordial approval of the scheme was expressed by the delegates of most of the Unions. Conferences of the Missionary Bands in and around London were held in July, 1894, and February, 1895, the former at Islington College and the latter at St. Paul's, Onslow Square. On the latter occasion 185 members, representing forty bands, were present.

Gleaners' Union.

The Gleaners' Union enrolled 11,655 new members during the year ending September 30, 1894, making a total enrolled since the formation of the Union in July, 1886, of 68,904. Eighty new branches were registered during the year, making 569. A special feature of the anniversary was a conference of Branch Secretaries held on the first of the two days of the proceedings. They attended from most of the English counties. Bath, Bedford, Birmingham, Bournemouth, Bradford, Bristol, Cambridge, Canterbury, Chatham, Clevedon, Clifton, Derby, Dorchester, Dover, Dublin, Glasgow, Guildford, Harrogate, Ipswich, Leamington, Manchester, Margate, Nottingham, Pontefract, Reading, Reigate, Salisbury, Sandown, St. Leonards, Sheffield, Stourport, Swansea, Tunbridge Wells, Wakefield, Weymouth, Worthing, and many smaller places, were represented; and within a period of three hours in the aggregate nearly seventy little speeches, of two or three minutes each, and thoroughly to the point, were made by clergymen, officers in the army, business men, and ladies. No printed report can give any adequate idea of the keen interest and high spiritual tone that marked the proceedings of that Conference day. Conferences were also held during the year at Bournemouth for Branch Secretaries in the counties of Hampshire, Dorsetshire, Wiltshire, and Somersetshire; at Harrogate, convened by Lady Dodsworth; and at Salisbury Square on the day of the Society's Anniversary, April 30. The Gleaners' Union Auxiliary Committee appointed the Rev. Martin J. Hall as Visitor to the Union for six months, commencing in December, 1894; but before the six months expired he was on his way to Uganda, having meanwhile offered for that Mission. In the few busy weeks he spent in the North, the Midlands, and the Home Counties, he was privileged, however, to do important work. A branch of the Union has been formed at Malta by the daughter of the commanding officer of a British regiment there. Soon after this branch was opened forty-five names were sent for enrolment, mostly men belonging to the Queen's Royal West Surrey Regiment, the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders, and the Royal Irish Rifles. Their meetings are held on Friday, because on that day the outward-bound P. and O. steamers for India and the East usually arrive at Malta, and they have on several occasions succeeded in their purpose of welcoming outgoing parties of missionaries and receiving from them a cheery word of encouragement.

Gleaners' Union "Own Missionaries."

For some years the members of the Gleaners' Union have been wont, in remitting their annual twopenny fees, to add a few pence, or sometimes a few shillings, either for the expenses of the Union or for the C.M.S. General Fund, or specifically for the Gleaners' "Own Missionaries." Hitherto these last contributions have been paid into the General Fund against the outfits, passages, and first year's expenses of the Missionaries named, new Missionaries being chosen each year. It is found more convenient, however, under the new arrangements for Appropriated Contributions, to put particular Missionaries definitely and permanently on this fund; and accordingly the Auxiliary Committee, on behalf of the Gleaners' Union, have undertaken the support of fourteen out of the twenty "Own Missionaries" who have been appointed since 1887; of the other six, two—Bishop Hill and the Rev. W. A. C. Fremantle—have died; one is about to become a Missionary's wife, and three others have been provided for by special gifts. For the support of these fourteen—six men and eight women—an average rate of £100 will be charged to the Union, which, as the receipts under this head for 1893–4 were £1,504, it seems likely to be able to bear, and in due time may still further enlarge its responsibilities.

Exeter Hall Meetings.

The autumn valedictory arrangements included for the first time two evening meetings in Exeter Hall. It is hard to realize that previous to January, 1890, when the Soudan party under Robinson and Brooke, and the East Africa party sailing with Douglas Hooper, were dismissed, the farewell meetings had been held in comparatively small buildings. On this occasion the missionaries for India (and one for Baghdad) were publicly taken leave of on Tuesday, October 2, and those for Africa, Palestine, Ceylon, China and Japan, on the 3rd, Sir John Kennaway presiding on both occasions. The Committee's instructions were given at more private gatherings in the Church Missionary House on the 2nd and 4th, and a Communion service was held at St. Bride's Church, Fleet Street, on Wednesday morning, the 3rd, when the preacher was the Rev. F. S. Webster. The parties dismissed numbered sixty-two returning to the field and sixty-four new missionaries. On November 1 the Anniversary of the Gleaners' Union was concluded by meetings in Exeter Hall; the afternoon meeting, chiefly for ladies and with lady speakers, in the Lower Hall; and the evening meeting, with the Dean of Norwich in the chair, in the large hall.

Church Missionary House.

The Church Missionary House was in constant use, not only for meetings of the committees and sub-committees daily, but frequently also in the evenings for meetings of the London Lay Workers' Union and for special events. In June, 1894, the Delegates to the Y.M.C.A. Jubilee Celebration were received by the President, Committee, and Secretaries. In November, December, and January large numbers of lady Sunday School teachers met on the invitation of the London Ladies' Union for social evenings; missionary curios were exhibited and addresses delivered. The guests on one of these occasions numbered 240. In February, upwards of 200 ladies from all parts of London, most of whom had never visited Salisbury Square before, were introduced to the House and addressed by two ladies. In March, a conference of about one hundred Sunday School superintendents, organized by the Lay Workers' Union, was held under the presidency of the Rev. J. F. Kitto. In January the whole body of Association Secretaries of England, Wales and Ireland held their annual conference on three successive days and met the Funds and Home Organization Committee, the General Committee, and the secretaries of the Society. Other meetings for which the accommodation at the Church Missionary House was inadequate were held at Sion College; e.g. a prayer meeting presided over by Canon Gibbon was held on November 29, when the Day of Intercession was observed by the Committee. The New Year's Communion Service for the Committee and friends was held in St. Bride's Church on Jan. 22, when the sermon was preached by the Rev. H. C. Squires, Vicar of Holy Trinity, Richmond.

C.M.S. Committee.

The meetings of the Committee were on several occasions of singular interest. The leave-takings of small parties of Missionaries occur at frequent intervals, and are often seasons of peculiar solemnity and spiritual refreshment. Such were, for example, the farewell in July to a party for the Niger in place of the one which had been almost entirely swept away by fever the previous January; and in September to Bishop Stuart and his party for Persia. Interviews with missionaries and with visitors from the fields of labour abroad who could tell of what they had seen of the Society's work were also of deep interest. On June 5, no less than six Bishops from foreign parts attended the meeting of Committee. The Bishop of Lahore represented North India, the Bishop of Travancore and Cochin, South India; Bishop Moule of Mid-China, the far East; and Bishop Ridley of Caledonia, the far West. Bishop Tucker and the Bishop of Wyoming, U.S.A.—who was in England for the Anglican Missionary Conference—were also present. Two other prominent American brethren were present on the same occasion, the Rev. Dr. Langford, Secretary of the Board of Missions of the American Episcopal Church, and the Hon. John Wanamaker, late Postmaster-General, and for many years a leading man in the Sunday School world, who was in England for the Y.M.C.A. Jubilee. Nor was this all. The Rev. Yung-King Yen, of the American Protestant Episcopal Church, who was visiting England to promote the anti-opium movement, was also present and made an admirable speech to the Committee. The following week Bishop Saumarez Smith, of Sydney, Metropolitan of New South Wales and Primate of Australia, was received, and spoke warmly of the recently-developed C.M. Association in New South Wales. A few weeks later, on July 3, the Committee welcomed back the Revs. E. N. Thwaites and Martin J. Hall from their Indian tour; and on the same day the Committee saw the Rev. W. Cassels and Mr. M. Beauchamp, of the China Inland Church of England Mission party in Sichuen. On subsequent occasions the Bishop of Bombay, the Bishop of Sierra Leone, and the Bishop of Honduras attended the Committee. Then there were days of sadness and days of joy when news from the field was reported, now of deaths of young recruits like Henry Francis Wright, and W. A. C. Fremantle, and E. R. Jackson, or of a young missionary's life being placed in imminent peril through a bite from a mad jackal; and now of successes and of progress, as when despatches, for example, from Uganda were read. There were days also when the debates in Committee were of exceptional importance. The question of sending ladies to Uganda, the choice of candidates for that party, and the plans and arrangements for an enterprise so novel and so important; and the best way of utilizing funds in hand for placing a steamer on the Victoria Lake;—these matters were discussed with a constant sense of responsibility; and the varied experience of old Indians, of professional men, of commercial men, and of the ladies of the Ladies' Candidates Committee were called into requisition. Ecclesiastical questions, such as the Episcopal recognition of laymen engaged in quasi pastoral work, took up not a little time, and here the counsels of leading clergymen and of distinguished lawyers were availed of. Then there were questions of policy in which financial experts had naturally much to say, such as the one referred to above regarding the sending-out of bodies of new recruits before any human grounds of certainty exist that the income will be adequate for their support. And, lastly, there were questions affecting the home work, the stationary condition of the funds sent up from many parts of England, and the measures needing to be taken.

Organisation of Women's Work.

The Funds and Home Organization Committee was naturally the body whom the anxious problem last referred to especially affected, and one of the solutions which were adopted on their recommendation — that of appointing more home clergy of special gifts on the deputation staff—has been referred to above. Another of their recommendations has to be mentioned. Their minute, which was confirmed by the General Committee in due course, was as follows:—

> The Committee having taken into consideration the position of women's work in regard to the Society at home, feel that they cannot too fully express their thankfulness to Almighty God for the persistent and devoted efforts women have at all times made for the Society. They consider that the time has now come when a more defined position should be accorded to the work of women in the Society's home organization, and that a fuller recognition, coupled with a more systematic organization of this work, would both give it a greater impulse, and in an immense degree strengthen the Society's position everywhere at home. They consider that there is an opening and a pressing need for the services of women as organizers of women's work, and as speakers at women's meetings; that in these respects their services would be invaluable in directions which cannot without their aid receive adequate supervision or development at the hands of the existing staff; that, for example, they could give instruction from God's Word in Missionary principles, impart Missionary information, explain and enforce the best method of home organization at gatherings of Sunday School teachers, communicants, collectors, at conferences, Bible classes, drawing-room meetings, village meetings, meetings of Branches of the Gleaners' Union and Missionary Bands, and girls' schools and colleges, at mothers' meetings, sales of work, &c. They therefore recommend that the development of women's work at home and its relation to the general organization of the Society be taken into immediate consideration, and that for this purpose there be appointed a Sub-Committee of this Committee, which, in conference with certain ladies and others to be nominated by the Secretaries, shall prepare a scheme, and as soon as possible report upon the whole subject to this Committee.

Some of the ladies who met the Sub-Committee of the Home and Funds Committee for conference were appointed a Women's Provisional Committee, with Mrs. Percy Grubb as the Hon. Secretary, and they have been authorized to gather all possible information likely to be useful in forming future plans. They have suggested that help may be given by their sisters throughout the country by supplying:—

(1) Advice and suggestions concerning this movement, and the names of any earnest women likely to be of assistance in it.

(2) Information as to any C.M.S. work now carried on by women among women, parochially or otherwise.

(3) Names of capable and spiritually minded women willing to assist the Committee, by giving advice as to local arrangements and workers.

(4) Names of women willing and able to speak occasionally for the C.M.S.

Changes in the secretariat.

Several changes have taken place in the secretariat at Salisbury Square during the year. The retirement of the Rev. C. C. Fenn, and the acceptance of his portfolio by the Rev. B. Baring-Gould, who previously was in charge of the Home Organization Department, was mentioned last year.

Rev. B. Baring-Gould's Tour.

Mr. Baring-Gould and his daughter started at the beginning of August on a tour to the Missions the administration of which would shortly so largely devolve upon him. They travelled viâ Canada, and Mr. Baring-Gould had important conferences, at Winnipeg with a large number of the North-West America missionaries who assembled there to meet him, and at Vancouver with those of the North Pacific Mission. Japan, Mid-China, South China, and Ceylon were visited in succession, and on February 12 the Committee had the pleasure of welcoming Mr. Baring-Gould back from his tour, and of hearing from his lips a report of the impressions left upon his mind. During his absence the Rev. E. T. Higgens, of the Ceylon Mission, supplied his place as Acting Secretary at Salisbury Square.

Retirement of the Rev. W. Gray.

It was also mentioned last year that the health of the second senior Secretary, the Rev. William Gray, had given cause for anxiety. A weakness of his eyesight, which unhappily increased month by month, was the cause of alarm, and ere the year closed he felt obliged to relinquish the arduous duties of the Indian Group of Missions, of which he had held the Secretaryship for twenty years. Mr. Gray was a scholar and a gold medallist of Trinity College, Dublin, where he took his degree in 1851. In 1856 he went out to Madras as Vice-Principal of the Doveton College in that city. Two years later he became a missionary of the Society, and laboured successively in the North Tinnevelly Itinerancy, and as Secretary of the Madras Corresponding Committee, until 1866. From 1870 to 1874 he was an Association Secretary of the Society for the counties of Lincolnshire, Nottinghamshire, &c. For a few months in 1874 he held the Rectory of St. Paul-in-the-Bail, Lincoln, whence he responded to the invitation to become a Secretary of the Society in view of General Lake's anticipated retirement, and to take charge of the India Missions, for which his experience gave him peculiar aptitude. Mr. Gray has given his eldest daughter to the Mission field in the person of Mrs. St. Clair Tisdall of the Persia Mission, and his second son is also an accepted missionary of the Society. The Committee hope that, trusting in the Lord, he may, in the quiet waiting-time, "be as a tree planted by the waters, and that spreadeth out her roots by the river, and shall not see when heat cometh, but her leaf shall be green; and shall not be careful in the year of drought, neither shall cease from yielding fruit."

Appointment of three new Secretaries.

The Rev. Philip Ireland Jones, who, like Mr. Gray, has had ten years' experience in India, first as Principal of the Calcutta Divinity School, then as Superintendent of the Nadiya Pastorates, and, finally, as Secretary of the Calcutta Corresponding Committee, has succeeded Mr. Gray. He was Acting Secretary for several months, and declined to contemplate the permanent appointment until medical opinion decided against his being able to resume work in Bengal, at all events for some years to come. Mr. Jones is the son of the veteran Ceylon Missionary, the Rev. John Ireland Jones, and was for three years Vice-Principal of Ridley Hall, Cambridge. This appointment was made in November, and within a month a new vacancy was created in the secretariat by the retirement of General Clennell Collingwood, after five and a half years of loyal and truly devoted service. On January 22 Mr. David Marshall Lang was appointed Lay Secretary. In 1891 Mr. Lang accepted the Assistant Central Secretaryship at Salisbury Square, with special charge of the Loan Department. He is no relation to the Rev. Robert Lang, who retired from the secretariat in 1892. The Central Secretaryship, rendered vacant by Mr. Baring Gould's transfer to what may be called the C.M.S. Foreign Office, remained vacant for ten months, during which time the duties of the office, as during the interval preceding Mr. Baring Gould's appointment, were untiringly and very efficiently discharged by the Rev. H. Percy Grubb. At length, in March, 1895, the Rev. W. E. Burroughs, B.D., Incumbent of the Mariners' Church, Kingstown, Rural Dean of Monkstown, Chaplain to the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, and University Select Preacher in 1893–4, was appointed; and he has entered fully upon the duties of the office in this present June.

The Editorial Department at Salisbury Square was deprived for part of the year of the highly valued co-operation of Miss G. A. Gollock, who has done much to improve the Society's publications and to provide other Missionary literature during the past four years. At the invitation of Miss Bayley, of Brighton, she accompanied the latter on a winter tour to India, leaving England in October, 1894, and returning in May, 1895. She visited Ceylon, Tinnevelly, Madras, Bombay, Poona, Calcutta, Santalia, Nadiya, the North-West Provinces, and the Punjab.

Publications.

The chief new publications of the past year were—(1) The Story of the Year, a popular illustrated Report of the Society; (2) A Missionary Alphabet for little children; (3) Other Lands and the People who live there, a reprint of papers which appeared in Awake; (4) a fourth Christmas book for children, entitled Forts of Darkness and Soldiers of Light. A second edition of 5,000 copies of the Gleaners' Atlas and Key to the Cycle of Prayer has been published and almost sold out: and a second edition of What's o'Clock, and a third of Light on our Lessons, two of the previous Christmas books for children, have been issued during the year. The Sheet Almanack was published as usual, and has had a steady sale. A Chinese edition of the Quarterly Token has been published in Shanghai. The monthly periodicals have been keeping up their circulation, an average of 6,000 copies of The Intelligencer being printed each month, with 71,000 of The Gleaner, 39,000 of Awake, and 54,000 of The Children's World; also of the Quarterly Paper 20,000 each quarter, and of The Quarterly Token 212,000 in English and 5,000 in Welsh. The total circulation of the Society's magazines and papers has been about 3,600,000.

Medical Department.

The Medical Department at Salisbury Square, under Dr. Herbert Lankester's supervision, is becoming a most valuable agency, and is enabling the Committee to take more efficient precautions to ensure the physical fitness of candidates before they are accepted, and to preserve the health of missionaries both in the field and while at home on furlough. The Medical Mission Auxiliary held a meeting in Lower Exeter Hall on May 18, 1894, over which the Honorary Clerical Secretary of the Society, the Rev. F. E. Wigram, presided. The Society has now 29 Medical Missionaries, a larger number probably than any other Missionary Society, and the claims upon the Medical Mission Fund are considerable. That fund, which is administered by the Medical Missions Auxiliary Committee, assisted by a grant-in-aid from the Society's General Fund, is charged with all the expenses, other than the personal allowances of the Missionaries, of the Medical Missions of the Society. The Committee have appointed Mr. A. Carless, M.B., F.R.C.S., Honorary Consulting Surgeon to the Society.

Islington College,

The Church Missionary College, Islington, was quite full, 44 students being in residence for the whole or greater part of the year. Of University graduates, medical men, lay Missionaries on furlough, and others, studying special subjects, there were 10; of regular students taking the full year's course, 26; and of men taking the short course arranged for lay agents, 8. Six of the students were admitted to Deacon's Orders on Trinity Sunday, May 20, 1894, the Rev. T. Davis being appointed to read the Gospel. This is the fifth year in succession that this honour has fallen to Islington men in the Bishop of London's Examination, the Gospellers of the other four years, tracing backwards, having been the Revs. F. Rowling, J. F. Hewitt, H. J. Jackson, and H. J. Hoare. During the past ten years, 1884–1894, 65 Islington men entered for the Universities' Preliminary Theological Examination; and of these 41 gained a first class, 19 a second, 4 a third, while one (a foreigner) failed.

and other Training Institutions.

The Preparatory Institution at Clapham had an average of 16 students, of whom 15 went forward to Islington. At The Willows 33 women were under training for the Society during the whole or part of the year; and at The Olives, a new similar home opened at Hampstead, 7. These two do not belong to the Society, but the Committee gladly accept the valuable training given, and among the lecturers are some of the Society's secretaries and other friends. At the Highbury Home, for women unable to contribute to their training, which belongs to the Society, there have been 20 students. Other ladies were under preparation for future work at Aston, Great Yarmouth, and elsewhere.

Missionaries' Children's Home.

At the Annual Prize-day of the Missionaries' Children's Home, the Rev. F. V. Knox reported that there were 115 children in the Home, viz., 54 boys and 61 girls.

Missionary Leaves Association.

The Committee desire cordially to recognize the services rendered by the Missionary Leaves Association. During the year it sent out no fewer than 186 cases, 74 bales and 35 parcels, of the aggregate value of £2,463, to the Society's Missions. The help rendered by this agency is exceedingly valued by the Missionaries, being for the most part in the way of accessories such as furniture and simple ornaments for Mission Churches, clothes for Indians of North America, and a thousand and one things which the C.M.S. cannot undertake to supply. Through the Missionary Leaves Association large sums are also remitted to the Missions for the support of Native agents and of children in schools, &c. Haileybury School, for example, remits yearly £150 in this way to support a Haileybury Lecturer at St. John's College, Agra. The £300 raised yearly by Rugby School to support the Rugby-Fox Master at the Noble College, Masulipatam, is, however, paid to the C.M.S., and appears in its accounts.

Obituary.

It remains to notice the deaths in the front ranks of the Society's friends and among its Missionaries during the year, and the appointments made at the Anniversary on April 30, 1895. Twelve Vice-Presidents of the Society died during the year: the Bishop of Bath and Wells (Lord A. C. Hervey), the Bishop of Hereford (Dr. Atlay), Bishop Pelham, the Bishop of Riverina (Dr. S. Linton), Canon Lord Forester, Dean Payne-Smith of Canterbury, Dean Fremantle of Ripon, Dean Macartney of Melbourne, Archdeacon Blakeney of Sheffield, Canon Edward Hoare of Tunbridge Wells, Sir Charles Lowther, and George Arbuthnot, Esq. The Rev. E. D. Wickham's was the only death among the Honorary Governors for Life. The Rev. R. Allen, Vicar of Gypsy Hill, one of the working members of Committee; the Rev. John W. Mills, Vicar of Hull, a devoted friend in the country; and Colonels Rowlandson and Savile, the latter Treasurer of the Devon and Exeter Association, were among others whom death removed during the year. Of retired missionaries, there died—Archdeacon Maunsell, the Rev. Isaac Smith, the Rev. W. Keene, Mrs. Leupolt, and Mrs. Davis; of missionaries on the roll, Revs. E. A. Fitch and J. C. Price of East Africa, Rev. W. A. C. Fremantle of North-West Provinces, Rev. H. F. Wright of the Punjab, Mr. E. R. Jackson of the Gond Mission, Mrs. E. T. Sandys of Calcutta, Mrs. H. S. Phillips of Fuh-kien, Mrs. W. L. Williams of New Zealand, and Miss F. E. A. Thornewell of Sierra Leone; and of Native Clergy, the Revs. Jani Alli and Raj Kristo Bose of Calcutta, the Rev. Sorabji Kharsedji of Poona, the Rev. M. C. Punnusa of Travancore, the Rev. H. Kannangâ of Ceylon, and the Rev. K. Ratapu of New Zealand.

Dean Fremantle

Dean Fremantle was appointed an Honorary Governor for Life in 1869; and in 1876, on becoming Dean, a Vice-President. He was a true and life-long friend of the Society. In 1887 he was the preacher of the Anniversary Sermon at St. Bride's, and in the course of his sermon he mentioned how deeply impressed he had been, fifty-two years before, on hearing himself the anniversary sermon for the first time, by the call for men. He said:—

> At that time the Church Missionary Society had one English missionary in Sierra Leone, three in New Zealand, and twenty-four in India, in all forty-five; ten Lutheran and six Native. The want of missionaries was very urgent. Health, and other considerations, after much prayer and searching of heart, made it plain that I was not to have the privilege of undertaking this high and blessed work, but I may be permitted to bear my humble testimony before this great congregation, that the greatest delight and encouragement in ministerial work at home has been when I have been engaged in helping forward the work of evangelization abroad, and very specially in connexion with your beloved Society, to which, under God, I owe a debt of gratitude which no words can express.

Canon Hoare.

In July 1894, a few months before his own decease, at the request of the secretaries the late Dean drew up the following minute on the death of another honoured and beloved standard-bearer, Canon Hoare:—

Trained in the days of the Evangelical revival at Cambridge under Simeon, Scholefield, and Carus, Edward Hoare commenced his ministry in 1836 as curate to the Rev. Francis Cunningham at Pakefield, where he found the genial and warm sympathy of those who were at the time engaged in the religious movement, and where he gave early evidence of the bright, living missionary spirit which was so prominent a feature of his ministry in his after life at Richmond, Ramsgate, and finally at Tunbridge Wells, where for forty-one years he was by the Grace of God ever at the front of all missionary work both at home and abroad. The remarkable position of influence which he attained was not from his gifts, which were considerable, but from his grace. The features of his character may be briefly summed up as they were known in his private life, in his parochial work, in the pulpit, on the platform, and in the Committee Room of the Church Missionary Society: Godly simplicity and unflinching courage, clearness of judgment and expression, loving sympathy and consideration for others, unfailing diligence and soundness in the faith, and supreme reverence for and delight in the Word of God. These gracious qualities made his counsels and co-operation wise, weighty, and practical. He was in the highest sense a faithful witness to the principles of the Reformation and the doctrine and discipline of the Church of England, and a zealous, popular, and attractive advocate at all times of the work of his beloved Church Missionary Society.

From his early years Edward Hoare was in the inner circle of the Society's friends, and not of its friends only, but of the men generally who led the Evangelical movement in the earlier years of the century. At the age of thirty-six he was chosen to be one of the speakers at the Jubilee Meeting on November 2nd, 1848, along with Sir R. H. Inglis, Bishop Wilberforce, and the first Edward Bickersteth. He preached the Anniversary Sermon in 1871. A son and daughter were given joyfully to the work, and the son, after twenty years of service, still labours on at Ningpo. Towards the close of his life he took a prominent part in the Committee Room at Salisbury Square, until illness rendered his doing so no longer possible.

Dean Macartney's death occurred at the age of 95, he having been born on April 10, 1799, two days before the C.M.S. was established. Mr. Arbuthnot was for some twenty years a member of the Madras Corresponding Committee. Colonel Rowlandson half a century ago was one of the noble band of Anglo-Indian officers who were enabled, by Divine grace, to do much for the spread of the Gospel, both among their English comrades and among the Natives of India. The leaders of this band, besides Colonel Rowlandson—and their names deserve to be had in remembrance—were his brother, General George Rowlandson, J. F. Thomas, General Browne, General Alexander, and Huddleston Stokes. After his return to England Colonel Rowlandson was a most efficient and acceptable deputation.

New Vice-Presidents.

The Bishop of Bath and Wells (Dr. Kennion), the Bishop of Truro (Dr. Gott), the Bishop of Coventry (Dr. Knox), the Bishop of Colchester (Dr. Johnson), the Bishop of Meath (Dr. Peacocke), the Bishop of Killaloe (Dr. Wynne), the Bishop of Cork (Dr. Meade), the Bishop of Limerick (Dr. Graves), the Bishop of Clogher (Dr. Stack), the Bishop of Tuam (Dr. O'Sullivan), the Bishop of Perth (Dr. Riley), the Bishop of Wellington (Dr. Wallis), the Bishop of Waiapu (W. L. Williams), and the Bishop of Melanesia (Dr. Wilson), have accepted the office of Vice-President; and the Committee have also appointed Sir Mark J. Stewart, Bart., M.P., Archdeacon Favell, Canon Tristram, Colonel Robert Williams, M.P., and Chancellor P. V. Smith. To fill seven vacancies in the list of Honorary Life Governors they have elected the Rev. W. Gray, the Rev. C. G. Baskerville, the Rev. T. J. Clarke (of York), the Rev. R. J. Lyon (of Wickwar), the Rev. W. G. Mallett (Exeter), Colonel Urmston (Maidstone), and Mr. W. Watts Moses (Sunderland); and they have added the names of Miss Hookey and Miss Schröder to the list of Honorary Life Members.

One other loss, happily not by death, and one other appointment, have to be mentioned. The acceptance by Sir T. Fowell Buxton of the Governorship of South Australia has obliged him to resign the office of Treasurer of the Society, which he has held since 1886, when he succeeded Colonel Maude. It is a source of great regret to the Committee to lose the services of so true and tried a friend, even for a time. They are assured that Sir Fowell and Lady Victoria Buxton will have the prayers of many members of the Society that they may be enabled to discharge the duties and exercise the influence of their new position to God's glory, and that, when the term of office (five years) is fulfilled, they may return in improved health and strength. The Committee have elected to the Treasurership Colonel Robert Williams, M.P., a member of the firm which has for many years done the Society's banking business.

The Colonial Associations.

"Associations throughout the Empire."

THE Rev. Charles Hole's history of the "Origin of Church Missionary Associations" in the Intelligencer for January, 1895, states that the Rev. Josiah Pratt was instructed by the Committee of Funds in September, 1812, to draw up a plan of Missionary Associations, and that on October 2 the General Committee heard read Mr. Pratt's "plan of Church Missionary Associations throughout the Empire." So the plan is designated in the Minutes, and although in the Missionary Register of January, 1813, the words "throughout the Empire" are omitted from the title, the expression is used in the text, and was always meant, Mr. Hole says, to apply in practice. The day for its practical application in a very real sense appears at length to have arrived.

Primate of Australia at Salisbury Square.

An evidence of this was furnished to the Committee in June, 1894, by the attendance at their meeting of Bishop Saumarez Smith, of Sydney, Metropolitan of New South Wales and Primate of Australia, and by his testimony to the growing interest in the Foreign Missionary enterprise which had resulted from the formation of the New South Wales Church Missionary Association; the Bishop also declared his conviction that the impetus given by the Association would prove contagious, and, so far from retarding, would encourage the growth of the various Missions carried on by the Church in Australia. The Committee were thankful to have this testimony and expression of opinion from one so competent to speak with authority.

Australasian Local Missions.

The Bishops of Australia, at the instance of the Bishop of Tasmania, issued an appeal in the summer of 1894 for a "Self-denial Week" in behalf of the Local Missions carried on within or near the Colonies themselves, namely, to the Australian aborigines, to the Chinese immigrants, to New Guinea, and to Melanesia; to which the New Zealand Church added the Mission to the Maoris, recognizing in a separate circular the work of the C.M.S. among them, and calling on New Zealand Churchmen to come to its aid. The Self-denial week was observed in most of the Australian dioceses (Adelaide and Perth are not mentioned as joining in the movement) in November, and evoked much interest. The total amount realized was slightly under £4,000, considerably short of the £10,000 asked for. The Diocese of Sydney heads the list with £1,211, and it is observable that most of the parishes which are conspicuous supporters of the C.M. Association, both in Sydney and Melbourne, did their full share in this local effort for the Board of Missions, evidencing that the missionary sympathies of those parishes have not been closed against home claims, as some have asserted, in consequence of their new and more world-wide efforts.

A fourth Association was formed in June, 1894, for Canada, and the gentleman who presided at the meeting, held at Toronto, to inaugurate it, Mr. N. W. Hoyles, Q.C., had an interview with the Committee in July. A new Association.

I.—NEW SOUTH WALES.

The Annual Meeting of the New South Wales Church Missionary Association was held on March 26, 1895, in the large hall of the Y.M.C.A., Sydney. The Primate of Australia presided. The Dean of Sydney was also present, and the chief speaker was Mrs. Robert Clark, wife of the veteran Secretary of the Punjab and Sindh Mission, who was on a visit to Sydney. The Report (the Seventieth) presented by the Lay Secretary, Mr. C. R. Walsh, stated that the receipts of the year had amounted to £1,004, an increase of £222 on that of 1893, which had been an increase of £130 on 1892. The expenditure was £871, and a credit balance of £469 was carried forward to the current year. The Report proceeds:—"When the Committee foresaw that the ordinary income would probably be insufficient to meet the special expenses incidental to sending forth several missionaries during the year, and made this known to the supporters of the C.M.A., a very ready and gracious response immediately followed, quite dispelling all fear of a deficiency, and inspiring thankfulness to Him who had supplied all their need." The expenditure was less than had been expected, inasmuch as of the four ladies whose training at the Marsden Training Home was completed during the year, and who had been duly located, the two for China, Miss A. I. Oxley and Miss A. Price, were kept back by order of the Parent Committee on account of the war. The other two, Miss Amy Wilkes and Miss Alice Phillips, have joined the Persia Mission. Miss Wilkes was taken leave of at a crowded meeting in Sydney Chapter House on September 14, the Primate (who had just returned from England) presiding. The Instructions were delivered by the Rev. W. Martin. On the 18th there was a Communion Service in the Cathedral, and on the same day Miss Wilkes sailed for Bombay, where she was to await orders from Bishop Stuart regarding her future journey. Miss Phillips joined her at Bombay in March, and they proceeded together, viâ the Persian Gulf, to Baghdad, where they arrived in April. Four new candidates have been received into the Training Home, one of them sent by the New Zealand Association.

Annual Meeting at Sydney.

A substantial financial balance.

The Gleaners' Union Branches, 27 in number, continue to grow and prosper. One of the most interesting is at Parramatta, the scene of Samuel Marsden's labours among the English convicts a century ago. It is a little town with one church, of which Archdeacon Günther is Incumbent. There are 80 Gleaners, Gleaners' Union Branches.

and the average attendance at the monthly meetings is 40. They collected £65 last year for the C.M. Association, and £10 for the Local Missions. They circulate monthly 60 copies of the Gleaner, 38 of Awake, and 26 of the Children's World. The general Anniversary of the Gleaners' Union for New South Wales was held in the Chapter House at Sydney on November 6, the Primate presiding. The number of members was reported as 1,255. Miss M. Walsh is the Secretary.

The Association has a Book Depôt in Sydney managed by ladies; the sales realized £35. A monthly prayer-meeting is held, at which recent information from the Mission is supplied.

The Balance Sheet of the Association for the year ending December 31, 1894, was as follows:—

II.—VICTORIA.

Rev. A. R. Blackett's offer of service.

The Victoria Association has had the great privilege of enrolling one of the most experienced and respected clergymen in Melbourne among its new recruits, the Rev. A. R. Blackett, Incumbent of Prahran. Mr. and Mrs. Blackett, with their young daughter, arrived in England in April, and will proceed (D.V.) after a few months to Persia. Their going forth has created a profound impression in Melbourne. At first, naturally enough, doubts and questionings prevailed. Mr. Blackett's own congregation were for a time aghast at the idea of losing him, but ultimately rallied round him in warm sympathy, and a very remarkable farewell gathering took place in the spacious Sunday-school buildings of the parish, when 900 persons were present, and Archdeacon Henry Langley, who had been his predecessor in the incumbency, presided. Several local meetings in other parishes were also held to take leave of him; but all culminated in a great assembly in Melbourne Town Hall, a magnificent building as large as the Free Trade Hall at Manchester. At this meeting the new Dean of Melbourne, Dr. Vance, who has been described as "a vigorous and liberal High Churchman," presided, and opened the proceedings with a powerful speech. "Some," he said, "might call Mr. Blackett's conduct Quixotic, and say that he was sacrificing service to sentiment, and a higher duty to a lower; but the whole history of the Church and the evangelization of Heathen nations gave a refutation to that idea. The men who had shown the fervour and the faith to make impressions upon the Heathen and Mohammedan populations were bound to be men of special ability and mark—the very men who, if they had remained at home, would have probably won for themselves front places in the Church and in the world. Of such men Mr. Blackett was one."

An extract from the Instructions of the Victoria Committee to Mr. Blackett will be read with interest. They were followed by a striking address from the Rev. H. B. Macartney, on "Ye have need of patience." Instructions to Mr. Blackett.

The Victoria Committee's Instructions to the Rev. A. R. Blackett.

"Beloved Brother in the Lord,—God in His wonderful way is calling you from us, who love you for your works' sake, and because of the indissoluble bond of fellowship which makes us one in Christ Jesus, to be His messenger of the Gospel of Peace to a people whose one power for propagating their faith is the sword.

"This is a day of good tidings, and the Committee would borrow words from the thanksgiving song of David, and say: 'Give thanks unto the Lord, call upon His Name. Make known His deeds among the peoples. . . . Declare His glory among the heathen; His marvellous works among all nations. . . . Let the heavens be glad, and let the earth rejoice, and let men say among the heathen, "The Lord reigneth."' For, as the ark of the covenant of the Lord was a witness for the truth both to Jews and Gentiles, so, we rejoice to think, it is given to you in your body, which is the temple of the Holy Ghost, to witness for the one true God—the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit—among the devotees of the false Arabian prophet in Persia.

"In calling you away from our midst, the Master is taking from us one who by patient work and wise counsel has been foremost in establishing and strengthening our young Missionary Association. We thank God for the past; we thank Him for what we witness to-day; for the answer He has given to the special petition at our first missionary prayer-meeting held in this room less than nine months ago, that He would be pleased to send help to Persia, not merely by the hands of our younger brothers and sisters, but even from among experienced clergymen and doctors—men able in the strength of the Lord to lead an advance guard into the country of the enemy, and to hold the fortress of truth against the legions of error and darkness. We thank Him humbly for this privilege which He has granted to the young daughter of the beloved Parent Society. We thank Him for the salutary effect that your self-denying love is having, and is destined to have, upon the Church in Victoria; for the many tokens already brought under our notice that others, fired with a like holy zeal for the evangelization of the nations of the world, are practising real self-denial to enable you to be sent forth, since they cannot go themselves.

"You have now reached that time of life when mature judgment, in union with fervent piety, produces decisions for God in a calm confidence which leaves us in no doubt that you will ever swerve from your fixed purpose in thus obeying your Master's last command. Again, your years of faithful service in the sacred ministry of the Church, your experience in the many avenues of Christian work, your hopes, your successes, your disappointments, your discipline through trial, when you learned the deeper meaning of those inspired words, 'The Father of mercies and the God of all comfort,' render unnecessary either a term of probation or warning words upon the need for the maintenance of communion with God in prayer and the written Word. Your faith and love are rooted and grounded in 'Christ, the power of God and the wisdom of God,' and you have proved how true are His words when He said, 'Abide in Me and I in you . . . for apart from Me ye can do nothing.' 'For thus saith the High and Lofty One that inhabiteth eternity, whose name is Holy: I dwell in the high and holy place, with Him also that is of a contrite and humble spirit, to revive the spirit of the humble, and to revive the heart of the contrite ones.'

"'Go,' said He, in His later revelation, 'and, lo, I am with you all the days, even unto the end of the age.' In this confidence the Committee, in the name of the Lord Jesus, bid you go."

Another recruit from Victoria is Mr. R. Maynard, a young man who had been working under Mr. Blackett at Melbourne, and who sailed in March for Aden, to catch the steamer there for Mombasa, the Committee having appointed him to East Africa. A lady from Tasmania, Miss Minna Searle, has also been accepted, and has been appointed to China. Two other ladies are in training.

Gleaners' Union.

The Gleaners' Union appears to be more effective as a missionary agency in Victoria even than in New South Wales. In the past year, the branches have increased from 35 to 57, and the enrolments from 1,196 to 1,825. A printed Report has been issued, with detailed reports from 34 of the branches. The skill and industry of Miss K. Macartney are very manifest. The Union has been greatly helped by the energy of the Rev. E. J. Barnett, Headmaster of Caulfield Grammar School and Hon. Secretary of the Victoria Association, in taking long journeys on the slow Colonial railways to visit distant towns for local meetings. The Anniversary of the Union was celebrated on the same day as in England, November 1, in Mr. Blackett's spacious schoolroom at Prahran. There were three meetings: one for prayer, at which the Rev. H. B. Macartney gave an address; a conference, with four papers, two of them by the Rev. W. Carey Ward (an Oxford man, lately appointed by Bishop Goe to an important Melbourne church), and the Rev. W. T. C. Storrs (son and brother of C.M.S. missionaries), who is succeeding Mr. Blackett at Prahran; and a large public meeting.

Melbourne has followed the example of Sydney in having a monthly Missionary Prayer-meeting at the Cathedral Buildings, which is much valued; and also a Missionary Depôt.

The Annual Meeting of the Association was held on April 4 in the Chapter House, Archdeacon Langley presiding. The financial statement showed receipts for the year £487, of which £300 came from missionary boxes. The year closed with a small balance. The Annual Report is an exceedingly interesting and stirring document. It states that forty-two offers of service had been dealt with by the Committee, of whom thirteen had been accepted, and of these five had sailed, two were ready to sail, and five were under preparation. Annual Meeting at Melbourne

Tasmania is linked with Victoria in its Association. One of the Victoria Missionaries already in the field, Mr. H. C. Tugwell, went from Hobart; and now there is another, Miss Searle, as above mentioned. A valedictory meeting for her was held at Newtown, near Hobart, on September 11, and was of a very interesting character. The second Gleaners' Union Anniversary for Tasmania was held on November 13, when Bishop Montgomery presided. The Rev. W. T. C. Storrs had gone over as a deputation from the Victoria Association. The Union is doing good work in Tasmania. Miss K. Dobson, daughter of one of the leading gentlemen in the Colony, is Secretary. Tasmania.

III.—NEW ZEALAND.

Considerable difficulty was experienced by the New Zealand Association at first, owing to its obtaining only the approval of two of the Bishops, Bishop Mules of Nelson (under whose auspices it was started), and Bishop Stuart of Waiapu (now in Persia). Of course the warm co-operation of the new Bishop of Waiapu (W. L. Williams) was secure; but for the final decision of the others all parties awaited the Triennial Meeting of the Provincial Synod in January 1895. This important assembly, which meets at different centres from time to time, had been fixed to be held on this occasion at Nelson: and hence it came to pass that all the Bishops and clergy and lay delegates were actually at the head-quarters of the Association, and could inquire concerning it at first hand. All the seven Bishops were present, including the two new ones who had lately gone out from England, viz., Bishop Cyril Wilson of Melanesia, formerly curate to Canon Jacob at Portsea, and himself a Gleaner in this country, and Bishop Wallis of Wellington. The result was that six out of the seven Bishops (all except the Bishop of Dunedin) joined the New Zealand C.M. Association. Patronage of the Bishops.

The New Zealand Association has two ladies in Japan, and in the past year it also sent out Miss A. L. Wilson, who, being appointed to the Niger, came to England in October last en route thither, and proceeded to West Africa in November. Another lady accepted by the Association is being prepared at Sydney.

The Gleaners' Union in New Zealand also is an effective agency for spreading missionary interest and information. Chiefly through its instrumentality, the Association has had in the past year an income of £809; which added to £1,004, raised in New South Wales, and £487, in Victoria and Tasmania, makes a total income received by the three Associations of just £2,400.

IV.—CANADA.

Formation of Canada Association.

On June 21, 1894, at a meeting held in Toronto, and attended by many prominent clergymen and laymen, it was unanimously resolved to form an Association with a constitution, formed on the model of that adopted by the Australian Associations. The following brief statement has been received:—

The object of the Association from the first has been the unifying of Evangelical Church missionary work in the Dominion of Canada, the rallying point being the revered C.M.S.—Missionary work among the Heathen had already been undertaken by Canadian Churchmen in sympathy with Evangelical principles, notably the Japan Mission begun seven years ago by the alumni and friends of Wycliffe College, Toronto; also in the Diocese of Moosonee, supported by the alumni of the Montreal Diocesan College.

In carrying out this object of unification, members of the Executive Committee and of the Examining Board were appointed to represent different parts of the Dominion, as the following list will show. Representing the centre, Toronto—N. W. Hoyles, Esq., Q.C., Chairman; Rev. Rural Dean Jones, M.A., Rev. Principal Sheraton, D.D., Rev. H. G. Baldwin, M.A., Rev. T. R. O'Meara, Rev. T. C. Des Barres, M.A., Rev. B. Bryan, S. Caldecott, Esq., and the Sec.-Treas. Rev. F. H. Du Vernet, B.D.; representing Western Ontario—Ven. Archdeacon Evans-Davis, M.A., Rev. Principal Miller, M.A.; representing Quebec Province—Rev. Principal Henderson, D.D., Rev. G. O. Troop, M.A.; representing the Maritime Provinces—Rev. J. de Soyres, M.A., Rev. W. Hamlyn, M.A., and Rev. Dyson Hague, M.A.

The Examining Board is governed by the rules of the Parent Society. Twenty applicants for the foreign field have been received. Of these three or four have been accepted as "candidates in training," and three have been accepted for immediate service, under peculiar circumstances, viz., an urgent appeal from three Missionary Bishops, all more or less connected with the C.M.S., not for money but for men. Acting for these Bishops, the C.C.M.A. has, after careful examination as to physical, intellectual, and spiritual fitness, accepted, equipped, and sent forth Mr. Chas. Whittaker and Dr. Reazin, the former to labour among the Eskimo of the Diocese of Selkirk, the latter as a medical missionary under Bishop Reeve among the Indians. The third candidate accepted for service, Mr. Ed. Hockley, a recent graduate of Wycliffe College, will leave in a few days for the Blood Reserve of Blackfeet Indians to assist Rev. F. Swainson, C.M.S. missionary there. This is in response to an appeal of the Bishop of Calgary, writing on behalf of the local C.M.S. committee.

By a resolution unanimously passed at the last annual meeting of the friends of Wycliffe Missions it was decided to bring these Missions under the C.C.M.A. as soon as possible.

The official Mission Board of the Church of England in Canada has agreed to receive from the C.C.M.A. vouchers of money spent on missionary work, and include this in the official Report of the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society of the Church in Canada.

THE WORLD.

In an article written for a revised edition of the Church Missionary Atlas in 1893, Professor Keane gives a useful table of the world's population according to religions. Professor Keane is careful to explain, however, that many of the figures can only be regarded as approximately correct. For nearly the whole of Europe, America, and Australasia, as well as for Japan, British India, French Indo-China, Asiatic Russia, Egypt, French North Africa, British South Africa, the Dutch South African Republic, and Liberia, returns are available which may be accepted as fairly accurate. But in Mohammedan and most of Buddhist Asia (Asiatic Turkey, Persia, the Chinese Empire, and Siam), and in most of Africa, all is still mainly guess work, so that the calculations vary enormously in some of the largest and most densely peopled portions of the Eastern Hemisphere. Nevertheless, as Professor Keane has taken the mean of the extremes in the current estimates, the following total arrived at for the world's population in 1893—about 1,500,000,000—may be accepted as the nearest approximation possible in the present state of knowledge :—

Statistics of Protestant Missions.

For tables exhibiting in their world-wide extent the labours and results of Protestant missions, the Church is indebted mainly to the industry of American and German Christians. The difficulty of obtaining complete returns is considerable, and errors are well-nigh inevitable in any effort to bring into a common table some items of information under heads regarding which definitions differ. Nevertheless, where it is evident that pains have been taken to accomplish the task, the general results may be accepted, and cannot fail to be of interest. The C.M. Intelligencer republished in October, 1894, statistical tables which had appeared in the Missionary Review of the World. These tables gave the home income (in dollars), the number of missionaries and of ordained natives, the number of communicants and of adherents, in connexion with nineteen British, ten German, and thirty-three American societies separately, and summarized, in addition, the returns under the same heads of twenty-five other British, eight German, twelve Netherland, fifteen Scandinavian, and twelve American societies in 1893, and also the increase to the number of communicants made during the year 1892–3. The following table shows the totals arrived at for Europe (including a few small societies in Asia, &c.), for the United States and Canada, and for Protestant Christendom :—

British Contributions to Foreign Missions.

The annual analysis made by Canon Scott-Robertson of British contributions to Foreign Missions showed a total during 1893 of £1,288,257. Of this amount, Church of England societies contributed £518,663; joint societies of Churchmen and Nonconformists, £211,510; English and Welsh Nonconformists, £345,918; Scotch and Irish Presbyterians, £203,999; and Roman Catholic Missions, £8,167.

AFRICA.

In order to grasp in any degree the Missionary problems, and still more the Missionary opportunities of Africa, it is requisite that the records of diplomacy expressed in international treaties be studied, that the developments of commerce be watched, and that the footsteps of explorers be traced. The most convenient method of bringing under review the salient events of the year 1894 will be to glance first at the efforts of explorers to open new routes to the interior from the Mediterranean seaboard, and then to fix attention on the three chief African rivers—the Niger, the Congo, and the Nile.

Explorations into the Soudan and Sahara.

From Algeria attempts have been made by the French to open a route to the Central Soudan. M. Foureau with one expedition, and M. d'Attanoux with another, endeavoured, unsuccessfully however, to penetrate through the territory of the Asjer Tuarej and Aïr; and another French traveller, M. Fabert, tried, also unsuccessfully, to reach the kingdom of Adrar, in the Western Sahara, but, undeterred by his failure, M. Gaston Donnet has followed in his footsteps. The English traveller, Mr. Walter B. Harris, accomplished the difficult task of reaching the oasis of Tafilet.

The Niger.

In the neighbourhood of the Niger, international rivalry is expediting the filling up of blanks which still exist in the map. The Germans sent an expedition under Baron von Uechtritz from the Cameroons to the Benue, and down the Niger; and the brothers Conran made an important survey of the Northern Cameroons. The French made good their occupation of Timbuctoo; and an expedition under Captain de Cœur reached Borgu, to the north of Dahomey, with the aim of making treaties in behalf of France, ignoring the fact that the Royal Niger Company had had treaties with that country for some two or three years. On the other hand, Captain Lugard, who represented the Imperial British East Africa Company in Uganda during the critical year 1891 and part of 1892, was despatched to Borgu by the Royal Niger Company with an expedition, and at Niki, the capital, just five days before Captain de Cœur's arrival, a new treaty was signed by him in behalf of the Royal Niger Company.

Royal Niger Company.

This company, which was formed in 1879 by the amalgamation of various British interests in the Niger region, has by its enterprise secured to undivided British influence a territory comprising about half a million of square miles, and has extended its influence by treaty over the Native Empires, not only of Borgu, already mentioned, but also of Gando and Sokoto and on to Lake Tchad. An extensive line of survey has been carried out along the Niger and the Benue, and thence on to Sokoto. The Company's most honourable distinction, however, is that it has made itself the centre of resistance to the spirit-trade on the West Coast. One of the first acts of its Directors, immediately after receiving their charter in 1886, was to impose a heavy duty on spirits crossing the river. In April, 1887, it took the further step of totally prohibiting the introduction of spirits into about one-third of the inland portion of its sphere, and in July, 1890, the prohibition was extended to "any place within the jurisdiction of the Company north of the seventh parallel of north latitude." What renders absolute prohibition on the coast impracticable is the difficulty of securing uniformity of action among the several Powers concerned. In each of the two British Colonies, Lagos and the Niger Coast Protectorate, 2,000,000 gallons of spirits are introduced every year for Native consumption. The heavy duties imposed by the Company for the purpose of limiting the traffic give rise to a considerable smuggling trade, and it was probably, at least in part, a consequence of the friction thereby produced that an attack was made on the Company's stores at Akassa by the inhabitants of Brass in January, 1895. It must be hoped that efforts to bring about concerted action between the British, French, and German Colonial Governments will ere long succeed in effecting the total prohibition of the import of low-priced trade spirits upon the coast from Cape Colony to Morocco. As the Times has pointed out, the difficulty of guarding such a line is greatly reduced by the nature of the coast and of the trade. Spirits can only be shipped in large vessels, and these, owing to the force with which the surf breaks upon the West African coast, can only touch for unloading at points that are well known.

Boundaries of Sierra Leone.

From the outlets of the Niger to its source at Tembe Kundia, following its course backward, is a journey of some 2,000 miles, and the traveller would then be not more than 200 miles inland from Sierra Leone. In this region the year under review has seen a settlement of questions long in dispute between England and France. It appeared a natural and legitimate aspiration, seeing that both the source and the mouths of the principal waterway of West Africa were already under British influence, to extend the area of occupation in a lateral direction from the territory of the Niger Company in the interior, and from the coast of Sierra Leone, until the frontier of the Chartered Company's territory and the Colony should have met in a continuous sphere of British influence reaching from Lake Tchad to Freetown. But, on the other hand, it was an equally natural aspiration on the part of France to maintain an uninterrupted land connexion between its settlements on the Gulf of Guinea and French Soudan. After five years spent in discussion, the result has been that a treaty, fixing the eastern boundary of the Colony of Sierra Leone and ceding to France the entire watershed of that portion of the Niger, was signed by France and England in January, 1895.

The knowledge possessed of the Congo has been rendered almost complete by Mr. Mohun, the United States Consul, who has carefully explored the stretch lying between Kasongo and the junction of the river Lukuga. His labours have deprived the map of a lake which Livingstone named Urenge and Cameron Lanji. In this district the success of Captain Dhanis against the Arab slave traders has opened up new regions between the Upper Congo and Lake Tanganyika. Mr. Mohun has also mapped Lake Leopold II., the Lukenye, and other tributaries of the Congo. Further north, M. le Marinel has mapped in detail the rapids of Mbanga. And still further north M. de la Kethulle has explored the country between the Mbomu tributary of the Mbanga and Darfur. The fresh delimitations between the French territories and those of the Congo Free State on the one side and the German possessions on the other have excited uneasiness in many minds with regard to the interests of Great Britain in the Upper Nile, which they have left unprotected from the far-reaching ambition of French enterprise. Rumours of a French expedition directed towards the Nile Valley gave rise to an important debate in the House of Commons on March 28, 1895, and evoked from Sir E. Grey, the Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, an explicit statement that such an expedition, if sent, would be viewed as an unfriendly act by England.

Congo.

The Nile Valley.

As on the Niger, so also on the Nile, the influence of England is paramount at both the source and the outlet, in Egypt and also in Uganda, and a jealousy to guard interests of the first importance seems likely to operate eventually in accelerating the construction of a railway from the coast to the Victoria Lake. A difficulty which it was understood obstructed progress in this direction has been removed by the settlement arrived at between the Government and the Imperial British East Africa Company in March, 1895, by which the latter surrendered to the Government its charter and public properties in East Africa. Whether the supersession of the I.B.E.A. Company will prove for the good of Africa, time will show. The Government will certainly deserve congratulation in their choice of officials if they are to prove superior to some at least whom the Company has employed. For the most part the Church Missionary Society has nothing but gratitude to express for them. Still, it was undoubtedly desirable that suspense should cease and something be settled, and now the strongly expressed opinion of Colonel Colvile, the first Governor of Uganda, on reaching home in the spring of 1895, that a railway is indispensable, should have weight to bring the question to a speedy issue.

SIERRA LEONE MISSION.

Africa was the first field entered by the Society. Its first two Missionaries were sent in 1804 to the Susu tribes on the Rio Pongas. In 1816 the Society's efforts were concentrated upon the colony of Sierra Leone, which had, since the abolition of the slave-trade in 1807, become the depôt for Negroes rescued from slave ships by the British cruisers. Much blessing attended the labours of W. A. B. Johnson and other Missionaries, and in 1822 nearly 2,000 of the freed slaves, adults and children, were in the Mission Schools, several thousands were attending public worship, and some hundreds had become sincere Christians. The work continued to prosper, but at a great cost of life; fifty-three Missionaries and Missionaries' wives dying between 1804 and 1824. In 1851 the Bishopric of Sierra Leone was founded, and the first three Bishops—Vidal, Weeks, and Bowen (the two latter C.M.S. Missionaries)—died within three years of their consecration. In 1842 a Parliamentary Committee attributed the "considerable intellectual, moral, and religious improvement" of the people to "the valuable exertions of the Church Missionary Society more especially." Port Lokkoh was occupied in 1876.

In 1862 the Native Church was organized on an independent basis, and undertook the support of its own pastors, churches, and schools, aided by a small grant from the Society. It now also carries on the outlying Missions established by the Society in the Bullom, Quiah, and Sherbro countries. About eighty African clergymen have been ordained on the West Coast (including Yoruba and the Niger). Several of them are Government chaplains.

Area and population of the Colony.

THE Statesman's Year Book of 1893 gave the area of the Colony of Sierra Leone as 1,500 square miles, extending from the Scarcies River in the north to the border of Liberia in the south, a distance of 180 miles. The area of Sierra Leone proper, however, is only 400 square miles, while its population, according to the census of 1891, was 74,835, of whom 224 were whites. According to religion, the number is given as 40,790 Protestants, 571 Roman Catholics, 7,396 Mohammedans, and the rest Pagans. It is a startling fact, as Bishop Ingham, in Sierra Leone after a Hundred Years, points out, that the Mohammedans and Pagans number not far short of one-half the entire population. As the Bishop explains, this does not indicate any falling away from the Christian churches, but is owing to the influx of country people to the Colony; nevertheless, he regards the fact as a source of very real danger; in view of the unaggressive character of too many of the Christian congregations.

Another fact is sadly mentioned by the Bishop, namely, that only a limited number of the Englishmen who frequent Sierra Leone and other West Coast colonies "appear to wish to be known as our fellow-Christians." Under these circumstances, the Committee's thankfulness was great to learn that Colonel Cardew, who went out as Acting-Governor in March, 1894, was appointed Governor a few months later. Consistently with his attitude towards the temperance movement since his first arrival, when he took an early opportunity to declare himself a teetotaler of many years' standing, the occasion of his "swearing-in" as Governor and Commander-in-Chief on December 3 was not attended with the usual health-drinking.

Appointment of Governor Cardew.

A mark of the new Governor's interest in Mission work was given a few days after his arrival at Freetown by his inviting Mr. T. E. Alvarez to accompany him as his guest on a visit to Falaba, a town some 230 miles in the interior, and near the frontier of British territory. This town is important as the rendezvous of the great caravans from Timbuctoo and other trade centres. Its population has been much reduced by the slave traffic; indeed, Mr. Alvarez states that since 1887 some 30,000 or 40,000 people have been enslaved or killed in the immediate neighbourhood through the slave raids and wars of the Sofas and others. The Committee are sensible of the call which the opportunity, long desired, for extension towards the interior presents, and will rejoice if this opened door encourages the Sierra Leone Church to exercise in this direction the missionary spirit of its members. They have, on their part, expressed themselves ready to station two European laymen at Falaba, if men are led to offer for that particular work. Falaba.

The Committee sent out in December, 1894, Miss Alice Edwards and Miss Sarah Jane Hickmott, of the Highbury Training Home, to Port Lokkoh. Miss Florence Elizabeth Aldridge Thornewell, who went out for work at Port Lokkoh at the close of 1893, died on June 19, 1894. She had proceeded from Freetown to Port Lokkoh in March. Early in June she had a severe attack of fever, and Sister Eleanor, one of the European nurses of the Princess Christian Cottage Hospital, went to Port Lokkoh to nurse her. An effort was made to convey Miss Thornewell to Freetown in order to place her in the hospital, and she, delighted at the proposal, rallied surprisingly under the influence of hope, but her strength, alas! rapidly subsided, and she died in the Mission-boat a few hours after starting on the journey. Reinforcements. Death of Miss F. E. A Thornewell.

The year proved a trying one to the health of several of the labourers. Miss Leila McBean, who was sent out in September, 1894, to take part in the work at the Annie Walsh Institution, suffered from a severe attack of typhoid fever soon after arriving at Freetown, and was obliged to return home as soon as she became convalescent. The Rev. T. J. Dennis and Miss A. J. Long were sent to the Canaries in the autumn, and the Rev. W. J. Humphrey had a sharp attack of malarial fever in November, shortly after his return from a brief visit to this country. Mr. Humphrey was married while in England to Miss E. Dunkley, the Lady Principal of the Annie Walsh Institution. Canon Taylor Smith returned to the Mission in November. Mr. Dennis, who went out in 1893 assigned to the Niger Mission, but by the Committee's request remained for a time at Sierra Leone to act as Vice-Principal of Fourah Bay College, proceeded to the Niger in November, 1894. Miss Mary Williams has been transferred to the Palestine Mission.

Ordinations.

The Bishop of Sierra Leone admitted Messrs. D. J. Coker, B.A., E. T. Cole, B.A., and J. N. Grant to Deacon's Orders on Whit Sunday, May 13, 1894; and Mr. Allen A. Elba, B.A., also to Deacon's Order on January 20, 1895. Mr. Coker was senior tutor at Fourah Bay College; he and Mr. Grant were selected and received their title from the Patronage Board of the Sierra Leone Church.

Pastorates.

The 32nd Anniversary of the Sierra Leone Native Pastorate Auxiliary was held at Freetown in May, 1894, the sermon being preached by the Rev. N. J. Cole from St. James i. 4, and the meeting, held in the Wilberforce Memorial Hall, being presided over by Sir William H. Quayle-Jones, the Deputy-Administrator of the Colony. About £2,000 was received during the year ending March 31, 1894. After defraying the year's calls, the sum of £800 was left for investment in England, and £516 remained in the Treasurer's hands, as compared with £977 which was brought forward from the previous year. The receipts include a contribution which deserves mention. Several years ago the Government discontinued the Gambia Chaplaincy, upon the retirement of the Rev. G. C. Nicol, and a pastorate was then formed. This pastorate now possesses an excellent house for its pastor, and it not only raises enough to supply its own financial needs, but it contributed £17 9*s.* 6*d.* to the funds of the Sierra Leone Pastorate Auxiliary in 1893-4. The Rev. S. Hughes has been transferred from Sherbro to Bathurst on the Gambia, and the Rev. M. Wilson, with the Rev. J. N. Grant as his Curate, has succeeded to the charge of Sherbro. The Rev. J. T. Asgill has been appointed to Wellington; the Rev. J. D. Garrick, who has retired from the Niger Mission, to Kent; and the Rev. S. J. Smart, who also formerly laboured in the Niger, has become Curate of Trinity Chapel, Freetown. The Anniversary of the Native Church Missions was also celebrated in May, 1894, Canon Spain being the preacher, and the Bishop of Sierra Leone the chairman at the meeting. A new missionary effort was commenced in the summer of 1894 by the congregation of St. Matthew's, Sherbro, with the object of sending the Gospel to the tribes residing near the Sherbro River, the sum of £100 being contributed by a mercantile firm at Sherbro towards the project. On June 24 a farewell service was held to dismiss two labourers, one of whom was assigned to labour at Korankor, on the Kittim River, and the other at a place on the Great Boom River.

Fourah Bay College.

Fourah Bay College had only ten resident students when Mr. T. E. Alvarez, the Vice-Principal, wrote his Annual Letter in March, 1895. The parish of St. Clement's, Cline Town, is attached to the College, and the students, under the leadership of Mr. Alvarez and the Rev. E. T. Cole, preach in the open air to the Mohammedans and the Temnes, and visit the homes of the people.

Grammar School.

The Grammar School, as the Rev. O. Moore reminds the Committee, celebrates its jubilee in 1895. The number of pupils is 149, namely 69 boarders and 80 day scholars. Four obtained certificates in the Durham Proficiency Examination, two being awarded a first-class in religious knowledge. Mr. Moore mentions that an African lady, whose son was in the school, being disappointed at his choosing a secular employment and not offering his services for religious work, promised to the school £10 annually for four years for training another youth to be chosen by the Principal. The Governor presided at the prize distribution in December, and the prizes were given by Mrs. Cardew.

Annie Walsh School.

The feeble health of Miss Long and the return home of Miss McBean threw a heavy weight of responsibility on Miss H. Bisset, who succeeded Miss Dunkley, on the latter's marriage to the Rev. W. J. Humphrey, in the Principalship of the Annie Walsh School. The boarders number sixty, as many as the school accommodates, and they represent not only homes within the Colony, but many other places along the coast—e.g., the Niger Delta, Fernando Po, Lagos, Gold Coast, Liberia, Sherbro, and Gambia. All the girls, boarders and day scholars, are members of the Children's Scripture Union. They contributed £17 15*s.* to the funds of the Sierra Leone Church Missions, and, in addition, had a monthly collection for the Princess Christian Cottage Hospital. Miss Long finds the girls "similar in many ways to English girls," but, she thinks, "a little more loving." Miss Bisset says:—

> A large proportion of the pupils are on the Lord's side, and we rejoice to know it, but there is always the outside element to contend with, in the form of new pupils, &c., which calls for constant watchfulness, prayer, and pains on our part to check the evil that will so persistently crop up in our midst. Sometimes we are tempted to grow weary when we find we have the same old battle to fight over again, the same old familiar sin coming to the front, demanding fresh energy—what was crushed or uprooted in one appearing in another—then we feel the need of the injunction, "Be not weary in well-doing."

PORT LOKKOH.

Port Lokkoh.

Bishop Ingham confirmed Pa Chinsman, a Temne chief of Makori (who died a few months afterwards), and several other candidates during a visit in March, 1894. The Rev. J. A. Alley has completed the translation of the historical books of the Old Testament in the Temne language, with the exception of the Books of Chronicles. On July 1 Mr. Alley baptized the first four converts at Makomp, all young men who could read the Word of God.

YORUBA MISSION.

From this country, which is 1,000 miles east of Sierra Leone, a large proportion of the freed slaves gathered at the latter place had been carried away. About 1840 many of them, having now become Christians and traders on their own account, returned to their fatherland. The result was the establishment of Missions at Badagry (1845) and Lagos (1852) on the coast, and at Abeokuta (1846), Ibadan (1852), Ode Ondo (1876), and other towns and villages in the interior.

Movements of Bishops Tugwell,

Bishop Tugwell arrived at Lagos at the end of May, 1894, and was welcomed with unmistakable signs of affection. "The memories of January," he wrote—referring to the numerous sad deaths of missionaries in that month, viz., Bishop and Mrs. Hill, the Revs. J. Vernall, E. W. Mathias, and A. E. Sealey, and Miss F. L. Mansbridge—"the memories of January still linger in the hearts and minds of all, subduing and softening, and, I think, deepening the affections." The Bishop remained only a few weeks of the year in the Yoruba Mission; he made a short visit to Abeokuta at the beginning of July, and left Lagos for the Niger on the 13th of the same month. In December he travelled from Lokoja, on the Niger, through the Ekiti country to Ibadan—a feat which the Rev. J. B. Wood refers to as "indeed noteworthy"—and Abeokuta, and thence again to Lagos, which he reached on January 11, 1895. The same month he again visited Abeokuta, and in February he went to the Niger Delta, returning for a conference with Bishop Ingham and others in March. Bishop Phillips left Lagos for Ode Ondo, his old station, Phillips, in January, 1894, and remained at the latter place until April 10, when he visited Ilesa, and subsequently itinerated in the Ekiti country. He returned to Lagos in June, and accompanied Bishop Tugwell to the Niger. In December he returned to Ode Ondo by land from Lokoja. Bishop Oluwole, after making the and confirmation tour to Abeokuta, Ibadan, Oyo, Ogbomoso, and Oluwole. Isehin, referred to in last year's Report, returned to Lagos in April, and remained there until the close of the year, when he again visited Ibadan, Oyo, Isehin, and Ogbomoso.

Ordinations.

Bishop Oluwole admitted Messrs. Edwin George and E. M. Lijadu, Native catechists, to Deacon's Orders, at St. John's Church, Aroloya, Lagos, on June 24, 1894; Robert Scott Oyebode and James Okuseinde also to Deacon's Orders at Ibadan, on January 6, 1895; and the Rev. J. A. Lahanmi to Priest's Orders at Abeokuta, on January 27. The services on these occasions were conducted in the Yoruba language, and devotional meetings for the candidates were arranged previous to the ordinations.

Reinforcement.

Miss Caroline White, of the Highbury Training Home, joined the Mission in October. The Rev. J. B. and Mrs. Wood returned in December, 1894; and Miss M. Goodall,* in March, 1895. On the other hand, the Rev. W. E. Godson, who accompanied Bishop

Tugwell to the Mission in April, 1894, after suffering severely from fever at Lagos, and causing much anxiety lest his life should be taken, was sent home in July, and arrived at Liverpool in a most dangerous state of health; the Rev. S. S. and Mrs. Farrow were obliged by fever to come home in July; the Rev. F. G. Toase and Mr. T. Jays came home on furlough in December; the Rev. T. Harding, who was married to Miss A. L. Wright on November 2, came home with Mrs. Harding on furlough in March, 1895; and the Rev. F. M. Jones and Miss F. Higgins also came home on furlough at the same time.

Death of Rev. Isaac Smith.

The death of the Rev. Isaac Smith, on September 29, removed the last of the veteran pioneers of this Mission. After receiving his training at Islington College, he sailed for West Africa in 1837. He laboured in Sierra Leone until 1847, when he was transferred to Yoruba. In 1855 he retired, and held first the curacy of Patrixborne, and then, from 1861 to 1871, the incumbency of Crosby-Garrett, in Westmoreland, when he retired from active ministerial work. For some time before his death he resided at Clevedon, in Somersetshire.

The Rev. F. G. Toase was acting secretary of the Mission until his return home. The Rev. J. B. Wood, upon his arrival, took up the duties of the secretariat. While at home, the Rev. J. B. Wood saw through the press an illustrated tract on the Jewish Tabernacle.

LAGOS.

Lagos.

The Rev. F. Melville Jones, in deference to the wishes of the Committee, left the work on the Niger, in which he was very happily engaged, to supply temporarily the gap at Lagos made by the Rev. J. Vernall's death in January, 1894. There devolved upon him the onerous charges of superintending the Training Institution, with 17 students, the Grammar School, and the Printing Press. The pastorship of Christ Church congregation, Faji, was also for a while under his care after Mr. Toase left for furlough. Mr. F. Terry, who went out from England for this purpose, manages the Book Shop, which is an important missionary institution, as it determines to a large extent the quality of the literature introduced into the whole Yoruba country.

Girls' Seminary.

Miss Higgins and Miss E. Ballson had the charge of the Girls' Seminary during the greater part of the year, but in November the former left to go to Ijebu Ode, and the latter was joined by Miss C. White. Of the fifteen boarders, six are on the Society's Foundation, and two are Emelia Venn scholars, who receive four years' education on the condition that they engage in work as teachers after passing through the school. There are, in addition, sixty day pupils, of ages varying from seven to twenty. All are taught in English. Twelve of the first-class girls, including five of those on the C.M.S. Foundation and two Emelia Venn scholars, were candidates at the close of the year at the Government Examination for Teachers' Certificates, and some of these girls, Miss Ballson says, give promise of becoming useful teachers. The first hour of each day is devoted to religious instruction.

Pastorates meet deficit in Church Fund.

The report of the Lagos Native Pastorate for 1893–4 showed a debit balance was in the financial accounts, and that it was decided to request the congregations connected with the Pastorate Association to endeavour each to raise a certain proportion of the sum needed to remove the deficit. The response to this appeal was very encouraging in some instances. St. Paul's, Breadfruit, had been asked for £40, and gave £67; Christ Church, Faji, for £30, and raised £47. The receipts of the Lagos Church Missionary Association during the year 1893–4 amounted to £486, nearly £100 in excess of the expenditure. Miss Higgins spent several weeks at Ijebu Ode, one of the stations of the Missionary Association, in November and December. She was the guest of the Rev. E. W. and Mrs. George (the latter has since died).

Bishop Oluwole baptized eight adults at Leke in November; he has been appointed temporarily superintendent of the Society's work in Lagos, including the charge of Christ Church, the Training Institution, and the Grammar School.

ABEOKUTA.

Abeokuta.

The Rev. T. Harding was in charge of this station, but the paucity of labourers at other stations and other causes necessitated somewhat frequent absences. In March he escorted Miss Grover and Miss Hudson to Ibadan, and visited Ogbomoso; in June he met Bishop Tugwell at Lagos for conference and finance meetings; in July he conducted Miss J. J. Thomas to Ibadan, and thence went on an itinerating tour, viâ Oyo, Isehin, and Ilesan, to Okaka, returning to Oyo, and thence starting on a further tour to Ogbomoso, Ejigbo and Iwo, reaching Abeokuta again in September; in October he went to Lagos to be married, as already mentioned, to Miss Wright. Mr. Harding had a class of several youths—all, except one, converts from Heathenism—whom he assisted in the study of the Thirty-nine Articles with Scripture proofs and of the Epistle to the Romans, and who, under the leadership of Mr. E. Fry, engaged in open-air preaching. Mr. Fry treated between 8,000 and 9,000 patients at the Dispensary, to all of whom the Gospel was proclaimed. As a rule the people were most attentive, but not a few were hardened and indifferent. One of the patients, an aged woman who died a few days afterwards, was baptized by the Rev. J. A. Lahanmi. She was a native of the Ilugun township, a mile and a half from Ake. Once she remarked that she hoped her face would get better (she suffered from cancer in the mouth) before she went to be with God, as she would not like to meet Him thus, and she was greatly comforted to learn that her body of corruption would put on incorruption, and that she would appear before Him in a body fashioned like unto her Saviour's glorious body. Miss P. Leach assisted in the dispensary work, and she says that many of the patients are "sad wrecks," having first proved in succession the inefficacy of Native remedies and of charms and idol worship. Twelve in-patients were also treated; among them a lad, belonging to the chief of Ake, learned during six weeks most of the Gospel stories and many texts. A leper camp, with about seventeen inmates, is within a short distance of Ake, and visits to these were greatly appreciated by the poor sufferers. Miss Tynan, Miss Leach, and Miss Jessie Palmer, who arrived at Abeokuta in May, engaged in Work among the Women, visiting them in their compounds, accompanied by an earnest Christian girl from the Lagos Seminary as interpreter. Miss Leach writes:—

Women's Work.

> We always find the Heathen most ready to welcome us and listen to our message; empty gin-boxes are brought out for us to sit upon, while the men, women, and children squat round us on the ground. Often quite close to us is a row of household idols; these afford us good illustrations, as we seek to point the worshippers to the One True God and tell of His love to them in Christ Jesus. Most attentively do the people listen, frequently asking questions, and sometimes begging us to come again.

Miss J. J. Thomas spent nearly two months out of the five she was at Abeokuta as a guest in the house of the Rev. and Mrs. D. Williams, the Native pastor of Ikija, one of the townships within the walls of Abeokuta.

Enthusiastic Native Pastorate Anniversary.

Mr. Williams, in the absence of Mr. Harding, presided at the Anniversary of the Native Pastorate Auxiliary, which was observed at Ake on September 3, 1894. All the speakers were Natives, and the meeting was well attended and very enthusiastic. The financial report showed that nearly every congregation had contributed more to the Church Fund than in the previous year, and the total receipts were £104 in excess of those of 1892–3, namely, £480. 17*s*. 11*d*. The contributions towards the Abeokuta Church Missions also slightly increased, and a new station (making seven in all) had been taken up. In addition, the people subscribed £80 towards the support of their schools, thus relieving the Society's funds. Bishop Oluwole spent a month at Abeokuta at the beginning of 1894, and visited the several pastorates. He confirmed altogether 286 candidates—namely, 82 at Ake, 43 at Igbore, 13 at Ikija, 21 at Ikereku, 39 at Iporo, 16 at Kemta, and 22 at Osiele. At Ilugun, in the Ikija district, the Bishop dedicated a new church. Some of the hymns sung on this occasion were original Native hymns sung to Native tunes, and were much enjoyed, especially, the Bishop says, by the Heathen, who find a difficulty in following the Yoruba translations of English hymns sung to English tunes. He adds that these Native hymns and tunes are getting into general use in the Mission for open-air services. The Week of Prayer is always a great week in the Abeokuta Church, and the Bishop remarks:— Week of Prayer.

The Christians generally make it a point to return from their different farms to celebrate the Christmas Festival at home, and remain for the Week of Prayer. As, during it, Church-people and Dissenters meet together in one place from day to day, the numerical force of the Christians shows as it does not do at any other time, and the effect on the large Heathen population is, I feel, very striking. I had the privilege of addressing the meeting every morning but one on some of the topics suggested for prayer. We considered: Sin as a cause of weakness and a check of growth in a Church; Christianity and Native chiefs; The duty of the Church with respect to the use of, and traffic in, rum and gin; Purity; The missionary obligations of the Church; and The training of the young. Also every afternoon at 4 o'clock during this week (except Saturday) I had special services in the Ake Church, which were very well attended by members of the different congregations. The subjects of my addresses were: What sin is as taught us in God's Word; Repentance; Christians as God's peculiar people; Walk with God; Stewardship. It was a season of great blessing to my soul, and, I trust, to the souls of many of those who assembled that week.

At Ishan, a farm village to the east of Abeokuta, an agent has been placed. The people built a small church, and on the day of its being opened the Rev. D. O. Williams baptized ten adults. One of these was a blind slave youth, who was brought to Christ by a Native farmer named Fadipe, regarding whom Bishop Oluwole has the following:— A blind slave convert.

On Sunday, February 4, I preached at Iporo in the morning and attended Igbore Church in the afternoon. The preacher that afternoon was one Jacob Fadipe, a member of the Ake Church. He is a very earnest Christian, doing a very good work as a voluntary evangelist on his farm. As a result of his efforts, a small chapel is being put up on that farm for the use of those who gather there for worship. His text was Matt. xxviii. 19, 20. I sat in amazement under the sermon of this heaven-taught man. Take the Yoruba Scriptures without notes or comments, the Yoruba Prayer-book, the Yoruba Hymn-book, some Yoruba translations of Sankey's hymns, and perhaps some simple Yoruba catechisms, and you have, I believe, a complete list of the volumes in his library. There was no doubt that he constantly fed on God's Word, and that the Spirit opened his understanding that he might understand the Scriptures. He certainly spoke as one mighty in the Scriptures and as one conscious of a special message. An earnest voluntary worker.

Regarding the Native Church generally in Abeokuta, Mr. Harding writes:—

We cannot see very evident signs of spiritual growth. In some of the congregations we are thankful to see unity, and a desire for better things, and real work done among the Heathen; but in others this unity does not exist. There is a desire on the part of some, whose lives are not true to their profession, to get position and authority in the Church, and who, thinking they know what should be done, are not particular by what means they attain their object. I am told by a pastor that the larger part of the Christians are for admitting polygamy, and that people have been heard to say that they intend to get rid of all the present agents, pastors, and catechists, and then employ those of their own choice, and, of course, way of thinking. This may not stand for much, but it shows there is division and an evil under-current of thought at work, causing us some anxiety and heart-ache.

Evil in the Church.

In May, Miss Thomas and Miss Higgins, who accompanied Miss Palmer to Abeokuta, visited Ilaro (walking the distance—over eighty miles), where a catechist is supported by the Lagos Girls' Seminary. A Mohammedan priest whom they met at the king's court appeared to them to be a sincere inquirer. He possessed two of the Gospels in Arabic, sent to him by the late Rev. J. Vernall, and he told the ladies that he felt the Christian religion must be the true one because it is so pure and holy. The children in the school repeated correctly, without missing a word, the 5th chapter of Judges and the 14th of St. John. Miss Higgins wrote: "We never saw such well-behaved children anywhere as these Ilaro boys; they are so polite, so gentle, and so obedient, and the love between them and their teacher is touching to see."

IBADAN, OYO, AND OGBOMOSO.

Ibadan.

The departure of the Rev. and Mrs. S. S. Farrow from IBADAN in June, on account of failure of health, left Misses S. C. Grover and A. J. Hudson (both less than a year in the Mission) alone, as regards European companions, in that city of 150,000 souls. Mr. Harding was somewhat perplexed how to meet the difficulty, and decided to invite Miss Thomas, of Abeokuta, to join them, which she did at the close of July. Language studies were pursued under disadvantages, but good progress was made notwithstanding, and the ladies bear testimony to a very happy year, "God's mercies filling every day." The Church Pastorate Auxiliary held its fourth anniversary on August 6, during a visit of Mr. Harding, who presided. The financial report was not encouraging, the contributions from the four pastorates only amounting to £36; but Mr. Harding says there was a more intelligent interest shown in the proceedings than on former occasions. Bishop Oluwole confirmed, in February 1894, 157 candidates—namely, 43 at Kudeti, 62 at Aremo, and 52 at Ogunpa.

Pastorates.

Bishop Oluwole also visited OYO, two days' journey northward, where the Rev. S. Johnson is the Native pastor, and confirmed thirty candidates. The Bishop confirmed fourteen candidates at Iseshin. Two days' travelling north-eastward from Oyo brought the Bishop to OGBOMOSO, a large town in which the little church bears a faithful witness to Christ. He confirmed eighteen. At the time of the Bishop's visit there was only a Native catechist at this station, but a few weeks later, in April, Mr. T. Jays and Mr. J. McKay took up their residence there. The former had an attack of blackwater fever in the summer, and came home on furlough at the end of the year.

Visit of Mr. Farrow to Ilorin.

In November, 1893, Mr. Farrow visited Ilorin, an important Mohammedan city one day's march north-east from Ogbomoso. The King accorded him a favourable reception, and availed himself of his medical knowledge. Though he refused permission to preach to the people, he allowed lantern pictures of the life and death of Christ to be exhibited in his palace to an audience of some 300, including the King himself. Mr. Farrow estimated the population at between 20,000 and 30,000, which is less than half the estimate in the Government Blue Book. Mr. Harding's visit in the autumn to Oyo, Isehin, Ilesan, and Okaka has been referred to.

ODE ONDO AND ILESA.

Ode Ondo.

Bishop Phillips arrived at ODE ONDO, after his visit to England, on January 26, 1894. On Good Friday he confirmed thirty-four candidates; a few members of the congregation had previously been confirmed while on visits to Lagos, but this was the first confirmation at Ode Ondo. In June the Bishop went to Lagos to accompany Bishop Tugwell, and this station was left in the charge of the Rev. E. M. Lijadu, one of the newly ordained deacons. Sir Gilbert Carter, the Governor of Lagos, visited the place in August, and Mr. Lijadu wrote that his visit resulted in the abolition of the practice of destroying twin children.

Ilesa.

The same good result of the Governor's visit occurred also at ILESA. The Rev. M. J. Luke mentions that the people of this place are anxious to obtain if possible a Christian king as successor to the king who died in November, 1894. Bishop Phillips confirmed twenty-four candidates here in May. Four adults, all able to read the Yoruba Scriptures, were baptized by Mr. Luke at Aiyesan. The Rev. F. G. Toase visited Ilesa in September, travelling from Lagos viâ Ibadan, Iwo, and Oshogbo, and returning by a more direct route to Ibadan. Numbers listened to the Gospel in every place through which he passed. At Modakeki, south-west of Ilesa, several appeared to be genuine inquirers. Bishop Phillips made a tour from Ilesa to the east into the Ekiti country, and, as already mentioned, he accompanied Bishop Tugwell through the same district—travelling in the opposite direction from Lokoja, on the Niger, to Ilesa—in December. A white man had never before been seen in many of the places visited, but a hearty reception was everywhere accorded.

NIGER MISSION.

In 1841 a Government naval expedition, accompanied by a C.M.S. Missionary, the Rev. J. F. Schön, and by Samuel Crowther, a liberated negro slave (who in 1864 was consecrated Bishop of the Niger), explored this great African river. In 1854 a second expedition penetrated up the stream 500 miles, and found the Natives everywhere ready to receive Christian teachers; and in 1857 Mr. Crowther, accompanied a third expedition undertaken for commercial purposes, and laid the foundation of the Niger Mission by establishing three stations. One of these was Onitsha. Other stations were subsequently occupied by African teachers, under the direction of the Bishop—viz., Lokoja, 1865; Bonny, 1866; Brass, 1868; Asaba, 1875; Gbebe, reoccupied, 1879; Okrika, 1884; Ido, reoccupied, 1887; Ogbonoma, 1888; and Obotshi, 1890. Bishop Crowther continued to labour zealously in the Mission till the end of 1891, when he died at Lagos.

The superstitions of the people, and demoralization caused by the increasing European liquor traffic and by the general low tone of Christianity on the West African Coast, have proved formidable obstacles to the spread of the Gospel; but more than 4,000 persons have been baptized, including several influential chiefs, and some of the converts have exhibited Christian fortitude in enduring persecution, and liberality in contributing to the building of Mission churches, &c. At Bonny the once famous idol temple, decorated with human skulls, has been destroyed. Nevertheless, a higher standard of Christian life is much needed.

In 1890 a party of Missionaries went out under the leadership of the Rev. J. A. Robinson and Mr. G. Wilmot Brooke, with the idea of residing at Lokoja, on the Upper Niger, and thence making an effort to reach the Mohammedans of the Soudan. The climate, however, shortly proved fatal to both the leaders, and drove the rest home.

Bishop Tugwell's movements.

Bishop Tugwell's movements in this Mission after his arrival at Onitsha on the last day of July were as follows: He paid a visit of a few days to Lokoja at the end of August; October was spent at the Delta stations, most of the time at Bonny; and at the end of November he proceeded north to Lokoja once more, in order to travel thence by land viâ Ibadan and Abeokuta to Lagos, as already mentioned under the "Yoruba Mission." The Rev. H. H. Dobinson, the Secretary of the Mission, accompanied the Bishop on the former of his two visits to Lokoja and when he went to the Delta.

Reinforcements.

The following reinforcements joined the Mission: Mr. Lewis Herbert William Nott, late lieutenant of the York and Lancaster Regiment, who spent two terms at Islington College; Messrs. Ernest Alfred Johnson Thomas and Edward Hare Hardman, also students of Islington College; and Miss Alice Lydia Wilson (sister of Mr. G. D. Wilson, probationary student in the Mission), sent out by the New Zealand C.M. Association. The first three sailed in August; Miss Wilson in November, together with Mr. H. Proctor and the Misses L. M. Maxwell, E. A. Warner, and R. E. Frisby, returning to the Mission. The Rev. T. J. Dennis, who left home in 1893 but had remained in Sierra Leone to render needed help at Fourah Bay College, reached Onitsha in December, 1894. Miss M. Taylor and Mr. G. D. Wilson came home in April, 1895.

Ordinations.

Mr. Julius Spencer, Native catechist at Asaba, was admitted to Deacon's Orders at Freetown, Sierra Leone, by the Bishop of Sierra Leone, on Whit Sunday, May 13, 1894; the Rev. T. J. Dennis at the same time was admitted to Priest's Orders; and the Rev. A. C. Strong was admitted to Priest's Orders at Lagos, by Bishop Oluwole, on March 17, 1895. The Rev. J. D. Garrick has retired from this Mission, and has entered upon pastoral work at Sierra Leone.

DELTA AND LOWER NIGER.

Bonny. VERY happy and satisfactory conferences took place at BONNY in October between Bishop Tugwell and the leaders of the Pastorate, Archdeacon Crowther and the Rev. J. Boyle. By the Bishop's special request the Rev. H. H. Dobinson accompanied him, and both received a cordial welcome and were much impressed on their part with the good order and organization and discipline manifest at Bonny. A confirmation service was held at St. Stephen's Church on Sunday, October 14. The following letter was received by the Bishop while at Bonny:—

> We, the clerical and lay agents of the Delta Pastorate, with our wives, beg respectfully to present to you this letter of welcome on your visit to the Delta Pastorate Churches. We trust that your visit will result in the strengthening and consolidating of our dear Redeemer's Kingdom in these parts of His Vineyard, and that it will tend to secure that peace in the churches which we all greatly desire to see restored. We would also express to you our sincere thanks for your words of counsel and advice in the several stations of the Pastorate visited by you. We pray that the spiritual work carried on may be so strengthened by the Holy Spirit, that good results will follow in the extension of the Redeemer's Name. We must not close without expressing the pleasure it has given us to see the Rev. H. H. Dobinson, who has accompanied you on this visit. May the Holy Spirit so unite us in the bond of peace and love, that men may take notice of us that we have been taught in the school of Jesus! We wish you health and strength for the performance of the arduous duties to which you are now called, and may the Lord be with you.

Brass. The Bishop and the Rev. H. H. Dobinson visited BRASS, and a "Quiet Day" was held at the end of October with the workers, including Mr. Allen of Nembe, and Mr. O. Thomas from Ogbonoma; Mr. Dobinson also visited Brass on two previous occasions, in February and July. The Rev. P. J. Williams went for furlough to Sierra Leone in June; he had only spent six months there since he left it twenty years before. He was succeeded by the Rev. A. C. Strong, who subsequently also went to Sierra Leone. Mr. H. Proctor took up his residence there in February, 1895. Nembe was attacked and burned by the Queen's troops on February 22, 1895, in retaliation for an attack by the Natives on the Royal Niger Company's station at Akassa, a few weeks before. The troubles at OGBONOMA referred to in last year's Report continued during the year under review. Mr. Obadiah Thomas, the Gbebe catechist, on the request of the Secretary of the Mission, went there in March, and did his best under most trying circumstances. No Natives were allowed by the chiefs to go near him on pain of the severest penalties, and, on his first going, efforts were made to "boycott" him, laws being passed that no one should take or sell to him any food or wood, but these laws were somewhat relaxed. Archdeacon Crowther, who visited the station at Mr. Dobinson's request in May, wrote:—

One can see plainly that one of the causes of persecution is the fear held by the chiefs that the Gospel power is spreading too rapidly among the people, for many were refusing to join in eating things offered to idols, and a few faces are missed in the dances around the sacrificial feasts; hence the old women, who are the instigators of the chiefs and upholders of jujuism, gave the alarm that soon all power would be lost over their people. Examples of the ungodly civilized element also contribute to the persecution. Chief Brigg's argument with me in our conversation was this: "We look plenty men who know Book work on Sundays; they do not go to church. They work on Sundays on board steamers; they sell there on Sundays, &c. Why should our slaves know better than they?" Comment on this head is unnecessary.

"The ungodly civilized element."

Mr. Thomas returned to Gbebe in November, and Archdeacon Crowther was requested to make temporary provision for the oversight of the station.

Onitsha.

I spoke at one or two places near, at one of which I had a very nice talk with some men. When I told them about Christ's life on earth, they said they "wished He would come back again." I said, one day He would come back again, but we did not know when. They were quite delighted at the thought, and said, what kola (the kola nut is given to visitors as a sign of friendliness) could they give him? I said they need not think about kola, seeing He was the One who had made them and all the world. He was too great and holy. No man could give Him kola; our part was to see we were ready for Him when He comes. And then I went on to speak about idols, and the worship of the one true God. They listened most attentively, and asked many questions. When I went away they said they would be on the watch for Christ's coming back again. It was very touching, those old Heathen and cannibals rejoicing at the thought of His return.

The hope of the Second Advent in an African village.

The Rev. J. Spencer returned to Asaba from furlough in June. He acknowledges much blessing received at Sierra Leone, especially through his intercourse with the Revs. W. J. Humphrey and T. J. Dennis at Fourah Bay College, where he was permitted to attend lectures in preparing for the Bishop's examination. Bishop Tugwell spent three days at Asaba in September, and in November confirmed 46 candidates. The attendance at the Sunday and week-day services and Bible-classes is encouraging. House-to-house visiting and open-air preaching are systematically carried on. The MS. has been received of an Ibo version of the Acts made by Mr. Spencer and revised by Mr. Dobinson.

SOUDAN AND UPPER NIGER.

THE Rev. C. H. Robinson, of the Hausa Association, brother of the late Rev. J. A. Robinson, with a small party, accompanied Bishop Tugwell up the river in August, and, after a short stay at the Lokoja Mission House, went forward up the Benue to Loko, and thence northward through Zaria to Kano. The Attempts to reach the Soudan.

Bishop was led to believe that the opportunity for entering the Soudan, for which the late Alfred Robinson and Wilmot Brooke waited, had come, and that he ought, if possible, to embrace it, which also Mr. C. H. Robinson urged him to do. Circumstances, however, prevented his carrying out the design.

Lokoja.

With the exception of a visit of four weeks in March from Mr. Dobinson, LOKOJA had only a Native teacher, Mr. Bako, in residence during 1894, until Bishop Phillips, at the request of Bishop Tugwell, went there in August. He was joined in October by the Rev. C. E. Watney, Mr. Nott, and Nurse Taylor, Mr. Watney being instructed to study Nupe and Mr. Nott Hausa. The former accompanied Bishops Tugwell and Phillips on their journey through the Ekiti country, returning to Lokoja viâ Lagos and up the Niger in February.

EASTERN EQUATORIAL AFRICA MISSION.

In 1844 Dr. Krapf, having lately been expelled from Abyssinia, established himself at Mombasa, and in the following year was joined by the Rev. John Rebmann, who opened the station at Kisulutini (Rabai) in 1846, and laboured on the coast twenty-nine years. Their remarkable journeys into the interior led to all the subsequent geographical and missionary enterprise in East Africa. It was chiefly through the Society's efforts that the Parliamentary Committee of 1871 was obtained, which led to Sir Bartle Frere's Mission to Zanzibar in the following year. In 1874 the Rev. W. S. Price, formerly in charge of the Asylum for rescued slaves at Nasik, Western India, was sent out; some 200 African Christians from the freed slaves entrusted to his care were collected as the nucleus of an industrial colony; land was purchased for a settlement, which was named Frere Town, in honour of Sir Bartle Frere; and some 500 rescued slaves were, in 1875, received from H.M. cruisers, and housed, fed, instructed, and led to work for their living. A Mission was started in the Taita country in 1883, and in 1885 a Mission was founded in the Chagga country, at the base of the snow-capped mountain Kilima-Njaro, but the latter Mission was removed in 1893 to Taveta, within the British sphere of influence as fixed by treaty with Germany in 1886.

The first impetus to the exploration of Africa from the East Coast was given by the Society's Missionaries, Krapf and Rebmann. In November, 1875, in consequence of information sent home by the traveller Stanley of the readiness of Mtesa, King of Uganda, to receive Christian teachers, and of two anonymous donations of £5,000 each being offered to send a missionary expedition to his dominions, the Society resolved, in dependence upon God, to organize a Mission in Uganda, and a well-equipped party proceeded accordingly to East Africa in the spring of 1876. The first leader, Lieut. G. Shergold Smith, R.N., and Mr. T. O'Neill, were killed; others have died, or been invalided home; but the Mission, in the face of tremendous difficulties, maintained its position in Uganda from July, 1877. A French Roman Catholic Mission arrived in Uganda in 1879. King Mtesa died in 1884, and Mwanga succeeded to the throne. The new king, in 1885, was led to regard the Missionaries with suspicion, and the Mission was in danger. The storm reached its climax in the arrest of many Native Christians, and several were tortured and burnt to death. In August, 1888, King Mwanga was driven from the throne. In October, through the hostility of the Mohammedan Arabs, the English and French Missionaries were expelled from the country. A period of revolution and bloodshed ensued. In October, 1889, exactly a year from the Missionaries' expulsion, Mwanga re-entered Uganda, regained his throne, and the Missionaries returned with him. King Mwanga accepted a British flag from the representatives of the Imperial British East Africa Company in 1889. The late Sir Gerald Portal, as Queen's Commissioner, reached Uganda in March, 1893, instructed to report on the best means of dealing with the country, and in April, 1894, the British Government declared Uganda a British Protectorate.

Intermediate stations between the East Coast and the southern shore of the Lake have been established in the Usagara hills—at Mpwapwa in 1876, at Mamboia in 1879, and at Nassa, the south end of the Lake, in 1888.

For these Missions a new bishopric was established in 1884, with the title "Eastern Equatorial Africa," and the late Rev. J. Hannington was consecrated the first Bishop on June 24, 1884. He was murdered on October 31, 1885, in Busoga, by the orders of King Mwanga. His successor, Dr. H. P. Parker, formerly a C.M.S. Missionary in North India, was consecrated on St. Luke's Day, October 18, 1886, but his episcopal career was also of brief duration; he died from fever on March 26, 1888. The present Bishop, the Right Rev. A. R. Tucker, was consecrated by the Archbishop of Canterbury on April 25, 1890.

Jubilee of the Mission.

THE year under review was the jubilee of the Eastern Equatorial Africa Mission. It was in the year 1844 that Dr. Krapf, after a toilsome and perilous journey down the coast in an Arab dhow, landed at Mombasa. No living man is better able to estimate the marvellous progress made by the Gospel during these fifty years than the Rev. W. Salter Price, the founder of Frere Town, who went out before Rebmann retired, and who piloted the Mission in some of the most critical phases of its history. He writes:—

Changes in fifty years.

So many and great changes have taken place in East Africa within the last fifty years, that it is hard to conceive what the condition of things was when the first missionaries entered on their labours. At that time gross darkness, unpenetrated by a single ray of heavenly light, brooded over the land; slave traffic was in full swing, tens of thousands of men, women, and children being every year kidnapped, driven to the coast, sold like cattle in the market, and transported to foreign lands. At that time the map of E. E. Africa was a dreary blank; the now famous snow-capped mountains, Kilima-Njaro and Kenia, and the no less famous inland seas, Victoria and Tanganyika, had not even been heard of; and indeed the whole of the vast territory stretching away from the coast hundreds of miles north, south, and west was absolutely unexplored, whilst of the many and various races and tribes by whom it was peopled nothing was known. Such was the state of affairs when Krapf and Rebmann took up their abode and commenced their pious labours amongst the poor pagan Wanika of Rabai.

Krapf and Rebmann.

Surely it will be good for us, and should stir up our hearts to take a more real and lively interest in Missions, if we picture to ourselves and try to realize the position of these two humble and faithful servants of Christ in those early days. Look at them living in the little mud hut they had built for themselves in the midst of dismal surroundings—cut off for months together from all contact with civilized life—every now and then prostrated by serious attacks of fever—with no stimulus from outside applause—with no eye but the eye of God upon them! See them patiently plodding along from day to day and from month to month, now grinding away at a foreign and unwritten language, without a teacher or other help—now, as soon as their tongues are unloosed, going among the people and telling them of the great salvation—now making long, toilsome, and perilous journeys in a country hitherto untrodden by a European, and among peoples who had never seen a white face before—now studiously applying themselves to the difficult task of translating the Scriptures, and collecting information on many subjects which might be useful to those who should come after them—now quietly thinking out the great problem of the evangelization of the Dark Continent, and with marvellous prescience planning a chain of missions—an "Apostles' Street"—connecting the eastern with the western coast—and last, not least, by their simple, self-denying, Christian lives commending themselves to every man's conscience, and winning respect for the message they had to deliver?

Bishop Tucker's movements.

Bishop Tucker sailed to return to the Mission at the end of June, 1894, and arrived at Mombasa on July 29. A few days afterwards he visited Zanzibar for the purpose of holding an ordination and confirming some candidates for the Universities' Mission, the See of Zanzibar being vacant through the lamented death of Bishop Smythies. During August the Bishop visited Rabai, and in October he went up-country to the Usagara stations as far as Mpwapwa. His return journey in November was one of much discomfort: flooded rivers, storms of rain, swamps, and mud without end were experienced; and, worse than all, he had frequent attacks of fever which compelled him to make a three weeks' sojourn in the Universities' Mission Hospital at Zanzibar, where he received, as C.M.S. missionaries invariably have received there, "unbounded kindness;" and a further stay of a fortnight at the East Africa Company's Hospital at Mombasa. In February, 1895, the Bishop visited Taveta, Ordinations.

The Bishop admitted the Revs. T. S. England and J. E. Hamshere to Priest's Orders at Frere Town on September 23, 1894, and January 13, 1895, respectively, and the Rev. W. H. Jones also to Priest's Orders, at Rabai, on January 20. Mr. Jones is the first African clergyman in connexion with the C.M.S. who has received Priest's Orders on the East Coast.

Development of women's work.

In 1887 the late Bishop Parker begged the Society to send a band of ladies to this Mission; and in the same year, after the London February Simultaneous Meetings, the congregation of St. Paul's, Onslow Square, made a special thanksgiving contribution, amounting to £2,800, which they requested might be applied to the cost of responding to Bishop Parker's appeal. One single lady was then at Frere Town, and the Society has since sent out thirty. Of these, one has died, Miss C. Fitch; one has been transferred to Palestine, Miss A. Wardlaw Ramsay; five have been married, four to missionaries and the fifth to the I. B. E. A. Company's Administrator; and one has retired. Twenty-three, and three of the wives, are still connected with the Mission; and indeed the wife of the Administrator is still a missionary in spirit and in work. Bishop Parker never dreamed that his appeal would be used of God as it has been. And now the Committee have been led to believe that the time has come when a further development may be given to women's agency in this Mission. Bishop Tucker, before he left England, expressed a distinct opinion that Christian women might safely undertake the journey to and residence in Uganda; and after careful and patient deliberation the Committee instructed the secretaries to seek for a party of "women of experience and strong constitution, who have either been married some years, or will be willing to forego any intention of marriage for some years." Miss E. M. Furley, whose original offer in 1892 was for service in Uganda, was sent home by the Bishop in January, in order that she might prepare, by a few months furlough, to make one of such a party.

Band of Lady Missionaries for Uganda.

In view of the long land journey of several hundred miles between the Coast and the Lake, the Committee had long and anxious deliberations over the arrangements, and all precautions which experience and forethought could suggest were made to secure an outfit and provision adequate for ladies on such a journey. The arrangements having been completed, on May 16, 1895, at Queen's Hall, Langham Place, a large gathering assembled to unite in commending the first little company of Christian women for Uganda to the care and keeping of their covenant God. The following five ladies formed the party: (1) Miss Furley, already mentioned; (2) Miss Mary Susannah Thomsett, a qualified nurse, who lived for some years in Hong Kong, and who, after her acceptance by the Society, was in training at Aston under Canon Knox (now Bishop of Coventry), and elsewhere; (3) Miss Eliza Louisa Pilgrim, also a trained nurse, and student of medicine at Glasgow, and who received further training at the Willows; (4) Miss Eleanor Elizabeth Browne, also of the Willows, and also having nursing experience. Miss Browne was in the list of departing missionaries in the autumn of 1894, having been appointed to Mid-China, but she was kept back on account of the war then in progress between China and Japan. The three last-mentioned ladies, Misses Thomsett, Pilgrim, and Browne, were tentatively set aside for Uganda during the winter, and were placed for a time at Great Yarmouth to work together under the supervision of the Rev. J. E. and Mrs. Rogers. (5) The last of the ladies was Miss Jane Elizabeth Chadwick, daughter of the Dean of Armagh. She is younger than the others, and on her first offering for Uganda it was not thought wise to encourage her to go forward. Subsequently, after a visit of one of the secretaries to Armagh, her offer was renewed.

Other reinforcements.

Together with the above, five men for Uganda were also dismissed at the same time. These were the following: The Rev. Martin John Hall, B.A., St. John's College and Ridley Hall, Cambridge, who first offered and was accepted as a missionary of the Society in 1890, but for family reasons was unable to proceed at that time to the mission-field. Mr. Hall, at the Committee's invitation, visited some of the India Missions in the winter of 1893–4, in company with the Rev. E. N. Thwaites, to hold Special Missions. He was engaged at the time when he offered a second time to the Society—this time definitely for Uganda—as Visitor of the Gleaners' Union Branches. The second of the five men was the Rev. Thomas Richard Buckley, B.A., and LL.B., of the Royal University of Ireland, late Curate of Maryborough; and the other three were Messrs. Frederick Henry Wright, Allen Wilson, and John Bremner Purvis, of Islington College, who are not only qualified, as the Committee believe, to be evangelists, but have had some training in industrial work, and will be able, if opportunities offer, to impart some of their knowledge and skill to Natives of Uganda. One great desire of the Committee they were unable to realize, namely, to send up a medical missionary with the party to be stationed in Uganda. Their efforts to secure this were unavailing, one or two who offered being rejected by the medical authorities as not themselves strong enough for the journey. As the Committee could not allow the ladies to start from the Coast without a doctor in the party, and as it was uncertain whether Dr. E. J. Baxter's services could be spared from Usagara, they accepted the offer of Dr. Peter Rattray, of Dundee, to go to Mombasa, and to be prepared, if required, to go forward to Uganda, and then to return. The party sailed on May 18, to travel viâ the Cape, in order to avoid the heat of the Red Sea. The previous recruits of the year consisted of the following: The Rev. Arthur John Pike, B.A. Cambridge, Rector of Killoughter, Diocese of Kilmore, Ireland; the Rev. George Robert Blackledge, Islington College, who was admitted to Deacon's Orders by the Bishop of London on Trinity Sunday, May 20, 1894; Messrs. Harold Brelsford Lewin and Albert Bushnell Lloyd, both of Islington College; Mr. R. Maynard, sent out by the Victoria C.M. Association; Miss Mary E. Conway, of Slough; and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Vale, for evangelistic and industrial work at Taveta. Miss E. Wyatt, who went to East Africa with Mrs. Douglas Hooper in 1893, was taken into local connexion by the Frere Town Finance Committee. Messrs. Pike, Blackledge, Lewin, and Lloyd were assigned to Uganda and the district around the Victoria Lake; they sailed in July, viâ the Cape, and started on their journey up-country by the old route from Zanzibar on October 1. At Cape Town they received a very warm welcome from the Incumbents of St. Peter's, Mowbray, St. John's, Wynberg, and Trinity, Cape Town—the three parishes which have undertaken to support the Rev. H. R. Sugden of this Mission—and held three very hearty missionary meetings, hastily summoned, during the few hours they were there.

Deaths of Revs. E. A. Fitch,

The Rev. Edmund Alexander Fitch, who, with Mrs. Fitch, arrived home on furlough on August 8, died very suddenly on September 3. He was a son of the Rev. F. Fitch, the Vicar of Cromer. He graduated from Pembroke College, Cambridge, and was Curate of Lowestoft when he was stirred by the influence of Bishop Hannington in 1884 to volunteer for East Africa; he sailed with the Bishop in October of that year. He opened the station at Mochi in Chagga, and remained there for three years, most of the time alone. During the anxious months at the beginning of 1889, when the British and German fleets were bombarding the coast, and the interior stations were considered so unsafe that the Consul-General, Sir Euan Smith, sent earnest invitations to the missionaries to return to the coast, Mr. Fitch was at Mochi, and felt it his duty, notwithstanding the kindly messages from the Consul-General, to remain at his post. The last few years of his work, from 1890–4, were spent at Rabai. One of his fellow-missionaries at that station writes:—

> What he was to these dear people mere words of mine cannot express. He always gave me the idea that he had studied them and their ways, that he might help them and do them good. He was so tender, patient, and forgiving, that I am sure he won many to the paths of righteousness.

J. C. Price,

The Rev. John Charles Price, of Mpwapwa, was also called to his rest during the year, and what is said above regarding Mr. Fitch electing to remain at his post at a time of danger applies also to Mr. Price. During the unsettled months referred to, several French Roman Catholic missionaries, and one of the London Missionary Society, met violent deaths at the hands of Arabs between Usagara and the coast, and Mr. Price's own Mission-house at Mpwapwa was burned to the ground. Mr. Price wrote at that time: "Everything is gone. I saved nothing but some bedding and three small boxes containing clothing, some of my translations, and a few books. . . . I am quite happy, having learned to 'take with joyfulness the spoiling of our goods,' and, having given up all to the Lord long ago, it was no real loss—only the acceptance of the offering." After passing through the Islington course, he joined the Mission in 1879, and went to Mpwapwa at once, the year after it had been permanently occupied, and there he continued to labour, only once coming home on furlough, until his death, on January 23, 1895, of fever aggravated by jaundice.

and Mr. B. Ward.

A third member of the European staff, though his name was not on the list of missionaries, Mr. Benjamin Ward, was removed by death in January. Mr. Ward went to Frere Town as accountant to the Mission in 1888, and had charge, latterly, of the industrial work at that station. His heart was thoroughly in the Lord's work, and his loss is deeply felt. Mr. C. A. Günther and Miss L. Hill have retired.

I. COAST DISTRICT.

THE Rev. and Mrs. H. K. Binns, the Rev. F. Burt, Dr. and Mrs. C. S. Edwards, Mrs. A. G. Smith, and Miss M. A. Ackerman returned to the Mission after furlough: Mr. and Mrs. Binns in June, and the rest at the end of the year. Miss E. M. Furley came home, as already mentioned, in February, 1895; and Mr. J. Burness in April.

FRERE TOWN.

Frere Town.

A devotional conference of the workers at the Coast stations was held at FRERE TOWN in September under the presidency of Bishop Tucker, which was felt to be very helpful. The Rev. H. K. Binns, who is superintendent of Frere Town as well as secretary of the Mission, reports a much improved attendance of men at the Sunday services; the attendance at the daily services (6.15 A.M.) fluctuates considerably, sometimes as many as 160 being present. On a Sunday in December the congregation were alarmed by the sudden entrance during the service of a strange man with a hatchet, with which he aimed a severe blow at the Rev. T. S. England, who was playing the harmonium, and then struck Mr. Binns, who was within the communion rails. He was overpowered and removed, and was found to be insane.

A merciful escape from danger.

The weapon, happily, was very blunt, and neither of the brethren was seriously hurt.

A Church Council consisting of twelve "really earnest" men, besides the Native pastor, the Rev. I. M. Semler, is proving very helpful. They are responsible for visiting the whole settlement, which is divided into districts for this purpose, one district being allotted to each; their work is to encourage the people to attend the services and the children to attend school regularly. They meet once a week for prayer. Their wives have been formed into a "Council of Mothers," together with Mrs. Binns and Mrs. Semler, and a few others, who inquire into cases affecting the women and girls of the settlement. There is a small band of voluntary evangelists who go among the Swahilis and others on Sunday afternoons. The boys', girls', and infants' Sunday schools were superintended by Mr. Bailey (the mission accountant), Miss L. Hill, and Miss E. C. Wilde respectively. Classes for communicants and for confirmation and baptism candidates are held. Mr. England has a Sunday afternoon Bible-class for elder lads, with whom he studied the Acts of the Apostles; Mrs. Gardener has a similar class for elder girls, with an average attendance of twenty; and Mrs. Bailey (formerly Miss Harvey) has a class of adult women. Mr. Binns mentions that during those weeks when there is no moon the attendance at the classes suffers, and he accounts for this in part by the fact that lions still infest the neighbourhood, whose roaring is often heard at night.

Church Council.

"Council of Mothers."

The schools for boys and for girls and infants were under Mr. England and Miss Hill respectively. The former says that a good tone prevails among the boys, several of whom are bright Christians. Breaches of discipline are rare. They rise at daybreak, bathe, attend the Church service at 6.15, do sundry household duties assigned to each—sweep dormitory, schools, and compound; draw water, gather firewood, &c.—attend school, with interval, from 8.30 A.M. till 4 P.M.; Evening prayers at 8. Mr. England says of the Bible instruction:—

Schools.

> Our endeavour is to ground the children in Scripture knowledge. The lower classes learn portions of the Scriptures off by heart. The upper classes get up certain books of the Bible, and thus become familiar with the text of God's Word. We continue to drill the children in the "100 texts." By the time they reach the second class, they know them off thoroughly. The first-class boys have taken up the Thirty-nine Articles. They have now reached the Seventeenth Article. The ordinary school subjects, of course, are gone into daily.

Two Waganda, while waiting at Frere Town for their caravan to return up-country, attended the school, and gladly submitted to be taught by small boys of the first class. The son of a Hindu shopkeeper also went to the school for some months. The girls' and infants' school had 137 pupils.

Waganda pupils.

Two visitations of locusts affected the material prosperity of the settlement. Nevertheless, progress was made in this respect, as is evidenced by the introduction of several shops by Indian traders. The Rev. J. E. Hamshere remarks on the causes which have operated to retard the material, moral, and spiritual progress, and on indications of real advance notwithstanding:—

Difficulties in the way of success.

The state of things which obtains here is due, I suppose, to its being a freed-slave settlement. Brought from various tribes from time to time, it was only natural that the people settled here should lack that cohesion and mutual interest springing from a common bond of tribe and tongue. Spite of every drawback, however, one rejoices at the many signs that Frere Town has been, is, and will be a centre of blessing to the souls of very many people. There is much good that is little talked about by those who have been the instruments of it here for some years past.

A conscientious boy.

Last June I was greatly touched by an incident connected with my boy, whom I had taken over from the Rev. F. Burt. He got fever, and one evening sent for Mr. Smith and myself to see him. Thinking that the fever had taken a serious turn, we hurried to his little room, and found him lying on his back. "Are you very bad, Sabure?' "Yes, sir." "What is it?" And then, to our surprise, he said that it was not the fever, but he wanted to tell us that in the afternoon he had got another house-boy to make him some tea to allay his fever. Poor lad! He knew we would gladly have given him the tea; still, he had taken what was another's! The fever was still strong upon him, and as the lad half-sobbed his shame, and the other lads stood by sadly silent in the partial darkness, Smith and I felt our hearts deeply moved, and could scarce trust our voices to speak, and, when we knelt to tell the Master, it was the dear lad's voice that first broke the silence, begging forgiveness. How solemnly glad one felt as we returned to the house for this wondrous and yet so natural working of the Holy Spirit!

MOMBASA.

Mombasa.

The work in the town of MOMBASA has been hitherto evangelistic only, no converts from among its varied population having up to the close of 1894 been gathered in. But the interest shown in the preached Word gives promise of early fruit. In the summer of 1894 an opponent of the work appeared in the person of an old and crippled champion of Mohammedanism, "endowed with an overpowering strength of lung," who daily interrupted the preaching by shouting out Mohammedan formulas. Some of this old man's friends claimed that he was "the Mahdi," and showed their reverence by effusively kissing his hands. The missionaries desisted for a while from holding meetings, that they might give themselves to prayer, and they sent home a special request for intercession in their behalf. The Rev. W. E. Taylor says:—

Opposition overcome by prayer and by the preached Word.

We had been silenced by superior noise, and were brow-beaten and insulted, in public and private, till we felt that there was nothing for it but to cease our usual efforts in public for a while, until we could have called for your prayers in a united and special effort. We divided the town into two halves, and asked our brethren to come over and join one or other of the two bands into which we separated our forces. During the time of writing we used to meet together at the ordinary times of preaching, confessing our sins and interceding for the people, making our requests unto God with thanksgiving and praise for the victory which we felt sure He was about to give us. When the set time arrived our daily programme began with a united prayer meeting for blessing, after which we went forth, Mr. Wray's party taking the newer town, and mine the "Old Town," the stronghold of bigotry and conservatism; this was, in point of population, a very equal division. As my side lay more towards Frere Town, Mr. Hamshere and sometimes other brethren could come thence and meet us at some pre-arranged place. Once on the scene, we would hold meeting after meeting in a systematic way, more or less endeavouring that the sound of the glad tidings should reach every house if possible. In this way we had about seventy-four meetings between us, with one, two, three, or even four addresses at each, interspersed with hymn-singing, accompanied by a portable harmonium. Mrs. Pigott kindly lent her instrument for the purpose to Mr. Wray's party. At our first meeting in the Old Town a number of viragoes came forth and executed a sort of bacchanalian dance about us till we were quite silenced, and in the end had to retreat, pursued by a motley crowd for half a mile through the broken ways which do duty for streets, to the accompaniment of extemporized ribald songs. But this was the last experience of the kind. From that day interest began to be manifested, and people would even ask us to hold meetings near their houses.

This special effort does not appear to have resulted in bringing inquirers; but the attitude of the people generally very perceptibly changed. Mr. Taylor instances, in illustration of this fact, that he has been permitted on many occasions to sing evangelistic hymns to Arabs congregated on the "barazas" of their mosques, and even to sit and discourse of Christ on the steps of the same. Unexpected helpers at some of the meetings turned up in the persons of a party of some fifteen Waganda, who were staying for a short while at Mombasa. They were unbaptized, but they could read the Swahili hymns, and thus were a salutary and humbling object-lesson to the proud and illiterate coast Natives. Their reverent, attentive demeanour was also an excellent example to the Swahilis.

Waganda helpers.

The ladies, Miss E. M. Furley, Misses M. and S. Bazett, Miss A. I. Grieve, and Miss M. J. Lockhart visited the houses (within defined districts assigned to each) and taught the women, held meetings attended by slave girls, and conducted school classes. One of the ladies writes: "We are a very bright, happy party in this ladies' house, and never find time drag heavily." Miss M. Bazett is hopeful that the Holy Spirit is working in the hearts of one or two of the women whom she visits. Miss Lockhart describes the difficulties under which lessons in reading are given during these visits:—

Women's work.

In one house where, for a seat, a rather dirty mat was spread on a very dirty floor, the three pupils (Hindu women) and the teacher, the latter not knowing quite how to arrange herself comfortably in such a lowly position, all sat down together; a tall, lean cat with five tall, lean kittens (the Mombasa cats are terribly gaunt creatures) curled themselves up on the teacher's skirt; three or four children played and squabbled in the same room, and were occasionally shouted at by their respective mothers; hens and chickens, too, were wandering round picking up any odd scraps (and there were a good many) that happened to be lying about.

Teaching under difficulties.

A colony of Beluchis.

Miss S. Bazett receives a warm welcome from a little colony of Beluchis, some of whom listen earnestly to the Gospel story, though they are very bigoted Mohammedans. One of the two Persian children mentioned in last year's Report (page 39), her young mother having died, has become in a sense Miss S. Bazett's special charge; her brothers also visit the Mission-house for instruction. The slaves—women and girls—in Mombasa live a life of unprotected, and, therefore, very sinful freedom. A weekly meeting is held for them, and some of them are now able to read. A night school for Arab, Swahili, and Hindu boys is also conducted by the ladies.

Mission Hospital.

Mzizima, a mile and a half from Mombasa, on the northern side of the island, is the site of the Mission Hospital, which was in charge of James Ainsworth, the Native doctor, during the nine months of Dr. C. S. Edwards's absence in England. The latter was well satisfied on his return with the work done. The number of patients is not given, but the in-patients were more numerous, Dr. Edwards says, than during the previous year. Some of them came from great distances. Two of the hospital lads were baptized by immersion at the Custom House stairs; one of them, a Giryama named "Dikidiki," who received the name of Richard; the other was Buni (now "Benjamin"), the "raw lad from the hills" referred to last year. (See Ann. Rep. 1893–4, p. 39.) Miss M. R. Gedge, who resided at Dr. Edwards's house during his absence, and constantly visited and taught the patients, says these two young men, with others, often went to her for singing, reading, and prayer, and their prayers were "so simple and so earnest." Miss Gedge has succeeded Miss Furley in the charge of the ladies' house.

Liberated slaves:

At Kilindini, about two miles from Mombasa, the work among the "Mateka," or liberated slaves, is assuming a pastoral character. Almost the whole colony, 290 out of some 300, are returned as adherents, though none have as yet been baptized. Besides the Sunday morning service, there are a Sunday school conducted by Mrs. Pigott, wife of the Administrator, and Mrs. Wray; classes for baptismal candidates, male and female; and day and night schools. Mr. J. A. Wray refers to the poverty and liberality of these people, and to their reverence during Divine service in the church which they have built:—

their poverty

> These people are in nowise blessed with this world's goods, nor are they endowed with the brightest intellects (whether it is the rough treatment they were subjected to while in slavery, I cannot tell), but they are willing to be instructed in the Christian religion.
> Some of their houses are miserable structures consisting of a small enclosure of sticks with a little grass thrown over the top to keep out the rain, and pieces of rags are used as screens to their beds, close to which, on the ground, are three stones which constitute their cooking arrangements. These huts do not last long, for the white ants eat the ends that are in the ground, and when the rain comes they soon collapse, and that very often in the night, upon the sleeping inmates.

These people form what seems to me an unique congregation; we have not baptized one of them, yet they have built their own church, and subscribe to keep it in repair. I trust, however, that we shall soon admit some of them to that rite. The collections of this congregation during the past year amount to over Rs. 96. The total collections since the work began amount to Rs. 126. and liberality.

One thing never fails to strike one at our services, that is, the reverence; one never hears a whisper, and during prayers there is no looking about, for every face is covered. I reserve the front seats in our church for those who are the most forward candidates for baptism. Two of these one day caused me a little disappointment—a man and his wife had a quarrel through drinking too much tembo. The following Sunday I spoke to them, and asked both, if they were sorry for what they had done, to stand up before the whole congregation and say so, which they did; then, as a mark of disgrace, I asked them to take a lower place in church, and they willingly complied with this also. and their reverence at Divine Service.

Upon two occasions we have had men walk up to the reading-desk and throw down pice as thankofferings to God for travelling mercies, &c. On August 26 we held our first harvest thanksgiving; the Bishop preached, and the people gave bountifully. The collection in pice came to Rs. 1 53 pice. Then there were fruits of all kinds, which were sold next day, and realized over Rs. 4, making a total of Rs. 6, the largest collection we have had at Kilindini.

Mr. Taylor revised during the year the Kisuahili version of St. Luke in Arabic character, and that of St. Matthew in Kigiriyama, besides writing several tracts and composing hymns in Kisuahili. He occupies spare moments with much profit and enjoyment in collecting proverbial sayings current among the people, which are frequently used with effect in the open-air addresses. He says:— Translations.

To the professors and "lawyers" who can read the Gospel, but won't, and frighten the common people from listening to it, we quote, "The snake in the lime-tree," answering to our "dog in the manger." To the slave population, "God looks on none as abject," and, "The soul has no price." To the self-satisfied, who are content with their false peace and hate to be aroused, "Truth, though bitter, tell me, and hide it not," and, "Bitter truth is better than sweet lying." To the doubting, "To God nothing is too far and nothing is difficult." To the lazy, "Idleness is a house of hunger." To the discouraged, "He that prays tires not." And "God, and your loins girt," to ourselves. Do not these old proverbs show that "God has not left Himself without witness," even in East Africa? Suahili proverbs.

RABAI.

The death of the Rev. E. A. Fitch has been referred to above. He left Rabai with Mrs. Fitch in July, and the Rev. A. G. Smith succeeded him in the charge of this station. In August Bishop Tucker and the Rev. J. E. Hamshere visited Rabai. One object of their visit was to look for a suitable site for a training institution, which, God willing, will be under Mr. Hamshere's charge. At the weekly prayer-meeting on Friday evening, August 17, the Bishop found some 100 men and women present, Rabai and about 400 were at the 6.30 A.M. service the following morning. Of the Sunday service he wrote:—

Church crowded.

The congregation gathered together for the morning service was a wonderful sight. The church was crowded from end to end. Many people were obliged to sit outside around the windows and doors. I preached from 2 Cor. vi. 2. One hundred and forty-seven stayed for the service of Holy Communion; it was indeed a most happy and most helpful time. When one remembered that it is only a few years ago since Rebmann was found by Sir Bartle Frere alone, and with only two converts, one could but thank God with a very full heart for all that He has done through His servants at Rabai.

Eighty-seven candidates were confirmed on the Monday of the Bishop's short visit. The Bishop wrote:—

Great advance.

The impression left upon my mind by my visit to Rabai is that a great advance has been made all along the line. There is more vitality in the work, more vigour discernible in the Native workers. The missionary aspect of the Church has been deepened; a real effort is being made to reach the Heathen around. In a word, the Church seems to have been lifted into a higher level of spiritual life.

Schools.

Soon after the Bishop left, Mr. Smith baptized 122 women, and the Rev. W. H. Jones, the native pastor, baptized 109 men and four women. The boys' school, which was under Mr. J. Burness, now at home, has an average attendance of 94, and the girls' school, under Miss J. B. Tobin, averages over 80. The latter says the girls read very well indeed, and adds:—

"Not a particle of imagination."

The children learn by heart portions of Scripture perfectly, but the difficulty is that they do not think, and they attach very little, if any, meaning to the words they say. The teaching must be very simple, as they do not appear to have a particle of imagination. One day I was teaching the parable of the Prodigal Son. "How did the father receive the son?" I asked. To my intense astonishment, one of my girls got up, came to me, threw herself on my neck, and gave me a warm embrace, to the great delight of the others.

Miss Tobin conducts a class of forty candidates for baptism, and a sewing school at which the children's garments are made; and Miss F. I. Deed has a men's night-school and Bible-class, and a Bible-class for day-school boys. The ladies also assist in a small dispensary, which has between 200 and 300 attendances monthly. Miss Tobin gives some affecting instances of the cruel remedies prescribed by Native medicine-men:—

Dispensary.

Cruel Native remedies.

One evening word was brought to me that a dear boy in whom I am greatly interested was very ill. I went at once to see him, and found him very bad indeed, with a great many friends around him, and a medicine-man among them, who did not look at all pleased to see me, and tried to stare me away; but I saw that the boy was suffering dreadfully, so I came away for some remedy for him. I had only been away about twenty minutes; when I got back I saw a sight that I shall never forget; it nearly made me sick. The friends had lit a large fire, and had brought out the sick boy, and were holding him over it. I ran up to them, and ordered them to take him into the house; the poor fellow said, "Do what bibi says." They took him in; I followed. It was quite dark. I asked for a light, and found that it was the medicine-man who was holding it. I then applied the turpentine, and kneeled down and prayed. God heard that prayer, for the cruel pain was soon better.

Another evening I saw a little boy with his back all stuck over with cotton-wool. It looked so peculiar that I asked what caused it. I was told that he had fallen off a tree, and had received some internal injury, which caused him much pain. The medicine-man burned his back in nine or ten places, and stuck into the wounds cotton-wool. When I saw the lad he was like a skeleton from pain and suffering.

Visitation of locusts.

A visitation of locusts, a veritable "plague," was experienced at Rabai during the winter. Miss Ackerman, who returned in December, wrote in her journal at the beginning of January:—

Could only the congregations of England have seen our church to-day, what would they have said? A full church of people and thousands of locusts crawling and climbing everywhere, even falling from the roof, covering Communion Table, books, and everything. The people behaved so well notwithstanding; and it could not have been easy to sit still with these crawling over you all the while. Since they have come out from service the numbers have more increased, until the seats look quite black and the whole church filled with really millions of these creatures. During Communion time they hopped in showers and fell from the roof like rain: if you could only see them you would know the meaning of Joel ii. 3-9. They are everywhere in the house, on the baraza so thick that it looks quite black, and you cannot step there or immediately you get a number crawling upon you; they are getting quite large, such strange creatures, with their yellow bodies and legs and black backs. Our sitting-room has been so full that we could not have our meals there. Even our food did not escape; they are in such quantities and so hungry that they have not only eaten the mahindi and grain, but the beans and vegetables, and even some cretonne curtains and the people's garments.

Out-stations.

At Chaa-Ngombe, three miles from Rabai, three catechists are stationed, and there is a small "wattle-and-daub" church, with roof of palm-tree leaves, at which a daily morning service is held; at Ganga, where there are two catechists, a school has been commenced, and a congregation of some sixty souls has been gathered together. A number of children are taught by Miss Deed at Buni, two and a half miles from Rabai. She says: "Our classes are held in the open air; the A B C sheet is fastened to the trunk of a cocoa-nut palm, and the children gather round in a dear, fidgetty group."

JILORE.

Hearty services at Jilore.

The Rev. D. A. L. Hooper baptized three adults at JILORE, one being a lad who accompanied the late Mrs. Hooper in her last visit to England. Mr. Hamshere, of Frere Town, visited Jilore in September, and wrote: "The services and the prayer meetings have a delightful 'go' and spontaneity. It was very touching to hear a little girl of perhaps twelve years asking Jesus for a 'holy heart.'"

The little unpretending church is in full use day by day. Miss A. E. Wyatt writes:—

Church in full use.

I think few of our costly home churches do as much work as our little Jilore mud-and-wattle one. On "the working day" there is first a sunrise meeting for everybody in the station, from 5.45 to 6.30, followed, on five days out of six, by half an hour's class by Mr. Hooper—every day for a different set of people. From 8.45 to 12, and again from 1.30 to 4, the children are in possession. On Tuesdays we have a women's prayer meeting from 4.30 to 5.30; this Mrs. Hooper had begun, and here, as in everything one has tried to carry on of hers, one feels that the spiritual quality has deteriorated. There was a quiet power and depth about her work which we might all covet. We get the women themselves to speak at this, that is, to read some portion of Scripture and explain. Two of them, at least, have really a gift—one is often amazed at their grasp of and insight into truth. Two evenings a week there is a general prayer meeting, and on three others I have a class. One of these classes is for my Sunday-afternoon women, who can well afford to "attend Sunday school twice a week." They are very ignorant and dense, but three or four are certainly letting the light in. Would that one could say they were out-and-out converted! The other two classes are for communicants who cannot read; these are a real joy to one, so receptive and responsive to the things of God. Then on Sunday, morning service, followed by communion, lasts from 9 to 11. Next comes Sunday school, from 1.30, and afternoon service at 3.30. In the evening the young folk gather again for singing; this has been made more attractive by a present lately of a beautiful harmonium from Mrs. Hooper. One of the women said to me the other day, "I see this has five voices, David's harp had ten."

In addition to the classes and meetings mentioned in the above quotation, the ladies, Miss A. Higginbotham and Miss Wyatt, visit the villages near Jilore. Drought interfered with the itinerations of the Native band of evangelists, but this, Mr. Hooper believes, rather furthered than interrupted their usefulness, as they had more time for reading with him. They visited in January (1894) 16 villages, in February 238, in June 203, and in July 292, travelling in couples.

II. TAVETA.

No agent was stationed at SAGALLA, in the Taita country, during the year, but Bishop Tucker and Mr. Wray visited it in February, 1895.

Industrious boarding-school lads.

The Rev. A. R. Steggall returned and rejoined Mr. A. W. McGregor at TAVETA in May, 1894. The nucleus of the work at this station is the boarding school, with forty-two lads, whose industry has converted the Mission settlement from a desert into a garden, to which the name Mahoo—i.e. "happy land"—has been given. To these lads is mainly due the credit, Mr. McGregor says, of building the church, which was opened on August 19, and which will seat over 200. This is about a mile from Mahoo, and a congregation averaging about 75 assembles there twice every Sunday, and a Sunday school of about twenty—mostly girls—is held; while a day school is held in the building during the week,

A mile and a half further into Taveta, in the centre of the State, where the National Council meets, another schoolroom has been erected, which a teacher attends five days a week, sometimes to find no children, but with an average of three. The teacher referred to is one of four of the boarding-school lads who have been elevated to the rank of assistant teachers. Under Mr. Steggall's supervision, the lads constructed a canal two and a half miles in length to insure irrigation for the Mission land, a drought in 1893 having suggested the need of such a step in view of the large and growing Mission family to be maintained. A more grave peril than even drought, however, was a visitation of locusts in the spring of 1894, followed by a second in the winter. At the time of the former visitation Mr. McGregor wrote:—

Native superstition.

As a protection against the locusts, the people at once called in the aid of the medicine-man, who, having received his fee, placed his medicine (consisting of a piece of sugar-cane) on all the roads leading into Taveta. As they wished to help us by doing the same on our land, a splendid opportunity was given me of pointing out the folly of such a proceeding, and of telling them of Him Who alone was able and longing to help them. Though at the time their faith was very strong in the efficacy of the remedy, it has since been greatly weakened by seeing the greater part of their crops entirely destroyed. These troubles have led them to think a great deal, and by some means they now attribute it to the common use of witchcraft among themselves and to petty thieving in the shambas (plantations). A meeting was called to consider what steps should be taken in the matter, and it was agreed that a medicine-man from Useri should be called in to assist them! Reports had previously reached them that an angel had passed over the mountain ringing a bell, and that he had bestowed upon a certain man extraordinary power, and commissioned him to go through the length and breadth of the land and put things to rights. This is firmly believed by the people, consequently he was the one called in to their help. However, being unable to travel through sickness, his son, a mere lad, arrived in his stead. Acting upon his advice, it was arranged that every person in the State should drink a little of his medicine, in the belief that if such was carried out a person thieving or using witchcraft against another would immediately fall down dead. When particulars were given to me, I at once endeavoured, while encouraging them in their effort to stamp out thieving, to show them how they were again being deceived for the sake of their cattle; and that it seemed to me God was dealing with them sternly, though in love. They listened to me very earnestly and confessed that it was true, but that, nevertheless, as it was their custom, they must try it again. It will, indeed, be hard for them to give up their Heathenish customs.

Bishop Tucker visited Taveta in March, 1895, and confirmed twelve candidates, and set apart Yohana, the first convert of the Mission, who was baptized in 1891 (see Annual Report, 1891–2, page 52), as a lay reader.

Translation work

St. Matthew's Gospel in Tavetan has been received in manuscript from Mr. Steggall; this completes the translation of the four Gospels. The Epistles of St. John have been printed in the Mission press.

III. USAGARA AND USUKUMA.

THE Bishop visited the Usagara stations in November. Dr. E. J. Baxter sailed in September, after furlough, and, by the Committee's instructions, went to Mpwapwa, the station which he was the first to occupy when it was permanently taken up in 1877.

Famine in Usagara.

A most serious famine was experienced throughout Usagara and Ugogo in the winter of 1894–5. The Rev. A. N. Wood wrote from Mamboia at the end of January:—

> The famine is very terrible, people dying every day. We have only two Christians left on the Mission. They have left for the coast, in order to get food. Many of them will, I fear, not return. Nearly all the villages are deserted. We can have no schools, classes, or services, and the place all around is fast becoming a wilderness.

And Dr. Baxter from Mpwapwa in December:—

> I have had a large number of famine-stricken natives, chiefly Wanyamwezi porters, to feed and attend to daily. I think about twenty of those whom I have helped have died, some being too far gone when they came, and others, who seemed to be doing well, have died from dysentery, &c., brought on by bad food.

At the instance of Bishop Tucker, relief committees were formed at Zanzibar and at Mombasa; and, upon the letters being read to the Committee, a Special Fund was opened at the Church Missionary House, and the secretaries were instructed to send a brief statement of the facts to the Press, and to invite contributions. This was done, and the Committee were enabled to authorize by cable the expenditure of £350 for supplying relief.

MAMBOIA.

Mamboia.

The workers at Mamboia consisted of the Rev. and Mrs. A. N. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. D. Deekes, Miss R. Colsey, and Miss E. E. Waite. Fourteen adults were baptized, together with three children, on Easter Day, 1894. The baptism took place in the river, and was thus described by Mr. Wood:—

Impressive Baptism.

> The Christians were arranged on one side of the bank and the Heathen on the other. The candidates for baptism were on the brink of the river on the side of the Heathen. Each candidate was asked to call two witnesses from among the Christians. I then asked the witnesses certain questions with regard to the candidate, and they promised faithfully to look after him or her. Turning to the candidates, I put the usual questions, with one or two others relating to their superstitions and Heathen customs. These being answered satisfactorily, the candidates stepped into the river and were baptized (not by immersion, the river being too shallow), and then taken by the hand by their witnesses to the group of Christians on the other bank. When all the seventeen were baptized, we sang, "O happy day that fixed my choice." I then gave an address, dividing it into three parts, (1) to the Heathen, (2) to the Christians, and (3) to the newly baptized, and we had prayer, thus closing what was, I trust, a very memorable service.

On the other hand, no fewer than fifteen were excluded from communion because of grave and scandalous sins, of whom only seven were readmitted. A new church, built in the valley, the older one being on the hill, was opened in February, 1894, the services being taken by Mr. Deekes. Classes for catechumens, confirmation candidates, and communicants are held; the ladies conducted women's classes, and two day schools—one on the hill and the other in the valley. Miss Waite, who had charge of the school on the hill, says:—

Women pupils.

Although the numbers of those attending the hill-school have not been so good as they should have been, yet I am glad to say those who come are really in earnest, especially some of the women. I do not think there are many women in England who would come—as some of these do—with their babies tied upon their backs, to go through all the drudgery of learning letters and syllables, in order that they may be able to read their hymn-books (they have not any Bibles yet).

Itinerations.

At several places visited in the course of itinerating tours, the people have begun to erect buildings for worship, viz., at Mahundike and Masalis to the south, and at Magubika, Makilindi, and Berega, each of which is the centre of from twelve to twenty-two villages. Mr. Wood relates the following conversation regarding the future state which was held in one village, some ten miles from Mamboia, between two Native Christians and an exceptionally intelligent chief:—

The doctrine of the Resurrection a stumbling-block.

I began by asking him regarding the future state, and his belief concerning it, if any. He said as far as he knew he would be eaten by hyænas. (The Wahumba do not bury, but leave their dead in the forest in an upright position, fastened to a tree, to be taken away by hyænas or eaten by birds of prey.) Mugimbwa told him about the future life and our teaching concerning it and the resurrection of the body. Sekanana replied, "The idea of you, a young lad only born yesterday, telling me such a thing; look at my grey hairs, and then can you think I should believe it? Don't mention it." Mugimbwa spoke about the seed grain dying yet rising again, the same but new. Sekanana replied, "Yes, the fumbo (parable) is fine; but it won't do. The life is in the seed, and when put into the damp ground begins to swell and grow; but dead men, or blood once spilt, or life once out of the body, cannot be restored." Musa then spoke about the mystery of generation as showing wonderful power, meaning thereby that the same power could cause the body to live again as once caused it to be formed, but Sekanana at once said the same thing would hold good regarding oxen, hens, serpents, &c. I said a few words regarding our belief in the Omnipotence of God. He replied, "If God is almighty, of course this thing would not conquer Him."

MPWAPWA AND KISOKWE.

Mpwapwa.

The death of the Rev. J. C. Price, in January, 1895, has been already mentioned. In his Annual Letter, written in November, he referred to the happiness he had derived from the companionship of Mr. E. W. Doulton, of the N.S. Wales C.M. Association, who reached MPWAPWA in May. Mr. Doulton thus described the various meetings and services which were held regularly by Mr. Price:—

> Prayer and reading of God's Word and meditation thereon every morning except Sunday about 6 A.M.; morning and afternoon day school, Natives taught to read, &c., and occasional instruction in singing by Mr. Price; 7 P.M., meeting for prayer and exposition of Scripture by Mr. Price or leading Native Christian, Nathanieli. After each evening service we have reading of the Old Testament in Swahili, on Wednesday evenings there are meetings specially for prayer, and each Friday afternoon meetings for Christians; besides these, Mr. Price has his meeting of inquirers, and on Saturday afternoon there is preaching in the open-air, visiting one or more of the small villages which are not far from the Mission premises; at these meetings there is generally a good and attentive gathering.

Nine adults were baptized at Easter. Before the famine commenced the people contributed well, considering their poverty, to a monthly offertory. One man on two successive occasions took Mr. Price Rs. 6 out of Rs. 8 which he received as monthly wages. The work was, of course, much interrupted by the famine. Mr. Price wrote in November:—

Instance of liberality.

> We have had to give up Sunday school, and only get the few children living about the Mission at the day school. Our attendances on Sundays are very poor, and outdoor preaching has been given up. The people are all scattered, searching in the forest for wild fruits and roots. The rains have set in well, so that in two or three months the famine ought to be practically over, but the locusts are swarming again, and in some places have already eaten off the young corn. Our God has doubtless some wise and loving purpose in it all, but it is hard for the people to believe that He loves them, under such circumstances, and one feels so helpless.

Kisokwe.

At KISOKWE, before the famine, the people attended the Sunday services, taken alternately by the Revs. H. Cole and J. E. Beverley, in large numbers, some of the Heathen walking for that purpose a distance of several miles. Mr. J. H. Briggs's time was occupied in language study, and in helping to build a house for Mr. and Mrs. Beverley. Mr. Cole visited Ugogo in May, 1894; he was treated very hospitably, and his message was listened to with evident interest. At his suggestion the people built a church.

NASSA.

Nassa.

The station at NASSA, on Speke Gulf, is a very isolated one, being 600 miles from Mpwapwa, with no Mission station between, and about 280 miles from Uganda, on the opposite coast of the Victoria Lake. The home letters which were posted in January and February 1894 were not received till August, and for five months, from March till August, the Rev. E. H. Hubbard and Mr. J. P. Nickisson had no communications from the brethren in Uganda. Mr. Nickisson suffered from blackwater fever in July, and Mr. Hubbard's health was far from satisfactory. Painful proofs of the nature and power of Heathenism abound: trust in charms, practising witchcraft, cases of robbery, and even murder.

But the missionaries refer with thankfulness to the constancy of several Native youths, boarders on the Mission premises; and to the liberal harvest thankoffering of the congregation, 33 cwt. of new corn being brought to the church, most of it in small baskets containing about 7 lbs. each. The average congregation in November was about 400. One youth was baptized.

A translation of St. John's Gospel in Kisukuma has been received from Mr. Hubbard, which the British and Foreign Bible Society has been requested to print. Translation.

IV. UGANDA.

THE announcement of the Government to Parliament on April 12, 1894, of their determination to declare Uganda to be a British Protectorate was referred to in last year's Report (page 63). On June 1 this decision was fully discussed on the vote of £80,000, the estimated cost of the Government scheme, and the vote was passed by a majority of 218 to 52. The scheme in brief was as follows: To confine the Protectorate to the limits of Uganda proper; to place a commissioner in the country, with instructions to maintain friendly relations between Uganda and neighbouring countries; to prevent the slave trade and promote commerce; and to place a sub-commissioner, under the authority of the Consul-General at Zanzibar, in charge of the communications between Uganda and the Coast, with instructions to establish friendly relations with the Natives in these territories. The Government intimated that they were not prepared to make proposals for spending money on a railway; and this intimation encountered strong criticism from various quarters. The missionaries were informed of the Government's decision early in July by Colonel Colvile, the British Resident in Uganda; and on August 27 the Protectorate was publicly proclaimed amidst great rejoicing and firing of guns. Archdeacon Walker wrote:— Uganda a British Protectorate.

> The declaration that Uganda is to be under British protection having now been made, the minds of the people are at rest, and a great stimulus has been given to the work of cultivation, building, and the definite spread of the Gospel.

In 1890 Mr. Stanley made a stirring appeal for funds to place a steamer on the Victoria Lake, and to present it for the use of the Church Missionary Society. Subsequently the Record newspaper supplemented the appeal and opened a fund, and a third and smaller fund was also raised independently. The two former funds were freely offered to the Society to carry out the end designed; but the Committee, after long and repeated consideration, felt obliged to decline their administration. For one thing, it was doubtful if the money would suffice even to convey the materials to the lake and build the boat there, much less provide for its up-keep and the men to work it. For another Prospect of a steamer being placed on the Lake.

thing, such a vessel could not be employed for the Mission only; yet employment of other kinds, however legitimate in itself, would be liable to entangle the Society in distracting and troublesome relations. The Committee were willing to pay fairly for any facilities which a steamer on the lake might afford the Mission, but for the steamer itself they could not be responsible. In the spring of 1895 a plan was formed, chiefly through the agency of Mr. Cuthbert Peek, the chief trustee of the Stanley fund, and of the Editor of the Record, whereby the 5,000*l.* which had lain by so long might at length be used. A leading mercantile firm, having considerable business at Zanzibar, has undertaken to put a steamer on the lake, and, in return for grants from the trustees of the funds, to afford facilities of a special kind to the Society's missionaries for a term of years.

No changes took place during 1894 in the personnel of the Mission staff, nor in their spheres of work as described in last year's Report, except that the Rev. E. C. Gordon spent five months at Ziba in Kyagwe, and crossed the Lake to visit Nassa in October.

MENGO.

Mengo.

Two accidents occurred in the course of 1894, which, humanly speaking, were near to having most serious consequences, but these were mercifully averted. In February a fire occurred at the Mission station which destroyed two of the Mission houses (that occupied by the Rev. J. Roscoe and that by the Rev. E. Millar and Mr. Leakey), and, what was regretted far more, a large number of books. The fire originated in one of the servants' houses through his trying to clear out some biting ants from under his bed with lighted grass; it spread, of course, with remarkable rapidity as soon as it caught the reed walls of the houses. The Christian Baganda were full of sympathy, and Archdeacon Walker wrote:—"Disasters which bind us closer to these people and call out their sympathy can hardly be called troubles." Within two months, new houses had been erected by the Christians. Again, in October, the large church on Namirembe Hill (of which a plan was given in last year's Report, page 58) was blown down by a storm of wind. Archdeacon Walker was within the building at the time, holding a class of women. He sent home to private friends the following account of the event, and of his own marvellous escape:—

Fire at Mission station.

Church at the capital blown down.

> One afternoon when I was holding my class for women, and we were reading the account of St. Paul's shipwreck, a sudden storm got up. The wind became very great, and I remarked to the ladies what harm a wind so great at sea might do. Some of the children sitting by were much frightened, and one cried out that the church was falling. The women were much frightened at the lightning, thunder, and splashing rain. I said Paul was not the least frightened when he was in real danger. One of them replied, "We are dry-land sailors." I saw that one of them was not attending, so I asked her what she was looking at, and she said, "The fence opposite the church has gone over." Then I heard low cracks, and all the women jumped up and began rushing past me out of the church. I still remained sitting where I was, and so Sarah, of Samwili's household, shouted out to the others to come back into the church. She said, "Will you run away and leave the European? Come back and let us pray to God." The cracks were getting louder and louder, and I could see no cause for them till I saw some of the poles bent over. Then it occurred to me that the church was falling, so I told Sarah to go out, and I ran back to pick up my hat from the edge of the pulpit where I had left it, as well as an English Bible. I picked up my hat and looked down the church, and I saw it was a mass of dust and falling poles. So I left the Bible and ran out of the vestry door. I heard the poles coming after me, and when I was only ten yards clear the last pole was down, and the whole place quite flat on the ground. Being anxious to be the first to carry such startling news, and owing to the streaming rain, I ran down the hill to take shelter in Roscoe's house.

Narrow escape of Archdeacon Walker.

The good women all escaped by the side door, and as they never saw me leave the church, and had last seen me going for my hat, they concluded that I was under the ruins. They, therefore, set up their war-cry to call for help, and many of them rushed off to tell people to come with axes to get me out. Some ran to Pilkington, and some to Roscoe, and some to the nearest chief. Those who came to Roscoe's house found me there, and in the suddenness of their joy, though themselves dripping wet, hugged me to their breasts. When I went out of Roscoe's house to go and see two children who were said to have been crushed to death, I met Elizabeth, of Zakaria Kanga's, shedding tears over my supposed death. As a matter of fact, no one was hurt; a small child had its face cut, but I fancy this took place at the fence round the church, and was done in the breaking down of the fence by the women themselves.

The church fell owing to the poles having all rotted off at the ground. They broke off like carrots, and this was the cracking noise I had heard. When the church was being built, it was left three months unthatched in the heavy rain season, and the poles began to rot then, I am told.

As contrasted with the material building, the stakes of the Spiritual Church have been strengthened and its cords lengthened, during the year, in a degree which is beyond precedent, even in the remarkable history of growth and progress which this Mission has presented.

Organization of work in the country districts.

Mr. G. L. Pilkington, while passing through Singo on his return journey from Unyoro, whither, as stated last year, he had accompanied Colonel Colvile's expedition, was greatly struck with the method of work organized there by Mr. A. B. Fisher (see Annual Report 1893–4, page 61). On reaching Mengo early in March, he proposed to the brethren to adopt a similar plan for the whole country; and it was agreed that he and the Rev. G. K. Baskerville should defer their furlough in order to organize the movement. The proposal was to locate the more competent and reliable Native teachers at chosen centres and to place under each of them a number of younger teachers, who should live and work under their supervision at places within a certain radius around such centres, the superior teachers reporting on their subordinates and on the work to the Church Council. The Native Church Council readily adopted the suggestion, and undertook to support the teachers who should be sent out by them upon this plan. A beginning was promptly made. The Rev. J. Roscoe wrote at the beginning of May:—

Support of Native teachers.

There are now nearly one hundred teachers out in the country, all supported by the Native Church. For some time to come there will be some difficulty in supplying them all with clothes and food. The idea of giving systematically is new to the people. If a chief receives an amount of cloth, he at once divides it out to his household. Ivory is the only thing they seem to store up. Still, they are very anxious to supply all the needs of the teachers, and are holding meetings for consultation as to the best methods of collecting goods. Already two or three goats, a cow, cloth, and shells have been brought in a way they were never before brought. They have a select committee, with Pilkington at the head, to see and accept candidates, &c. Those approved are brought before the Church Council for final acceptance and location. It is our object not to send out more than one hundred just yet, but to secure and train a second hundred who shall relieve those who are now teaching. Already we have a few who are being taught daily by Millar; at the end of three months those who first went out will return for three months' training.

Monthly missionary meeting,

In order to maintain the interest and to keep the people informed regarding the work done by their agents, a missionary meeting was held in July, which it was decided to have monthly. Mr. Roscoe wrote in August, after the second of these meetings had been held:—

and collection.

At these meetings we have Bible-reading, a Scripture address, then two or three short addresses given by men who have come up from the country for the meeting. We have a collection in kind at the end of the meeting. At the first meeting we got Rs.49 52 pice, and on the following Sunday one chief gave a whole load of cloth to clear off the church's debt. Yesterday the collection in kind amounted to Rs.62 2 annas; it was a better collection, because it was given by more of the people, especially the poor; it was as follows—2 goats, 13 fowls, 3 eggs, 54 bundles of plantains and sweet potatoes, &c., one stick sugar-cane, 2 bark cloths, 27½ yards calico, and 9,511 shells.

Archdeacon Walker gives further particulars regarding the support of the teachers:—

Church lands.

These men are supported in two ways: by voluntary contributions collected in church on Sundays, and on the first Friday in each month at the missionary meeting; secondly, by gardens that have been given to the Church by the chiefs. There are about twenty-seven gardens already given that are Church lands. These gardens contain ten houses each on an average. They pay no taxes to the king, and the holders of them are not expected to go to war, or to work for the chief over them, or for the king. We want, as far as possible, now to appoint men to these gardens, and get them to teach in that district. For though food and a house is promised by the chiefs to men who will go and teach their people, yet, as a matter of fact, it comes about that many of the teachers have rather a hard time of it.

The Archdeacon also gives some striking illustrations of the keen interest taken by the teachers in Bible and Church history:—

Interest in Bible and Church History.

It is really most encouraging the way in which Henry W. Duta, Bartolomayo Musoke, and several others care to hear all I can tell them about the history of the Bible, the places, the people, and the events referred to. Also their interest in the history of Christianity in England, and the Reformation period especially, is simply astonishing. I never took so much interest in all this before as I do now. It is no uncommon thing for a man mending a fence, or a woman hoeing a field, to ask if the Herod mentioned was Antipas or Agrippa. So you see we want books of reference to be able to give all the information asked for. A man carrying a pole to build the new church with stopped me on the hill and asked me why God gave a law which man could not keep. No one need feel that their abilities are thrown away here; most of us will regret that our attainments are not greater.

New churches around Mengo.

An immediate effect of the newly organized distribution of teachers was the springing up of numerous buildings for public worship in all parts of the country. Close to Mengo itself, within a radius of ten or twelve miles, before the end of the year, no less than twenty churches had been built which were supplied with teachers week by week from the capital. Mr. Millar remarks on this development:—

In about the month of June we began to have regular services every Sunday in small churches distant about an hour from here, and this plan has answered very well. We afterwards got others built at greater distances, until now we have about twenty churches which are regularly worked from here. Some of these will have sub-churches which will be worked from them. The people who go to these churches are to a very great extent those who would not otherwise have gone to church, and the congregations in the big church have not been sensibly affected. The result of this extension was at once seen in the increase in the number of candidates for baptism; and now we have several classes for baptism taken in these suburban churches, and these people will be baptized in these churches, where we also administer the Lord's Supper at intervals.

But this is only one example out of many. Mr. Pilkington, writing in December, gives an estimate of the aggregate progress in this and collateral respects:—

Two hundred churches in the country.

At the beginning of this year there were not, probably, more than twenty country churches (or reading-rooms or "synagogues"); there are now not less than 200, of which the ten largest would contain 4,500 persons; the average capacity of all would be, perhaps, 150. In these there now assemble every Sunday not less than 20,000 souls to hear the Gospel; on week-days not less than 4,000 assemble (these numbers are exclusive of the capital). The first teachers paid by the Church Council were dismissed in April; there are now 131 of these teachers, occupying eighty-five stations, of whom just twenty are stationed outside Uganda proper, and may be regarded as more or less foreign missionaries. This by no means represents the whole of the work that is being done in the country; there are some places, notably Jungo, some fifteen miles south of Mengo, where a splendid work is being done, and there are probably not less than twenty teachers at work under Henry's able superintendence, and not one of these teachers nor Henry himself is reckoned in the above. At Bu'si again, an island near Jungo, there are only two of these regular teachers, and yet there are three churches and about 2,000 people under instruction.

Sale of books.

A further impetus was also given to the sale of books, and the loss through the fire in February was on this account the more to be deplored. Mr. Millar accounts for the sales:—

The totals of books sold during the last year are very roughly as follows: New Testaments, 730 (these were all sold in a week); Gospels and Acts, one vol., 970; single Gospels, Acts, or Epistles, 9,550; Prayer-books, 344 (stock burned); Primer, 8,746 (none in hand for some months); Reading-books (Mateka), 5,860 (out of stock); small Reading-books (Walifu), 453 (out of stock); Hymn-books, 1,069 (out of stock). Every day, from morning till night, we hear, "I want a Mateka," and have to reply, "None." The above returns are not accurate, as I have not had time to add up all the sales for the last month [viz., December, 1894].

Daily classes.

Numerous classes for the instruction of the Christians at Mengo in reading and in the knowledge of the Scriptures are carried on daily. Twenty-three such classes are held before the morning service with some 500 members, and after this service, from 9.30 to 11 A.M., from twenty to twenty-five other classes for the instruction of candidates for baptism are held, who all go to Mr. Roscoe for examination before being accepted, while Archdeacon Walker in like manner passes the candidates for confirmation. Of the interest attaching to this work of teaching, and of its difficulties also, the following, from a letter of Archdeacon Walker, is an illustration:—

Matter-of-fact pupils.

The people here, as far as I know them, have very little idea of poetry. Now you will ask me what I mean by the word "poetry." In this instance I mean describing things by the effect they have upon us, the impressions they make. I also mean the power of giving far-reaching ideas to things, and so carrying the idea beyond the reach of our exact comprehension. Again and again the people come and ask me to explain about Rachel weeping for her children at Bethlehem. Yesterday a man asked me how the "stones could cry out." Another man suggested that it might mean the Gentiles, whose hearts were like stones—that if the Jews refused, then the Gentiles would accept. In the language of these people they have a word gundi, which means "Mr. So-and-so," or "Mr. What's-his-name." The people often use this term merely to gain time to think of the name of the man. Now in the parable of the Prodigal Son and some other places this word gundi is used for "a certain man." Again and again the people have come to me to ask me the name of this man gundi.

For greater convenience in holding the classes it was decided before rebuilding the large church to erect six schoolrooms around the site of the church which was blown down, and these, as also a seventh (to be at the service of the European missionaries as a guest house), were in use by the end of the year. An incident connected with the construction of these buildings deserves to be recorded for its charming simplicity. Archdeacon Walker says:—

Instance of "simple genuine faith."

In clearing the ground to build the schoolrooms on this hill, some of the crops in the gardens have been destroyed. I sent a few shells to those who have been the principal sufferers. This evening one of the men who had received some shells came and told me he wanted to give them back. He felt sure he ought not to take them—he thought it was like selling his crops to God. The poor fellow said if he took my shells I should do him out of the blessing God was going to give him. He would not hear of keeping the shells until I told him I wanted to share with him the blessing God was going to give him; so to do me the favour of allowing me a share he has taken the shells, but I could quite see he thought it rather mean of me to cut him off a part of his blessing. It is very refreshing to find this simple, genuine faith. We come here to teach, but there is a good deal we can learn too.

The blessing which attended the constant and diligent instruction in the Word of God was brought to light during August, when a week of special services was observed at Mengo, at which some 1,500 were present every morning, and from 500 to 600 in the afternoons. Archdeacon Walker wrote :— Special services.

During the morning service Pilkington, after the address, asked people to stand up and explain, for the help and encouragement of others, how they came to know the Lord. One after another got up and told us how it came about. All of them told us that it was reading the Word of God that enlightened them to see the way of salvation, and each of them gave us the passages (mentioning the chapter and verse) that had most appealed to them. It has been a great encouragement to me to go on steadily teaching the Bible. I am sure there is no better way than the daily reading. The testimonies of last week are an ample proof of the power of the Word of God to convert the heart, and therefore of the necessity of teaching it regularly and perseveringly. Enlightened by the Word.

Of the number of baptisms in the country, Mr. Millar, writing in December, said: "We are baptizing adults at the average rate of 25 per week, and infants are very numerous. The total number of baptisms this year will be over 1,000." And, regarding the catechumens, he said: "The number of candidates for baptism at present in the capital alone is about 600, and this after special efforts have been made to get them examined quickly. The course, as you know, lasts about three months." Baptisms.

Previous to the year under review, baptisms had always been conducted at the capital, or where there were European missionaries stationed. But during 1894 numerous baptisms were taken in the country districts worked from Mengo, and Mr. Pilkington mentions how this was conducive to the removal of misconceptions which had largely prevailed. He says :—

A blow has been struck at the numerous and absurd slanders current about baptism by the work of the Native pastors, who have, whenever possible, taken baptisms in the country churches. While writing this letter I have received a note from Zachariah Kangao, who went to his country place some days ago to baptize some candidates; he says that a great number collected to see the baptisms, and went away saying, "It was all lies they told us about eating snakes' tails and human flesh," &c. One slander he mentions which I think is not only interesting but most encouraging—that baptism consisted "in making an incision in the head and rubbing in a powerful medicine which kills the old heart, and then there comes in its place a new religious heart that does not lust for anything," a glorious Heathen testimony, I take it, to the renewing power of the Gospel of Christ. Misconceptions regarding baptism. Heathen testimony to renewing power of the Gospel.

Mr. Pilkington, assisted by Henry Wright Duta, was engaged during intervals of other work in revising the New Testament. He has sent home a selection of Uganda proverbs, in which, he says, the country is rich, the humour and intelligence of the people, and the accuracy, lucidity, and terseness of the language, combining to create and retain these witty and pithy expressions of the teachings of experience. The following are examples, with Mr. Pilkington's translation and remarks :—

Uganda proverbs.

Namakabirye afa enjala.—"The man who has two homes dies of hunger." The cook at each of the two homes expects the master to dine at the other, and so he "falls between two stools."

Obutamera kireru njuba ya kikome.—"Beardlessness is a cloudy day." As on a cloudy day you can't tell what time it is (in Africa), so you can't tell the age of a man who has no beard. Many Africans seem unable to grow beards.

"Nafira ku kinene," ensanafu ku gere saja.—"'I'll die for a big thing' (as says) the biting ant on the big toe." The ensanafu is the fierce, dark-brown ant with huge mandibles, that travels in vast numbers, and is dreaded by man and beast. "In for a penny, in for a pound." "You may as well be hung for a sheep as a lamb."

Bugubugu si muliro.—"Splutter, splutter isn't fire." Cf. the Irish saying, "Take it 'asy, and, if ye can't take it 'asy, take it as 'asy as ye can;" and, "Still waters run deep."

Industrial work.

Mr. T. B. Fletcher opened a little dispensary, and for a time had a daily average of 48 patients; he also gave some instruction in industrial work, namely, printing and carpentering.

King Mwanga.

The accounts from time to time regarding King Mwanga were of a chequered character. The power of sinful habits reasserted itself again and again, and for a time he seemed to have abandoned the struggle as hopeless. When he learned, however, that, if he persisted in the degrading sins to which for many years he has been addicted, Mr. Roscoe would discontinue his visits for instruction, because there was a danger of such visits being regarded as a connivance at the King's sins, he was deeply affected. During an interview with Mr. Roscoe at the end of May, the King again promised to do battle with his corrupt affections, and immediately took steps for avoiding temptation. He invited one of the Christian teachers to dwell in his house, to be near to help him and guard him from doing evil. However, a few weeks later he declared to Mr. Roscoe his intention to join the Roman Catholics; his motives, as he explained, being partly political, being dissatisfied with the conduct of some of the Protestant chiefs, and partly because he fancied that he might with the Roman Catholics continue in gross sin till just before his death, and then be baptized. Accordingly, at the end of July, he declared himself a Roman Catholic after receiving the sanction of the Resident to do so. But once more, a few days later, he visited Mr. Roscoe, and told him that he had again changed his mind, that he had not been to Rubaga (the Roman Catholic station) to be received into their communion, nor had he received instruction from them or prayed with them. His vacillations were difficult to account for. "We want much believing prayer for him" were Mr. Roscoe's words regarding him at that time.

His vacillations.

In the summer Mr. R. H. Leakey visited BULEMEZI, the district to the north of Mengo, over which the Rev. Zakaria Kizito is the chief, with the title of Kangao. He spent three weeks at the Kangao's place, and says of him:— Bulemezi.

He is a really fine fellow, most kind and thoughtful. He has had built in the large cleared space in front of his enclosure a shed in which Europeans can pitch a tent and leave room for a kitchen at the back and a dining and sitting-room in front of the tent, only a bed and store-room being in the tent. This shed is only used by Europeans, and so is kept clear of the jiggers that infest Native houses. It is better to be outside the chief's enclosure when possible, as then people from the gardens round come to visit one in a way they would not do if one was inside. "A really fine fellow."

From this centre Mr. Leakey visited the neighbouring villages, and afterwards moved farther north. During six weeks he saw as many as nine churches, and heard of several others in this province. He thus describes his work:—

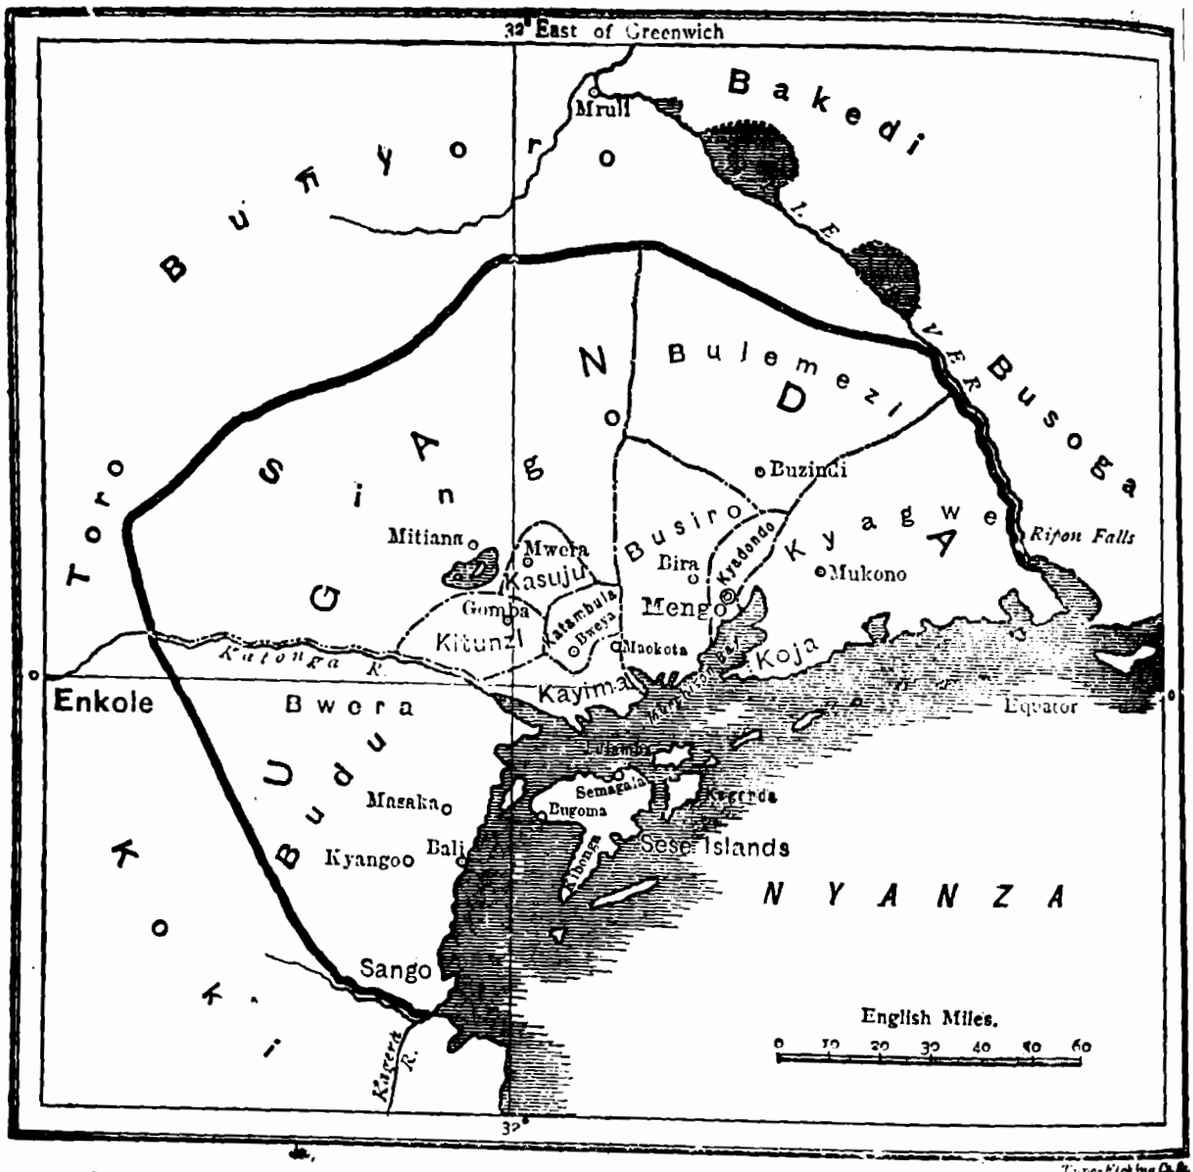

My plan of work there was to have classes in the morning, and, when not teaching, to sit in front of my tent and sell books to any who wanted them. I also had a number of visitors, and a fair number of people used to come to me and ask me to explain to them various passages of the New Testament which they could not understand. This latter is most interesting and helpful work, and when thus explaining to others the Word of God, one often oneself saw new light on an old passage. I was astonished at the way some of the Natives would turn from one passage to another to have their difficulties explained, showing that the whole book had been carefully and thoughtfully read, and difficulties noted till a chance of an explanation turned up. Bible students.

During Lent, 1894, an appeal was put forth for volunteers to engage in evangelistic work in the ISLANDS OF THE VICTORIA LAKE. Twenty-five men and youths responded, and thirteen, having been approved by the Church Council, were dismissed by the congregation on Easter Day, three of whom went to one of the Bavuma Islands, and ten to the Sese Islands. In July and August Mr. Pilkington with Mr. Millar visited the Sese Islands to inspect the work of the agents, to encourage them, and to baptize. These islands are twenty-seven in number; two of them, Sese and Bunjako, with an estimated population of 17,000, belong to the Romanists; the rest to the Protestants, with a population of some 75,000. They visited nineteen of the latter. On fourteen of them they found churches, most of which had been erected since the arrival of the Native evangelists; on three of the islands there were two churches, and on one of them three. When they left there were 76 baptized Christians and 190 catechumens, while the number of readers was about 5,000. Work in the Sese Islands. Nineteen churches on fourteen islands.

The number of Church Council teachers on these islands at that time was twenty-one, but others were sent later, and the number of readers much increased; and Mr. Millar wrote in December that many of the islands were sending teachers to other islands.

Bu'si Island,

In the quotation on page 93 from Mr. Pilkington's letter, he mentions 2,000 people as being under regular instruction on the island of Bu'si. This island and Kome are the two largest of those under the Protestant administration, having each a population of about 10,000. Many of the people on the former belonged formerly to Sese, but were driven away on its being given to the Romanists in 1893. The teacher sent to Bu'si was Samwili Kamwakabi. Mr. Millar says of the church on this island:—

and its church.

The church is a really fine building, 90 feet by 30 feet. Samwili has taken a great deal of trouble over it, and has made it a miniature copy of the Mengo church, with vestry, communion rails, pulpit, and a place for the font. In proportion to the size of the island, this church far surpasses the Mengo church, which was built by all the big chiefs, whereas this one was built practically by this one man, Samwili, with the help of the chiefs on this one island. Needless to say, this church is by far the largest and finest building on the island. As an indication of his care in building the church, some of the grass for thatching it was brought from the mainland in canoes, the right kind of grass not growing in large quantities on the island. Also he is making a Font and Communion Table.

Native teachers have been sent by the Church Council to Toro and to Koki. Yefeti, a brother of Kasagama, the King of Toro, was brought up in Uganda and received the Gospel there, and on his invitation four teachers were sent to Toro. In like manner, the King of Koki, Kamswaga, when at Mengo in the summer, declared his wish to be a Protestant, and returned with four teachers. Teachers sent to Toro, and to Koki.

PROVINCE OF SINGO.

The Mission station is about a mile from Mityana, the seat of the chief Yona Waswa, who has the title of Mukwenda. Mr. A. B. Fisher wished to call the station "Tucker's Hill," but found that the natives could not pronounce the word "Tucker," so he called it NAMUKOZI, which means, "of the labourers," or "hill of the labourers." The situation is exceedingly healthy. Singo.

The Rev. H. R. Sugden joined Mr. Fisher here at the beginning of January. He was accompanied by the Rev. Yairo Mutakyala, one of the Native deacons, who remained there throughout the year. Mr. Sugden says of him :—

He is a thoroughly earnest Christian, and one who has suffered somewhat for Christ. Not long after he came here his house was set fire to in the night by some Mohammedans and burnt down. He has a very good influence over the people here, especially the young men, in whom he takes the greatest interest, and is very active in helping me to train them for becoming teachers. I am very pleased with the progress made by him and our other teachers, especially in their method of working. One great difficulty to them, at first, was visiting the people in their houses. They could go and see the chief, and spend the whole day with him, but to go to each house in a village and just tell the people of the glad tidings of the Gospel was very difficult for them, such a method being entirely contrary to all Baganda customs. Now, however, I am glad to say, they readily visit the people. A Native pastor. Domiciliary visitation.

About 100 attended the week-day classes, and from 250 to 300 on Sundays. The first baptisms at this station occurred on Easter Day, 1894, when twelve adults were baptized, and subsequently eleven were admitted to the Holy Communion for the first time. Twenty-two adults were also baptized in August, among whom were seven women. Mr. Sugden wrote of this latter occasion :— First baptisms.

We had a most impressive service, the church being full. The candidates answered the questions separately, so that all might hear them boldly confessing their faith in the Lord Jesus, and very real was that profession to all of them, I believe. After I had baptized the candidates, I gave a short address to them first, and then one to all the congregation, and after the Baptism Service we had a short time of silent prayer. The perfect silence throughout the whole church was very impressive, and I am sure many earnest prayers went up to God on behalf of those just baptized. Yairo preached a most earnest sermon for nearly an hour, the whole service (in the afternoon) lasting some two and a half hours. Afterwards, when they had all left the church, there were great rejoicings outside, all who had been baptized being joyfully congratulated by all. It was certainly a very happy day for us. I think the work of the Holy Spirit is very manifest in the hearts of the Christians here, with the exception, I am sorry to say, of one or two who were baptized many years ago, and have, I fear, gone back instead of forward.

Great rejoicings.

Two other adults were baptized later, and thirty were under preparation in October. Before entering the classes as catechumens they must be able to read and to repeat a special catechism approved by the Bishop; the course of preparation for baptism takes four months, and after baptism a further course of teaching takes place before candidates are presented for confirmation, or admitted to the Lord's Table. Mr. Sugden remarks about the prospects and hindrances of the work:—

Preparation of catechumens.

> On the whole, the work is distinctly promising; but it is only a very small section of the people that at present have any desire to become real Christians. A very large number are learning to read, but I think it will be another two or three years before we are able to see whether any large number of those who learn to read take the more important step and range themselves boldly on the side of Christ. Very many of the smaller chiefs, and a few of the bigger ones, while agreeing to everything we wish, yet secretly do all they can to hinder their people learning to read or coming to hear the Gospel.

A new church at Mityana, capable of holding 1,000 people, was approaching completion in February, 1895.

Mr. Fisher spent some time at the beginning of 1894 on the three islands in the Singo Lake, where there are numerous "readers." In May he went to the capital, preaching en route. He found ten churches at places intermediate between Mityana and Mengo. He then spent several months until Christmas in the province of Kitunzi, and before he left there were nine churches and 260 readers. The first eight converts in that province were baptized on December 2.

First fruits in province of Kitunzi.

PROVINCE OF KYAGWE.

At the beginning of 1894 the Revs. G. K. Baskerville and W. A. Crabtree were at Ziba, but the latter left in February to accompany the Rev. F. Rowling to Kavirondo. The Rev. E. C. Gordon arrived at Ziba early in April, in order to set Mr. Baskerville free to itinerate, and he remained there until September. Two Native deacons, the Revs. Nikodemo Sebuwato (the Sekibobo, or chief of the province) and Yonathani Kaidzi, were stationed here. Mr. Baskerville spent five weeks visiting the Kikabya, a district in the western part of Kyagwe, extending some fifty miles from north to south, which is under Thomas, a Christian chief, who was one of the earlier members of the Church Council, and was in Budu when Mr. Baskerville was there in 1891. His place is called Nakanonyi, and the church there is capable of accommodating over 700 people. Here on May 6, the Sunday after Ascension Day, after several days spent in teaching, &c., the power of the Holy Spirit seemed to be very specially present. Mr. Baskerville wrote in his private journal:— The Kikabya.

A day of blessing, full and great. Upwards of one hundred precious souls professed to find light at the morning service. The Lord be praised: it is His work. It more than makes up for the postponed home-going. Humanly speaking, if I were not here the Lord would have just now no other instrument to employ. He knows how unworthy the instrument. Oh, His condescension to use it! May He just keep it useable. I cannot descant as I would on this day's blessings. The chief Thomas, quite unasked and even unsuggested, gave a most striking testimony; it was grand to hear him. A day of blessing.

At Namilili, a neighbouring place, similar gracious tokens of blessing were seen on Whit Sunday. There was no church there, so the services were held under a large tree, and ten professed to find the Saviour. Altogether, Mr. Baskerville met some 1,500 readers during his tour, and set on foot the building of seven new churches. Fifty candidates for baptism from this district went to Ziba for further instruction in November. In July Mr. Baskerville visited Busoga, and the north-eastern district of Kyagwe.

The number of adult baptisms during the year in Kyagwe was 137. Mr. Gordon sent home an account of one of the catechumens, a convert from Mohammedanism:— Baptisms.

His name is Serule, and his story most interesting. I have had an opportunity of hearing from his own lips of his search after the truth, for he is here at Ziba reading for baptism. Serule was a Mohammedan for many years. He began to learn something about Mohammed and the Koran in the days of Mtesa; for you may remember how that king gave the order that all should become Mohammedans. Serule went farther than many of the Baganda, for he learnt to read the Koran, and can read it fluently, and knows many passages by heart. He refused to become a "reader" of the Christian faith in the days of Mackay, at a time when many of his friends began to receive instruction from the missionaries. A Mohammedan convert had learned to read the Koran.

It is not so much as a year since Serule began to feel dissatisfied with his Mohammedan faith; and, strange to say, he read words in the Koran which directed him to Christ. The other day Serule asked me if I had a Koran, for he wanted to point out to me the passages which distracted his mind. He read one passage which spoke of Christ as a Prophet who was like God. When Serule read these words, he went at once to some of the Baganda teachers who used to explain the meaning of the Koran. Such answers as they gave were not satisfactory, and did not quiet Serule's mind, so he determined to ask the Baganda Christians what they thought of this Christ. Serule went to one living near, called Nua (Noah), who is a good Christian man and a teacher. From Nua's lips Serule heard the wonderful story of the love of God in Christ, and determined to set to work to read the Christian Book. Determines to study the Christian Book.

He is a man of about thirty-five years, and at that age found it rather difficult to master the characters, for he had to begin at the very beginning. His eager desire to know the truth carried him forward, and in a very short time he had mastered the art of reading. He put it in his own words to me like this: "The Arabic characters had not beaten me, nor was I going to allow this new character to beat me." He very soon succeeded in mastering the books put into his hand, lent him by his friend Nua. He pushed on to the Gospels, and read one Gospel after another with increasing delight. His face showed his great joy as he told me this. He has now got a New Testament in Luganda, given him by Pilkington; he reads this with constant pleasure. He is spending a short time at this station reading for baptism. He is the most attentive of a very attentive though small congregation at Ziba. He looks so bright and interested, and shows in more than one way that he is truly converted.

New station.

In November the station was removed from Ziba to NGOGWE to be nearer Kiwologoma, the Sekibobo's place of residence; and the wisdom of the change was proved by the much larger congregations which came together. For a week in December some 2,000 people from the whole provinces and a great number of readers assembled at Ngogwe, and the new church, holding some 800, was packed on December 9, when the public opening took place, on which occasion there were 93 communicants. Six churchwardens were chosen, and four new teachers were sent out into the district, making 24 supported from Ngogwe. On the Friday before the church was opened a missionary meeting was held, of which Mr. Baskerville, in his journal written for a circle of his private friends, gives the following account:—

Election of churchwardens.

This afternoon we have had a missionary meeting—hymn, portion, prayer, two evangelists, two prayers, two evangelists, two prayers, two evangelists, hymn, prayer, grace. I wish you could all have been present and heard and understood all that was said—young men all of them who spoke, full of life, and one or two were really eloquent. One man who goes about with a drum, beating one well-known beat, reached one day a certain garden. Crabtree had been there some time before. A number of women came to meet him. "We heard the white man's drum." "Yes," said our friend, "I am a black white-man and come to teach you." Great was the jubilation. Many of our teachers have had great hunger to put up with—six days, six meals—and one said to his companion after a foodless day, "What is death like? because this is remarkably like it." Another went to relieve a teacher whose time was up; they were two Sundays together, and then the one left. Next Sunday no one came at all! At last he got them together and spoke to them: "Those who came here just for a walk or because James (the former teacher) was your friend—you came to see him and hear him; please do not come any more. But those who came to hear of Christ, come. I have the same book as James had, and preach the same Gospel. We do not want, 'I am of James, and I of Aloni, &c.' James has gone and I shall go; but James' Jesus has not gone, and He is also my Jesus." The next Sunday the church was as full as ever.

"A black white-man."

"He is also my Jesus."

BUSOGA.

The station at LUBA'S, which the Rev. J. Roscoe left in August, 1892, was reoccupied by the Rev. F. Rowling in August, 1894. Mr. Rowling, after travelling up-country with Archdeacon Walker, and remaining two months at Nassa, arrived in Uganda in January, 1894. He then proceeded with the Rev. W. A. Crabtree to Berkeley (or Sio) Bay, in Kavirondo, and subsequently to Mumia's. At both places difficulties were experienced in obtaining food, and the Finance Committee at Mengo, on hearing of the state of things from Mr. Crabtree, decided to transfer the two brethren to Busoga. Mr. Crabtree went to Miro's, a place to the north of Luba's. Difficulties experienced in Kavirondo.

The closing words of Mr. Pilkington's Annual Letter may suitably conclude this record of what the Lord has done in Uganda through His servants during the past year:—

Is it not obvious that our present staff is not nearly sufficient? There are, thank God, several most able Natives, real soul-winners too (notably Samuel Kamwakabi of Bu'si, whom I have heard begging his people—700 of them—with tears in his eyes, to be reconciled to God); but they are not yet fully qualified to organize and keep books, nor to train people for this work. Europeans are needed for a few years in considerable numbers; men of ability and education and spiritual power are needed. Such men would, as far as one can foresee, be the means in God's hand of putting into the field here, say, each of them, ten Native missionaries in a few years, each of the ten in most ways equal, in many ways superior, to any European; therefore I venture to say that one European of the kind required now is worth ten five years hence. May the Lord of the Harvest open the eyes of those at home to see it! Need of more men.

EGYPT MISSION.

The original object of the Missions formerly grouped under the heading of the "Mediterranean Mission," which were begun at Malta in 1815, at the close of the great war, and which were afterwards extended to Egypt, Abyssinia, Greece, Turkey, Asia Minor, and Palestine, was twofold: firstly, to revive the Eastern Churches; and, secondly, through them to evangelize the Mohammedans. Some very able and devoted Missionaries have been employed in this work—Jowett, Gobat, Krapf, Pfander, Koelle, &c. But the hopes of the first founders of the Society were not fulfilled. Oriental Christendom manifested no readiness to be quickened into life by emissaries from the West; and Moslem fanaticism, which barely tolerated Greek and Armenian Christianity, utterly repudiated the Gospel when presented in a pure form. Despite treaties and concessions on paper, Missionary effort among the Moslem population of the Turkish Empire is carried on under the most vexatious restrictions, and a Mussulman can only become a Christian at the imminent risk of liberty and life.

As above stated, the Society had formerly a Mission in Egypt, as part of its scheme for the revival of the Eastern Churches. Many of the Coptic clergy, and one Bishop, were trained in the C.M.S. Seminary at Cairo; but the visible results were small. In 1882, in response to the appeals of the late Miss Whately, and in consequence of the British occupation of Egypt, the Rev. F. A. Klein, formerly of Jerusalem, was sent to Cairo to begin a new Mission among the Mohammedans. A Medical Mission was opened in 1889, and ladies were added to the staff in the following year.

THERE were no changes in the European staff of this Mission during the year. The Rev. P. G. Wood came home in July, and returned to Cairo with Mrs. Wood in October.

The Rev. F. F. Adeney is the Secretary of the Mission. By doctor's orders he visited Assiout during the year, and he pays a very warm tribute to the work among the Copts, both there and at Cairo, of the American Presbyterians. The work of the Church Missionary Society is directed to the Moslems, so that there is no crossing of each other's labours, even where they are on the same ground, and the most cordial relations exist between the members of the two missions.

Old Cairo. Medical Mission.

Mr. Adeney superintends the boys' school, the Sunday services, and the work of a Native evangelist at OLD CAIRO. It is here that the Medical Mission is at work, under Dr. F. J. Harpur. The hospital, a hired house adapted, in which the Mission ladies reside (and where they are ever liable to receive notice to quit; they were under such notice when they wrote their Annual Letters, and were obliged to contemplate a third change of abode in a little over a year!), was enlarged in the spring of 1894 by the removal of the dispensary to other premises. It has now nine beds, which were all full in December. The patients are under the care of Miss L. M. Mann, and she says they are very ready to listen to the Gospel; as most of them remain some time under treatment, they have opportunities for hearing much of God's Word. The dispensary attendants during nine months represented no less than 421 districts and villages all over Egypt. Miss M. Cay instructed the women and children among the out-patients—from 60 to 100 daily—while they were waiting in the dispensary, and visited them afterwards in their homes with a Bible woman. Miss Cay gives the following instance of encouragement in this work :—

Interest in doctrine of the Resurrection.

There is, in one house, a young wife in whom I have always been much interested, she is so gentle and quiet, and so fond of listening to Bible-teaching. She used to look very sad, for her only child died shortly before we made her acquaintance. One day the story of Jairus' daughter led to the subject of the Resurrection, and I said, "When Jesus comes again, your little girl will rise." I do not think I shall ever forget her look—the look of one who heard that glorious doctrine for the first time. She was intensely interested, and months after, when my Bible woman said one day that Christ was now in heaven, she promptly replied, "Yes, and He is coming again to raise the dead." I believe she has quite grasped that great hope, and she looks so much happier, and welcomes further instruction.

Itinerating on the canals.

In May Dr. and Mrs. Harpur, Mrs. Bywater, and the Rev. P. G. Wood went on an evangelistic journey in the Delta to the north of Cairo. They travelled in a dahabeyah, or house-boat, along the Tewfekey Canal from Barrage, on the Nile, where the canal commences, to Benha el Asl, where it rejoins the river; and Dr. Agami went later along the Memefeyeh Canal, which communicates between Barrage and a point lower down the river near the town of Birshûm. During the two months of the successive tours, 2,844 patients were treated, and some forty operations performed; 34 villages were visited, and 1,400 Scripture leaflets and between 300 and 400 Gospels were given away. An interesting work among Moslems unexpectedly opened out in the spring of 1894. Dr. Harpur says :—

Educated Moslems at the Mission House.

One evening I invited some old friends of the artisan class to a Native supper in my house, after which I showed them some magic-lantern slides on scenes from the life of Christ; in the course of the evening I mentioned that I would be "at home" every Monday night, and would be glad to see any of them on that evening of the week. On the Monday following a larger number than I expected came, bringing with them friends whom I had never seen, and nearly all of the more educated class; at their request I showed the magic-lantern. The third evening a larger number came, and commenced to ask questions on controversial points. I asked Nicola, Mr. Adeney's agent at the Book Depôt, to come the fourth evening to help to answer their objections. The room was filled with some forty of the educated "Effendi" class; many of them came prepared with hard questions, attacking the divinity of Christ, the inspiration of the Scriptures, &c. Nicola had to answer questions from every side : we felt this unfair, and the next night required that all questions should be written, and we would reply in writing; we also told them that, as the Christian religion was following Christ, we would study His life at the meetings. When we would not allow general controversy, thirty men got up and left the room at once. The meetings were carried on for six or seven weeks, larger numbers attending each occasion, until, on the last evening, as well as I can recollect, some eighty men assembled in the court of my house; it was often close to midnight when they dispersed.

Miss E. Jackson teaches daily in the girls' school and visits the children's homes. A weekly prayer meeting is held by the elder girls, and some of them, though still nominally Moslems, often engage in prayer, and declare emphatically their belief in Christ as the Son of God and Saviour of the world.

Cairo. At CAIRO the Rev. P. G. Wood conducts the services in the little chapel, and superintends the boys' school and the evangelistic work. The ladies moved in the summer from their former quarters, Saida Zenab—where they found it impossible to rent a suitable house for a girls' boarding school—to Bab-el-Louk, in the Ismailia quarter, and here the school was opened in September. Miss E. Kauffmann had a very warm welcome on her arrival from Palestine in April to share in the work of this school. It had nine boarders in December—of whom seven were Mohammedans, one a Jewess, and one a Copt—and twenty-four day pupils. Miss J. B. Bywater says that all the children in the senior class bought Bibles for themselves in the course of the year, and in no case was any objection taken at their homes to their possessing them. Miss J. Ellis finds an ever-increasing number of houses open to her, and is especially welcomed when, twice a week, she visits those in the Saida Zenab district whose acquaintance she made while residing there. She says :—

Girls' Boarding School.

"Only the men pray." I often ask the women if they ever pray ; most of them laugh at the idea, and say, "We pray ! We do not know how to pray ; only the men pray. Do you pray ?" when I say, "Yes, always," they say, "Truly, truly, how wonderful ! Teach us to pray."

Book Depôt. The Bible and Book Depôt has now premises in one of the principal thoroughfares of Cairo, and the sales increased greatly. Outside the depôt a chained New Testament is frequently used by passers-by. By the help of the Religious Tract Society an edition of 1,000 copies of Bakoorah Shahuyah ("Sweet First-fruits") was printed and published in Cairo, and a second edition was needed a few months later. Mr. Adeney says: "Education is advancing rapidly in Egypt, and we have a freedom of publishing literature enjoyed nowhere else in the Turkish dominions. We ought, I think, to use with vigour, while we can, this great lever to move the inert mass of Moslem ignorance and superstition." Sir William Muir has rendered good service to the cause of truth by his translation into English from the Arabic of such books as Apology of Al Kindy, Sweet First-fruits, and The Beacon of Truth, written by Christian converts from Mohammedanism.

PALESTINE MISSION.

The work in the Levant has for some years been confined to Palestine, to which the Society was invited by Bishop Gobat in 1851. The following places are occupied by European labourers: Jerusalem, 1851; Nazareth, 1852; Salt, 1873; Jaffa, 1876; Nablous, 1876; Ramallah, 1877; Gaza, 1878; Haifa, 1884; Acca, 1890; Kefr Yasif, 1892; Bir Zeit, 1892; and Ramleh, 1894. (See also p. 104.)

Reinforcements.

THE additions made to the staff of the Palestine Mission consisted of one clergyman and wife, one medical missionary and his wife, and seven ladies. They were the Rev. Albert Liggins, transferred from the Mid-China Mission, and Mrs. Liggins (née E. M. Goadby), who joined him in this Mission and was married to him in November; Dr. John Cropper and Mrs. Cropper (née Anne Ellen Walker); Miss Mary Williams, transferred from the Sierra Leone Mission; Miss Lucy Ward Lewis, formerly of the Niger Mission, and sister of the Rev. Eric Lewis, also formerly of that Mission; Miss Mary C. Seton Adamson, daughter of the Rev. W. Adamson, vicar of Old Ford; Miss Esther A. Cooke, of Cheltenham; Miss Anne Norman Jarvis; Miss Fanny Louisa Ann Roberts; and Miss Janet Wenham. Miss Adamson, Miss Lewis, and Miss Wenham were at The Willows, and Miss Roberts and Miss Cooke at the Deaconess' House, Aston. Mr. Liggins arrived in Palestine from China in September, 1894, and Dr. and Mrs. Cropper arrived in March, 1895. The ladies all sailed in October, 1894, and were accompanied by Miss E. Armstrong, Miss F. Nuttall (who came home the previous June), and Miss C. C. Coote, returning after furlough on sick leave. In the Committee's name the following words were addressed to them:—

Committee's counsels to outgoing party.

As you go forth, dear sisters, some would almost envy you for the sacredness of the land on which your lot has fallen. Others would pity you for the stony nature of the soil on which you are to sow the good seed of the Kingdom. Do not build too much on what you will find. If you do not carry with you all that makes every place hallowed ground, not even Palestine will of itself provide it for you. Neither be over-fearful of the task before you; it will not be impossible if you can pray the prayer of Asa, who "cried unto the Lord his God and said, Lord, it is nothing with Thee to help, whether with many, or with them that have no power; help us, O Lord our God, for we rest on Thee, and in Thy Name we go against this multitude. O Lord, Thou art our God; let not man prevail against Thee" (2 Chron. xiv. 11). The Committee, as you go forth, take the place of Saul as he watches David go against Goliath. They see the giant foe; the strong man armed and in possession. They see you in your simple preparation, as they hope, not trusting in any armour which you have not proved, but going forth ready to say, "I come to thee in the name of the Lord of hosts, the God of the armies of Israel, whom thou hast defied." They say heartily and prayerfully, "Go, and the Lord be with you."

Mrs. J. R. L. Hall and Miss S. L. Barker came home in September, 1894; Miss A. M. Elverson came home in August and returned in November; and the Rev. H. Sykes came home in May, 1895.

Conferences.

The Conference of Missionaries was held at Salt in November.

This was the first occasion that the missionaries have held their gathering on the east of the Jordan. It was a time of refreshing, both to the missionaries themselves and to the Christian community of the place who welcomed them to their midst. In August, thirty missionaries belonging to various Missions met at Hebron and held a convention for prayer and the study of the Word of God. The possibility of such a meeting in a place which, except Mecca, is perhaps the most zealously guarded by Mohammedans of all places in the world is probably one fruit of the Mildmay Medical Mission there. Miss Hester Campbell wrote: "Truly He who stood at Abram's tent door long ago in Mamre's plain was very present with us, and more than one has gone away to Jerusalem, or Beyrout, or Cairo to thank God for that week at Hebron."

Ordination. Bishop Blyth admitted M. Asaad Mansur to Deacon's Orders, at Jaffa, on December 23, 1894. The sermon was preached by the Rev. Ibrahim Baz, of Jerusalem.

JERUSALEM.

Jerusalem. The Rev. John Zeller, in his fortieth year of service, still superintends the important training and educational institutions and the Printing Press, which are situated in Jerusalem but exist for the good of the whole Mission. The Preparandi Institution for training teachers had its full complement of twenty students when it reopened after the vacation in November. One of the students, an Egyptian, went to Cairo for employment in the Mission there, and two were engaged as assistant teachers in the Bishop Gobat School. Mr. Zeller remarks on the great change in respect to educational facilities in Jerusalem which he has witnessed. When Bishop Gobat opened in 1852 the school which now bears his name, it was the only boarding school in the whole of Palestine, whereas now Mr. Zeller enumerates eight other such schools in Jerusalem alone. What is more remarkable is that the Turkish Government itself has taken up the cause of education, and has established Boards in every central town to promote this object, and schools have been opened in almost every village. These facts, he rightly considers, render the Bishop Gobat School, situated on Mount Zion, not less, but more important than before, and it is satisfactory to observe that the rivalry of other institutions has not in any degree diminished its popularity. For sixteen vacancies in November eighty applications were received. The head-master, Mr. F. T. Ellis, was married to Miss C. Low in August. Both Mr. and Mrs. Zeller refer in terms of thankfulness to a visit of the Rev. Martin J. Hall in the spring of 1894, on his way home from a visit to India with Rev. E. N. Thwaites. He held a number of special meetings for the boys at the school, most of whom understood enough of English to follow him without an interpreter. The boys' missionary box, passed round after the Sunday evening missionary addresses, produced £2. 16*s*. The Printing Press sent forth a "Church History of the First Seven Centuries;" Lives of Chrysostom, Origen, and Cyprian; a grammatical treatise on Arabic particles; an Arabic Church Almanack for 1895; and a number of pamphlets, cards, &c. The Rev. C. T. Wilson reports a slight increase in the Congregation under the pastorship of the Rev. I. Baz. The Girls' Boarding School, under Miss A. Welch (with Miss G. F. Tindall as "house-mother," succeeded in December, 1894, by Miss J. Wenham), has twelve pupils, children mostly of agents of the Mission. The girls are members of the "Sowers' Band," and sent £2. 1*s*. to England for Bibles for Uganda. The Day Schools have about 90 boys and 75 girls. An Evangelistic Service at the Bible Depôt, at the Jaffa Gate, was resumed by Mr. Wilson in the spring of 1894. The Village Work in the neighbourhood of Jerusalem and in the out-stations is under Mr. Wilson. In the summer he itinerated with a tent on several occasions, spending the night in different villages. Lantern slides were shown (on three occasions in the village mosque), and medicines were distributed. Mr. Wilson's brother, the Rev. D. M. Wilson, who resided in Jerusalem while studying Arabic, and the Rev. J. G. B. Hollins, of Jaffa, accompanied him in some of his itinerations. The latter says:—

Lantern slides shown in mosques.

> It was my privilege to accompany the Rev. C. T. Wilson, of Jerusalem, this summer on an itinerating tour of three days, during which time we went to as many villages, where there was not a single Christian inhabitant, staying a night in each place. Wherever we halted, we found a welcome, the male portion of the inhabitants, as a rule, giving us a willing hand in putting up our tent. Quite touching, too, was it to see the sick flocking round Mr. Wilson, who carried with him some simple medicines for the most common diseases of the country—eye affections and fever—the mothers bringing their little ones in their arms; and others, young and old, coming either for themselves or their friends at home. One could not help being reminded of how those oppressed with disease of old gathered round the Great Physician as He "went about doing good." And then, each evening, with the aid of a magic-lantern, Mr. Wilson was able to speak plainly to large numbers of these Moslems of sin, and of their absolute need of a Saviour, and, having done this, to "preach unto them Jesus."

Miss H. Attlee resides at the village of Et Tur, on the Mount of Olives, where she has a class for women and girls, dispenses medicines, and visits neighbouring villages. The state of ignorance which prevails is indicated by the fact that it is only a few of the brightest girls in her class who are learning to read; most of the girls, however, can repeat the "Duty towards God" and "Duty towards my Neighbour" quite perfectly, as well as Isaiah liii., Psalms li., ciii. and cxxi., and other texts and hymns. A night-class of boys were frightened from attending any longer by a warning from a public crier that all who allowed their children to learn from Miss Attlee would have to pay a Turkish pound and suffer imprisonment. Very encouraging have been some of Miss Attlee's visits to other villages. In one, some distance off, she found that a text taught several months before had been remembered both by women and boys. In another she overheard a woman telling her neighbour, who had not been to a meeting before, that what Miss Attlee taught them was "so good: that they were to cast all their cares and troubles upon the Lord Jesus; for He said, 'Come unto Me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest.'"

Occupation of Bir Zeit by ladies.

Misses G. F. Tindall and E. E. Brodie went in December, 1894, after passing the language examination, to occupy Bir Zeit, a village beyond Ramallah, and about five hours' ride from Jerusalem), where there is a school and a small congregation. Misses F. Nuttall and C. C. Coote returned to Ramallah on November 1, and were warmly welcomed by both Protestants and Greeks. The congregation, school, and bookshop there are under Mr. G. Nyland. At Tayibeh the Rev. H. Musa, in Deacon's Orders, resides. The other out-stations are Jiffna and Abood.

JAFFA.

Jaffa.

The Arabic services at Jaffa are taken by the Rev. T. F. Wolters, who says that there was a marked improvement during the year in the heartiness of the congregational responses and attention to the preaching. The Rev. J. G. B. Hollins, while learning Arabic, assisted at the English service on Sunday afternoons. The schools in Jaffa and neighbourhood have between 400 and 500 children, most of them Greeks. The ladies, Miss E. Armstrong and Miss E. E. Newton, assist in the Jaffa schools, and visit the houses of the Moslems, reading and explaining the Scriptures, teaching the women texts, and always praying with them. A women's meeting and a working party also bring the women together for instruction. The transfer of the Rev. H. Dimishky from Lydd to Ramleh, mentioned in last year's Annual Report, was not carried out; Miss E. A. Cooke and Miss F. L. A. Roberts, two of the year's recruits, are located at Ramleh.

GAZA.

Gaza Medical Mission.

An interesting report of the Medical Mission at Gaza has been received from the Rev. Dr. R. Sterling. The number of patients during the year was 15,328, to all of whom the Gospel was preached by the Rev. Y. Zorab, the Native pastor. Dr. Sterling says:—

> The patients are most interested in the address, and it comes as a revelation to most of them. The service lasts about half an hour, and is concluded with prayer for all men (1 Tim. ii.). I cannot speak in too high terms of the manner in which the addresses are given. After the address the pastor engages the patients in conversation, meeting their difficulties and answering their objections, so that no opportunity of giving God's message is lost.

The dispensary is open on three days weekly, and the attendances average 100 daily. Miss H. Campbell and Miss F. Patching, the latter a trained nurse, assisted in the hospital, which will accommodate fifteen patients, and work among the women and children. During the summer months Dr. Sterling regularly visited Mejdal (near the ruins of Askelon) and Ashdod, villages to the north of Gaza, with each a population of over 4,000, where he treated, on one occasion, 533 patients. Dr. Sterling concludes his Annual Letter with an account of two or three incidents which gave him encouragement:—

Visits to sites of ancient Philistine cities.

The "Seed of Truth" has been scattered and "the leaven" is at work. The other day, on offering a New Testament to a Turkish official in his own language, I was agreeably surprised to find that he already possessed one in Arabic, and that he was familiar with it. This is by no means an isolated case. Another interesting feature observable from time to time is that, when the people are seeking a favour from us, they ask it "for Jesus' sake," which at least shows that they recognize the principle of our action.

For Jesus' sake.

An incident which, I trust, will have a very marked influence on our work has recently occurred. The Mufti, who has for years been the leading antagonist to our work, was recently taken ill with a severe and dangerous illness. His life was despaired of, and on the fourth day, after having tried the other available medical help, I was called to see him. On recognizing the nature of his illness, I entertained grave apprehensions as to his state, but I am thankful to say, after operative measures, he was relieved, to the great joy of himself and his family. His gratitude was profound, and I doubt not in the future he will be ready to support us in our endeavours to obtain a firman for the hospital. On the day after his recovery the mosques were illuminated and thanksgivings were said. The schools are now more largely attended by both boys and girls, and they are attaining a higher degree of efficiency.

An enemy rendered grateful.

NABLOUS (DENIS CROFTON MISSION).

Much trouble and opposition were experienced by Dr. Gaskoin R. M. Wright in his Medical work. Soon after the dispensary was re-opened in February, 1894, the building was taken possession of by the Government officials and opened by them as a hospital. An old café was, however, converted, "by division and sub-division," into a dispensary, patients' waiting-room, consulting-room, and two wards, and, notwithstanding opposition, the out-patients numbered between 200 and 300 weekly, and the ten beds in the little temporary hospital were constantly occupied. The doctor writes gratefully of Miss A. A. M. Bedells' help, who was transferred in the summer from Gaza to Nablous; and he was especially thankful at the end of the year to welcome Miss M. C. Seton Adamson, who is a trained nurse. The better-class women are almost inaccessible to a male doctor, as the following experience of Dr. Wright shows:—

Nablous.

An old café converted into a dispensary.

Not very long ago I was asked to see a Turkish lady who was very ill and suffering great pain; but when I went I was not allowed to see her face at all, for she was closely veiled. When asked to put out her tongue, she protruded the tip only through the folds of her shawl, carefully concealing even her lips and teeth. She gave me her hand in the same way. As I could not understand her case, I asked her several questions, but she greatly resented this, and thought me very inquisitive. She would not answer me directly, but spoke through her husband, who was present the whole time.

The Rev. C. Fallscheer was occasioned much annoyance and anxiety by a disaffected member of the congregation, who declared that a part of the Mission premises belonged to him. A lengthy and costly lawsuit followed, which took up much of Mr. Fallscheer's time, but ended satisfactorily in other respects. He rejoices at the recent accessions to the band of workers, he having been alone at Nablous from 1864 until 1891. He frequently exchanges visits with the three priests of the Samaritan community. Miss A. N. Jarvis has joined Miss E. G. Reeve for work among the women and girls. The Rev. S. Gomri conducts services at the out-stations—namely, Rafidieh, Nisf-el-Jebel, Burka, Zebabdeh and Tobaz, where there are also schools.

NAZARETH, HAIFA, ACCA, AND KEFR-YASIF.

Signs of encouragement.

The Rev. J. R. L. Hall visited the above-named stations three times during the year, in June, September, and January, and found the work generally very encouraging. On the last occasion he was accompanied by the Rev. J. H. Sedgwick; and Mr. Hall wrote:—

> When at last we turned again towards Jerusalem—paying a second visit on the way to Acre, Nazareth, Shefamer, and Nablous—it was with hearts very full of gratitude to God for His faithfulness to His promises and His readiness to bless His work. Neither Mr. Sedgwick nor I had expected to see so many tokens of the Son of Man Himself walking in the midst of His work and caring for and honouring His dear servants, both European and Native, and Mr. Sedgwick, who had never been in this part of our Mission before, was especially struck by it. Everywhere, even where there seemed most to discourage the workers, the Lord seemed to be giving unexpected support and help, and to be saying to the workers, "I know thy works, and thy labours, and thy patience." "Be strong, I am with you, saith the Lord of Hosts."

Nazareth.

Acca.

The girls' school at ACCA is one of the best in the Mission. The Misses Wardlaw Ramsay labour at this station, and Dr. Cropper has been assigned to it to commence a medical mission there, but it is not proposed that he should take up residence there at once.

Kefr-Yasif.

Mrs. Low refers to opposition from the Greek Bishop to the work at KEFR-YASIF, but the effect was, she says, to weed the congregation of unworthy members, and to increase the faith and zeal of the rest. The Mohammedans of the place are not unfriendly; their sheikh, indeed, gave help in obtaining a favourable report from the local officials, which was a prerequisite to permission being given from Constantinople to the building of a Protestant church. Mrs. Low visited the out-station of Birwe and other villages; in one of them she found the ignorance so great that the Christians (Greeks) did not even know that our Lord's Resurrection is commemorated on Easter Day! Miss L. W. Lewis has joined Mrs. Low at Kefr-Yasif. Ignorance of Greek Christians.

At HAIFA, Miss M. A. Daniels, notwithstanding special difficulties, experienced no interruption in her work, but, on the contrary, was much encouraged. She was left alone by Miss S. L. Barker's return home in the autumn. Haifa.

SALT AND THE HAURAN.

The Rev. H. Sykes continued, until he came home in May, 1895, in charge of the trans-Jordan district, residing at SALT, where the Rev. N. abu Hattum is the pastor. The Rev. D. M. Wilson has been temporarily transferred to Salt. Salt.

The circumstances under which KERAK, the ancient Kir of Moab, was taken over by the Society were explained in last year's Report. Immediately after the conference which met at Salt in November, Mr. Sykes, accompanied by the Rev. C. T. Wilson, paid a visit to this station. Mr. Wilson wrote:— Visit to Kerak.

> I was greatly impressed with the possibilities of Mission work at Kerak, and with its immense importance as a door to the regions beyond. There is a great work to be done among the Moslems of the place, who seem on the most friendly terms with the workers there, and who are very open at present to the preaching of the Gospel. Mr. Forder has quite won their hearts by his medical work. This, I am sorry to say, has been stopped by the present governor, on the ground that Mr. Forder, not being a properly qualified medical man, cannot practise in the Turkish Empire.

PERSIA AND BAGHDAD MISSION.

Until a very recent period, Persia was quite closed to the Gospel. Henry Martyn stayed ten months in the country in 1811. Since 1834 an American Mission has laboured with much blessing among the Nestorian Christians. In 1869 the Rev. R. Bruce, of the C.M.S., visited Persia on his way back to India, and finding the Moslems of Ispahan and its neighbourhood not unwilling to discuss religious subjects, he took up his abode there, and gathered round him some few of these, and a considerable number of Armenian Christians who were dissatisfied with their corrupt form of worship. He also opened schools, &c. In 1875 the Society formally adopted his work as one of its Missions. Ladies were added to the staff in 1891.

In 1882 the Mission was extended by the occupation of Baghdad, which, though in the Turkish Empire, has opportunities for Persian work (which, however, the C.M.S. has only been able very intermittently to carry on), being in the immediate neighbourhood of the sacred places of the Shiah Mohammedans, and therefore the resort of thousands of pilgrims from all parts of Persia.

Bishop Stuart and his party.

On September 11, 1894, the 44th anniversary of the date of his first sailing for India in company with Thomas Valpy French, Bishop Stuart bade farewell to the Committee and started the following day on the journey to Persia. He was accompanied by his daughter and also by two missionaries, viz., the Rev. W. A. Rice, transferred from the Punjab and Sindh Mission, and Miss Henrietta Louisa Conner, who had had experience in nursing and dispensing, as well as in evangelistic work, in Dublin. The Rev. J. T. Parfit, of Islington College, who was admitted to Deacon's Orders by the Bishop of London on Trinity Sunday, May 20, and to Priest's Orders by the Bishop of Worcester, for the Bishop of London, at Aston Parish Church, on September 23, 1894, sailed for Baghdad in October. In addition to these the following have sailed from Australia to join this Mission: The Rev. A. R. Blackett, incumbent of the important parish of Prahran, Melbourne, regarding whom the Rev. H. B. Macartney, in his magazine, The Missionary, said, "If Persia has got her Paul from New Zealand, in the person of Bishop Stuart, and gets her Barnabas now from Victoria, the churches in these colonies will no more suffer than the Church of Antioch did when, at the Lord's bidding, it parted with its two foremost men;" and Misses Amy Wilkes and Alice Phillips, sent out and supported by the New South Wales Association, the former designated to Baghdad, the latter to Julfa. Mr. Blackett, with his wife and young daughter, sailed from Melbourne in March, to visit England en route for Persia. Some difficulty was experienced in arranging for the conduct of the ladies from the port in the Persian Gulf to their respective stations, and Miss Wilkes, who sailed from Sydney in September, 1894, was detained at Bombay until February, 1895, when she was joined by Miss Phillips, and both proceeded to Baghdad, whence, when an opportunity occurs, Miss Phillips may possibly go forward to Julfa.

Reinforcements from Australia.

On the other hand, the Rev. Dr. Robert Bruce, after thirty-six years of labour in the fields of the Punjab and Persia, has felt obliged to retire from foreign service, but not from active work in the Society's behalf, as he has accepted an appointment as a special deputation to take part in stirring up a deeper and warmer missionary interest at home. Dr. Bruce's great work as a reviser and translator of the Holy Scriptures will keep his memory fragrant among Christians in Persia for all time. He concluded his translation of the Old Testament during the year under review. Retirement of Dr. Bruce.

Bishop Stuart received before leaving England a document signed by the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Bishop of London, authorizing him to perform Episcopal functions in Persia under certain defined limitations. The Bishop has, at the request of the Committee, assumed in their behalf certain responsibilities as Head of the Mission, the Rev. W. St. Clair Tisdall being the Secretary as before.

JULFA.

Bishop Stuart and his party reached JULFA early in November. The Bishop wrote:—

We had an enthusiastic reception here. Our halting-place on Friday night was Gez, 16 miles (4 farsakhs) from Julfa, 12 from Ispahan, for one has to ride all through the straggling city before reaching the ancient bridge over the dividing river. Well, on getting to the Gez caravanserai, we found Mr. Tisdall's and Dr. Carr's servants waiting for us, carpets spread and afternoon tea all ready, the samovar boiling, and, best of all, a great budget of letters from our two homes on opposite sides of the globe! We fell to the welcome refreshment, and had just taken off the first cream of our letters when the two gentlemen themselves appeared, having ridden out to dine and stay the night at Gez and ride in to Julfa with us in the morning. This is the custom here on a new arrival, to meet them some distance out of town, to welcome and do honour to the guests. This is called istigbal. Reception of Bishop Stuart at Julfa.

In the morning a fresh detachment of school-teachers and other members of the congregation came out, and others joined in the istigbal at various points in the pleasant morning ride. Our horses were fresh and knew that they were nearing home, so most of the ride we did at a canter till we got to the city gate. Then we had warily to pick our steps over the wretchedly paved, or half-paved, streets and through the crowded bazaars with their vaulted roofs covering in the streets for half a mile or so, and through narrow and crooked lanes, till at last we emerged at the neighbourhood of the river, where a fashionable suburb, with one redeeming feature in a noble avenue of lofty chenar trees, extends for some distance. The Imperial bank and the consular residence are in that quarter. After crossing the remarkable bridge, we plunged into the narrow and dirty lanes of Julfa, passing through an open and crowded market in a wide square. The squalor and smells of Julfa are not attractive: an open channel of sluggish water (called a jowb) runs through the middle of all the narrow streets, or rather lanes, leaving a coarsely causeyed footpath on each side—bad enough for the feet of our ponies, and by no means inviting for pedestrians. These have to scuttle out of the way as best they can when the horses or mules pass along. There is no carriage way. The Mission-house and all other houses turn blind walls to the street. You enter through a low gateway and passage, and emerge into a fairly spacious court, planted with shrubs and vines, round which on three sides are the rooms. The study and church-room take up one side—opposite are the living-rooms, and the third side has some bedrooms.

Services. The Persian, Armenian, and English Services were taken by the Revs. W. St. Clair Tisdall and H. Carless, assisted by the Rev. M. George, the Armenian pastor. Bishop Stuart confirmed ten candidates in December; the church was crowded in every part during the service. On Christmas Day the communicants numbered 111 (including the fourteen of the Mission party), the largest number hitherto recorded. Notwithstanding the distance from the city of Ispahan, a good number of Persians usually attend the Sunday morning service, many of whom remain for the afternoon Bible-class, which is taken by Mr. Tisdall. Miss M. R. S. Bird has a Bible-class for Persian women, with an average attendance of twenty-five, notwithstanding that spies have been often set to watch and frighten the women away.

Converts and Inquirers. On February 24, 1895, an adult was baptized. The convert was a Sayyid of some thirty-six years of age. He had been a catechumen for over a year, attending regularly twice a week for instruction. He had already, before baptism, suffered much for his Divine Master, having once been imprisoned and threatened with severe punishment, but the intervention of a noble of high position obtained his release. He spends much of his time, Mr. Tisdall writes, in visiting the sick and reading the Gospel to them. Since then another baptism has occurred. Mr. Tisdall asks prayer for these, and also for several earnest Persian inquirers. One, a feeble old man, suffered a cruel beating from a mob for attending the classes, and was imprisoned for a time and forced by threats of the bastinado to promise to discontinue his visits to the Mission—a promise, however, which he found himself unable to keep. Students of the Mohammedan Theological College at Ispahan visited Mr. Tisdall, some of them showing much interest in the Gospel. Persians of the upper classes, when visited at their own houses, always listened most courteously, and frequently borrowed a copy of the Scriptures and other Christian books.

Schools. The Schools were well attended; that for Persian youths under Mr. Aidinyantz has increased its numbers to 35. Mohammedan lads have never before been allowed to attend the school for a whole year without hindrance. Mr. Aidinyantz also gave instruction to the nephews of the Prince Governor of Ispahan during the year. The Armenian boys' school, with some 200 pupils, is under Mr. Johannes, and that for Armenian girls under Mrs. Aidinyantz (formerly Miss Read of the F.E.S.), assisted by Miss L. Stubbs; there are some 200 girls, besides 70 infant boys under Mrs. Aidinyantz's care. Miss A. Stirling and Miss E. C. Davies-Colley were engaged most of their time in language studies, but were also able to render some aid to Miss Bird in her medical work. A Printing Press purchased during the year has proved useful in printing small books for use in the schools, and also a Kurdish translation of St. John's Gospel. Mr. Tisdall, in addition to his study of the Armenian language—which requires, he says, his learning classical Armenian and the modern dialects of the language spoken at Constantinople and Ararat, as well as the more corrupt dialect used at Julfa—has given some time to Kurdish and also to a Turkish dialect used by some nomadic tribes in Persia. He conducts an Arabic class for the school-teachers and others.

Printing Press.

The charge of the Medical Mission was taken over by Dr. D. W. Carr in June, 1894. His arrival in Julfa was delayed somewhat by the illness en route of Mrs. Carr, who contracted fever at Teheran and again at Kashan. From the latter place they travelled in kajavehs, which Dr. Carr describes :—

Medical Mission.

> These are more like dog-kennels than anything else, two of them being fastened together, and strapped across a mule's back. The motion is most uncomfortable, and one gets terribly cramped. I rode in one to balance Mrs. Carr in the other. I think that if we were asked to recommend some fresh torture for use in the Inquisition, we could not do better than suggest that the unfortunate sufferers from fever should be placed in one of these for eleven hours at a stretch, as we were the first night we rode in them.

Discomforts of travelling in Persia.

Regarding Persia as a country, Dr. Carr's impressions were not favourable, but it was otherwise regarding the prospects of missionary success. At the Hospital and Mission dispensaries some 1,500 new patients were seen monthly. The hospital has thirteen beds, six for men, and seven for women. It is on the first floor of the building which forms one side of the Mission compound, the dispensary being on the ground floor. There were 96 in-patients. Among these was a Sayyid from Yezd, who at first declined to drink the water from the Mission well, but went to one used by Persians. After a while, however, his prejudice and exclusiveness so far abated that he read the Gospel for himself, and asked that it might be read to the other patients. Other instances are mentioned of the breaking down of bigotry under the influence of Christian kindness in the hospital. Dr. Carr expresses an unspeakably important conviction, which his first few months of work have forced upon him, when he says :—

> I feel more and more convinced of this that, if souls are to be won for Christ, it is not men of learning, or men possessing great tact in dealing with their fellow-men, or men with any other special talents—though God is graciously pleased to make use of talents He has given—it is not Medical Mission agency, or educational, or any other agency—that God will use to do the work ; but it is when His children are baptized with the Holy Ghost as the Apostles were—be their abilities and methods of work what they may—that He will take them and use them to gather in the harvest of souls, and to work such wonders in His Name that men will marvel, and take knowledge of them that they have been with Jesus.

The Holy Spirit's presence indispensable.

Dispensary work among women in Ispahan.

Miss Bird has two Women's Dispensaries, one at Julfa and the other in Ispahan, each open one day weekly; there were 7,231 attendances at the former, and 2,125 at the latter. The Ispahan dispensary was opened, in the first instance, in January, 1894, in the Bîdâbâd quarter. The crowds were so great, however, that the attention of the mullahs was attracted, and they had the doors closed, and beat the owner of the house for letting it to the Mission. In April a room was hired in the Dardasht quarter, among some Jewish families, and the dispensary work was carried on there, though not without opposition. The mullahs said that all the women were becoming Christians, and placed men at the doors to prevent them from entering. So intent, however, were the women, Mr. Tisdall says, on obtaining the medical aid and the teaching, that some got access to the house before dawn, and others evaded the guards by passing over the roofs of the neighbouring houses. Many attended for the sole purpose of hearing the Gospel. In May, 1894, Miss Bird wrote:—

Helped by opposition.

Personally, nothing has helped me so much in my work as this little persecution. The women always said: "It is all very well, you are a Feringhy; you are safe, but we should be killed if we became Christians." Now they feel we are much on the same level, and it makes it so much easier to speak to them. Patients increase rather than diminish; 143 yesterday, 128 on Tuesday. On Tuesday there were 140 women besides children present at first prayers, and wonderfully quiet and attentive. Thank God, my voice is not weakened by diphtheria, and by standing in the doorway I can easily make all hear. Last Sunday twenty-three women came to class, several big girls and a boy of ten, who is reading the Gospel in secret to his mother and aunts. Oh, that I may be a faithful sower! the rest is God's work.

In November Miss Bird wrote:—

Last week friendly Jews came from town to warn us that the people, headed by the mullahs and students (some say by the order, or at least sanction, of the Prince Governor), had determined to lock me out. This I found to be true. The owner of the house had been beaten for letting it to a "foreign infidel," the door was doubly locked with strong padlocks, and protected by an angry crowd, who would not even let me "defile the door" by knocking for admittance; they threatened to beat me and my servants, but God restrained them and delivered us. They have sworn never to admit the "infidel" again, but "God holds the key" of that door, and we are just asking Him, if it be for His glory and the good of these dear perishing people, to open it for us.

"God holds the key."

Mr. Carless entered into occupation of a house in Ispahan, regarding which for several months previously much difficulty had been experienced, as mentioned in last year's Report. No further opposition occurred upon this matter; on the contrary, neighbours showed a disposition to be friendly, and inquirers called freely. During the absence of Mr. Norollah, the respected agent of the London Jews' Society, Mr. Carless endeavoured to maintain the work among the Jews, holding a Bible-class for Jewish converts, and opening a school for boys with some thirty in attendance.

Work among Jews.

A house was hired and a little dispensary opened, in May, 1894, at Najifabad, a populous town some twenty miles from Julfa; the average monthly attendance was 450, to all of whom the Gospel was preached. In this instance, as in others mentioned above, the success of the effort provoked the jealousy of the mullahs. In September, 1894, armed men, sent, at the mullahs' instigation, by the Prince Governor, entered the agent's house in which the dispensary was held, and closed it by force, removing the medicines, furniture, &c., to a caravanserai, and the owner of the house was bastinadoed. Bishop Stuart visited the place in December and again in February, occupying on each occasion, without opposition, the house which had been rented for a dispensary. He wrote:— Najifabad.

There certainly has been a wonderful awakening of a spirit of inquiry, and I am not surprised that the mullahs took alarm. Their concern would probably have been greater and their opposition more decided at an earlier stage, had it not been that most of our friends have been Bâbis or Behâis, two heterodox sects, keeping apart a good deal from the stricter Mohammedans. One of the most earnest is the daughter of a Bâbi who many years ago was barbarously put to death in Ispahan. Her mother, an aged widow, is an educated and refined old lady, who also is now an earnest believer. This daughter is the one mentioned in one of the published reports of the work in Najifabad as reading the Scriptures and prayers in the little meetings that the converts hold amongst themselves. She is a good reader, and knows both Persian and Arabic. She is the fruit of Miss Bird's dispensary at Shamsabad in Ispahan. She came there for treatment, and so was brought to a knowledge of the Truth. Remarkable spirit of inquiry.

After the second visit, when he was accompanied by Miss Stuart, the Bishop wrote:—

The catechist who worked there with the Armenian Native Christian dispenser went out with us. We had much and most friendly intercourse with the people, and my daughter's room was thronged with women, some of whom could read, and had copies of the Scriptures. It is wonderful to find in an intensely Mohammedan town, where there are no Armenians or other Christians, the "ear-gate" so widely open for the Word of God. "Ear-gate" widely open.

The Bishop heard much from these people of the persecutions to which they have been subjected at the hands of the "orthodox" Mussulmans. He says:— Persecution of Bâbis.

It is terrible to hear details of these barbarous murders, and to see the cheeks that have been furrowed, and the eyes that have wept themselves dim, through the fruitless tears shed for a husband or a son. In the case of one poor woman who came with her mother-in-law from a village nearer this, the brutal murder of her husband was not many years ago. Dr. Bruce knew the sad story. It was at Sih Deh (or "The Three Villages"), only a few miles from Ispahan. The slaughtered victims, some thirteen in number, were afterwards steeped in naphtha, and stuck up at intervals along the road between that and the city, and set fire to, so as to strike terror, I suppose, into the minds of all. These poor women could only weep when they referred to the tragedy. The details I heard from others. At such recitals of cruel trampling on every sacred right of man and law of God, one could only cry, "How long, O Lord, how long?" "How long, O Lord?"

Two men from Najifabad have recently been baptized.

Itinerating Tours.

Mr. Carless made two Itinerating Tours, one in May and June, when he visited Kâshân, Sultânâbâd, and Burujird; the others in the districts of Semiran, Abadeh, and Rudasht. At Kâshân the head mullah of the city and his followers gave him a cold and rude reception when he called upon them; but his rebuke, quoting a traditional saying of Mohammed's, "Honour a guest even if he be a Kafir," had an excellent effect. On a visit to another mullah, Mr. Carless had a controversy with a Sayyid, who afterwards ran after him to tell him he was quite convinced and would visit Ispahan for further inquiry. At Sultânâbâd there were two inquirers, one of whom appeared ready to confess Christ in baptism, but shrank back at the last moment, pathetically saying, "Sahib, you will leave me here alone to-morrow, and how can I face death alone, with no one near to help and strengthen me?" Upon which Mr. Carless comments:—

"How can I face death alone?"

> It is difficult for us Christians in our comfort and security to answer this question, and we are verily guilty in thus leaving our weaker brethren alone in their distress and struggles. How often do the words of Matt. ix. 36 come to one's mind, "distressed, scattered, as sheep having no shepherd"! Can a new-born babe do what we expect from a man, and can a poor sheep or a weak lamb stand up and fight the ravening wolf alone? Where are the under-shepherds? Where are the labourers? Doth no man care for their souls?

BAGHDAD.

Baghdad.

Dr. H. M. Sutton, having no clerical brother missionary until the close of the year, had the care of the little Christian community in BAGHDAD, to whom he preached in Arabic on Sundays and taught in a Bible-class twice a week. He made several short itinerations in the spring, lodging sometimes in khans, or caravanserais, and conversing with the people. In July he visited Karachi (whither Mrs. Sutton had gone in May to avoid the excessive heat of Baghdad—she has since come to England), Quetta, and Amritsar, returning in October, accompanied from Karachi by the Rev. J. T. Parfit, who had left England a few weeks before assigned to Baghdad. The Rev. T. R. Hodgson, of the B. & F.B.S., kindly supervised the work at Baghdad during Dr. Sutton's absence. An old inquirer, who had been absent from Baghdad for several years, revisited it in December; and Dr. Sutton was cheered to find that, though he had been living in a remote Arab town, without any Christian teaching or companionship, he had lost none of his former delight in God's Holy Word.

INDIA.

Interest attaching to India.

THE unique position of India as the greatest dependency of the British Empire, and the unique interest attaching to its variety of races, languages, and creeds, have concentrated upon it the sympathies of Christendom in a greater degree than upon any other Mission-field. As has been well said by the Rev. George Ensor, "We see a people in the possession of the tradition of a vast antiquity, and governed by the conditions of a most immature experience. We contemplate a race, or rather an assemblage of races, being rapidly introduced into contact with the culture of the most advanced intelligence of the age, and themselves hardly more adapted to the rude encounter than the imprisoned inmates of their own zenanas. We contemplate the existence amongst these races of social and religious conditions, which operate to postpone indefinitely the enfranchisement of their thought, and serve disastrously to impede the development of their ethical and intellectual being."

European apologists for Hinduism.

The difficulties besetting India's emancipation are enhanced in a very real degree by the fact that European apologists are found for those very "social and religious conditions" which constitute the most formidable feature of its bondage. Hinduism is presented as an object for admiration by Western savants, and the fact is uncandidly suppressed that only the fair side is held up to view. An article in the C.M. Intelligencer for July, 1893, exposed this feature in Professor Max Müller's lectures before the University of Glasgow on Anthropological Religion; and an article in the Indian Messenger of June, 1894, a Calcutta paper conducted by members of the Brahmo Samaj, shows that many thoughtful Hindus are alive to the necessity of challenging the fidelity of the attractive pictures of India's religion which are drawn by certain European hands, and affords a striking testimony to the true nature of Hinduism as it is exhibited in the character and lives of its adherents. The following extracts from the article just named sufficiently explain its object:—

> Our readers must be aware that Mrs. Besant, since her return to England, has been enlightening the English public on the principles of Hinduism. It appears to us that there is a very marked difference of tone and attitude between her advocacy of Hinduism during her late visit to this country and her utterances on the same subject in England. The first thing that strikes us as noteworthy is that, while here she generally spoke in a triumphant, militant spirit, claiming for Hinduism not merely a place among the noble religious systems of the world but the highest place among them, in England she inculcates toleration, and pleads for an "exercise of patience." . . . Mrs. Besant says that "Pandita Ramabai and members of the Brahmo Samaj are hardly reliable authorities on the Hinduism they have forsaken." They are at least better authorities than she. They have known it, lived in its midst, breathed its atmosphere, and judged it by its practical results. If their testimony is not to be accepted because it is hostile, neither has Mrs. Besant any right to be heard upon the merits and demerits of Hinduism, as she, professing to be a convert to Hinduism, must be partial to it. She, with the zeal of a neophyte, can no more claim to be an impartial critic than those whom she would not accept as authorities, merely because they have forsaken the Hinduism which they have known thoroughly well. Should Mrs. Besant presume to say that Brahmans judge Hinduism only by its popular forms, which are in a state of corruption and decay, the obvious reply is, that Hinduism, as a religion to be accepted in life and conduct, not as a subject on which to deliver sentimental addresses, means popular Hinduism.

Miss G. A. Gollock's impression, after travelling extensively in India, and seeing it as few visitors have the opportunity of seeing it, under the guidance of friends acquainted with and loving its people, deserves to be quoted here. She says:—

and of an English lady on popular Hinduism.

The awful sin of India, which is only known at first by a sense of vague horror and defilement, becomes somewhat more clearly outlined, and the vastness of it appals one. Yet I see almost nothing compared with what men and women living among the people tell one is to be seen. Even young children, they say, are tainted with evil, and many a sentence uttered by them has some tinge of polluted thought. Boys and girls will use to their parents language so terrible that many missionaries do not know the meaning of the words, and the parents, unless their passion is roused, will stand and laugh and say, "The child grows finely now." In family life the Mohammedans are far worse than the Hindus, though there are happy homes, no doubt, among both. The cruelty to animals is often fiendish, even to those held to be sacred. When passion is roused, it is vented to the uttermost, and children and dumb creatures suffer cruelly. Evil in its grossest forms is entrenched in the very midst of religion, and there is nothing to set a moral ideal before the people, much less anything to help them to rise towards it. I know something of the sin of London; it has burnt into my heart a sense of the need for work at home—work in the power of the Holy Ghost; but the needs of London and the sin of London are but a drop compared with the ocean out here.

I could not write like this at first, for I dare not be an echo, merely saying what others had said; but now, as I have seen and understood somewhat week by week, I can testify that out here "the whole head is sick and the whole heart faint," and that the blessed "balm of Gilead" is needed everywhere and at once. "From the sole of the foot even unto the head there is no soundness in it, but wounds and bruises, and putrefying sores; they have not been closed, neither bound up, neither mollified with ointment." This is no fancied picture; it is absolute fact. India is sick, even unto death, and there is but one medicine that has power to heal.

Apologists for caste.

Regarding the great "social" hindrance to India's progress—caste—unhappily apologists for this also are found, and, still more sadly, they exist among those whose professed aim is to embrace India within the fold of the Christian Church. "We tolerate caste," has lately written an official of a Roman Catholic Mission in India—"we tolerate caste, for we recognize in it a social bond, a mark of respectability, a guarantee . . . of reciprocal moral surveillance, a kind of mutual assistance. Caste meets the need of the people." Such sentiments, avowed by European leaders, and of course acted upon by the bulk of the adherents of the numerically largest section of the Native Christian community, very gravely intensify the difficulty of the task of those who feel it their duty to combat the system of caste without compromise but with wisdom sought from on high. How grave this difficulty is will be seen below under "Tinnevelly" (pp. 125 and 211), where the need for and the consequences of Bishop Gell's action are recorded; and under "Nadiya" (pp. 132 and 133), where it will be seen how God has prospered and honoured the firm and loving policy of the late James Vaughan.

Drawn from all classes and grades of a highly heterogeneous society, there is a natural tendency to perpetuate the differences and to maintain the isolation and exclusiveness which characterized the converts in their relations with their fellow-countrymen before they entered the fold of Christ, and it is a glorious mission of the Gospel in India to break down these barriers, and to weld together in Christ the varying and discordant elements which constitute the Church in that land. It is interesting to observe that this oneness is becoming realized, and is finding expression in such combinations as "The Indian Christian Association," for the object of promoting the mental, social, industrial, commercial, and political interests of the community. A gathering of delegates of this Association from the North-West Provinces and Oudh in 1894 drew up a memorial to the Government regarding the representation of Indian Christians in the public service; and it is worthy of notice, as indicating the measure of recognition which Christianity has won for itself, that the Pioneer, a leading Indian paper, which formerly was wont to ignore or to minimize the progress of Christianity amongst the Indian races, in a remarkable article acknowledged the justice of the claims advanced for a large measure of State patronage, and deprecated the indifferent reception which it foresaw for the petition.

Unifying influence of the Gospel.

The responsibility for guiding wisely and for exerting a truly helpful influence over the growing body of Christians at this critical stage of its development is exceedingly great, and the importance of the missionaries and Native clergy being continually themselves guided and enabled by the Holy Spirit is paramount. Recalling the blessing which God graciously granted in the winter of 1887–8 to the Special Missions conducted by eight clergy and laymen who went out from England, and in 1893–4 to a like effort by the Revs. E. N. Thwaites and Martin J. Hall, the Committee have been led to seek for a clergyman who should visit India, not for one cold season only, but for three or four years, and thus by continual residence to become acquainted with the life and environment of his hearers, and to visit in turn each of the Society's Indian Missions. They have appointed the Rev. E. Bacheler Russell, Vicar of Appledore, Kent, who will, God willing, sail for India in the forthcoming autumn, and the Committee's hope and prayer is that he will be enabled to cheer and encourage the missionaries and their Native co-workers, and that, in co-operation with the missionaries, he will hold Special Missions, by interpretation, for the deepening of the spiritual life of the Native congregations.

Episcopal authorization of certain lay agents.

The Bishop of Lucknow having urged the propriety of the Society's Native lay agents who have assigned to them functions of a quasi-pastoral character receiving his authorization, and the advantage to the Society's European lay missionaries who may occasionally have opportunities of ministering to stated congregations of receiving licences for this purpose, the Committee have passed, after full consideration, the following statement of principles upon which they will be prepared to act, not in India only, but throughout the Mission-field :—

Committee's minute.

(a) While it is desirable that all departments of C.M.S. work should be carried on with the full sympathy and approbation of the chief pastor of the Church in each diocese, there is no sufficient reason for obtaining episcopal authorization of a general character for laymen to engage in spiritual work.

(b) There are, however, certain functions, ordinarily performed by clergymen, but in the Mission-field often necessarily performed by laymen, which may in some cases render desirable a special arrangement with the Bishop of the diocese. These functions do not include evangelistic work among the Heathen, nor the instruction of Christians in Bible-classes and the like, nor school work, nor medical work, nor literary work, nor other work of various kinds, such as is generally recognized as within the province of laymen. But they are :—(1) The habitual conduct of public worship in settled congregations where there is no resident ordained pastor, and preaching to such congregations ; and (2) the ministering from time to time by Europeans or others in congregations having ordained ministers in charge at the invitation of such ministers. A reasonable view of a Bishop's responsibilities for the oversight of the flock committed to his charge justifies an arrangement by which his authorization should, if he desire it, be given to laymen for the performance of such functions as these.

(c) In accordance with the above principles, and upon the understanding that the conditions following are accepted, the Committee will be prepared, in dioceses where it is the wish of the Bishops to give such authorization to lay agents of the Society, to enter into an agreement with such Bishops defining the class of congregations to which these arrangements shall apply, and as to limitations of time, place, or qualification which may be deemed on either side to be of importance. The conditions referred to are the following :—(1) That the authorization shall cover only the particular functions above described ; (2) That they shall be given on the recommendation of the Society's representatives in the Mission-field appointed for that purpose by the Committee ; (3) That official communications from the Bishop to laymen thus authorized shall be made through the same representatives of the Society.

(d) The Committee must be distinctly understood as in no sense surrendering the inherent right and duty of Christian men to use all and every means of winning souls to Christ. The Committee conceive that in the Mission-field no legal disqualification exists to prevent laymen performing even the official functions above referred to without episcopal authorization. Nothing, therefore, in this Memorandum is to be interpreted as infringing upon the reasonable liberty of the Society's lay missionaries to do so, either in cases of emergency, or even in ordinary cases in the earlier stages of missionary work.

BENGAL MISSION.

Lutheran missionaries under the S.P.C.K. laboured in India in the last century, and many thousands of converts were baptized; but the Missions, after the deaths of Schwartz and other leaders, languished, and at length only a few Christians remained in the south. For some years prior to the renewal of the East India Company's charter in 1813, no missionaries were allowed to reside within the British Dominions, and Carey, the famous Baptist Missionary, and his companions, had to take refuge in the Danish settlements. Among the Government chaplains, however, there were men like Brown, Buchanan, Henry Martyn, Corrie, and Thomason, who did what they could to prepare the way for future work. The C.M.S. had an important share in the establishment of the Bishopric of Calcutta in 1814, by its publication of Claudius Buchanan's work on the subject; and it granted the first Bishop, Dr. Middleton, £5,000 towards the cost of Bishop's College. Before India was open to missionaries, a Corresponding Committee of the C.M.S. was formed at Calcutta, of which the above-named chaplains and several influential laymen were members. Two English missionaries were sent to Calcutta in 1816; Burdwan was occupied in 1817; Krishnagar in 1831; and Bhagalpur in 1850. Great interest was aroused by a remarkable movement in the Krishnagar district, Bengal, in 1838, when some 3,000 persons forsook Heathenism, and on one occasion 900 were baptized in the presence of Bishop Daniel Wilson. Work was begun among the Santals, an aboriginal tribe in Bengal, in 1860.

Deaths of Revs. Raj Kristo Bose,

Two much respected and beloved Native clergymen, converts respectively from Hinduism and Mohammedanism, were removed by death from the ranks of the labourers at Calcutta. The Rev. Raj Kristo Bose died on April 28, 1894, and the news was received in time to refer to it in last year's Report. His parents were Hindus of strict orthodoxy, and he was brought up a devout Hindu. His baptism took place in 1857, the year of the Mutiny. One who visited him during his last illness wrote of him:—

Raj Kristo was respected by all, Christians and non-Christians. He was a man whose praise was in all the churches. His simplicity of character, zeal, and earnest devotion reached many a heart, where perhaps greater intellectual abilities would have failed. He was an example to all of being instant in season and out of season; no place was considered unsuitable by him to proclaim his Master's love. In the railway carriage, in the tram-car, by the roadside, and in the houses of Hindus, he constantly preached the Gospel. He was warned at last that he must not over-exert himself, but his zeal could not be restrained, and probably it was indirectly the cause of his death.

The last time he was at church was on the last Sunday of 1893, when he baptized a Bengali gentleman. From time to time the writer of this used to go to his house to give him the Holy Communion. It was a real spiritual privilege to kneel with our dear brother on the last occasion that he received it, and to see his bright, happy face. In the course of conversation he said, "I know I cannot live long. My night is almost past, the day is at hand; my only prayer is that my Father will take me gently into His bosom." and Jani Alli,

The Rev. Jani Alli died on October 15. He was a native of Hyderabad, in the Nizam's dominion, and was a Mohammedan. His conversion took place at Masulipatam, where he was a student of Robert Noble, and with two Brahman converts, fellow-students, he was baptized on May 20, 1855. One of these three still survives—the Rev. G. Krishnayya, of Ellore.

For a while Mr. Alli was a tutor in the Noble School, then he took service under the Indian Government at Aurungabad and Bombay. At his own charges he came to England in 1873, with the view to study for the Bar. He was led, however, to decide for the ministry, and entered Corpus Christi, Cambridge. Henry Parker, afterwards second Bishop of Eastern Equatorial Africa, was his contemporary, and they met at the house of Professor and Mrs. Babington. Jani Alli was the instrument in God's hand of drawing Parker to the Mission-field. On May 27, 1877, Jani Alli was admitted to Deacon's Orders in St. Paul's Cathedral. He was one of the chosen speakers at the Croydon Church Congress in 1877 on "Mohammedanism in its Relation to Christianity, and the Prospects of Missionary Enterprise towards it." He sailed the same year under the C.M.S. to Bombay, where he opened a hostel for Native Christian students. In 1881 the Decennial Conference of Indian Missionaries urged upon the Home Societies the needs of the Mohammedans in Calcutta (which has the largest Moslem population of any city in Asia) and in Bengal, and Mr. Alli was transferred in 1884 to Calcutta to open up educational missionary work among them. He superintended the Garden Reach and Matyaburj Schools until his death. During his last illness paralysis developed itself, and after some weeks of painless waiting among dear fellow-workers at the Mission House, Calcutta, living, but without intelligence of the things of life, he passed quietly to his rest.

and of Mrs. E. T. Sandys. On January 10, 1895, Mrs. Sandys, the wife of the Rev. E. T. Sandys, died from fever at Calcutta. Mrs. Sandys was a daughter of the Society's old and devoted friend the Rev. J. E. Sampson, Vicar of Barrow-on-Humber, and went out to India under the C.E.Z.M.S. in 1890.

Reinforcements. The Rev. Clarence Garland Mylrea, B.A., Pembroke College, Cambridge, Curate of Great Yarmouth, and Mrs. Mylrea (née Amy Lawrence Chapman); Mr. E. T. Noakes, of Islington College; and Mr. Albert C. Kestin, joined the Mission—the last two as Associated Evangelists. The Rev. R. J. Kennedy has been transferred to this Mission from the North-West Provinces, in order to his taking up the work of the late Rev. Jani Alli among Mohammedans. On the other hand, this Mission has lost by the transfer of Miss Margaret Hall to the C.E.Z.M.S. She has been located to Jabalpur.

Ordinations. The Bishop of Calcutta admitted the Revs. D. M. Brown and C. Hughesdon to Priest's Orders at St. Paul's Cathedral, Calcutta, on December 23, 1894; and the Bishop of Chota Nagpore, acting by commission for the Bishop of Calcutta, admitted the Rev. Baijonath Murmu also to Priest's Orders on December 25.

The autumn half-yearly Conference of Bengal Missionaries was held in September. The Rev. G. M. Davies, Chaplain of Barrackpore, gave an address on Isa. xliii. 1 and Ps. cxix. 94, and the Rev. I. W. Charlton preached the Conference sermon from Matt. xi. 12. Conference of missionaries

The Rev. P. Ireland Jones having been appointed a secretary of the Society on the Home Staff, in succession to the Rev. W. Gray, as already stated under "Home Operations," the Rev. H. D. Williamson, who became acting secretary of the Calcutta Corresponding Committee on Mr. Ireland Jones coming home on furlough in 1893, has been appointed to succeed him. The following are the members of the Calcutta Corresponding Committee:—Hon. J. A. Bourdillon, A. F. Cox, Esq., S. Jacob, Esq., R. G. Macdonald, Esq., J. Monro, Esq., M. C. Turner, Esq., Revs. G. M. Davies, W. H. Ball, G. H. Parsons, and H. D. Williamson (secretary). Corresponding Committee.

CALCUTTA AND BURDWAN.

Mr. F. W. Bourdillon came home in March, 1895, and Mrs. A. J. Santer and Mrs. H. D. Williamson returned to the Mission, after short visits to this country for family reasons and at their own charges, in September and November respectively. The Rev. F. B. and Mrs. Gwinn have been transferred to Nadiya on grounds of health.

The Calcutta District Council held its autumn gathering at Kristopore, a fishing village situated on the Salt Lakes to the east of Calcutta, on the two last days of October. This was the first time a meeting of the Council had been held there. The first day was observed as a Quiet Day, and the Rev. T. K. Chatterjea, a Native pastor connected with the London Missionary Society, gave a series of addresses on "Apart from Me ye can do nothing," and on Matt. xvi. 24—three Marks of a Disciple of Jesus Christ. An evangelistic lantern address to some 300 people closed the first day. On the second day a meeting for prayer and praise and Bible-reading, closing with the "Te Deum" and General Thanksgiving, was held at 7.30 A.M.; and at 11.30 A.M. the business meeting commenced, at which a paper was read by Babu M. S. Biswas on "How can I develop Evangelistic Work among the Heathen round about my Parish?" Calcutta District Council.

CALCUTTA.

The Rev. H. Gouldsmith reports a year of many encouragements in his work as incumbent of the Old Church, Calcutta. The pastoral and missionary agencies connected with the church are numerous, and increase year by year. An outcome of the Mission which was conducted by the Revs. E. N. Thwaites and Martin J. Hall at the beginning of 1894 was the starting of an Old Church.

Old Church Hebrew Mission, an effort to reach God's ancient people in Calcutta. A room was opened in July to be used in this work. A School Building Fund, opened in order to erect suitable buildings for the Free Day School (which was started in 1893) and a Girls' Parochial Home, received Rs. 30,000. Towards this sum, it is interesting to note, a liberal gift was received from Mr. G. H. Kiernander, the great grandson of the Rev. Zacharias Kiernander who founded the Old Church in 1770. There were 87 baptisms and 31 confirmation candidates, and the offertories amounted to Rs. 8,487. The return home of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Stuart has deprived the Old Church and its work of active and liberal supporters of over seventeen years' standing. An Urdu Service is held at the Old Church, which has devolved, since the Rev. Jani Alli's death, upon the Rev. A. Stark; as also did for a time the superintendence of the large schools at Garden Reach and Matyaburj, four and six miles respectively southward from Amherst Street, where Mr. Stark resides, but he has been relieved of this latter charge by the Rev. R. J. Kennedy.

Trinity Church.

Trinity Church (surrounded by its little Christian settlement in the Mission compound in Amherst Street, which is in Mirzapore, one of the Native quarters of Calcutta) is under the supervision of Mr. Stark. There are forty-five houses in the compound, and the population is about 250. The church is sixty-eight years old, and is one of the oldest in Bengal; a school, with thirty children, is supported by the fund derived from the rents, and there is a reading-room supplied with books and papers. In the services at the Leper Asylum and the Hindi Service, Mr. Stark is assisted by the Rev. Katwaru Lal. Six schools are provided for the outcaste Chamars (workers in leather), and Mr. Stark says that of many of these children it would scarcely be thought that they are Heathens by anyone listening to their intelligent answers to Scripture questions. An excellent teacher in one of the schools lost his life through falling into an open sewer on his way home, having been overtaken by a storm.

Christ Church.

Christ Church, in Cornwallis Square, is worked by the Rev. E. T. Sandys, who is also chairman of the Calcutta District Church Council.

Divinity School.

The Divinity School is carried on in the building of the old "Cathedral Mission College." There were altogether twenty students during the year; six of them formed an English class, and the Principal, the Rev. W. H. Ball, acknowledges the help of the Revs. C. B. Clarke and J. F. Hewitt in this class. There is also a class for Hindi students. Most of the work, however, is done in Bengali. The students' home life, and particularly the want of education on the part of some of their wives, are hindrances, and Mr. Ball has to speak in somewhat qualified terms of several of the nine Bengali students who went out during the year, after completing their course. He has no doubt, however, that all are converted men. The students, with the Rev. P. T. Biswas, a tutor in the school, take part in preaching out-of-doors to non-Christians, and in services at Barrackpore and Naihatty, to the north of Calcutta. The Rev. W. P. Parker, while continuing his studies in the vernacular, has been requested to reside near the Divinity School and to give assistance to Mr. Ball. The sales from the Book Depôt were large, missionaries and Native Christians being the purchasers of about 50 per cent. In the vernaculars, 157 Bibles, 182 Testaments, 4,344 Portions, 20,499 Christian books and pamphlets were sold; in all, 25,180 copies, realizing about Rs. 2,100. In addition, some 30,000 tracts in many different languages were distributed. Mr. Ball, who has charge of the depôt, expresses the gratitude which all missionaries owe to the B. & F.B.S., the S.P.C.K., the R.T.S., and the C.L.S. (Christian Literature Society). The assistance of the Tract Society and a few subscriptions enabled him to print and circulate gratuitously 1,500 copies monthly of his Friendly Greetings. Several books, mostly translations, were ready for the press at the end of the year: e.g., Bishop Oxenden's Portraits from the Old Testament; the Rev. W. Odom's Gospel Types and Shadows of the Old Testament; Lectures on Hinduism, prepared by the Rev. P. T. Biswas; Daily Light, prepared by Miss Sandys, of the C.E.Z.M.S.; and Pearson on the Creed, translated by Mr. Ball.

Translations.

Owing to the transfer of the Rev. and Mrs. F. B. Gwinn to Nadiya, the Rev. C. B. Clarke, leader of the band of Associated Evangelists, has temporarily taken charge of the Boys' Boarding School. Miss H. J. Neele says that three of the six pupils of the Girls' Boarding School, who were confirmed at the beginning of the year, dated their conversion from the meetings held by the Revs. E. N. Thwaites and Martin J. Hall. The young Gujerati lady whose baptism at the Old Church was mentioned last year (page 81) was confirmed at the same time. Her Heathen parents have become reconciled to her, and were present at the baptism of her infant child. Some of the boarding-school girls are from homes as wide apart as Burmah and Assam in the east, Karachi in the west, Darjeeling in the north, and places in the Madras Presidency in the south. In the upper standards the girls did well in the examinations; in the seventh standard, out of eighteen from Calcutta schools passed in the second division, six were from this school, two of whom obtained scholarships; while in the first division the only two of all the Calcutta candidates who passed were Miss Neele's pupils. Of girls who left the school during the year, one, having passed the University matriculation, has an appointment in a school at Allahabad; another has charge (under Miss Good) of a Converts' Home at Barrackpore; a third assists in the Krishnagar Girls' Boarding School; a fourth is an assistant missionary of the C.E.Z.M.S. in the Nadiya district; and a fifth works in connexion with the same society in Karachi. One girl, whose Christian influence amongst the other girls had been very bright, died at the school. She had learned in her zenana how to love her Saviour, and had suffered much from her Heathen friends when she declared herself a Christian. After her death her father, an official residing at a distant station, called at the school, and gratefully acknowledged the care which had been bestowed on his child. The Agarpara Orphanage is no longer in an exclusive sense what its name implies, inasmuch as only about one-third of its ninety inmates are orphans. Miss E. M. Hall had a few motherless babies-in-arms under her care, whose Hindu fathers had taken them to missionaries with the request that they should be brought up as Christians. Children so brought are almost invariably girls, boys being too much prized to be parted with thus.

Evangelistic Work.

The Evangelistic Work in and around Calcutta has been considerably extended of late years. The Rev. G. H. Parsons recalls the time—only ten years ago—when all the pastoral and evangelistic work in the city, in addition to the Boys' Boarding School, was under one European missionary. Mr. Parsons writes in high terms of the Bengali evangelists who labour under him; he and they occupy several preaching stations in Calcutta daily, experiencing very little organized opposition. He was, however, much more encouraged by the results of individual conversations than by those of bazaar preaching. In February, 1894, a young Mohammedan from Amritsar asked Mr. Parsons for a copy of a Bible small enough to put into his waistcoat-pocket, because, unless kept on his person day and night, it would be seized and burnt; ten months later he called again, having meantime been influenced to some extent by what he had heard of the public controversy between a Mohammedan Moulvie and a Christian, which had occurred at Amritsar in 1893 (see last year's Report, page 85, and infra, page 167). Mr. Parsons baptized by immersion on Easter Day, 1894, a convert named Gopal Chundra Acharjya, who had been for a time under instruction by the Rev. H. Whitehead, of the Oxford Mission, who fully concurred in his baptism by Mr. Parsons.

Associated Evangelists.

The members of the band of Associated Evangelists (the Revs. C. B. Clarke and J. F. Hewitt, Mr. F. W. Bourdillon, and, since November, Mr. H. C. Tugwell, of the Victoria C.M.A.) took part in open-air preaching, visiting the people, addressing meetings, holding Bible-classes, &c. Mr. Clarke is the leader of the band. He says that good attendances are usually secured for the preaching in English at College Square, but this is not always so until sundry innocent devices have been resorted to. For the most part, there was scarcely any opposition; but a rival meeting was at one time organized in close proximity to the missionaries' place of preaching; Mr. Clarke's hearers were drawn away, and he was left to preach as cheerfully as he could to a few bystanders, feeling, as he says, "What it is to be a fool for Christ's sake." Mr. Clarke adds:—

"A fool for Christ's sake."

I almost invariably come away from the square feeling that I have witnessed for Christ, and that the day must soon come when every knee shall bow to Him. With this sense of power and authority with me, nothing could persuade me that the labour is in vain.

The Rev. J. F. Hewitt thinks it is somewhat of a hardship that the soldier in the forefront of the battle should also have to be war correspondent; but if the readers of this Report will indeed translate all they read into prayer and praise, no soldier will begrudge the time and labour of writing news from the front. Mr. Hewitt mentions an interesting incident which occurred at a meeting for Babus held in Bow Bazaar:—

"War Correspondents."

Men of all shades of thought frequent the meeting. Some are convinced of the truth of Christianity, but are held back by fear. Some are Agnostics, others Atheists, others Theosophists. One dear man who is on the border-line between Theosophy and Hinduism came to me outside the room as he was leaving to ask some question. We were of course immediately surrounded by an inquisitive crowd, many of whom could not understand a word we said, but who evidently thought it interesting to see a Sahib and a Babu talking together. The questions and answers developed into a rather lengthy discussion, which was cut short in a very pleasant way—a Negro, a pure African, thrust his way through the crowd, and, taking the Babu by the arm, besought him most earnestly to accept the Lord Jesus as his Saviour. Then he told them that he was once a Heathen, but a black bishop, named Crowther, came to his country and told them sweet words about the Lord Jesus, which he had believed, and by which he had become a Christian. It was a sight which I shall not readily forget. It did one good to hear a black, rough-looking Negro pleading earnestly in broken English with this educated, intellectual Babu, and exhorting him to accept Christ.

A Negro convert appeals to a Babu.

A Jew read the New Testament for two months with the Associated Evangelists, and was then sent to Allahabad to read further with the Rev. H. M. M. Hackett. A Brahman, a Native of Kanoj, was baptized on the last Sunday of 1894. Mr. Hewitt was invited to become president of a literary society got up by some twenty-five Hindu pupils at Ripon College.

BURDWAN.

There was much sickness in Burdwan during the latter half of 1894. Nearly every house in the town had inmates suffering from fever continuously for several months. The Rev. A. J. Santer did not escape, and all his Native agents were among the sufferers. Mr. Santer thinks Burdwan may be compared in this respect with the West Coast of Africa. During the cold season Mr. Santer was out in tents with his Bengali preachers, and when it became too hot for this he prolonged the itineration season by making daily excursions along the railway line to places accessible in that way from Burdwan. In the hot and rainy seasons, Mr. Santer visited the houses of the people in the mornings, and preached in the bazaar in the evenings. Interest in the study of the Bible on the part of many non-Christians was keener, he says, than he ever observed it before. He writes of two of his Native friends whom he almost invariably finds poring over God's Word and prepared for his coming with a paper of questions for him to explain. A good number of non-Christians attend the services regularly, and sometimes more than half the congregation has consisted of such. Students of the Raj College attend Mr. Santer's Bible-classes, and after leaving the college some of them keep up a correspondence with him.

II. NADIYA (NUDDEA) DISTRICT.

THE Rev. C. H. Bradburn, on his return to the Mission after furlough in September, was assigned to Nadiya to take temporary charge of the training school at Krishnagar during the then approaching furlough of the Rev. E. T. Butler. While in camp in the district in January, a jackal, which it was feared was mad, flew at him and severely bit him before he succeeded in killing it. Mr. Bradburn went at once to Calcutta, and the medical authorities there ordered him to proceed without delay to Paris to be treated by M. Pasteur. He was accompanied to Bombay by the Rev. E. T. Butler, and at Brindisi was met by Dr. J. Rigg, of the South China Mission, who, in response to the Committee's request, went from England for the purpose, he having himself, on a former occasion, undergone the same treatment. The treatment appears to have been quite successful, and Mr. Bradburn arrived in England at the end of February. The Rev. W. Wallace was invalided home in June, 1894, but after a serious surgical operation was able to return again to India in November; and the Rev. and Mrs. E. T. Butler and Mr. P. H. Shaul came home on furlough in March, 1895. The Rev. R. B. Marriott was seriously ill in the autumn, and, after spending a time in hospital at Calcutta, took a sea voyage to Ceylon, accompanied by the Rev. A. G. Lockett, as he was unfit to travel alone; and the Rev. and Mrs. I. W. Charlton went to Australia for their health's sake in May.

Nadiya District Council.

The Nadiya District Council held its two half-yearly meetings at Santirajpur and at Arungshurshia. The people at the latter place belonged originally to a very low caste of Hindus, viz. Muchis, and were unhappily, in consequence, looked down upon by other Christians. In the days of the late Rev. J. Vaughan a schism took place in consequence of his resolute efforts to obtain for Christians of this class a recognition of their equality in God's sight, so deep-rooted was the prejudice against them. Accordingly, when an invitation was received in the course of the summer meeting of the Council at Santirajpur to hold the next meeting at Arungshurshia, a certain degree of consternation was perceptible among the delegates, but the invitation was accepted after prolonged discussion. The meetings passed off happily and successfully. The Rev. I. W. Charlton wrote:—

> Nothing could have been better than the provision made for the members and delegates of the Council; and I think all must have been quite satisfied in this respect. The subjects discussed also proved most interesting, viz., "The Financial Outlook of the Native Church," and "The Devotional Life of the Christian Worker."
> We have learnt by this Council:—That a great advance has been made. Nothing but an increase of Christian love and a sense of Christian duty could have brought about such a gathering. When it is remembered that about ten years ago merely eating at the same feast, or being confirmed at the same time, and using the same Cup at the Lord's Table with these despised people, created serious opposition, it becomes a matter for sincere thankfulness to God when all the pastors and catechists, and many of the lay delegates of the Council, and not a few independent Christians, are willing to be entertained and fed by them for a day and a half at their homes, and as their guests.

Diminution of caste prejudice.

The Roman Catholics watched this experiment with unconcealed but sinister interest. On the previous occasion when an attempt at social union was made, some hundreds of Protestant adherents had gone over to their ranks, but on this occasion their expectations were disappointed. During the past two years 250 who had joined them have returned.

Attitude of Roman Catholics in the struggle with caste.

The Bishop of Calcutta visited several of the pastorates—Krishnagar, Chupra, Bollobhpur, and Kapasdanga—in March, 1894, and confirmed 318 candidates.

The ladies of the C.E.Z.M.S., Miss Dawe, Miss Adams, and Miss Owles, visit the women in several of the pastorates. Mr. Charlton has interested himself in an effort to introduce the silk industry among the Christians, as they are dependent on the rice crops and are very poor. For the spiritual benefit of the Christians there are the following institutions: At Chupra, the head-quarters of the European Superintendent, there is a Boys' Boarding School with 55 Christian boarders, besides over eighty day-boys, and a Widows' Training Class, which Miss Adams and Mrs. Ghosh conduct. At Sholua there is a Widows' Home with several inmates, who are supported by the Native Christians, at whose suggestion the Home was opened in 1894.

Institutions.

The most important of all the institutions, however, is at KRISHNAGAR, for there, in the Normal School, nearly all the pastors, catechists, and teachers connected with the Society—both in the Nadiya district and in Calcutta—received the whole or part of their training. The school was opened in 1864, and the present head-master, Babu Simpson Biswas, has been there twenty years. Four students left during the year, one of whom was distinguished as an athlete, having won in two successive years most of the prizes at the Nadiya Athletic Sports. During the five years of the Rev. E. T. Butler's principalship, twenty-six teachers passed out of the school, of whom nineteen are engaged in the Nadiya and Calcutta districts, two have been to the Divinity School and are now working as evangelists, one is the sub-editor of a Native Christian paper, and one was a Hindu. The lads did well in athletics, in football beating all competitors, including the Calcutta C.M.S. Boarding School, the prowess of which is acknowledged far and wide, and which had nearly succeeded in carrying off the shield presented by Sir Charles Elliott to the best team from schools affiliated to Calcutta University. The Normal School students also took an active share in evangelistic work, especially in singing Bengali hymns. Seven adults were baptized, all, except one, relations of converts of previous years. Philip Nogendra, whose baptism in 1892 was mentioned in the Annual Report of 1892–3 (page 91), brought his two brothers and sister, who—together with a young Mohammedan named Upsar Sheikh who had followed Mr. Wallace from a mela held near Nadiya—were baptized in March, 1894, by immersion in a large tank adjoining the church in the presence of a large number of Hindus, Mohammedans, and Christians. The other three converts were baptized in November; they were the mother and two brothers of Darmananda R. Dutt, one of the Calcutta Divinity School students, and of Babu Russick Lall, whose baptism was referred to in the Report of 1888–9 (pages 78, 81). One of the brothers is forty, the other twenty-two. The mother is seventy, and of her Mr. Butler wrote:—

> If ever a woman was sincere in her faith and love to the Saviour, she is. Twelve months ago she was steeped in Hinduism, and was one of the most regular of the pilgrims at the Nadiya festivals. Then she had no room for anybody but Hari and Krishna in her thoughts; now her mind is filled with the love of Jesus.

Converts of the past five years.

Mr. Butler mentions that out of nineteen adults whom he has baptized during his five years at Krishnagar, eighteen were formerly Hindus, and one a Mohammedan. Only one has fallen away, the weaver of Santipore mentioned last year. An inquirer is referred to by Mr. Butler who holds a Government pension and resides to the north of Nadiya town. Some ten years since, in response to a dream, in which he was directed to obtain a Bible, he purchased a Bible and Prayer Book, and he has read them so diligently that, although unbaptized, he has a firm faith in Jesus Christ, and is regarded as a Christian in his own village. He uses daily, with his family, prayers from the Book of Common Prayer, and was able to repeat to Mr. Butler as far as the end of the "Venite." A member of the Congregation, a woman at Krishnagar, sent to Mr. Butler the sum of Rs. 35, to be used for the benefit of the poor, as a thankoffering for successfully passing through her training as a nurse. The amount represented a full month's wages. The Boarding School for Village Girls was under Miss C. A. M. Harding, of the C.E.Z.M.S., after Miss Annie Sampson came home in the spring of 1894 until the end of the year, when it came under the care of Miss Bristow. The Rev. F. B. Gwinn succeeded Mr. Butler upon the latter taking furlough.

Santirajpur.

SANTIRAJPUR is the home of the Band of Associated Evangelists. The first baptism which has been given to their labours was mentioned last year. It was that of a man belonging to the Kayastha caste, who received the name of Andrew. Two months later his wife joined him in confessing Christ, and both were "running well" when the Annual Letters of the missionaries were written. The band consisted of its leader, the Rev. A. G. Lockett, the Rev. R. B. Marriott, and Messrs. P. H. Shaul (since come home) and E. G. Clowes. Mr. Lockett refers to the visit of the Nadiya District Council to Santirajpur in May as a useful object-lesson to the people, to whom the presence of so many Christians, representing a score of Christian villages, was a revelation. The Dispensary was visited by 5,000 patients, and 1,000 others were treated by the missionaries while itinerating. Two Bible women were most cordially welcomed in some villages near Santirajpur, and in the villages throughout the district the missionaries were much encouraged by evidences of the Gospel's power. Mr. Shaul visited nearly 200 villages during the year. The sale of Scripture-portions and of hymn-books (which always are freely bought), and the distribution of tracts have led to a spirit of inquiry. Mohammedans sometimes ask for tracts exposing Hinduism and vice versâ. Some also appear to have experienced the power of the Gospel. Mr. Shaul says:—

Associated Evangelists' Band.

Dispensary.

A young man who used to attend our Murutia school came to see me, and in the course of conversation remarked concerning the principal man of his village, "N—n belongs to you now." I inquired what he meant. The lad replied, "Why, he never tells lies now; he reproves those who use bad language, sing lewd songs, and indulge in sin; he teaches Christ's teachings, relieves the distressed, succours the needy, attends and heals the sick. He has become a changed man, and, if there were only one or two more like him in our village, we should soon be a changed village." I may here mention that this man has given up a lucrative business and taken to cultivate the land in order to avoid lying, which forms an integral part of his trade; he also has again and again made his shop a centre for our preaching, and has often stood up with us in a meeting, upholding Christ's teaching with no uncertain sound. Caste seems withholding him and another neighbour from having the courage of their convictions.

"A changed man."

Other instances met with during the year as a result of our work have been—men refusing to give false-witness in court, thus incurring the wrath and persecution of their landlords, and a small society of shopkeepers formed to carry on their trade without lying.

Mohammedan inquirers.

In one village a Mohammedan interested in the Gospel, but unable to arrive at a decision as to its claims, brought a Moulvie to the place and invited Mr. Marriott to a controversy. After it had taken place, Mr. Marriott's impression was that it had been useless, but it had the effect of convincing the man who had been in doubt and leading him to desire baptism; and in the same place Mr. Marriott says several others are manifesting interest, among them "a Mussulman of the Khondakar (a sort of priestly) family." A low-caste man—a Muchi—who is himself interested, has influenced others, and at a large meeting of Muchis the question "Shall we become Christians or no?" was raised, and decided negatively by the majority.

Shall we become Christians?"

Mr. Marriott mentions the visit of Rajon Fakir from Calcutta, who deeply impressed the people with his sincerity and the reality of his joy in Christ. Miss Gollock (see supra, page 37), who visited Nadiya in January, met him there and wrote of him:—

A Christian fakir.

> Rajon Fakir struck me specially; he is the son of a Christian pastor, but he went into the very depth of sin. Now he is simply transformed, and he is used by God in a marked way. He dresses in red, calls himself a fakir, and simply goes about preaching. The chastened depth of his spirit was very beautiful; I am sure he lives in close and humble touch with God. He had with him another Christian fakir, whom he had led to Christ, a man with long, wild, black hair, and very uncivilized aspect. But when he prayed in English you found how his heart burned with love to Jesus his Lord.

Mr. J. Monro's Mission at Ranaghat.

Mr. James Monro, C.B., of Ranaghat, in the south of the Nadiya district, writes that the hospital opened in July, 1894, by his son, Dr. C. G. Monro, aided by Dr. Neill, both medical graduates of Cambridge, treated 5,686 patients in 1894. He calculates that this and the three dispensaries—at Santirajpur (C.M.S.), and at Krishnagar and Bollobhpur (both C.E.Z.M.S.)—treated over 20,000 patients during the year.

III. SANTALIA.

Santal District Council.

The Rev. F. T. and Mrs. Cole returned to the Mission in October, and relieved the Rev. J. Blaich of the onerous duties of the chairmanship of the District Church Council. The latter was incapacitated from engaging in outdoor work for four months through an ulcerated eye. He comments on the inadequate supply of ordained pastors, nine out of the ten pastorates having been, he says, presided over by lay agents, and some of them quite young men. He gives a chequered account of the spiritual state of the Christians:—

A chequered report.

> On the whole, the Santal Christians compare favourably with Native Christians of other districts. Yet there is a great difference, not only amongst individual Christians, but also amongst the congregations. There are some congregations which to visit is a real pleasure. The missionary's heart is cheered to note their joy in meeting him, to witness their hearty interest in the services, to see their eagerness and zeal to do what is right and good. On the other hand, side by side with those, there are other churches which I always visit with a sad heart. Their former warm-heartedness has given way to coldness, their first glow of love has changed into indifference. How often was I full of heaviness because I had to go to them "with a rod and not in love" (1 Cor. iv. 21)!

Native Christians obtain posts under Government.

He fears that the evangelistic zeal of the Christians has not increased, but diminished. Their improvement in respect to education has raised ambitions to which they were strangers formerly, and well-paid Government posts are naturally objects of desire to those who leave Mission schools. However natural, it is painful to the missionary to see the glorious service of his Lord and Master passed by, and Christian parents fostering a less worthy ambition. At the same time, it is to be expected, and indeed desired, that some members of the Christian community should engage in secular callings, and, by God's grace, serve Him therein.

At the close of the year Miss Gollock, with Miss K. C. Wright of the Punjab Mission, visited Taljhari, and the former thus describes the Sunday service at which she was present:—

A Sunday service at Taljhari.

At 11 o'clock we went to service in the large church. Sitting in the choir seats, we could see the great congregation, men and boys at one side, women and girls at the other. There was the usual unrest among the little brown bairns, wandering to and fro, but the whole demeanour of the people was most reverent, and the chanting of the canticles and the singing of the hymns was hearty in the extreme. It was good to note how evidently the people entered into the meaning of our Church service, which, by a few simple changes, such as using the Epistle and Gospel instead of the First and Second Lesson, was brought within their grasp. The sermon was preached by Mr. Blaich, a veteran missionary, whose complete mastery of Santali seems to give him great power. We could not understand a word, but it was splendid to feel the "touch" between preacher and people; once or twice a hearty verbal response was given to some question or remark. Between the heads of the sermon (carefully prepared, if one may judge from the notes in the preacher's hand) the people rose and sang two verses of a hymn, and then settled into quiet attention again. The collection is an important function among the Santals. They have strong and sensible ideas on the subject of self-government, and the missionaries wisely encourage this within safe limits. The account of the contribution made by each hamlet towards Church expenses is separately kept. The Church representative from each village comes up and stands at the foot of the chancel step by the lectern, facing the people, with a neat red bag in his hand. Then the people leave their seats, walk up the aisle, and drop their little offering into their village bag. A separate red bag, marked "Sahibs," was handed to us. The Santal Christians count and take charge of the money, and the Native Church Council allot it for the various parts of the work.

The collection.

Boys' Boarding School.

Mr. Blaich has now returned to his former charge of the Boys' Boarding School at Taljhari, which was under the Rev. H. J. Jackson during the year under review. It had on the average 120 boys, drawn from all parts of the Mission. About one-third are Heathen, and year by year conversions from their ranks are recorded. Mr. Jackson baptized five of the boys in November. Several of the elder boys conduct Sunday-schools in two Christian villages, two or three miles distant from Taljhari. Mr. Jackson has specially interested himself in Sunday-school work, and he mentions that there are twenty-nine Sunday schools in the Santal Mission, with 55 teachers and 704 children, of whom 127 are Heathen. Mr. and Mrs. Jackson have been transferred to BHAGAYA.

Bahawa.

The Rev. J. Brown has under his care at BAHAWA the Divinity and Preparandi Classes. In the former two deacons, the Revs. Bhim Hansda and Baijonath Murmu, were reading; the latter was admitted to Priest's Orders in December, as already mentioned. Three young men read for nine months in the Preparandi Class. Two pupils in the Girls' Boarding School, which continues under Mrs. Brown's motherly care, were baptized at Easter, 1894. Mr. Brown has completed a revision of the Santali version of the Acts of the Apostles, and has commenced one of the Prayer Book. The Congregation consists of 200 Christians, besides the 80 girls of the boarding school. Four services are held every Sunday, two for Chamar Christians, whose language is Hindi. Babu J. N. Mandol conducts a Mission Dispensary. Miss Ethel Brown has joined her parents with the view to taking an active part in their labours. The Rev. D. M. Brown, stationed at HIRANPUR, was mainly engaged in language study and in preparing for his priest's ordination.

Godda.

In the GODDA district the Rev. F. Etheridge reports that services are held in eight widely distant places, and the Christians number 431. Fourteen adults were baptized, including a family of Paharis who were baptized in a tank at Ratnapur; the rest, Santalis, were baptized at Mohanpur. There is a village school, a boarding school for hill-boys, and a technical school in which carpentering, painting, glazing, and tin-smithing are taught. The first to complete his three years' course in the last-named institution left it in June, and proved himself a "thoroughly handy man, able to turn his hand to almost anything, and make a good job of it." Mr. Etheridge engaged in Dispensary Work, and at one time had as many as twenty patients daily. He finds that the confidence of the people increases. On one occasion he was even summoned to see a Mohammedan purdah-nashin—a woman, that is, who is never allowed to see any one of the other sex other than a near relation. The Rev. C. Hughesdon was mainly engaged in the study of Hindi.

BHAGALPUR.

Bhagalpur.

The Rev. J. A. Cullen had several inquirers, mostly of the mendicant class. One was a Brahman on his way from Juggernath; he was given a tract at Calcutta which pointed out the sin of idolatry and the way of salvation. He broke caste and surrendered his Brahmanical thread, but the habits of his roving, lazy life asserted themselves, and he wished to be supported, as he had been by his Hindu co-religionists, without labour. There was one adult convert, a blind leper in the Leper Asylum. As president of a debating society, consisting of young students and others, in which the debates are carried on in English, Mr. Cullen has frequent opportunities of imparting Christian teaching and exercising a Christian influence. On one occasion a Mohammedan Moulvie was present, who described himself as "The Rev. Moulvie ——," and Mr. Cullen was surprised at his familiarity with Christian phrases and doctrines and with New Testament quotations, while Mohammed and the Koran were not once mentioned. Mr. Cullen has made an experiment in technical training by apprenticing some of the orphanage boys to the East Indian Railway workshops at Jamalpur, to be trained as carpenters, smiths, &c.

NORTH-WEST PROVINCES MISSION.

The Society's first agent in India was stationed in the North-West Provinces. He was a Native, Abdul Masih, Henry Martyn's solitary convert from Mohammedanism, and he was stationed, under Corrie's auspices, at Agra in 1813. Abdul Masih was ordained in 1826 by Bishop Heber, being thus the first Indian clergyman of the Church of England. Mirat was occupied in 1815; Benares, 1817; Gorakhpur, 1823; Azimgarh and Jaunpur, 1831; Jabalpur, 1854; Lucknow, 1858; Allahabad, 1859; Faizabad, 1862; Aligarh, 1863; Mandla (Gond Mission), 1879; and Kherwara (Bheel Mission), 1880. A remarkable work was done by W. Smith and C. B. Leupolt at Benares, which began in 1832. In 1853, St. John's College at Agra was opened by T. V. French (late Bishop of Lahore) and E. C. Stuart (late Bishop of Waiapu). The Sepoy Mutiny of 1857 destroyed much of the Society's property, but the deep interest aroused by it caused a great extension of the work afterwards. Lucknow was occupied immediately on its re-conquest, on the invitation of the Chief Commissioner, Sir R. Montgomery. Allahabad was also occupied, and Christian villages established there and at Gorakhpur. In 1892 a new diocese (Lucknow) was formed out of the See of Calcutta, the Bishop (the Right Rev. A. Clifford) having episcopal supervision of the whole of the North-West Provinces.

Reinforcements.

THE staff was reinforced during the year by the following:—The Rev. Thomas Russell, M.A., of St. John's College, Cambridge, Vicar of Long Clawson, Leicestershire, who went out, at his own charges, to take charge of Trinity Church, Allahabad, for six months experimentally, leaving Mrs. Russell at home; the Rev. Herbert John Peck, B.A., of Cambridge University, Curate of St. John's, Hull, who, after his acceptance in May, 1893, resided some time in Islington College; the Rev. Horace Mould, of Islington College, who was admitted to Deacon's Orders on Trinity Sunday, 1894; Mrs. Durrant, widow of the late Rev. Isaac Durrant, who was formerly Director of the Missionaries' Children's Home, and is also a daughter of the late Rev. Edward Bickersteth, a secretary of the Society from 1815 to 1830, and sister of the present Bishop of Exeter; Miss Emily Bickersteth Durrant, daughter of the last named, and step-sister to the Rev. G. B. Durrant, secretary of this Mission; Miss Katherine Emma Honiss, daughter of the Rev. N. Honiss, formerly a missionary of the Society in Tinnevelly and Mauritius; and Miss Nanney, accepted in local connexion by the Allahabad Corresponding Committee. These sailed, except the last named, who was already in the field, in October and November. Mr. Peck and Mr. Mould were assigned to work among the Bheels.

Deaths of Rev. W. A. C. Fremantle,

The Mission has lost two missionaries by death. The Rev. William Archibald Culling Fremantle, one of the party which went out to recruit the Mission in 1893, died at Naini Tal on November 2, less than one year after his arrival in India. He was a son of the present, and great nephew of the late, Dean of Ripon, grandson of the late Lord Cottesloe and of the late Sir Culling Eardley, and a godson of the late Archbishop Tait; he was educated at Eton and Balliol, and took his degree in 1888. After reading for a year at Wycliffe Hall, he took a first class in the Universities' Preliminary Examination, and was ordained in Advent, 1890, by the present Bishop of Winchester to the Curacy of St. Paul's, Dorking, but all the while contemplating the foreign field as his ultimate sphere of labour. For a few months before he sailed he worked in Aston parish under Canon Knox, the present Bishop of Coventry. On reaching the Mission, he at once, as the Rev. G. B. Durrant wrote, "made his mark as a man of intense earnestness, and made such progress with the language that he would soon have become proficient as a linguist." Five months after landing he began family prayers in Urdu, and a few weeks later he commenced to preach in that language at Naini Tal. Mrs. Fremantle wrote:—

> I have never known him falter in a single-eyed desire to glorify God. It was his first thought in everything, Will it advance the Kingdom? Will it bring Him glory? And when his great desire to be sent to a Heathen land was granted, his naturally joyous spirit seemed to overflow with gladness day by day.

Mr. Fremantle had been ill with typhoid fever, upon which pleurisy and pneumonia supervened; but he was improving, and the doctor thought all danger was over, when suddenly a change was noticed, and he passed away very rapidly.

A few days before Mr. Fremantle, whom he had just left at Naini Tal, Mr. E. R. Jackson, a member of the Gond Band of Associated Evangelists, died, on October 29, at Aligarh. He was returning to his work after a visit to the hills, and appears to have overheated himself in a walk of thirteen miles to the train. While waiting at Aligarh railway station, ague and fever came on, and he was removed to the Mission house, where the Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Bowlby tenderly nursed him during his brief and fatal illness. One of his brother missionaries, who was with him at Naini Tal and left that place in his company, the Rev. E. D. Price, says, "One of the last things I saw dear Jackson do was to kneel down in the railway station waiting-room to pray." And the Rev. H. J. Molony, the leader of the Band, wrote:— Mr. E. R. Jackson,

> We have suffered a heavy loss by the death of Mr. Jackson, one of the original three who came out for the Band in November, 1890. He set to work heartily, and with determined application acquired a good practical knowledge of Hindi; he was an enthusiastic preacher in the villages, and a most reliable helper in the work. During the last year especially he had not enjoyed good health, and several attacks of fever had reduced his strength and seriously affected his general health; but we all hoped that a change to the hills in September and October might restore him again. Ever since I heard the sad news (sad only for those left behind), one thought has been uppermost in my mind as describing him—"a good soldier of Jesus Christ." He was a true and brave Christian, fighting in the forefront of the Lord's army.

and Mrs. Leupolt.

Another name must be added to the tale of deaths—that of one who faithfully bore the burden and heat of a much earlier day of missionary toil. Mrs. Leupolt, widow of the Rev. C. B. Leupolt, whose fascinating Recollections of an Indian Missionary were once among the best known books to readers of missionary literature, died in November, 1894. Her maiden name was Jane Chambers Jones, and, like Anna Hinderer, of the Yoruba Mission, she received her call to the Mission-field at Lowestoft, while an inmate of Francis Cunningham's household. She was the first missionary sent to India by the Female Education Society, and went out to Burdwan to work under the Rev. J. J. Weitbrecht in 1835. Four years afterwards she became Mrs. Leupolt, and laboured as a true helpmeet with her husband until his retirement in 1874.

The Rev. and Mrs. J. Tunbridge have been transferred to the Punjab and Sindh Mission, and the Rev. and Mrs. R. J. Kennedy, as already mentioned, to the Bengal Mission, in response to an urgent appeal for a man to take up the Mohammedan work of the late Rev. Jani Alli. The Rev. G. E. A. Pargiter has accepted the important incumbency of St. Paul's, Leamington, and has resigned his connexion with the Society. The Rev. A. E. Keet has retired.

Church Councils.

The Conference of Missionaries was held at Secundra from October 30 to November 2. The first day was reserved for prayer and spiritual intercourse, and the Bishop of Lucknow gave three helpful addresses. Bishop Clifford also gave some devotional addresses to the delegates of the Church Councils, which met at Jabalpur from November 13 to 15; the District Councils on the 13th, under the presidency of the Rev. J. P. Ellwood; and the Central Council on the 15th, when Bishop Clifford presided. Many European friends of the Mission at Jabalpur showed their sympathy with their Indian fellow-Christians by meeting the delegates at a social gathering, and among these was the wife of the Chief Commissioner, he himself expressing deep regret at his own enforced absence. The Rev. A. H. Wright has been appointed Vice-Chairman of the District Councils. Their Treasurer, the Hon. Justice Knox, read a paper on "The Work done by, and the Work that might be done by, the Council as an Evangelistic Agency." The Committee had the pleasure of several interviews with Mr. Knox, and of learning his opinions regarding matters of practical importance to the Mission, with which he has been intimately related for nearly thirty years. He is a member of the Allahabad Corresponding Committee, the other members being the Bishop of Lucknow, Lieut.-Col. Barker, Mr. J. B. Braddon, Mr. Elliott, Capt. Gibbon, the Revs. K. E. Barrow, A. H. Wright, J. P. Ellwood, and G. B. Durrant (secretary).

I. NORTH-WEST PROVINCES.

The Rev. A. W. Baumann, the Rev. and Mrs. H. M. M. Hackett, the Rev. and Mrs. J. J. Johnson, and the Rev. and Mrs. T. F. Robathan returned to the Mission in October; and the Rev. W. McLean and the Rev. and Mrs. J. P. Haythornthwaite returned, after short visits to this country, in August and September respectively. The Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Johnston came home in October, 1894; the Rev. A. I. Birkett in December; Mrs. Fremantle in January, 1895; Miss A. Bunston, on medical certificate, in March; the Rev. T. Russell in April; and the Rev. and Mrs. J. M. Paterson in May. The Rev. and Mrs. G. Litchfield, owing to the ill-health of the latter, went to the Cape, South Africa, in the spring of 1895, where Mr. Litchfield has taken temporary clerical duty. Mr. McLean was married in October at Faizabad to Miss E. R. Dixon.

Ordinations.

The Bishop of Lucknow admitted the Revs. H. W. V. Birney and B. Tobit to Priest's Orders at All Saints' Cathedral, Allahabad, on March 31, 1895.

ALLAHABAD.

Trinity Church.

Trinity Church and the district of Allahabad assigned to it, for which the Society accepted the responsibility in 1893, is the special charge of the Rev. W. Latham, but he was very gratefully relieved and set free for evangelistic work during the 1894–5 cold season by the Rev. T. Russell. On Advent Sunday special sermons for the C.M.S. were preached by Bishop Clifford and by the Rev. H. M. M. Hackett, and the collection amounted to Rs. 188. Bishop Clifford confirmed nine persons at St. Paul's Divinity School in April, 1894, among whom was Dilawar Masih, who was baptized at Benares in 1893 (see Annual Report, 1893–4, pp. 100, 101). Mr. Hackett returned to his former post as Principal at the end of the year, the Vice-Principal being the Rev. J. N. Carpenter. Two fully trained students left—one for the S.P.G. Chota Nagpur Mission, the other to labour with the Rev. W. Newby Fraser in the Partabgarh district, to be mentioned below. Other students, who did not reach the upper classes, left for Bombay, Agra, Faizabad, and Jaunpur. The divinity students preach in the city with the Rev. Nihal Singh. He found in some of them a tendency to make their addresses eloquent and learned rather than evangelistic, and he states:—

Divinity School.

A Native pastor's view on the importance of preaching "Christ crucified."

I tried to impress upon the minds of such preachers, in friendly conversation, the great importance of preaching Christ crucified alone to the people of India, thus drawing their attention to the One Living Person, Jesus Christ, the Son of God, the Redeemer of mankind, Who was crucified on the Cross for the remission of the sins of the fallen race of man. I know it is very hard for a convert in this country to confess the crucified and despised Saviour; but, in my opinion, this is the true test of a genuine and sincere convert, that he should not be ashamed of his Master and Redeemer, that he should be taken to the preaching spot and made to confess before his countrymen the Name of Christ, and give a reason of the hope that is in him. Through God's blessing the students have improved much in this line.

Translations. The late Principal, the Rev. A. E. Johnston, assisted by the Rev. Nihal Singh, prepared the second part of "The Exposition of the Apostles' Creed" for the benefit of the students, the first of which was published in 1893. Mr. Singh translated the Catechism into Roman-Urdu, and wrote Prem Sarita ("The Stream of Love"), a book for Hindus; he took part also in the revision of the Urdu prayer and hymn-books. Lectures were delivered in a hired room in the city, which students of the Government High School attended; and Mr. Singh endeavoured to reach with the Gospel the inhabitants of the city, and opened a school for the Chamar and Mehtar (shoemakers and sweepers) children. Visiting the Bengali and Hindustani gentlemen is, he says, the most difficult part of his work; among them he meets with "Freethinkers, Theosophists, contentious Aryas, staunch Hindus, bigoted Buddhists, and fanatic Mohammedans." He Baptisms. baptized four people—the daughter of a mendicant Tailang Brahman, Kripa Rama Bai, whom Mrs. Singh led to Christ, and whom her own father has discarded since her baptism; an Assamese mendicant Brahman and a Sadhu, whom Mr. Singh met at the Magh Mela, who proved, like most of his class, to have a strong aversion to work and was a burden to his Christian friends; and a Brahman lad, who died of consumption the day after his baptism.

Evangelistic work. The Rev. W. Newby Fraser, of the New South Wales C.M. Association, was transferred from Secundra to Allahabad in the autumn for the purpose of engaging in evangelistic work in the district. He visited forty villages in a few weeks by way of surveying the land, and he went in December to Partabgarh, a district about thirty-six miles from Allahabad, where a solitary catechist has laboured for four years with very small results. Mr. Newby Fraser says of this agent:—

An earnest catechist. This old man works bravely. Often when we have arrived at a village five or six miles away from the camping-ground, we have found him there before us with his load of books opened and spread out for sale. As we were returning from some villages the day before yesterday, the old man asked if he might go to a mela which was to be held the next day about sixteen miles away, at the same time promising to be back in camp the following evening. We had been some miles that morning, and had visited several villages, and while the catechists were preaching he was trying to get the people to buy gospels and books on the Christian religion. He would have been quite justified in waiting till two or three o'clock before starting out again, but after a frugal meal he started off with his load.

The people of this district Mr. Fraser found to be very ignorant. He says:—

In one village the people told us plainly that they knew nothing about

God, never prayed—just ate, drank, smoked the hukkah, and slept. When they died, they thought that was the end; and judging from the way they spoke, it seemed as though they thought it was a very good end too, and something much to be desired. There are a great many Brahmans here, but they are like the rest, grossly ignorant, even of their own religion, and full of pride. We have been often told by them that they were better than the gods; in fact, that the gods bowed down to them. Without God and without hope.

But some were willing to listen, and one or two Brahmans appeared to be seeking the light.

BENARES.

The Rev. Dr. C. Baumann expresses deep regret that this important city, with a resident population of 210,000, and a floating population of 150,000 additional, and with a district around it containing 1,946 towns and villages, is so inadequately manned by Christian missionaries. The little C.M.S. staff has been strengthened by the return of the Rev. J. J. Johnson (to renew his work, for which his knowledge of Sanscrit qualifies him, among the many pundits in the monasteries of the city) and Mrs. Johnson. The Rev. B. Davis says the Jay Narayan's School had a prosperous year. A former pupil, on his death-bed, though he had said nothing while at the school about his faith in Christ, declared himself to be convinced of the truth of Christianity, and commended it to his family. A result of his testimony was that his mother and two sisters were led to believe, and, after instruction in the Inquirers' Home of the Z.B.M.M. at Allahabad, were baptized. Mr. Davis had a Mohammedan inquirer named Faqir Mohammed, a drummer in a Native infantry regiment stationed at Benares, who visited him when he had the opportunity. He was led to question the truth of Mohammedanism by reading the closing words of the Book of Revelation, which speak of the danger of "adding unto these things." After suffering much persecution from relatives and others in his regiment, and having his wife taken from him by her parents, he had to leave Benares with his regiment still unbaptized. Miss Davis's useful labours among the women and girls were blessed to one, a female devotee or Sadhini, from Nepal, whom Mr. Davis baptized. Miss Bedford continues to superintend the industrial department of the Normal School.

GORAKHPUR.

The Rev. J. P. Ellwood describes the work in the Gorakhpur district as a pastoral mission; that is, the oversight of a few small bodies of Christians gathered together in certain centres has hitherto absorbed the time and strength of the one (rarely two) European missionary, the Rev. H. Stern, who occupied this station for nearly forty years. These Christian centres are a source of no small anxiety, owing to the poverty and ignorance of the people; and Mr. Ellwood marvels that so much has been done and so much progress made by his predecessor. At Basharatpur and Sternpur, two large Christian villages, the tone of morality is acknowledged by the Government officials to be far above that of the neighbouring non-Christian villages. The orphanages, workshops, and other industrial agencies which Mr. Stern started are prospering. Mr. Ellwood hopes to set on foot an aggressive evangelistic effort among the Heathen in the populous district. There were several inquirers, and one baptism. The convert was a Brahman woman, and is the first-fruit of the work of the Z.B.M.M. at this station. The Schools were under the Rev. J. M. Paterson during the year. A bad attack of fever at the beginning of 1895 has necessitated his coming home, and the Rev. T. F. Robathan has taken up his work. The Gorakhpur High School is recognized as the best school in the district, and the most successful in the Government examinations, a fact which Mr. Paterson ascribed to the energy of Mr. A. L. Bose, the headmaster, a "staunch teetotaler and a real help in our spiritual work." Mr. Bose is also the superintendent of the Sunday school for Heathen children, of which Mr. Paterson wrote :—

Gorakhpur.

Schools.

Sunday school for Heathen children.

> The boys are very keen about coming, and very often in bad weather or on Heathen festivals, when we have thought it advisable to close the school, some of the boys have turned up at the school and have gone away genuinely disappointed to find it closed. This keenness to be present is not all the result of spiritual hunger and thirst, for we remember that boys are boys, and so we bring the influence of a periodical Sunday-school treat into our side of the balance, with good results.

Non-Christian boys offering prayer to Jesus for help in examination.

In connexion with a Middle Class Government Examination which was held in Gorakhpur, Mr. Paterson observed at the top of many of the examination papers little prayers written by the candidates. "Some of the boys invoked Ram to help them, and some Krishna; many put simply the name of some god. On three papers, one by a Mohammedan and two by Hindus, there was a prayer to Jesus for help." Mr. Paterson gave the following illustration of the influence of Mission schools in producing a healthy sentiment on questions of social and practical moment :—

> A few months ago I was called by a Hindu to visit a European who was lying sick in his house in the bazaar. I found that the poor man was in a very helpless state, owing to the refusal on all sides to help him. He had grown delirious in his fever and had soiled his clothes, and no Hindu or Mussulman would defile themselves by removing them. At length the Hindu whose house it was, and who summoned me, himself took compassion on the invalid and attended to his needs. The man was of good caste, a Baniya, and was promptly outcasted. When I saw what he had done, I at once gave him the right hand of fellowship. Afterwards I recounted this incident to my Sunday-school boys, and asked them whether, in God's sight, the Baniya had done right or wrong; and the reply was a shout of achchha (meaning "good"), which resounded throughout the whole building. Twenty years ago such an answer would not have been given, and on every side we can see that the power of the Brahman priest, and the power of caste which he upholds, are yielding before the pure truth of God's Word.

Healthy sentiment of Mission-school pupils on social questions.

The European referred to in the above subsequently sought the Lord with all his heart, and tried to repay his Baniya benefactor by taking him to the Mission services. Mrs. Paterson "is just as much a missionary as her husband," the latter writes. She has passed with credit the Proficiency Examination in Urdu. Her work consists in visiting sick women in the hospital, Eurasian women, addressing educated Christian women, and taking classes of girls in the Orphanage.

LUCKNOW AND FAIZABAD.

Lucknow. It is a cause of sorrow and disappointment to the Committee that the Rev. G. Litchfield has been obliged, in consequence of Mrs. Litchfield's continued ill-health, to leave India with little prospect of Mrs. Litchfield being able to return thither. He has accepted temporarily the curacy of Wynberg at the Cape, under the Rev. C. W. R. Higham, formerly Association Secretary for Norfolk and East Suffolk; he hopes, however, to be privileged again to resume work among the Heathen. It was to open a Normal Training School that Mr. Litchfield went to Lucknow in 1893, and some of the initial difficulties of this undertaking had been successfully overcome before he left. Eight students were admitted, of whose course of studies Mr. Litchfield wrote:— New Normal Training School.

The special normal training consists in actual daily practice in teaching, lectures on the art of teaching, criticism, lessons, and careful study of the Bible, and of the Hindu and Mohammedan controversies. We have been studying the epistles to the Ephesians, Colossians, and Philemon during the past year; and hope (D.V.) to begin that to the Romans in January, using Mr. Moule's most helpful commentary. The students have thoroughly enjoyed their Bible-searching hour, taking pains to reference their Urdu Bibles as we went on, and all passing creditably in the examinations.

The High School is the oldest school in Lucknow. The Rev. A. I. Birkett, before he came home on furlough, succeeded in collecting funds to secure more suitable premises in Kaisar Bagh, on a site close to Canning College, and Sir C. Crosthwaite, the Lieut.-Governor of the North-West Provinces, laid the foundation stone of some additional new class-rooms in March, 1894, when most of the leading gentlemen in Oudh were present. Mr. Litchfield took the matriculation class in the Scriptures, and wrote:— High School.

We have been studying St. John's Gospel together, and some of the young men, by the answers they give and the questions they ask, are not far from the Kingdom. It seems in some cases as though but one little push were needed, and they must enter in. Will not the reader pray that the Holy Spirit, Who alone can, will give them the courage of their convictions, and lead them into the full light and liberty of the Gospel? "Not far from the Kingdom."

Causes of anxiety.

The Hindustani Congregation has been a cause of anxiety for the past several years. In 1888 the Rev. A. M. Levi was appointed pastor by the District Council, but private quarrels occurred between him and members of the congregation, and the Pastorate Committee was for a time suspended. In 1893 the Bishop removed Mr. Levi to Jaunpur, but he did not settle there, and eventually, in August, 1894, he connected himself with the Roman Catholics at Agra. The Rev. Timothy Noah has been temporarily appointed to the charge of the pastorate. It is not surprising, under these circumstances, that other grave irregularities occurred among the congregation which occasioned scandal and gave deep distress. The baptized Christians are 374 in number, and their subscriptions to the Pastorate Fund amounted to Rs. 219.

Associated Evangelists' Band.

The Band of Associated Evangelists consisted of the Revs. A. I. Birkett (the leader), E. A. Hensley, H. W. V. Birney (only temporarily connected with the Band), Mr. R. Baker, Mr. J. C. Harrison, and Mr. J. W. Goodwin. The last named has now returned to the Gond Band, to which he was originally attached. During the cold weather of 1893–4, the Band had the advantage of the Rev. Dr. W. Hooper's companionship and guidance, and they travelled with him over rather more than half the portion of the Lucknow district which has been assigned as their sphere. The most encouraging part of the tour was along a half-formed road leading from Lucknow south-westward to Unao, where the late Rev. C. G. Däuble's name was found to be still fragrant. At Fathganj, on this road, is an old catechist, "very ignorant and very tame in his preaching," but "a thoroughly good man, and his zeal and diligence know no bounds," Dr. Hooper writes. One man was found in this neighbourhood who boldly and uncompromisingly preached against idolatry and superstition. He refused to embrace the Gospel, however, being an eclectic. Another man, a landowner in a very comfortable and honourable position, was met with, of whom Dr. Hooper says:—

"A thoroughly good man."

An eclectic.

Convinced in mind, changed in life, and confessing Christ—yet unbaptized.

> Many years ago he received two parts of a Hindi Bible, viz. the New Testament, and the Old Testament up to Chronicles only. From these portions of God's Word, with only very occasional help from God's servants, he became convinced, not only of the falsehood of Hinduism, but also of the truth of Christianity, with his understanding of which, however, there was a good deal of misunderstanding mixed up, as was only natural. He received us very affectionately, and made no secret whatever of his convictions before the villagers; and they, and also those of neighbouring villages, were unable to deny that his opinions had produced a total change in his life, and that he was no longer the man that he was, and they still were. Yet one thing was wanting, and that one of the most important—the joining himself publicly to God's people by baptism. He regretted bitterly that he had not done this years before, when he was still able to earn his living in some way; but now, said he, "I should not only lose my house, my lands, and all my property, except what I could carry in my pocket—not only should I be execrated where I am respected, and forsaken by my wife and all my children, but I should be absolutely dependent on others; for I am now a feeble, tottering old man, utterly unable even to cook my own food, or exert myself in any way."

A rich Mohammedan pays beforehand for a Bible.

A distinguished Mussulman, whose loyalty in the Mutiny had been rewarded with an honorary magistracy and other more substantial honours, heard with evident interest of the Saviour's love, and paid Dr. Hooper beforehand for an Urdu Bible which he promised to send him. During the hot season the members of the Band held meetings for English-speaking Natives in a hired room, paid for by the Native Voluntary Workers' Association, and daily in the bazaar. The Rev. A. W. Baumann has been located at Lucknow to co-operate in the evangelistic and other work.

Faizabad.

For the first few months of 1894 the Rev. J. W. Hall was stationed at FAIZABAD, and while there he baptized five adults. Among these were two Mohammedans, a man and his son aged eighteen, residing at Rae Bareilly. The father had received a copy of St. Luke's Gospel, and they had carefully studied it together. Hearing that there were Christian teachers at Sultanpur, they went thither and placed themselves under the instruction of the catechist Masih Dyal, and were baptized by Mr. Hall in February. In April, on grounds of health, Mr. Hall was transferred to Mirat, and the Rev. W. G. Proctor succeeded to the charge at Faizabad. The Bishop of Lucknow visited the station in November and confirmed fifteen candidates. The Society has taken over an Anglo-vernacular school from the Wesleyans at this station. At Ajudhia also, the reputed place of Ram's birth and disappearance into the river, the Society has an Anglo-vernacular Primary School. Mr. Proctor refers to a spirit of inquiry which he has observed at Tanda, a town of 25,000 people, which the Z.B.M.M. has occupied. Copies of the Scriptures were purchased from him by several in order to compare the Bible with the Koran.

There are several civil districts to the south of Faizabad, in each of which the Society has a few catechists, and they are the only Christian agents amidst vast populations. Azimgarh has 1,728,625 people; Jaunpur, 1,264,949; and Sultanpur, 1,075,851.

AGRA, MATTRA, AND ALIGARH.

Agra. St. John's College.

At AGRA St. John's College had a reduced staff during most of the year, owing to the absence in England of the Principal and of the Rev. T. F. Robathan. Upon their return it lost the Rev. R. J. Kennedy (who had been Acting Principal during the Rev. J. P. Haythornthwaite's absence), who went to Calcutta to take up the late Rev. Jani Alli's work, and soon after the Rev.

T. F. Robathan went to Gorakhpur. The Rev. H. W. V. Birney has been temporarily placed on the College staff. The College Department sent up two candidates for the LL.B. Examination, who both passed; six for the B.A., of whom four passed; and twenty-seven for the F.A., of whom twelve passed. One of the B.A. candidates obtained first-class honours in English literature, and was placed third in order of merit in the North-West Provinces. Another of the successful B.A. candidates was a Christian, and Mr. Haythornthwaite exercised in his favour the privilege of nominating to a probationary deputy-collectorship, which was conferred upon the College in 1892 by the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-West Provinces and Oudh. Mr. Kennedy admitted two female students, daughters of the Churchwarden of the Hindustani congregation, into the F.A. classes under suitable purdah arrangements.

In the School Department eleven candidates passed the Entrance Examination of the Allahabad University, and nineteen the Government Middle School Examination. Mr. Challis had eighty young men of both departments for Bible teaching, and found the work "intensely interesting." The non-Christians did specially well in the Christmas examination; some of them indeed obtained higher marks than those won by Christians. Mr. Kennedy had charge of the Hostel, which has between seventy and eighty inmates. It is intended of course only for Christians, but two young Mohammedan inquirers were admitted into it, sent from the Society's School at Bahawalpur, near Multan, in the Punjab. Through the influence of Karim Baksh, the convert of 1893, another of the Mohammedan students, Mahomet Ali, became an inquirer, and was baptized at the end of 1894. Mr. Haythornthwaite says:—

A Mohammedan student baptized.

> I have been greatly encouraged at finding, in conversation with the more thoughtful members of the M.A. and B.A. classes, how thoroughly convinced they are of the truth of the Christian religion. Some of them are only deterred by family and caste considerations from making an open profession.

Lectures.

Public Lectures of an evidential and apologetic character were delivered during the cold season, and were largely attended by Hindu and Mohammedan students from the various educational institutions of Agra. Haileybury lectures (so called because usually delivered by the agent, Mr. S. G. Thomas, supported by Haileybury School) were given in the College, the chief course being one by the Rev. Dr. Hooper on the "Hindu Doctrine of Transmigration." Evangelistic and Bible lectures were delivered in English and Urdu alternately. Gleaners' Union Meetings also were held. The College missionaries are frequently visited after school hours by young men from the non-Christian colleges. Mr. Challis mentions a young Brahman, who speaks

English well, visiting him three times a week and going steadily with him through the Bible, discussing the difficulties as they arose. Another Brahman invited him to exhibit lantern views before his family and friends at his own house. Mr. Challis says of this occasion :—

Address with lantern views in a Brahman's house.

On the appointed evening a superior carriage arrived, and I was conveyed in state to the house, and very graciously received. We went up a narrow staircase which led to an open court surrounded by doors leading to the various apartments of the house ; here I put up my sheet. Meanwhile some fifty or sixty guests assembled, and, as many of them were sufficiently educated, I was requested to address them in English. I first took the Life of Joseph, a new story to most of them. After this we sang a bhajan, or Hindi hymn, and then, as there was time, and they wished to see more, I showed them my slides on the Life of Christ, and suggested that, as some present did not understand English, we would have this explained in Urdu, so my Christian master, whom I took with me, undertook this very nicely. I have several times been asked to repeat the visit, as those hearing about it were very disappointed at not being present.

Girls' High School.

The pastoral charge of St. Paul's English Church has been offered by the Bishop of Lucknow to the Society and accepted for a period, the work of this ministry being shared by the College staff. The number in the Girls' High School, under Miss E. E. Thompson and Miss C. Lancaster, more than doubled during the year, and stood at twenty-seven boarders and seven day-scholars at the close of 1894. The fathers of most of the girls are in Government employ, but a few are Hindustani pastors and catechists. The Government Inspector (H. B. Budden, Esq.) in April, 1894, gave a good report :—"The result of the examinations was most satisfactory. . . . In arithmetic almost every answer was quite correct. . . . I consider the girls who are able to avail themselves of the advantages offered in this school are most fortunate."

Native Congregation.

The Native Congregation has 500 members, to whom the Rev. W. Seetal ministers. He reports fifteen adult baptisms, the results of evangelistic work among the Chamars and others of the depressed classes in Agra and its neighbourhood. The church was thoroughly repaired and re-roofed in December, 1893, and is now a handsome building. Fourteen candidates were confirmed. Work among Post Office employés is encouraging ; several of these men read the Bible regularly, the Rev. W. McLean states. The Voluntary Christian Workers' Union has twenty-five members, who go out under leaders in three bands for bazaar preaching. The out-stations are Mudla, Ferozabad, Khandouli (where three or four Brahmans are said to be almost ready for baptism), and Taj Gunj.

Itinerating Work.

Under Mr. McLean for Itinerating Work are twelve catechists and one colporteur, and during the cold weather eight villages were visited on an average every day. During a stay at Khandouli, over one hundred villages were visited, and sixty Gospels

Baptisms. were sold. Mr. McLean baptized seven adults: four of them who were baptized on Christmas Day, 1893, belonged to one family, representing three generations; two others were Brahmans, Yuhanna Atama Gir and his wife, of Karouli, a village fifteen miles from Agra; and the seventh was a young man of twenty, Masih Charu, who had for some time been a secret believer. Atama Gir was baptized on Easter Day, 1894, and the following day he went to a mela with Mr. McLean, where he was reviled by many of his old acquaintances; but he remarked, "My friends look upon me now as even lower than a sweeper, but I tell my wife neither to be troubled, nor to regard the words of man, but to look up to God." Mr. McLean says of this man:—

A mendicant Brahman teaching our Lord's parables.

As a young man he had deep religious convictions, and when about sixteen years of age joined himself to a tribe of Sadhus, or wandering mendicants; for a time he lived in a dharmsala, or religious seminary, provided by the Raja of Baroda; but was so horrified at their immoral and worldly lives, that he fled from them in disgust, and continued his wanderings alone, visiting Benares, Prāg, Hurdwar, Godourigunga, &c.—in fact, all the sacred places of the Hindus. At last he got St. John's Gospel from a little boy at Cawnpore, and read it during his pilgrimages; then after some years he got a copy of St. Luke, declaring, "Now I have got the Word of God." He was struck with the purity, simplicity, and humility of our Lord's life, and learnt many of the parables off by heart, teaching and explaining them to the people as he went along. At length he met our preachers at Bichpuri, and told them his history; they brought him to me, and it was surprising the amount of spiritual knowledge he had, though he had never met a Christian before. He was put under definite Christian instruction, and was baptized with his wife on Easter Day; he is now one of my most earnest workers, admirably suited for village work. He lives in his own simple way, wearing his Native dress, but night and day telling the story of his conversion—how he had been blind for so many years, but was now seeing clearly.

Secundra. SECUNDRA is five miles from Agra, and here the Rev. and Mrs. A. A. H. Wright, the Rev. J. S. Gray, and Mr. H. Bennett are stationed; the last since November, in the hope that the climate may suit him better than that of Mandla, where he laboured among the Gonds. The Rev. and Mrs. W. Newby Fraser left Secundra in March, 1894, going first to Agra and then to Allahabad. Several of the Orphanage children died of consumption. The abnormally heavy rains in August damaged the buildings, and for a time the children had to sleep in the school and in Miriam's Tomb (Miriam Zamani was the traditional Christian wife of Akbar), which is in the Orphanage Compound.

A blind youth accepted as a Reader. Among the candidates passed for the Lower Grade Reader's Examination, one was a blind lad who had got other boys to read his subject to him. His examination was a vivâ voce one, and he came out "splendidly," Mr. Wright says.

Mattra. The veteran missionaries at MATTRA, the Rev. P. M. Zenker and his sister, Miss Zenker, after twenty-nine years' residence in India without any furlough home, feel that their strength fails, and are therefore doubly thankful for the reinforcements of recent years which have relieved them of some of their responsibilities. The Congregation is faithfully looked after; but they do not reward the labours spent upon them by showing a care for the souls of others, and a few of them manifest in a very sad way a disposition to depend to the utmost possible extent upon the Mission. Work among Women at Mattra has been much developed during the past few years, and the staff of ladies resident there during the whole or part of the year, in addition to Miss Zenker, consisted of Miss M. Stratton, Miss W. B. J. Wilkinson, Miss K. Batten, and Miss A. Bunston. Miss Wilkinson and Miss Batten, however, were only stationed there while learning the language, and, on account of health, they spent the hot weather in the hills. Mrs. and Miss Durrant joined the ladies there for the purpose of language study on reaching the Mission. Miss Bunston had a severe attack of typhoid fever at the close of the year which has necessitated her coming home. Miss Stratton, who has successfully passed her three language examinations, was engaged chiefly in visiting Mohammedan and Hindu zenanas in Mattra and Brindaban. Sixty-five of them are open to the ladies, every one of which gives access to a large number of women and children. Some of the ladies visited appear to be near the Kingdom. Miss Stratton writes :— Women's work.

One or two, I am glad to say, are thinking and inquiring seriously about Christ. One is a high-caste woman, who has been nearly all over India on pilgrimages, but has found no rest. For some months now we have been visiting her. She is learning to read, and knows a great many bhajans. She has learnt the Lord's Prayer, and says it every day, and joins in prayer with the Bible-woman and myself whenever we go to see her, kneeling as we do. I have often felt much encouraged by what she says about our Saviour : once she said, not long ago, that she was ready for Him if He would have her. Now she appears to be carefully thinking over the possibility of her coming out openly. Of course she is in purdah, and this is a great difficulty to her. Meanwhile, we are teaching her as much as possible. A purdah lady ready to be a Christian.

One or two others are, more or less, in her condition. One of our brightest pupils asks thoughtful questions sometimes when we are talking to her, as "What does repentance mean?" "What will God do to the people who have not heard of this Saviour?" Many of them seem to lead very dull lives, especially the higher caste, who are more carefully shut up. Most of them listen very willingly, especially if we have a picture to fasten their eyes as well ; but I have often been much interested to see how their expressions alter, and their thoughts come back from calculating the probable cost of the Miss Sahib's raiment, when I have spoken about our Lord's second advent. "This Saviour of whom you speak is coming," they say, and they are all curiosity to know when and how. Interest in the doctrine of the Second Advent.

The Mission at ALIGARH was found by the Rev. A. E. Bowlby when he went to it at the end of 1893—two and a half years after the death of the Rev. J. W. Stuart, the last missionary to reside there—in a state of disorganization. Assisted by the Native deacon, the Rev. N. Solomon, and by a Christian pundit Aligarh and a reader, he has endeavoured to set in order the things that remained. Several Christian families, of whom all trace had been lost, have been discovered in the city and district, and it is due to this and not to additional converts that the number of Christians is returned as 124, compared with 95 in 1892, and 86 in 1893. Mr. Bowlby has a Bible-class for Mohammedans of all classes held in the private house of a gentleman in the city, which has grown from two or three members to about thirty. He says: "I have never met such enlightened and noble gentlemen as some of the Mohammedans I have met here at Aligarh, men whom it is a real pleasure to know." At Bulandshahr a primary school is attended by over seventy boys. There are no Christians there except Mission agents, mostly of the Z.B.M.M. Soron has sixteen Native Christians, and Kasjung fifteen.

MIRAT.

Mirat.

A disappointing congregation.

The Revs. J. W. Hall and W. B. Collins commenced labour at Mirat in April and May respectively of 1894. Mr. Hall remarks, as others have done in previous years, on the low spiritual tone of the Congregation, and on a symptom which is peculiarly painful and disappointing, namely, a selfish desire to receive as much temporal advantage as they could from Mission funds. Mr. Hall may be assured that he has the Committee's deepest sympathy in his efforts to correct and rebuke this disposition, and to show by example and precept a better way. He says:—

> There have been some tough battles during the year, when old customs were questioned and abandoned, but we need much wisdom and help from above to do that which is best for the community and the work at large; and, above all, we need an outpouring of the Holy Spirit upon ourselves and our people, that we may be transparent followers of Jesus Christ.

Mr. Collins, on the other hand, coming to Mirat from Kherwara, where the work is in a more elementary stage, and the people (the Bheels) much more primitive, says:—

> I find here a great difference from Kherwara; there, no Native worker who is more than a lower-grade reader; here, a pastor and a considerable congregation, and some efficient catechists who can be a real help to one; there, no one, as a rule, who can read; here, occasionally, men wishing to use English rather than Hindustani as the medium of conversation, some who can read in almost every village, and in the city numbers seeking higher education.

High School.

The High School, with an average of 242 boys, has two Hostels connected with it, one for Christians, the other for non-Christians. Six passed the University Entrance Examination. The head-master keeps up a flourishing Sunday school, the pupils of which did excellently in a Scripture examination. Mr. Hall opened a little Dispensary in July, which averaged a daily attendance of 140 to the close of the year. Evangelistic Work was conducted at eight open-air stations in Mirat, also by visiting the houses of non-Christians, by lectures, by visiting melas, and by itinerating. There were six adult baptisms, four men and two women. One of them was a young Jew, twenty-five years of age. He was born at Cochin, and, as a merchant, had visited most of the important cities of North India, and had travelled as far as Pekin. While on his way from Bombay to visit Afghanistan and Bokhara, he was drugged and robbed by his companions in the Khyber Pass. On his return journey to Bombay, while seeking employment, he met a C.M.S. catechist at Ghaziabad, to whose preaching he listened, and who took him to Mr. Hall, with the result that he was baptized in July. Another of the converts was a young Goorkha, who had been a soldier, and was led to become an inquirer through listening to the Gospel preached in the open-air meetings.

Baptisms: a Jew,

a Goorkha.

At Mulyana and Kankerkhera, "the field," Mr. Hall says, "is as hard as a rock." At Ghaziabad Miss Nanney is stationed, and through her efforts many new houses have been opened to the influence of Christian truth.

DEHRA DUN.

The Rev. T. Carmichael, who, with Mrs. Carmichael, has come home on furlough, resided at the Christian Agricultural settlement of ANNFIELD, where, he says, the Christian community is "terribly dead." One cause for this he traces to the fact that when the settlement was founded the converts were taken thither from scenes of famine and danger, and supplied with land, bullocks, implements, &c., experiencing unusual kindness and protection; and now, when the missionary is unable to supply their temporal wants, they are discontented and indisposed to receive spiritual instruction. The out-stations of Dehra and Arcadia are in a more hopeful state. Mr. Carmichael, having completed his Garhwali version of St. Matthew, was engaged during the year in translating the same Gospel into Jaunsari. He and Mrs. Carmichael renewed their visits to the hills. The Rev. and Mrs. W. B. Collins have been temporarily located at Annfield.

Annfield.

The Rev. Dr. Hooper took up his abode at MUSSOORIE at the beginning of the hot season of 1894, with the intention, God willing, of residing there while engaged in translation work. He was joined by the two other members of the Hindi Old Testament Revision Committee, viz. the Rev. Dr. Kellogg, of the American Presbyterian Mission, and the Rev. J. A. Lambert, of the L.M.S., from April to the end of September, and by that time five books were, in a sense, completed—Genesis, Exodus, Psalms, Hosea, and Joel. An inter-diocesan committee of the dioceses of Mussoorie.

Translation work.

Lahore and Lucknow, appointed by Bishops Matthew and Clifford, to promote the revision of the Urdu Prayer Book, translated by Bishop French in 1881, requested Dr. Hooper to draw up a draft revision of the whole of the Prayer Book except the Scripture portions, which he did. He was engaged at Bareilly in October on the revision of the Urdu New Testament. Dr. Hooper also superintends the few workers who watch over the Native Christians scattered over Mussoorie and Landour. These include Babu Solomon, quasi-pastor of Mussoorie, who was the first Native lay agent of the Society to hold Bishop Clifford's licence to minister to the congregation in subordination to the European presbyter-in-charge.

II. CENTRAL PROVINCES AND RAJPUTANA.

JABALPUR.

Baptisms at Jabalpur.

THE Rev. C. H. Gill reports seven adult baptisms at JABALPUR. One of these was a Gond, who heard the Word while a patient in the city hospital from another patient, a Christian colporteur. During their convalescence these two held converse together, and the result was the baptism of the Gond, who received the name of Yaqub. Another was a young man from the Rewah Native State, a cornet-player in the Rajah's band, who, though the son of nominally Christian parents, had never been baptized. He had never met any other Native Christian in that State all his life, nor had he possessed a Bible until he got one from a Bengali non-Christian woman whom he happened to meet. He was advised by a Christian engineer to go to Mr. Gill, and the latter was both surprised and encouraged by the amount of knowledge he had acquired from the Bible alone. Two aged Hindu fakirs and a Tamil woman were also among the converts, the last named the fruit of an effort supported locally, and under Mr. Gill's superintendence, to evangelize the Tamils residing in Jabalpur and its neighbourhood. There is a congregation of some forty Tamil Christians, chiefly servants. Among the inquirers was a Brahman pundit, who at the beginning of 1894 was a preacher in behalf of orthodox Hinduism in the chief bazaar of Jabalpur. He visited Mr. Gill at first as a critic, but afterwards as a learner. Another was a returned coolie from Jamaica. The catechists engaged, not only in bazaar preaching, but in house-to-house visitation. The different mohallas, or wards, of the city were worked one by one, opportunities for religious conversation being embraced as they occurred. By this means a number of interesting hearers were discovered, of whose names a list is kept for guidance in future visits. The Native pastor of the congregation is the Rev. Isaac Vincent.

The High School, with its 160 boys, continues to afford the Rev. J. A. F. Warren a most happy sphere of service. He says:—

Opportunities for speaking "straight."

I have been asked more than once by local friends how far I can go with the boys. I can truly say that I have been able to speak to them as "straight" as I could to any class of Christian or nominal Christian young men at home. Of course I feel that I am a privileged person, and know that they listen to me when they would not listen perhaps to others, e.g. catechists in the bazaars. If one of those persons, happily becoming more scarce, who seem so fond of running down the educational branch of Missions, could drop in of a Sunday afternoon and see between twenty and thirty boys, all more or less intelligent, and just at an impressionable age, listening attentively while the claims of Jesus Christ are urged upon them, and then if the same individual would take a stroll up to the crowded bazaars and watch the patient, hard-working catechists trying to get an audience, and as often as not having their little audience broken up by noisy ragamuffins, I think this despiser of educational missions would possibly have learnt something which, if it would not cause him to alter his opinions, might lead to a certain modification.

The Rev. Timothy Noah has been temporarily transferred from Murwara to Lucknow, and Babu Christchitt has taken his place. The Rev. and Mrs. W. Latham spent two months in the winter of 1894–5 itinerating in the villages around Murwara. Mr. Gill mentions that the isolated Christian at Ujiyarpur, or "Light-town," to whom Dr. Hooper referred in the extract quoted from his Annual Letter in last year's Report (page 110), is still bright in his faith, and witnesses for Christ in his own and surrounding villages.

An isolated Christian.

MANDLA AND MARPHA (GOND MISSION).

Mandla.

The Rev. E. P. Herbert has succeeded to the work at MANDLA, from which the Rev. H. D. Williamson has been permanently removed to take up the important work of the secretariat at Calcutta. Hindi is the vernacular in the town, and there is a small congregation of Hindi-speaking Christians, for whom services are held on Sundays and Wednesdays, and a school for Christian girls. Bishop Clifford visited Mandla in March, 1894, at the request of the Bishop of Calcutta (in whose diocese the Central Provinces lie), and held the second confirmation for Gond Christians, the first having been held in 1893 by the Bishop of Calcutta. Nine Gonds were confirmed on this occasion, three of them being women, the first of their sex to be confirmed. These women walked distances of 45, 60, and 63 miles respectively in order to enjoy the privilege.

Women walk over fifty miles to be confirmed.

The Band of Associated Evangelists can scarcely be said to reside anywhere, as they are on the move in the district through a great part of the year; and when itineration is impossible some of the party are often found at Mandla, and one or more at Patpara or Diuari, the out-stations. But MARPHA is the centre and home to which they gather after their frequent tours. The party consisted of the Rev. H. J. Molony (the leader), the Rev.

Marpha.

E. D. Price, and Messrs. E. R. Jackson, H. Bennett, and J. Fryer. Mr. Jackson died in October, as already mentioned. Mr. Bennett's health failed after a few months' trial, and after visiting the hills he was transferred to Secundra. On the other hand, Mr. J. W. Goodwin returned to the Band in November in much improved health, and was able to put the finishing touches to the little church, which was opened in January, 1895, by the Rev. G. B. Durrant, the Secretary of the Mission. The cost of this humble edifice was defrayed from the offerings of the people. The school received a considerable accession in the summer. A member of the congregation had been under discipline which was terminated by his marriage according to Christian rites, and he brought, "as a sort of reconciliation offering," Mr. Molony says, twenty new children to the school on his wedding morning! He subsequently, however, tried to draw them away again when his humour changed. Mr. Molony had three Bible-classes weekly, one for women. He says:—

"The Bible the book for Gonds."

I took the Old Testament history, from Abraham to Solomon, and told it them in simple, conversational style, and I myself was astonished to find how appropriate is the narrative to Eastern life even in this out-of-the-way place—the camels and the pitchers and the watering of the flocks, the ploughing with oxen and feeding cattle, the treachery and oppression and forced labour, and many other things, are so well known to the people, and the whole story stirs their imagination. The Bible is the book even for Gond land.

First Christian death among Gonds.

There was much sickness at Marpha during the year, and there were four deaths of Christians, the first to occur in Marpha. An old man, named Binna, who had been cured of cataract by Dr. W. Johnson (formerly connected with the Mission), was the first to die, "full of faith." It was a strange sight, Mr. Price says, to the rest of the villagers to see his male and female relations following down to the grave singing hymns. At Salea, a village three miles from Marpha, a Gond headman was baptized in the summer, the first convert of the place. Mr. Molony says:—

"Red-letter days."

On July 18 I went over to his village, and, after cutting off his top-knot of hair in the presence of his family, we went down to the running stream below the village, and there, with a few Christians who had come with me, and before a little group of Heathen friends, we knelt down on the stones together, and then I baptized him. It was another scene to be remembered! These are the red-letter days in a missionary's history! Just before the service another from that village publicly declared his wish to be a Christian, and two others came a few days later and said the same; they are still under instruction.

There is a little school at Patpara under Priscilla, who was educated at the Mandla Girls' Orphanage. Mr. Fryer resided at this out-station at the close of 1894. At Diuari also there is a school which increases in size and efficiency under Daud, the master-in-charge. A Sunday school has also been started.

One of the first Gond pupils from the day-school has been appointed a teacher, and sent to open a new school at Baragaon, seven miles north of Marpha, where there are one Christian and several inquirers.

The Band broke up into groups for Itinerating in the district, which is nearly as large as Northumberland and Yorkshire. Mr. Herbert also shared in the work, and during several tours visited 514 villages. Mr. Price, with the late Mr. Jackson, took a long tour northward at the beginning of the year, visiting the source of the Nerbudda, passing into the Native State of Rewah, and returning viâ the "Baiga Chuck," namely, the "Reserve," on which the Baigas are allowed to cut down as they may please the forest timber. Two days after starting they camped at Upri, where they found inquirers, and their tents were full of people all day long. In the part of Rewah they visited, a white face had not been seen before by most of the people. Mr. Price says:—

"A harmless Sahib."

At one place while I was preaching I saw a man take my guide on one side, and overheard scraps of the conversation: "Has he really been to your village?" "Yes."—"What did he do?" "Showed us curious things and talked to us."—"How much money did he take from you?" "None."—"Now you are joking, that isn't the truth; and didn't he do you any harm?" "No, he is a harmless Sahib."—"Is that really true?" "Real truth." Then I saw him edge back to us with a considerably relieved mind and face.

The source of the Nerbudda, a very holy place, is thus described:—

A "holy tank."

There are a number of temples there, and some of the most hideous idols I ever saw. These are worshipped chiefly by Hindus. The principal object of attraction is a holy tank of filthy, dirty green water, in which pious Hindus wash their clothes and bodies, and then take the vile stuff away to drink. In this tank is a small temple, in the middle of which the Nerbudda springs out of the ground.

In the "Baiga Chuck" the following occurred:—

A weird sight.

At one village the Baigas all came out and sang and danced for us. The men were all most curiously dressed, and wore little round caps. Some of them had on very short vests, made as if of macramé twine, and adorned profusely with cowrie-shells. They had wooden swords and axes, and these they waved in the air, keeping time to the drums as they jumped high up in the air, and ever and anon giving a loud yell. It was a strange, weird sight to us as we sat round the huge log fire watching them.

During this one tour of twenty-four days, 225 villages were visited, 204 miles were travelled over, and 4,460 people heard the Gospel.

Social exclusiveness of the Gonds.

Mr. Molony's attention was drawn by a letter of an attached and watchful friend of the Society at home to the statements in his and the late Mr. Jackson's Annual Letters of 1894, which were quoted in the last Annual Report (pp. 112, 113), regarding the social exclusiveness of the Gonds, and the danger of recognizing, or at least in any degree acquiescing in the feeling, was pointed out. He has explained in reply, that all the confirmed converts have without any hesitation, and in the presence of their Heathen friends, joined with the European missionaries in the Holy Communion; that all the Christians acknowledge the duty of eating with other (European) Christians, and are ashamed of their action in at present declining to do so, but plead for delay until their numbers are increased, their difficulty having relation to marriage and provision for old age; that some of the converts have eaten with the missionaries, and others are inclined to do so; that drastic measures should not be prematurely taken, as the people's timidity, being a result of oppression and ignorance, is yielding to happier experiences; and that the future is very hopeful, the recent Christian marriages and funerals being a great step forward, as these important social functions must separate the Christians more and more from the Heathen. The whole matter shows how much wisdom and patience and grace are needed in the work and is a plea for prayer for leaders and converts alike.

KHERWARA (BHEEL MISSION).

The Rev. C. S. Thompson had the happiness of welcoming two recruits in November, 1894, viz. the Revs. H. J. Peck and H. Mould, from whom hopeful letters have been received.

PUNJAB AND SINDH MISSION.

The Punjab Mission was begun in 1851, soon after the annexation of the province to British India. The first station occupied was Amritsar, the sacred city of the Sikhs; Kangra was occupied in 1854; Peshâwar, 1855; Mûltan, 1856; Narowal, 1859; Dera Ismail Khan, 1861; Kashmir, 1863; Bannu, 1864; Lahore, 1867; Clarkabad, 1869; Pind Dádan Khan, 1876; Batála, 1878; Dera Ghazi Khan, 1879; Tarn Taran, 1885; Quetta, 1886. At Lahore, the capital of the province, the Divinity School was founded in 1870 by the late Rev. T. V. French. Mr. Gordon (who was killed at Kandahar, August 16, 1880) established, mainly at his own expense, stations at Pind Dádan Khan and Dera Ghazi Khan, the latter as a base for work among the Beluch tribes. Several other stations fringe the British frontier, the most important of which is Peshâwar, where a Mission to the Afghans was established in 1855 under the auspices of Sir Herbert Edwardes, then Commissioner of the district. In the valley of Kashmir a Medical Mission was started by the late Dr. Elmslie in 1865, which has been a great blessing to the people, especially during the famine in 1880, and the earthquake in 1884. The work in the Punjab is deeply indebted to men like Lord Lawrence, Sir H. Edwardes, Sir R. Montgomery, Sir D. McLeod, Generals Lake, Taylor, and Maclagan, Colonel Martin, and others, who nobly exerted themselves to bring the Gospel to the people under their administration.

The Sindh Mission is older in date, having been begun in 1850, but is far behind in progress, owing mainly to its having always been quite undermanned. Yet important fruit has been granted to the patient labours of the Rev. J. Sheldon and others at Karachi (commenced 1850) and Hyderabad (1856), and more recently (1887) at Sukkur, on the Indus.

The Diocese of Lahore was founded in 1877, the Rev. T. V. French, the veteran C.M.S. Missionary, being the first Bishop. On his retirement in 1887, the present Bishop, Dr. Matthew, succeeded.

Progress since 1873.

The Rev. Robert Clark, the veteran Secretary of the Mission, in a report of the work for 1894, gives statistical tables indicating the progress made since 1873. Then there were twenty-three European missionaries, three ladies, and five Native clergy; in 1894 there were fifty English missionaries (of whom thirty-eight were ordained and ten were medical), eighty-three ladies (viz., sixty-six C.E.Z.M.S., fourteen C.M.S., and three F.E.S., twenty-three being honorary and fifteen medical), and sixteen Indian clergy. The number of Native baptized Christians increased from 593 in 1873 to 4,878 in 1894. The adult baptisms in 1873 were twenty-six, in 1894 they were ninety-eight; and Mr. Clark says, as to this item, "Every year greater care is taken in the preparation of candidates for baptism, and more hesitation is felt than was the case a few years ago in baptizing catechumens."

Frontier stations and the regions beyond.

A large proportion of the stations of the Punjab and Sindh Mission are on the frontier of British territory, and consequently are in contact with many of the unevangelized independent or semi-independent Mohammedan States which, on the map, describe a semicircle around the outer borders of these two provinces. These stations have ever been regarded as outposts looking forth into the regions beyond, and the course of events has been anxiously and prayerfully watched for indications that a way was opening for the feet of the messengers of peace. The expedition to Chitral, due north of Peshâwar, in the spring of 1895, is an event the issues of which, faith and hope suggest, may prove of the greatest moment to the spiritual interests of the hardy and simple, yet fanatical and ignorant, mountain tribes of that region. Before, however, the necessity for that expedition was entertained by the Government of India, the little body of missionaries of the C.M.S. and C.E.Z.M.S. stationed at Srinagar, in Kashmir, on December 28, 1894, sent home a united appeal to the Society to strengthen its staff, especially with the view to advancing among adjacent unevangelized tribes. Dr. Arthur Neve wrote at the same time :—

Plea for unevangelized tribes of Central Asia.

> Tibet is sometimes spoken of as if it were the only part of Asia in which, as yet, the Gospel is not being preached. It might startle many to be told that one side of Exeter Hall might be papered with maps of unevangelized countries at the scale of one inch to a mile. A great statesman once advised politicians to study large scale maps. The advice may be tendered to Mission politicians.
>
> Is it indeed a fact that from Teheran, in Persia, to Bathang, in China, a distance of over 3,000 miles, there is no European Protestant missionary? that a modern Marco Polo might travel right across the continent, and find even less Christianity than in the twelfth century? This is in India the time of boundary commissions to map out the frontiers, east, west, and north. Is it not time for the Church of Christ to appoint boundary commissions, not, as in politics, to mark off the limits of the sphere of action, but to ascertain why those limits exist in spite of the marching orders, "Into all the world?"

No Protestant missionaries in a distance of 3,000 miles.

> During the last few years much has been done to open up this region. A military road has been constructed to Gilgit. Hunza, Nagar, and Chilas have been subdued, and have resident British officers. It was mainly to British assistance that the present ruler of Chitral owes his throne; and there is a political agent and a British dispensary in that country. A solitary traveller like the Hon. Geo. Curzon can now travel almost unescorted through the whole region, passing through Hunza to the Pamirs, and back by Chitral. Kaffiristan has been visited by Europeans, and Mr. Robertson, C.S.I., lived among the people for some months. Colonel Woodthorpe confirmed the report made by the Native evangelist, Syed Shah, who was sent to Kaffiristan from Peshâwar. The Siah-posh said to the English officers, "We are your brothers; stay here and teach us your religion."
>
> Have we no duty to these people? Nay, rather, have we no duty to Christ? for it is He who would claim these for His own. If we wait till they are folded in the cobra-like embrace of Mohammedanism, it will be too late to help.
>
> What is wanted is a CENTRAL ASIAN PIONEER MISSION, with its base of operations in Kashmir. At the outset it would be essentially an Itinerant Mission, visiting the Galcha tribes in the summer months when the passes are open, and wintering at Chilas, Gilgit, or Kashmir, according to circumstances. From Hunza to Yarkand is but a fortnight's journey. Thus we should be linked on to the Turki-speaking Mission which would be established there.

And the Rev. J. H. Knowles wrote :—

> Cries, sad cries, from these Christless regions keep on ringing in our ears! Can nothing be done to reach these fine, vigorous, warlike races? Surely, where messengers of our Empress can go, the messengers of the King of kings can follow. Surely where travellers can go with safety, thither the missionary, also, will wend his steps. Some of these peoples, those of Kaffiristan, for instance, have more than once asked for Christian teachers. One thinks of that brave old missionary, Joseph Wolff, who on two occasions trod the mountain passes beyond and preached Christ as he went. One thinks of Captain Conolly, who confessed Christ and died a martyr's death in the city of Bokhara. One thinks of Kandahar Gordon, and others like him. One thinks of Fazl Haqq, Maulvie Nurullah, and Syed Shah, who went forth with their lives in their hands to see what could be done for the Siah-posh Kaffirs. Alas! nobody attempts to penetrate those gloomy passes now; no Gospel light shines over these lofty mountain ranges. And yet Christ died for these people—tens of thousands of them such that a speedy and plentiful spiritual harvest would be reaped from among them.

Reinforcements.

The reinforcements of the year were:—The Rev. Ernest Augustus Causton, B.A., Pembroke College, Cambridge, Curate of St. John's, Boscombe, under the Rev. S. A. Selwyn, and son of the Rev. T. L. N. Causton, Vicar of St. Matthew's, Croydon, and a nephew of the Rev. John Barton, Secretary of the Church Pastoral-Aid Society; the Rev. William Francis Cobb, B.A., Emmanual College and Ridley Hall, Cambridge, Curate of St. George's, Sheffield; the Rev. Duncan Arnold Canney, St. John's College of Divinity, Highbury, Curate of Emmanuel Church, Hampstead; the Rev. Edwin Frederick Robins, of Islington College, who was admitted to Deacon's Orders by the Bishop of London on Trinity Sunday, May 20, 1894; Mr. Edward Rhodes, who laboured several years at Amritsar as a Church Army Captain, and who has since received a short course of training at Islington; Mr. William Stobie, late a private in the 18th Hussars, whom the Punjab and Sindh Corresponding Committee have accepted in local connexion; and Miss Irene Eleanora Verita Petrie, who, being already in the Punjab, was accepted in local connexion, and who is an honorary missionary. The Mission also gained by the transfer to it of the Rev. J. and Mrs. Tunbridge from the North-West Provinces. Mr. Causton sailed in January, 1895, the rest in October, 1894. Mr. Canney was assigned to Sindh.

Deaths of Rev. H. F. Wright,

The Rev. Henry Francis Wright, son of the Society's late Honorary Clerical Secretary, who joined the Mission in 1890, died on July 14, 1894. He had an attack of malarial fever, and on the tenth day was ordered to the hills in the hope of saving his life. His sister, Miss Katherine Wright, and his cousin, Miss Eleanor Wigram, accompanied him, with Dr. A. Lankester. At 10.30 the same night, he was lifted out of the train when it stopped at Gurdaspur, and there, beneath the quiet moonlight, his spirit passed away into the paradise of God. "Tell the people," said his sister to Dr. Lankester, pointing to the little crowd of Natives on the platform, "that we sorrow not as those without hope;" and then, on the open platform, they offered prayer and praise to Him who laid down His life to obtain for His people life more abundant. The sacred remains were taken back to Amritsar, and were laid to rest in the new cemetery—the first grave in it being dug for him. One who had known him from a child wrote regarding his early self-consecration to missionary work:—

> Harry Wright—the name by which we all knew him—was one of the two sons who were bathing with their father when he sank, and who had to go back and tell the mother and brothers and sisters that they were now numbered with the widow and the orphan. The Master's voice, which had called the father away to rest, also that day called the son to definite dedication to His glorious service. At Monkton Combe School and at Christ Church, Oxford, the quiet, steadfast purpose grew and deepened, and at length, after seven years had passed away, Harry Wright, on October 18, 1887, appeared before the C.M.S. Committee as a missionary candidate. With him also came his eldest sister Agnes, who had been dedicated to China before her father's death, but who had given up her heart's desire for awhile to fulfil an eldest daughter's duties in the bereaved home.

And one of his brother missionaries wrote:—

> His life's witness in that city was indeed a short one, but there are many who will, we believe, never forget his witness there during the last few weeks of his life. For the last month or six weeks that he took any part, there had been very keen opposition directed against bazaar-preaching in Amritsar. It culminated during his last ten days of active work in a most blasphemous attack upon the Person of our Lord; so much so that the catechists were often unable to hold their own. Some of these brethren were for taking active measures against our opponents, but, to illustrate his faith in God's Word, our brother urged them never to yield, but to face the opposition, not by their own words of discussion and argument, but with the Living Sword of God's Truth. "Read God's Word to them," said he, "and by degrees we shall live them down." He himself told me that during that last week of his work he had read (when he found it difficult to preach) chapter after chapter of the Gospels, or of some prophecy. And so his last witness was his strongest. Little did one realize, when he was describing this to me, only two evenings before he was laid up, that that witness was his last.

the Rev. W. Keene,

The Rev. William Keene, who laboured for thirty years in this Mission (from 1853 to 1882), at Kotgur, Simla, and Amritsar, died in March, 1895. The Æmilia Keene Memorial Fund, the interest of which is used for assisting Hindu widows to be trained and sent out as village school-teachers, was raised in memory of Mrs. Keene, who died in 1886. Mr. Keene was Vicar of Gayton, in Staffordshire, since 1884 to the time of his death.

and Mrs. E. Guilford.

Mrs. E. Guilford, wife of the Rev. E. Guilford, of this Mission, died at St. Leonards on May 23, 1895. Her husband accompanied her home on account of her state of health in May, 1894, returning himself to the Mission a few weeks later.

The Rev. F. A. P. Shirreff, who came home in May, 1894, with the expectation of being obliged to retire, as mentioned in last year's Report, has been appointed to the incumbency of St. Dunstan's-in-the-East, London; the Rev. J. J. Bambridge, who laboured at Karachi, with one interval for furlough, from 1876 until ill-health obliged him to come home in 1891, has become Vicar of St. Mary Bredin, Canterbury; and the Rev. D. Davies, in consequence of Mrs. Davies' inability to return to India, came home in August, and has retired from the work. The Rev. W. A. Rice has been transferred to the Persia Mission.

Devotional Conference of lady missionaries.

A Devotional Conference, attended by some two hundred English and Indian ladies (missionaries and others) from all parts of the Punjab, and some also from Sindh and the North-West Provinces, was held from February 25 to 29, 1895, at Amritsar. Miss Gollock, who was on a tour through India, presided at all the meetings, except one in which Urdu was spoken and at which Lady Harnam Singh was in the chair. The other chief speakers were Miss Hewlett of the C.E.Z.M.S., Miss Brown, M.D., of the American Presbyterian Mission at Ludhiana, and Miss Orlebar, working in connexion with the Y.W.C.A. at Calcutta. To one of the meetings men were admitted, and the proceedings were as follows:—

The Rev. R. Clark opened with reading and prayer. Three older ladies then spoke, for six minutes each—viz. Miss Clay, C.E.Z.M.S., Ajnala; Mrs. Scott, S.P.G., Delhi (whose address is stated to have been "a rousing word on the importance of presenting, not Christianity, but Christ"); and Mrs. Durrant, C.M.S., Muttra. Then was sung the hymn which properly begins, "Far, far, away," but the words were changed to "Near, near at hand, in Heathen darkness dwelling," &c. Then Dr. Arthur Lankester led in prayer; and eight three-minute addresses followed, by Mrs. Dr. Johnson of Jhelum (Amer. U.P.), Miss Basu of Amritsar (C.E.Z.M.S.), and Miss Bose of Bahrwal (C.E.Z.M.S.), representing medical work; Miss Aitken of Kasur (Z.B.M.M.), and Miss Carey of Karachi (C.E.Z.M.S.), representing village and zenana work; Miss Campbell of Sialkote (Ch. Scot.), Miss Gow of Ajmere (Scot. U.P.), and Miss Saw of Amritsar (C.E.Z.M.S.), educational work. Verses of the striking hymn, "Seek ye first," were sung between these addresses. Miss Gollock, who conducted the meeting throughout, gave a brief final word, and Mr. Clark closed with prayer.

"Near, near at hand."

One who was present throughout the Conference wrote:—

It is with a heart overflowing with thankfulness that one looks back over the four days now past, and sees how the Lord has been present to bless: truly, He has done marvellous things, whereof we are glad. Indeed, it could hardly have been otherwise, for the Ladies' Convention had been for weeks previously the subject, not only of careful arrangement, but of constant, earnest prayer, and most of those who met together did so with a strong expectation of receiving great things from the Master's hand.

Ordinations.

The Committee had the pleasure of an interview with the Bishop of Lahore in June. On December 23 the Bishop admitted Mr. H. F. Beutel to Deacon's Orders, and the Revs. C. E. Barton and Fath Masih to Priest's Orders at Lahore Cathedral. The Rev. Dr. H. U. Weitbrecht preached the ordination sermon.

The following form the Corresponding Committee:—The Bishop of Lahore, W. Mackworth Young, Esq., R. Machonachie, Esq., W. B. Harington, Esq., Col. Geo. Marshall, R.E., Col. J. B. Hutchinson, Col. J. E. Broadbent, R.E., Major J. A. L. Montgomery, Revs. R. Bateman, Dr. H. U. Weitbrecht, R. Clark (Secretary), and T. R. Wade (Secretary in Reserve). Mr. Clark visited Kotgur in the spring of 1894, and Dera Ghazi Khan and Mûltan in January, 1895.

I. PUNJAB.

THE Rev. H. G. Grey came home (on short leave) in October, 1894; the Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Davies on furlough in November; Dr. A. Jukes on sick leave, antedating his furlough by a few months, and Mrs. Jukes, in February, 1895; Mr. R. V. Greene (on special leave) and Mrs. H. U. Weitbrecht in April; and the Rev. and Mrs. F. Lawrence, the Rev. and Mrs. W. Thwaites, the Rev. T. Holden, Dr. A. C. Lankester, Mrs. T. R. Wade, Miss I. E. V. Petrie, and Miss G. L. West (on sick leave) in May. The Rev. E. Guilford returned to the Mission in July, 1894; Miss A. F. Wright in September; the Rev. Rowland Bateman, the Rev. and Mrs. E. Corfield, and the Rev. A. E. Day in October; Dr. and Mrs. M. Eustace in November; Dr. E. F. Neve in January, 1895; and the Rev. H. G. Grey in February. Dr. W. F. Adams was married on January 5, 1895, at Bombay, to Miss E. M. Hughes; and on the 19th of the same month, Dr. J. O. Summerhayes was married to Miss L. A. H. Currie, of this Mission, at Ajnala.

Church Council.

The seventeenth meeting of the Punjab District Church Council was held at AMRITSAR from April 6 to 10, 1894. The first day was observed as a "Quiet Day," and addresses on "God the Father," "God the Son," and "God the Holy Ghost" were given by the Rev. F. A. P. Shirreff. The business meetings were presided over by the Rev. T. R. Wade, and, among the numerous resolutions passed, one agreed to the formation of a Sunday School Association in connexion with the Council, and others to the formation of a Total Abstinence Association, a Y.M.C.A., and a Gleaners' Union.

AMRITSAR.

Amritsar. Congregation.

The Rev. T. R. Wade reports upon the pastoral and evangelistic agencies in AMRITSAR and its out-stations. The Congregation, to which the Rev. Imad-ud-din, D.D., has ministered for more than a quarter of a century, on special occasions taxes the accommodation of the little church. On Easter Day, 1894, 400 Christians were present, and 133 remained to the Holy Communion. On the first day of the new year (1895) 270 were present, notwithstanding damp and cold weather, at a special 8 A.M. service, and seventy partook of the Lord's Supper. There were large numbers present every evening during the "Week of Prayer," and Saturday evening prayer meetings throughout the year were well attended. The branch of the Gleaners' Union at its annual meeting in May voted Rs. 216 to be sent to Bishop Tucker for the purchase of Scriptures for Uganda. Mrs. Wade has a Sunday school for the boys of the congregation. The church's register of baptisms has passed 1,000. During the year under review there were thirty-nine baptisms, of whom eighteen were adults. The spirit of inquiry increases. One Native worker had over thirty names on his list at the beginning of 1895 of those who were reading with him for baptism.

Baptisms. Medical Mission.

A large proportion of the adult baptisms, twenty-two out of the thirty-nine, were the fruits of the Medical Mission, under Dr. Henry Martyn Clark and Dr. A. C. Lankester. The controversy between the Mohammedan Moulvie, Mirza Ghulam Ahmed, and Mr. Abdullah Athim, which took place in Dr. Martyn Clark's house at Amritsar in June, 1893 (see last year's Annual Report, pages 119–121) led to several of the baptisms. The first to come forward has since proved a source of terrible disappointment and sorrow. He was a youth of about eighteen years of age, who had been the original cause of the discussion. Having previously been an inquirer, and even a candidate for baptism, he had rejoined his former co-religionists, and had then, in conjunction with a panda (teacher), by sneers and abuse done his best to provoke the Christians. It was with the view to silencing these troublers that the controversy was invited by Dr. Clark, and after it this youth, with professions of penitence, asked to be baptized. He was sent to Dera Ghazi Khan, his wife succeeded in making her escape from her relations and joining him, and they and their two children were baptized there in the spring of 1894. In November, however, they left Dera Ghazi Khan, and went back to their friends at Jandiala, where they were living as Mohammedans up to the date of the last despatches, the wife boasting of her cleverness in recovering her husband to Islam, he, on the other hand, showing some signs of wishing to rejoin the Christian Church.

An Afghan convert of good education.

The next convert was a man of education and position and good family, whom the Mirza had employed as his agent to settle the rules of the controversy, and as his secretary, while it lasted—the Akhund Sahib as he was termed. He belongs to Buneyr, in Afghanistan, beyond the British border, and was brought up at Delhi. Dr. Clark gave the following interesting account of his history and conversion :—

> A most interesting life his has been. Reared in the straitest sect of Mohammedanism all his life long, he has been zealous for the faith, and, as touching the law, blameless. A true seeker after God, to him the time came when the husks of Mohammedanism could no longer satisfy the hunger of the soul. He wandered far and wide to the holy and learned of Islam, seeking rest and finding none. At last he determined to leave "the land of the enemy" (dar ul harb, i.e. a land where other than Mohammedan rule obtains) and to seek "the land of peace" (dar ul aman), where, under a Mohammedan Government, the virtues of Islam might be found in full flower. Beyond the British border there are here and there colonies of fanatics, whose declared purpose it is to "war against the infidel." They are all that remain of the Wahabis, and are recruited still from the ranks of religious enthusiasts and political malcontents in British India. They lose no opportunity of stirring up strife, and have had a long finger in most of our border troubles. The Akhund left all behind him, and set forward to join these zealots; but it was not to be—God's purposes for him were fast approaching maturity. While he waited his opportunity in the frontier town of Peshâwar, an emissary of the Mirza met him. He learnt that a great prophet had risen in Islam, that Christ the Blessed had come the second time. He abandoned his journey, went to Qadian, and became the Mirza's disciple. He was trusted with much special work, and had the honour of being the leader in the public prayers in the Mirza's mosque. At the controversy his belief in Mohammed was considerably shaken. Months after he wrote to me from Meerut. It was the cry of a despairing, perishing soul. He detailed his wonderful life's history, the unrest and sorrow of his heart, and said, "If you have any really strengthening prescription for the soul in your armentarium, let me have it in the name of God." I cannot relate here the subsequent steps by which he was led to the feet of the Saviour, in whom he now rejoices with exceeding joy. His baptism, together with his daughter, was a wonderful occasion. A short sketch of his life, well worthy of translation into English, has been scattered far and wide, and from all sides come letters of grateful thanks, telling us it is "just the thing" for Mohammedans. It is silently doing a great work. The poor Mirza burst forth into torrents of impotent abuse, and found in this baptism another proof of his Messiahship—for was not this Judas Iscariot? This blasphemy did not, however, deceive even Mohammedans, who have not been slow to point out that the second time Christ comes to triumph, not to be betrayed.

"Any prescription for the soul?"

A near relative of the Mohammedan controversialist converted, also a Mohammedan judge, a Rajput, and a blind Moulvie.

This convert was privileged to be the instrument of leading four others to Christ: the Mirza's own brother-in-law—the Meer Sahib, as Dr. Clark calls him—"a bright young fellow, and very highly connected;" a Qazi (Mohammedan judge); a Rajput; and a young Afghan from Yusufzai. The first three of these were baptized at the same time as the Akhund Sahib, the last somewhat later, together with a blind young Afghan, a Punjab Moulvie, who, notwithstanding his blindness, had succeeded in passing first in the University examination for the degree of Moulvie Fazil. This last had been the incumbent of a mosque, and the teacher of Arabic in connexion with the Islamiya School (Mohammedan school) at Amritsar, as well as tutor to a wealthy Mohammedan family; he sent a printed notice to his friends before his baptism, of which the following translation was sent home by the Rev. R. Clark:—

> Christ said, "I am the Way, the Truth, and the Life."
> I, Háfiz Nabi Bakhsh, Maulvi Fázil, son of Miyán Muhamad Bakhsh, resident of Kalánaur, in the Gurdaspur district, at present Arabic teacher in the Islámiya School, Amritsar, do hereby publicly notify that on Sunday, the 12th day of August, 1894, I received eternal baptism, at Amritsar, together with one Adam Khán, son of a certain Afghán, Qásim Khán by name, by the Rev. Maulvi Imad-ud-din, having abjured Mohammedanism, and have received the honour of admission to Christianity.
>
> I have assumed the name Khuda Bakhsh, instead of Nabi Bakhsh as formerly. I therefore greet all my relatives and other dear ones, especially my pupils, praying that God may similarly guide them aright.
>
> (Signed) HÁFIZ KHUDA BAKHSH, Maulvi Fázil.

The public interest in the controversy was kept alive for many months by the fact that at its close the Mirza had declared that he had received from God a direct revelation to the effect that Mr. Abdullah Athim would die within fifteen months, counting one month for each day of the discussion. Dr. Martyn Clark wrote before this period had expired:— A prediction and its effects.

It is impossible to express the hold it has taken on the public mind. It is a plain, clear issue; it is no longer a war of words, or a drawing of distinctions—a sign from heaven is to be vouchsafed: "Yea, God Himself shall decide in this controversy." It has been the theme of converse, of close attention during the past year. From Madras to Peshâwar, through the length and breadth of broad India, thousands upon thousands of men have been watching with thoughts intent on the far northern city where Islam had thrown down the wager of battle, and where God Himself would decide.

As I write, the days are swiftly speeding by, and the crisis is now intense beyond words. A bare month is all that remains, and the heavens are still as brass. The anxious thought of Mohammedan hearts is, Will the sign come—will Islam be vindicated? In the Mirza's mosque at Qadian, prayer is offered all day long and far into the night, with crying and tears: "O God, save Islam. It is the hour of darkness. Let not Thy faith be put to shame—let the sign be given."

What transpired after the lapse of the fifteen months is well described in the following from the Punjab Mission News:—

Great excitement prevailed, and many telegrams flew hither and thither over the Punjab on the night of September 5, when the Mirza of Qadian's prophecy against Mr. Abdullah Athim expired. . . . Seeing that Mr. Athim is an old man, and was at the time in extremely feeble health, this was, to say the least, a very shrewd forecast, with two hot weathers carefully brought into the reckoning. However, we are thankful to say that Mr. Athim is now in better health than he has been for a long time, despite the excitement of the past few months, and the very decided efforts which appear to have been made in certain quarters to aid the prophecy to its fulfilment by measures which savour strongly of the Criminal Courts.

The Nur Afshan states that three attempts were made on Mr. Athim's life during the spring at Amritsar, one at Ludhiana, and four at Ferozepore, where he spent the last couple of months of the allotted period at his daughter's house. Great rejoicings therefore took place at the safe completion of the fifteen months, and Mr. Athim's return to Amritsar on September 6 was quite a regal progress. There a large number of Christians had gathered to welcome him, and to thank God for the non-fulfilment of the prophecy on the very spot in Dr. H. M. Clark's verandah where it was made last year. A touching speech was made on this occasion by Mr. Athim himself. He quoted Moses' warning in Deut. xiii. 1–3, against believing false prophets even though their signs come to pass, and then went on to say how, during these months of danger and suspense, two things had given him calm and comfort—the Holy Spirit's support, and the Blood of Christ. Attempts on the Christian controversialist's life. Thanksgiving for preservation.

The joyous throng of Christians then passed through the main bazaars of Amritsar to show their hero alive in person, though even so, some sceptics declared that this was not the deputy Sahib Abdullah Athim, but his deputy in the shape of a rubber doll, which bowed to the pressure of Dr. Clark's foot! The main feeling, however, among the crowds seems to have been one of rejoicing with the Christians.

The discomfiture of the Mirza and the spirit of inquiry among Mohammedans were greatly aided by the literary work of the Rev. Dr. Imad-ud-din. "This staunch veteran has struck Literary works of Rev. Dr. Imad-ud-din.

many a good blow in the fight, but never," wrote Dr. Clark, "such a one as this," viz., the production of the following two books, Tauzin ul Aqwal, an exposure of the Mirza's claims, and the vindication of the claims of the Lord Christ; and a translation of the Koran in simple idiomatic Urdu. Of the latter Dr. Imad-ud-din printed 700 copies at his own expense, and 400 at Rs. 2 a copy were sold within a few months. Sir W. Muir, to whom a copy was sent, wrote :—

Translation of the Koran.

> I have been comparing it with the Native Urdu translation, which is painfully literal. Imad-ud-din's is infinitely more idiomatic, and conveys the sense, therefore, with incomparably greater meaning and sense than the Native translation, and is really a noble work, for which he deserves the thanks of the Christian world.

Mr. Wade states that, when it became known that Dr. Imad-ud-din was translating the Koran, he received an anonymous letter from "Qatil-i-kafiran" (the murderer of unbelievers), who warned him that he would be killed unless he repented of his sin and renounced Christianity. In relation to the recent expedition into Chitral, it is interesting to recall what Mr. Wade wrote, in 1891, regarding Dr. Imad-ud-din's books reaching that country. Mr. Wade (see Annual Report, 1891–92, page 111) said :—

The late ruler of Chitral and Dr. Imad-ud-din.

> The wakil or agent of the ruler of Chitral, on his way to Simla, was ordered to call upon the Rev. Imad-ud-din in Amritsar, and to deliver to him this message : "My master has read some of your Christian books, and he declares that you are a Kaffir, and worthy of death, and were you with him he would not even order one of his servants to put you to death, but he would do it himself with his own hand." Imad-ud-din returned this answer : "Please tell your master that I am thankful he has read some of my books, and I pray that he may be led into the truth ; but that if he were to kill me, from the spilt blood twenty other Imad-ud-dins would arise."

A year after Mr. Wade wrote the above words, Captain F. E. Younghusband, C.I.E., arrived in Chitral as a member of Mr. Robertson's party from Gilgit, marching the 220 miles and crossing a pass 12,400 feet high in the heart of winter. Captain Younghusband remained in the country after Mr. Robertson left ; and in an interesting paper which he read in March, 1895, in the theatre of London University, he thus referred to his intercourse with Nizam ul Mulk, the late ruler of Chitral : "He would talk away on every imaginable subject, from the manufacture of soda water to the meaning of a New Testament a missionary had sent him."

High School.

The High School and its branches are under the Rev. D. J. McKenzie. The number on the rolls at the end of 1894 was 485 ; this was about eighty less than the previous year, owing to the Aryas at Majitha starting a school offering a free education, by which means they drew away more than 100 of the lads from the branch school at that place. Mr. McKenzie believes the movement was prompted by a feeling of spite against the head-master of the Mission school. The examination results were excellent. Out of a class of twelve boys, six passed the Entrance in the Punjab University and two in that of Calcutta; forty-five passed out of forty-seven presented for the Middle School Examination; thirty-six out of forty-two the Upper Primary; fifty-three out of fifty-four the Lower Primary; and forty-five out of fifty-eight "infants" passed. The Alexandra High School for Christian girls, now in charge of Miss Saw, of the C.E.Z.M.S., has sixty pupils; and the Middle Class Girls' School, under Mrs. Grime, has seventy. Girls' schools.

Regarding the aspects and prospects of the work as a whole in and around Amritsar, Mr. Wade writes:—

> I have never seen before, during the thirty-two years of my labour in India, so much work being done in so many different departments, and so much blessing resting upon it; or so many open doors around on all sides for further advancement, or heard so many calls for help.

And Mr. Robert Clark says of the attitude of the people, and more particularly of the educated classes:—

> The general feeling amongst the educated is that their own religions are faulty, and that Christianity is true; but the minds of most are turning more and more towards material objects which may be for their worldly benefit, rather than on that which will be for the salvation of their souls. Their desire and aim is to bring their customs and beliefs into line with Christianity, as far as they can without suffering for it; and so to mix up the new with the old that they may gain the advantages of modern civilization without the temporal disadvantages of being baptized. Only the very few are willing to leave all to follow Christ. Attitude of educated classes.
>
> As far as their old religions are concerned, the people say that they are decaying almost everywhere. The English rule has bestowed on them liberty to which they were unaccustomed before; and many of them, they say, are freely using it to do that which they know to be wrong.
> Still evangelization goes on, in the streets and lanes, in the pulpits of churches and in evangelistic halls, in schools and hospitals, and in the homes of men and women, in both towns and villages, wherever the opportunity is given. The light and the love keep pouring in, as Christ is set before the people in the power of His Word and Spirit, and in due time to all God's chosen ones the life will come. The results will depend more on what the evangelists are (whether they are Native or European) than even on what they do; and conversion depends on the faith of the evangelists, as well as on that of the people. Wherever faith exists, it is borne witness to by God.

At several villages near Amritsar openings have been availed of. At Verka, five miles distant, a reader has been placed—in a house rented from a Brahman. In Kot Khairan the little house owned by the Mission is too small for the Christians. A Sardar in another village sent Mr. Wade Rs. 100 towards building a school there. The Rev. Qasim Khan Nehemiah, whose wife's health has necessitated his leaving Sukkur, in Sindh, has been placed at Majitha; and the Rev. Diwan Sahib Dyal has been removed from the latter place to Jandiala, twelve miles from Amritsar, one of the few strongholds of the Jains in the Punjab. There were Village work.

twelve adult baptisms at the latter place. A new Zenana Hospital, called the "Henry Francis Wright Memorial Hospital," because Mr. Wright took great interest in the building while in progress, was opened there in December.

Ajnala. AJNALA, sixteen miles from Amritsar, is occupied by ladies of the C.E.Z.M.S. The Rev. Mian Sadiq is the C.M.S. presbyter in charge, and he is ably assisted by one of the few honorary Indian workers of the Punjab Mission, Vandit Bishandas, a pleader in the law-courts. There are five out-stations in the Ajnala Itinerancy, and several villages where a growing work is maintained, chiefly among the low-caste population.

BATÁLA.

Batála. A severe fever epidemic prevailed in BATÁLA, which is twenty-two miles north-east of Amritsar, during the autumn of 1894. Out of a population of 28,000, no fewer than 1,800 persons died. This was caused by the heavy rains of the summer, which also caused much poverty to the people, and relief committees were organized by the Rev. Dr. H. U. Weitbrecht, to which all classes contributed liberal help. The mortality among the Christians was very small. Earlier in the year, however, the head-master of the Mission school, Munshi Badrud Din, an old Batála boy and a "truly humble Christian, diligent and faithful in his work," was removed by death. The Rev. E. F. E. Wigram had charge

Baring High School. of the Baring High School until the return of the Rev. E. Corfield in November. The teaching staff consists of nine masters, of whom four are University graduates. The average number of boys in the school was fifty-five, all Christians, five being converts from Mohammedanism. One of these, Mr. Wigram says, "is quite the leader of public opinion in the junior half of the school, and right well and healthily he exercises his prerogative." Six passed the Entrance Examination out of nine who entered, six the Middle, being all who tried; six passed the Compulsory Subjects in the Upper Primary out of eight, and seven the Lower Primary out of eight. It was encouraging to Mr. Wigram and his co-workers that the six who passed the Entrance were all in the first half of the twenty-two Christians who passed that examination in the Punjab University.

Need of a C.M.S. College. The need of a C.M.S. College in the Punjab to carry the boys forward to their B.A. degree after leaving the Batála School is ably stated by Mr. Wigram:—

> One great need here now is highly trained pastors and evangelists from among our Indian brethren. . . . Now Batála should be our great recruiting-ground for this class of men in the Punjab. But what is our position? We want graduates, and the University course is one of four years. We carefully train up boys to the Entrance standard, by which time, after five or more years of patient and often toilsome digging and weeding and pruning, the soil has become really fit to repay an abundant sowing. And then, exactly at the crisis, we hand over our prepared soil to other husbandmen just for the four very best and most germinating years of its existence. Thank God the other husbandmen are so good, and really are cultivating with the single desire of rendering the fruits to the Lord of the garden; but at the same time this arrangement leaves the C.M.S. destitute of just that strong, sturdy upgrowth of an able Indian ministry in its midst which it is so anxious to arrive at. We toil and harrow and dig, and clear off the briers and tangles of youth—and very delightful labour it is—but then they get the prepared soil: they sow, and they secure the reaping.

Benefits of athletics.

Regarding the benefits of athletics to Indian boys, Mr. Wigram says:—

I almost think that in this country St. Paul would modify his opinions on bodily exercise as stated to Timothy. We can but praise God for the physical and moral effect it has had on the boys here. The acquisition last year of a beautiful new cricket-ground, 110 yards square, given to us by my godfather, Mr. FitzHerbert Wright, has been an untold boon, and it is no small matter for congratulation in this country that the boys themselves put in a real good piece of work in levelling it. In the two years they have won seventeen cricket matches out of twenty played, and they made a fairly clean sweep of athletic contests with the schools in the city and district.

The Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab, Sir Dennis Fitzpatrick, visited the school in January, 1895. Miss E. S. Wigram, who was also stationed at Batála with her brother, bears testimony to God's goodness in "the wonderful health and strength" enjoyed during her two years in the Punjab. She was enabled to pass the higher standard examination "with credit." Upon Mr. Corfield's return, Mr. and Miss Wigram were transferred to Amritsar.

Pastoral and evangelistic work.

The pastoral and evangelistic work at Batála is under the Rev. Dr. H. U. Weitbrecht. Among the inquirers of the year whom he mentions were a Sikh sardar (squire), from near Fathgarh, and a village Mullah, a young Government officer. The Rev. Fath Masih was unremitting, Dr. Weitbrecht says, in the Village Work. At Theterke, twenty families of one hundred souls were admitted as catechumens, all the adults having a knowledge of the Creed, the Lord's Prayer, and the Ten Commandments. In other villages groups of people, numbering from forty to seventy, were also admitted. Dr. Weitbrecht says:—

In every place where there are inquirers the people press us very much to send a teacher to them; but we are very desirous not to increase the number of our paid teachers in the same proportion as that of the congregations. We are therefore trying to get one or two of the best Christians in each village for instruction, so that they may be capable of conducting worship when the regular agent is away looking after inquirers and catechumens.

NAROWAL.

Narowal.

The Rev. T. Holden occupied NAROWAL, which is on the north side of the Ravi River, during the year, but he has come home, as the doctors have not been able to allow Mrs. Holden, who came home in 1890, to return to the climate of India. The Rev. R. Bateman had a bad attack of influenza immediately upon his return to Narowal after furlough in November, 1894. He was cheered in February, 1895, by the arrival of the Rev. E. A. Causton, who went out at very short notice instead of waiting, as he had planned to do, for the autumn of 1895, on learning that urgent cause existed for his so doing. It is hoped that Mr. Causton will be prepared to take up and carry forward the work in this district when the veteran missionary is obliged to retire. Mr. Bateman might well have excused himself from sending home a report of the year's work, in which he had not the privilege of taking part until its close. He suggests, indeed, an excuse for not writing on that very ground:—

Accounts from the thick of the fight.

> Some of the best war correspondents of our time have been drawn from the ranks of civilians, and the ablest exponents of missionary work have not always been foreign missionaries. And yet there is no doubt that, whether as regards secular or spiritual warfare, people who are anxious about the issue prefer rough-written accounts from the thick of the fight to any more elaborate narratives drawn up from the observer's standpoint.

But the many friends who receive the little printed report of the Narowal Mission would have been sorry to lose the "few thoughts and impressions" which Mr. Bateman gives in it "as an observer." He says of the progress during his absence of the Christian community, which numbers 1,452, many more than was found in any other district of this Mission:—

> The village Christians and congregations are indisputably more advanced now than when I left them. It cannot be said that there is any dazzling or very manifest light shed as yet over the land at large. Even now there is something of a "darkness that can be felt;" but "the children of Israel had light in their dwellings" long ago, and so it is here to-day. And the light is spreading. Do you ask, How? I reply, not by remarkable exploits of physical or religious energy, nor by acute controversy or irresistible eloquence; but by the Word of God, learnt by and taught by and again taught by and learnt by children of God in the Panjab. Do you ask, Where is it spreading? I reply, among all classes. Of this I have had ample evidence already since my return. It is a small thing, though a pleasant one, that missionaries should receive a hearty welcome from non-Christians where a few years ago they were abhorred on account of the work that they were doing; it is a much greater thing that in almost every village there should be found some of every creed who have learnt the outlines of the Christian religion and have nothing to say against it. Often it happens in a village that the voice of a Hindu or Mahomedan answers questions addressed to a Christian audience. A young Sikh will recite before his seniors what he has learnt of the village catechism, and the grey-beards will say "Wah Wah." Part of the applause is no doubt in compliment to the missionary, but it is a compliment which some years ago he would never have dreamt of receiving.

"The light is spreading."

The reference in the above extract to the welcome accorded to Mr. Bateman on his return is supplemented by Mr. Holden, who says: "All sorts and conditions of men collected together to do him honour, and the spectacle presented on his arrival at his home in the Jhanda was one not easily to be forgotten." Mr. Bateman gives some particulars of Chowdri Mansabdar Khan, of whose conversion and baptism an account by the Rev. Ihsan Ullah was quoted in the Annual Report for 1892-3 (pp. 121-3). Mr. Bateman says:— A missionary's welcome after furlough

Chowdri Mansabdar Khan is a person of considerable importance, both in and out of the Christian circle. His baptism, and his change of life since it took place, have been and are a constant theme of conversation among the Mohammedans. He is an elderly man not easily moved, an enthusiastic horse-breeder, and spends most of his time day and night amongst his mares. But, though he cannot take his eyes off his pets, he is always ready, and able too, to give a reason for the faith that is in him, and to press the truth of Christianity upon his visitors. Herein he is not behind many a real hearty Christian squire in England. We constantly come across the effects of his life and conversation in villages which he has no official connexion with. But it is not always so. Mr. Ihsan Ullah writes:— "Mansabdar has had a year of great trial. By reason of his connexion with Government service he has been overtaken by the world. He joined with a Mohammedan in a land suit on the understanding that if successful he was to have a part of the land as his own. He was successful, and came to ask me whether as a Christian he could take the land. I said certainly not; you have been gambling, you can only take your actual expenses. After a little reasoning, he resolved to have nothing to do with unlawful gain. He had in fact given such evidence as led to his loss of peace with God. This he could not bear, and he faced the humiliation of writing to Government to say that he wished to withdraw and amend part of his evidence. This did not affect the issue of the suit, but it is blessed evidence of the working of God's spirit in His servant's heart." A Christian horse breeder.

False evidence is the bane and the practice, it is not too much to say, of all litigants in all classes of society. How often have I heard boys and men among the Christians giving "Thou shalt not give evidence in a police court" as the ninth commandment in the Decalogue. Mr. Ihsan Ullah adds:—"Last hot season a stack worth several hundred rupees was burnt one night. The owners could not trace the incendiary, so they pounced upon a bad character, dragged him out of bed, and charged him before the police. They considered the charge a sound one, not because there was a shred of evidence against him, but because he was a rascal. Mansabdar alone took the other view, declaring that he was not fairly chargeable. However, when the case came before the magistrate the father of the accused could not believe that Mansabdar would not follow the multitude, so he came with a bribe to M., who said, 'Take it away, if I accept it my lips will lose their blessing.' By this the poor fellow understood that he had decided to seize the opportunity which everybody welcomed of ridding the village of a public enemy. When the case came on for hearing, M. told the whole truth boldly. The prisoner was at once discharged, and everybody knew that if anybody had spoken the truth it was the Christian Zaildar. He who in the former part of the year was silenced and ashamed by doing what everybody else did, was now so freely forgiven that he received power to glorify God in the whole district."

The Anglo-vernacular School had an average attendance of eighty-three. All the six boys presented for the Middle School Examination passed, and two boys of the school carried off the first and second prizes in the Lake Memorial Scripture Examination for non-Christians. There are, in addition, a branch school teaching up to the Upper Primary Examination, and twenty-one vernacular village schools. At the Hospital, a branch of the Amritsar Hospital, 9,591 out-patients were treated and 734 operations performed.

The Committee have gratefully accepted an offer from the Misses M. J. and L. A. Ouseley of 500*l.*, to be called the "Elizabeth Ouseley Memorial Fund," the income of which will be used for the support of a Native preacher in this district.

BAHRWAL ATÂRI.

BAHRWAL ATÂRI, about sixteen miles to the south-west of Amritsar, has had no resident European missionary of the Society since the Rev. H. E. Perkins, by whom it was opened in 1889, came home at the beginning of 1894. The Rev. Wadhawa Mall is the Native pastor. Miss Cooper and Miss Worsfold, of the C.E.Z.M.S., reside and labour at this station.

TARN TARAN.

Tarn Taran.

The Rev. E. Guilford returned in August from his short visit to England to accompany Mrs. Guilford, who has since died. TARN TARAN, fourteen miles south of Amritsar, was visited by the Bishop of Lahore in December, when he dedicated a new church, a very substantial building, with apses at the east, west, north, and south, and holding between 300 and 400 people. The Rev. R. Bateman preached from Ps. cxxxii. and Acts vii. 48, and the Revs. R. Clark and Dr. H. U. Weitbrecht (the latter as the Bishop's chaplain) were also present at the dedication. The Bishop wrote in the Mission Record-book :—

Friendliness of non-Christians.

There was a striking illustration of the friendly feeling with which this Mission is regarded by the Hindus and Mohammedans of the town in a triumphal arch erected to the west of the church by their own hands, and an avenue of plaintain-boughs and other greenery leading up to it.

Regarding the "friendly feeling" which the Bishop noticed, Mr. Guilford says it is not confined to the people of Tarn Taran, but it shows itself throughout the district, especially on the part of the Hindus. Mr. Guilford writes in high terms of a Native evangelist who was trained at the Lahore Divinity School, after giving up a Government appointment with the prospect of a pension. He has laboured at Tarn Taran during the past year, and Mr. Guilford says :—

Zeal of a Native evangelist.

I have never before seen anything like the fervent zeal displayed by this faithful servant of Christ. Were all our Indian workers like him, the Punjab would soon be brought to the feet of the Redeemer. Wet or dry, hot or cold, whatever the weather may be, he is ever about his Master's business. Whenever he is at Tarn Taran, he makes it his daily task to go into the lanes and streets of the town long before it is daylight, and greets the ears of the working people with a hymn of invitation to the blessings of the Gospel. This hymn he has himself composed. Afterwards, during some time of the day, he may always be found in one of the main bazaars of the town, following up his hymn by preaching on some passage from God's Word. His aim is never to let a single day pass without giving them a message from God. He has, thank God, a wife who is like-minded with himself, and who has just joined the ladies of the C.E.Z.M.S. as an honorary worker.

The little congregation in the Leper Asylum has forty-two baptized Christians, of whom twenty-seven are communicants. The Bishop confirmed eighteen during his visit in December. A home for lepers' children still untainted with the disease has nine inmates, all, except three orphans, the children of Christians; the non-Christian parents cannot be persuaded to part with their children for this benevolent purpose. There are four village schools, and Mr. Guilford says:— Leper Asylum.

In these simple schools the teaching of Scripture is the thing we lay chief stress upon, and it is wonderful what retentive memories the Punjabi boys have. Little fellows not higher than their teacher's waist will repeat without the slightest difficulty the whole of the Sermon on the Mount. Retentive memories of village boys.

CLARKABAD.

The Rev. T. R. Wade visited CLARKABAD monthly from Amritsar, and he baptized during the year six adults and twenty-three children. Extensive repairs and enlargements (towards the cost of which the Government gave Rs. 5,800) were commenced at the Girls' Orphanage, which is under Miss G. L. West, assisted by Miss Jonathan. There were ninety-five on the roll, sixty-five being boarders, at the end of the year. The Boys' Orphanage had thirty boarders and eighty day-scholars. A Hospital was finished and put in charge of a Native Christian doctor. The Congregation is under the care of the Rev. T. Howell, the Native pastor. Two Bible-women working under Miss West visited the homes of Christians, Mohammedans, and Sweepers. During seven months they made 1,200 visits, and read the Scriptures in the hearing of over 3,000 people. Miss West had classes for inquirers and for confirmation candidates. The Misses M. J. and M. E. Farthing were engaged during their first year chiefly in the study of Urdu. At its close they undertook to supervise the village work. Miss West was invalided home in May, and Miss Granger, with the consent of the C.E.Z.M.S., has temporarily taken up her work. Clarkabad.

LAHORE.

The Rev. F. Lawrence was in charge of St. John's Divinity School, LAHORE, during the short absence of the Rev. H. G. Grey in this country, and, on the latter's return, he and Mrs. Lawrence came home on furlough. The students were few in number.

KANGRA, KOTGUR, AND SIMLA.

Kangra. The Rev. and Mrs. J. Tunbridge, transferred to this Mission from the North-West Provinces, took up their abode at KANGRA in the autumn, the former walking the whole distance from Kotgur, a mountainous journey of 170 miles, 160 miles of which is within the boundaries of the Kangra civil district. Four out-stations are occupied, viz., Dharmsala, Sidpur, Juwala Mukhi, and Mirpur, some of which Mrs. Däuble visited with several Native helpers. A woman and her son belonging to Dharmsala were baptized at Kangra, whither they had removed for the sake of instruction by the Rev. T. R. Wade in August. A leper in the Leper Asylum at this place was also baptized by Mr. Wade earlier in the year. Mrs. Däuble, together with Miss Michaelis, of the Berlin Ladies' Society, resides at Dharmsala, which is twelve miles from Kangra.

Kotgur. The Rev. H. F. Beutel describes his work at KOTGUR and district as "ploughing and sowing in patience, in afflictions, in labours, and also in tears." The number of baptized Christians in his district is forty-three, of whom twenty-six are communicants. In October he made a tour of several weeks through Kulu, as far as the Moravian Mission station at Kyelang, in Lahoul. In the Jalori Pass he and his party had to wade for four miles through snow twelve inches deep. The Rev. R. Clark, and also the Rev. J. W. Rebsch (who occupied this station from 1862 to 1881), visited Mr. Beutel in May, 1894.

PIND DÁDAN KHAN.

After the return home of the Rev. W. E. Davies, the Corresponding Committee had no one available whom they could send to itinerate in the Jhelum Valley.

MÛLTAN.

Mûltan. The Revs. T. Bomford and C. E. Barton were joined in December 1894 by the Rev. W. F. Cobb, making, for the first time since 1881, three missionaries together at MÛLTAN; but, as on the previous occasion, only one of the three could speak the language, and that one was throughout the year in a feeble state of health, which obliged him to spend six months in the hills. The Congregation has fifty baptized Christians, and the usual number who attend the morning service is about thirty. On Christmas Day, 1893, there were forty-six present, and twenty-four joined in the Holy Communion; this was the highest number recorded. The conduct of the Christians, Mr. Bomford writes, was "most exemplary," and he writes it with special thankfulness on account of having had to give a very different report on some former occasions. His praise, however, is still rather negative than positive. "Signs of true spirituality may still be wanting, but the proofs of an utter absence of spirituality have now disappeared." The Rev. Imam Shah, of Peshâwar, spent six months at this station during 1894. There were no baptisms at Mûltan, but several who learned the truth there sought baptism elsewhere during the year. The High School, under Mr. W. Khem Chand, passed four in the Punjab University Entrance, and twenty-two in the Middle School Examination.

The district attached to the Mûltan Mission embraces 20,000 square miles (nearly half the size of England), with a population of two millions. Mr. Bomford, accompanied by Mr. Barton and a catechist, made a tour of 250 miles in the Mozuffergarh district at the beginning of 1894, and had large gatherings to see his lantern slides of Christ's life, and hear the Word. At Bahawalpur, the capital of the Native Mohammedan State of that name, the Society has had a school for the past thirty years, though it has been carried on at times in the presence of much official opposition. Since 1893 an earnest Christian head-master, Mr. Chuckerbutty, has been over the school, and under his influence several of the students have shown a desire to understand the Gospel. Two of these decided during 1894 on embracing Christianity, and were sent to St. John's College, Agra. One of them was baptized, as already mentioned, and the other was sent back, being not considered ready for baptism. Great excitement was occasioned at Bahawalpur by these events; abusive leaders appeared in the State paper, and a petition to close the school was presented to the Nawab. The attendance, however, was scarcely affected, Hindus immediately replacing the few Mohammedan lads who were withdrawn.

DERA GHAZI KHAN.

Dr. A. Jukes came home in February, 1895, and was succeeded at Dera Ghazi Khan by Dr. J. O. Summerhayes. The new Hospital buildings, called the "Maxwell Gordon Memorial Hospital," with accommodation for twenty-four patients, were completed before Dr. Jukes left. 5,308 new out-patients were treated and 120 in-patients, besides those at the C.E.Z.M.S. Hospital, and at the branch C.M.S. Hospital at Fort Munro; altogether 11,616 new out-patients and 152 in-patients were treated. The wild character of these mountain tribes is illustrated by the following from Dr. Summerhayes' report:—

Dera Ghazi Khan.

Hospital.

At Fort Munro there were one day a number of Beluchis waiting in the dispensary for medicine, when a cry was heard from the top of a neighbouring hill, and they all immediately took up their swords, buckled on their quaint leather shields, and, slinging their guns over their shoulders, started off, leaving bottles and all behind; it turned out that a blood feud was on with another tribe, and as it was their turn to kill one of the others, their scouts had just seen an enemy and let them know. With my glasses I watched them creep up a ravine and scatter on the top of the hill; the man escaped that time, but another was killed only a short way off next day on another hill. This sounds as if it were a dangerous country, but for us it is safe as England; for instance, I rode down from Fort Munro to Ghazi in a night, fifteen miles of desert, no moon, and was thirteen hours riding, but it was as safe as from Brighton to London.

Dr. Summerhayes' comparison in the last words just quoted is probably not affected by the fact that the Native doctor's (Dr. Najm-ud-din) premises were attacked by robbers in August, and himself wounded so that he was an invalid for some months afterwards. The young Mohammedan from Jandiala (see supra, page 167), who was sent to Dera Ghazi Khan at the close of 1893, and afterwards joined there by his wife, was baptized on Easter Tuesday, 1894. The sequel has already been stated. The Rev. H. M. Izhaq made itinerating tours south-westward to Rojhan, visiting eighteen towns and villages, and to Sakhi Sarwar.

The Rev. E. F. Robins has reinforced this station.

Dera Ismail Khan.

The Rev. F. Papprill baptized a Moslem youth at DERA ISMAIL KHAN. The lad was twice removed by his friends from the Mission, and on one occasion was taken to an island on the Indus. An application to the magistrate caused him to be produced in court, when he declared his wish to go to the Mission. The High School, with some 250 boys, has greatly improved under the superintendence of the Rev. H. J. Hoare. Mr. Papprill made evangelistic tours in the district. The lantern slides which he took with him proved a great attraction. On one occasion several men swam across the Indus and back to be present at a meeting. At BANNU, the Rev. A. E. Day and Dr. and Mrs. W. F. A. Adams joined Dr. T. L. Pennell in the autumn. 6,000 patients (new cases) were treated at the Hospital, which has accommodation for eighteen in-patients. The patients represented a very extensive district.

Swimming the Indus to attend evangelistic meeting.

Bannu Hospital.

A Ghuznee patient.

In November, 1893, a patient from Ghuznee arrived, whose touching story, as related by Dr. Pennell, was published in the C.M. Gleaner for October, 1894. He had been shot by robbers in the Tochee Pass on his return journey from Mûltan, where he had sold his merchandise. On reaching his village home and trying in vain such ignorant and superstitious remedies as the local greybeards and doctors recommended, and spending all his money on the same and in fees, a traveller from the Punjab mentioned that he had been treated at Dera Ismail Khan gratuitously by a "Feringhee." By borrowing upon the security of his little daughter, Manak Khan, under the care of his aged mother, made the seven days' camel journey to Dera Ismail Khan, and thence five days further to Bannu, another one hundred miles, to learn that his case was incurable. He remained till the following April, and then returned to his mountain home, physically much as when he arrived, but with one great difference. Dr. Pennell says:—

He had learnt to believe on Christ Jesus as his own Saviour, and to look up to Him as the One Who carries us safely through sickness and trial, and is preparing a home for us at last; and very earnestly did he assure me that during the long days of patient suffering in our little Mission Hospital he had learnt to lift his heart up in prayer to Him Who hath borne our griefs and carried our sorrows, and look up to Him as his Saviour. "And," said he, "if God spares my life I will tell my people of Him and come back with my family to be received into the Christian Church." So he left us, and our prayers followed him on his long and painful journey home; and may it not be that he is a light shining in a dark place, and witnessing in that little Afghan village, of how he went for bodily healing, but God found fit to pour light into his soul instead, and make the very tedium of a protracted illness in the Bannu Mission Hospital the guiding light to heaven?

"I will tell my people of Him."

Six months after he left, a man with a deformed knee whom Manak Khan had sent came to the hospital and told how he had spread the news in his village, and how he would have come again to Bannu if he could have afforded the journey.

In April, 1894, an orphan lad, Sahib Khan, was baptized in the Mission Church by the chaplain of the station, the Rev. C. Swynnerton. A plot was made to forcibly carry him off, but it was divulged and defeated. Later, Gunda Singh, a Sikh lad, was baptized by the Rev. R. Clark; and, later still, a young Mohammedan, who, however, did not prove steadfast. Owing to these baptisms and to inquirers who were known to frequent the Mission, some excitement showed itself among the people during the winter of 1894–5, and on one occasion, in February, Dr. Pennell was roughly treated by a crowd at a horse fair, where he was selling Scriptures, &c. Mrs. Pennell, Dr. Pennell's mother, wrote:—

Baptisms.

Medical missionary roughly treated.

A crowd collected, and, incited by the mullahs, soon became excited and angry. Some man threw Dr. Pennell's hat among the crowd. The Rev. A. E. Day very kindly went forward to try and get it, but he was at once thrown down. Dr. Pennell then ran to his assistance, but he, too, was thrown down. Mr. Day managed to get out without being hurt, but, time after time, when Dr. Pennell got up he was knocked down again, and badly kicked while on the ground. One cruel man stamped on his face; and had he not hurriedly taken off his spectacles when first they threw him down, his eyes would probably have been seriously injured. Mercifully, the angry mob seemed suddenly to be seized with panic (we fancy from seeing blood on the Sahib's face), and they all fled, when he was able to get away and have his face dressed. This ebullition of anger shows how frightened some of the people are at the effects of the Gospel as preached both from God's Word and from a "living epistle" of a life of love.

The little congregation consists, with one exception, of Mission

PESHÂWAR.

Peshâwar. The Rev. W. Thwaites (who has been invalided home) was in charge of this important station, from which access is gained to Cabul, the capital of Afghanistan, to Kaffiristan, and to Chitral. The retirement of the Rev. D. Davies has been already mentioned. Peshâwar continues hard against the Gospel. The Rev. C. H. A. A. Field, who taught Scripture in the Edwardes High School, says he did not observe any sign of real heart interest in any of the boys; while evangelistic work in the city was combated with "arguments in the shape of melon rinds and mud."

KASHMIR.

Srinagar. The agencies in the Valley of Kashmir and its capital, SRINAGAR, are evangelistic, medical, and educational; but these distinctions, the Rev. J. H. Knowles remarks, are "purely de convenance." "All the work here," he adds, "is emphatically and unmistakably evangelistic in its character and aim." In the Medical Mission, Dr. Arthur Neve had the assistance for several months of Dr. W. F. Adams. Dr. E. F. Neve returned in February, 1895. For several years past the Hospital buildings have been in course of enlargement, and it is a matter of great satisfaction to the missionaries that the work of reconstruction is now practically completed. Since 1889 some Rs. 20,000 have been spent on re-building. There are now four in-patient pavilions, holding eighty beds, besides a block of rooms for operating and dispensing. The total cost of construction per bed has been £15, which Dr. A. Neve compares with £300 per bed, the usual cost, he says, in this country. A chapel is in course of construction. During the year there were 2,672 operations performed, and 554 chloroform administrations. The in-patients numbered 858, and the out-patients 14,455. The Resident, Colonel Barr, presided at a meeting in the Gulmarg Residency in behalf of the Hospital Fund in August, and appealed earnestly to visitors to take an interest in the work, saying that "to Christians it must be ever a duty, not only to relieve the wants of others in the name of Christ, but also to witness to others of the truth of their religion, and that there was no better way of doing this than through a mission hospital." The State Leper Asylum, built in 1891 on a piece of waste land given (together with Rs. 4,000) by the Maharajah for the purpose, had 100 inmates during the year, and thirty at its close. Mr. Knowles bears testimony to the missionary character of the medical work:—

"All the work unmistakably evangelistic."

Hospital.

The Resident appeals for the Mission Hospital.

Knowing as much of this work as I have had opportunities of knowing, I should like to bear my testimony to the præparatio evangelica that is going on under the Neves' supervision. "Quite one of the things to be seen here," said a friend to me the other day. And truly this hospital is a big concern. But few outsiders know of the quiet, steady work of evangelization going on within those hospital and hospitable walls. I have dropped in quite in an informal way a few times, and have been struck with the remembrance of Gospel truth by one or two of the patients (as the Kashmiri Mohammedan is an exceptionally dull customer). The doctor asked me to call and see an attendant of one of the patients the other day. The man was a Sikh, and seemed to have literally drunk in the words of the first dozen chapters of the Gospel of St. John.

The medical work a præparatio evangelica.

Mr. R. V. Greene itinerated in the villages, and performed numerous ophthalmic operations—as many as 300 in one place within four weeks, "the sick literally besieging us, and not allowing one to take food in private—the Gospel being preached several times daily, and to thousands of people in the aggregate, in some cases to willing ears, but, we fear, in most to unwilling ones." An interesting report of the work at the High School during the year 1893–4, delayed in consequence of his long illness from typhoid fever, has been received from the Rev. C. E. Tyndale-Biscoe, under the title of "Tacking," which he thus explains :—

Itinerations.

High School.

Does any one like sailing against wind and tide? If not, then do not come aboard our ship; but if you do, then come along with us and help, and we will show you how we tack up against the never-changing wind and tide.

Let me try to explain briefly the kind of winds against which we have to make headway, for otherwise you will not be able to understand why we have any difficulty in making our points, and the reason why one's sheet has to be kept in so taut. A Hindu boy in Kashmir is brought up at the apron strings of a foolish mamma, or at the pheron tucks of a holy papa (all the Hindus here belong to the holy caste) until well after the age of so-called manhood. He is never allowed to paddle or row a boat because it is the work of common men of a very low caste, whilst he is born a gentlemanly and holy Hindu of the Brahman or tip-top caste, and of course no real gentleman does hard work. He must not play football or cricket, because the naughty balls are made of most unholy material, viz., the skin of animals, and there is no knowing whether or no it be that of the sacred cow, and to touch such an unholy article would make the gods turn pale, and bring down their just wrath upon their precious pates. He must not walk out after dark because the jins, or in our language ghosts and hobgoblins, have appropriated the streets for themselves at that time. What wonder, then, you see standing before you beings who call themselves men with hardly an ounce of muscle, moral or physical, upon them, and whose lily-white hands (except for Srinagar dirt upon them) hang listlessly at their sides, or rather one hand only, for the other is buried somewhere out of sight under a kind of nightgown, and only the long sleeve hangs by the side! Now these individuals form the learned part of the population, and fill most of the offices, and it is this class therefore from which our schools are filled. It is against all these inherent ideas and inane bringing up that we are tacking.

"Hardly an ounce of muscle, moral or physical."

On the occasions of religious festivals, when the school has to be closed, Mr. Tyndale-Biscoe organizes, when possible, counter-attractions for the boys, taking them for a trip in the school rowing-boat to one of the lakes, where the time is spent under canvas, very much in the same way as are the Seaside Camps for boys in England. A distance of forty miles was rowed by the boys in six hours on one such occasion. Another time, when a festival in honour of the goddess Rajin was to be observed for several days at a tank some twenty-five miles from Srinagar, the parents of the boys, at the instigation of the priests, forbade their going on a trip which the Principal had arranged, so he decided, as they could not accompany him, to go with them. He thus describes what occurred:—

> I had no sooner arrived on the sacred ground than I was spotted by the schoolboys, who all looked very sheepish, but nevertheless gathered round me. We had taken our stand on raised ground so that we might get a view of the whole proceeding. Without any warning, the hornpipe, cymbals, and many other kinds of music, or rather discord, crashed upon our ears, and made me jump, and when it ceased, all present, many hundreds who were gathered round this stinking tank and its golden umbrella, fell down and worshipped the goddess, who was supposed to be under the golden umbrella, which umbrella His Highness the Maharaja of Kashmir had set up. But not one of the boys with me or those on whom I had my eyes, and who were with their relations at the tank, bowed down with the hundreds of idolators around them. I was as much surprised as I was pleased. But at the same time it brought before one the great responsibility of teaching these boys Christianity, and therefore taking away their ancient religion. A man with no religion is far worse off than a man with one; and in taking away their Hinduism one puts these boys in a very dangerous position, unless one can induce them to face persecution and accept Christianity in which they profess their belief. But this dangerous step none yet dare to take.

Not one of the boys worshipped the goddess.

Mr. Tyndale-Biscoe has a large Bible-class at his house on Sunday afternoons, composed of old and present pupils. Evangelistic Work in the city was less actively engaged in than in some previous years, owing to the absence of the catechist. The bazaar preaching attracted large crowds, some of whom usually raised objections, while, as a rule, one or two appeared to be interested, asking for books, &c. Mr. Knowles' domiciliary visits are really esteemed, he says, by some for the Truth's sake. Meetings of Bengali and Punjabi clerks engaged in the Government offices were held at Mr. Knowles' house, and addresses given on such subjects as "The True Prophet and the True Incarnation."

QUETTA.

Quetta.

The Congregation at QUETTA increased during the year from fourteen to fifty-four. This was partly owing to arrivals from other places, and partly to the discovery of Christians resident in Quetta who had previously been unknown, but partly also to baptisms.

Baptisms.

The Rev. C. M. Gough baptized nine persons—two men, two women, and five children of various ages. A former convert, the first-fruit of the Mission, Abdul Karim, who had been Qazi of his district and Imam of his village mosque, whose baptism in October, 1892, was mentioned in the Annual Report for 1892–3 (p. 132), had to suffer severe persecution in his own village, two miles from Quetta, and subsequently still graver trials befell him. His wife, who had remained still a Mohammedan, was approached by her relations with persuasions to poison her husband, or to stab him in his sleep. She, however, steadfastly refused, and finally threw in her lot with him, and was baptized in June, 1894, and then re-married to him, by Christian rite—the former marriage having, according to Mohammedan law, been annulled by Abdul Karim's embracing Christianity. Dr. S. W. Sutton relates what followed:—

Trials of a convert.

This only increased the rage of the people. Great efforts were made to induce him to renounce Christianity; and when Sardars, Maliks, and Mullahs found that he was not to be persuaded either by argument or by money, it became evident that the only thing they could do was to murder him. Knowing his life to be in danger, the Deputy Commissioner gave him a licence to carry a revolver.

At length, in October, came the attack and defence, only the attack was made not on Abdul Karim himself, but on his wife, and he, waking from his sleep to see his wife in the grip of her assailant, seized his revolver and shot the man, and then reported the incident to the Deputy-Commissioner. The District Superintendent of Police gave his Moslem subordinates a free hand, and they immediately fabricated a story of their own, and suborned witnesses to show that neither Abdul Karim nor his wife had ever been attacked, and that his act was one of deliberate and cold-blooded murder.

An arduous and anxious task.

As lawyers are not allowed in Baluchistan, I had to turn lawyer to conduct the defence throughout the trial, and, though I had the valuable help of Mr. Gough, it was a very arduous and anxious task, as the police were determined to bring the man to the gallows, and had no difficulty in persuading the committing magistrate that their lies were true.

In the end the Sessions Judge declared that the whole story of the prosecution was a fabrication, and remarked on the terrible amount of perjury. He affirmed that Abdul Karim was perfectly justified in shooting his assailant, but that he ought not to have fired all six chambers of his revolver; that he was therefore technically guilty of "culpable homicide not amounting to murder." He considered the requirements of the law would be met by a purely "nominal sentence of four months' imprisonment." Taking all things into consideration, we thought at the time we would let the matter rest there, specially as Abdul Karim himself was perfectly satisfied and even delighted with the result of the trial. I have since learned that, had I appealed, the High Court would most probably have quashed the judgment, and acquitted Abdul Karim entirely.

We have already had evidence that this business is having a good effect on the minds of reflecting people; and I hope that Abdul Karim will be able some day to say, "The things which happened unto me have fallen out rather unto the furtherance of the Gospel."

Hospital.

Dr. Sutton has one or two Afghan Christians helping him at the Hospital. Syed Shah, an old convert of the Peshâwar Mission, reads and talks daily with the Afghan patients; Syed Shah's son, Khushhal Khan, was also assisting, and hopes some day to be a medical missionary; and Rafiq Ullah Khan is the dresser and compounder. Syed Shah also takes part in Bazaar

Preaching, and his preaching arouses much opposition because of his being a Pathan and preaching in Pushtu. The preachers have been on several occasions pelted with mud and stones. From the Bookshop and through the colporteur 3,590 books and tracts were sold during the year. A School for boys was opened in January, 1894, which had forty pupils at the beginning of 1895. Dr. and Mrs. M. Eustace returned to Quetta in December.

II. SINDH.

THE Rev. R. Heaton arrived in England invalided in November, 1894, and the same month Mrs. A. E. Ball sailed to rejoin her husband at Karachi.

KARACHI.

Baptisms at Karachi

The Rev. A. E. Ball has the happiness of reporting four adult baptisms at KARACHI, the fruits of the various Evangelistic Efforts. Three were Gujerathis, a young man and two young women; and the fourth was a young Sindhi Amil, the leading class in the country. The two Gujerathi women were prepared for baptism by Miss Carey of the C.E.Z.M.S. The Amil convert was formerly a pupil of the Hydrabad High School, where he received his first Christian impressions, and where, indeed, he suffered much for Christ's sake. After a year spent at Karachi he asked Mr. Ball to baptize him by immersion, which was done. Mr. Ball says:—

"Before my baptism I had peace, now I have joy."

As he emerged from the tank he exclaimed, with beaming face, "Buried with Christ, and risen with Him too;" and a short time ago he remarked to Mr. Redman, "Before my baptism I had peace, now I have joy." He has since had to suffer much, and he needs our prayers.

The Gujerathi youth became an inquirer through attending a bhajan meeting held by the voluntary band of evangelists. This band also held lecture-meetings in the Runchore Lines Boys' School and out of doors. This school and the High School, of which it is a branch, under the Rev. W. J. Abigail, had 443 on the rolls, and an average attendance of 344. At the prize-giving in May, 1894, Mr. James, Commissioner in Sindh, made the following important remarks:—

High School.

The Commissioner in Sindh on Mission schools.

I must also say that I am glad to visit a school where morality is specially taught out of the Bible. In Government schools, paid for by the public and open to all castes and creeds, morality founded on religion cannot be taught. An attempt was made a few years ago to compile a moral text-book, but it fell through, and boys are left to learn morality in reading through the secular books and through the good influences of their masters. No doubt the influence of many Government masters is highly valuable, but the tendency undoubtedly, in the Government schools, is to instil education mainly as a means of passing examinations. This school, therefore, has the greater advantage, in that it specially teaches morality, and, as I think even my non-Christian friends would admit, the highest morality that has yet been conceived.

I go further, and say that I gladly support this school on the ground that it teaches religion, and the Christian religion. By my position I am bound to be impartial towards the creed of all Her Majesty's subjects, and I can favour none. But were I the most philosophic unbeliever I should still as a Government officer rejoice in seeing a pure religion taught. For history teaches us that after the abandonment of one religion, if no other is adopted, or if at any period the men who are the most educated and the leaders of thought in a State practically abandon all faith, the result is blind degradation and crime. It is a source of great anxiety to all thinking men, and I know it is to the most thoughtful and cultured of the races of this country, who have been forced to disbelieve in their ancestral religion, that so many of the educated in India should be believers in no religion at all. Some of the best of them in Sindh, recognizing this, have with infinite trouble and self-denial, and at great personal expense, started a school where religion is taught and a belief inculcated in a God who loves mankind and hates sin. All honour to them. The school is largely attended, and its influence is, I know, for the very best. But I am bound to say that so far as I read history the experiment will ultimately fail. All earnest-thinking men, like my friends at Hydrabad, have the fullest sympathy of us Christians, but on an occasion like this, at a professedly Christian school, I cannot but express the pleasure of myself and other Christians that this school not only teaches secular education, but teaches the morality of the Bible as well, and also teaches the Christian religion.

Many educated Natives without a religion.

The Congregation, under the pastorship of the Rev. B. N. Ghose, numbers ninety, with forty-four communicants. A branch of the C.E.T.S. was established in September. Two Sunday Schools have an average attendance respectively of 103 and 81; and Mr. Ball says: "It is certainly a striking thing to see so many Heathen children gathered together Sunday by Sunday to learn Scripture texts and be taught their meaning." The vernacular sales from the Book Depôt and book-cart and from the colporteur were 7 Bibles, 37 Testaments, 674 portions, and 12,448 books and tracts.

The Rev. A. E. Redman, who was accepted in local connexion by the Punjab and Sindh Corresponding Committee in 1893 under circumstances explained in the Annual Report for 1892–3 (page 132), has been received into full connexion with the Society.

HYDRABAD.

Two adults were baptized at HYDRABAD by the Rev. J. Redman. The baptized Christians number thirty-five, and the communicants eight. 368 Scripture portions and 7,814 books and tracts were sold by a colporteur. Two lengthened itinerating tours were taken by Mr. and Mrs. Redman. In the spring of 1894, travelling on camels, they went northward some 150 miles, visiting twenty towns. Audiences of several hundred people were attracted by the lantern slides. In July and August towns on the Fuleli Canal were visited, the party travelling by boat, and being accompanied by the Rev. A. E. Ball.

SUKKUR.

Sukkur.

Upon the Rev. R. Heaton's coming home in the autumn, the Rev. J. Redman assumed charge temporarily of SUKKUR. Mr. Heaton baptized one adult, a Sayyid, on Easter Day, 1894. He had previously been an inquirer for three years. Mr. Heaton says of him:—

A Sayyid convert.

A bribe refused by a convert.

As soon as his intention of becoming a Christian was made known to his friends, he was subjected to persecution and threatened with death. His Bible, Prayer Book, and other Christian books were stolen. Rough treatment having failed, bribery was resorted to; and when offered 700 rupees, Sher Shah replied, "This money belongs to this world, and I am looking for heavenly things which you cannot see, and I am afraid of the judgment day, and I must escape from the wrath of God through my Saviour Jesus Christ."

The Rev. A. E. Redman is stationed temporarily at Sukkur.

WESTERN INDIA MISSION.

For fifty years after Bombay became a British possession the English had neither church nor chaplain in the city, and it was not till a century later that any effort was made for the evangelization of its inhabitants. The first missionary of the C.M.S. to work in Bombay was the Rev. Richard Kenney, who landed in 1820; Nasik was occupied in 1832; Junir, 1846; Malegâm, 1848; and Aurangabad, 1860.

THE Committee had the pleasure of an interview with the Bishop of Bombay in July, and were reminded of the lamentable inadequateness of the Society's agencies in the great city of Bombay, especially for reaching the intellectual and cultured classes. They remembered his friendly counsels in apportioning the year's reinforcements, but the utmost that was possible to be done was to add the following to the staff:—The Rev. Richard Stanley Heywood, B.A., Trinity College and Ridley Hall, Cambridge, Curate of Walcot, Bath, who was married in August to Miss Mary Isabel C. Whitley; the Rev. Thomas Davis, of Islington College, who was admitted to Deacon's Orders by the Bishop of London on May 20, 1894; and Lieut.-Colonel T. A. Freeman (retired), M.A., Christ Church, Oxford, and Mrs. Freeman, who sailed in October. On the other hand, two missionaries, graduates respectively of Cambridge and Oxford, have retired, namely, the Rev. R. A. Squires, who joined the Mission in 1870, and held in succession the important posts of Principal of the Poona Divinity School, Incumbent of Girgaum Church, and Secretary of the Corresponding Committee; and the Rev. J. A. Harriss, who went out in 1886.

Reinforcements.

The small band of Native clergy in this Mission, which in January, 1894, had lost, as mentioned last year, the Rev. Appaji Bapuji, a Brahman, who owed his early impressions in favour of Christianity to the labours of the Rev. C. P. Farrar (father of the present Dean of Canterbury), and J. B. Dixon, was further reduced in August by the death of the Rev. Sorabji Kharsedji. Mr. Sorabji was a Parsee, and one of the very first of the few converts to Christianity from Zoroastrianism. He owed his conversion under God to the labours of the late Rev. G. M. Valentine, and was baptized at Bombay in 1841. To escape from the abuse to which he was exposed in Bombay, he sought employment under the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel at Ahmedabad. Later he entered the C.M.S. Divinity Class at Nasik, and was engaged under the Rev. W. Salter Price in conducting the Sharanpur Orphanage and building the Christian settlement. In 1878 he was admitted to Deacon's Orders at Agra by Bishop Johnson of Calcutta. He laboured for a short time in the Junir Itinerancy, and, since 1882, he resided at Poona, serving as an honorary missionary. His literary works and his various gifts and graces are referred to in the following, contributed by a correspondent of the Guardian to that paper:—

Death of Rev. Sorabji Kharsedji.

His literary works.

He was loved of many—gentle, genial, yet fearless, and of an unwavering and wonderful courage. Many times, even so late as within the last decade of his life, have his former co-religionists come to him with tempting offers of every kind—but nothing could shake his allegiance. Few have had so great a fight to fight for the faith, and none could have fought it more nobly. As a scholar and student, he has also done some work. He was familiar with the two great Zoroastrian languages, Zend and Pehlevè, languages, as everyone knows, to the mysteries of which only Parsee high priests are admitted. And this has made his book on "The Comparison of Zoroastrianism and Christianity" a valuable addition to Parsee literature. He published just before his death a small work on "Zoroaster and Zoroastrianism," but the supplement to this lies unfinished, as also, alas! does a "Life of Christ" in Guzerathi, upon which he was engaged when death took him. He was a member of the Guzerathi Bible Revision Committee, upon which he had been sitting for many years. The New Testament portion of his work is completed, but there is left one book of the Old Testament. He often remarked on a strange coincidence connected with this. When lots were cast as to which members of the committee should do that work, those books of the New Testament fell to his lot which had been the means of his conversion. His great desire all through his life was a special mission to his own people, the Parsees, and one of his last efforts as he lay dying was an attempt to expound to a Zoroastrian nephew who had come to see him some difficult and abstruse Pehlevè text.

There are now in all India only twelve Parsee Christian converts. They could ill spare, alas! this veteran who had suffered more than they all for the faith, and whose wonderful courage was to them light and inspiration; but as he who had left "house," and "brethren," and "sisters," and "father," and "mother," and "wife," and "children," and "lands," for Christ's sake and the Gospel's had received in this life the promised hundredfold, so they who loved him rejoice in the special promise of happiness reserved for him in the everlasting rest.

The Rev. and Mrs. F. G. Macartney came home in May, 1894; the Rev. and Mrs. C. W. Thorne in September, owing to the ill-health of the latter (Mr. Thorne returning to the Mission the following January); and the Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Whiteside, on furlough, in February, 1895. Mrs. A. H. Bowman returned to the Mission in October, 1894, and Mr. J. Jackson in May, 1895. Mr. Jackson was married in August, 1894, to Miss Emma Morris Crittall, a Missionary of the Z.B.M.M., who went out to India in 1881.

Revised Marathi Prayer Book.

The Committee have felt it their duty to memorialize the Archbishop of Canterbury regarding a recently revised Marathi version of the Book of Common Prayer, holding the opinion on several grounds that the Marathi congregations connected with the Society should have liberty to use, for the present at any rate, either the new or the old version. His Grace, while intimating that in the next edition of the new version a change shall be made in the direction of the Committee's views—in which to that extent the Archbishop fully concurs—deprecated the use of two different versions. The matter is still under consideration.

The Bombay Corresponding Committee consists of the following:—The Bishop of Bombay, the Hon. H. M. Birdwood, Major Scott, R.E., Lieut.-Col. T. A. Freeman, and the Revs. A. H. Bowman, A. Manwaring, and W. G. Peel (secretary).

BOMBAY.

Girgaum Church.

The Rev. A. H. Bowman, pastor of the English Congregation worshipping in Girgaum Church, BOMBAY, reports an encouraging year. The aggregate attendances at the Holy Communion were five hundred in excess of those of 1893, a large increase considering the limited accommodation which the church provides, and an evidence, Mr. Bowman thinks, of the love for evangelical principles in the hearts of many European residents.

Money School.

The Robert Money School was under the superintendence of the Rev. W. H. Dixon during the year. The total number of boys was 263, of whom 246 were Hindus, and of these again 114 were Brahmans. Eight were Christians, and two of these, inmates of the Hostel, were at the head of the school throughout the year. Three of the boys were confirmed in December. The Rev. A. Manwaring was shown a manuscript of an old Hindu pupil of the school describing the school and the life in it some forty or fifty years ago.

Life-long influence of a Mission school.

The following extract from the MS. shows what a life-long influence Mission schools sometimes exert even when it stops short of the baptism of the objects of the influence:—

> Before the commencement of the school business we were made to stand in a line, and the superintendent, standing at the head, offered a short prayer, and we repeated along with him the Lord's Prayer at the end. This was also repeated in the evening at the time of closing the school, and the boys were made to march off as they do in regiments. Ever since then I have most regularly offered that prayer at the Throne of the Most High, our Heavenly Father, singly or in company with my partner in life, and I have felt the consolation that my prayers were heard by Him, for we both felt supremely happy at its termination.

Lectures to English-speaking Natives.

Work among English-speaking Natives was carried on by Mr. Dixon, so far as other engagements permitted. A series of lectures on the cardinal doctrines of the Faith was given at Easter, chiefly by Mr. Bowman, at which the attendance and interest manifested were very encouraging. Two Parsee inquirers subsequently visited Mr. Dixon for a time. Mr. Dixon also instructed a young Portuguese, who with most of his family had left the Church of Rome and was about to be formally admitted by the Bishop of Bombay to the Church of England.

Mohammedan Mission.

The Rev. J. G. Deimler, who is about to come home with the purpose of retiring from the work after forty years of service, welcomed in October the Rev. T. Davis as a successor in the Mohammedan Mission. Maulvi Abdulla Beg, who laboured so ably and zealously since his own conversion in 1891 for the conversion of his former co-religionists, died in August, to Mr. Deimler's great sorrow. The day before his death he addressed a meeting of some 200 Mohammedans at Poona, whither he had gone for his health, and spoke most earnestly and persuasively. Almost his last words were "Jesus Christ is living." One of those whose conversion was largely due to his influence, and who, after baptism, went to the Allahabad Divinity School, has succeeded to his work as a catechist. In January, 1894, four men and one woman were baptized in Girgaum Church, the fruits of the late Abdulla Beg's labours, and ten persons, most of them relatives of Abdulla, were under instruction when Mr. Deimler wrote his Annual Letter. The Mohammedan Girls' School had a slightly increased attendance. Miss M. L. F. Deimler says of these girls:—

Mohammedan Girls' School.

About two years ago, when we commenced this work, it was considered an almost hopeless task to start a school among the Mohammedan Suleiman Boras. They consider themselves the highest class of Mohammedans, but many in the vicinity of the school are poor. It is the only high-class Mohammedan girls' school here in Bombay. There are also some Memens living near, and when we went to them to invite their children to school, an old Memen gentleman said: "Our community will never send their children to a Mission school to be taught the Christian religion. I will give you Rs. 20 for the first Memen child that will attend your school." At the present time a dear little Memen girl is eagerly learning in school, and she was not the first one, we had others before her, but we never claimed those Rs. 20, but rather rejoiced quietly.

The Rev. D. Shindé, under the Rev. W. G. Peel's supervision, ministers to the Marathi congregation.

Nasik.

The Rev. A. Manwaring, upon his return to the Mission after sick leave in January, 1894, took charge of the work at NASIK and the adjoining Christian village of Sharanpur, and the Rev. W. C. Whiteside engaged in the evangelistic work in the extensive district. Upon the illness and return home of the Rev. A. A. Parry, it became necessary to remove Mr. Whiteside to Poona. The Rev. C. W. Thorne took up the district work, but in September the illness of Mrs. Thorne obliged him to accompany her to England, he himself returning, as already mentioned, in January, 1895. Mr. Manwaring, after reviewing these changes, expresses a very natural sense of regret:—

"Reduced to extremities" through lack of labourers.

After Mr. Thorne's departure the work lapsed to the care of the station missionary as in days gone by. As far back as I can remember this has always been the history of the Nasik district. An itinerating missionary is there for a few months, and before he is well acquainted with the work or his fellow-workers, off he is sent to look after another station which has become vacant owing to the paucity of workers in this corner of the C.M.S. world. Nor is this surprising when the state of the Mission is considered. At present there are three, and, as far as one can judge, by next February there will be in the whole Mission only two European missionaries with a knowledge of Marathi. Truly we are reduced to extremities! And this paucity of workers is the more to be regretted as the Nasik district is one full of promise. Much of it verges on Ahmednagar, where there are thousands of converts, and there is every reason to believe that two or three of our out-stations only want properly working to yield fruit in abundance. There have been converts this year, but they are few compared with those whom we expect. It is a splendid sphere of work for an itinerating missionary if we can only get one.

Three young Brahmans were baptized by Mr. Manwaring in February, 1895. One was a village accountant in a small village near Nasik, another was the hereditary priest of the same village, and the third was a younger brother of the second. Their ages were twenty, eighteen, and fourteen respectively. The eldest of the three was led by a Christian tract to consider the claims of Christianity, and subsequently, with his friend the priest, visited the Rev. D. L. Joshi. Baptism of three Brahmans.

POONA AND JUNIR.

The Divinity School at Poona had nine students when the Rev. W. C. Whiteside took charge in June, 1894, but one student left a few months later. The class work was carried on in Marathi. After the examinations by a special Committee of Conference in November, at which six out of the eight passed either the assistant-catechists' or the readers' grade, all were distributed to take part in the cold season itinerations. One of the students, Mr. R. S. Rustomji Mistry, a Parsee convert, who knows Marathi and Gujerathi, and also English and French, has been appointed to labour among the educated natives of Bombay under Lieut.-Colonel Freeman. Lectures to English-speaking Natives were delivered by Mr. Bowman of Bombay in the spring, and by Mr. Whiteside in the autumn. The Bombay localized Gleaner said of the former series:— Poona. Lectures.

> Everything was done to make the lectures a thorough success. Notices were distributed broadcast in the city. Posters were placed in every corner of the stronghold of Brahmanism, and the very walls seemed to proclaim the advent of the message of the Gospel. What reception did the Natives give to news of the lectures? Well, nearly all the Indian papers in the city printed the notice free. Hindu gentlemen helped to give out the handbills, and the head-masters of almost all the High schools distributed the programmes of the lectures among their students—nay, some of them even advised their boys to attend them "for their spiritual edification." Hindus advertise Christian lectures.

And Mr. Whiteside wrote of the latter series:—

> These were based on the Apostles' Creed, with special reference to the Hindu and Mohammedan religious systems, embracing such subjects as "I," "God," "Creation," "Trinity," "Incarnation," "Atonement," "Resurrection," and "Forgiveness." Many came regularly, and, though asked to put forward their doubts, no one availed himself of the privilege. The most striking lesson is that we had no difficulty in getting such audiences into our C.M.S. Marathi church; it opens up a vista of possible efforts which is most encouraging. Truly Native opinion has changed much, and is changing favourably to our work. It did one good to see a well-known leader of the Poona Prarthana Samaj coming night by night to these lectures, first of all, and kneeling in audible prayer. Change in Native opinion.

The Rev. L. M. Joshi took charge of the Marathi congregation in May, 1894. The contributions advanced from Rs. 317 to

Rs. 552 during the year. A branch of the Gleaners' Union was established with thirty members. The Tamil congregation is looked after by Mr. Yesudin, a Tamil catechist from Tinnevelly. The Rev. R. S. Heywood was appointed by the Committee to the charge of the Poona Divinity School before he sailed.

Junir. The JUNIR Itinerancy was worked by Native catechists without a resident missionary. At the prize-giving of an Anglo-vernacular School at Junir, which was opened by Mr. Whiteside at the beginning of 1893, the chief citizens of the town were present, and showed much friendly interest.

MALEGÂM.

Malegâm. The Rev. E. J. Jones was in charge of the work, pastoral and evangelistic, in and around MALEGÂM. Four taluks of the Nasik Zillah, with a population of 229,000, are attached to this station, besides Khandesh, 10,000 square miles in extent, the northern district of which is thickly peopled by Bheels. A widow and three girls were baptized on Christmas Day. There were three bands of Native itinerators, one taking Khandesh, the second the eastern part of the Nasik Zillah, and the third the western part of the same.

AURANGABAD.

Aurangabad. The number of baptized Christians in AURANGABAD and district is 1,496. The Rev. Ruttonji Nowroji baptized six adults during the year. He says :—

"Here come the people of God." Preaching has been carried on everywhere, without interruption. We are well known to the people. On seeing us they say among themselves, "Here come the people of God." "These men are followers of the one true God." "These preachers condemn our idols, saying they are not Gods." At Adul we had a very interesting audience. When I read and explained a few passages out of the Sermon on the Mount, the town clerk remarked that he had never heard or known anything grander.

SOUTH INDIA MISSION.

The Tamil country south of Madras was the scene of the S.P.C.K.'s Missions in the last century. But the first two clergymen of the Church of England who went to India as missionaries were sent to Madras by the Church Missionary Society in 1814. Work was commenced at Ootacamund, on the Nilgiri Hills, in 1870.

The Telugu Mission was begun in 1841 by two of the most devoted men on the roll of missionaries, Robert Noble and H. W. Fox. Noble started the famous English school at Masulipatam, now known by his name, worked it for twenty-four years, and died at his post in 1865. Several Brahmans trained in it have embraced the Gospel, and it has sent forth several Native clergymen to labour among their countrymen. Fox was a preaching missionary, and set the example of those itinerating and rural missionary efforts which have resulted in the foundation of an increasing Telugu Native Church, chiefly drawn from the Malas and other low-caste or out-caste people. Ellore was occupied in 1854; Bezwada, 1858; Râghavapuram, 1872; and Kummamett, 1888. A Mission among the Kois, a non-Aryan tribe on the Upper Godavery, was founded by General Haig in 1860.

In 1820 the Rev. J. Hough, Chaplain at Palamcotta, drew the attention of the Society to the claims of Tinnevelly, where there was already a community of 3,000 professed Native Christians, an offshoot from the S.P.C.K.'s Lutheran Mission in Tanjore. Two missionaries were at once set apart for this work, and from that time to this, through the labours of Rhenius, Pettitt, Thomas, J. T. Tucker, Hobbs, Sargent, and others, the Gospel has not ceased to spread among the Tamil population, chiefly among the Shanars, or cultivators of the palmyra tree. In North Tinnevelly a vigorous Itinerant Mission was established by Ragland, D. Fenn, and Meadows. Dr. Sargent and Dr. Caldwell were consecrated in 1877 as Assistant Bishops to the Bishop of Madras for the Native Churches. The former died in 1889 and the latter in 1891.

Difficulties relating to caste.

THE difficulties relating to caste in the India missions do not disappear—as previous pages of this Report have proved—when a convert has taken the decisive step of confessing Christ in baptism. A tendency is prone to assert itself again and again in the individual and in the community to revert to prejudices, and to adopt customs affecting their intercourse with one another, which are, to say the least, closely akin to those prevailing in the Hindu community under the caste system, and are wholly inconsistent with the fundamental principles of Christian brotherhood and faith in Christ. One form in which this evil has appeared and has received a certain measure of recognition has been, in the publication of banns of marriage, to add to the names of the parties titles of distinction usually indicative of their caste origin. The Bishop of Madras, in July, 1894, issued a pastoral letter to the Native clergy and laity in his diocese on this subject, in which he said:—

Bishop Gell's pastoral letter.

> Concerning the hitherto common practice of adding titles of distinction to the names of persons whose banns of marriage are published in Divine Service, such a practice might under other circumstances be regarded as innocent, but, considering the significance which seems to be attached to these titles, such distinctions ought not to be countenanced in anything which takes place in the House of God. In accordance with this principle, no honorifics of any kind are used when the banns of marriage of European members of the Church of England of the highest rank are published.
> Upon this point then I now issue the subjoined order and instruction, only adding that I have taken action in this matter after most careful consideration, and after consultation with the Metropolitan, who fully concurs in the views I have expressed.

May the Holy Spirit incline your hearts to receive our counsel and ruling, and to believe that in issuing these directions our one desire is to cherish the growth of true Christian brotherhood amongst you, to guard against evils which, if unchecked, must seriously affect the character of the whole Christian body of the future, and so to promote the glory of God in this portion of His Kingdom.

I hereby authorize and direct all the clergy in this diocese, whether they have been in the habit of doing so or not, to abstain, when publishing banns of marriage, from adding to the name or names of the parties, or of their parents, any social or religious title.

Ordinations.

Bishop Gell admitted Mr. J. McLeod Hawkins and Mr. J. S. Peter to Deacon's Orders at Ootacamund on Trinity Sunday, May 20, 1894, and the Rev. W. D. Clarke to Priest's Orders; and on December 23, at St. George's Cathedral, Madras, he admitted the Revs. F. W. Breed and Muttaswami Gnanasigamoni to Priest's Orders. Mr. Peter and Mr. Clarke are Native graduates of Madras University. The Bishop has appointed the Revs. D. A. Peter and D. Anantam, B.A., as his honorary chaplains.

Peter Cator Scripture Examinations.

Great interest is taken by Native Christians throughout the Madras Presidency in the examinations on the Holy Scriptures known as the "Peter Cator Examinations." The list of successful candidates in November, 1894, contained 179 names, 41 in the Higher and 138 in the Lower Grade. Out of the 41, fifteen were from C.M.S. schools—namely, six from Tinnevelly College, five from Noble College, Masulipatam, three from the Sarah Tucker Institution, Palamcotta, and one from Mengnanapuram High School. Two students of the Christian College, Madras (Free Church of Scotland), carried off the first and second prizes of the first class in the Higher Division, and a student of the C.M. Tinnevelly College obtained the third prize; while another student of the Tinnevelly College heads the list of the second class, followed immediately by a pupil of the Sarah Tucker Institution. Out of the 138 in the Lower Grade, 74 were from C.M.S. schools (seven in the first class out of a total of twelve).

Convention at Kodaikanal.

A goodly number of the Society's missionaries gathered at the Annual Summer Convention at Kodaikanal, meeting with honoured brethren and sisters of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, the Church of England Zenana Society, the American Presbyterian, and other Missions. The subject chosen for meditation and conference was "The Priesthood of God's People," and a meeting for consecration closed the Convention.

The Rev. A. H. Arden, Acting Secretary of the Mission.

The Rev. Albert Henry Arden, M.A., Christ's College, Cambridge, who went out to the Telugu Mission in 1864, soon after taking his degree, and in 1877, after four years at home, went out a second time and held the secretaryship of the Madras Corresponding Committee, has now a third time, after thirteen years' zealous and fruitful work on the Society's home staff, part of the time as an honorary Association Secretary, returned to the field. The welcome call came to him in consequence of the furlough being due of the Rev. E. Sell, secretary of the Madras Corresponding Committee (who has only had two previous furloughs during thirty years of missionary service), and the great difficulty of supplying, even temporarily, his important post. Mr. Arden sailed in December, 1894, to take up this office a second time, and Mr. Sell arrived in this country in April, 1895. The members of the Corresponding Committee are the following:—Bishop of Madras, Archdeacon Elwes, Rev. S. Morley, Rev. W. Scott, Rev. C. H. Pelly, Col. H. W. H. Cox, Col. Walker, E. Gibson, Esq., W. R. Arbuthnot, Esq.

I. MADRAS AND THE NILGIRIS.

MADRAS.

Two events of public interest took place in Madras during the year, each strikingly indicating both the leading position which individual Native Christians have won for themselves in literature and in the higher branches of learning, and the recognition of the fact which is now being accorded by Europeans and Natives alike in India.

A Native Christian elected by Hindus to a fellowship in Madras University.

Two fellowships fell vacant at the close of 1894 in the Madras University, and the graduates of the University, most of whom are Hindus and Brahmans, had to elect two from the numerous candidates. The one who received the most votes was a Hindu, a distinguished mathematician; but the second was an earnest Christian man, W. J. M. Hensman, brother of Mr. E. Hensman, a son-in-law of the late Rev. W. T. Satthianadhan. Mr. Hensman had previously held in succession several posts of importance, e.g. Head-master of Government colleges, Professor of mathematics, Acting-principal of a first-grade college (a position which has been seldom held by a Native of India), and Vice-principal of the Teachers' College.

Honour to the memory of a gifted Native Christian lady.

Again, on January 30, 1895, a drawing-room meeting was held at the Government House, Madras, at the invitation of Lady Wenlock, for the purpose of considering a means of perpetuating the memory of a Native Christian authoress—Mrs. Samuel Satthianadhan, daughter-in-law of the late Rev. W. T. Satthianadhan. His Highness the Rajah of Bobbili, the Bishop of Madras, the Hon. Mr. Arundel, and other civil officers, besides several notable non-Christian Native gentlemen, including the editor of the Hindu, were present. Mr. Arundel informed the meeting that the parents of the gifted Native lady, whose death at the age of thirty-two had disappointed hopes which her literary talents had excited among a large circle, were the first Brahman converts to Christianity in the Bombay Presidency. Influenced by an American lady medical-missionary, their daughter decided on medicine as her profession, and joined the Madras Medical College. At the end of a year she had won several prizes, and stood first in every subject except chemistry. She was the writer of Saguna, a story embodying an account of her parents' conversion; this work Lady Wenlock had introduced to the notice of the Queen-Empress, who, after reading it with much interest, had commanded that any "other book by the same authoress" should be sent to her. Subsequently she had written Kamala, a vivid picture of Hindu domestic life. The meeting approved the founding of a medical scholarship as the most suitable memorial of Mrs. Satthianadhan.

Her books read by the Queen-Empress.

A son and son-in-law of the late Rev. W. T. Satthianadhan are also valued members of the little band of clergy connected with the Madras Church Council. The Rev. W. D. Clarke, B.A., who was admitted to Priest's Orders, as already mentioned, in May, 1894, succeeded his late father-in-law in the charge of the Southern Pastorate. No less than eighteen members of the two congregations in this pastorate, Zion Church and John Pereira's, died during the year, which was one of much sickness in Madras. One of these, Mr. S. Rhenius Pillai, was the son of a Native clergyman connected with the S.P.G., and occupied an important position in the Government service; another was the only son of the late Rev. A. Bhushanam, one of the first two of Robert Noble's converts; a third was the youngest daughter of the late Rev. W. T. Satthianadhan, Miss Joanna Satthianadhan, an earnest Christian worker; and a fourth was Mrs. Samuel Satthianadhan, referred to above. There were forty-four baptisms in this pastorate, of which ten represented accessions from Hinduism. The funds of the pastorate received over Rs. 1,700, and there were special collections for the Bible Society, the Religious Tract and Book Society, the Jews' Society, the Preachers' Association, &c. On Easter Monday, 1894, an "Ingathering Service" was held, when free-will thankofferings were invited. Mr. Clarke says:—

Southern Pastorate.

Deaths of members of Zion Church congregation.

"Ingathering Service."

> Easter Monday was set apart as a day most appropriate for a service of this kind. Words cannot express the readiness and cheerfulness with which all the members responded to this appeal. All sorts and varieties of articles, such as sheep, turkeys, fowls, ducks, cotton, linen and woollen goods, fancy articles, brass vessels, jewels, vegetables of all sorts, books and refreshments were brought. These were all arranged in a large shamiana which was erected in the church compound. A short thanksgiving service was held in Zion Church, after which the congregation moved to the shamiana, where all the articles were exhibited, and afterwards sold by auction to the members and friends assembled under it. This was the second service of the kind in the pastorate, and I am glad to say that it proved a grand success. Rs. 220 were realized from the sale of the offerings, as against Rs. 120 in the previous year.

Of the various activities in progress for the edification of the congregation, Mr. Clarke says:—

Pastoral agencies.

In connexion with both congregations, Divine services, prayer meetings, missionary meetings, Bible-classes, mothers' meetings, devotional and revival meetings have been regularly held throughout the year. Different means are used to reach different classes of people in the congregation, and the one object we have in conducting these meetings is the deepening of the spiritual life of all the members. Cottage prayer-meetings are held in different parts of Madras almost every day in the week for the benefit of families living far away from Zion Church, and the members of which cannot therefore attend the week-day services held every morning in Zion Church. In this connexion, it must be remembered that the families belonging to the Southern Pastorate, unlike other congregations, are scattered far and wide all over Madras, and it is almost impossible to get them all together as often as one could wish. The cottage prayer-meetings are therefore calculated to meet this difficulty. Two or three families meet together in one of their houses, where a short prayer-meeting is held, in which the male members are asked to lead in prayer and give short addresses; a collection is also taken at the close of every meeting.

There is a Juvenile Association, with one hundred members; a Chintadrepetta Christian Association, which arranges lectures attended by educated Hindus; a Preachers' Association, which visited Pulicat, an old Dutch settlement twenty-five miles north of Madras, on a preaching excursion in June, 1894, travelling in a boat along the Buckingham Canal, "a red-coloured flag being hoisted with the inscription, 'India for Jesus,' which gave an ordinary ferry-boat the appearance of a missionary vessel." Pulicat is an out-station of the Northern Pastorate under the Rev. D. A. Peter. In Black Town Mr. Peter has three congregations, with some 600 members, of whom over 300 are communicants; and they contributed Rs. 1,141. A sale like that above described was held in Easter week, 1894, when Rs. 70 was realized. A Juvenile Association, with twenty-five members, who hold working-parties to assist the Church Fund, was started during the year by one of Mr. Peter's daughters. Another of his daughters, aged twenty, was removed by death in October, and it is interesting to learn that her grandmother, widow of the late Rev. V. Vedhanayagam, of North Tinnevelly, watched over and comforted her during her sickness. A voluntary catechist, named Joseph, a convert from Mysore, 6½ feet high, and having belonged to the "warrior caste," died also during the year at the age of ninety. He had been a fearless and faithful preacher of the Gospel for fifty years, and died humbly trusting in the Saviour. There are six schools in the pastorate, and one at Pulicat, with 370 pupils. An evangelist, paid by the Postal and Telegraph Christian Association, visits regularly all the post-offices, and visits some of the employés at their homes; among these he reports some earnest inquirers. The Leper Asylum, where three lepers were baptized (making twenty-eight Christian inmates), and the Central Gaol are also visited. One other adult, besides the three lepers, was baptized—namely, a man of seventy, belonging to a high-caste family in Madras, who had spent most of his life in the West Indies, and, on returning to India, was led by Christian friends in Calcutta "for the first time to the Cross of Christ." Five adults were baptized by the Rev. J. Satthianadhan of the Mount Pastorate, one being a Sepoy pensioner; and five in the Poonamallee Pastorate by the Rev. J. Gabb. In the latter pastorate two services are held every Sunday at Poonamallee, Mevelur, Valerpuram, and at Padur.

Other pastorates.

The Rev. S. John estimates that there are five or six thousand English-speaking Hindus in Madras, and it is among these that his work lies. He thus describes the attitude of their minds towards religion:—

English-speaking Hindus

> It is a stern fact, beyond all disputation, that the mind of the educated Hindu, not unlike the dove of Noah's ark, finds no rest whatever in any system of religion. They are going through all phases of thought—Atheism, Materialism, Scepticism, Theosophy, &c. With some Hindus, Rationalism and Utilitarianism form the only criteria for judging the excellency of any religion. Hence the why and the wherefore are asked for every Biblical statement. Faith should form no part of religion; Reason alone should be enthroned, and all the dogmas, teachings, and precepts should be tested by her. Also, if any religion is to be accepted, it must necessarily be productive of substantial good to the recipient. The good or benefit looked for is one of materialistic and not of spiritual character. In the midst of the deplorably divided condition of Hindus as regards their religious thoughts and sentiments, there are among them not a few who show evidences as to their real conviction and attachment to Christianity.

Hindu imitations of Mission agencies.

An attempt to set up a Hindu Young Men's Society in imitation of the Y.M.C.A. was being made at the end of 1894. But such efforts, Mr. John says, prove "transitory and evanescent in their character;" the Hindu Tract Society, referred to in previous Reports, appears to have already collapsed, while a Hindu Theological School promises to do the same. The Rev. H. D. Goldsmith is Incumbent of the English congregation which worships in Trinity Chapel, or John Pereira's, which is situated in a very central position in Madras, hard by the Central Station and the General Hospital; and he acknowledges the help in preaching and otherwise of the Revs. E. Sell and T. H. Fitzpatrick. A four days' convention was held in January, 1894, when Archdeacon Elwes presided, the Bishop of Madras being prevented by illness.

Divinity School.

Mr. Goldsmith had six students in the Divinity School. He has been much encouraged by liberal donations of several private friends for the purpose of providing scholarships for four of the students; two of these, J. Albert and V. Abraham, obtained the first and second of the Bishop's Greek Testament prizes respectively, in competition with the S.P.G. Theological College in Madras, which has sometimes taken the prizes. This is all the more creditable to these students, inasmuch as Mr. Goldsmith was unable to give them any assistance in their studies for this examination. The students take classes for domestic servants, and engage in bazaar preaching. One of the two deacons ordained on Trinity Sunday, 1894, the Rev. J. S. Peter, B.A., who was one of Mr. Goldsmith's Divinity School students, and passed first class in the Universities' Preliminary Examination for Orders in 1889, has been appointed head-master of the Harris High School, of which Mr. Sell kindly undertook the general supervision during the year, in order to relieve Mr. Fitzpatrick for language study. One of the boys passed the Madras University Matriculation, and nine the Lower Secondary Examination. In the Mohammedan Mission Mr. Goldsmith joined Mr. Fitzpatrick in the early morning bazaar preaching in Hindustani, the chief preacher being Abdulla Masehi, formerly a Moulvie, who is a good debater and has generally a ready answer for any objection that may be raised. Mr. Fitzpatrick says, "We never allow discussion, but the preacher, without taking further notice, skilfully adapts his discourse to meet the objections raised." One evening weekly Hindustani and Tamil preaching is carried on in Triplicane, when the Divinity students render assistance. The audiences here are always large and usually attentive. The Moulvie usually preaches at the Hindustani services held in the Harris School.

Mohammedan Mission.

The Rev. M. G. Goldsmith, who still continues at Hyderabad, the capital of the Nizam's dominions, in temporary connexion with the Mission of the Bishop of Madras, meets there with some score of old Harris School pupils, whom he finds without exception most respectful and ready to help. He has with him an assistant, Mr. Matthew Aaron, "a gifted Hindustani preacher," who was formerly a C.M.S. agent at Poona. Mr. Goldsmith says:—

Work at Hyderabad.

> The preaching does not excite so much opposition here as it has done in other places, and our audiences are intelligent and quiet. As far as possible we avoid discussion in the open air, but invite all who have questions to air them in the Mission-house, and many do come and talk with us there.
> In a city where it is supposed that very little would raise a flame (and in former days things were bad enough!), it can be understood how easily an alarm might be raised that Christian preaching was dangerous to the peace. We bear all this in mind, and are thankful for the glorious opportunities God has given, and are careful not to abuse them, remembering at the same time how timid friends, when we first came here, three years ago, falsely predicted that open-air preaching would never do in Hyderabad!

Two adults were baptized, one, Fuzlullah, from Madras, where it is suspected he had been drugged for expressing his wish to be a Christian; the other, Yuhanna Abdul Qadir, from Aurungabad.

NILGIRI AND WYNAAD TAMIL MISSION.

This Mission is under the charge of the Rev. A. H. Lash, who was married in October, 1894, to Miss E. Gehrich, a lady

Ootacamund. missionary of the C.E.Z.M.S. OOTACAMUND, where Mr. and Mrs. Lash reside, is one of the largest and most beautiful of the hill-stations of India, and has a large resident European population. It is the head-quarters of the military department of the Madras Presidency, and during six months of the year is also the seat of Government. The Native population is about 10,000. The principal Native Congregation meets for worship at St. Thomas's Church, which is also used by Europeans during the season, and is under the pastorship of the Rev. G. Swamiadian. Mr. Lash does not report very highly of their spiritual condition, and by his arrangement a "Convention" was held in May, when the work of the Holy Spirit was the subject of a number of addresses by several speakers. There are five day schools with 265 children, Coonoor. and five Sunday schools with 150. At Coonoor the Bishop of Madras dedicated, in June, the Church of St. John the Baptist, holding nearly 200, built without cost to the Society, mainly from funds contributed by the All Saints' English congregation during the past ten years. A coolie was baptized, poor and old, and stone blind, yet his heart wonderfully open to receive the

The Wynaad. truth. The Wynaad is an extensive district, its remotest out-station being over one hundred miles distant from Ootacamund. When Mr. Lash took charge of the work, only Gudalur, at the foot of the Nilgiri Hills, was occupied by a catechist. Now Pundalur, Vayitri, and Manantoddy have also resident agents and schools, and the prospects seem encouraging notwithstanding certain difficulties, such as the unhealthiness of the climate and the paucity of suitable agents. Generous aid and co-operation were given by the chaplain of Calicut, the Rev. F. N. Crowther, and by the planters and other civilians of the district.

II. TELUGU MISSION.

THE Rev. and Mrs. H. J. Tanner came home (on furlough) in November, 1894, and the Rev. and Mrs. H. W. Eales and Mrs. J. E. Padfield in April, 1895. The Rev. R. W. Peachey was married to Miss Lydia Barber in December, 1894.

MASULIPATAM.

Noble College, Masulipatam. The Principal of the Noble College, MASULIPATAM, the Rev. C. W. A. Clarke, remarks upon the value which the B.A. classes are proving, inasmuch as they are a means of retaining under Christian influence for two years longer the more promising students, and these are often also those in whom hope of spiritual return for patient labour especially centres. A legacy from an old Rugbeian, a regular supporter of the Rugby-Fox Fund (which supports the Rugby-Fox Master, at present the Rev. H. J. Tanner, now at home) was very acceptable, and was applied to endow a Rugby-Tomes Scholarship, to be held by the head-boy in the senior B.A. class. The Jubilee celebrations of 1893 had the effect of bringing the senior students into closer and more sympathetic contact with the missionaries. Mr. Clarke says:—

During the whole of 1894 this spirit of closer union has continued, and at no time within my experience has there been anything like the same extended sympathy and unrestrained intercourse between teachers and taught.

Mr. Clarke reserves a considerable part of Sundays for intercourse with individual boys. Of these interesting interviews, and of what he observes in the spiritual development of individual boys, he is unable to write freely, lest the account, when printed, should come under the notice of the persons concerned, and thus the privacy necessary for unrestrained communion should receive a shock. He says, however:— Intercourse with individual boys.

It is in these talks that one is compelled to dig down to the very foundations of one's religion, and to give a reason for the hope that is in one concerning even those elementary principles which most of us take for granted, and never trouble to inquire into from the point of view of reason. Nothing I have ever read has given me such a clear view of the beauty and strength of the religion of Jesus Christ as these untrammelled talks and discussions with those who approach the subject from the point of view of pure reason, without any bias for or against any particular views or doctrines; and the more I see of the inner mind of the Hindu, the more fully convinced I become that Jesus Christ is the Saviour and the Ideal that he is waiting for, and advancing towards.

He relates an experience which he had in December, which he calls "novel," and which is certainly remarkable. It should perhaps be explained that the B.A. students are not graduates, but young men preparing to go up for the University Examination for their B.A. degree:—

One of the non-Christian B.A. students, just before he went away to Madras for his examination, came and asked me whether I would say a few words of encouragement to a number of Hindu boys who had formed a Prayer Union of their own, and were in the habit of meeting twice a week to pray and to talk over religious questions. Of course I gladly agreed to go, and, on the evening arranged, I attended at the time and place appointed. I found a good-sized schoolroom, where they are accustomed to meet, full of boys and friends. The B.A. boy who had invited me conducted a little service of prayer and praise to God, interspersed with several hymns used by the Brahmo Somaj. One of the members gave a short sketch of the origin and purpose of their Prayer Union, which had been evolved from a debating society, and then I spoke to them on Prayer for about twenty minutes. I never attended a more interesting meeting, or one where I more powerfully realized the presence of God. Surely India is being drawn towards the Saviour when non-Christians meet together to worship the Father, and to seek light from Him as to the way of salvation. What went on at that little meeting is, I am convinced, but a sample of what is going on in thousands of hearts amongst the educated classes. A timid people, deficient in vital energy, held in the bonds of a social and religious slavery which cannot be realized unless it is lived amongst, whose consciences are merged in the conscience of their society—can such be made courageous, strong, and free in a few decades? A few have escaped into the glorious liberty of the Gospel. Thousands are asserting a certain degree of individual independence, and demanding social Hindu students form a "Prayer Union."

and religious liberty and reform; but the strong uprising of the race against their bondage is not yet. We wait for it with longing and prayer, and we rejoice to mark the sure signs of its coming.

Doctrine of the Atonement "foolishness."

The doctrine of the Atonement is "foolishness" to many of the more earnest among the lads. The Rev. W. C. Penn writes:—

> I remember one morning having a most interesting personal talk with my class on the words of Christ, "All power is given unto Me in heaven and in earth," and all admitted that these words had been wonderfully fulfilled in the history of the world; even the very orthodox Brahman was bound to admit this. And then three of them in turn questioned me more particularly on the Atonement, and each said that, in the sense that Christ was the greatest man that ever lived, and the highest example of all that was, or could be, divine in man, they accepted Him as their Saviour. But what puzzles them most is the substitutionary character of our Master's sufferings, as set forth in Isaiah liii., and our total inability to come to God except through Him.

The effect of Christian education in undermining the system of caste is forcibly shown by the following from Mr. Penn:—

Mission schools undermining caste.

> Just before Mr. Tanner's leaving we took about twenty or thirty boys on a house-boat for a little trip up the canal. About half of the party were Christians, and half Hindus of the more progressive type. These latter partook with us of tea, fruit, and cakes. It was quite a new departure thus to bring Christians and Hindus together in a social way, and was largely due to the enterprise of Mr. Tanner. Afterwards there were loud outcries among the orthodox seniors in the town, and attempts were made to excommunicate the whole number who had accompanied us. The boys stood firm, and resolved to suffer the excommunication. However, the Hindu seniors thought better of it, and excommunication took place in only one instance, but, pressure being brought to bear by his more moderate friends, he was received back into the paternal home after a few days, and nothing more was said.

Revival of Hinduism.

Side by side with this relaxation of caste rules, Mr. Penn says that a revival of Hinduism is observable, which he traces to the Chicago Parliament of Religions, where the representative of Hinduism, Swami Vivekananda, was accorded a very flattering reception. Three Lectures to Educated Hindus were given during the year. In February, the Bishop of Calcutta lectured on "The Noble Life;" in June Mr. Tanner's subject was "The Bible;" and in December Venkatachelam Pantula Garu, Deputy-Collector of Narasapore, attempted to meet the Hindus on their own ground of metaphysical speculation, and so combat their pantheistic views, his subject being "The Origin of the Soul." The last lecturer's knowledge of Sanskrit attracted many of the more orthodox Hindus. "Nothing evokes the sympathy of a Hindu," Mr. Penn remarks, "like a knowledge of Sanskrit."

Preparandi Institution.

The Preparandi Institution, under the Rev. J. E. Padfield, had five students in its Divinity class, and eighteen in the Normal School during the year. The Practising School had some seventy on the rolls in November. There is a training class in the Sharkey Memorial School, with seven students, who are being prepared to become mistresses of village schools. The school has fifty-seven boarders and twenty-eight day-girls. Mrs. A. E. Goodman assumed charge of the school on Mrs. Padfield's leaving to come home.

Pastorates.

The work of the Pastorates connected with the District Council—of which the Rev. A. E. Goodman is now the chairman, in succession to Mr. Padfield—has assigned to it three ordained Native pastors (the Revs. M. David, G. H. Asirvatham, and G. Anandayya), and thirty-seven catechists and teachers. For the past three or four years Mr. Padfield has had occasion to lament over the conduct of some of the Christians. It is a special satisfaction to the Committee to read in his last Annual Letter that, while there is still "much to mourn over," there is on the whole a "marked improvement." For the first nine months of 1894 the contributions amounted to Rs. 956 (not including a sum of Rs. 500 to be referred to below), more than was contributed during the whole of 1888, when Mr. Padfield took charge of the district. The total number of baptized Christians at the end of September (when the returns are made) was 2,266, and the catechumens 504; those on the communicants' roll numbered 389, as compared with 308 in 1893, mainly owing to the restoration of seventy-three of those excommunicated in 1893. There were sixty-six adults baptized between January and September, most of the accessions being from the out-caste Malas and Mádigas. The congregation at Tummalapalli, in the Gudivada Taluq, raised by subscription Rs. 500 towards the erection of a new church, to be called the "Bhushanam Memorial Church," the Rev. A. Bhushanam having laboured in the district. It will be the first pukka church in the district, all the others being of what Mr. Padfield calls the "Early Indian" style of architecture—namely, "oblong and barn-like as to shape and appearance, and of mud and thatch and jungle-wood as to material." Eighty-five people were baptized in this village on one day, January 29, 1894, of whom forty-five were adults. In the case of the majority immersion was the form adopted, but in the case of the very young children and of two invalid adults the ceremony was by pouring or sprinkling. Two others, a man and his wife, were baptized two days later.

BEZWADA AND ELLORE.

Bezwada.

Fifty-two adults were baptized in the BEZWADA district. The Rev. J. Harrison refers to two high-caste inquirers who both proved disappointing. The feeling appears to be common among the caste people in the villages, the Rev. R. W. Peachey says, that Christianity is for Malas and Mádigas only. He adds: "If caste were not such a hindrance, it would be amusing when a dirty, unkempt Sanyasi makes a détour to avoid your shadow for fear it should pollute him." The Tiroor pastorate, of which the Rev. B. Daniel is the pastor, has recently been placed under the Bezwada District Council; a large part of it is in the Nizam's territory, and part also in the Godavery district. It is full of jungle and mountains. The Christians are much oppressed by the landowners by whom they are employed. The High School, under the Rev. D. Anantam, teaches up to the matriculation standard of Madras University. The Itinerators traversed the whole of the C.M.S. district, spending on an average twenty days of each month on tour.

Ellore. The Rev. F. W. N. Alexander writes with thankfulness that the year under review in the ELLORE district saw many backsliders restored, and more baptisms than had occurred for several previous years. A whole family which apostatized fourteen years since and bound themselves in writing never to return to the fold of Christ, were led by a relative—one of the Native pastors—to seek restoration. Twenty-three adults were baptized. The difficulty, Mr. Alexander says, is not to find people to baptize, but to restrain very many who desire baptism but are not prepared for it—either as to knowledge or as to experience of the grace of God. The Rev. J. C. J. Pavey, who went to Ellore in the autumn of 1894 to assist Mr. Alexander for a few months, says he found on arriving in one village that nearly the whole body of inquirers were engaged in cock-fighting! The Boys' Boarding School at Ellore has 27 pupils, of ages from 10 to 18. The High School, like the Harris School at Madras, is especially for Mohammedans. It received an excellent report for its discipline. The Inspector wrote: "As regards discipline the Ellore school beats every other institution I know." In March, 1894, the Bishop of Madras presided at the prize-giving.

RAGHAVAPURAM AND KUMMAMETT.

Raghavapuram. The Rev. H. W. Eales, who has come home, and has been succeeded by the Rev. J. C. J. Pavey, had charge of the RAGHAVAPURAM district, and two Native clergymen in Priest's Orders, the Revs. J. Ephraim and A. Sabbarayudu, are at Raghavapuram and Jaggiapet respectively. Some fifty Native lay agents are also at work in the district. There are two boarding schools, for girls with sixteen boarders, and for boys with fourteen. The church at Raghavapuram is the largest in the Telugu Mission; it has been adorned by a handsome teak pulpit, the gift of the Rev. T. Y. Darling—the first missionary in the district—and his friends during the year. The men attend the Sunday morning services, and the women in the evening; the reason assigned for not attending both services is that they have no doors to their houses, but some have bought doors, and others are hoping to do so. Mr. Ephraim found that many of the Christians in their private prayers merely repeated the Lord's Prayer, and he has started a daily prayer meeting, partly with the view to help and encourage them to pray with freedom and spontaneity. In his pastorate Mr. Ephraim has thirteen Christian villages, and three others in which there are inquirers; there are altogether 578 Christians, 108 communicants, and 79 inquirers. There appears to be a desire on the part of many Heathen who have no wish to be instructed, much less to be baptized, to get enrolled as inquirers for the sake of being interred after death in the Christian cemetery, "which they consider to be safe and less expensive." The names of such are being gradually removed, which probably accounts for the fall in the number of catechumens from 883 in 1893 to 625. As a test of sincerity, before a teacher is sent to reside in a new village where there are inquirers, these are required to purchase a piece of land and put up a prayer-house.

No doors to their houses!

The congregations in the KUMMAMETT district have advanced, the Rev. J. B. Panes says, in Scripture knowledge, and the contributions also were increased notwithstanding wide-spread scarcity and a bad harvest. There was no need for the exercise of discipline. Around Kummamett there are 162 Christians in eleven villages. The convert from Mohammedanism, in a village twelve miles from Kummamett, who has been referred to in the Annual Reports for 1892–93 and 1893–94, has suffered much persecution, but his fearless testimony has been blessed to many, and fifteen are under instruction in that place. Around Gopavaram 193 baptized Christians and 283 catechumens are found in fifteen villages, in which eight lay evangelists are engaged. Some of the oldest congregations in the Kummamett district are found there, who received the Gospel from Venkayya, the first Raghavapuram convert. Under the Rev. R. David, who resides at Kalukudem, there are 147 Christians and sixty-seven catechumens in nine villages.

DUMMAGUDEM.

The Rev. J. Cain in his Annual Letter corrects an impression which he believes is widely prevalent, that the work in the DUMMAGUDEM district is mainly among the Kois. He says:—

Dummagudem.

> The condition of the Kois attracted the attent on, and awoke the tender sympathy, of the early founders of this Mission; but the Kois have been slow to accept the Gospel, whilst Hindus, mostly of lower origin, have believed the message, and form the main element of the Christian Church. The Koi work is one department of Mission work here; but, alas! the want of good men, who can apply themselves solely to that language, has hindered the proper evangelization of that tribe. If the work at the very first had been carried on in that language, and the wants of that people had been the sole care of the missionary, it is possible that there might have been large ingatherings, and a Koi Church might have been established; but it would have been a caste Church, into which no others would have been admitted, and thus been governed wholly by an exclusive spirit, utterly contrary to the teaching of our Lord. But the work was carried on necessarily in the Telugu language, and others pressed into the fold, and the Kois form a very insignificant element therein.

The Rev. I. V. Rázu becomes increasingly infirm with age, and his failing eyesight is an additional disablement, so that the clerical duties, except in the Malkanagiri Taluq, fall on Mr. Cain. Caste feeling is strong in Dummagudem, and appears to get stronger. The Vaisyas have withdrawn their boys from the Mission School mainly on this ground, and opened a rival school, pleading as one reason that their children were growing up knowing more about the Christian religion than about their own. Mr. Cain gives the following amusing illustration of the pride of caste, in the words of a young Christian of Turkalagudem:—

The false pride of caste.

Not many days ago I was going to my work at Kunavaram, when I saw a caste man struggling helplessly in the mud under a large tree. He called me to go and help him, but I declined, as such men, when they come to their senses, frequently accuse those who render them aid of robbing them. However, he assured me that he had no money on his person, and I went, and after a great deal of trouble set him upon his feet, and we started off to go to his home. On the way he begged me to leave him to stand alone if any caste people came along the road, as it would never do for them to see him leaning on me, such defilement would get him into trouble. He was a very big, heavy man, and I am only small and weak, but at last we reached his house in safety. The next morning I went to see him, and he was so grateful that he offered two annas' worth of the liquor which had rendered him helpless the night before. But I told him that my Heavenly Father forbade me to take it, so he gave some grain instead. It was not a sin for him to get drunk, but he thought it a sin to be seen leaning on me.

Social persecution ceased.

In the Malkanagiri and Rampa Taluqs, some one hundred miles from Dummagudem, the fierce, social persecution which formerly manifested itself against Christianity has ceased. The Rev. M. Gnanasigamoni Pillai was hindered by ill-health from visiting the Christians in Rampa, where the work progresses. Mr. Cain refers to an aged Christian who gave up his daily habit, indulged during twenty-five years, of taking an opium pill under the following circumstances:—

Victory over habit of using opium.

Last Christmastide (1893) I dwelt, in one of my sermons, on the necessity of being ready for the return of our Lord, taking a verse from St. Luke as my text. A good old man from Rampa, eighty miles away, was impressed, and thought to himself, "For twenty-five years past I have taken one or two pills of opium every day. I took them as medicine, but now I cannot do without them. I have become a slave to them, and the worst of it is that in the evening at prayer-time I am so sleepy that I cannot keep awake. This is not right, I will leave off at once." He came to Mrs. Cain, and asked her to give him certain remedies in case of exhaustion and pain, and she watched the case with great interest. His journey home was a rough and trying one, up and down hill, and we did not feel at all sure that ere he reached his village, ten days later, he might not succumb to temptation, and resume his former habit. Six weeks afterwards, when we visited his village, we found him rejoicing in his liberty, and now, everywhere he goes, he tells with delight how Christ has set him free. He is one of the happiest old men we know. When we last saw him he was speaking of the joy he had in following Christ, and remarked about a great friend of his, "Ah, B—— is a firm, steadfast, brave Christian, but he has not the joy he ought to have in his life." B—— is rather like Martha, "troubled about many things," whilst the old man reminds us more of Mary. "A happy old man."

III. TINNEVELLY.

The Rev. and Mrs. T. Kember came home in June, 1894, and the Rev. and Mrs. E. S. Carr in May, 1895. The Rev. and Mrs. H. J. Schaffter sailed to rejoin the Mission in December.

The Bishop of Calcutta, as Metropolitan, visited Tinnevelly at the beginning of 1894, and on February 1, at Palamcotta, he met a number of S.P.G. and C.M.S. clergymen and laymen and discussed with them the subject of the proposed Tinnevelly Bishopric. The following resolution was adopted :— Tinnevelly Bishopric.

On the understanding that the proposed arrangement for the Episcopal supervision of Tinnevelly and Madura has the cordial approval of the Bishop of Madras and maintains our constitutional connexion with the Diocese of Madras, this meeting is prepared cordially to accept such proposal and to render all due obedience to the Assistant Bishop who may be chosen by the Bishop of Madras to act in his stead.

In the following summer it was announced that the Bishop of Madras had nominated the Ven. W. W. Elwes, Archdeacon of Madras, and the announcement was hailed with thankfulness by the Committee, as Archdeacon Elwes has long been a member of the Madras Corresponding Committee, and was known to take a warm interest in the Society's work in Tinnevelly. The Tinnevelly Missionary Conference, which met in October under the chairmanship of the Rev. T. Walker, also expressed their thankfulness, and sent to the Archdeacon an assurance of a warm welcome when he should enter upon his new duties. Difficulties to the consummation of the appointment have, however, intervened, for which a solution has not yet been found, and the Committee can only invite prayer that guidance may be vouchsafed to all concerned, and that the issue may be for the glory of God and the extension of His Kingdom. Nomination of Archdeacon Elwes.

At the request of the Bishop of Madras, Bishop Hodges of Travancore visited Tinnevelly in January and February, 1894. He dedicated new churches at Panagudy, Virdupatty, and Karisal, and confirmed 2,471 candidates at twenty-one different centres. Visit of Bishop Hodges,

In March the Revs. E. N. Thwaites and Martin J. Hall paid a fortnight's visit, and held special missions at Palamcotta, Mengnanapuram, and Panneivilei. The Rev. E. A. Douglas wrote :— and of Revs. E. N. Thwaites and M. J. Hall, Never, I am informed, in the whole history of the Tamil Church in Tinnevelly have so many Hindus been present in a church dedicated to the worship of the true God as were present at the last of the evangelistic services held at Palamcotta. It was an inspiring sight. I looked down from the gallery where the boys of the High School sit. The central aisle was, on the men's side, largely filled with Hindus, several with their idol-marks on their foreheads, conspicuous for not bending the knee in prayer, and yet sitting there listening to the homely and vigorous presentation of the Gospel.

"Who will perform my funeral rites?"

Amongst others I have cause to thank God for the Mission; for two of my servants, both Heathen, whose souls I had sought for long, stood up in the church and declared themselves ready to trust themselves to Jesus. In the case of one his mother had for long been his hindrance. "Who will perform my funeral rites, my son, if you become a Christian?" had been her frequent lament. But at the Mission he crossed the line and came to Jesus. I had the joy of baptizing both these men on Palm Sunday.

Pastorates.

All the Pastorates are connected with one District Church Council, of which the Rev. T. Walker is the chairman, and the Revs. E. S. Carr and E. A. Douglas are vice-chairmen. Mr. Walker testifies to the wisdom and love with which the work of the Council was guided—chiefly by Mr. Carr—during his absence in England in 1893. The Native secretary, Mr. T. Simeon, sends a valuable report of the Council for 1894, with statistics of the fifteen circles in which the pastorates are grouped.

Statistical returns.

The agents of the Council consist of 58 Native clergymen, 183 catechists, 385 schoolmasters, and 165 schoolmistresses. There are 13,251 children in the schools (of whom 10,824 are boys), and the result grants earned amounted to Rs. 6,728, while Rs. 1,490 were received from fees. The contributions to the Native Church Fund amounted to Rs. 22,539, besides which Rs. 15,382 was contributed as church fees and special collections, and a further sum of Rs. 1,336 as special harvest thankofferings. The contributions show an increase of Rs. 4,332 over those of 1893. The statistical returns give the adherents as 51,337, baptized Christians as 47,940, and communicants as 12,696. The third only of these three items shows an increase on the figures of 1893, viz., of 44; the first and second show a decrease of 1,333 and 186 respectively. The report accounts for these decreases as follows:—

A stricter discipline.

The decrease in the number of adherents is due chiefly to the fact that many names of unbaptized persons have been struck off our registers on account of their unwillingness to receive the rite of baptism, even after a probation of several years. The Council considers it better to follow a stricter discipline in this respect than has been in vogue in the past. This decrease is rather apparent therefore than real, and does not affect the true numerical strength of the Native church.

The decrease in the number of baptized is more serious, especially in face of the fact that no less than 540 adult baptisms have taken place in the year, to say nothing of children. This decrease is due partly to the large number of excommunications which have been effected by the Bishop's order, on account of marriage irregularities. A strict policy in this respect is now maintained, and we dare to believe that it is the truest way to real progress, notwithstanding an apparent diminution in numbers. Even granting this, there is a leakage somewhere which is unaccounted for in the returns which have been made from the various pastorates. Strict inquiries are being set on foot with a view to discover the reasons for this sudden discrepancy in the statistics; and we trust next year to be able to present more reliable and intelligible figures.

Regarding the increased contributions referred to above, which relate only to what was given for the maintenance of pastoral work among the congregations connected with the Council, Mr. Walker says that gifts for evangelistic purposes also show an encouraging advance. Three times yearly in every congregation collections are made for the Native Missionary Association, which, besides superintending evangelistic work in Tinnevelly, supports two agents among the Todas, a tribe in the Nilgiri Hills. At the suggestion, too, of one of the Native clergy, there were general collections in all the churches on Good Friday for the London Jews' Society, with the result that Rs. 300 were sent up. Harvest Festivals, the first of which was held at Sachiapuram in 1891, become year by year more popular. During 1894 they were held in five centres: at Mengnanapuram, Suviseshapuram, Nallur, Sachiapuram, and Dohnavur. Those at Suviseshapuram and at Dohnavur were the first held in those places. Dohnavur is the head-quarters of the southernmost circle in the Mission, and derived its present name (the former one was Paliakkurichi) from a Mr. Dohna, a German count, who provided a place of worship for the Christians. These festivals are always made the occasion for a series of devotional meetings.

Harvest Festivals.

The pastoral letter of Bishop Gell has been already referred to and in part quoted (see supra, p. 195). Mr. Walker explains the circumstances which gave rise to the pastoral and to some immediate effects:—

Action taken to prevent the use of caste titles in the House of God.

For some time it has been felt that some action ought to be taken in the matter of banishing caste titles from the House of God. From the very beginning of the Tinnevelly Mission, even before the C.M.S. entered upon the field, the use of these caste titles by converts has been allowed in the Native Church. Not only so, but it became from the first the custom to affix these titles to the names of those whose marriage banns were called in the House of God. The consequence has been that many of our Christians had come to regard this as a prerogative of Tamil Churchmen. Now it is quite true, as I believe, that the Christians of to-day attach no religious significance to the titles in question. So far from savouring of Hinduism in their estimation, they indignantly repudiate any such idea, and even deny the Heathen origin of the appellations, claiming for them a purely racial or social significance. Moreover, the titles are tenaciously clung to, even by those upon whose piety we should be sorry to cast even the suspicion of a doubt. Well, after a great deal of deliberation on the subject on the part of those in authority (the Metropolitan came to Palamcotta at the beginning of this year, and held special consultations on the question), it was decided that, while it seemed alike impossible and undesirable to issue prohibitions as regards the use of caste titles by the people in their social life (any reform in that direction to be effectual must spring from a right feeling on the subject on the part of the Native Christians themselves), yet it was both desirable and necessary to forbid the use of all such titles in the House of God. Accordingly, a special pastoral, with specific orders on the subject, was issued by the Bishop of Madras a short time ago. This order met with a great deal of opposition, especially here in Palamcotta. Rather than submit to it, one little group of Christians, and those, I am sorry to say, men of some social importance, have banded themselves together to oppose the due order of our Church, and at present are conducting their own marriages before the Government Registrar. They profess to base their action upon principle, and claim that the ecclesiastical authorities have no right to force such orders upon Native churches. But, of course, the outside Christian world will form its own estimate of the significance of the action. It is not my province to dogmatize about caste. I have all along been mystified by it, at least in that form in which it exists among Christians here, many of whom know little, if anything, about Hinduism. At the same time, when we see, as we do see, those who call themselves by the holy Name of Christ ally themselves with the Heathen rather than marry into a different caste; when we see, as we do see, a sad lack of that brotherly love among Christians which the Master Himself ordained as the great sign of true discipleship; when we see, as we do see, Christians pushing their way to front seats in church, in order to show their claims to social equality, or even superiority—I confess that my heart sinks within me, and that there can be but one right verdict on the subject, viz. that this is not the spirit of Christ. Truthfulness requires, further, that I should report the continuance among us of marriage irregularities, arising largely, I fear, from considerations of caste or family. In spite of the special effort made last year in the form of a general day of humiliation, there have been a considerable number of excommunications again this year.

Influence of caste in the Church.

Will it be thought that I have purposely drawn a pessimistic picture of the state of the Tinnevelly Church? Perhaps some will even think that the writer's liver is out of order. Be it so. The object of a missionary's letter, I take it, is to speak, so far as he is able, the unvarnished truth about his work. At the same time, please do not think for a moment that I am in a despairing mood. We have plenty to encourage us. There is abundant reason to thank God and take courage. Not for a single moment do we doubt His power and presence among us. Not for a single moment do we forget that we are surrounded on every side by lives which He has raised from the mire of Heathenism to be living witnesses to His grace. Not for a single moment would we lose sight of those faithful Native fellow-workers who are commending the Gospel of Christ by lip and life.

"Plenty to encourage."

Mr. Carr's testimony is to the same effect, as to features both of discouragement and of hopefulness, as is that of Mr. Walker. He visited every congregation in the Dohnavur and Seval circles in the summer, and mentions a congregation at Vandalampadu which had left the communion of the Church of Rome, and had to bear much persecution in consequence. Later, he visited the congregations in the Panneivilei circle, and was much struck by finding a woman of the age of 46 who had never been married because she would not marry a Heathen. "Only those who know India," Mr. Carr adds, "know what that means." At another place he found a congregation of Kuruvars, a people of very low caste, and generally of very low morals, whose employment is feeding pigs, and they live in huts outside the villages. Mr. Douglas visited the congregations in the Nallur, Surandei, Pannikulam, and a great part of the Suviseshapuram circles. The state of things in parts of Nallur compares very unfavourably with what it was a few years ago,

A congregation leaves the communion of the Church of Rome.

A woman who remained unmarried rather than marry a Heathen.

Alankulam there were over 2,000 Christians, now there are only 200; and the decrease is largely owing to excommunications, because of irregular marriages. This is by far the worst example he gives, but he instances three other villages where the decrease is marked. He adds, however:— Marriage irregularities at Nallur.

> Yet side by side with these signs of seeming decay there are signs of life. In several places new churches are being raised. By the Bishop's permission I dedicated the new church at Metur, towards which the congregation themselves subscribed Rs. 1,185. School work, too, is kept to the front, and a more liberal spirit is being evoked.

The membership of the Children's Scripture Union increased from 2,000 to 3,000; and the Rev. L. G. Scott Price, whom one of the Native pastors calls "the Apostle of the Children," refers to two children's missioners, supported by voluntary Native and other contributions, who are "doing a blessed work in leading young souls to the loving Saviour." Children's Scripture Union.

The Revs. E. A. Douglas and P. G. Simeon, B.A., are joint-secretaries of the Missionary Association, which is managed by a committee appointed by the District Council. The objects of the Association are—to deepen missionary interest, to send out labourers to other parts, and to superintend the work of the Jones Fund evangelists. The Jones Fund evangelists are twenty in number; they are located at certain large Heathen centres, and spend all their time in evangelistic, as distinguished from pastoral, work. During the month of May four bands of these agents took each a different part of the district for itineration. With one of these bands was a convert who was baptized at the beginning of 1894, the brother-in-law of the Zemindar of Sivagiri, in whose conversion one of the evangelists found a fulfilment of the prophecy, "The wolf shall dwell with the lamb." Another of the bands went under the leadership of the Rev. P. David, a Native clergyman, well versed in the Hindu Shasters, and visited 152 villages in the Dohnavur district. The evangelists all met for special devotional exercises at Palamcotta in October. Missionary Association. Jones Fund evangelists.

The Rev. A. N. C. Storrs superintended the Itinerancy during the early months of the year; and after him the Rev. J. McLeod Hawkins. Mr. Storrs records a very merciful deliverance which Mrs. Storrs and he had on one occasion:— Itinerancy.

> We were going to church in a bandy whose driver was a raw hand, and the bullocks evidently unaccustomed to the yoke. They ran away, and were making straight for an open canal, into which there was a fall of nearly thirty feet above the level of the water. Almost on the very edge, by God's great mercy, one bullock fell down, with its head and forepart actually hanging over the side, and the bandy came to a standstill. A merciful escape.

The itinerants were engaged most of the year in extensive tours, with varying degrees of encouragement. Mr. Hawkins refers to three Brahmans, whom he conversed with at different places, who appeared to be secret inquirers; and he adds, "Were it not for the assurance that it is the Shepherd Himself Who finds His lost sheep, what a 'work of regrets' itinerating would be! So vast is the field and so few are the labourers that years may elapse before an opportunity occurs of seeing these men again." A former head-master of the Tenkasi mission-school was one of the itinerators, and when the band visited Tenkasi his presence proved most helpful, securing from all an attentive hearing—an example of the indirect influence, Mr. Hawkins says, of educational upon itinerating work. Lectures were delivered to educated natives in Tinnevelly town by different missionaries.

Indirect influence of educational on itinerating work.

Literary work.

Mr. Krishna Pillai, who is engaged on the Society's staff for Literary Work, has written a rendering in elegant Tamil poetry of Pilgrim's Progress, which the Christian Literature Society has published. Mr. Walker writes of it as a "remarkable book." The Rev. S. Paul wrote a Life of Christ, which the Tract Society published. This is Mr. Paul's tenth work, besides eleven books which he has translated, and which have been published by various societies. He has written for publication altogether some 140 different treatises. The Bishop of Madras is anxious to see his labours recognized by a Lambeth degree.

A remarkable book.

Preparandi Institution.

The Preparandi Institution at PALAMCOTTA was under the Rev. A. N. C. Storrs, who spent two hours daily in lecturing to the senior and junior theological classes. The Girls' Boarding School has nearly one hundred girls, most of them daughters of mission agents. The Boys' High School celebrated its jubilee on October 17, 1894, as it was established in 1844 by the late Mr. W. Cruickshanks, the blind but exceedingly efficient Eurasian schoolmaster. The school commenced in a hired house with 25 pupils. One of the first converts was the late Rev. W. T. Satthianadhan. Funds were raised in honour of the jubilee to replace the furniture and apparatus in the school by more modern articles, and these were made at the S.P.G. Industrial School at Nazareth. The Rev. F. W. Breed says of the jubilee celebrations:—

Jubilee of Boys' High School.

> The premises were all highly decorated in truly Indian fashion, with flags, coloured paper, hangings of leaves, palm-branches, fruit, &c. At 8 A.M. we met together to thank our Heavenly Father for fifty years' work and many blessings received during that time. One of the teachers, who has been connected with the institution for upwards of thirty years, recalled pleasant reminiscences of Mr. Cruickshanks and the days that are gone. Another told the audience something of the work in later years. At noon we again assembled, this time for the purpose of listening to addresses from men who had themselves been brought to Christ through educational Mission agencies. One of these, an old deputy-collector, remembered the school from the very commencement. Another told, in language that called forth all the sympathy of our hearts, of the hindrances and persecutions he had had to meet in coming to Christ, and how he had persevered until he is now a highly respected head-master of one of our boarding-schools.

All the eight boys sent up to the Lower Secondary Examination (corresponding, Mr. Breed says, to the seventh standard in an English elementary school) passed, four in the first class; and four, out of eight sent up, passed the [redacted] University Matriculation. Five boys appeared for the Peter Cator Scripture Prize Examination, one of whom gained a prize and the rest first-class certificates. Two boys had to be expelled for misdemeanours.

Tinnevelly College.

In the town of TINNEVELLY the Rev. L. G. Scott Price continued to act as principal of the College until the return of the Rev. H. J. Schaffter. He remarks that as the school year advances the students become less captious and more inclined to listen, and many indications are afforded that a real impression is being made on their minds. He mentions a youth of high caste who applied to be admitted into the Christian Hostel, knowing that his doing so would lead to a breach of caste and his being disowned by his relatives. He was admitted and placed under instruction. His family, on receiving the news by telegram, arrived in a body; "his father entreated, his brothers threatened, his mother and sister clung round him and wept." He continued firm, but soon after he was kidnapped and taken back to his own village, and did not return. The last news heard of him was that he continued stedfast in his faith in Christ, but had been forced to put on his caste marks. Mr. R. F. Ardell mentions two high-caste students of the Senior F.A. Class, whose parents suspected them of a desire to confess Christ, and withdrew them from the College; one became a Government clerk, and the other went to Burmah, where he hoped to find it easier to become a Christian. The student referred to last year by Mr. Ardell (see Annual Report, 1893-4, page 159), whose parents had removed him to the Hindu College, where, Mr. Ardell says, he "boldly stood up for Christ," returned to the Mission College at the beginning of 1894, bringing seven Brahman class-mates with him. This student was forced by his father to marry as a preventive of his confessing Christ in baptism, but he is instructing his wife, and hopes shortly to bring her with him to the Font. This is the case also with another high-caste student of the same class. Mr. Douglas gave a short series of Gospel lectures to the English-speaking students, and he says, "I never think of that College without thanking God for the workers there." Two Anglo-Vernacular Schools are under the Principal of the College; one is at Tenkasi (which means "South Benares"), where Hinduism is at its height, yet where, at the prize distribution, a Hindu gentleman gave public expression of the gratitude of the Hindus of the town for the school. The [redacted] is at Srivaiguntum, and there a youth was baptized, of whom Mr. Scott Price says:—

A high-caste youth breaks caste.

Others instructing their wives in Christianity.

A Hindu gentleman expresses gratitude for a Mission school.

Suffering the loss of all things for Christ's sake.

He had become so convinced of the truth of Christ's claims, that as soon as he came of age he came out and was baptized. His parents did everything they could to stop him, but in vain. He stood firm, and witnessed a noble confession, gladly suffering the loss of all things that he might possess and be possessed by Christ. His parents even took away his books from him, and his clothes. He was supported for a time by Christians at Palamcotta, and now is studying at our college.

Elliot Tuxford School.

At MENGNANAPURAM is the Elliot Tuxford Girls' School, with 140 boarders and 31 day pupils, under Mrs. and Miss Thomas, and Miss E. C. Vines. Eight pupils proceeded to the Sarah Tucker Institution, five to be trained as teachers, and three to study for the Madras University Matriculation. The Boys' High School, with 112 pupils, is under the Native clergyman, the Rev. A. V. Thomas. The Rev. M. H. Cooksley treated 6,810 patients at the Dispensary.

TRAVANCORE AND COCHIN MISSION.

The Mission in the semi-independent Native States of Travancore and Cochin, which occupy a narrow strip of country on the south-western coast of India, between the Ghaut mountains and the sea, was established in 1816 at the invitation of Colonel Munro, the British Resident. For twenty years it was worked by Benjamin Bailey, Joseph Fenn, Henry Baker, sen., and others, mainly with a view to the reform of the ancient Malabar Syrian Church, which claims to have been founded by the Apostle St. Thomas. Since 1837 the missionaries have worked independently, the result of which has been not only the adhesion of many Syrians to the purer worship of the Church of England, but an active reforming movement within their own Church, which was much fostered by the late Metran, Mar Athanasius. The labours of Peet, Hawksworth, H. Baker, jun., and others, among the Heathen, particularly the lowest castes and the Hill Arrians, have been also greatly blessed. Allepie was occupied in 1816; Cottayam, 1817; Cochin, 1817; Mavelikára, 1839; Trichur, 1842; Pallam, 1845; Tiruwella, 1849; Kunnankulam, 1854; the Arrian Mission, 1855; and the Alwaye Itinerancy, 1881.

On July 25, 1879, the Rev. J. M. Speechly, a C.M.S. Missionary and for some time Principal of the Cambridge Nicholson Institution, was consecrated first Bishop of Travancore and Cochin. On his resignation in 1889 the Rev. E. N. Hodges was nominated to the See, and was consecrated on April 25, 1890.

Reinforcement.

THE Rev. Francis Nowell Askwith, M.A., Queens' College, Cambridge, Curate of Christ Church, Derby, brother of Mrs. D. J. McKenzie, of the Punjab Mission, and of Miss A. J. Askwith, of the C.E.Z.M.S., Principal of the Sarah Tucker Institution, Tinnevelly, sailed in October to join the Mission; he was married on April 2, 1895, to Miss Emily Benigna Sheldon, daughter of the Rev. J. Sheldon (Rector of Atlow in Kent), for twenty-seven years a missionary of the Society in Sindh, and sister of the Rev. A. H. Sheldon, of the Tinnevelly Mission. Bishop and Mrs. Hodges, who came home in May, 1894, returned to the Mission the following November; and the Rev. and Mrs. W. J. Richards sailed in May, 1895, to return to the Mission. The Rev. and Mrs. A. J. French Adams came home in April, 1895.

Ordinations.

The Bishop admitted the Revs. J. Thompson, T. I. Abraham, K. M. Matthan, and T. K. Ninan to Priest's Orders on March 10, 1894, at Cottayam; and Messrs. T. K. Benjamin and K. T. Koshi to Deacon's Orders on March 24.

Death of Rev. A. J. Jacob.

The Rev. A. J. Jacob, pastor of Kunnankulam, died in September, 1894.

Testimony of a Brahman gentleman to Mission work among depressed classes.

The following testimony to the work of missionaries among the depressed classes occurs in a report on the 1891 census of Travancore, which was compiled by a Brahman gentleman, Mr. V. Nagam Aiyar, and the value of which was specially recognized by the Maharajah of Travancore, who presented the author with an honorarium of Rs. 2,000:—

> By the unceasing efforts and self-denying earnestness of the learned body of the Christian missionaries in the country, the large community of Native Christians are rapidly advancing in their moral, intellectual, and material condition. . . . Those who have directly come under their influence, such as Native Christians, have nearly doubled the number of their literates since 1875. But for them these humble orders of Hindu society would for ever remain unraised. Their material condition, I dare say, would have improved with the increased wages, improved labour market, better laws, and more generous treatment from an enlightened Government like ours; but to the Christian missionaries belongs the credit of having gone to their humble dwellings, and awakened them to a sense of a better earthly existence. This action of the missionaries was not a mere improvement upon ancient history, a kind of polishing and refining of an existing model, but an entirely original idea, conceived and carried out with commendable zeal and oftentimes in the teeth of opposition and persecution. I do not refer to the emancipation of the slave, or the amelioration of the labourer's condition; for these always existed more or less in our past humane governments. But the heroism of raising the low from the slough of degradation and debasement was an element of civilization unknown to ancient India.

Pastorates. Archdeacon J. Caley, during the Bishop's absence, presided at the District Council meetings, and visited the Pastorates. The number of baptized Christians connected with the Northern and Southern District Councils is 18,633, and of catechumens 1,755, showing an increase on the previous year of 986 and 245 respectively. New churches were built or completed during the year at Cottayam, Mavelikára, Pallam, Olesha, Changanachery, Mallapalli, Kannit, Kattanam, and Tallawadi. At Arpukara, it is mentioned, the congregation have passed a rule that any of their number absenting themselves from church on three consecutive Sundays shall be required to stand outside the church on the fourth Sunday! The Rev. K. Kuruwella, of Cochin, lost his wife, who had been a pupil of Mrs. Peet between 1848 and 1854. "She lived for Christ and died in Christ," her husband writes. The Rev. M. C. Thoma, of Elantur, mentions a Y.M.C.A. at Prakanam, the members of which are poor day labourers, but they meet on five evenings a week after their day's work is over for prayer, and then the leaders teach the others to read. In the Kodawalaniya pastorate each of the congregations is divided into prayer-meeting circles consisting of about twelve families, and prayer-meetings for men and women separately are held in each circle monthly.

Punishment for irregular attendance at public worship.

"Lived for Christ and died in Christ."

Special Mission of Rev. T. Walker. The Rev. T. Walker, of the Tinnevelly Mission, accompanied by Mrs. Walker, who rendered valuable assistance, visited the Mission in August and September, 1894, and held Special Missions at Kannit, Putupalli, Mavelikára, Tiruwella, Cottayam, Cochin, Trichur, and Kunnankulam, holding day by day a shortened morning service with sermon and after-meeting, a prayer meeting and address in the afternoon (taken usually by the Rev. J. H. Bishop), and an evangelistic service in the evening. The Rev. T. K. Joseph, pastor of Kodawalaniya, was Mr. Walker's interpreter. Mr. Bishop writes:—

God's blessing rested on this Mission from beginning to end. The weather was favourable. There was no break-down, no hitch in the arrangements. The programme was carried out to the letter. The services were all well attended, and in many instances the churches were crowded. The people seemed deeply in earnest and much impressed. They were faithfully dealt with in the after-meetings. The intense earnestness of the preacher, his easy, flowing style, striking anecdotes and illustrations well driven home, and, above all, the truth of the Gospel so faithfully and fully preached, evidently produced a profound impression, and, as reports of the Mission preceded us, the interest seemed to increase as we went from place to place.

Mr. Walker himself wrote after his visit:—

What I saw of the C.M.S. work in Travancore filled my heart with much thankfulness. The signs of unrest and quickening among the Syrians, the establishment by the reformed party of a Native Missionary Society of their own, the remarkable movement which is now everywhere visible among the depressed classes, the ready response which I found on all sides to the great truths of the Gospel, the evident desire on the part of many of the Christians for something higher and better than their present attainments, the frequent inquiry with which I was accosted, "How can I get victory over sin? How can I learn to read my Bible with profit?"—all these, I take it, are auguries of hope for the future. True, there are also little clouds of anxiety visible in the blue sky, but God's grace can disperse them all. I look back on my visit with much thankfulness and pleasure, and pray God to make the Travancore Church "a joy and a praise in the earth."

At Kannit some of the leaders of the now expiring Six Years' Party attended the services, and three families of that party were led to a decision at the Mission, and were afterwards publicly admitted to the Church. At Mavelikára over one thousand people were present in and around the church; and it is mentioned that a young man who had before been cold and indifferent took up work zealously for Christ, and that a man and his nephew who had been at variance were reconciled. The recently enlarged church at Tiruwella could not hold the two thousand who were present, including many Syrians and some Hindus. Some of the after-meetings at this place were "intensely solemn, and all caste feeling was obliterated as souls, under deep conviction of sin, knelt together seeking pardon and peace." "On one occasion," Mr. Bishop says, "some Syrians from Rânni belonging to the Unreformed Party were so distressed that, after the service was over at 10 P.M., they came to the bungalow seeking further help." Several Syrian deacons at Cottayam, students in the Cambridge Nicholson Institution, sought interviews with the Mission preacher.

Two thousand present.

Intensely solemn after-meetings.

The Rev. W. J. Richards, in a valuable article in the C.M. Intelligencer for March 1895, remarks as follows on the accessibility of the two branches of the Syrian Christian community in Travancore:—

There is one characteristic common to both the Reformers and the Patriarch's party, and that is one which makes our position in the country particularly useful, namely, that they regard the missionaries as friends. Whether it be the Winter Mission conducted by Messrs. Baring-Gould and Gilbert Karney, or preaching by a roaming Brahman or Nair convert, or the visit of such as our Mr. Walker from Tinnevelly, or a Travancore missionary or pastor happening to be in their neighbourhood, they flock to hear Christ preached; and when there is an ordination or any great occasion in our Church, as an episcopal installation or a confirmation, it is difficult to keep the church free for our own people. When then I see this interesting population of non-Roman Christians so open to the Word of God, when I consider their large numbers (including the Nasrânis of British Malabar, who were over 14,000 by the census of 1871), amounting in all to 350,000 baptized people, I feel thankful to be a C.M.S. missionary and to belong to Travancore.

The Jones Fund Evangelists employed in this Mission are twelve in number. A report of their work is published on p. 322.

COTTAYAM.

Cambridge Nicholson Institution.

The Rev. J. J. B. Palmer writes in very grateful terms of the "almost ideal spirit of Christian sympathy and zeal" shown by the senior students in the Cambridge Nicholson Institution.

Successes in the Universities' Preliminary Theological Examination.

In November, five Divinity Class students sat for the Universities' Preliminary Examination for Orders, and four passed, Mr. T. K. Benjamin, B.A., in the first class, and Messrs. P. T. Matthew, K. T. Kóshi, and C. C. Thommen in the third. A sixth student sat for all subjects except Greek; his papers were examined in Cottayam, and he obtained forty per cent. of the maximum of marks. There were ten Syrian students, deacons and catanars (priests), their course of study comprising the translation of the Syriac Scriptures into the vernacular, recitation and translation of the Syriac liturgies into the vernacular, and singing; the Rev. P. J. Titus, a Syrian catanar, is their teacher or malpan. These students also join other classes. The Normal Class had nine students, and the Practising School 125 pupils. Mr. Benjamin was the secretary of the Cottayam Y.M.C.A., which consists mainly of Cambridge Nicholson and College students.

Cottayam College.

The College had eighty-one boarders and 209 day-pupils, of whom thirty-one were Hindus, five Roman Catholics, sixty-three unreformed and sixty-four reformed Syrians, and 127 Christians connected with the C.M.S. Mission. There are now four fully-equipped sixth-form schools in the centre of Travancore, where formerly the Cottayam College was the only one. The Rev. A. J. French Adams wrote his Annual Letter from Kodaikanal, from whence he was about to come home on sick leave in consequence of persistent insomnia. Before he left Cottayam he had the pleasure of welcoming the Rev. F. N. Askwith. One of the professors of the Christian College, Madras, Mr. Featherstone Kellett, visited the College in the autumn and addressed the boys. He bore testimony to the excellent Christian character of an old College pupil, K. Chandy, who had read with Mr. Kellett at Madras, and had passed first in the Mysore Civil Service Examination. Seventeen boys passed the Peter Cator Examination—all who went in—and two obtained prizes. Seven again, as in 1893, passed the F.A. Examination. One of them, K. Matthan, a grandnephew of Archdeacon Kóshi Kóshi, was not only in the first class, but was the first on the list out of 1,900 candidates from all parts of the Madras Presidency. He proceeded to the Madras Christian College, where he was awarded the scholarship open to Christian colleges in the Presidency, and in addition obtained the mathematical scholarship. A new hall in connexion with the College was opened on October 28 by Archdeacon Caley, in the presence of the Dewan Peishwar of Travancore and others. On that occasion Archdeacon Kóshi Kóshi made a speech of much practical interest, and the reference made to an incident in his own history makes the following extract specially deserving of a place in this Report :—

First in the F.A. Examination out of 1,900 candidates.

Archdeacon Kóshi Kóshi on benefits bestowed by Mission schools.

We have just heard the Dewan Peishwar alluding to the large sums of money annually expended by the Church Missionary Society in the cause of education in this land. Following this remark I desire to say a few words to my brethren of the Native Christian community present, by way of reminding them of their obligations to the Society for its disinterested labours. Amongst these, not the least important is the work done by this College, with the vast machinery here at work for the purpose of giving a sound and healthy education to the youths of our country. I do not ignore the labours of Government in this direction. Very liberal provision has been made by our gracious Sovereign for the spread of education throughout the State. But it must be observed, with regard to the action of Government in this matter, that what it does is to benefit its own country and not any foreign land such as Arabia, New Zealand, or the like. Besides, the subjects of a State may consider themselves as having some right to help of this kind from a paternal Government such as ours is. But no such claim can be dreamt of in the case of a foreign Society. Its labours cannot be explained on the ground of any natural relationship. It is a phenomenon which must be accounted for on a higher principle—the principle of love which the good men and the good women in England who form the Church Missionary Society have for God, and in consequence they love their fellow-beings in all parts of the world and try to do them good. Now my desire in making these remarks is to remind my young hearers that there is a corresponding duty on the part of those who receive these benefits—I mean the duty of gratitude.

A tempting offer declined by a Native agent.

I may tell you something which occurred many years ago. It is a story having a delicate side ; for it relates partly to myself. But I hope my motive in mentioning it will not be misunderstood. In the year 1855, while I was employed as a catechist in the Tiruwella Mission, I received the offer of a very handsome post in Madras. It was that of Malayalam translator to the High Court of Madras, and the salary was more than ten times what I had in the Mission. I did not know how to act in regard to this offer, bearing in mind the condition of my family. My mind was thrown into a painful state of suspense. I had a friend who, though not connected with the Mission, was, I knew, a very wise and a very good man. I went up to him for advice and stated the case to him. He was silent and thoughtful for some time, and then said to me, "The education which has given you this value in the estimation of others is what you received at the expense of the Society, and not of your own parents. It is therefore your duty not to leave the Mission in case it requires your services." I was perfectly satisfied with this advice, and came away with a free mind determined to abide by it. I may add that in March of the following year I was admitted into Holy Orders. In mentioning this little story I do not claim to have any praise to myself. I am conscious that no praise was due to me at all, for I cannot tell how I might have acted under the tempting offer, if my friend had not given me the advice he did give.

Mr. and Mrs. French Adams had a narrow escape during the year from being seriously burned when travelling by night in a bullock bandy. He says:—

Preserved from burning.

About four miles out we were startled at feeling the bandy overturn—a pin had come out of the wheel. My wife, who was asleep at the entrance, roused me, and I was soon on my feet outside. This easy release would have been scarcely possible had the cart, as happened once before to me, been overturned into a ditch. The oil-lamp, such as we usually travel with for safety, was overturned, entangled, and, in a moment after we were out, a large quantity of straw under the mattress, our usual substitute for springs, was in flames. Our bandyman was by this time far away, catching up the luggage-bandy, with the news of the fire, and that master and missis were being burnt. So our faithful Chakko, the servant of the various College Principals for over twenty years, who soon came at full speed and with scared face, told us afterwards that he did not expect to find us alive. Meantime, I was able to save part of our travelling luggage, but much was burnt—umbrellas, pillows, blankets, a hand-bag, even. In three or four minutes after the upset, all of the bandy left was a couple of wheels and the oxen-pole.

Jubilee of Girls' School.

The Girls' School celebrated its jubilee on December 12, 1894, and Mrs. Henry Baker, widow of the late Rev. Henry Baker, junior, who opened a school at Pallam in 1844 with eight pupils, was present at the thanksgiving service, having been spared to see the great-grandchildren of those she taught. The school has sixty-seven boarders and seventy-three day-scholars. It is now recognized by the Madras Education Department as a Lower Secondary School, and two girls were sent up, together with four from the Buchanan Institution, the first girls from North Tinnevelly to attempt a Government examination. "It is a hard test for girls of fourteen and fifteen," Miss M. F. Baker writes, "as most of the papers are in English." The Buchanan Institution.

Rev. E. Bellerby reports on the Buchanan Institution at Pallam, a village four miles south of Cottayam, which has 104 boarders and thirty-one day-girls, about one-third of whom are daughters of Syrian Christians. Sixteen of the girls were in a Training Class. A Gleaners' Union branch has forty-two members in the Institution, and a Young People's Scripture Union eighty-one. In ten Branch Schools there are 452 children.

ALWAYE ITINERANCY.

Alwaye Itinerancy.

The Rev. C. E. R. Romilly returned to the Alwaye Itinerancy in May, 1894, when Mr. French Adams relieved him of his duties as Acting-Principal of the Cottayam College. The Rev. T. K. Ninan and nineteen Native lay teachers also labour in the district. The Shiva Ratri Festival was visited by some of these Native agents under the leadership of the Rev. T. K. Joseph, pastor of Kodawalaniya. They were much encouraged by the attention with which their message was heard. In September, two families of ten persons were baptized at Marignattapalli.

ALLEPIE, PIR MIRDE, AND TIRUWELLA.

The Rev. C. A. Neve divides his year between Allepie and Pir Mirde. ALLEPIE is a busy seaport, with a large mixed population of Mohammedans and Hindus and Roman Catholics. The C.M.S. Congregations are chiefly from the poorer classes, and are exposed to great temptations. The Rev. K. M. Matthai is the pastor. There are seven schools, ranging from the most elementary for the Pulayans to one in which some English is taught. At one of the out-stations, Kogkeri, there is a congregation of sixty. The Leper Asylum has been enlarged, and had twenty-one inmates at the close of the year. The sales of the Book Depôt realized Rs. 320. Mr. Neve made evangelistic tours to a famous fair at Dehira in June, and in the autumn to Muhamêl and Shertally, north of Allepie. Allepie.

PIR MIRDE is the district on the hills of that name, distant some sixty miles from the eastern side of the backwater. Tea cultivation in this district has created a demand for coolies—Tamils and Malayalis—many of whom are quite young, and for these some of the planters have opened day and night schools and Sunday-schools, which are under the supervision of the Rev. M. Nallathambi. The Periar Project, a large reservoir under construction by the Government, is also visited, and a teacher is stationed there to work among the workmen. Pir Mirde.

TIRUWELLA is worked by the Rev. J. H. Bishop "on Church Council lines," the thirty-two congregations, scattered over a large area, being formed into three pastorates; at present, however, only one of these, Puwattur, has an ordained pastor, the Rev. C. Itty. The adults baptized numbered 117, more than half of whom were the fruit of labours at Perunturutti and Warikkad, two out-stations. The church at Tiruwella has been restored, and is now, Mr. Bishop says, "a splendid edifice;" it was filled, as already stated, during Mr. Walker's mission. Three pastors' houses are in course of erection. A Vernacular Normal School was opened in November, 1894, and had sixteen boarders three months later. A Girls' Boarding School, with ten boarders, was also opened about the same time. Mr. Bishop gives examples of one of the more advanced congregations, and of one in an incipient stage, in an account of a visit to Rânni, east of Tiruwella, on the Day of Intercession, November 30:— Tiruwella.

> After examining the children in the Mission School, which is a new and flourishing one, consisting of about seventy children, not only our own poor Christians, but Syrian and Hindu children too, boys and girls, I had my breakfast under the welcome shade of a jack-tree. In the meanwhile, the long, narrow church of mud walls and grass-thatch began to fill with the members of our two congregations (converts from the Eastern and Western Pularies, who as Heathen would never meet together). When I returned the church was packed from end to end, the children being accommodated in what might be called the chancel, or raised part in the east end. There Two congregations.

must have been at least 300 adults present. After a shortened service and the appointed suffrages, I gave a catechetical address on our Lord's compassion for souls, His efforts to win them, and the prayer He taught us to use (St. Matt. ix. 35-38). Then I threw the meeting open for extempore prayer, suggesting topics—"Women's Prayer Meetings," "The Syrian Church," "The Jungle Tribes in the Interior," "The Pilgrims to Sabari Mala," &c. These prayers came from the heart. They were short, fervent, definite, intelligent.

in the advanced,

At two o'clock I went down the river in a boat about three miles, where some men met us by appointment, and conducted us up a high hill, along a rough path, and through the jungle, when we suddenly came upon a shed where some thirty people had assembled. These represented about sixty souls who wanted to be taught, and had themselves engaged a man named Umman, a member of one of our congregations, to teach them. I gave an address on St. John xvii. 3, knowing God as our Heavenly Father and Jesus our best Friend and Brother. The people seemed intensely in earnest. As they knelt in prayer on the floor in the open shed, the beams of the now declining sun came streaming down upon their bare backs, reminding me how the bright beams of the Sun of Righteousness had begun to shine into their dark minds and hearts, imparting to them the light of the knowledge of the Glory of God.

ARRIAN MISSION.

Arrian Mission.

The district under the Rev. A. F. Painter was reduced at the beginning of 1894 by the transfer of the congregations at Mundakayam, Kûttakal, and Etakunna to the Cottayam Church Council. There are now 1,785 baptized Christians, and 550 catechumens, most of them in stations opened since 1883. The contributions of Native Christians amounted to Rs. 994. Thirty-two adults belonging to Meenatam were baptized in November.

COCHIN: TRICHUR AND KUNNANKULAM.

Trichur.

TRICHUR is some eighty miles north of Cottayam, and a larger proportion of the congregations are converts from Heathenism; they are also poorer, the Rev. F. Bower says, than those of the south, and less advanced in organization. The Trichur congregation is under the Rev. A. E. David; that of Kunnankulam lost its pastor, the Rev. A. J. Joseph, by death in September. There were twenty adult baptisms. Mr. Bower gives the following account of one of the converts, a Nair, called Poulosa:—

He had heard the Gospel preached several years running at the annual Guruwayoor Hindu Festival. This, however, did not lead him to decide for Christ. After a time he was taken very ill, and was carried to the hospital at Kunnankulam. By his side lay a sick Syrian Christian who was in the habit of frequently reading aloud the New Testament in Malayalim. Poulosa became greatly interested in what he thus heard, and, when the Syrian had done reading, he would ask for the loan of the Book, and read it for himself. After being thus convinced of the truth of Christianity, he came to me at Trichur and placed himself under Christian instruction with a view to baptism. I have seldom seen a man more anxious to become acquainted with the leading doctrines of our holy religion. After his baptism, Mr. David told me his face shone with delight, so happy was he after entering the fold of Jesus the Good Shepherd.

Converted in a hospital through a fellow-patient.

The Trichur Boys' High School, under its worthy head-master, Mr. Stephens, is a powerful agency, Mr. Bower says, in getting access to the houses of Hindus :— Boys' High School.

In every house from which a boy attends this school, we have a ready admittance. I may also mention that the evangelists and I have often noticed in the town and surrounding villages that boys who are or have been pupils in the High School help us a good deal by inducing the audience to give us a hearing.

There is probably nothing in India which Temple Brahmans fear and hate more than a Mission school where the Word of God is regularly and faithfully taught. We must therefore expect opposition from such quarters. In April last, it was a great grief to us, on the eve of our departure to the hills for our six weeks' vacation, to find that an enemy had set fire to the thatched buildings in which several of the lower classes of the High School were taught. We, with a large number of our people, went down and saved all we could from the flames ; the police and sepoys also rendered us much assistance, but a great deal was destroyed in the way of furniture, doors, windows, and, of course, the roofs also.

The Girls' School, under Mrs. Bower's superintendence, is now recognized by Government as a Lower Secondary School, and two girls passed that examination, and two others partly. Eight Bible-women visit Hindu houses, both of high-caste people and of others. The Book Depôt sales amounted to 2,071. Mr. Bower says that many of the upper classes of Hindus, and especially the Namburi Brahmans, the highest grade of all, show a desire to read Christian books. Some of the educated Mohammedans also manifest a desire to read the New Testament.

CEYLON MISSION.

This Mission was commenced in 1817 among Singhalese and Tamils, the two races (with distinct languages) forming the population of the Island. For the Singhalese population work was begun at Kandy in 1818; at Baddêgama, 1819; at Cotta, 1822; and at Kurunêgala, 1880. For work among the Tamils Jaffna was occupied in 1818; Colombo, 1852; and the Tamil Coolie Mission was begun in 1855.

Bishop Copleston on Buddhism.

ONE of the most valuable of the papers read at the Anglican Missionary Conference, of which mention has been made under "Home Operations," was one which the Bishop of Colombo contributed on "Buddhism," and which was printed in the C.M. Intelligencer for September, 1894. To the flatterers of Buddhism Bishop Copleston expressed a word of faithful admonition, and urged the members of the Conference to discourage that false liberality, disloyal to their own religion, which glosses over the deadly character of Buddhism and monstrously exaggerates its supposed resemblances to Christianity. What the flatterers of Buddhism are promoting he thus tersely describes:—

> When the writer mentioned the task which he had undertaken, in promising to prepare this paper, to an official who has had long and close acquaintance with the Singhalese, his friend's remark was: "I suppose you will treat it as mainly a matter of devil-dancing?"
> For the Buddhism of the mass of the Singhalese such a description would be substantially appropriate. It would be immeasurably more accurate than this: "A beautiful code of morals founded on an elaborate system of metaphysic." In the ordinary Singhalese Buddhist there is no more thought of metaphysic and no more inclination to it than in the ordinary Englishman. In the Buddhist system as we see it, the metaphysical foundation is far below the surface, unknown and unsuspected; the ethical jewels lie very few and far between; but the whole soil is covered with a thick and tangled growth of devil ritual, half-Hindu and half-savage, of charms, and sorcery, and astrology.
>
> The term "devil-dancing" is a rough-and-ready expression used by the English for the whole class of idolatrous and superstitious rites, incantations, and invocations. The word yaká, commonly rendered "devil," does not exactly correspond to the English word; it does not imply anything so necessarily malignant. A yaká is powerful and dangerous, but quite capable of being good-natured for a time. The Singhalese Buddhists serve not only such "devils" or yakun, but some of the Hindu deities, as Indra and Vishnu, and many more insignificant and many local names, and also the supposed powers which haunt (devatá) trees, fields, and ponds. He cultivates, too, the planets and planetary "houses" or constellations (grahayo).

"The ethical jewels few and far between."

New Buddhism.

The Bishop's paper gives interesting information regarding the extent of the influence of Theosophy in Ceylon. Under its initiative another Buddhism than that above described, and one "which is virtually a foreign growth," has "been adopted by a considerable number of those whom European education has reached." But it is only in comparison with the mass of the Buddhist population that these Neo-Buddhists can be called influential; they include very few of the best known monks, and only three or four Native laymen who can lay claim to be considered scholars, only one, indeed, of the first rank. "Of the educated Singhalese and those who occupy positions of authority, by far the most influential are Christians." The number of Buddhist schools registered as grant-in-aid schools has increased from twelve in 1888, with an average attendance of 546, to nineteen in 1891, with 1,220 pupils. In 1894 the number of such schools on the list was forty, out of a total of 1,000 aided schools. The educational stimulus has been derived from Colonel Olcott, and from a gentleman "of Dutch descent and Christian education," who "learnt to call himself a Buddhist, sad to say, at Cambridge," and also from a graduate of Trinity College, Dublin, to whom reference has been made in previous Annual Reports. The movement, the Bishop says, is "virtually an anti-Christian mission from the scepticism of the West." What the Bishop says as to the methods which the Gospel missionary finds effectual in drawing the souls of these Buddhists of Ceylon to Christ is most important:—

"An anti-Christian mission from the scepticism of the West."

It is disappointing, no doubt, to be told that there is no field here for the exercise of metaphysical acuteness; almost more disappointing to learn that there is no opening for quoting from the Pali books; but so it is. Either course is unpractical. The latter course has been tried, sometimes by people who knew little more of the Buddhist books than the few sentences which they were to use in argument. They irritated people very much more than they convinced them.

Ceylon not a field for the exercise of metaphysical acuteness.

What the wiser missionary does is to set before his hearers one of those truths to which the human conscience, if it can be aroused to entertain it, everywhere responds, and then he urges, "Is not this true? But is it taught in your religion? Abandon, then, a religion which fails to teach you these things, and accept the religion in which these are found." On the way in which this conclusion is stated and enforced, on the distinction between a refutation and an invitation, on the distinction between recommending a system and exhibiting a living God, on the distinction between "Become a Christian that I may add you to my list of converts," and "Come to Christ, Who died and rose again for you, and Who is here in His love to receive you," on these distinctions turns all the difference between the good missionary and the bad—perhaps we ought to say, between the hireling and the true representative of the Good Shepherd.

The half-yearly conferences of missionaries met in July, 1894, at Baddêgama, and in January, 1895, at Kandy. On each occasion a "Quiet Day" was observed. On the latter this was mainly conducted by the Rev. B. Baring-Gould, who was present and took part in the deliberations of the Conference. Mr. Baring-Gould also visited Kurunêgala, Kaegalla, Cotta, Colombo, and Baddêgama.

Conferences of missionaries.

In the spring of 1894 the Revs. E. N. Thwaites and Martin J. Hall visited Ceylon, and held Special Mission services at Kandy and Colombo. At the latter place their work commenced on Good Friday. It concluded the following Thursday with a thanksgiving service.

and Miss A. M. Denyer returned to the Mission in April, 1894; the Rev. and Mrs. J. G. Garrett in October; the Rev. and Mrs. J. D. Thomas in November; and the Rev. and Mrs. E. T. Higgens and Miss A. Higgens in May, 1895. The Rev. H. Horsley came home in October, 1894; the Rev. S. Coles in March, 1895; Mr. E. J. Carus-Wilson in April; and the Rev. and Mrs. J. D. Simmons in May.

Mr. Horsley, after twenty-one years' missionary service in Tinnevelly and Ceylon, has accepted the living of Oulton, in Staffordshire. Mr. E. J. Carus-Wilson and Mr. Sydney Simmons, who joined the Society's ranks as Associated Evangelists in the Mission in 1892, have been received into full connexion.

Deaths of three Native pastors. Three Native clergymen were removed by death. The Rev. Hendrick Kannangâ died in July, in a ripe old age. He was a Singhalese, and was ordained in 1869, and retired from active service some ten years ago. The Revs. S. Samuel and W. L. Boteju died in May, 1895; the former was a Tamil, and was ordained in Tinnevelly in 1878; the latter was a Singhalese, and was ordained in 1881.

Ordinations. The Bishop of Colombo admitted Messrs. Frederick William Daundesekara and James Colombotantorige to Deacon's Orders on Trinity Sunday, May 20, 1894. The candidates had been members of the Divinity Class.

I. WESTERN AND SOUTHERN PROVINCES.

COLOMBO.

Colombo. THE Rev. A. E. Dibben, residing at COLOMBO, in addition to the duties of the Secretariat, had the ministerial care of the English congregation worshipping at Galle Face Church, and the superintendence of the evangelistic work among the Singhalese in the city. He justly says that one man cannot possibly perform all these duties adequately, and the Committee have instructed that, upon the Rev. E. T. Higgens' return to his former post as Secretary of the Mission, Mr. Dibben shall retain the pastoral charge of the English Congregation. It is hoped that, by thus relieving Mr. Higgens of a very onerous part of his former duties, the latter will be able to pay frequent visits to the other stations, where his experienced counsels will be specially valued by the missionaries.

Singhalese work. The Singhalese Work was mainly done by Native labourers—three catechists and three Bible-women, and in three girls' schools. Opposition to the street preaching by the Buddhists was more pronounced than usual, nine preachers being employed to interrupt the Christian evangelists, and attacks on Christianity in the shape of tracts were freely distributed, in their absurdity, and reveal gross ignorance of the true doctrines of our faith on the part of those who write them." Buddhist patients in the Government Hospital in some cases listened eagerly to the Gospel message. Four adults were baptized. One belonged to a village, Colonnawa, where services, commenced by one of the catechists, have been maintained by a European civilian, Mr. E. B. Lover, a resident in Colombo. The work had been carried on in the place without apparent results for twenty-five years. Now, Mr. Dibben says:—

Anti-Christian tracts. even among patients in hospitals. "Some of the objections urged in these tracts," Mr. Dibben says, "are almost grotesque

The men of this village are bitterly opposed to Christianity, and do not scruple to show it by persecuting those who have forsaken Buddhism and declared their intention of serving the Lord Jesus. Girls and women have been beaten and closely shut up for attending the services. A poor woman on her way to the schoolroom service one Sunday morning was warned by a neighbour that she would get a beating from her husband. But she nobly replied that she did not mind the beating so long as she could attend the services. A young girl of twelve stoutly refused to worship before the images in the village temple on a festival day, saying that she could not worship a dumb idol. Her parents consequently shut her up in a room for some days, until her health began to give way, and only released her at the earnest request of the teacher, who had missed her from school. The catechist says that the child is now again coming with a bright, happy face to the service every Sunday. No less than twenty-five girls have publicly confessed their faith in Christ, and some of them are ready for baptism. It is, however, deemed advisable to defer this rite for the present on account of the opposition of the parents. Consequently only one baptism has taken place in the village during the year, and this was of a girl shortly to be married to a Christian man, and whose mother is a nominal Christian. We are yet hoping that many men may also be won for Christ there both by "the word" and by "the conversation" of their wives and daughters.

Persecution of female inquirers.

The pastoral work among the Singhalese is connected with the District Council, of which the Rev. R. T. Dowbiggin, of Cotta, is the chairman. The congregations worship at St. Luke's Church, Maradana, and at Christ Church, Galle Face. They are 180 in number, of whom seventy-eight are communicants. Their contributions amounted to Rs. 621.

The Rev. G. T. Fleming was in charge of the Tamil Work, pastoral and evangelistic. There are several small congregations in Colombo and its neighbourhood, and in Galle Face and Negombo. The conduct of some nominal members of the Christian community (one of whom was convicted for murder) caused great offence, and proved a stumbling-block to the success of the evangelists. Six adult Tamils were baptized; of one, a Hindu, Mr. Fleming writes:—

Tamil work.

He comes of a family bitterly opposed to Christianity, only one member of which ever before became a Christian, and that relative was shot dead shortly after his baptism. He himself grew up a bitter opponent, and delighted to badger the catechists when preaching in the street, so that they have sometimes broken up a meeting on seeing him approach. But the patience of one in particular, under repeated provocation, made him wonder whence he derived such power for forbearance, and he stayed to listen in real earnest, and afterwards spoke to the preacher, who could hardly be persuaded of his sincerity. Eventually he came to Colombo, as he knew one of our catechists, and here he could not be hindered by his relations, and after due instruction he was baptized. He has got employment in one of the planting districts, and has been very zealous in seeking to win others for the Saviour. He has embraced Christianity, knowing that his fate may be like that of his relative who was shot; but he knows also that it is better to lose the whole world, and life itself, than to lose his own soul.

Work among Mohammedans.

The Mohammedans also, as well as the Hindus, are embraced by the Tamil Mission, and two cases of painful interest were dealt with. A young man whose father is a Christian pastor in South India was enticed from home when a boy by Mohammedans and brought up in their religion. When he grew up he desired to return to his home and the religion of his childhood, but feared to do so openly, and fled to Ceylon in 1893. He was restored to his father, who subsequently wrote gratefully to Mr. Fleming, saying what a comfort his son had proved since his return. Another person had lapsed from Christianity to Mohammedanism, influenced by reports of numerous English and American secessions to Islam, and by publications which, Mr. Fleming says, emanated from Liverpool. He became a controversial preacher and attracted great crowds. Unable, however, on some occasions to answer objections raised by Christians, he became dissatisfied, and eventually left the Mohammedans and returned to India. A unique thing in Mr. Fleming's experience was the admission of a Mohammedan girl into the Borella Girls' Boarding School. The ladies, Misses B. Child and E. S. Young, who have been joined by Miss C. C. Forbes for work among the Tamils, write thankfully of opportunities of access to the Mohammedan women.

A unique thing!

COTTA.

Cotta.

The Rev. R. T. Dowbiggin, of COTTA, was laid aside more or less by illness during a great part of the year. He says, "It is well sometimes to stand aside and watch the Lord work, and let the Lord work." He can report progress in every branch of the work. The district covers 600 square miles; the people are Singhalese, and "profess Buddhism, but are really demon-worshippers." The labourers number ninety-two, namely Mr. and Mrs. Dowbiggin and their daughter, two Native clergymen, ten catechists and readers, four Bible-women, forty-one schoolmistresses, and thirty-two schoolmasters; there are besides some thirty voluntary workers. The Christians number 1,410, the communicants 425; and they contributed Rs. 3,014, an increase of Rs. 55 over the sum given in 1893. Sixty-six were confirmed. There are four Pastorates connected with the Church Council. The Rev. G. S. Amarasékara, pastor of Cotta and Nugegoda, mentions that many children were led to desire to be Christians during the Special Mission services in the spring. A Buddhist youth, in describing the nature of the blessing he had received, said in a letter, "Praise God, I received a new main-spring." The Talangama and Welikada Pastorate is under catechists, who are candidates for Deacon's Orders. The Colombo Pastorate has been already mentioned. The following incident is referred to by Mr. Dowbiggin:—

"Profess Buddhism, but really demon-worshippers."

"I received a new main-spring."

I was spending the night in one of our pastors' houses, and took up a Singhalese Bible, which happened to be the one used by his wife. I noticed that, towards the end of the book, where I had opened it, all the chapters were marked with five small dots. I turned to the beginning of the book, and there I found six dots over each chapter, and this was the case for about one or two books of the Bible. I was puzzled at first what they meant, but came to the conclusion that the owner was reading through that Bible for the sixth time; and upon inquiry how often she had read that Bible from beginning to end, she replied, "I am reading it for the sixth time." Her life is in keeping with that habit.

Reading the Bible through for the sixth time.

Mr. Dowbiggin says of the Evangelistic Work:—

The Gospel is preached to many persons, in many places and in various ways, over considerable areas, in busy market centres and at village tribunals, from house to house by Bible-women who read the Gospels to all in the houses who will listen, and by the distribution of tracts and sales of Gospels. In this way the catechists and readers preached to 62,074 people. The Word of God was read in 4,407 houses before 5,972 men, 11,015 women, and 9,270 children, a total of 26,257 by the Bible-women. A grand total of 88,331. Eleven thousand tracts were distributed and 201 Gospels sold. For the whole district there were sent out from the Cotta Depôt 42 Bibles, 22 Testaments, 311 Portions, and 20 Gospels and Acts.

Evangelistic efforts.

In the Girls' Boarding School Mrs. Dowbiggin now has the assistance of Miss Dowbiggin, who accompanied her parents on their return to the Mission in 1893. A new schoolroom, built from the school funds, was opened on June 1, 1894, just twenty-three years after the boarding school itself was opened. There are sixty-three girls. Two, who left to take up work as teachers, each sent to the school Rs. 3 from their first salaries as thank-offerings. Another of the former pupils wrote, after a severe illness, "As soon as I gained consciousness your message was given to me, 'Looking unto Jesus.' I had been doing so all along, for I learnt to do so while in the boarding-school." And a fourth, in a letter, said, "I can never forget the blessings I received. I can say that Cotta is my birth-place. I wish to offer even my life for my school. I am praying for it in all my prayers." Mrs. Dowbiggin says:—

Girls' Boarding School.

It would be impossible to mention all the tokens of love we receive from present and former pupils; but I was especially touched by the joy evinced in every possible way by one on seeing us again after having left us nineteen years ago, and who has been for many years the head Singhalese mistress of the Baddêgama Boarding School.

Love and gratitude of the girls.

The Cotta High School had an average attendance of 154, of whom twenty-five are boarders. Its head-master, Mr. De Silva, has conducted the school for thirty-five years. Including this school and the Girls' Boarding School, there are 3,627 children in fifty-seven schools under Mr. Dowbiggin's superintendence. He refers to opposition to this branch of the work :—

Opposition to Mission schools.

> Since the coming of Colonel Olcott and Madame Blavatsky and their more recent following of Western Buddhists, or Theosophists, or what I do not know, there has been a dead set made against evangelical schools. The crusade is against Christ. In this way our opponents are anti-Christs. I wish I could see any improvement in the moral condition of those they influence. Their only object seems to be to keep the children away from us and set up rival schools. Where we have no schools they do not seem to care to go. In this way some of our schools have suffered, and are likely to do so for awhile ; but, after all, the total number on our lists is more by 277 than last year.

BADDÊGAMA.

Seventy-fifth anniversary of Baddêgama station.

The seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of this Mission station was celebrated in August. The Bishop of Colombo and fifteen clergy were present at a service in the church, when the Rev. J. de Silva, an old Baddêgama boy, preached the sermon. At a public meeting the Bishop presided and recalled the fact that the church at Baddêgama was consecrated by Bishop Heber in 1825. It was mentioned that as many as fourteen of the Singhalese clergy at that time in the island owed to Baddêgama their birth and Christian influence.

The staff of Native agents consists of three clergymen, the Revs. J. P. Kalpagé, G. A. B. Perera, and J. Colombotantorige, seven catechists, three readers, three Bible-women, twenty-four schoolmasters, and twenty-three schoolmistresses. There are 620 Christians and 225 communicants. Fifty persons were confirmed at Baddêgama, Dodanduwa, and at Balapitimodara, and twenty-five adults were baptized. One of the converts had been instructed by the Rev. S. Coles some thirty years before, and was baptized by Mr. Coles during his visit to Baddêgama for the Conference in July. Another came from a village thirty-five miles distant, declaring that he had been a Christian secretly for ten years, and possessing a Bible and Prayer Book, which he had studied. The Girls' Boarding School has sixty girls. Much anxiety was caused by an epidemic of dysentery and fever, which attacked the district, breaking out in the school. The parents, except those of one child, showed their confidence in the Mission by leaving their children to be nursed and treated there. The poor child who was removed was taken eight miles in a jolting bullock-cart on a wet night, given Singhalese decoctions, and died in consequence. A former pupil, aged twenty-three, who had been one of the best girls in the school, died from fever. The catechist who visited her reported :—

Girls' Boarding School.

Death of a former pupil.

> She often spoke about heaven and Christ and His blood, yet she had the same fear and doubt as Christian in the "Pilgrim's Progress" had when he reached the River of Death. On the nineteenth day she said, "The King has come. They have all gone away. I have conquered," and then she sang the hymn, "Happy day, happy day," by herself, and, turning on her side, slept peacefully in Jesus.

Nearly all the adult candidates for baptism for some years past at this station learned the first truths of Christianity in the Village Schools, of which there are thirty-three in the district, with 2,261 children. As the parents are Buddhists, the children cannot be baptized until they attain their majority. 150 children belong to the Children's Scripture Union. The Rev. H. E. Heinekey, while studying the language, conducted a Bible-class and assisted in other respects. Village schools.

Miss H. P. Phillips, of the New South Wales C.M. Association, dwells upon the many grounds of satisfaction which the arrival of Miss E. M. Josolyne, in November, 1893, gave her. Dodanduwa, where they reside, is seven miles from Baddêgama, and separated by a river, and ten miles from Galle on the coast, and their nearest European neighbours are at these places. During the dysentery epidemic even the Natives who could do so left the place, and every house around their compound contained sick people. Language study was the main work, but the compound is in the middle of Native huts, and its verandah was the scene of many earnest conversations. Five adults were baptized: a bride of about twenty-one, who was brought up in the Galle Wesleyan College; a man and his wife from a village one and a half miles distant; the man mentioned above, who was formerly instructed by Mr. Cole, and whose name is David Appu; and a lad, aged sixteen, who received the name Timotheus. The last-named convert joined the school for the sake of learning joinering in one of three industrial classes which Miss Phillips started, a condition of entrance being that candidates must have reached the fourth standard. He is the nephew of a catechist, and is "a particularly nice boy, just one to be a leader." Until July, when eight were confirmed, no confirmation had been held at Dodanduwa for fourteen years. Dodanduwa. Baptisms.

One of the industrial classes mentioned above is for women, who learn pillow-lace work and reading. By visiting the homes of the members of these classes Miss Phillips found out several villages in the jungle which had not been visited before. In one village, Tiranagama, belonging to the silversmiths, a low-caste but well-to-do community, Miss Phillips met a woman whom the late Rev. J. Alcock had baptized fourteen years before, but who had married a Buddhist, and for ten years had frequented the Buddhist temple near her home. Seven of her eight children had died, and when she visited Miss Phillips she said she did not wish to continue a Buddhist any longer lest her only surviving child should also die. This woman, Mary, began to attend the Church services and Bible Class, and in her Work in the jungle villages.

house she gathered little groups of women and children whom she taught to read, and whom Miss Phillips addressed. In this village, Tiranagama, a room was built under the following circumstances. Miss Phillips says :—

How a school-room was built at Tirana-gama.

I asked the arrachchee (or headman of the village) if he could not give us some ground. He said, "No ; what the people did not own was Government ground." Next week, as we were going, the arrachchee's eldest brother met us, and said he thought he could give us a bit of land. Miss Josolyne drove on to Mary's, and I went a short cut with him through paddy-fields. This short cut brought me suddenly also near to Mary's house, where, it turned out, he is building himself a very good house, as he is going to marry ; and within his own fence, in front of his house, he said we could have a corner for a girls' school ! I could hardly believe him, but made him go straight across to Mary's, and there again on her verandah, before the crowd we always have there, he promised to give the land as a present if they put up a tidy little building. One dear old grandmother then said they ought all to help, so I asked the fathers of some of the children then in school if they would each give a post, and there and then eight were promised. So I said if they got it done by my birthday (which was just a fortnight off) I would give them all a tea ! We left them all talking, and much excited, and my want of faith made me quite think that on Sunday, when Mary came to church, she would say the arrachchee's brother (who is a hard Buddhist) had changed his mind and would not give the ground. However, Mary came to church, and said they had already got the poles, but did not know how to begin ; so on Monday I went up with our joiner and two of our joiner boys and cleared and marked out the ground, &c., six or seven men helping. Miss Josolyne promised Rs. 1.50 cents to buy the large beams, and I declared I could give nothing, because of giving the tea. So that is all they received from us towards the building. I must add they actually finished it in a fortnight for the day after my birthday. It has mud walls halfway up, a palm-leaf roof, and mud floor, and is very neatly finished—entirely built by the people themselves.

On my birthday itself I found it wiser to give our lace-women and joiner and tailor boys tea. We had just forty sitting on mats on our small dining-room floor. We covered the walls with Bible pictures, and before we began tea we sang hymns and I asked questions about the pictures. There was hardly one the boys could not tell you all about. Five joiners gave me little Oxford frames they had made entirely themselves, and one boy a wooden footstool, his own work. The women brought me most lovely wild flowers, and amongst other gifts the arrachchee's daughter gave me some lovely lace she had made herself. Altogether, God only knows what a happy birthday it was to me !

Next day we went to the opening of Mary's school. Great was the pride of the people as they brought us up to the building. Including the children, just one hundred people had collected together. The arrachchee's brother lent us a table from his new house. We covered it with cakes and flowers; then every one sat on mats on the very soft mud floor, but we made the arrachchee's brother sit on a chair in the very middle of the school ; and first I thanked him for giving land for a girls' school, then the people for building it. Then I gave a small Singhalese speech on the education of women (which had been hard work to learn), then on the true God ; after which the policeman and another man gave speeches, thanking us also very much for our trouble ; and then every one present ate Singhalese oil-cakes and plantains and drank tea, the arrachchee's brother himself helping to hand round the cakes.

"A happy sight"

It was a happy sight ! And quite as happy were we on the following Sunday, when seventy-two people (including the now forty school children) came to the school at 3 P.M., and we had our first real Christian public meeting in that dark Heathen district. The arrachchee's brother and his old mother came for part of the time, and we showed some of our largest Bible pictures, and taught the children a Singhalese hymn. We make the mothers sit down with the children, but the men stand outside the school. To the right and to the left, within a few minutes' walk, are two Buddhist temples. We find these in every corner of the jungle. But on the arrachchee's little hill stands Mary's school, where God's name is already well known, and children's voices now sing His praises.

II. CENTRAL PROVINCES.

KANDY.

Trinity College Kandy.

Trinity College, KANDY, was under the Rev. J. Carter during the Rev. H. P. Napier-Clavering's short absence in England. The latter returned in May, and Mr. Carter was transferred at the end of 1894 to Jaffna to take the Principalship of the Chundicully College. There are ninety boarders and 255 day-boys. No baptisms took place during the year, but the Principal feels very confident from indications which he observes that "the work is telling, that prejudices are breaking down and hearts being prepared to receive the good seed." He gives the following instances of encouragement:—

Hopeful boys.

A small boy of about thirteen, whose brother was baptized at St. Thomas's College two years ago, is very anxious for baptism. I asked a big boy, a communicant, about him, and he told me that, although he was always full of fun and harmless mischief, he was never known to speak a bad word, and if he heard anyone saying anything which he ought not, if he could not stop it, he always went away at once. This testimony means sadly more here than it would at home. Young as the boy is, I see him earnestly trying to do his duty, and though he will doubtless need much more instruction, I feel no doubt that God has begun a good work in him and will perform it unto the day of Jesus Christ.

"I have done wrong, sir; but I do want to be a Christian."

Another boy of seventeen was sent up to me to be caned for cribbing. In speaking to him, I said I was glad he was not a Christian, meaning, of course, that I was glad he had not disgraced a Christian profession. "I know I have done very wrong, sir," he replied, "and must be caned; but, oh, sir, I do want to be a Christian; I cannot be a Buddhist any longer!" and so, after I had caned him, we knelt down together and prayed for forgiveness, and had an earnest talk about the way of life. He seems deeply in earnest, and I trust ere long we may be able to baptize him.

The Rev. S. Coles re-opened his Training Class in the summer, which had been suspended for several years. Miss A. M. Denyer engages in Work among Women in Kandy and the surrounding villages, and by means of simple medical prescriptions obtains ready access to most houses.

Pastorates.

The Kandy and Gampola Pastorates are under the Revs. H. Gunasêkara and H. W. Senewiratna respectively, who report upon their congregations, Sunday schools, Bible classes, domiciliary visitation, observance of the Week of Prayer, Watch Night services, and evangelistic out-door preaching. The former mentions the deaths of two Christians—one a member of the Kandy congregation, who held the head clerkship of the Cachcheri in Kandy, and was secretary of the District Church Council; the other, a member of Katukele congregation, had been a draftsman of the Royal Botanical Gardens at Peradeniya, until his retirement through old age.

KANDIAN SINGHALESE ITINERANCY.

The Revs. S. Coles and L. G. P. Liesching superintended the work of the Native agents scattered over the wide area of the Singhalese Itinerancy, receiving help from Messrs. Carus-Wilson and S. Simmons. Anuradhapura is in the Central Division of the Itinerancy, but for several months Mr. Liesching, whose proper district is the Western Division, undertook to visit it, and went four times, though it is one hundred miles distant from Kegalle, where he now resides. It is the largest of the ancient cities of Ceylon. The teacher in the Singhalese school there is, Mr. Liesching says, "a choice character, and some of the school lads gather with him for worship in the evenings." Mr. Liesching says of some of these pupils:—

> One of the most regular attendants was a young Mohammedan lad, who was laid up with fever the last time I was there. His teacher visited him assiduously, and on asking what he could do to comfort and relieve him, the boy replied, "Nothing is more likely to produce that effect than that you should speak to me of God, as usual." Another little fellow was taken by his Buddhist relations, much against his own will, with other members of the family, to worship at one of the shrines with which the place abounds. His mother even pushed him down on his knees to make him worship Buddha and repeat the prescribed stanzas. The boy related this to his teacher, and added, "I repeated the Lord's Prayer as loud as I could." Thus, in the hands of this devoted young schoolmaster, the power of the old Gospel is seen in the case of Mohammedan and Buddhist alike.

"I repeated the Lord's Prayer as loud as I could."

The catechist at Talawa, "a regular old patriarch," is the father of the Anuradhapura teacher. The Rev. J. G. Garrett relieved Mr. Coles at the end of the year, and the latter has since come home.

In Mr. Liesching's own division of the Itinerancy, the Western District, there are congregations at Kurunęgala and at Kacgalla, and smaller ones in various villages, the chief of which is Talampitiya. At this last place a factious party spirit among some of the leading Christians has shown itself, and there were no adult baptisms. At Hewádíwela three adults were baptized, and Mr. Liesching says Buddhism appears to have ceased to exist there, as the people are imbued with Christian teaching. Mr. Liesching has twenty Schools under his supervision with 1,160 scholars. He refers to the death of a Christian who, before his conversion, had been a Buddhist priest of some note, and whose baptism occurred in December, 1890 (see Annual Report for 1889–90, page 186). Mr. Liesching says:—

Death of a convert, an ex-Buddhist priest.

He first heard the Gospel message when preached outside the court-house of the Native village tribunal by one who had formerly himself worn the yellow robe. Recognizing one of his own cloth, he invited the preacher to visit him, and offered him hospitality. Our friend had already given up his profession as a monk, assuming in exchange the joys and responsibilities of family life. From this point an intimacy arose between the two former devotees of Buddha, which gave opportunity for much earnest conversation on the highest subjects, and resulted in the loan of a Singhalese New Testament. Thus, as so often happens, the Living Voice was followed by the Living Word, and Nungamuwé read, meditated, and conversed in private for years as an inquirer. All this while circumstances prevented my seeing him myself, and I only heard of him occasionally when the itinerating preachers brought in their report periodically. After the lapse of about four or five years, however, he came boldly forward as a candidate for baptism; and after prolonged and careful examination was at length baptized in the C.M.S. Church, Kurunegala, on the last Sunday of 1890, by the Rev. S. Coles, in the presence of the Rev. G. C. Grubb and other members of his mission party.

Eight converts granted to his labours.

Less than three and a half years have elapsed between his baptism and his call home to his reward. His time of service was short, but it was well laid out. Eight adults have been baptized as a result of his work, and several more were under instruction by him in preparation for baptism. His most remarkable convert was his own wife. She is a Kandyan lady of good means and position, and they were married according to the Kandyan law, by which the husband is married into the family of the wife, so that he, according to the law of man, was bound to obey her. But the reality of his conversion is apparent in nothing more than in the fact that when he became a Christian she followed him and was baptized about a year afterwards with their two children. She also subsequently opened a girls' school in the village.

"Trust only in Jesus."

The end came suddenly. Nungamuwé was one of four Native evangelists who travelled with Mr. Carus-Wilson to Anuradhapura from Kurunegala by road in April last and came back with me by the same route. At Balalla, when exhibiting the magic-lantern, he stepped forward of his own accord to explain the picture of the raising of Jairus' daughter and following pictures in the life of Christ. I was greatly struck with his firm grasp of Gospel truth, and was glad to notice that he had advanced from the destructive criticism of Buddhism into the positive teaching of Christianity. Since then, however, he has been suddenly called away by typhoid fever. During the last hours I was also told that his wife had bent over him and said, "Trust only in Jesus."

At the grave the widow stood opposite me at the end of the coffin. This was, of course, quite contrary to Native habits. We sang there "For ever with the Lord" in Singhalese, and a most impressive address was given to the non-Christians present by Mr. Wanigasekara, catechist from Kurunegala. Bartholomew, the preacher, whose words had first arrested him, was present on the occasion, and at the close the widow, the only woman present, involuntarily addressed the audience. It is difficult to record her exact words, for, though most impressive, they were quite unexpected, but they were to the effect that if she were not sustained by her faith in Christ she would be eating the dust at home. Her face was radiant with Christian joy, and on our return to the house she put all her legal documents into my hands in testimony that she wished to be identified with us and not with her own relatives.

TAMIL COOLIE MISSION.

The Rev. W. Welchman succeeded the Rev. H. Horsley on his coming home in September, 1894; and on the Rev. J. D. Simmons leaving in April, 1895, the Rev. J. Ilsley was transferred from Haputala to Kotagala, and the Rev. J. W. Fall succeeded him at Haputala.

Kotagala district.

The Rev. J. D. Simmons had upon the estates which make up his district sixteen congregations and some 1,400 Christians. His Annual Letter is full of instances which show that in many cases there is a true work of the Holy Spirit in the hearts of these Christians. One man, a tea-maker, has prayers and Bible-reading every night in his house to which he invites the coolies who work in his factory, and one of these has become an earnest inquirer; another, a conductor, has meetings for Christians and Heathens in his house. Faith in the efficacy of prayer is often manifested, and God honours it :—

An answer to prayer.

There has been one remarkable answer given to prayer this year. The wife of one of the Christians of Lindula became deranged mentally. For several months she had been treated by English and Native doctors, but with no effect. One Sunday she wandered into the church, and just before the service commenced she began singing. The catechist was troubled as to what he should do, and very wisely retired into the vestry and asked counsel of the Lord. He prayed that she might be kept quiet during the service, and she was very quiet. When the service was finished the catechist proposed that they should ask God to restore the poor woman's mind. Earnest prayer for her went up to the Throne of Grace. From that day her reason began to return, and she has been perfectly well for several months.

Kandy district.

The Rev. H. Horsley, before leaving Kandy, reviewed the work of his district during the twelve years that it was under his charge: 581 adults and 1,050 infants were baptized during that period, an average of about forty-nine adults and eighty-eight infants yearly; and the Tamil Christians contributed and collected Rs. 39,265. In last year's Report (page 179), the baptism of a young merchant, who had received his first Christian impressions at a school in Tinnevelly, was mentioned. In September, 1894, just before he left, Mr. Horsley baptized another young man at Gampola, who had been taught at the same school and under the same master's influence. The district, which is worked from Kandy, includes an area of 2,800 square miles, on which are some 420 estates, employing from 80,000 to 90,000 Tamil coolies. At fifteen centres the Holy Communion is regularly administered, in some of these places there are churches, while in others the services are held in school-rooms or stores. These fifteen places are visited in order by the superintendent—now the Rev. W. Welchman—and open-air meetings are at the same time held for Hindus and prayer-meetings for the Christians. On week-days estates are visited, and the coolies addressed when gathered at "muster" before going to their work, and they are seen also at the "lines" where they dwell. There are eleven catechists in this district, each of whom has on the average about forty estates to visit. Mr. Welchman says: "I have good evidence that in many cases the work is well and conscientiously done. In some districts especially the earnestness of the catechists and their Christian lives seem to have very favourably impressed the English planters." The Rev. A. Gnánamuttu has charge of a settled congregation of Tamil Christians in Kandy, and visits surrounding estates.

The Rev. J. Ilsley reports eleven adult baptisms in the Haputala division of the Mission. One was a Mohammedan, the son of an official in a mosque in Tinnevelly, who left home for Ceylon at the age of twelve, and had been in contact with catechists of the Tamil Coolie Mission for some twelve years. Ten of the converts belonged to Rattwana. Many of these Tamils think with affection of Tinnevelly, their native country; for example, a Christian at Madulsima collected Rs. 90 towards the cost of repairing the Church in his native village in Tinnevelly. Haputala district.

III. NORTHERN PROVINCES.

St. John's College at CHUNDICULLY was under the Rev. J. W. Fall until the end of the year, when he was succeeded by the Rev. J. Carter, transferred from Kandy. There are 282 boys. Two youths were baptized in October, 1894. Mr. Fall refers to a decided anti-Christian effort in Jaffna:— St. John's College.

> The anti-Christian effort I refer to is no spasmodic or irresponsible work. It is the work of men who are good English scholars, leaders of Hindu society, if not always perhaps of Hindu religion, and who believe enough in what they are doing to spend large sums of money on it, for which they can get no pecuniary return. This is proved in Jaffna by the fact that leading lawyers and others have founded a large Hindu High School, and are completing as handsome a range of buildings as Jaffna possesses. And, by the way, let it be confessed with shame that the head-master of this school bears the name of a Christian. Now, I do not object, I imagine no one would, to a honest rivalry. If these people believe in Hinduism, they certainly should, to be consistent, oppose Christian proselytism; but too often their effort is not honest. They offer free scholarships, at least so I am credibly informed, to all Christian boys, and I know from my own experience that boys, not Christians, have been drawn away from St. John's College, where they preferred to remain, by free tuition and fear of social penalties.
> In Jaffna there is an "Anti-Christ Society," which, amongst other things, occupies itself in writing, printing, and distributing anti-Christian tracts; many of which, however, are, it is said, couched in too pedantic language to be understood by "the man in the street." A Mission agent not long since told me that, happening to call at a house, he found a number of young men of this society with Bibles and a Concordance, studying the Biblical plan of Salvation, as presented in the words of the Bible itself, with a view to its refutation. The incident is suggestive, and by no means to be lightly regarded. "Anti-Christ Society."

Girls' Boarding School, Nellore.

Miss K. Heaney has charge of the Girls' Boarding School at NELLORE. She says the Tamil girls compare favourably with many English girls in brightness and intelligence. A former pupil who had left the school a Christian at heart, although not baptized, was forced by her parents, against her remonstrances and resistance, to go through the marriage ceremonies with a Heathen, but she could not be made to sign the papers which were necessary to make the wedding legally binding. After six months' endurance of much persecution on her part, her father yielded and sanctioned her baptism and her marrying soon afterwards a Christian teacher. Misses A. E. Paul and M. Saul also resided at Nellore during the year, but on the arrival of Miss L. Case the former removed with her to Kopay. The English School at Kopay has been removed into a new building, and the former building has become a Training Institution for preparing teachers for the Mission.

The Pastoral and Evangelistic Work is under the Rev. J. I. Pickford. The Revs. G. Champion, J. Backus, C. T. Williams, S. Morse, G. Daniel, and A. Matthias are the Native pastors at Chundicully, Pallai, Kokoville, Nellore, Kopay, and Vavoniya. Mr. Backus baptized three adults, and two former members of the Church of Rome were received into communion. One of the adults is old and infirm, but he walks every Sunday a distance of five miles to attend the services. He, with four other candidates, was confirmed in January, 1895, and Mr. Backus says the Bishop was greatly pleased with his ready and simple answers to questions he put to him, old and illiterate though he is. The Jaffna Native Christian Association had an income of Rs. 2,515 in 1894, the largest it had received.

Old and illiterate, but earnest convert.

MAURITIUS MISSION.

Though geographically more nearly connected with Africa, the little island of Mauritius is, in a missionary sense, a dependency of India. Two-thirds of the population are immigrants from Bengal and South India, brought hither to work on the sugar plantations; and among these are labouring Bengali and Tamil-speaking missionaries, whose work has been much blessed. Over 5,000 have been baptized, the majority of whom have returned to their own country. The Mission has owed much to the successive Bishops of Mauritius, Dr. Ryan, Dr. Royston, and the present Bishop, Dr. Walsh, an old member of the C.M.S. Committee, who was consecrated in 1890.

Change in status of Indian population.

A CHANGE is rapidly taking place in the status of the Indian population of Mauritius, for whose spiritual benefit the Society's work on the island is maintained. From being coolies on the estates of European planters, many have become farmers and proprietors of the soil. Many of the sugar estates have been divided into small holdings and leased or sold to Indians, and the result is that Indian villages are springing up in all directions. At the annual meeting of the Church Council its chairman, the Rev. H. D. Buswell, whom Bishop Walsh has appointed Archdeacon of Seychelles, remarked:—

> During the past few years Indian villages have sprung up in all directions; so much so, that the island bids fair to be a congeries of huts. Estates are being parcelled out in small lots of an acre or so each; and Indians, in the vast majority of cases, are the purchasers. It will be a long time, of course, before the estates owned by the wealthier proprietors pass into the hands of the labouring classes, but the land fever has become endemic amongst the Indians, and in due course villages will take the place of camps. It must be our endeavour to secure these villages for Christ.

Pastorates.

The returns show that in the several Pastorates 2,951 services were held during the year, with an aggregate attendance of 78,021. The number of Christians and of communicants is practically the same as last year—namely, 1,976 and 627 respectively. Fifty adults were baptized. The Indian population are very migratory, and it is not easy to trace or to follow them in their wanderings; hence "a leakage" occurs. The language difficulty is very acutely felt in this Mission. At some of the services the responses are usually given in Hindi, Tamil, French, and English. This difficulty, however, mainly affects the Schools, of which there are 28, with over 1,600 children. The teachers qualified for their certificates as teachers in English and the Indian vernaculars, and they have recently been required by the code to teach French instead of the Indian languages. Archdeacon Buswell says:—

> I wonder whether there is any other place in the world where the language difficulty is so acute as here! The action of the Board of Education in subventioning unknown tongues, and neglecting the languages of two-thirds of the people, makes our work, for the present, exceptionally difficult, but we hope that in process of time order will issue out of the confusion.

Plaisance Orphanage.

The children in the Plaisance Orphanage, under the Rev. V. W. Harcourt, are almost exclusively Indian. A school for the daughters of high-caste Hindus was opened during the year at Rose Hill by Mrs. Chorley, the wife of the Rev. I. F. Chorley.

Work among Hindus.

The Work among Hindus is shared by the Revs. C. A. Blackburn and A. K. Finnimore, the former labouring among those speaking Hindi, and the latter among the Tamils, and twenty-seven adult baptisms were fruits of their labours. The former made fifty-six evangelistic journeys. He was greatly assisted by a former convert, a Mahant, or Santpati priest, who, having been accustomed to sing religious poems as a Hindu, prepared Christian songs adapted to Native tunes. Mr. Blackburn says:—

> The effect was marvellous: crowds of people flocked around him and listened with amazing attention. From that day he has been going from shop to shop, house to house, and camp to camp singing the Gospel. After each song we either explain what has been sung, or give a short address.

Mr. Finnimore found the Mauritian patois, or Creole, which he learned when a child, return to his recollection after twenty-two years of disuse, and he was able at once to speak fluently to the people in the one language which is to some extent intelligible to all. To his open-air preaching crowds readily gather: landlords, farmers, coolies, Hindus, Mohammedans, Romanists, Indians, Malagasies, Mauritians, and even Chinamen collect around and quietly listen. Mr. Finnimore says that even in this small island, less than half the area of his former missionary district in Tinnevelly, "the high privilege of having plenty to do" is not denied to the missionaries. Mrs. Finnimore has started a useful work for the women and girls at Vacoas.

"Plenty to do."

Mr. Blackburn held several meetings for controversy with Mohammedans, and wrote and published a book refuting Mohammedan pretensions.

CHINA.

The war between China and Japan.

THE memorable war between China and Japan which broke out in the autumn of 1894, and was terminated, in the spring of 1895, after a rapid succession of brilliant victories for Japan, by a treaty of peace—in which China ceded to the conquering power the island of Formosa, relinquished all claim to suzerainty over Corea, and undertook to pay a considerable indemnity of war—will doubtless prove a landmark in the future history of both these great nations.

At the first breaking out of the war it seemed unlikely that the field of operations would extend, for some months at all events, beyond Corea; and so far were the Committee from entertaining fears for the safety of the missionaries that they allowed the arrangements for the small reinforcement party to go forward, and the missionaries themselves were preparing to sail without the slightest hesitation. But some of those most competent to judge anticipated a greater likelihood of danger from internal confusion and disorganization of the central and local governing powers in China itself than from any hostile action of Japan. And these forecasts promptly received a measure of corroboration by the news from the East. On the day after the Committee's instructions had been given to the missionaries, the telegrams in the public press foreshadowed a speedy concentration of Europeans at Shanghai and other Treaty Ports. It then appeared a doubtful policy to add to the burdens of those on the spot by sending to their care recruits to whom the Chinese people and language would be absolutely strange, and who would be more likely, in the event of dangers arising, to be an embarrassment than a help to the responsible leaders in the field. It was therefore arranged to defer for a little while the sailing of four ladies from England and two from New South Wales, and also of the wife and two children of one of the men. At the same time, the Committee anxiously and prayerfully considered whether any helpful instructions could be sent to the brethren and sisters in the missions; but in the total uncertainty as to what might happen day by day, it was felt both impossible and undesirable to send any definite directions. They fully trusted the wisdom and discretion of the senior brethren; and the following telegram was sent to Shanghai on October 10, with instructions to the Acting Secretary there to forward it to all the missionaries: "God grant to all courage, wisdom, peace, guidance, safety, blessing. Committee trust brethren to act together discreetly for Christ's cause. Psalm xlvi." The Committee also invited the Society's friends to offer fervent and frequent prayer that all Christian missionaries in China and all Christian converts might be kept in peace and preserved continually by the protecting care of Almighty God, and that events in the East might be overruled for the extension of Christ's kingdom in China, Corea, and Japan.

Right attitude of the Church.

What, in view of these great events, the duty and attitude of Christ's Church should be was well expressed by Archdeacon A. E. Moule: "Surely our duty now is by no means to withdraw or hesitate in the face of possible temporary peril, but to stand fast in our Master's Name; and to have large reinforcements ready to occupy, promptly and without delay, such openings for widespread evangelization, or more settled station work, as the issues of the war will develop. China cannot slumber again, and open her gates any longer only ajar. Railways will rush and roar where the telegraph-lines already stretch in silence. Japan's awakening may, in the elation of victory, lead to intoxication and excess, and to the repudiation or complete revision of all treaties. Great wisdom, 'the meekness of wisdom,' will be required in future Mission work in these great lands, quite as urgently as prompt and vigorous action. But the great lesson for us to learn now is, I humbly think, to be ready, aye, ready, for our Lord's guiding hand and all-conquering call; to 'come' like obedient servants when He says 'Come;' to 'go' when He says 'Go;' and when He points to special work in China or Japan or in the vast unevangelized world, promptly, gladly, prayerfully, courageously, to 'do it.'"

Report of the Opium Commission.

The report of the Opium Commission which was appointed in June, 1893, was not issued until April, 1895. It bears the signatures of all the members except one, Mr. H. J. Wilson, M.P., who presented a "minority report," taking exception to the principal resolutions and conclusions of his colleagues. With few exceptions, the witnesses examined, as stated in last year's Annual Report, gave evidence regarding the degree of prevalence and the effects of opium consumption in India; and the evidence of the majority of these witnesses convinced the Commissioners that the use of the drug in moderation is not by any means harmful. But the report is careful to distinguish between opium taken in the ordinary way in India—namely, in the form of pills and infusions—and the "comparatively rare and novel habit of smoking preparations of opium." The latter form of use is, the report states, considered disreputable in India. But this is the form which prevails in China. This single remark will indicate how inapplicable the bulk of the report is to the main question which presses heavily on the consciences of many English Christians, and upon which some of them looked for enlightenment through the labours of the Commissioners. The fact is that in China the missionaries are the only foreigners who really know the people, and their evidence was very sparingly—as compared with the witnesses regarding India—called for by the Commissioners. A memorial was, however, presented to the Commissioners by fourteen British missionaries in China (including Bishop Burdon, Bishop Moule, and Archdeacon Moule) of twenty-five or more years' standing, urging them to recommend the restriction of the Indian production of opium to the supply of what is needed for medicinal purposes in India and elsewhere. This appeal was urged on the following grounds:—

The bulk of it inapplicable to China.

Memorial of experienced missionaries: Consumption of opium deleterious to Chinese,

(1) We believe it to be a fact, established beyond possibility of reasonable doubt, that the consumption of opium in China is exerting a distinctly deteriorating effect upon the Chinese people, physically, socially, and morally. Statements to this effect have been repeatedly made in Blue Books, and other official documents, on the authority of British officials of high standing, and they are entirely corroborated by our own personal observation. The Protestant missionary body in China has twice, by its representatives assembled in Conference, and including men of various nationalities and of many different Churches, unanimously passed resolutions condemning emphatically the use of opium by the Chinese for other than medicinal purposes, and deploring the connexion of Great Britain with the opium trade. (See "The Records of the Missionary Conference, held at Shanghai," 1877, and ditto, 1890.)

and is regarded as a vice;

(2) It is a fact, which cannot be reasonably disputed, that the conscience of the Chinese people as a whole is distinctly opposed to the opium habit. It is continually classed, in common conversation and in books, with fornication and gambling. Sir Rutherford Alcock, some time Her Majesty's Minister in China, when examined before a Committee of the House of Commons, spoke of the universality of the belief among the Chinese that, whenever a man takes to smoking opium, it will probably be the impoverishment and ruin of his family—a popular feeling which is universal both amongst those who are addicted to it, who always consider themselves as moral criminals, and amongst those who abstain from it. (See Report, East India Finance, 1871 (363), page 275; 5738.) We ourselves have never met with Chinamen who defended the practice as morally harmless, but we have heard it unsparingly condemned by the Chinese times without number. The missions with which we are respectively associated invariably refuse to admit opium-smokers to Church membership, but in so doing they are only acting in accordance with the general sentiment of the Chinese, Christian and non-Christian alike, which always stigmatizes the habit of opium-smoking as vicious.

the opium trade prejudicial to Great Britain's influence in China;

(3) It is a fact that the opium trade, though now no longer contraband, is highly injurious, not only to China, but also to the fair name of Great Britain. The past history, and the present enormous extent of the opium trade with India, produces, as we can testify from personal experience, suspicion and dislike in the minds of the Chinese people towards foreigners in general. On the other hand, the attitude of hostility towards opium which foreign missionaries are known to maintain, is approved and duly appreciated by the Chinese of all classes, as we have often found in our intercourse with the people.

Indian opium is not needed.

(4) It is an indisputable fact that the opium imported from India is neither required for medicinal purposes in China nor generally used for these purposes, and hence we regard the importation as being wholly prejudicial to the well-being of the Chinese people.

In submitting this memorial, which we believe expresses the opinion of nearly every Protestant missionary in China, without distinction of nation or Church, and of the whole Native Protestant Christian community, consisting now of several tens of thousands of persons, we beg to say that we are actuated by feelings of the deepest loyalty to Her Majesty the Empress of India, and by the most profound desire for the truest welfare of her Indian dominions, not less than by the desire to see the curse of opium removed from China. We hold as beyond all shadow of doubt the conviction that thrones and dominions are established by righteousness, and that any source of revenue, however large, that is morally indefensible, tends only in the end to the weakening of the Empire and the impoverishment of its resources.

Happily it can be said that China is not only indebted to foreigners for the importation of a deadly drug which is sapping the sinews of its national strength, and for a violent aggression on its vast domain, but also for the knowledge of the Eternal Word in Whom is life. It is interesting to notice that in November, when the Japanese were gaining their first victories by sea and land, and the Opium Commission, it may be presumed, were coming to the conclusion that the revenue derived by India from its export opium trade could not prudently be abandoned, the ministers of England and America were jointly engaged in presenting to the Empress-Dowager of China, on her 60th birthday (November 12), a copy of the New Testament, bound in silver covers, and enclosed in a chased silver casket, which had been subscribed by the Christian women of her own country. On one cover was a gold plate bearing the words "Holy Classic of Salvation." Some 10,000 contributed to the presentation, which cost about $1,200. It is stated that the Emperor shortly afterwards sent a eunuch of the palace to the American Bible Society's depôt in Pekin, with an order for "one Old Testament and one New Testament."

A testimony which is worth recording to the indirect benefits which many Chinese Christians owe to the Gospel is supplied in a pamphlet by Mr. C. T. Gardner, Her Majesty's Acting Consul-General at Seoul, in Corea. The object of the pamphlet is to offer suggestions "how to lessen the recurrence of anti-Christian and anti-foreign riots in China;" and the writer instances among the causes of dislike which actuate some of the Chinese against Christianity a jealousy at the superiority in intelligence and morality of the Christians. He says:—

Testimony to the superior intelligence and morality of Native Christians.

The Christian education of the children of converts undoubtedly produces greater intelligence and a higher moral tone than the Chinese non-Christian education; the consequence is that Christian Chinese are now obtaining a success in life far greater than the non-Christians of the same class. There is hardly a high official in the Empire who has not one or two Christians in his employ as confidential servants. These Christians are equally successful in obtaining clerical and other employ in Government and commercial offices, such as the Imperial Maritime Customs, Mining and Public Works, the China Merchants' Steam Navigation Company, &c.

SOUTH CHINA MISSION.

The great empire of China was opened to missionary effort in 1844, when the Treaty of Nanking, which closed the first Chinese War, gave England the possession of Hong Kong, and the right of residence at five leading ports; and more fully in 1858–60, by the Treaty of Tientsin and Convention of Pekin. Hong-Kong was occupied in 1862, and Pakhoi in 1886.

The Fuh-Kien Mission has a truly remarkable history. Fuh-Chow was occupied in 1850, and the first eleven years passed without a single convert appearing. Two out of five Missionaries died during this interval, and two retired. The fifth died soon after gathering the first-fruits of his labours, leaving a new-comer, the Rev. J. R. (now Archdeacon) Wolfe, in charge. Up to 1864 the work was confined to Fuh-Chow city. In that year and the following, other large cities were occupied by Native evangelists. In 1866 the first two or three converts from these were baptized. Fuh-Ning was occupied by European Missionaries in 1882; Ku-Cheng, 1887; Lo-Ngwong, 1889; Nang-wa-Kau, 1889; Kien-Yang, 1891; and Hing-Hwa, 1894.

China, south of lat. 28°, is under the episcopal jurisdiction of the Bishop of Victoria, Hong Kong. The first Bishop, Dr. G. Smith, and the third, the present one, Dr. Burdon, were C.M.S. Missionaries; and the second, Dr. Alford, was an active friend of the Society at home.

Reinforcements.

Dr. Leopold George Hill, M.R.C.S. England, L.R.C.P. London, whose offer of service was accepted in August 1893, sailed in January, 1895, assigned to labour at Pakhoi. He was married in October to Miss Emmie Amelia Grabham, who went out to China under the China Inland Mission in 1889, and came home in 1894 in order to be married.

Ordinations.

Bishop Burdon admitted the Rev. G. H. Davies to Priest's Orders at Hong Kong on March 8, 1894; and on March 17, 1895, he admitted Mr. Li Sie Mi to Deacon's Orders, and the Revs. Ting Sing Ang, Yek Siu Mi, and Ling Sung Mi to Priest's Orders at Fuh-Chow.

PROVINCE OF KWAN-TUNG.

The "Plague" in Hong Kong.

The year 1894 will be remembered in Hong Kong for one of the greatest, if not the greatest, calamities which ever befell the island. Commencing in the month of May, a terrible epidemic, described as similar to the "Plague" or "Black Death" which prevailed in London in 1665, asserted itself, and in the course of a few weeks over 3,000 persons died. The Rev. C. Bennett, the Secretary of the Mission, sent home a vivid account of the condition of the Native houses which invited the epidemic, of the ignorance of the people which led them to resist efforts to help them, of the appalling scenes of suffering and death, and of the marvellous preservation of the Native Christian community. He wrote:—

Major-General Barker offered to lend soldiers to form search parties, and those who were willing to volunteer were at once enrolled. Many of the civilians also rendered able assistance, and these, with the police, instituted a house-to-house visitation. Persons found to be suffering from the plague were immediately removed to one of the hospitals, and their houses carefully cleansed, whitewashed, and disinfected.

Condition of Native houses.

When the latter were found to be unfit for human habitation, they were closed up and the people removed to more airy dwellings at the Government expense. In the case of those who had lost relatives or were too poor to provide necessary food, the Government also undertook to supply their wants for a week or two. In one district whole streets were condemned and walled up, eventually to be destroyed by burning. The floors of many of these houses were caked with dirt of the most indescribable kind, to the depth of two or three inches. At meal times it is a Chinese custom to throw the bones and other refuse on the floor, and the houses being principally occupied by coolies and sublet, it appears to have been no one's business to cleanse them. As this has been going on for years, the accumulation of filth beggars description. These houses are fitted with cock-lofts, i.e. a second floor, about five feet above the ordinary floor, thus making provision for a second row of people. These are in most cases divided again by partitions admitting no light and little air, often overcrowded with human beings. No wonder the plague found many victims in such a hotbed of filth and disease.

Resistance to efforts of relief.

At first the soldiers and different search parties met with little opposition from the Chinese in their work of inspection. Unfortunately, the jealousy of the Native so-called doctors (who have had no training as such) and of the secret societies and guilds caused the most absurd rumours to be circulated —such stories as that the Government had ordered the livers of a number of children to be cut out and made into medicine; that all the schools were to be visited, the children stripped, and if any pimple or boil was found on a child it was immediately compelled to drink the medicine; that adults suspected of having the plague were to be removed to the hospital, made to drink Jeyes' fluid, and to be killed by placing ice on their hearts; that the Government desired to diminish the population, as Hong Kong was overcrowded.

It is difficult to realize that such stories should meet with any credence amongst a people who had enjoyed the beneficence of British rule for over forty-one years, and many of whom had received an English education. But such rumours were not only believed, but worse than these, and the people fled from the city in thousands (Government report, July 20, 61,000), spreading these absurd stories broadcast through the province; and these reports led to disturbances in several places, and a threatened rising against the English, especially in Canton.

Pathetic incidents.

The search parties met with many sad and pathetic incidents. In one house the body of a man was discovered in a tub of water, where he had been concealed by his friends lest it should be known that there was a case of plague in the house. In another case a room was found locked, and, when it was broken into, two dead bodies were discovered in a state of decomposition. A coolie who had entered a house (in which there had been several cases of plague, and which had been closed) to steal a brass tap, was seized with plague and died. To pass through the city when the plague was at its height was like visiting a city of the dead. In many of the back streets, usually alive with the tread of hundreds of Chinese, a ceaseless moving throng, scarcely a man was to be met with; house after house closed. Even in the Chinese portion of the Queen's Road, the Fleet Street of Hong Kong, only a stray ricksha might be encountered, with occasionally the regulation cart carrying the dead, driven by two soldiers, no coolies being willing to undertake the office; ambulances flitting to and fro; and a few shops open, but little business being done. Or a little further on the women and children might be seen sitting, pale with fear and sorrow, on their furniture piled up in the street, while the soldiers whitewashed and disinfected the house from which some relative, perhaps the bread-winner of the family, had been carried out sick with the plague. So sudden and virulent is the disease that in some cases men have been known to reel and fall over in the street as they walked, and have died in a few minutes; in other cases, when being conveyed in the rickshas or chairs.

At first the Christians were inclined to join in the general panic. I went into one house and found five persons, two of whom were supposed to be sickening for the plague; they were very nervous and frightened. I pointed out to them how wrong it was to listen to the foolish stories that were circulated, and that this was an opportunity to show to the Heathen their trust in Christ, that He could protect them. After prayer and further conversation they were enabled to trust and were soon quite better! They were frightening themselves into a fever. This has been indeed a testing time for the Christians, and I am thankful to say that many have shown by their quiet trust and faith that they have a better hope, and know Whom they can depend upon to save them in the time of danger. In some cases the Heathen have asked the question, "How is it that you Christians do not take the plague? We have had processions and fired crackers and made presents to our gods, but all in vain, we are dying by hundreds." I am glad to say the persons interrogated could give a good answer of the hope that was in them, and the Heathen were much impressed. We trust that this terrible epidemic may prove a blessing to many, in opening their eyes to see the worse than uselessness of worshipping idols, and lead them to believe on Him who can save to the uttermost.

A testing time.

Certainly the Christians have been preserved in a most marvellous way, though living in some of the worst parts of the city. We have only lost, out of 200, three adults and one child; one of the former was an old woman of eighty, and the other two can be specially explained. In the case of two families they had plague cases taken from houses behind, in front, and from either side, and they themselves were left untouched—most marvellous, and yet not really so; see Ps. xci. 7. Some were living in such terrible places that it was found necessary to erect a mat shed on the hill-side, and remove the families into it for a while, and whitewash and disinfect the houses. The mat shed was divided into five compartments and the families occupied them in rotation. Here meetings were held occasionally to strengthen and confirm the faith of the Christians.

Marvellous preservation of the Christians.

Missionaries of different societies—the medical staff of the London Missionary Society, Baptists, Church of England, and Roman Catholics—all united in rendering help in a temporary hospital, a mat shed which was constructed. Miss A. M. Jones, who for two months rendered devoted assistance in nursing under the most trying circumstances, wrote:—

Help rendered by missionaries.

> It was hard work at first with some. There had been such dreadful tales circulated as to the English treatment, that they resisted our endeavours to minister to them, and with clenched teeth refused both medicines and nourishment, some trying to scratch, slap, or even bite us, calling us names. But later we won their confidence, and were greeted with smiles and thanks.

Bishop Burdon usually preaches at the Sunday morning services at St. Stephen's Church, and he confirmed thirty-four candidates in January, 1895. The Victoria Home and Orphanage has fifty-six inmates. One girl of seven was brought to it by her mother's wish to escape the fate of being sold by her brother, an opium-smoker. Two others, aged ten and six, "sad-faced, puny, unchildlike little mortals," were about to be sold by their father to enable him to raise money to go to Singapore, but he was persuaded instead to entrust them to the care of the Mission. The members of a young men's Bible Class conduct evangelistic meetings for the coolies engaged in the harbour and in the villages. There are preaching-rooms for the Heathen in the centre of the town and at West Point; the latter opened during the year by means of contributions given by St. Stephen's congregation. The Out-stations, where catechists reside, are the City of Kowlung, Kwa Wan, Stanley, and Shek Pai Wan. Mr. Bennett administered the Lord's Supper at the last-named place for the first time on Whit Sunday, 1894, to a little company of recent converts, one of whom shortly afterwards died, steadfast to the end against the unfeeling threatenings of his family, who sought to obtain his consent to his being buried as a Heathen.

MAINLAND ITINERANCY.

Excitement on mainland.

The year was not a good one for itinerating in Kwan Tung. The bitter feeling engendered, especially in the neighbourhood of Canton, by the reports about foreigners at the time of the plague, rendered it unsafe to travel among the people. Later on, however, the Rev. J. Grundy accomplished seventeen weeks' itinerating, and visited the several out-stations. At a village in the Tsang-Shing district a Mission schoolmaster was seized and murdered by a mob at the time of the excitement above referred to. Dr. W. W. Colborne operated on an old blind boat-woman for cataract at the beginning of 1894, and commended the Gospel to her and her husband. He had no expectation of the Word making an impression, considering their age and ignorance, and the very short time he spent with them. However, several months later, on revisiting the district with Mrs. Colborne, they came to him and told him that since his former visit they had not burned incense, but had prayed morning and night to God. At Shiu Hing a Christian was dragged before the magistrates on the charge of dropping packets of poison into the wells, but was released. In this place Mr. Grundy had large and quiet audiences of students assembled there for an examination. In Hok Shan city the cashier of a gambling house gave up opium-smoking, and appeared desirous to become a Christian. In a village near, eight men are under preparation for baptism. Of some of the Christians in this neighbourhood Mr. Grundy says:—

Murder of a Mission agent.

The Word instantly obeyed.

> Fifteen miles over a steep mountain to church.
>
> Recently I visited some of our widely-scattered flock at their homes. It would surprise many of our friends in England if they knew the distance and kind of road over which many of these people travel to attend our Sunday service. Twelve to fifteen miles over a steep mountain pass of nearly 2,000 feet is the distance some of them have to walk. Elizabeth Kwoh, a dear old lady of 70 years, walked five miles one Sunday to be present at Holy Communion.

While at Wang-long in December, Mrs. Colborne was addressing a group of women, when four Buddhist nuns joined them, and seemed much interested. One remarked, "We would not have become nuns if we had heard the pure Doctrine before; we only wanted to make our hearts pure and to accumulate merit. We will pray God to make our hearts pure, and we will leave off being nuns." In the autumn Bishop Burdon confirmed forty candidates.

"If we had heard the pure Doctrine before!"

Mrs. J. Grundy came home in May, 1895.

PAKHOI.

The Bishop and Mrs. Burdon visited Pakhoi in December, 1893, and confirmed twenty-six candidates, sixteen of whom were lepers. Dr. E. G. Horder's health was far from satisfactory during the year, and he went to Japan for a change in the summer. Dr. Colborne was in charge of the hospital for three months. Mrs. Colborne mentions that sometimes among the patients at the services were women who attended, not to receive medicine, but simply to hear what their friends had spoken of to them—the "pure Doctrine." Some of the patients were from long distances. A little child was brought by her mother from a village in the Kwang Si province to find the child's malady was incurable. She nevertheless said she was glad she had come, as otherwise she might never have heard the Doctrine. She said that she often heard the child singing "Jesus loves me" in the night, when unable to sleep for pain, to "comfort her heart." The majority of the converts at this station have been led to Christ while patients in the hospital. Services are held daily by Ho Wing Fu, the hospital catechist, in the chapel and in the lepers' ward. For the lepers a new asylum was built during the year. The schools for boys and girls had a small average attendance (sixteen and ten respectively) in consequence of outbreaks of small-pox and the plague. The Rev. E. B. Beauchamp itinerated in several previously unvisited districts. In February he went to Kok-tsai-ha, 130 miles east of Pakhoi, where he was well received on the whole, being "much insulted" in only two places; in March he went to San-hu, sixteen miles north-east; in April to Sin-Chung and Ling Shan districts, across the bay to the north-west and north. At a village twenty-five miles distant from Pakhoi he found a blind woman named Martha, baptized a few years ago while a patient in the hospital, who had been, with her little son as her guide, making Christ known in all the villages around.

PROVINCE OF FUH-KIEN.

The Rev. and Mrs. W. Light, who were stationed at Pakhoi before they came home invalided in 1892, returned to the mission in October, assigned to Fuh-Kien. Miss M. D. Boileau came home on medical certificate in June, 1894, the Rev. and Mrs. J. S. Collins (on furlough) and the Rev. J. Martin in May, 1895.

Death of Mrs. H. S. Phillips.

Mrs. Phillips, the wife of the Rev. H. S. Phillips, died in November. She had a dangerous illness after her confinement in August, but appeared to be recovering a few weeks later. She went out to China in 1889 as Miss Minnie P. Apperson under the C.E.Z.M.S.

The visit of the Rev. B. Baring-Gould was a source of great joy and encouragement to the workers of Fuh-Chow.

FUH-CHOW.

Fuh-Chow. Theological College.

The Theological College at FUH-CHOW, under the Rev. W. Banister, had thirty-eight students, of whom sixteen entered at the beginning of the College year, two re-entered after a period of probation in the districts as schoolmasters and assistant catechists, and two were passed on from the Boys' Boarding School. The subjects of study were the three Synoptic Gospels, the Epistles to the Corinthians and Galatians, Martin's "Christian Evidences," Old Testament history, Prayer Book, and the Articles. The men were further trained in the preparation of sermons. Eighteen men left the College to engage in work as catechists. The Rev. T. McClelland reports twenty-eight pupils at the Boys' Boarding School. Mr. McClelland says he astonished the boys by reading on one occasion from the Society's Annual Report the statistics of the Fuh-Kien Mission, of which they were in comparative ignorance, each only knowing something of the immediate district to which he belonged. The Girls' Boarding School, managed by Miss Bushell and Miss Lambert, of the F.E.S., is mainly reserved for girls from the Lieng Kong, Hok Chiang, and Fuh-Chow districts; while the similar institution under Miss Leslie, of the C.E.Z.M.S., is for girls from the other districts, and chiefly, Mr. Banister states, from Heathen homes. The Women's Training Home was worked by Miss Strong, of the C.E.Z.M.S., until ill-health obliged her return home, when Mrs. Banister took charge. There are 167 Day Schools in the province, with 2,387 pupils, most of whom are examined by the Principals of the College and of the Boys' Boarding School. The Evangelistic Services in Fuh-Chow were on all occasions well attended, indeed crowded, Archdeacon J. B. Wolfe says. On Christmas night, 1894, between 300 and 400 listened attentively for three hours to the story of Christ's life and death. Six men joined a catechumens' class. Congregations assemble for worship in Back Street and South Street. The work at the three newest Out-stations in the Fuh-Chow district is unhindered by opposition, but is not very fruitful. At Koi Hu there were thirty-eight regular attendants at church.

LIENG-KONG DISTRICT.

Lieng-Kong.

Archdeacon Wolfe says there was steady progress in the LIENG-KONG District. Thirty-four adults were baptized. The Archdeacon's health forbad his visiting all the congregations with the same care as usual, but the Rev. Ting Sing Ang, the Native pastor, in whom he expresses much confidence, visited them, and Miss K. Power worked energetically among the women of the district for a large part of the year.

LO-NGWONG.

Lo-Ngwong.

The Rev. J. Martin (now at home) gathered the catechists of the LO-NGWONG and Ning-Taik districts, both which were under his supervision, on two occasions for a fortnight's course of Bible study, conference, and prayer, and was greatly encouraged to observe what pleasure those opportunities afforded those in whose behalf they were arranged. The Boys' Boarding School at Lo-Ngwong city was closed in consequence of the unsatisfactory conduct of the master. The Women's School was conducted by Miss E. S. Goldie and by Miss Hook of the C.E.Z.M.S. The Native pastors, the Revs. Ho Sëü Hok and Tiong Muk Tung, have exchanged stations with the Bishop's sanction, the former going to Ning-Taik and the latter to Lo-Ngwong. In the five Pastorates—Lo-Ngwong, Kang-Keng, Achia, Lau Iong and Uong Puang—there were sixteen adult baptisms. At Kang-Keng the work is described as spiritually hopeful. An earnest Christian who was always witnessing for his Saviour died at Achia, and some literary men attended the services at Lau Iong.

NING-TAIK.

Ning-Taik.

A house for lady missionaries has been erected at NING-TAIK, just outside the west gate of the city. The three pastorates of this district are Ning-Taik and its immediate neighbourhood, the villages further west, and the villages on the coast. At Lau Seng in Ning-Taik pastorate the Christians are very earnest, and fourteen men and women were baptized. One of them was, before his conversion, an opium-smoker and a gambler, and of him Mr. Martin says:—

> After his conversion the villagers saw the change in his life, and, as he was now as yielding as he was before insolent, some of them tried to impose on him. A few neighbours wanted to erect a wall on a plot of land adjoining his garden. They had some words with the Christian, and in an unguarded moment he said, "Well, you may build the wall, for I have something better than land in my Heavenly Father's house." The neighbours erected the wall, and encroached a few feet on the Christian's land. His fellow-

"I have something better than land."

Christians pointed this fact out to him, and he replied, "Yes, I see they have, but it is owing to my mistake, for I was not careful in what I said; but as I spoke as I did, I cannot take back my words, for that would be lying." The other Christians were not satisfied with this answer, for they feared the Heathen might try the same plan with them. They accordingly went to their catechist and asked for his advice. He asked one of the leading men in the village to try to get the wall taken down, and to have the land returned to the Christian. This man eventually succeeded in arriving at an amicable arrangement, to the satisfaction of all concerned.

FUH-NING.

Fuh-Ning.

The Rev. H. M. Eyton-Jones, who has charge of the work in the FUH-NING prefecture, attaches great importance, as do the other missionaries, to the day schools. Three additional Village Boys' Schools, making four, were opened. He says:—

Village Day Schools.

Light in dark homes.

These children are even now the means of blessing mothers; sometimes the only light in their dark homes. The little scribe, perhaps the only "literary" person in the household, becomes of importance. He returns home to narrate and read the Gospel story learnt at school. One little Sung Sang scholar brought his father to worship. Another startled his uncle by innocently asking a question hard to answer: "You say you (have begun to) believe in the Christian doctrine: why then continue the opium-pipe?" As a result of this unexpected home-thrust, this habit and sin, which had ruled supreme for twelve years, was laid aside. Taking some medicine, and praying earnestly morning and evening, the man learnt the power of God to save. His renewed vigour of body, lightness of heart, and heaviness of pocket, attest the blessings of Christianity.

The Girls' Boarding School (with twenty boarders) in Fuh-Ning city, when Miss M. D. Boileau left in April, 1894, was placed under the charge of Misses J. E. and J. C. Clarke. The girls do the house-work and cooking, and learn to knit, do plain needlework, and singing, in addition to the school routine. A normal class for training some of the elder girls as teachers was formed. Miss J. C. Clarke was much struck by the capacity in this respect shown by a former pupil, now a married woman, who took part in the examination of the girls. She questioned them on the first twenty-three chapters of Genesis, and her questions were "well suited to the children's capacities, and requiring them to think in order to answer." The children show a simple faith in prayer, and are most careful to offer a few words of prayer before beginning a class, even though the subject be a secular one; "I do not dare not to pray," one girl said when spoken to on the subject. The ladies engaged in Visiting the Homes in the city, and everywhere were well received, especially when they met with former hospital patients. Miss J. E. Clarke says:—

An old boarding-school pupil examines the girls.

"I do not dare not to pray."

They nearly always insist upon our partaking of fruit, eggs, or other light refreshment, as well as the ordinary cup of tea. They nearly all remember more or less of what they learned while in the hospital, and sometimes we find them still reading our books. A month or so ago we came to the house of a recent patient, and found she had unbound her feet the day she left the hospital. She gave us a hearty welcome, and soon we had a large gathering of women and children to listen to our message. One thing seemed to have struck her about the Christians, for she said to one of the women that day, "The Christians are always praying for others. My bedroom in the hospital was next the Huoi-neu's (Church-mother's, i.e. the Bible-woman), and every day I heard her praying that God would bless the unbelievers here, and lead them to repent and obtain salvation. They are always praying for us." This woman has been very regular in attendance at Sunday-school and church since.

"Christians are always praying for others."

The ladies received numerous visitors at the time of the Empress's birthday. The school decorations in honour of the occasion attracted many; so also did the harmonium and the hymn-singing. Some of the Mandarins' wives were very friendly. When the ladies returned a visit from one of these, her daughter and daughter-in-law listened with marked interest and intelligence to the Message, begging the ladies to read and explain the New Testament. Another instance of the influence of the hospital Miss J. E. Clarke gives:—

Numerous visitors.

About a fortnight or so ago we had a very interesting set of visitors—two women, and a little grandson of one. They formed part of a large household, all relations. The grandmother, Mrs. Ngu, said, "I have come to ask you if I may come to worship?" her reason being that she wanted to ask God to take care of her little grandson, who is the only one now left of her own family, his father, her only son, being dead, and her husband having died when she was eighteen years old. Where had she heard anything of the Gospel? First from a "sing-sang-uiong" (married lady) who used to live at the church—I believe she meant Mrs. Martin—and lately from the grand-daughter of the old lady who accompanied her. The young woman had lately gone back from the hospital, and told her household what she had been taught while there. A few days later I went with the school-matron to their house. They are in comfortable circumstances, and are very anxious to learn. Quite a large number of women and girls gathered and listened while I read and, with the matron's help, explained the Parable of the Lost Sheep. On leaving they implored us to go again, and begged us to pray for them. Next Sunday the two old ladies, a younger one, and the little grandson, came to Sunday-school and church.

"May I come to worship?"

At O-Ieu, in the capacious Namquan Harbour, the northernmost outpost of the Mission, there is a little company of worshippers, the nucleus of whom were six young men who were cured of opium-smoking at the Fuh-Ning hospital. These Christians, during the celebration of the Empress's birthday, went to Fu Ting city to preach the Gospel and were reviled and spat upon and driven away. San Soa port was opened as an outstation by a medical student, who treated 600 patients there during his first six weeks of residence, and some sixteen men are under instruction. The Christians at Eng-A, ten miles south of Fuh-Ning, have opened up work in Swa Sek, six miles westward, and Siong Laio, four miles eastward. Miss Boileau and Miss J. C. Clarke visited this place at the beginning of 1894, and also Cho Wáng, thirteen miles further south, where Mr. Eyton-

Former opium patients preaching the Gospel.

Jones lately rented a ghost-haunted house at an exceptionally low rent. He says:—

Liberty of mind and spirit.

The Heathen owners, in letting the house over the heads (!) of these ghostly visitors, entertained hopes of their being thereby expelled. For the Christians, enjoying liberty of mind and spirit, the subject only presented its ridiculous side. It is refreshing to hear men who not long since were in terror of these unseen foes, now enlarge upon the density of their still enthralled countrymen. Our house-warming began with a heart-warming of praise and prayer.

A cross patiently borne.

A trader at A-Chiu, an offshoot of Cho Wang, decided to become a Christian, and was boycotted in consequence. He said to Mr. Eyton-Jones, "Sir, I know I must bear the cross; mine is a very heavy one just now." He did bear it bravely, however, and others shortly joined him as inquirers. In October Miss J. C. Clarke visited Fuh Ang, two days' journey north-east of Fuh-Ning, where the Roman Catholics have a large Mission. A dispensary had been opened by one of the hospital students, and the first female patient had entered it for treatment on the day Miss Clarke arrived. The custom of the place forbids women to go out of their houses except at night, but invitations to visit them were numerous and pressing. Miss Clarke writes:—

"I understand the words, but not the meaning."

Women came out on the roofs, or gathered at their doors, and begged me to come in—everywhere there were open doors. Only one foreign lady had been to Fuh Ang before, so, of course, I was an object of wonder, and was followed by crowds whenever I went through the streets. It was also a novel experience to have my hand held up in one house as an object of beauty and admiration for a room full of people! I visited some houses with the Bible-woman, and when the curiosity over a foreigner was fairly satisfied, often found a willing audience. Pictures were again a great help, especially one of the Brazen Serpent. The women are a superior and intelligent class, and many seemed able to understand the meaning of the story But it was not always so. "I understand the words," said one poor woman to whom I had been saying a little, "but I do not know what their meaning is." This is so often the case. What is so familiar to us is so new to them that, even if each word is plain, they fail to grasp the meaning of the whole. It falls on their ear as an unknown tongue, and almost word by word it has to be explained. I met with some Roman Catholics in the houses, and it seemed to me the greatest difficulty in dealing with them was their self-satisfaction. They appeared to think themselves vastly superior to the idolators around, and that there was not so much difference between them and the followers of Jesus, as both in common worshipped the "Lord of Heaven."

Miss Clarke went on seven miles further north to U Tong Puang, where there are six adult Church members who, though only "babes in Christ," have borne with fortitude and courage the loss of crops and personal insult and assault.

Dr. B. Van Someren Taylor has been transferred to Hing Hwa.

HOK-CHIANG.

More than one-third the whole number of Christians connected with the Society's Fuh-Kien Mission are found in the Hok-Chiang district, to the south of Fuh-Chow, which has never had a resident European missionary. The adult baptisms in 1894 were 101, and Archdeacon Wolfe, who has charge of the district, writes:—

Remarkable spirit of inquiry in Hok-Chiang.

During all my years in China (now thirty-three years) I have never known anything like the deep interest which has been recently awakened all over the county of Hok-Chiang in the Christian religion, and which exists at this moment. I am almost afraid to write about it lest I should exaggerate. The real fact, however, is that a very wonderful movement towards Christianity is going on all over the county simultaneously, and in the most remote corners of the county.

Persecution.

The persecution, which was referred to in the last Annual Report, was terminated through the influence of H.M. Consul at Fuh-Chow; but in the summer of 1894 the gentry of Lang-Pwang and Tiang-Pieng instituted a new persecution, and several Christians were so badly treated it was feared some of them would not recover. One old man was beaten, his house pulled down, his cows driven away, and his son carried off and cruelly treated. The father died, and it was said by some that in despair he took his own life. But on the other hand the Archdeacon gives remarkable examples of interest awakened in numerous villages:—

Thirty families in one village give up their idols.

In many villages where for years there seemed no possible chance of an entrance for the truth, the doors have been suddenly and remarkably opened, and men and women have walked miles from these very villages to our churches, and have given up and destroyed their idols. At one village where for the last twenty years I have been trying in vain to obtain an entrance, recently about thirty families have given up their idols, and now attend our Sunday services. The first to come out in this place was a doctor, at whose shop the catechist and myself had often rested in our visits to the village. This man, for a year or two after his conversion, was the only individual in this large village of 6,000 or 7,000 inhabitants who believed in God. Suddenly two others came to the city church, and entered their names as catechumens. Others soon followed; but then a persecution arose, and it was decided by the headmen of the village to take steps to expel all these Christians from their homes unless they gave up going to the Christian worship. A meeting was arranged for this purpose, and one of the leaders went round the town daily, beating a gong, arousing the people against the Christians. This opposition, however, did not seem to have any effect in keeping the Christians from the church. Even some of the women stole away, through by-paths and without breakfast, to the Sunday morning services. This was something new. Great excitement arose in the village, and suddenly the very man who went round beating the gong for the expulsion of the Christians himself became an attendant at the church; and now, when the catechist visits the village on Sunday afternoons to hold a Christian service, the same man goes round, beating the same gong, calling the people to worship God! About this time a man from a neighbouring village, with about twelve or thirteen families, abandoned his Heathenism, but was much persecuted by the leading idolator of the village, who threatened to kill him unless he gave up Christianity. He actually proceeded to carry his threats into effect, and beat the Christian, and in his fury tore down the proclamation of the authorities against persecuting the Christians. The Rev. Yek called on him, and spoke seriously to him about his soul, and showed him the danger he had incurred by tearing down the Emperor's proclamation. Influenced no doubt at first by the kindness of Mr. Yek, and his assurance that he would not take any further notice of his conduct in defacing and destroying the official proclamation if he would stop his persecution of the Christians, he attended the church, and apparently has become quite a changed character. He is now as zealous in exhorting people to become Christians as he was before in persecuting them. The result is that all in this small village, except three, have entered their names as Christians, and regularly attend church. These have destroyed their idols, and have presented the small temple in which they once worshipped to the Church Council, to be repaired and turned into a chapel-of-ease. The large idol, which was considered the judge and protector of the village, and which sat on the daïs in this temple, was handed over to me, and is now on its way to Salisbury Square.

A temple presented to the Church Council.

Another instance to show the encouraging condition of this district is that of a poor pedlar, who heard the truth in the city church and received it, and then as he went round the villages, where he had been well known for years, told of the gracious Saviour whom he had discovered; and the result of this man's humble testimony is that about one hundred families have placed themselves under instruction: and as the distance to the nearest church was about twelve English miles from some of their villages, I was constrained to open a place of worship there, and send them one of our catechists to teach them. This catechist, I am glad to say, is supported by a lady in England, through the Missionary Leaves Association.

An itinerant pedlar influencing 100 families to seek instruction.

These cases are only specimens of what is taking place all over the district, and about which I cannot now write more particularly.

Miss E. M. Wolfe gives an encouraging report of her Work among the Women in the district. She was told by the pastor's wife, Mrs. Yiek Twang Mi, the following story of a woman in the village of Seng Nang (the place referred to in the above extract from Archdeacon Wolfe's letter, where all but three are now Christians) who was one of the first in the place to become a Christian:—

A woman steadfastly purposed to serve the Lord.

She wanted very much to come to church, and one Sunday she started, but her friends, not wishing her to go, got in front of her at a certain street, and would not let her pass; she tried two other ways, but they prevented her in each place, so she saw it was no use and returned home. The next Sunday she got up very early, before any one in the village was about, and started off without her breakfast, and arrived at the city church before they had breakfasted there. Mrs. Yiek invited her to breakfast, and since then her friends, seeing her determination, have allowed her to come to church as often as she likes, and the rest of the family are now Christians.

HING HWA.

Hing Hwa.

The HING HWA prefecture comprises two hiens, or counties—namely, Pwo Dieng and Sieng Iu, for each of which there is a District Council. The Rev. C. and Mrs. Shaw reside at Hing Hwa City; two ladies of the C.E.Z.M.S., Miss Hankin and Miss Tabberer, reside at Dang Seng; and two others of the same Society, Miss Lloyd and Miss Witherby, at Sieng Iu. Connected with the Pwo Dieng Council are four pastorates, Hing Hwa, Dang Seng, Ging Dong, and Dang Swa, in each of which a catechist, supported by the Native Church Fund, is located.

Baptisms.

Mr. Shaw's teacher, a former functionary at the Yamen, and consequently exercising much influence, was baptized with his wife in January, 1894. He was an opium-smoker, but has conquered the habit. Another ex-opium-smoker, a man of the literary class, was baptized a day or two later. From a village three miles from Hing Hwa over twenty people attend the city services, and in another village thirty miles distant fifty have become inquirers. Several of the villages round Ging Dong have inquirers. The Rev. Ting Chung Seng resides at Sieng Iu, where the worshippers are "most reverent," Mr. Shaw says. The Sieng Iu Hien has not yet been divided into pastorates.

KU-CHENG AND PING NANG DISTRICTS.

The Rev. R. W. Stewart resides, with Mrs. Stewart, at Ku-Cheng City, and superintends the work in the prefectures of Ku-Cheng and Ping Nang.

A turbulent sect.

At KU-CHENG the last months of 1894 saw a certain measure of turbulence on the part of a sect known as Vegetarians. Taking advantage of the Government being engaged with the war, this sect, which had previously had neither position nor influence, sprang suddenly into vigorous life. In August they attacked the Christians at a village called A-Deng-Bang, beating them and pillaging their property. A few weeks later they committed some other offence, not aimed against the Christians, and the magistrate seized some of their number. This was a signal for a rising against the Yamen, which secured its end, the prisoners were sent home in state, and the mandarin's secretary was publicly beaten. The Rev. R. W. Stewart wrote in February, 1895 :—

Since last August their numbers have rapidly increased, and in December notices were posted up all through the city and country, calling for a monster gathering at their new head-quarters here. Very disquieting rumours reached us. The converts urged me to organize them, and procure arms. Of course, I would not do this, and showed them how futile any such proceeding would be. The day arrived, an enormous meeting was held, but no injury was done. It was the 19th of the month ; from early dawn that day a belt of prayer was encircling the earth for the Fuh-Kien Mission—prayer uttered by the thousands, from New Zealand round to Canada, who use the C.M.S. Cycle of Prayer. They little knew how thankful we were to them that day.

A "belt of prayer."

I have just learned that, up to the present, 3,000 have been enlisted in the last half-year, mostly of the lowest orders, and at the present time the reins of government are practically in their hands.

Notwithstanding these anxious events, the work made good progress. Mr. Stewart attaches great value to the village day-schools, of which there are fifty-six in the district. Most of the children are from Heathen homes, but the teachers are all baptized converts. Mr. Stewart says :—

Village schools for Heathen children.

My pleasantest and, I think, most profitable itinerations were spent in hunting up these little schools, often miles away from any chapel; indeed, in the great majority of cases they stand isolated from all Christian help as little sparks of light in dense darkness.

Crowds thronged the room while for two or three hours I catechized the scholars on our simple Christian books, and the great fundamental facts of our religion, making it as practical as I possibly could. My thoughts were as much for those standing round as for the bright little faces so eager to answer.

Misses H. E. and E. M. Saunders, sent out in 1893 by the Victoria Association, also are located at Ku-Cheng while studying the language.

KIEN-NANG AND YEN-PING DISTRICTS.

NANG-WA, nearly three hundred miles from Fuh-Chow, is the station occupied by the C.M.S. Mission. The dispensary at Seven Stars Bridge, close to Kien-Ning Fu, was opened on June 4, 1894, and that at Yen-Ping was closed about the same time, as the force was not adequate to maintain both. Bishop Burdon visited Nang-Wa at the end of 1894.

Kien-Yang.

The Rev. H. S. Phillips now occupies a house on an excellent site just outside the north gate of KIEN-YANG, thankful indeed after the difficulties raised to his residing in or near the city in 1892, but wondering, as the opportunities of work present themselves, why "the one woman who could speak the language" (his late wife) should have been taken away. A Dispensary, opened by a native medical student trained at Nang-Wa by Dr. J. Rigg, had 1,504 new patients in eight months.

MID-CHINA MISSION.

China, north of lat. 28°, became a separate diocese, "North China," in 1872; Dr. Russell, of the C.M.S., was the first Bishop. In 1880, after Bishop Russell's death, it was divided into two, and Dr. G. E. Moule, of the C.M.S., became Bishop of the new See of Mid-China. Shanghai was occupied in 1845; Ningpo, 1848; Hang-Chow, 1864; Shaou-Hing, 1870; T'ai-Chow, 1892; and the Province of Si-Chuen by a party under the Rev. J. H. Horsburgh also in 1892. In the earlier years of the Mission much success was, by the Divine blessing, achieved in the numerous towns and villages around Ningpo. Many of the Christians in these villages have manifested exemplary Christian steadfastness and zeal, and seven of them have been ordained during a period of seventeen years.

Growth of the Mission since 1861.

THE numerical growth of the Mid-China Mission has not by any means kept pace with that of the South China Mission, and more especially the work in Fuh-Kien. Nevertheless, although comparatively slow, the advance has been very real. When Archdeacon Moule first arrived in China in 1861, there were in the whole Mission 140 baptized Christians, 84 communicants, no ordained Chinese clergy, 12 catechists and teachers, and 92 children in Mission schools. In the present Report the figures stand as 1,582 baptized Christians, 141 catechumens, 902 communicants, thirteen ordained pastors, sixty-one catechists and teachers, and 523 children in thirty-three schools.

As already mentioned, the Committee were led in consequence of the war between China and Japan to defer sending out several unmarried lady recruits to the China missions. Four of these, Misses E. Browne, B. I. C. Clarke, M. J. Godson and C. Goudge, were assigned to Mid-China; but Miss Browne, as mentioned under Eastern Equatorial Africa, subsequently joined the party of ladies who sailed in May, 1895, for Uganda.

Reinforcements.

The following reinforcements joined the Mission: The Rev. Albert Phelps (who served seven and a half years in China in connexion with the China Inland Mission, and was admitted to Deacon's Orders by Bishop Moule; after his acceptance by the Committee, he resided at Islington a few months before going out) and Mrs. Phelps; the Rev. Edward Hughesdon, of Islington College, who was admitted to Deacon's Orders by the Bishop of London on May 20, 1894, and who had also laboured in China in connexion with the C.I.M., and joined the C.M.S., as did Mr. Phelps, with the full consent of that Mission; Dr. Arthur Thomas Kember, L.R.C.P. & S. Edin., son of the Rev. T. Kember, of the Tinnevelly Mission. Mr. Phelps and Mr. Hughesdon sailed in October, 1894, Dr. Kember in January, 1895, and Mrs. Phelps in February. Mr. W. Knipe and Mr. J. A. Hickman (who offered their services to the Society for Si-Chuen in 1888 and 1891 respectively, but who were declined on the ground of the report of the Society's medical advisers, and who had, nevertheless, accompanied the Rev. J. H. Horsburgh's party with the Committee's cognizance independently), having furnished satisfactory medical testimony that they could stand the climate, and also certificates of having qualified in the language, have been accepted as missionaries of the Society. The Misses Adelaide Mary and Jane Frances Moule, daughters of Bishop Moule, joined the Mission in local connexion.

The Rev. A. Liggins has been transferred to the Palestine Mission because the Medical Board would not pass Miss Goadby, his fiancée, for China; and the Rev. and Mrs. J. Neale have retired on grounds of health.

The Rev. J. C. Hoare's remarks on the Mission's needs deserve earnest attention. He says:—

> We have now six stations occupied by European missionaries. Each of these stations has ample work for several English clergy. We have now one English clergyman in each! In Shanghai one; in Ningpo one; in Shaou-Hing one; in Hang-Chow one; in Chu-ki one; in T'ai-Chow one! When are the English clergy going to realize that the happiest life on earth is that of the missionary? Yes, happier even than that of the English clergyman, which, indeed, having seen it exemplified (may I not almost say) in its most perfect form by that honoured father who has been called home this year, I used to think the best that man could desire, but which I have now long realized is not in its joys and privileges to be compared with that of those who respond to God's call to come and preach the Gospel to the Heathen. Or, if they cannot now understand the happiness, when are they going to realize the duty, the debitum, the debt, that they owe to Him who gave Himself for them, that they should obey the Master's command and come and preach the Gospel to "great, dark, hungry China?"

The happiest life on earth.

I. PROVINCE OF KIANG-SU.

SHANGHAI.

Shanghai. THE Rev. J. Bates, on his appointment as Acting Secretary of the Mission, removed to SHANGHAI from Ningpo in July, 1894. The peace of the Congregation was seriously disturbed in consequence of grave charges made against the Native catechist, but not, in Mr. Bates' judgment, proved. He has, however, resigned. Mr. Bates gives the number of adult members as seventy, forty of whom were baptized in Shanghai, the rest at other stations of the Mission. There are forty communicants. Mr. Bates baptized a young Chinese doctor at the close of the year, who was led to Christ through the preaching at the Nanking Road Reading Room. Work among the Women is carried on by Miss E. Onyon and Miss G. E. Stanley, whose labours were chiefly confined to the women belonging to the congregation. A Missionary Association for the Native Christians has been formed, with an entrance fee of five cents, about twopence; and in connexion with it a quarterly Chinese Gleaner, giving extracts from the C.M.S. Gleaner and other periodicals, is published. The Sowers' Band has forty-five members, each of whom takes in the Children's World, and has a missionary box, the money collected helping to support a cot in the Hang-Chow Hospital. Mr. A. J. H. Moule, who came home in April, 1895, was engaged in Translation Work, translating the Annotations in the Tract Society's Paragraph Bible, in which he had reached the 1st Book of Kings by the end of 1894. The statement in last year's Report that he had "concluded a translation of the Book of Joshua" was erroneous. It should have read, "a translation of the notes in the R.T.S. Paragraph Bible as far as the Book of Joshua." He has also concluded a translation of a book on Prophecy by the late Rev. James Vaughan, of the Bengal Mission. Mr. Moule says the Chinese language, which he has studied for eight years, is a "wonderfully interesting language." The Anglo-Chinese School, under Mr. W. A. H. Moule, has thirty pupils, most of them from Canton. Two are Chinese graduates possessing their first degree.

II. PROVINCE OF CHEH-KIANG.

Mrs. C. J. FitzS. Symons came home, invalided, in June, 1894, Miss A. L. Wright in August, 1894, the Rev. C. J. FitzS. Symons, in consequence of Mrs. Symons' state of health, in November, and Dr. H. Hickin in February, 1895. In November Miss Wright was married to the Rev. W. S. Moule, and they sailed to return to the Mission in January, 1895. Miss M. Vaughan returned to the Mission in February.

NINGPO.

Ningpo. The Rev. J. C. Hoare was the only clerical missionary at Ningpo after Mr. Symons left in November, Mr. Bates having gone to Shanghai the previous July. He is entitled to write: "The burden is more than I can bear." He adds, however: "But we have Him with us Whose strength is made perfect in weakness, and His work will prosper, however weak the human agency may be." Training College. The Theological Class in the Training College had five students, whom Mr. Hoare believes to be spiritually-minded men. The Preparandi Class had four students, and was conducted by the Rev. Mo Kwienyü. Four students left the College in February, 1894, to engage in work as schoolmasters; five others also left, and fifteen entered, raising the total number to forty. The course of study, except the Bible-classes, which Mr. Hoare took himself, was wholly conducted by the Native assistants. The out-turn during seventeen years. During the years 1876–1893, 165 were admitted to the College. Fifty-seven of these left the College to engage in Mission work as schoolmasters and catechists, eleven to become hospital assistants (one left without a certificate), four to become printers, two died while still in the College, forty-six left without employment, and forty-four were still in the College when these calculations were made in February, 1894. Of the sixty-eight who engaged in work as schoolmasters and hospital assistants, five were subsequently dismissed, five died, two retired, and fifty-six are still employed as laymen in the Mission. Eight men from the Theological College were ordained during the same period. Mr. Hoare says:—

> Surely we may thank God as we think of this band of more than fifty young men who have passed out from the College equipped, I trust we may say, by God Himself, and now actively employed in doing His work as pastors, teachers, evangelists, and medical agents; many of them, moreover, honoured greatly of God by being permitted to be His instruments in the ingathering of souls and the building up of His Church. The large number that have left without employment is owing to the fact that, as we have to take in the boys at an early age, we constantly and carefully weed out those who do not give promise of future usefulness.

The theological students took part with the catechist in preaching in "Grace Church," and two baptisms were fruits of their labours. On two days a week they also visited the Hospital and addressed the dispensary patients. The attendances numbered 4,821 out-patients and 200 in-patients, including women, for whose accommodation a temporary hospital was provided in three Native houses adjoining Mrs. Hoare's school for women. Two services daily are held in the hospital wards. Dr. R. Smyth gives an instance of prejudice yielding to the influence of Christian love:—

Hospital.

Prejudice yielding to Christian love.

> Mrs. O., a bad case of malarial fever, was admitted in a dying state on June 7. Treatment was rapidly successful. Patient, a devoted Buddhist, refused to hear the Gospel, and treated every one with suspicion during first few days of convalescence. But gradually, as she grew stronger and observed the daily kindness and self-denying attention of women actuated solely by the love of Christ, her opposition relaxed. She attended Mrs. Hoare's Bible-class June 21, and on leaving, six days afterwards, she specially requested that we should send one of the Bible-women to visit her at home. The latter pays her a weekly visit, and is always well received.

There were twenty-seven patients in the Opium Refuge, of whom more than half, Dr. Smyth observes, smoked the Native drug.

Pastorates.

The Rev. J. Bates reports on the Pastorates: the Christians continue to increase slowly in number, having a total of 594. Mr. Bates cannot feel satisfied with the spiritual condition of the congregations; he desiderates a better observance of the Lord's Day, and more regular attendance at the services, also a deeper interest in the prosperity of the Church and the spread of the Gospel among the Heathen. Work among Women is carried on by Mrs. Hoare in her school for Christian women and in two classes; by Miss A. Maddison in the Girls' Boarding School; and by Miss G. Smith, Miss B. E. Bullock, and Miss M. A. Wells in day schools, in Bible-classes for Christian women, in working-classes for Heathen women, and in evangelistic visits to the villages. Miss Bullock writes:—

Our work in the city has also shown some hopeful signs. The weekly working-class for Heathen women that I have held for some time maintains its numbers. A mother and her daughter (since married) have been baptized; both have learnt to read, and the mother is becoming an earnest missionary; she has influenced her husband to come regularly to morning service, and she brings her little son with her in the afternoon. Another woman, after a struggle, broke her vegetarian vow in the summer; she longed to trust in it and in Christ too, but she is now a candidate for baptism. There are others who we believe to be at least not far from the Kingdom. I wished to see a child who was ill, so one day I followed the mother home after the class, and going into her room found her on her knees praying. Another day I went into a court and found four neighbours who attend the class talking about what they had heard; I noticed this, and one said, "We are continually talking about Jesus together now."

"Continually talking about Jesus together."

The opportunities in the country of talking to the Heathen women are very good: willing hearers are never wanting. The Christians are scattered among many villages; they need teaching and encouragement, for one often may be the only believer in her native place. One, who now lives some miles away from the church, told me that her husband, not a Christian, wishes to move; and she said, very pathetically, "I only asked him one thing, that is, 'Now I am so old and white-headed, don't take me too far away from my church.'"

"Don't take me too far away from my church."

The inquirers require visiting still more; they are generally unable to read, and live at a distance from any Christian who could help them. One woman has to walk six miles to attend church, a great distance to a Chinese woman. She recently said to me, "If I have missed going to church, Satan tempts me, and I am weak and can't help listening to him; but if I have been to church I feel strong to resist him." Another inquirer is a poor, timid old woman, further still from human help; we wished her to come to Ningpo for some regular teaching, but even the thought quite frightened her. Still she has had enough courage to bear petty persecution for some months, and even blows from her relations, for believing, and to take down her kitchen god and give it us, and, though her poor mind seems cloudy and fogged, she has laid firm hold of the "Old, Old Story" that Christ suffered on the Cross for our sins, and is trusting to His merits only. I believe her prayers are offered up in very simple faith, even as a little child's. May God help her, and say, even of her, "Of such is the Kingdom of Heaven."

"If I have missed going to church, I am weak."

Six Native evangelists engaged in Itinerating Work, first under Mr. Bates' and then under Mr. Hoare's supervision. Mr. Bates' boat was attacked by armed robbers one night while on a tour, and, for the first time, he says, during his many years of labour in and around Ningpo, his life was in danger. The robbers, it appears, mistook the Mission boat for one belonging to a merchant.

A missionary's life endangered by robbers.

T'AI-CHOW DISTRICT.

The DA-ZIH (Great Stone) VALLEY, in which the Rev. and Mrs. Jose reside, is about one hundred miles south-east of Hang-Chow, and eighty miles south-west of Ningpo. It is some three miles long, and contains twenty-four villages and hamlets with about 3,580 families. The occupants of the villages bear in some cases only one surname, and seldom more than three or four. Clan fights between these villages are of frequent occurrence. Dr. H. Hickin, who has come home, wrote :—

Clan fights frequent,

The Natives are robust and fearless, and, like most hill people, rather lawless. Quarrels are of almost daily occurrence, and arise out of the most trivial circumstance ; they sometimes involve the whole clan, embracing several hamlets. In such cases a regular battle arises ; flags are brought out, gongs beaten, crackers and bombs fired. Firearms and ammunition are produced, and a regular scheme of battle is organized and the clans mobilized. The rank and file look to the standard-bearers to guide them in carrying out the plan of action. After much manœuvring and many feints, the battle at length begins, and only terminates by the slaughter of one or more men. Such a battle occurred in the spring, in the Tien-t'ai district, where we have work going on ; and another was threatened in a large village about ten minutes' walk from here, but fortunately matters were arranged by arbitration. When the fight is over, the mandarin appears and exacts blood-money for the persons slain. As the bravest men are often robbers and bad characters, the defeated village is well content to get the money in place of their bad characters.

Robberies with violence are of common occurrence, especially in the Wang-Ngæn district. Boats there dare not travel at night. If a boatman is incautious and ventures on a night journey, and is seen, the "farmers" come and attack and plunder the boat. An outwardly respectable farmer by day becomes a robber by night, if opportunity presents itself. I do not mean to say all are of this kind ; but there may be one or more in each village, the number depending on the size of the place. Yet it is in such places that the Gospel seems to spread ; and here in this little valley (where there are several known robbers) we have a Church membership of over 212, the result of only six or seven years' work.

"In such places the Gospel spreads."

Dispensary.

The Dispensary Work is carried on at Ky'i-Nön (Southbrook). 1,363 patients were treated by Dr. Hickin. Before proceeding to the Dispensary the patients assemble in the church, and are addressed by the Native pastor, the Rev. Dzing-Teh-Kwông, when present, or by catechists. Dr. Hickin says of this preaching :—

Simple direct preaching.

What struck me most when coming here was the simple, direct way in which patients were told what to do to be saved, together with the continual reference to the very words of Holy Writ in confirmation of their statements. Again, the assumption that persons who had heard the Gospel would, as a matter of course, investigate its claims, also struck me. I have so often heard a Native catechist spending nearly all his strength and time in arguing on the folly of idolatry, leaving the hearer quite in a "mist" as to what he must do to be saved ; and I have often heard a preacher, after preaching the Gospel, upbraiding the audience for an assumed hardness of heart and unwillingness to obey the Gospel. And often, too, imaginary objections are brought forward and answered, often thus instilling objections which might never have presented themselves to the hearer's mind. Again, Christianity is often contrasted with the other religions. All these plans, though they may be justified by the character of the audience and under special circumstances, have always seemed to me far inferior to a plain statement of Salvation. But it is easier to criticize than to preach.

The pastor "in his element."

When here, our pastor, the Rev. Dzing-Teh-Kwông, renders most efficient and highly valued aid in addressing the patients. Here he is in his "element" and at his best. His voice is so sweet and melodious, his words so clear and simple, his bearing so gentle and conciliatory, and his matter withal so direct and scriptural, that one could not desire a better advocate. Persons of all classes seem to take pleasure in hearing him.

One of those whom Mr. Hoare baptized in November, 1888, by name Kying Uong-ts'ing, has been nominated by the T'ai Chow Church Council, and sent to Ningpo to study in the Theological Class with the view to ordination. Three of the T'ai-Chow students who were in the Preparandi Class in 1893 are now engaged, one as a schoolmaster and two as evangelists. Mr. Jose assembles the Native agents monthly for three or four days' Bible study, prayer, and conference. For ten days during Passion Week and Eastertide, 1894, Mr. Jose and the pastor conducted Special Mission services at Ky'i-Nön, which were well attended; sixty-one partook of the Holy Communion on Easter Day. Mr. Jose relates the following story, and Reports of former years have contained instances in many respects similar :—

Special Mission services in Passion Week.

At the other end of the valley there has been much opposition, and not alone from flesh and blood. The son of one of the brightest Christians there, baptized two years ago, but being rather led astray by jeering friends, was one day out alone on the hills gathering firewood, when he became possessed (or, if you like to put it so, went off his head), and rushed home declaring he had seen his grandmother, who had warned him to break off with the Yia-su Kao, or he would die in three days. He then began to curse his father and everyone around. His father promptly, as he afterwards told me, "ih-pin t'ang, ih-pin tao-kao" (half beat him, half prayed), and he got quieter. They then put him on a bed, with his head on a New Testament, and there was great excitement all through the village during the three days, the people urging him to renounce Christianity and live, and his father praying for him. He got quite well, however, and is now a "hot" Christian.

"Half beat him, half prayed."

A church and school-house have been built at Zih-veh-yiang, ten miles from Da-Zih, where and in the surrounding villages there are fifty-eight Christians; the churchwarden is described as a "veritable Gaius," his house very rarely being without guests. At Wong-so, fourteen miles from Da-Zih, a valley containing forty villages, ten were baptized in November. A catechumen of Zih-veh-yiang persuaded a friend of his at Wong-so to accompany him to Da-Zih and see him baptized; the friend returned home himself an inquirer, and the place was visited by a catechist. After the baptisms just referred to, the cows of two of the Christians died, another convert lost all his pigs and three cows, and one of the Christians and his wife died; but the little band of young believers remained firm and bright, deriving comfort from the story of Job. The church, formerly a Buddhist temple (see last year's Annual Report, page 201), at Wong-Ngæn Ts'ing-yiang-dao, sixty miles south-west of Da-Zih, has been renovated, and there are twelve inquirers. Mr. Jose itinerated, visiting these several centres, 151 days, and travelled 2,400 miles, 1,900 on foot and 500 by boat. One hundred and twelve adults were baptized during the year.

A "veritable Gaius."

One hundred and twelve baptisms.

The Rev. J. C. Hoare, who was the first European missionary of the Society to visit the district, and is still the Progress in T'ai Chow.

Chairman of the Church Council, gives the following figures of the number of Church members year by year. At the close of 1886 there were 2; 1887, 1; 1888, 39; 1889, 63; 1890, 88; 1891, 123; 1892, 220; 1893, 392.

SHAOU-HING.

Shaou-Hing.

The Rev. W. G. Walshe was alone at SHAOU-HING after the Rev. A. Liggins came away in July, as the Rev. E. P. Wheatley had left to come home in the previous spring. The Congregations worshipping at Christ Church and at St. Saviour's were more regular in their attendance, and more reverent; but no addition was made to their numbers during the year. Large audiences assembled in the Preaching Hall, where on five days of each week there was preaching twice daily, but no deep impression seems to have been made. In the Dispensary also large audiences heard the Gospel. School Work is more encouraging. The schoolmaster in one of the two schools is an "old boy," and six other former scholars are in training at the Ningpo College. An out-station was opened in the town of Æn-ts'-ông, thirteen miles from Shaou-Hing, and the Gospel was frequently preached in the large Buddhist temples of the place, where crowds collect to engage in gambling!

The Rev. A. Phelps arrived at Shaou-Hing in November, and, upon Mrs. Phelps joining him, Miss I. S. Clarke returned thither from Hang-Chow, accompanied by Miss E. F. Turner.

HANG-CHOW.

Hang-Chow.

At HANG-CHOW also, upon the retirement of the Rev. J. Neale, there was only one ordained European missionary, the Rev. G. W. Coultas. There were twenty-nine adult baptisms, most of which took place before Bishop Moule left in the spring. One was an inmate in the Women's Leper Hospital, and most of the twelve on the list of catechumens were connected with Dr. D.

Hospital.

Duncan Main's Hospital, either as patients or as servants. The number of new dispensary patients treated was 11,865. Dr. Duncan Main says:—

> Most of the diseases we have to treat are due to insufficient food, bad food, uncooked food, insufficient clothing, malaria, and dirt. Dirt certainly brings us thousands every year. There is always an epidemic of hydrophobia, in its literal meaning (dread of water), in China. Many of the patients are very poor, and we must draw a veil of charity over a great deal, because many of the poor creatures come in their wardrobe, which can never be washed, because there is nothing to take its place. The superstition and ignorance we have to deal with is even worse than their physical condition. I must confess it is not always easy in dispensary work to be patient and perfectly just in thought and feeling with superstitious patients, who seem to think, by virtue of their disease, they have a right to demand a heap of time and attention and an extra supply of (tin hao tih yah) very good medicine. It takes a great deal of grace to keep smiling and self-forgetful, especially when one's own vitality is at a low ebb, and nerves are all unstrung through overwork and constant contact with the diseased and dying. During hot-house, high-pressure days, when the thermometer is over 100 deg. in the shade, and the atmosphere of the waiting-room is thick and very much tarnished, and suffering from an over-sensitive olfactory nerve, dispensary work is most trying; still it affords many opportunities of triumphing over self! "Many opportunities of triumphing over self."

Trials of Dispensary work.

The influence of the dispensary is a very extended one, but the in-patient work of the hospital gives better opportunities for producing abiding spiritual impressions. The Doctor writes:—

In-patient work.

It is in the wards that the medical missionary is brought into contact with the patients under the most favourable conditions for making an impression, and convincing the patients that he is practically interested in them, both physically and spiritually. On the other hand, the patients are able to study our aims and objects, and to see the practice of Christianity, as well as hear the theory. In fact, in the wards of the hospital they see Christianity in operation.

A mandarin wonders at the disinterested kindness of medical missionary.

In the autumn a mandarin, who had been in a private ward for three weeks undergoing treatment, handed me a packet containing $100 as a small donation to help on our good work. He said he had been watching me during his stay, and had wondered very much why I never asked him for money! He also said he knew Chinamen who had money and did deeds of kindness for their own people, but he did not know any of his own countrymen who left home and friends and went to a foreign country to carry on a work of charity. There can be no doubt that there are many who believe in a charity which shows itself in practical benevolence and treatment of disease. A Chinaman has faith in anything that will prolong his days, and he certainly looks with respect and confidence upon the man who can heal disease.

Opium-Refuge.

One hundred and eight opium-smokers were treated in the Opium Refuge, besides several hundreds who visited the dispensary. Dr. Main's opinion as to the evil of opium-smoking is more strongly confirmed by every year's experience. He says:—

Evil effects of opium smoking.

Opium-smoking affects all classes, although the evil effects are most marked amongst the poor and middle classes; with them the pipe is the one thing needful, and, if their purse is not able to keep pace with their craving, they are reduced to the necessity of denying themselves those things which are necessary for the body, and when they fare badly they gradually become sallow, pinched, and emaciated, and are often nothing better than walking skeletons. We cannot fail to be glad if our efforts do a little to reduce the evil. We truly hold out a helping hand to those who are in distress, and are able to save a few who, if left alone, would go to swell the ranks of pauperism and crime. But, oh! how feeble our efforts are to stem the tide of misery, falsehood, fraud, vice, and poverty which flow fast and deep, the result of opium-smoking. What might China not be if only this accursed traffic were stayed? When will the Church arouse herself for one great, determined effort to protest against and root out the great evil, which is wrecking and ruining so many lives and homes? "When will the Church arouse herself?"

Mandarins visit Women's Hospital.

Forty-two patients, of whom four were women, were received into the Leper Hospital. The new Women's Hospital was opened during the year. Ten mandarins inspected the buildings on the day of the opening, including the Prefect and the two highest military officers of the city, remaining three hours, and showing much interest in the arrangements, furniture, and treatment. On the following day the Salt Commissioner sent for Dr. Main to his Yamen to see his wife.

Hang-Chow had three ladies residing in it who were assigned to other stations, but were prevented from proceeding: two, Miss I. S. Clarke and Miss E. F. Turner, through there being no married missionary at Shaou-Hing; and the third, Miss F. E. Turner, awaiting the completion of the Mission-house at Chu-ki. These assisted Miss L. H. Barnes and Miss A. Hunt in their Work among the Women of the city and neighbourhood. The former visited Dande, ten miles from Hang-Chow, where a girls' school was started, also a working-class for women at which, after one hour given to sewing, an hour was devoted to delivering the Gospel message and prayer and singing. One woman attending this meeting gave up her kitchen god, and another endured beating from her husband for Christ's sake. A woman and her son from a neighbouring village were baptized at Dande. Miss Barnes visited Wang-dyao and Yang-tsang, further up the river, and induced four women, wives of inquirers, with their husbands' consent, to accompany her to Hang-Chow for a month's instruction. One of these women had been a vegetarian for twenty-five years, but broke her vow on Christmas morning, 1894. On being asked why she wished to do this, she replied, "Nothing but the blood of Jesus can cleanse me." Mr. Coultas mentions the visit to Hang-Chow of two well-to-do farmers belonging to a village on an island in Hang-Chow Bay to see Luke Chow, one of the catechists. They were distant relatives, and he had visited them and preached the Gospel. They first travelled to Great Valley, Luke's home, a distance of sixty-five miles, and thence eighty miles further to Hang-Chow. Luke was away up the river, so they returned home with a supply of tracts and Gospel portions.

CHU-KI DISTRICT.

Difficulties which the Rev. J. B. Ost met with in connexion with the purchase of a site for the Mission-house at CHU-KI City were referred to in the last Annual Report. Eventually the opposition was directed against the former owner of the site, Mr. Lih. The leading monk of the adjoining Buddhist temple brought charges against him of having stolen from the monastery the land which he had sold to the Mission. Mr. Ost relates what occurred:—

Difficulties in obtaining site for Mission-house at Chu-ki.

> I was present in court at the trial, when it was proved by other witnesses that the charge was a false one. Nevertheless, Mr. Lih was ordered to produce $400 of the purchase-money as a fine for having sold his land to a foreigner, and, in default of payment, he was sentenced, in my hearing, to 300 blows of the rattan, and ordered to spend the night (January 1, 1894) in a kneeling attitude on the pavement of the court-house floor. The magistrate reduced the blows to 200 at the time of infliction, and I had the pain and mortification of witnessing this unjust and cruel sentence carried out. I appealed to the Consul at Ningpo, and through his intervention I at last succeeded in getting the case re-heard by special deputies sent from Hang-Chow by the governor of the province, when the decision of the local magistrate was reversed, Mr. Lih set at liberty, and a proclamation issued stating that the property was ours, and we were at liberty to build. It was a great relief to have the case thus settled, but I felt keenly for the poor man, who had suffered three months of imprisonment, with cruel treatment (having been twice beaten, once receiving 200 blows, and the second time 300 blows). He felt deeply grateful for my kind offices on his behalf, and the people generally, I believe, felt that we had accomplished much in getting the unjust sentence of the local mandarin reversed. We felt that in this matter God was with us and helped us. The magistrate tried to raise opposition to us on the part of the local gentry, but did not succeed. I much regret to have to record the death of Mr. Lih. He died some three months ago from hæmorrhage of the lungs, and his end was, I fear, greatly accelerated by the treatment he received while in prison.

Landlord beaten.

Soon after these troubles were concluded, a fanatic appeared on the scene carrying about an inflammatory placard inciting the people to rise and put Mr. and Mrs. Ost to death. He was apprehended. In November some military students, who were in Chu-ki (to the number of nearly 3,000) for their examination, were exceedingly menacing, repeatedly trying to force an entrance into the house, throwing stones over the walls, and once threatening Mr. Ost's life. Mrs. Ost wrote:—

Danger from lawless military students.

To-day, on going to my service, we found them just setting up their target and preparing to shoot (with only arrows, of course), upon a piece of ground immediately in front of our church door. On seeing us they left their practice, and closed round the door. I had gone in, but my husband, who came up a few minutes later, heard them shouting, "Kill the foreign devils!" "Pull down the house!" &c. We were at first doubtful about being able to hold service, but after waiting about half an hour, until the excitement had somewhat subsided, we began. It was a very disturbed meeting, with crowds stumping up and down the little stair (for it is an "upper room" that we use), talking, laughing, walking round, and exciting each other; but still my husband went on through the service, only interrupting himself now and then to give a little reminder to the crowd of what we were doing, and what their conduct ought to be. I wonder what a clergyman at home would think if some of his auditors were, during service, walking round inside the communion-rails, and others joining him in the reading-desk; or if, when the harmonium struck up, the whole congregation left their seats and crowded round to see! But it would not have done to have made much trouble of all this, for, if they had become angered or excited, they would have been ready for anything.

A disorderly congregation.

There are sixteen out-stations in the Chu-ki district (which is about the size of Kent), some being twenty miles distant from Chu-ki City; and the villages containing Christians number twenty-seven. Thirty-four adults were baptized during the year. Four of them were baptized in June at Kunde by the Rev. Nyi-Liang-ping, and, of these four, three were the brother, sister, and wife of a young man who received the truth into his heart while at Ningpo, and were the fruits, under God, of his efforts. The Rev. B. Baring-Gould and Miss Baring-Gould spent three days in the district in November, and were, with the Rev. J. and Mrs. Neale, the first visitors in the new Mission-house. They witnessed the baptism of eight adults and two infants at Tsa'o-tah, and were present at an administration of the Holy Communion at Wong-do-fan. Mr. Ost contrasts the older congregations with those more recently formed, the latter having far more spiritual energy. At Badeo there are several inquirers. There is a Boys' Boarding School at Chu-ki and three day schools in the whole district.

Miss F. E. Turner arrived at Chu-ki in December.

III. PROVINCE OF SI-CHUEN.

At the close of 1893 the whole of the little Si-Chuen party were in temporary habitations in cities which had already been occupied by the China Inland Mission before the C.M.S. entered the province. The efforts to obtain houses in other cities, and within the district assigned to the Society, were mentioned last year. Hopes were raised for a time in respect to houses at Maocheo and Kiencheo; but the mandarins in both cases prevented possession. Much prayer was made and much faith exercised, and, at the close of 1894, the Rev. J. H. Horsburgh was privileged to report that actually five cities had been and were being occupied! Chong-pa was the first, on January 26, 1894; then Sin-tu, a few months later; at the end of May, Mien-Chuh; at the beginning of June, Miencheo; and An Hsien in the middle of December. A few weeks later, in January, 1895, a sixth, Shih-ts'uen Hsien, was occupied. Mr. Horsburgh writes:—

Occupation of six new cities.

> Is it not remarkable that at a time when you, kind friends at home, have been especially anxious about us, on account of this woeful war, that during a year in which you feared the work might be stopped, and your missionaries be obliged, for a season, to retire, God should have chosen this very time, this very year, to give us especial favour amongst the people, and to fulfil the longing of our hearts, that we might be able to go in and live amongst them? God's people have been praying for us in China a good deal more than usual, praying for our safety, and that His work might not be thrown back. And God has answered your prayers for us with an "exceeding abundantly." "He hath dealt bountifully with me" is, I think, the experience of every one of us in 1894. And now what is it to be in 1895? "Greater things than these."

More prayer than usual and more blessing.

The Rev. O. M. Jackson, writing early in December before the two last-named cities had been occupied, said:—

> The relative positions and distances of these four cities, if compared to the map of England, would be something like this: one city might, e.g., be placed in London, another in the Isle of Wight, one at Oxford, and one near Cambridge, and when I tell you that the intervening country is dotted with cities, towns, and markets, you will understand what splendid centres have been opened to us.

Mr. E. B. Vardon is stationed at Chung-King, on the Yang-tse River, in order to be able to serve the rest of the party by forwarding letters and supplies and in other ways. In July he made a two months' preaching and book-selling tour, first going down the Yang-tse to Wan Hsien, thence walking in a north-easterly direction to Sü Ting Fu, and from there down a tributary of the Yang-tse back to Chung-King. He called upon the officials at the different places visited, and copies of the New Testament were accepted by all of them. He was much encouraged by some intercourse he had with a Buddhist priest, whom he met at Sü Ting Fu, and who subsequently followed him to Chung-King and joined an inquirers' class.

A Buddhist priest becomes an inquirer.

Mr. D. A. Callum and Mr. W. Knipe paid a second visit (see last year's Report, pages 208–9) to Song-pau, a city near the borders of Tibet, in January, 1894, and the former remained there till September. They passed over a mountain 14,000 feet high, covered with snow, and were in the haunts of Tibetan robbers, but passed safely through all dangers. Mr. Callum was allowed to preach in some of the temples, where theatrical performances were being held, during the intervals between the plays. The people also themselves took the large sheet tracts and posted them up in various parts of the city and district. Visits were also paid to the Mohammedan mosques in the place. They met with two other foreigners in Song-pau, a Russian traveller and a Mohammedan from Bokhara. The latter said he had travelled through Tibet, calling at Lhassa, its capital.

In October Mr. A. A. Phillips was married to Miss Kelly, who reached the Mission in June, 1893. Miss Kelly spent the fifteen months before her marriage in language study, and otherwise qualifying for the life of a missionary. On November 1, the Rev. O. M. Jackson was married to Miss E. Garnett of this Mission. And in March Mr. J. A. Hickman was married to Miss A. A. Snell, also of this Mission.

The Rev. J. H. Horsburgh, when not itinerating or visiting the stations, and Mrs. Horsburgh, reside for the present at Kuan-Hsien. The order adopted in this Report of the stations is the geographical one, taking them as reached on a journey northward from Chentu, the capital.

SIN-TU.

Sin-Tu, on the Great North Road leading to Pekin, is fifteen miles north of Chentu. An agreement to rent a house here was entered into at the close of 1893, but its occupation was not possible until the spring of 1894. Miss E. D. Mertens entered into residence in August, and was joined in September by Miss E. Casswell. The latter, writing in November, said:—

Sin-Tu.

Visitors at time of the Empress's birthday.

We have a large guest-room here, and sometimes have a great number of women together. Just now there are grand rejoicings on account of the Empress's birthday, and the streets are full of people. Yesterday morning nearly a hundred must have come in. It was very difficult to gain their attention to listen to the "Old, Old Story," but I determined not to let them go without making an effort. Chinese characters, fortunately, always attract notice, and generally inspire some degree of respect, so I asked them to listen while I explained 1 Tim. ii. 4, 5, which texts are hanging on the guest-room walls. A few women, at least, carried some knowledge of the Gospel away with them.

MIEN-CHUH.

MIEN-CHUH is two days' journey, sixty miles, north of Chentu. Mr. A. A. Phillips first heard of it from an agent of the Scotch Bible Society in 1892. He visited it in the spring of 1893, and again, with Mr. D. A. Callum, in December of the same year. In March, 1894, he went the third time, with the purpose, if possible, of hiring a house. This, after many disappointments, he succeeded in doing from a man holding a literary degree, and possession was taken in May, not, however, without controversy with the landlord.

First foreign lady in Mien-Chuh.

In October Mr. Phillips took his bride to Mien-Chuh, and the arrival of the first foreign lady in the place excited intense curiosity. At the time of the Empress's birthday as many as seventy women would throng the guest-hall at one time, and their conduct on the whole was most friendly. The guest-hall for men will seat forty people, and, by throwing another room into it, a preaching-hall is formed capable of seating about eighty. Mr. Knipe, who went out with Mr. Horsburgh independently of the Society, was with Mr. and Mrs. Phillips at the close of 1894.

MIENCHEO.

In May, 1893, the Rev. O. M. Jackson and Mr. Phillips visited MIENCHEO, some ninety miles from Chentu, and the former remained five weeks, finding the people exceedingly friendly. In December of the same year Miss E. Garnett (now Mrs. Jackson) and Miss A. Entwistle made an evangelistic tour, starting from the C.I.M. Sanatorium at Sin-tien-tsi, near Pao-ning-fu, travelling over the hills for two days to Kiencheo, where the high road was reached, and thence proceeding by slow stages to Miencheo, stopping at most of the towns or villages for one, two, or three days. Again, in January, 1895, Miss A. Entwistle, accompanied by Miss G. E. Wells, went from Chentu to Miencheo; and in May the former was there once more, a guest at the "Long Old Age Inn," and while there a small house adjoining the said inn was offered to her, and after she had again been joined by Miss Wells, who, with Miss Garnett, had made another evangelistic tour from Sin-tien-tsi, they two entered into possession on June 6, and were joined in October by Miss R. Lloyd. Miss Wells wrote at the end of November:—

The women have got to know us well. The whole city begins to look upon us with much more kindliness and much less curiosity than when we first came. Two or three families amongst the upper classes have invited us to visit them. We have been trying to get the children in on Sundays, and a few girls begin to come regularly. We hope soon to have a Sunday school.

AN HSIEN.

An Hsien is on the map (see page 276) to the north-west of Miencheo. It was occupied in December, 1894, by Mr. D. A. Callum and Mr. W. Knipe.

CHONG-PA.

Chong-pa is a large and busy market town one stage, or thirty miles, north of Miencheo, and consequently about one hundred and twenty miles from Chentu. In order of time, it was the first city to be occupied by the C.M.S., and the story of its occupation in January, 1895, has been told at length in Mr. Horsburgh's deeply interesting letters. (See C.M. Intelligencer for November, 1894.) Mr. Horsburgh visited the city during his first tour in Si-Chuen in 1888; and in March, 1893, he again spent a few days there. In January, 1894, Mr. Jackson, accompanied by a Native agent of the China Inland Mission kindly lent by the Rev. W. Cassels for the purpose of assisting in renting a house, arrived at Chong-pa. He had to proceed to Chentu, but he left the Native, and the latter a few days later sent a message to Mr. Horsburgh at Miencheo that he had found a house to let, "where foreigners were not objected to." Mr. Horsburgh went at once, and on January 26 the agreement was signed and the earnest-money paid. The following day the street policeman, the street elders, and the men from the Yamen called upon the landlord and insisted on his returning the money and getting rid of his guests. Mr. Horsburgh, however, politely declined to leave, and for a week, until Mr. Jackson returned, he did not once leave the one room which he had secured. He wrote:—

"House to let; foreigners not objected to."

All day I sat in my little room; indeed, I had been a prisoner—the prisoner of prudence—ever since I came into it, never once going out excepting into a sort of cooking-shed at the side. I wore a little cabin-bag under my jacket, ready to pop my valuables into it at a moment's notice.

A prisoner of prudence.

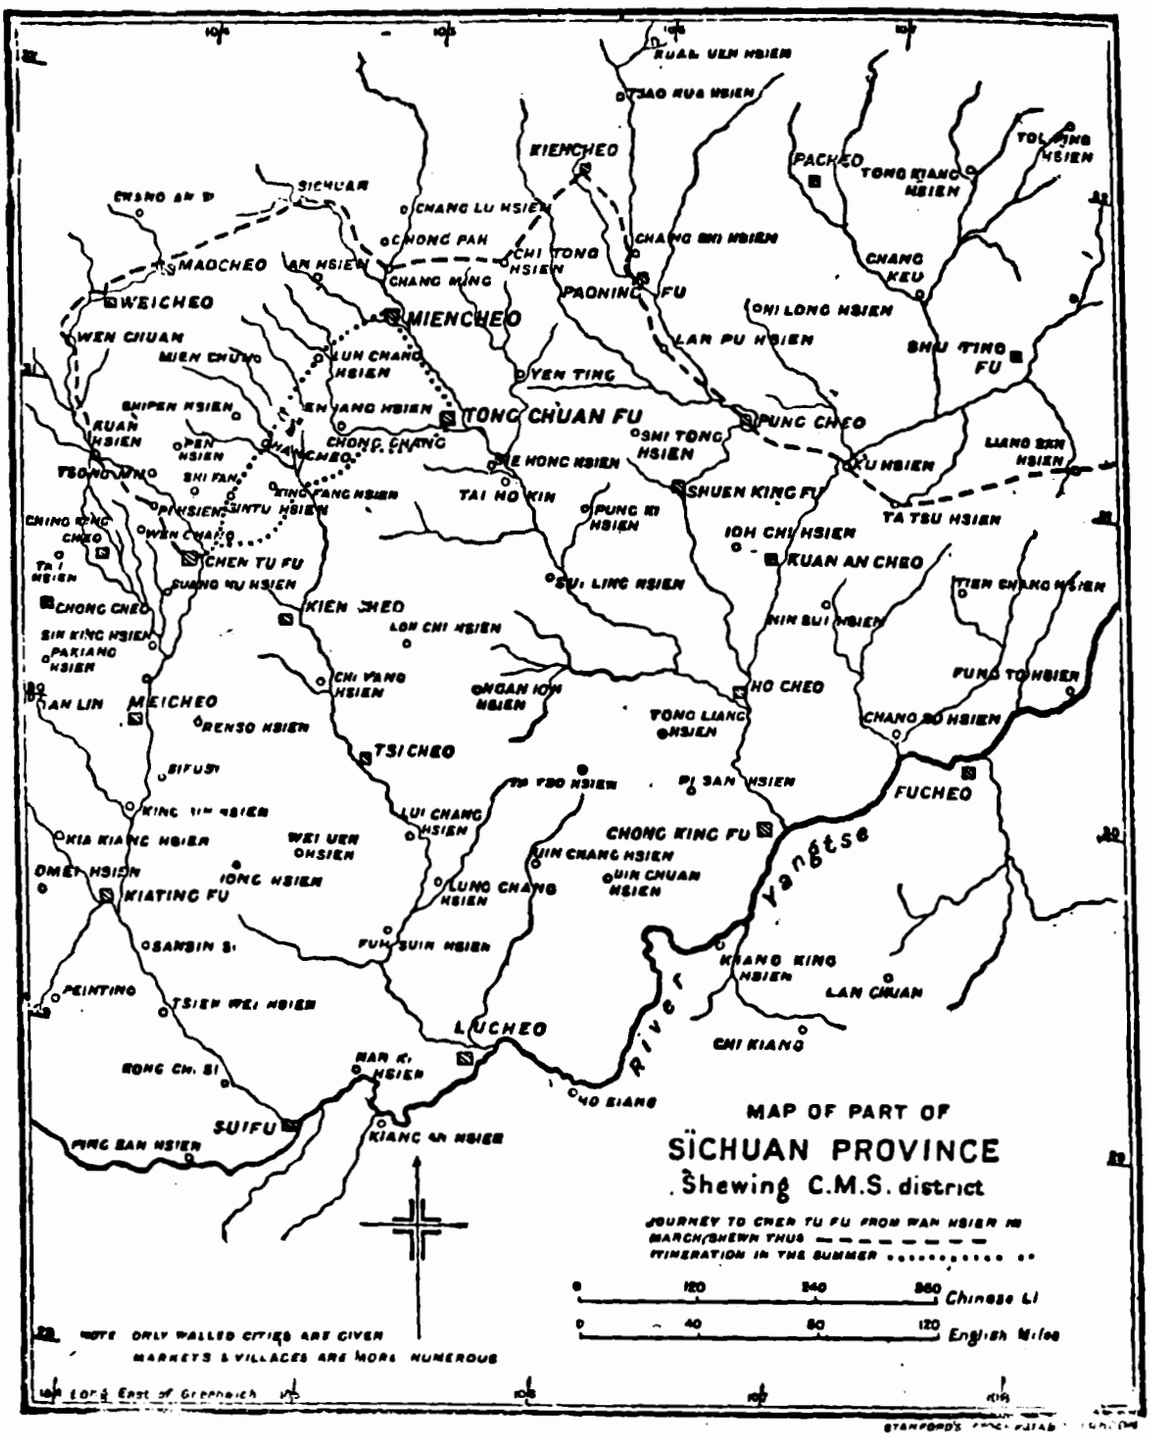

On the very day when his anxiety was greatest a proclamation (the origin of which Mr. Horsburgh is unable to explain) from the Governor-General at Chentu reached Chong-pa, which spoke favourably of the English, stated that the Chinese were freely permitted to go to England and trade there, and that the English were free to visit China. This terminated the resistance to the occupation on the part of the Chong-pa officials. Then, however, questions arose as to the ownership of the property, and it was long before the occupation was undisputed by all.

Officials 'fairly friendly;"

Writing in December, Mr. Jackson said that the officials had been "fairly friendly" throughout the year, even putting up a notice by the gate of the Mission-house requesting the people to behave well, and threatening punishment to offenders. The people everywhere in the city, and in the country around, were "most friendly." Mr. Simmonds, an independent member of the party, was with Mr. Jackson most of the year; Mr. J. A. Hickman spent a few weeks with him in the summer; and in September Mr. D. A. Callum, on his return from Songpau, went to Chong-pa and remained there till he went to occupy An Hsien in December. The last named found the medical knowledge gained at Islington exceedingly useful. He was while at Chong-pa called in to nine cases of opium poisoning, and was the means of saving seven lives, but two cases proved fatal. He says:—

Opium poisoning.

What an awful evil this unrestricted sale of opium is! A family quarrel takes place, about money generally, and one of the malcontents goes off to an opium shop, buys some opium, and eats or drinks it, hoping to die, and be revenged on those who have been hurting them.

The first case I had was that of a young wife of fifteen. She had had a quarrel with her husband—probably he had beaten her (a common thing in China)—and she, with set purpose, had fasted a day and a half, then took the opium. She was most determined in her resistance against our giving her an emetic, and not until she was nearly dead did she give up her struggle. She died shortly after we left the house.

Mrs. Jackson, after her marriage, reached Chong-pa on November 16, and was the first foreign lady to enter the city; she was visited by numerous guests, all kind and friendly. She writes: "We believe that we are at the source of a river of blessing which shall bring life and joy to many hearts and homes."

SHIH-TS'UEN HSIEN.

Mr. J. A. Hickman, accompanied by Mr. Simmonds, visited SHIH-TS'UEN HSIEN, to the north of the province, and not included on the map on the opposite page, in January, 1895. It is beautifully situated among the hills, and will prove, it is hoped, very healthy.

JAPAN MISSION.

For 230 years, in consequence of the political intrigues of the Jesuit missionaries in the sixteenth century, Japan was absolutely closed to the outer world. In 1853 the long-sealed empire began to open to European influences, and since that time the country has made most extraordinary progress in the adoption of Western civilization. Still more recent is the toleration now fully accorded to Christian effort. American missionaries arrived in 1859, but for several years they could do scarcely any direct evangelistic work. In 1869, just after the wonderful revolution which restored power to the Mikado, the first C.M.S. missionary landed at Nagasaki. He also could only use quiet and indirect methods of making known the Gospel, and the few converts vouchsafed to his labours were baptized secretly.

Since 1874 the Mission has been gradually extended and strengthened. In HONDO, the Main Island, Osaka and Tokio were occupied in 1874; Gifu, 1890; Fukuyama and Matsuye, 1891. In SHIKOKU, Tokushima was occupied in 1888. In KIU-SHIU, Nagasaki was occupied in 1869; Kumamoto and Fukuoka, 1888; and Oita, 1894. In HOKKAIDO, Hakodate in 1874; and Sapporo, 1892.

In 1889 a new constitution, formed somewhat on the lines of that of our own land, was promulgated. At the first General Election under this constitution, held in 1890, fourteen Christians were elected to seats in the House of Representatives; and a Christian was subsequently appointed Speaker.

Arrangements were made by the late Archbishop of Canterbury for the establishment of an English Bishopric in Japan, and the present Archbishop nominated the Rev. A. W. Poole, C.M.S. Missionary in South India, to be the first Bishop. He was consecrated October 18, 1883. But in the mysterious providence of God he was permitted to labour for a few months only; he died in July, 1885. He was succeeded by Bishop Edward Bickersteth, of the Cambridge Delhi Mission, son of the Bishop of Exeter. In 1893 the Committee undertook, on the invitation of Bishop Bickersteth, to support two new Bishops for the southern and northern islands respectively. On March 4, 1894, the Rev. H. Evington, C.M.S. Missionary of twenty years' experience in this Mission, was consecrated Bishop of Kiu-shiu. No appointment has yet been made to the northern diocese of Hokkaido.

Patriotism of Japanese.

THE patriotism manifested by the Japanese nation during the late war between Japan and China attracted the admiration almost as much as the remarkable organization of their army and navy excited the surprise of the civilized world. One of the lady missionaries at Osaka wrote in December:—

> There can be no doubt that Government and people alike are carrying on the war with a self-sacrifice and heroism worthy of ancient Greece. The Emperor is now living like a private citizen in Hiroshima, only that he works far harder than any ordinary man, doing business, dining, and sleeping all in one room, visiting the wounded, encouraging the troops as they embark, &c. &c. A rich Japanese, on seeing this, was so filled with shame at his own way of living that he killed himself.
>
> An old man, a few days ago, heard of the death of his only son in one of the battles. Instead of mourning he looked so proud and happy that every one asked what was the matter: "My son has given his life for his country," was his answer. A few weeks ago our mathematical master was called away with the first reserves, and some of our teachers went to sympathize with his widowed mother. "You must not sympathize, you must congratulate me on having even one son to send to Corea," was her remark! In the broiling heat of summer, a large Japanese firm in Tokyo fined each one of its employés a sen every time they remarked on the heat, because "their brothers in Corea had far worse heat to endure and did not complain." The money went to the war.

Beautiful, surely, and singular instances of devotion in a Heathen nation, and not unworthy of emulation by the loyal subjects of Christ in the prosecution of the war which He has entrusted to them!

Opportunities for the exercise of Christian zeal and love were presented by the war; and the Rev. G. H. Pole wrote of Hiroshima, on the Inland Sea, which was made the head-quarters of the war preparations:—

Japan Red Cross Society.

The sick and wounded who have been brought back from the battle-fields are being cared for by the Japan Red Cross Society in large temporary hospitals in various parts of the city, as well as in the larger temple buildings and churches; and access to the patients for the distribution of Bibles, tracts, and leaflets, or for reading and conversation, is readily granted, and such visits are highly appreciated.

Christians in the army.

Moreover, in the regiments and brigades now quartered in the city is quite a large and influential number (considerably over one hundred, I am told) of officers, doctors, nurses, and privates, who are not only Christians in name, but also zealous light-bearing servants of the Lord Jesus. These are uniting together in true loving sympathy, altogether irrespective of denomination, to bear testimony for their Master, and minister to the spiritual and temporal wants of their fellow-soldiers.

Among this earnest-minded, orderly, well-disciplined, but somewhat idle body of tens of thousands of human beings, and with the aid and sympathy of so large a party of Christian brethren and sisters, the little band of converts and workers connected with our small congregations at Hiroshima are beginning to labour with enthusiasm, while "the day" lasts, in the dissemination of the glorious light and truth of Christ. The soldiers are being visited, and Bibles, portions, and tracts distributed. The sick are being read to and prayed with. No hindrance or serious obstacle is placed in our way. Under the banners of the Genevan Red Cross, even the Heathen welcome and appreciate Christian charity and work; and an unmistakable prophecy of the future triumph of the King of kings is to be seen in the blood-coloured symbol of a Saviour's dying love, embroidered on the arms of unbelieving men and women, emblazoned on large white flags flying at the gateways of huge Buddhist temples, and painted on great lanterns at the entrances of Heathen-managed hospitals.

New Treaty between England and Japan.

A "Treaty of Commerce and Navigation between Japan and Great Britain," which was signed in London on July 16, 1894, has removed a ground of offence against foreigners which was an undoubted hindrance to the influence of European missionaries; it has also directly affected missionary work by securing greater freedom for travelling and residence away from treaty ports. When the treaty comes into force, which cannot be earlier than 1899, it provides that "in whatever relates to rights of residence and travel . . . the subjects of each contracting party shall enjoy in the dominions and possessions of the other the same privileges, liberties, and rights . . . as Native subjects, or subjects or citizens of the most favoured nation." But, meanwhile, by a protocol at the end of the Treaty, the following stipulation, among others, was agreed upon:—

The Japanese Government, pending the opening of the country to British subjects, agrees to extend the existing passport system in such a manner as to allow British subjects, on the production of a certificate of recommendation from the British representative in Tokyo, or from any of Her Majesty's Consuls at the open ports in Japan, to obtain upon application passports available for any part of the country, and for any period not exceeding twelve months, from the Imperial Japanese Foreign Office in Tokyo, or from the chief authorities in the Prefecture in which an open port is situated; it being understood that the existing rules and regulations governing British subjects who visit the interior of the Empire are to be maintained.

Archdeacon Warren comments as follows on the change which this provision effects:—

In the early days of the Mission, passports were not granted to ordinary European residents, whose travels were then confined within treaty limits—generally a radius of less than twenty-five miles from the treaty ports—on the land side; and when, a little later, they were obtainable, it was not possible to use them for the open prosecution of missionary work. The movements of a missionary travelling with a passport were carefully watched, and, beyond quiet talks with individuals or groups in the inns where the nights were spent, or by the wayside, but little could be done. Some years later passports began to be freely used by missionaries, but many felt unable so to itinerate with them, because they were ostensibly granted for health or scientific observation. About ten years ago, when the question was warmly discussed, it was explained unofficially by members of the Government that, whilst it would be difficult to change the form which applicants for passports were required to fill in and sign, they might be used by missionaries in the prosecution of their work. This, although not perfectly satisfactory, afforded considerable relief to tender consciences. Now, under a protocol attached to the new Treaty recently concluded between England and Japan, passports are granted to residents whose applications are endorsed by their Ministers or Consuls, or, in the case of those who are employed by Japanese, by their employers. This has given the passport system a recognition it has never had before, whilst every regulation, whether relating to the object of travel, the routes to be followed, or limits of time, to which any serious objection could be raised, has been rescinded or modified. The advantages of these modifications to itinerating missionaries, whether residing at treaty ports or at other places, will be great. The door is now not merely ajar, but wide open; the missionaries no longer travel on sufferance, but with a well-defined status; and thus a heavier responsibility rests upon the Church at home, which a few years ago prayed so earnestly for the removal of hindrances, and for opportunities of effectually teaching the Japanese people.

Advantages of new treaty to missionaries.

Reinforcements.

The reinforcements sent out consisted of the Rev. G. C. Niven, Licentiate in Theology of Durham University, and of Islington College; Miss Edith Mary Bernau, grand-daughter of the late Rev. J. H. Bernau, formerly a missionary of the Society in British Guiana, and niece of Archdeacon Arthur Moule; Miss J. Dunn, daughter of the Rev. T. Dunn, who retired from this Mission in 1893; Miss Hilda Susan Jackson; Miss Grace Rhoda Hill; and Miss Beatrice Jullian Allen. Except the last named, who sailed in March, 1895, all the above sailed in October, 1894.

The Rev. B. Baring-Gould, with Miss Baring-Gould, visited most of the stations of the Society in all the four chief islands of Japan in September and October.

I. HONDO (MAIN ISLAND).

"Missionary jurisdictions."

Bishop Edward Bickersteth, and Bishop McKim of the American Episcopal Church, have mutually agreed upon a territorial division of the Main Island into four "missionary jurisdictions"—namely, those of North and of South Tokyo, of Kyoto, and of Osaka. The two former are under Bishop McKim, and the two latter, containing a population of 18 million souls, under Bishop Bickersteth. The congregations of Tokyo and Osaka, however, are attached to the jurisdiction of the one or other Bishop, who presides over the work of the mission with which they are respectively connected.

Archdeacon C. F. Warren, the Revs. S. Swann and J. Williams, and Miss M. Sander came home in the summer of 1894; and the Rev. and Mrs. B. F. Buxton, the Rev. S. Swann, and Miss G. E. Cox sailed to return in August.

OSAKA.

Divinity School, Osaka.

The Rev. P. K. Fyson had seventeen students in the Divinity College, Osaka, only two-thirds of its full complement. The Rev. S. M. Koba, the Japanese tutor, shared with him the theological lectures; the Revs. C. T. and H. G. Warren assisted in the Church History and Greek Testament classes, and Archdeacon Page, of the American Mission, kindly gave a weekly lecture on Homiletics. The students did the major part of the evangelistic work in Osaka, so far as the preaching was concerned. Four preaching places were regularly supplied, audiences were good, and one baptism is traced to this work during the year.

Boarding Schools.

The Boys' Boarding School, under the Rev. H. McC. E. Price, has twenty-seven boarders and eighteen day-boys. Two boys completed the school course, the first to do so, in July, 1894. One of them was the boy who was baptized in 1893 and who had been destined to be a Buddhist priest, as mentioned in last year's Report. He was confirmed in February, 1894. The Bishop Poole Memorial Girls' School was under Miss Boulton, of the Female Education Society, assisted by Miss M. A. McClenaghan and Miss A. C. Bosanquet. Two girls were baptized as adults, one being from Imao, where her father has been interested in Christianity since the time of the earthquakes in 1891. She herself, when she entered the school, was strongly opposed to the Gospel, and her subsequent earnestness and happiness were a cause of wonder to all who knew her. Eight of the elder girls were confirmed in November. Miss McClenaghan, at the end of her first year in the Mission-field, writes:—

> Probably, I should think, many, if not all, of the servants of our King who have followed Him into the foreign part of the field have passed through experiences more or less like mine—at first the trembling watching to see what the Master would say, the doubts that would come as to whether it could be His will to leave the already almost emptied home, His will to leave work which He had given and for which He seemed to have fitted. Then the setting out, feeling the everlasting Arms bearing one up more tangibly than ever before, the sweet communings with the Master during the long delightful voyage, the almost home-like welcome from the missionaries here, the interest and excitement of all the new surroundings. Then the settling down to earnest study and teaching, both of which test one's patience, and become prosaic if one for a moment forgets that they are "for a King;" the old doubts recurring again with double force in moments of weakness or over-work, the utterly indescribable way in which one almost feels the powers of darkness all around (and especially in one's study), and in which one learns what is meant by the fiery darts of the wicked one; then the glorious realization of the "exceeding greatness" of the power of the "Living One," who fills even the weakest of His children with "power over all the power of the enemy," and now, as I write, the full, triumphant, ever-deepening conviction that He has led me every step of the way, that "He is our life," even mine, and that the body, soul, and spirit which are filled with that life, "filled with all the fulness of God," cannot fail to be used by the great Master Workman, whatever be the daily work which He gives.

"The powers of darkness" and "the fiery darts."

Miss McClenaghan was transferred to Hamada, an out-station of Matsuye, in January, 1895. During the year, until Miss G. E. Cox returned, Miss R. D. Howard was in charge of the Bible Women's Home, in which there were four students at the close of the year. Two of the women who left in the summer went to labour at Nagasaki and Gifu. Three of the new class of four are described as "most truly in earnest" and remarkable for their "self-forgetfulness and whole-hearted devotion in dealing with Christians and catechumens." The work in the Pastorates was superintended by the Revs. G. H. Pole and C. T. Warren, and Misses R. D. Howard and A. C. Bosanquet visited and held classes for the women. The Rev. B. H. Terasawa, of Holy Trinity Church, was at Tokyo for four months in the spring and summer of 1894. The Rev. S. M. Koba had the pastoral charge of the Church of the Saviour, and reports ten adult baptisms. A new congregation was formed during the year in the neighbourhood of the Boys' Boarding School at Momoyama, under the Rev. H. McC. E. Price, which has 19 communicants. The women of this congregation and the girls in the Boarding School made several hundred warm knitted collars for the troops, which were sent to the seat of war at the expense of the Government.

GIFU.

Gifu.

"One of the most difficult years that I have experienced in Japan," the Rev. A. F. Chappell writes of 1894. The condition of the Christians at and around GIFU was disappointing, and baptisms were fewer than usual, only twelve adults. Miss M. L. Pasley joined Miss E. C. Payne in September, 1895. Access was obtained to many new houses, and Miss Payne visited the women at the out-stations. At Ogaki the son of the Governor has joined the class of catechumens. The Bible-woman at Imao, Mrs. Tamogami, was asked by the police, as well as by the parents of the youth, to take in hand the "prodigal of the district," and lead him to a better life. The parents are, Mr. Chappell says, earnest Buddhists, and had first applied to their priests, then to the police, and, both failing, they appealed to the Bible-woman. In Mohijima five men became catechumens.

A Buddhist brings his prodigal son to the Bible-woman.

TOKYO.

No missionary was available to succeed the Rev. J. Williams at Tokyo on his coming home in the summer of 1894. As already stated, the Rev. B. H. Terasawa had charge of the work for several months.

FUKUYAMA.

The Rev. S. Swann has, partly on grounds of health, resigned his work at FUKUYAMA, and accepted for a year the chaplaincy at Kobe. The Rev. G. H. Pole visited the station several times. Mrs. Edmonds has a Bible-class for the women of the congregation, whose knowledge, she says, is very limited, and their spiritual standard not very high. She also held cottage meetings for Heathen women in the Christians' houses. A Sunday school for the children in the west of the city, who are too distant to attend the one near the church, has an average attendance of 65. On one occasion 150 women and children came to Mrs. Edmonds' house to see lantern-pictures and hear the Gospel. Miss Dunn has joined Mrs. Edmonds at this station.

Fukuyama.

At Hiroshima, which is superintended from Osaka, an excellent work is developing, Mr. Pole states.

MATSUYE.

The Rev. R. H. Consterdine was in charge at MATSUYE during the few months of the Rev. B. Fowell Buxton's absence in England. He writes gratefully of the comfort and assistance which the Rev. T. Makioka afforded him. Miss F. M. Fugill wrote of her first year in the field :—

Matsuye.

"Not one thing hath failed."

"Not one thing hath failed of all His good promise." This has been my experience during the first year of my missionary life ; it certainly has been the very happiest year of my life in work for God. I think our loving Father gives the very best to His missionary children. Of course I have missed all the outside help we get at home, but I have found that the Lord Jesus has satisfied me straight from the Fountain Head, and, oh, it is such real joy telling the glorious Gospel Message to those who have never heard ! This has been my happy privilege many times. Oh, what need there is for living voices to "tell it out among the Heathen that the Lord is King !"

Miss Fugill's health suffered at the close of the year, and she removed to HAMADA, some twelve hours distant by sea from Matsuye, and was joined by Miss McClenaghan at the beginning of 1895. They are the only foreigners in the place.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Buxton returned to Matsuye in the autumn.

II. SHIKOKU.

Tokushima. THE new church at TOKUSHIMA was dedicated to the service of God by Bishop Bickersteth on April 7, 1894. Sixty communicants were present at the administration of the Holy Communion which followed. On the Sunday after, the Bishop held two confirmations, at Tokushima and at Muya, when nineteen candidates were confirmed; and on each day throughout the week special evangelistic services were held, and two addresses each evening were made to audiences averaging 150. They were not held, however, without interruption and opposition from, sad to state, a young fellow who had been baptized two years before. There were seven adult baptisms during the year. The Rev. G. Chapman says that the Congregation, in respect to regularity of attendance at church and to zeal, is not satisfactory. Miss E. Ritson and Miss E. M. S. Huhold, assisted by the Bible-woman, Mrs. Kubota, "whose bright earnest influence is felt wherever she goes," work among the Christian women, holding meetings at their houses. The subject taken at these meetings was the Prayer Book, with Scripture proofs, &c., as it was felt, especially in view of what had occurred at Tomioka (see below), that it was important to confirm them in their attachment to the Scriptural Liturgy of the Church of England. Miss Ritson has a class of three young women studying the Bible with her, one of whom is the daughter of a judge in Wakimachi, who, though not a Christian himself, allowed his daughter to join this class, and, for the purpose of doing so, to reside at Tokushima with some friends. Both the ladies hold children's meetings in their houses, and some of them, Miss Ritson says, are "most wonderfully quick in answering the questions put to them about the life and works of Christ." One little boy on being asked, "Why did Christ come into the world?" answered, "To save children." The ladies' work was not wholly confined to the women and children however. The house of one of them is directly opposite a large Japanese school, and some of the boys visited Miss Ritson, possibly, she thinks, out of curiosity, to see her house; but they heard the Gospel story, and one read through St. Mark and commenced St. Luke, inquiring into all the difficulties as they occurred. The same boy borrowed some Bible pictures to show his sister. A student in a Native Normal School who "did not think it right to have no Superior Being to put his trust in," and had studied Buddhism without satisfaction, wished to hear about the teaching of Jesus Christ, and began to study the Bible. One man who attended a meeting held at Miss Huhold's house by Mr. Chapman said, "There is no advantage in being a Buddhist, and I do not yet see the advantage of being a Christian; but there is this one thing, that

Women's work.

"The Christians lead such good lives."

the Christians all lead such good lives that I want to hear more of it."

A schism occurred at Tomioka early in 1894, two of the leading Christians having, for different reasons, seceded and joined the Plymouth Brethren, and carried most of the Christians with them. At Honja, however, which is close to Tomioka, the efforts of the Plymouth Brethren were not successful. Mr. Tanaka (see Annual Report for 1890–1, page 206), who is "the backbone of the congregation, and knows his Bible thoroughly well," had much the best of the argument. The congregation at Muya, Mr. Chapman says, is in a healthy state spiritually, having an exceptionally good catechist. Miss Ritson visited Wakimachi and accompanied the catechist to the neighbouring villages, she manipulating the lantern, and he preaching the Gospel; she calculates that 1,200 heard the Gospel during the week she was there.

A Native Christian successfully defends his Church principles.

III. KIU-SHIU.

Bishop Evington admitted Mr. Watanabe Yasuji to Deacon's Orders at Fukuoka on September 30, 1894. The Bishop and Mrs. Evington had a providential escape from shipwreck on the journey to Fukuoka from Nagasaki, as their vessel got fast on the rocks at midnight.

Ordination. Bishop Evington in danger of shipwreck.

The Rev. A. B. Hutchinson writes of the progress of the work in this island during the decade from 1884 to 1894:—

Progress during ten years.

Before me lie the returns of 1884. All Kiu-shiu was then in my sole charge. The 154 Christians of that year have become nearly 800; the fifty-one communicants now number over 300, or sixfold in ten years. In place of the solitary missionary in charge at Nagasaki, with one recruit studying the language, we have five missionaries in charge of stations, four of whom reside in the country in districts then almost unknown. Lay workers have largely increased. Six lady missionaries have joined the staff. Bible-women have been introduced. Several substantial church buildings have been erected, congregations organized, and, last but not least, this large island (as large as Ireland, and far more populous) formed into a diocese of the Japanese Church. Here, surely, there is something—nay, much—to encourage us to a renewal of steady, plodding, patient, prayerful endeavour.

NAGASAKI.

Nagasaki

The Rev. A. R. Fuller was encouraged by the signs of improved spirituality in the Congregation at Nagasaki, among whom also there was "an absolute absence of discord," a too common element in Japan. Their contributions amounted to $207. The Evangelistic Efforts, though the baptisms were few in number, were also encouraging, on account of the large audiences and the frequent attendance of the same individuals. Many soldiers on their way to the seat of war attended, to learn something, as they themselves said, regarding the unseen world into which they might so speedily be hurried. Mrs. Evington took a class for children. Misses H. S. Cockram and D. I. Hunter Brown resided at Osaka until the summer for the advantage of tuition in the language, and later, with several other ladies, at Katsuoji, a hill village, of which Miss Hunter Brown writes:—

A "Promised Land."

There, every afternoon, we met in an "upper room," from which there was a view, through a deep cleft in the pine-covered hills, of the Kyoto plain far below us—a view which was so wonderfully exquisite in its ethereal colouring that we often felt like the pilgrims on the Delectable Mountains when they caught the far view of the Celestial City. Here was no Holy City, but, thank God, it is a Promised Land—promised to His Son; and who shall stay His steps, or say Him nay, as He moves to take His own?

"The awfulness of a missionary's life."

I ask nothing better than to have this land for my land, this people for my people—to get right in among them. May our God be their God, and may they know the power of God the Holy Spirit! But if they are to learn that, we must live in that power. I feel I am only beginning to grasp what the awful seriousness of the missionary's life among the Native Christians is. Propositions to which one assented at home are here appearing as facts which the power of God's indwelling Spirit only can fit us to meet. Thanks be unto Him Who gives unto His servants the whole armour of God.

Three adults were baptized at Shimabara, and the same number at Kagoshima. At the latter place the interest in the war was exceptionally strong, the people of Satsuma province, in which it is situated, having always been distinguished for military prowess. Mr. Fuller says as to this:—

So martial are they in spirit, that many who have passed the age at which they are allowed to become combatants have volunteered to serve in mere menial capacities. The men of Satsuma are famous as swordsmen, and immediately on the outbreak of the war a considerable number volunteered for active service. From this it will be gathered that their interest in the war is so intense as almost entirely to monopolize their thoughts.

Hearers were few, but good work was done among individuals. From Kagoshima an attempt has been made to open work at Kanoya, in the adjoining province of Osumi, and the catechist regards it as a hopeful field.

Loochoo Islands.

A policeman was baptized at Naha, the capital of Okinawa, the largest of the LOOCHOO ISLANDS; the work there was much disturbed by the war, as it was rumoured at one time that the Chinese meditated an attack on those islands.

FUKUOKA.

Fukuoka.

Since the Rev. A. B. Hutchinson's return to Fukuoka in June, 1894, the work of the station and out-stations has been divided between him and the Rev. J. Hind, the former taking the supervision of the agents in the city of Fukuoka and the district to the south, while the latter takes the out-station work to the north and east. Of the city Congregation, Mr. Hutchinson states, during the eight years since work commenced there, 239 were baptized and seventeen joined the congregation from other places, in all 256; on the other hand, fifty-one removed to other places, and thirty-three died. Of the 172 left, fifty-six are steady communicants. Mr. Hutchinson baptized three women and one young man in December. The man was from Iyo, on the island of Shikoku, just opposite Oita, the new station on this island (see below). The man went to Fukuoka to prosecute a lawsuit, and was led to enter the preaching place on a wet day when he happened to be passing that way. "Thus worldly loss led, under God, to eternal gain." Mrs. Hind, Miss A. C. Tennent, and Miss E. A. P. Sells engage in work among the women, and conduct three Sunday schools. Of the newly ordained deacon, Mr. Hutchinson writes:—

Worldly loss leads to eternal gain.

It was with feelings of solemn joy I was able to present to the Bishop for ordination as deacon one whose Christian character, life, and work I have closely watched and admired ever since I came to Japan. Watanabe San has laboured faithfully and well, and our work here is mainly owing to his diligence and zeal. When he became a Christian his resolve was made "to speak to at least one of his countrymen each day for Christ." It was not easy to do this, he says, especially twelve years ago.

A good resolve of a Native Christian.

The new Treaty has enabled Mr. Hind to supervise the out-stations under his charge more effectually. Some of those baptized at Imajiku, a village eight miles to the west of Fukuoka, fell away. Of the catechist, Miwa San, Mr. Hind says:—

Some of the people say that Miwa San is out of his mind. We know our Lord's own relations said the same of Him, and Festus accused St. Paul of the same thing. Thank God, Miwa's madness is of the same kind. I watched him carefully once while he was preaching, and could imagine any one who knew nothing of the mind of Christ, which makes one long for souls, saying such a thing. The dear fellow is in dead earnest. I seldom, if ever, met a man with such intense sympathy and unselfishness.

"In dead earnest."

Another earnest worker, Yamamoto San, is at Zassho, a village six miles south of Fukuoka, where the first baptisms took place in December, 1893. Some persecution arose there in consequence of the indiscreet zeal of one of the Christians, who, tearing open a paper charm representing a god and finding a peppercorn, taunted the people with worshipping such a thing. This man burnt his household gods, and, when asked by some Heathen who were present not to burn them but to give them away, replied that he could not let them worship what he knew to be no good. A leper was baptized at Amazi, fifteen miles further south. In the neighbourhood of Kotake, where the coal-mines abound, there are some promising inquirers among the officials of the coal-mines, for whom the catechist, Nakamura San, holds Bible-classes. One of the Christians in this district was formerly, at the beginning of the present Emperor's reign, when Christianity was prohibited, an official whose duty it was to see that all the villagers stamped on a picture or effigy of Christ and vowed that they would never become Christians. This man now often reproaches himself for having done this.

Self-reproaches of a convert.

Translation work.

A translation of Canon Morse's book on Confirmation (S.P.C.K.) was made by Kuroki San, assisted by Mr. Hind.

KUMAMOTO.

Although the Rev. and Mrs. J. Brandram reached Japan after furlough in February, 1894, the difficulty experienced in procuring a residentiary passport delayed them at Nagasaki until September, when they obtained, in accordance with the terms of the new Treaty, a travelling passport allowing them to travel anywhere in Japan for the space of one year. In KUMAMOTO, where the anti-foreign feeling was exceptionally pronounced, the effect of the revised Treaty has been marked. Mr. Brandram writes:—

Kumamoto.

> The revised Treaty has done a great deal to break down the strong feeling against Englishmen. I heard from a most reliable source of the expulsion of three boys from a public school for behaving badly to a Christian boy, and the master of the school promised the Christian parent that his son should be subjected to no further persecution on the score of his Christianity.

Kumamoto was the head-quarters of the sixth division of the army, and during September and October thousands of extra soldiers belonging to different army reserves were in the city, "whose quiet and orderly behaviour," Mr. Brandram remarks, "was most exemplary." Some of these soldiers were quartered on the catechist Hoshino San, and Miss H. Riddell tells an interesting story regarding them:—

> Here, in this garrison city, since the war began, I think we have sometimes felt the throbbing of the heart of Japan. So many whom we know have gone from this city. Last September I returned somewhat earlier than usual to Kumamoto; on one Saturday and on the following Tuesday I went to the preaching-place to play the organ. Soldiers had been quartered there for two months, and while Hoshino San was preaching I saw the verandah at the back of the house gradually filling with soldiers in dress and undress. A few days after some of these men came to see me. They belonged to the army reserve, and had just been called up for training before starting for the war. One I found was a Christian, but not letting his light shine very brightly, and all were educated. We had a little talk about those they had left behind, and then of the Home prepared in love for those who accept Jesus Christ as their Saviour, whether they ever see Japan again or not. Just at that time a dear home friend sent me some money to spend in Bibles for giving away—it just met the opportunity, and so I asked our catechist if he would offer the ten men quartered in the preaching-place a New Testament each, fearing that if I offered them they might be accepted for politeness' sake, and not with the intention of reading. Every one accepted. Very shortly after they started for the war, and from one of the halting-places on the way I had a letter from four of them, telling me that the four met together every day to read their New Testaments, the one who was a Christian explaining to them. Since then I have had a second letter from the same four, telling me in true soldier style of "how we took Port Arthur!"

Heathen soldiers reading New Testament while on march to the war.

Miss Riddell has a Sunday class of young men, with an average attendance of twenty-five, and several other young men visit her for Bible study. One of these latter had been an earnest Buddhist, as he showed by going into retreat and in other ways, and he was requested to write an article against Christianity; he not only refused this, but he made a bonfire of his Buddhist books, and was then renounced by his former friends. Miss Riddell formed a Japanese branch of the Worcester Daily Prayer Union, to pray for an outpouring of the Holy Spirit, and obtained sixty-one members belonging to different denominations. Miss G. Nott describes her work of visiting the homes of both well-to-do and poor, holding Bible-classes, &c. The difficulty with all, she says, but especially with women of the upper class, is to make them believe that they are sinners, and she gives this instance:—

A bonfire of Buddhist books.

I was talking one day to a dear little woman of very good family, an officer's wife here, and was telling her that before the One True God we are all sinners. She listened politely, and then, covering her face with her hands, she burst into a peal of quiet laughter—"I do beg your pardon," she said, "but I a sinner! the idea is too ridiculous." You see it is firmly believed in many cases among men, and women too, that other nations may need a Saviour, but not Japan; Japan is the country of the gods, the Japanese the children of the gods, and therefore they cannot sin.

No sense of sin.

OITA.

The Kiu-shiu missionaries, in conference with Bishop Evington immediately after his arrival at Nagasaki, decided several matters which the general Missionary Conference, which met at Osaka the previous February, had left undetermined till the Bishop's return. Among these was the location of the Rev. and Mrs. H. L. Bleby, which was fixed to be OITA, on the east coast of Kiu-shiu, having Nobeoka as an out-station, and the provinces of Bugo and Hiuga as a field for evangelization. Mr. and Mrs. Bleby arrived at Oita in September. They found only four baptized Christians there, one of whom removed elsewhere soon after they arrived, one other had for some time neglected attendance at the services, and, of the remaining two, one was blind. At Nobeoka there are twenty-six Christians.

IV. HOKKAIDO (ISLAND OF YEZO).

BISHOP EVINGTON, at the request of Bishop Bickersteth, visited Hokkaido in September and held confirmations in Hakodate, Sapporo, Otara, and other out-stations on the line of railway. The Rev. B. Baring-Gould visited HAKODATE about the same time. Their visits happily synchronized with a gathering of the Native workers from the out-stations scattered over the whole island in that town for conference and united prayer. The Rev. W. Andrews writes :—

Devotional meetings for agents.

For three weeks we had devotional meetings, business meetings, and much Christian fellowship. Bishop Evington, from Kiu-shiu, was here as the Chairman of the Sei-ko-kwai, and kindly gave the workers several addresses and sermons; then Mr. Baring-Gould arrived just in time for the last three days, and addressed them several times. I was so thankful that his visit was thus timed. In all, the workers had about twenty-five addresses or sermons during the three weeks. We are looking for the results in their work during the next twelve months.

Of these Native agents Mr. Andrews says: "I feel that all of them, without one exception, know the value of prayer, and are striving to know more of Christ so that they may tell about Him to the people around." Each congregation in this island makes a contribution to the Missionary Society connected with the Sei-ko-kwai, or Church Council. In October, 1894, a Missionary Sunday was observed for the first time, on which sermons were preached in each church, and missionary boxes were opened. Over $14 was collected from the Native Christians.

Ainu School.

At Hakodate the Girls' School has eight boarders and thirty-five day-girls. The Ainu School, under Mr. C. Nettleship, has twenty boys, whose interest, he says, in their Scripture studies was most encouraging; the carefully marked Bibles of some of the elder pupils afforded him special satisfaction. During the summer holidays, Mr. and Mrs. Nettleship, with their two children, itinerated among the Ainu villages near Abuta, their means of locomotion being a farm-cart, roofed in with bamboo and canvas, in which the children, calico tent, and other gipsy accompaniments, and a very small baby organ, were stored. Thus equipped, they walked and rode 300 miles, and held forty-five meetings, attended on an average by sixty people. He gives the following interesting particulars :—

Itineration among Ainu villages.

Taking up temporary quarters in a fairly commodious Ainu dwelling in Abuta, we found ourselves within reach of four other Ainu villages in a twenty miles' radius, and in touch with no fewer than eight of our holiday-keeping pupils. One dear lad, David, who had been baptized last year, gave up his home-stay in a neighbouring village in order to be with us, to help generally, and take part in the afternoon meetings for children, to interpret, &c. Of another of the lads (who, by-the-by, was sent to the Hakodate School as an incorrigible last year), under the heading of July 3, the Diary says: "Heard good news of lame Andrew, who is spending his holidays at Usu. Since his return home he has been taking his Testament out with him daily to the fields, and reading it aloud to the men and women labouring there." This same boy attended the meetings most regularly, and delighted in explaining the Scripture picture rolls, and, after the address was finished, in elucidating to his friends any points which were not made quite clear to them. The father of another schoolboy decided to break away from Heathenism, and was baptized by Mr. Batchelor before we left.

Zeal of a lame Christian lad.

One feature of the work on the Hokkaido is, as Mr. Andrews points out, that the majority of the converts baptized there had first heard the Gospel in the towns on the Main Island, from which they emigrated, and not a few of the immigrants to this colony were already baptized Christians. Sometimes these are in the island for a considerable time before they are discovered. At Otamura the nucleus of the present thriving congregation worshipping in their new church was a single Christian who was heard of in the following way:—

How a Christian was discovered, and what the discovery led to.

Four years ago one of the catechists, in his first visit, reported there was one Episcopalian Christian, and that he had discovered him by someone telling him that The Christian, a Native paper, was delivered there once a week. It was found that the Christian had been there a year unknown to us. We immediately commenced work in the village, and that one Christian soon became the centre and life of a little band, and now there are forty-seven, and they built their church last spring.

The catechist at Yesashi, Kuroda San, died in the summer. Mr. Andrews says of him:—

Death of a catechist, his fruitful labours.

Last May I was talking with the catechist at Yesashi of the happiness it would be if, when the Master calls us away from our work here, we were able to say, "I have finished the work which Thou gavest me to do." A few weeks after, in July, early one Monday morning, a telegram came from the Church Committee at Yesashi, saying, "Kuroda sleepeth," and so he had finished his work—only a few days' illness, and then had gone Home.

Kuroda, when he first came to Hokkaido, five years ago, was used to gather fifty souls into the fold within twelve months. After he had left his first field of labour for another—a much harder one—the work he had commenced was still carried on by others, and has spread through the whole island, till more than 400 souls have been gathered in since the first impetus given to the work by Kuroda, and now he has gone Home for his reward.

The magazine Hokkai no Hikari ("Northern Sea Light") has now attained a sale of 550 copies monthly.

Kushiro.

The work in the KUSHIRO district has been placed under the Rev. D. Marshall Lang, who visited it from Hakodate in October. Miss L. Payne resides at Kushiro, where she superintends a girls' day-school with sixteen Japanese children, a Sunday school which is well attended, an English Bible-class for Japanese acquainted with English, an Ainu school at Harutori, of which three children were baptized, and another Ainu school in Tong-Keshi.

Sapporo. 123 adults baptized.

The Rev. J. Batchelor, residing at SAPPORO, had another year of large ingathering from among the Ainu, 123 adults being baptized, making 407 baptized Christians, whereas at the end of 1891 only nine had been baptized altogether. These Christians reside in seventeen villages. Mr. Batchelor refers to efforts of a French Roman Catholic priest to pervert the recent converts:—

I commenced work among the Ainu, as distinct from the Japanese, in 1882; especially in the Usu, Horobetsu, and Saru districts, though I had visited all those districts three years before for the purpose of learning the language. The priests followed me in 1891 or 1892.

Efforts of Romanists to draw away the Ainu Christians.

On arriving at Piratori on August 18 of this year I found that the priest who was then there had given a small Roman Catholic catechism to two of our Christians, whom we had taught to read. One of these is a lad seventeen years of age whom I baptized in July last year. The priest has been trying to get him from us for a long time, but I am happy to say without success so far. This lad told me that the priest had informed him that the baptism I administer is useless, but that he himself could, by baptizing him, and providing he paid some money, ever so little would do, even were it no more than one or two sen, wash away all his sins, both original and actual. My astonishment at hearing this can be better imagined than described. In fact, I thought it so extraordinary that I asked an Ainu and our Japanese catechist to question the lad thoroughly on the matter, and they affirm it as being true.

One of our Christians came the other day and asked me whether my name, "Batchelor," really meant that I had no right to be married! I asked why he put such an extraordinary question, and where he had learned the meaning of the term "bachelor." He said that last year the priest told him that such was the meaning of my name, and added that it was very wrong of me to be married, yet here I was with a wife and children! It is true indeed that I have a wife, but it is not true that we are blessed with children. My friend's eyes were opened when I told him of the Romish ideas of married clergy! I also told him that this was the thin edge of the wedge against me as a married clergyman. The chief difficulty my Ainu friend found in connexion with the name "Batchelor"—meaning that all who bear it have no right to marry—was with regard to what became of the female Batchelors, and whether my mother was named Batchelor also! May the Lord keep His people from the errors of Rome, and His labourers from the slanders of Romish priests.

Mr. Batchelor was engaged in itinerating, training two young men for future work as catechists, and translating the Scriptures. The Prayer Book in Ainu is already in the press. Mrs. Batchelor has reading classes for young men and girls.

NEW ZEALAND MISSION.

The Mission to the Maoris of New Zealand was the second of the Society's Missions in order of time. It was undertaken at the invitation of Samuel Marsden, Chaplain in New South Wales, who landed on the Northern Island, with the first three men—lay agents—sent out as pioneers, in 1814, and preached the first Christian sermon to the natives on Christmas Day of that year. Other missionaries followed, whose lives, which were entirely in the power of a race of ferocious cannibals, were frequently in apparently imminent danger. For eleven years no results were seen. The first conversion took place in 1825, and no other Natives were baptized for five years. Then began the marvellous movement which resulted in almost the whole Maori nation being brought under Christian instruction and civilizing influences, and which led Bishop Selwyn, on his arrival in his new diocese in 1842, to write: "We see here a whole nation of pagans converted to the faith. . . . Where will you find, throughout the Christian world, more signal manifestations of the presence of the Spirit, or more living evidences of the Kingdom of Christ?"

In 1840 New Zealand was made a British Colony, and emigration on a large scale ensued. The vices as well as the benefits of civilization were introduced, and the inevitable conflict of race began. The continual disputes about the sale and possession of land led to prolonged and bitter wars, which shook the Native Church to its foundations. In 1864 arose the "Pai Marire" or "Hau-hau" superstition, a strange compound of Christianity and Heathenism, which spread rapidly among the natives. It was a party of Hauhaus who so barbariously murdered the missionary Völkner.

In 1883 a C.M.S. Mission Board, comprising the Bishops of Auckland, Waiapu, and Wellington, and other members, was established to administer the Society's grants, which diminish annually, and will cease (subject to personal claims) in a few years.

Two new Bishops: of Wellington,

THE two vacant Bishoprics of Wellington and Waiapu were filled up in quite different ways. The Synod of the former diocese, on the resignation of Bishop Hadfield, committed the choice of a Bishop to the Archbishop of York and the Bishop of Durham; and they chose the Rev. F. Wallis, Fellow of Caius College, Cambridge, Examining-Chaplain to the Bishop of Salisbury. But before proceeding to New Zealand, Mr. Wallis was married to a daughter of Colonel Robert Williams, since then appointed the Treasurer of the Society.

and of Waiapu.

The Synod of the Diocese of Waiapu, on the other hand, resolved to elect its own Bishop in succession to Bishop Stuart. Their choice fell upon Archdeacon W. Leonard Williams, son of the first Bishop of the Diocese, the late Bishop William Williams, and for more than forty years a missionary of the Society. Archdeacon Williams was born in the colony—or, rather, in the island, for there was no colony then—in 1829. He was educated in England, and graduated from Magdalen Hall, Oxford, in 1852. After some months in the Church Missionary College, he was ordained by Bishop Blomfield in 1853, and has laboured ever since among the Maori people; and, in particular, he has trained many of the Native clergy, having for some years been Principal of the Society's Theological College at Gisborne.

The consecration of Bishop Leonard Williams took place at Napier on January 20. The Acting-Primate of New Zealand

Bishop Leonard Williams's consecration.

(Bishop Cowie, of Auckland), Bishop Julius of Christchurch, Bishop Mules of Nelson, Bishop Wilson of Melanesia, Dean Hovell, Archdeacon S. Williams, and a large body of clergy, European and Maoris, were present. Bishop Mules preached the consecration sermon from Eph. i. 22, 23, and after the sermon the missionary hymn was sung "Tell it out among the Heathen"—doubly appropriate considering the conditions under which the vacancy in the see had arisen, and the fact that the new Bishop was a veteran missionary whose life had been, and would largely still be, devoted to the evangelization of the Heathen and the building up of a Maori Church.

Deaths: Mrs. W. L. Williams.

A few weeks before the Bishop's consecration, Mrs. W. L. Williams was taken from him after more than forty-one years of true union in the Lord. She went out with her husband to New Zealand in 1853.

Archdeacon R. Maunsell.

Archdeacon Robert Maunsell, LL.D., whose ordination (also by Bishop Blomfield) took place twenty years before that of Bishop Leonard Williams, was called to his rest during the year. He graduated at Trinity College, Dublin, taking honours in classics. He sailed for New Zealand on February 4, 1835. For many years he was one of the leading missionaries in the northern district, and in 1859 was appointed Archdeacon of Waikato by Bishop Selwyn. In 1865 he retired from direct missionary service, and took charge of one of the churches in Auckland, but he always continued the hearty friend and helper of the Mission. He was an excellent Maori scholar, and was the translator of the Old Testament into the Maori language, and also took an active share in the revision of the New Testament and Prayer Book. In recognition of his translation work, Trinity College, Dublin, conferred upon him the degree of LL.D. His influence over the Maoris was very great, and was successfully used on several occasions to promote their interests and to avert bloodshed. The New Zealand Herald, in its obituary notice of him, gives the following instances:—

His translations.

> In October, 1853, a Maori named Eriata (Eliezer) was found dead at Patumahoe, thirty miles from Auckland. The Natives, in their inflamed, suspicious state of mind, thought that he had been shot by a European, and were ready to take utu. The Rev. Mr. Maunsell and Mr. (afterwards Sir Donald) McLean attended the meeting at Mauku to pacify the Natives. Mr. Maunsell made the speech of the day, and proved to the Natives from various circumstances which he pieced together that the Native had accidentally shot himself while carrying his gun in his hand through scrub. It was subsequently ascertained that the Natives had arranged, before the meeting came off, that at a given signal all the Europeans present should be murdered as utu for Eriata's death. Fortunately the rev. gentleman's eloquence and reasoning prevailed. The fine old chief (the late Waata Kukutai) ably seconded his efforts. Notwithstanding the verdict arrived at that the death of the Maori was accidental, a party of 300 Waikato warriors left Ngaruawahia under young King Matutaera and Te Waharoa (William Thompson), and were met at Tuakau by Mr. Maunsell. A long conference took place, the end of which was that Thompson sent word to recall a party which had gone down to the river to murder some Europeans as utu, and through his influence the war party returned in peace up the river.

He died on April 10, 1894, in his eighty-fourth year.

Still earlier are the reminiscences which are suggested by another name on the list of the year's obituary—that of Mrs. Richard Davis, who died in December, 1894. She was the third wife of the Rev. R. Davis, who went out to the Mission as an industrial agent in 1823, and her father, John King, was one of the first band of three lay missionaries who sailed from England for New South Wales with Samuel Marsden, on August 25, 1809, and landed at the Bay of Islands, New Zealand, on December 25, 1814.

Daughter of one of the earliest pioneers.

I. DIOCESE OF AUCKLAND.

The Bishop of Auckland admitted Mr. Reihana Ngatote to Deacon's Orders in March, 1894, and he has been placed in the Oruru pastorate. His predecessor in this district was an invalid for many years (and five out of the fifteen Native clergy in this diocese suffer from ill-health or else the infirmities of old age), and the people rejoiced in having a young and vigorous man appointed to minister to them.

Ordination.

Seventy-three candidates were confirmed during the year.

Tawhiao, the Maori "King," died in September, 1894. The body was carried to the principal settlements, escorted by large numbers of "Kingites." It was eventually laid in state at Taupiri, and the Bishop of Auckland and Archdeacon E. B. Clarke went thither, and held services at which between 2,000 and 3,000 were present. The Archdeacon considers that with Tawhiao Hauhauism has practically died. He says:—

Death of the Maori "King," Tawhiao.

> Never, since the war, did so large a number meet for service. Their orderly behaviour and evident appreciation was most inspiring, as it was an indication of the change we yearned for, but scarcely expected so soon. Of that vast congregation, four-fifths were Hauhaus, many of whom had never before listened to the Gospel Message.
>
> Since then I have been amongst them, and on a recent occasion, when many chiefs were present, one of the most influential of them declared his intention of returning to his profession of Christianity. His words were: "Listen, O people, I am going back! I am going back!" The general opinion amongst them is that a great change is pending; there is a shaking amongst the dry bones. The annual gathering of the tribes takes place in May, when I trust that Mahuta, the new "King," will avow himself as willing to become a Christian. Now is the time for a special effort on the part of all those who desire the restoration of these lapsed Christians, a time which, if neglected, may never recur. The outlook has not been so bright since the war; the door is open, and it is for the Church to supply the means of sending the messengers of the Gospel to take possession of the King Country for Christ.

Hopeful attitude of Hauhaus.

An earnest effort to recover these people is being made by two Maori clergymen, the Revs. Taimona Hapimana and Nikora Tautau, having their head-quarters near Whatiwhatihoe, who are welcomed by those who quite recently were the most inveterate opponents. These Native clergymen were also present at Rotorua at the assembly of the Maori "Parliament" in March and April, 1895. Chiefs from all parts of New Zealand, with followers numbering some hundreds, spent a month in discussing matters of interest to their race. The Rev. F. H. Spencer, son of the Rev. S. M. Spencer, C.M.S. missionary in this district for forty years, writes:—

Native clergymen at assembly of Maori "Parliament."

It was noteworthy that the vast majority of those assembled were Protestants. A leading young man, Hone Heke (a lineal descendant of Hone Heke, who carried on the war against us in 1845 in a most honourable way), is a member of the House of Representatives and a B.A. of the New Zealand University, an apt and fluent speaker in both English and Maori, was a prime mover in all matters. The total absence of liquor, strictly prohibited by themselves, and consequently no drunkenness, shows that a substantial stand has been made by the Maoris against a former vice, and the consequence is the good behaviour and improved condition of the Maoris. Attendance upon the means of grace is becoming quite a feature with the Maoris, and one may hope it may lead to a higher standard of Christian life.

II. DIOCESE OF WAIAPU.

The Rev. K. Ratapu, pastor of Te Kaha, in the Opotiki district, died in April, 1894. He was admitted to Deacon's Orders in 1891.

Training College, Gisborne.

The Rev. Herbert W. Williams, son of the Bishop of Waiapu, had thirteen students in the Training College at Gisborne. Each year, he says, sees fewer students who cannot speak English, and, consequently, more who can take up Greek. Those who go to the College from the school at Te Aute have a great advantage in this respect. Mr. Williams made a tour northward along the coast as far as Hick's Bay in December, 1893, and held services both in English and Maori. At Waipiro there were seventy communicants out of a congregation of 120. "On the whole," he writes, "the state of the Native Church on the east coast is encouraging."

The Rev. A. F. Williams, who is now the Secretary of the Mission, sends a most thankworthy report of the College at Te Aute. He says:—

To begin with myself. In May, 1893, God graciously revealed to me the blessed truth of "the fulness of the Holy Spirit" as a blessing to be sought and obtained by every believer in the Lord Jesus Christ, for victory over sin, growth in personal holiness, and power for service. It has made a blessed difference in my life and work ever since, to know that it is "not by might, nor by power, but by My Spirit, saith the Lord," that the work is accomplished. It is so good to be able, from one's own personal experience, to tell people of a full and present salvation, not merely from the guilt of sin, but from its dominion. Praise the Lord! for He hath done great things for us already, both among Europeans and Natives, and we are expecting still greater things in the near future.

Before I realized this truth He had begun a blessed work among the boys at Te Aute College and the girls at Hukarere School, Napier; and now, after nearly two years' test, I am able to state that, although some have gone backwards, the majority are "kept by the Power of God" in the right way, and are "growing." Several of these boys have gone and others are going to the Native Theological College at Gisborne to prepare for ordination; and the two junior masters in Te Aute College are "old boys," and are fully consecrated to the Lord. These young people during their vacations are real missionaries to their race, visiting village after village. Spiritual blessings at Te Aute College.

Mr. Stock's address at the College on the thirty-seventh chapter of Ezekiel has never been forgotten, and a revival has come; but pray with us for the whole Maori Church, for, oh! the bones are so "very dry" in most places.

The Rev. W. Goodyear, of MAKETU, mentions the death of two young Maoris, one of whom "could repeat word for word six of the smaller Epistles of St. Paul;" the other was from the Te Aute College, and "bore a splendid testimony to the saving power of Christ to his own people." Maketu.

The Rev. G. Maunsell returned to OPOTIKI after his furlough in England in December, 1893. During his absence of sixteen months a church was built at Raukokore, at the extreme eastern limit of the district, and two other churches were projected. In one day for one of these churches the sum of £145 was collected, preparation having been made for the occasion for some time previously. Altogether, Mr. Maunsell says, the Maoris in his district raised about £1,000 in ten years for Church purposes. The death of King Tawhiao has been mentioned; it is remarkable that a second of the three misguided leaders of the people, Te Kooti, died during the year. Mr. Maunsell was favourably received when he attended meetings of his followers, and when he gave them some incidents of his recent visit to England they listened with the deepest interest, especially when he described the Dismissal Meeting of 1893 at Exeter Hall. Some of the old people, in the exuberance of their feelings, insisted on rubbing noses—a great mark of affection and respect. Opotiki. Death of Te Kooti.

III. DIOCESE OF WELLINGTON.

BISHOP HADFIELD, at the request of the Administrator of the Diocese of Wellington during the vacancy of the see, Archdeacon Fancourt, and authorized by the Bishop of Auckland, the Acting-Primate, admitted Mr. Hone Teri Te Paerata to Deacon's Orders at Otaki on October 7, 1894. Archdeacon S. Williams, of Te Aute, "who is unquestionably unrivalled," Bishop Hadfield writes, "as a preacher in the Maori language," preached the ordination sermon. The candidate is the son of a Maori chief of note living at Taupo; he had had a three years' course at Gisborne Training College. The newly-ordained deacon has been placed in the OTAKI district, to labour under the Rev. J. McWilliam. Ordinations.

Whanganui.

The Rev. A. O. Williams has an extensive district, which contains 1,300 baptized Maoris, of whom 250 are communicants. He resides at WHANGANUI. The Maoris at Putiki show a marked improvement in spirituality, owing, under God, to the energy and zeal of a young Maori student for the ministry. They erected a school, which has thirty-nine children. At Rangitikei what was said in last year's Report still applies—all the Maoris attend the services, and nearly every adult is a communicant. At Wairarapa the whole body of the Hauhaus have returned to the Church, after having stood aloof for many years. The leading Mormon chief in the same place always attends the services when Mr. Williams goes there. To the north of the district Te Whiti's power is on the wane, and in the Whanganui River district Te Kootiism is practically dead, and some of the Maoris have returned to the Church.

NORTH-WEST AMERICA MISSION.

This is a Mission to the remnant of the Red Indian tribes scattered over the vast country formerly known as the Hudson's Bay Territory, now included in the Dominion of Canada. In 1822 the Rev. John West arrived at a trading settlement on the Red River, a little south of Lake Winnipeg, and began to gather the Indians round him. The first step in the great extension of the Mission in recent years was the sending forth from Red River, in 1840, of Henry Budd, a Native teacher, trained up by Mr. West from his boyhood (afterwards the first Native clergyman), to open a new station at Devon, 500 miles off. And now, from the United States border-line to the Arctic Ocean, and from Hudson's Bay to the Rocky Mountains, the praises of the Redeemer are sung by thousands of Indians, and in eleven different languages.

The Red River district is now the flourishing colonial Province of Manitoba, and a large part of the Society's work has developed into the settled ministrations of the Church in the Colony. One of the Society's churches has become the Cathedral of the Diocese of Rupert's Land, which was founded in 1849. That diocese, which has been highly privileged in its two first Bishops, Dr. Anderson and Dr. Machray, was subdivided in 1872 into four parts, the three new dioceses being those of Moosonee, Athabasca, and Saskatchewan. To the two former Sees missionaries of the Society were appointed, the Rev. John Horden and the Rev. W. C. Bompas, and to the third an active co-worker in the country, Dr. McLean. Bishop McLean died in 1886, and was succeeded by Bishop Pinkham; Bishop Horden also died early in 1893, and was succeeded by Bishop Newnham. In 1884, in pursuance of a scheme formed by the Provincial Synod of the Province of Rupert's Land, the Diocese of Athabasca was divided, Dr. Bompas taking the Northern half as Bishop of Mackenzie River, and the Rev. R. Young, C.M.S. Missionary, being appointed to the Southern Division as Bishop of Athabasca. The Provincial Synod of 1890 sanctioned a division of the Mackenzie River Diocese, the territories to the west of the Rocky Mountains becoming the Diocese of Selkirk, and the region to the east retaining the name of Mackenzie River. Archdeacon Reeve was consecrated Bishop of the latter diocese in 1891, Bishop Bompas taking the title of Bishop of Selkirk. In 1884 the Diocese of Qu'Appelle was formed out of the Dioceses of Rupert's Land and Saskatchewan, and in 1887 the Diocese of Calgary was carved out of that of Saskatchewan.

The Society labours in all the above-named eight dioceses; but in that of Qu'Appelle the work is confined to one station, Touchwood Hills, opened in 1857.

In RUPERT'S LAND DIOCESE the Society's work was commenced in the Red River district in 1823; Fort Alexander was occupied in 1864; and Rainy Lake district in 1874. In MOOSONEE DIOCESE, Moose Factory was occupied in 1851; York, 1854; Albany, 1855; East Main Coast, 1877; Churchill, 1886. In SASKATCHEWAN DIOCESE, Cumberland and Devon were occupied in 1840; Stanley, 1850; Sandy Lake (Asisipi), 1875; Battleford, 1876; Prince Albert, 1879; Grand Rapids, 1881; and Fort Pitt, 1888. In CALGARY DIOCESE, Fort McLeod was occupied in 1880; Blackfoot Crossing in 1883; Sarcee Reserve in 1886. In ATHABASCA DIOCESE, Fort Chipewyan was occupied in 1867; Fort Vermilion, 1876; Lesser Slave Lake, 1887; Upper Peace River, 1888. MACKENZIE RIVER DIOCESE, Fort Simpson, 1858; Fort Norman, 1871; Fort McPherson, 1874; Fort Resolution, 1875. SELKIRK DIOCESE, Rampart House, 1882; Buxton, 1887; Selkirk, 1892.

The Province of Rupert's Land and the General Synod of the Dominion of Canada.

THE creation of two archbishoprics by the General Synod of the Canadian Dominion in 1893 was referred to in last year's Report. Archbishop Machray made reference, at the Synod of the Diocese of Rupert's Land which met at Winnipeg on June 27, 1894, to certain features in the constitution which had been adopted by the General Synod affecting the ecclesiastical province of Rupert's Land in its relations with that Synod; features which have an interest to the Society's Missions in the province, and which were spontaneously urged by Archbishop Machray mainly on the ground of such interest. The Archbishop said:—

The constitution that has been adopted should be eminently satisfactory to our province. We owe our organization as a province and the formation of our dioceses to the countenance and help of kind friends, especially of the Church Missionary Society of England in the case of the four northern dioceses. It would have been very ungrateful on our part if we had accepted what might have shaken their confidence in the disposition of their funds or the liberty of their missionaries. It was, therefore, necessary that the arrangements for the appointment of our bishops should remain with the province, and that our province should be able to suspend the application to it of measures of the General Synod of a coercive character, unacceptable to our people or friends. There was a risk of opposition to such concessions. There is an attractiveness in the simplicity of a single authority and a natural fear of weakness in allowing non-concurrence in its decisions. But better counsels psevailed. The draft of a constitution that was drawn up by a small committee at the Conference in Winnipeg was adopted almost without change, first by the Conference in Winnipeg, and then by the General Synod in Toronto, after it had been very fully discussed in the various Diocesan Synods and in the Provincial Synod of the Province of Canada.

The basis of the constitution adopted by the General Synod cannot now be easily changed, as the same conservative conditions have been laid down in it as exist in our provincial constitution.

But, while we have reason to feel satisfied at securing these provincial safeguards, it is not that we apprehend any necessity for their exercise or that we do not appreciate the desirability of conforming, if possible, to the decisions of a majority. The consolidation of the Church has been heartily welcomed throughout the Dominion, and seemr to have met with the cordial approval of the whole of the Church of England.

There cannot but be many immediate advantages from the consolidation of the Church—a great increase of brotherly feeling and sympathy from closer relations—an assurance of united action throughout the Dominion in many ways, as in the same Services for Special Occasions—a fuller and more searching discussion of all questions before a final decision—a greater security for the maintenance of sound doctrine and discipline—more power and influence in dealing with the many social, educational, and religious questions of the day.

I. DIOCESES OF RUPERT'S LAND AND QU'APPELLE.

The Rev. B. Baring-Gould's visit to Winnipeg.

WINNIPEG was the first C.M.S. centre which the Rev. B. Baring-Gould visited in the course of his tour round the world. He was there in September from the 17th to the 21st, and was met by many of the missionaries of the Rupert's Land, Saskatchewan, and Calgary Dioceses. Lieutenant-Governor Schultz and Mrs. Schultz gave a reception at Government House in honour of Mr. Baring-Gould's visit, and spoke in warm terms of the indebtedness of the Indians and of the Colonial Church to the efforts of the Society, and to the spiritual character of the agents it has sent out. A missionary meeting, the largest ever held in Winnipeg, Archdeacon Phair wrote, was held on the evening of the 20th, at which the Archbishop of Rupert's Land presided and spoke with power. Mr. Baring-Gould, and Miss Cox of the Japan Mission, who accompanied Mr. and Miss Baring-Gould as far as Japan, described the Society's work.

The Archbishop of Rupert's Land admitted the Rev. J. A. Maggrah to Priest's Orders during the year; the date has not been stated. Ordination.

The Rev. W. Owen, in consequence of ill-health, has retired from the Mission.

Archdeacon Phair has again sent a full and interesting report of the Indian work carried on by the Society in the Rupert's Land Diocese and at the one station in the Diocese of Qu'Appelle. Proceeding in the same order as the stations appear in the Society's list at the beginning of this Report, the Mission to the Sioux Indians is found at Griswold, on the Oak River, a tributary of the Assiniboine. Mr. H. Hartland is in charge. The Archdeacon was pleased to observe the hearty way in which the Indians took part in the services when he visited the station, although most of them are still Heathen. One old Christian Sioux, whom he called upon in his own house, impressed him greatly:— Mission to the Sioux Indians.

"Everything I have is in this Book."

He was sitting on his bed with a large Dacotah Bible beside him. When asked why he had the Bible so near, he replied, "Everything I have is in this Book. I have nothing outside of it. I like it near me, for I want to look in now and then. Words from it do me good, and I need all the good I can get now. I was in the night a long time—never thought I should see the day; but the sun has risen, and I am in the light, and so I keep the Book near me. I intend to stay by it till I go home."

It is encouraging to find an old man like this, whose life, as he says, has nearly all been spent in night, rejoicing over his new-found treasure, and satisfied with what it contains. When these Indians, who had been mixed up in an indescribable massacre years ago, sought refuge on our side of the line, it was not without feelings of misgiving that the glad tidings of great joy were carried to them. They seemed to be a dread and terror to the other tribes; but to see one of them, like this old man, rescued from the power of the Evil One, and now sitting at the feet of the Saviour, rejoicing in His Word, surely this is no little triumph of Grace.

St. Peter's Indian Settlement is a few miles north of Winnipeg (not south, as was erroneously stated in last year's Report; the Settlement is between the City of Winnipeg and Winnipeg Lake), on the banks of Red River. The Indians are all Christians, in name at least; the number of those baptized is 1,026. On the occasion of Mr. Baring-Gould's visit, he baptized an Indian who had arrived a few days before from a distant part of Lake Winnipeg in order to confess Christ in baptism. The Rev. J. G. Anderson sees signs of blessing on his pastoral labours. At the Easter and Christmas Day services the communicants numbered 131 and 92 respectively. St. Peter's Indian Settlement.

At Fairford, on Manitoba Lake, the Rev. G. Bruce remarks on the punctuality of the Indians in arriving at Divine service, although they have neither clocks nor watches. The services are conducted partly in Indian and partly in English, and a sermon Fairford.

is preached in each language at each service. Fairford is the centre of a little group of out-stations—St. Martin's Lake, Sandy Bay, Lower River, Crane River, and Shoal River. Mr. Bruce refers to a visit to one of these, probably Crane River:—

There is one reserve—some thirty miles west of here—where a Protestant teacher is, but where the whole band are almost all Heathen. I spent a Sabbath with these poor creatures, and both morning and evening services were well attended by old and young, and even the women came, for it is a rare thing for an Indian woman who is living in Heathenism to appear in public. After evening service I visited as many of the sick as time would permit. Returning at 9 P.M. to my smoky quarters, I had hardly time to kindle a fire when "Kagegaase" called upon me and said, "I have come over, though it is late in the night, but I want to hear more about the Word of God." "Well," I said, "I have no light, but if you get a piece of board we will substitute a candle by making splinters from it," which we did, and then the poor Heathen man lit the splinters while I read and pointed him to look to Him Who is the Light of Life to them that believe in His Name.

"I want to hear more about the Word of God."

The Rev. G. Cook describes the much improved state of the material church since he went first to Staggville, when the building was only half-finished, and was roughly daubed inside with mud. It is now, he says, as neat as could be wished, and a new Mission-house has also been built. He complains of the illicit sale of intoxicating liquor which is carried on among the Indians. The Rev. R. E. Coates says of his experiences at Scanterbury:—

When I first reached the Reserve I was informed by the Native catechist that it was a "hard place," which, to say the least, was not a very cheering announcement. Truly, it has been rather uphill work to establish anything like order among these happy-go-lucky people; and when one looks back and notes the wonderful changes that have taken place, we can only say, with deepest reverence, "It is the Hand of the Almighty." The Omnipotence of Jehovah is a grand thing to rest upon. How often one hears the Indians say, referring to the conjuror's tent, "Kagate" (indeed) "the devil is strong;" and triumphantly we reply, "But God is stronger still. He is All-powerful." A "hard place" it was; for many years the rendezvous of the members of the "Metaawin," or "Long Tent," the Indian Order of "Grand Medicine," from the different bards on Lake Winnipeg.

A "hard place."

To-day the few adherents remaining have considerable trouble and difficulty in gathering together a sufficient number to carry on their performance at a spot some twenty miles away. Within the last eighteen months the two leading "medicine-men" have given up their Heathen practices and have "taken the white man's religion." They, with their wives, have been baptized and received into Christ's Church, and last Sunday gave their offering at the Thanksgiving service in aid of the Home Mission Fund. A few months ago the old Heathen chief died. I visited him before his death, and have since heard that the old man expressed a wish to be baptized, but the eldest son would not allow it. One of the medicine-men was sent for to exercise his conjuring powers, but the Christian refused to come.

Reverence during Divine service.

The behaviour of the Indians in church is "most reverent and devout," Mr. Coates says; and indeed one (a Plymouth Brother) who was much opposed to the Church services observed of them, "They sit and listen to the words of the preacher as though he were a little god; you could hear a pin drop." An organ has been procured for the church, and the Indians, being very fond of singing, have formed a strong choir.

Almost at the southernmost extremity of Lake Winnipeg, at the mouth of the Winnipeg River, is LANSDOWNE, or Fort Alexander, where the Indian deacon, the Rev. E. Thomas, labours. He writes:— Lansdowne.

We do need much of the Spirit of God to show these people by our lives that we are the followers of Christ. I know from myself being as one of them who was brought from darkness to light by the influence of the Holy Spirit, and also by coming into contact with godly men, I have been led to know Jesus to be the Way, the Truth, and the Life. And this only cheers me in every time of need, and sustains me in every dark hour. Need of the Holy Spirit.

A small church has been built at Black River, where the Indian catechist, Mr. Murdoch Johnston, is much liked by the people. Archdeacon Phair remarks:—

Black River might be called an outpost of Fort Alexander, as the people frequently go there to church, having only a catechist for their missionary. But these people are not one whit behind the larger Missions in love and loyalty to their Master. I have noticed, in preparing for the Sabbath, all work is suspended early on the Saturday, in order to have arrangements complete for the Lord's Day. Then, again, family prayers are regularly held in the houses and tents, and it is quite a strange thing to find anyone absent themselves from service on Sunday. Their little church has been almost entirely erected by themselves; and the Indians make it a point, when away hunting, to try and get back in good time for Sunday. Preparing for the Sabbath.

The few Christian Indians at Jack Head, under another Indian lay agent, Mr. J. Johnstone, are contemplating the erection of a church. The majority and the most powerful of the Indians at this place are opposed to Christianity.

Travelling up the Winnipeg River towards the Lake of the Woods, ISLINGTON, or "White Dog" Station, is reached, where the Rev. J. Maggrah is located. At one of the out-stations Archdeacon Phair made a halt:—

We touched upon a small village of Indians in the wilderness and alone. With these few sheep, nominally Christian, we spent a short time in prayer and exhortation. They are visited by the missionary from White Dog, and are seldom troubled by unprincipled white men. I was very much struck with their primitive simplicity in worshipping the Big Chief in Heaven, as they call Him. Entering a little house, it had to be swept and the boxes dusted and some clean cloths put upon them before we could engage in prayer—all seated so quietly, mothers and children sitting on the ground, perfectly silent, then the Big Book was opened and everyone intent upon what was to be said. It does one good to speak to such attentive hearers—it would seem as if it were treason to doubt a word; and when the book is closed and we are going to speak to the Great Chief, one can scarcely see them getting on their knees, they are so quick. Primitive simplicity.

If one listens to the news as passed from the Indians who travel with us to the people here, one is struck very much with what astonishes these Indians. Somebody broke the Sabbath; a man was not sick and stayed What astonishes the Indians.

away from church; another was inattentive when the Bible was read—these and similar things are listened to with great astonishment.

The Rev. G. Prewer is slowly but surely winning the confidence of the Indians at WABIGOON, who, on his first going amongst them, were decidedly hostile. The prevalence of influenza among them and his possessing some suitable remedies helped considerably to break down the barriers. Lac Seul is one of the most hopeful of the stations. The example of many of the Indians in their long journeys tells powerfully upon other Indians they meet with, Archdeacon Phair says; they regularly observe family prayer both in their houses and when travelling. Some of them have made good progress in industrial pursuits —e.g., when the Mission-house at Wabigoon was built, an Indian from Lac Seul did most of the carpentering work, and did it well. The Rev. T. H. Pritchard is the resident deacon. Frenchman's Head has only a lay agent. The chief is a decided Christian. The Archdeacon says of him:—

Laws made and observed by a Christian chief.

He is an old man, wholly taken up with one thing, and that is, serving the big Chief in heaven, as he says, in the right way. Some of the laws he has made for the Reservation are as follows:—First, that all the people who are well go to the praying-house on the praying-day. Second, that those who are unwell be visited as soon as possible after the praying-day. Third, that the lazy ones be talked to very strong about not keeping the law. Fourth, that no work, fishing, cutting wood, hunting, &c., be done on the praying-day. Fifth, that all the people stop regular work after eating second time on the Saturday to prepare for the praying-day, getting fuel, water, and everything in readiness.

In observing these laws, the Councillor himself is a perfect example. I was particularly impressed, when visiting the place last time, to find this old man visiting the people and urging them, especially strangers, to be punctual in getting to prayers in good time. He says he believes very much in prayer; he believes in preaching, too, but he feels good listening helps poor preaching very much, and he likes careful doing all the week better than both.

The Rev. A. Cook does not write at all hopefully of the work under his charge at TOUCHWOOD HILLS, in the Qu'Appelle Diocese.

II. DIOCESE OF MOOSONEE.

Bishop Newnham's movements.

BISHOP NEWNHAM visited Eastern Canada in the autumn of 1894, and spent the winter there, seeking to arouse interest among Canadian Churchmen in the Indians of his diocese. In January, 1895, he had the opportunity of laying the needs of the work before the Governor-General of Canada, Lord Aberdeen, and the Bishop and Synod of the Diocese of Montreal. The account he gave was received with every evidence of interest, and the Governor-General and the Dean of Montreal commended in warm terms Bishop Newnham to the hearty sympathy and support of the clergy and laity in the diocese.

During January the Bishop travelled 3,000 miles, encountering severe snowstorms, for the purpose of preaching and addressing meetings. Writing in February, his plans were to visit Upper Canada, and to return to his diocese in May, proceeding to York and Churchill viâ Winnipeg, and thence coasting southward along the shores of Hudson Bay to visit Severn and Albany, and to reach Moose, God willing, in October, 1895. Mrs. Newnham made the journey to Montreal from Moose Factory three months earlier than the Bishop, by doctor's orders. Her only female companion on the fortnight's canoe journey was a half-breed girl, to help her with her infant child, and the season was midsummer, when the mosquitoes and black flies are the most troublesome.

A trying journey for a lady.

The Bishop admitted the Rev. W. G. Walton to Priest's Orders at Moose Factory in March, 1894; and Mr. Richard Faries to Deacon's Orders on September 16. Mr. Faries is a half-breed, who was born and brought up at Moose Factory, and subsequently received two years' training at the Montreal Theological College.

Ordinations.

Mr. Joseph Caldecott Parker, of the Clapham Preparatory Institution, joined the Mission, and sailed in July with the Rev. E. J. Peck to occupy a new station in Cumberland Bay.

Reinforcement.

At MOOSE FACTORY, on the breaking-up of the ice on the Moose River in May, 1894, the little island on which the Mission premises stand was inundated for two days and nights, and Bishop and Mrs. Newnham were in serious peril of their lives. After twenty-four hours' imprisonment on the upper flat of their house, they escaped in a boat to the Hudson Bay Company's Factory. Psalm xciii., the Bishop writes, has a new force to him since that occasion. The conduct of the Indians after the subsidence of the waters was terribly disappointing. They looked on at the efforts to save the property of the Bishop and of the Mission without offering to assist, except for payment, and some endeavoured to steal scattered articles. The conduct of many of the Indians was very bad also in other respects. The Bishop reports:—

Moose Factory.

Disappointing conduct of Indians.

> I am sorry to say that during the earlier part of the summer of 1894 there seemed to be no desire to improve. Drinking (Native-made beer and wine—for they can buy none), dancing, and wandering at night, leading to immorality, was too frequently indulged in by the young people, and not a few times I had to enact the part of a policeman and to go out and disperse them. The worst of it is that the public feeling is so lax that I can get no real help from those who should and could act in the matter. The older Indians, communicants and right-living people themselves, professed great sorrow and indignation at such conduct, and privately condemned the culprits, but were slow to see their own responsibility in respect to controlling their daughters, and showing publicly that they could not as Christians cultivate friendship with the openly vicious and immoral.

Some improvement occurred before the Bishop left in September. The Rev. I. J. Taylor, whose temporary appointment to this station was mentioned in last year's Report, arrived in August. The Bishop visited New Post, a six days' journey from Moose. He gave instruction in reading daily during his short stay, had two baptisms, and administered the Holy Communion to the Company's servants. It was more than two years since they had had an opportunity of receiving this Sacrament. On his return journey, while passing a bad rapid, the guide's pole broke, and the boat was nearly upset. At Biscotasing, where the Rev. J. Sanders resides, there are about one hundred white residents, of whom two-thirds are Roman Catholics, and five Indian families, who all belong to the Church of England. Mr. Sanders finds the place a convenient one for visiting Matawakumme, Flying Post, Upishkanookumma, Chaplean, Missanabie, Brunswick, and Montizambert. He has had the spiritual care of the Indians in this extensive district for twenty years; only twice in that period did the district enjoy the privilege of an episcopal visit. Bishop Newnham hoped to call at some of the stations on his way from Montreal to Winnipeg in the summer of 1895.

Dangers of river travelling.

Albany.

Archdeacon T. Vincent says that the questions, "What shall we eat?" "What shall we drink?" and "Wherewithal shall we be clothed?" are constantly upon the minds of the Indians of ALBANY and of the district around. The disappearance of the wild fowl and fur-bearing animals is the cause of the prevailing poverty. The supply of wearing apparel sent out from England through the Missionary Leaves Association, it is needless to say, is most welcome. The Archdeacon has a class of five young Indians, whom he is training with a view to future work as Mission agents. At English River, some 210 miles from Albany, one of the few Indians acts as teacher and evangelist of the rest. The Archdeacon made arrangements with the chief at Marten's Falls for services to be conducted as regularly as possible. The newly-ordained deacon, the Rev. R. Faries, has been stationed at Fort Hope, which is 400 miles from Albany. Forty-two received the Lord's Supper when the Archdeacon visited the place in the summer. The Archdeacon continued his journey westward, viâ Osnaburgh and Wabigoon, to Winnipeg; he returned by the Canadian Pacific Railway as far as Missanabie, thence by canoe down the Moose River, and from Moose a five days' journey along the coast of the Bay to Albany again. The journey occupied three months, and home was reached on the very day fixed upon before starting. "Everywhere and in every place," he wrote, "I have had opportunities of pleading for the dear Master, exhorting both young and old to repentance toward God, and faith toward our Lord Jesus Christ."

A three months' journey.

Rupert's House, at the south-eastern corner of James' Bay, is under the Rev. E. Richards. In the summer of 1893 he was absent from the station on a tour up the Albany River, and consequently missed the Indians when they came in to Rupert's House. In the summer of 1894, therefore, he carefully examined them, having each family separately in the church, and interrogating them regarding their conduct during the two years since he last saw them. He found they had not forgotten what they had been taught. Every spring the Indians from Misstasinee, Waswanape, and Nitchequan, three inland trading posts, visit Rupert's House for their year's supplies, and Mr. Richards takes the opportunity to instruct them. East Main is an out-station about seventy miles north of Rupert's House. Mr. Richards visited the Indians there in the summer, and says they are more attentive and ready to listen to the Gospel than those of Rupert's House.

Rupert's House.

Not forgotten after two years.

Further north, at a distance of 480 miles from Moose Factory, is Great Whale River, the residence during part of the year of the Rev. W. G. Walton. He travelled this distance twice over in the spring of 1894 in order to be ordained priest, and the greater part of the return journey had to be walked. He has four services on Sundays, two in Eskimo and two in English, and occasionally one also in Indian; he also conducts a Sunday school. The services are held in a small house, and when from sixty to ninety are gathered in one little room the heat and odour are often nearly suffocating. Mr. Walton hopes to remove the church which formerly stood at Little Whale River, and to erect it again at Great Whale River. It was taken down several years ago, but the difficulty of getting it conveyed, although the money is in hand, owing to the scarcity of labour, has hitherto prevented its removal. Of one of the Eskimo, Mr. Walton says:—

Great Whale River.

> One good old man was especially cheering. He had not seen a white man for fourteen years, still he was true to his Book. He lost his first Book, and was much grieved, but some months after he came across a party who gave him another. This was much thumbed, so I gave him a new one for it. I examined him in his reading to see if he did know his books, and I found that he did indeed know them. I hope to see him again soon, and see what further progress he has made.

"True to his Book."

Mr. Walton resides the greater part of the year at Fort George. He was there from May till July, and again from September through the winter. He is encouraged by the school work. He has printed with a cyclostyle 250 little books of family prayers for a week, and a few hymns; and 160 copies in Eskimo and Indian of a simple explanation of the Lord's Prayer, Ten Commandments, Belief, and Service of Baptism.

On the west coast of Hudson Bay the Rev. J. Lofthouse is alone at Fort Churchill, with a district of over 1,000 miles long to supervise. In the autumn a party of eight Europeans connected with the Canadian Geographical Survey were found in a starving condition some twenty miles north of Churchill, and were relieved by the Hudson Bay Company's officers, and on returning to Canada they stirred up interest in the Mission among their friends. Small parties of Eskimo visited the station during the winter of 1893–4, and in the spring larger numbers of Eskimo, Chipewyans, and Crees. In July, Mr. Lofthouse baptized nine adult Chipewyans, who could all read well, and had a good grasp of the truths of God's Word; and in August a widow and her two children and a young woman of the same tribe were baptized.

The return journey from the visit to Fort York in the autumn of 1893, referred to in last year's Report, proved a trying one. After spending three happy weeks with the people, Mr. Lofthouse started back on September 14 in a small boat, with an officer of the Hudson Bay Company and another man as companions. For six days they were detained by a contrary wind at the mouth of the Nelson River, rain and snow falling nearly all the time, and the thermometer being several degrees below freezing-point. On the tenth day after starting they were only forty miles advanced on their journey, and the food supply was nearly exhausted, and, as a heavy ice was beginning to form along the shore, it was determined to abandon the boat and to walk the remaining distance. The journey took six days. For several hours of each day they were walking up to the knees in water within about two degrees of freezing-point. Rain and snow fell every day. The last day's march was made without any food. Mr. Lofthouse lost nearly twenty pounds of flesh on the journey, and his digestion was much impaired for a time by the enforced abstinence. After a few weeks, however, he quite recovered, and was very thankful to God for His preserving care. An incident which occurred just after they left Fort York deserves to be mentioned, as it shows how much the Christian Indians value the Sacrament of Baptism. After they had proceeded four miles on their journey down the Nelson River, an Indian and his wife with two children arrived at the post, and followed them in order to have the children baptized, judging from the direction of the wind that they would not proceed far. After the baptismal service on the river's bank, with a cup for a font, they returned through deep mud and water to the Fort, which they would reach after dark. Mr. Lofthouse spent ten days at Fort York in the spring of 1894. On Easter Day there were thirty communicants. The Rev. W. Dick, in a letter to Mr. Lofthouse, reported fifty-three baptisms at Trout Lake and twenty-two at Severn. Joseph Kichekeshik has been appointed catechist at the latter post. Mr. Lofthouse endeavoured to visit

Marble Island, but the boat in which he started was beset with ice and in danger of being crushed, although it was July, and he gave up the attempt. His return to Churchill from this point he thus describes:—

Travelling in an Eskimo kayak.

I got two Eskimo to take me back on their kayaks to the point we left the week before. One kayak carried my provisions, blanket, &c., and I sat on the back of the other, bolt upright, with no kind of support for my back, and afraid almost to move a muscle of my body, for the water (fathoms deep) was within two inches, and oftentimes washed right over my legs. In this way I travelled a day and a half, and, when we landed at Long Point, was so stiff that for some time I could not walk. I had hoped to find a boat here, but it had left the day before. About thirty Eskimo were staying here, and I stayed in one of their tents two days. They were not days of pleasure to the body, but they were to the spirit, for I had grand opportunities of preaching to and teaching the people. I had some difficulty in getting two of them to come on with me, and, as there are two large rivers, impossible to cross on foot, I was in doubt about getting home, but at last two of them promised to put me across both rivers, so we started, and I had part of three days again on a kayak. The Eskimo landed me about twenty-five miles from Churchill; they would not come any further. Next morning at 4 A.M. I started out alone, carrying all my goods, about 30 lbs. The day was hot, walking very bad, and mosquitoes and sand-flies fearful. In the evening a heavy thunder-storm came on, and I reached home about 10 P.M. amidst a deluge of rain, and drenched to the skin.

"Standing firm and teaching others."

Mr. Lofthouse received a long letter from the Eskimo lad on Marble Island, Thomas Kirkut, whom he baptized in July, 1893. He says: "I am thankful to say he is standing firm in the faith and teaching others."

Blacklead Island.

The Rev. E. J. Peck and Mr. J. C. Parker sailed from Peterhead for Cumberland Bay on July 13, 1894, in the whaling brig Alert, belonging to Mr. Crawford Noble, of Aberdeen. Mr. Noble most generously gave a free passage to the missionaries and their luggage (a large item, as it included provisions for two years, medicines, &c.), and offered them a house at his station on the north side of Cumberland Bay without charge. The station, which is named BLACKLEAD ISLAND, from the fact that the mineral blacklead is found there, was reached on August 21. Mr. Peck, writing in September, thus described the place and people:—

A forbidding aspect.

Speaking of the nature of the country, it has a decidedly forbidding aspect, and the rugged mountain-tops rise hundreds of feet above the level of the sea, and these are now covered with a white mantle of snow. Without exaggeration, I consider our old station (Fort George) a perfect paradise compared to this place, for here there is not a single tree or shrub to be seen; icebergs are near us, and the weather is far more severe and trying. The whaling station at which we are now located is called "Blacklead Island." It is on the southern side of Cumberland Sound, and is about three miles from the mainland. There is only one European at the station, and a large party of Eskimo are employed by him to assist in the capture of whales. As one walks about the island, the bones of these enormous creatures are seen scattered about in all directions, but the whalebone proper (which is only found in the head of the whale) is sent home, and is now sold for a considerable sum.

The Eskimo here speak much the same as their more southern brethren of Hudson Bay, and, on the whole, we can chat away nicely together. They have given Mr. Parker and myself a warm welcome. We visit them in their tents, and they express great surprise when spoken to regarding the great truths of the Christian faith. We have also commenced work amongst the children. I desired the parents to send them to our house, and, to our dismay, they came in such force that we could not find room to pack them all away. They already know two hymns, a few texts of Scripture, a portion of the Lord's Prayer, and they answer pretty readily when questioned about God, and His works, and the Lord Jesus.

A "tabernacle in the wilderness."

As the Eskimo of the place live in tents of sealskin, it occurred to Mr. Peck to suggest the erection of what he calls a "tabernacle in the wilderness," using sealskins for a covering and the bones of whales for a frame. This the Eskimo acted upon, and a building twenty feet long was put up for the worship of God. The house in which the two brethren live is twenty feet long by twelve wide; they divided it into two compartments, one of which they used as kitchen and schoolroom, and the other as sitting, dining, and bedroom combined.

III. DIOCESES OF SASKATCHEWAN AND CALGARY.

The Bishop of Saskatchewan and Calgary admitted Mr. J. R. Matheson, who had been labouring for some months as a lay agent at Fort Pitt, to Deacon's Orders on July 8, 1894.

The Rev. and Mrs. G. S. Winter sailed to join the Mission in August, 1894; and the Rev. and Mrs. J. Hines came home on furlough in October.

Prince Albert.

Archdeacon J. A. Mackay has charge of the work in the neighbourhood of Prince Albert. The Indian Department of the Canadian Government has augmented its grant to Emmanuel College, to enable it to receive ten girls for training. The grant for this purpose does not, however, cover the cost of maintenance, but it is kindly supplemented by gifts of clothing from the Women's Auxiliaries in Eastern Canada, to which agencies many of the stations in this and the more northern dioceses are indebted. One student was sent out as a teacher. The Rev. J. R. Settee visited Stony Lake from his station, Sandy Lake, and baptized seven adult Indians. Mr. Settee was temporarily removed to Devon in the autumn, and the Rev. J. Badger succeeded him, the latter being succeeded at St. James by the Rev. G. S. Winter. A new church was erected at Nepowewin by the Rev. A. A. H. Wright, "built on a stone foundation, with good logs for walls, and having six Gothic windows," being 20 by 26 feet, with a chancel 12 by 14 feet. All the work, except the foundation, doors, and windows, was done by Indians. The Rev. R. McLennan of Stanley travelled over 1,000 miles in a canoe, between June and September, 1894, visiting Pelican Narrows, Big Stone, and Montreal Lake.

DEVON, as already stated, was placed under the Rev. J. R. Settee, on the Rev. J. Hine's leaving to take furlough. The Rev. J. Sinclair, of Cedar Lake, visited Shoal River at the close of 1894 and baptized one adult and seven children. He writes:— Devon.

"The praises of God in the wilderness."

I was glad to hear that all the baptized Indians hold daily morning and evening prayers in their houses and tents, and do no work on the Sabbath. Many of them can read in Cree syllabic characters, and when they are away from the Mission they take their Bibles, Prayer Books, and hymn-books with them, and resound the praises of God in the wilderness.

The Revs. R. Inkster and D. D. McDonald labour on the several Indian Reserves at BATTLEFORD. Bishop Pinkham confirmed eighteen candidates at FORT PITT in October 1893. The Rev. J. R. Matheson, of this station, went to Winnipeg to meet Mr. Baring-Gould, and he says:—

My having met and heard Mr. Baring-Gould has been a source of strength and blessing to me ever since. I do not look at the C.M.S. now as some great corporation that pays us money to do something, but rather as a fellow-worker and fellow-sympathizer filled with the Holy Ghost and power. God give us missionaries that filling and that power, and pour out the same on the Church Missionary Society, is my earnest prayer.

Mr. Matheson visits the Island Lake, thirty-five miles north-east from Fort Pitt; Frog Lake, twenty-five miles west; and Moose Lake, sixty-five miles west. He says that no Protestant clergyman had ever visited Moose Lake before he did so in September, 1894.

The above stations are all in the Diocese of Saskatchewan. The rest, namely, Fort McLeod, Blackfoot Crossing, and the Sarcee Reserve, are in the Diocese of Calgary. The first confirmation of Blood Indians took place in December, 1894, when Bishop Pinkham visited FORT MCLEOD. Four girls were the confirmees, and their names, strange though they sound, should perhaps be recorded. They were Susie Iron-Pipe, Rosie Healy, Hattie Red-Antelope, and Maggie Running-Wolf. They were all boarders in one of the Mission schools. The total number of boarders is fifty-five. The sight of this little company of young people growing up in the knowledge of the truth is having, the Rev. F. Swainson says, an influence on the older Indians, among whom a spirit of inquiry begins to manifest itself. An adult Indian, himself baptized, brought his young wife to Mr. Swainson in December to be instructed for baptism, the first case of an adult applying for baptism. Thirty-three between the ages of seven and fourteen were baptized. First confirmation at Fort McLeod.

At BLACKFOOT CROSSING the Rev. J. W. Tims baptized five adults, one a youth of seventeen, and the others girls in St. John's Home; and two of these (the youth and one of the girls), and two of those baptized in 1893, were confirmed, two in May and two in December. Mr. Tims questioned the candidates before the confirmation in order to discover to what extent they had heart-knowledge of Christ, and one of them said, "Perhaps you think I don't love Jesus? I love Him very much." St. John's Home has thirty boarders, and a boarding school which was opened in June, 1894, had six in December. A Cottage Hospital is in course of erection by the Government in close proximity to St. John's Home, and to be placed under the superintendence of Mr. Tims.

Sarcee Reserve.

The Rev. H. W. G. Stocken, of SARCEE RESERVE, has had the pleasure of welcoming as neighbours the Rev. and Mrs. R. M. Webb-Peploe, son of Prebendary Webb-Peploe, and the Rev. Stanley J. Stocken, his own brother, to whom the Bishop has assigned the charge of portions of the district for which Mr. H. W. G. Stocken was himself formerly responsible. The Boarding School, which receives a per capita grant from Government, has seventeen boys and ten girls. Several of the adult Blackfoots of the station are under instruction. The prospective head-chief of the tribe, who was baptized in infancy by the Roman Catholics, is being prepared for confirmation.

IV. DIOCESE OF ATHABASCA.

A SYNOD of the Diocese of Athabasca was held at Lesser Slave Lake on July 5, 1894. The Rev. Charles Weaver, of Wycliffe College, Toronto, and Mr. W. G. White, son of Lieut.-Colonel White, who had been assisting the Rev. H. W. G. Stocken on the Sarcee Reserve, accompanied Bishop Young from Winnipeg in May, 1894; the former was placed in charge of the station at Lake Wabisgaw, and the latter at White Fish Lake. The Rev. H. Robinson has been transferred from White Fish Lake to Shaftesbury, in succession to the Rev. J. G. Brick, who has resigned on account of ill-health.

Ordination.

Bishop Young admitted Mr. A. J. Warwick to Deacon's Orders at Vermilion on July 29, 1894, and Mr. Warwick was married by the Bishop in the same month to Miss M. Frances Herbert, who sailed from England the previous May.

Mr. Warwick's station is FORT VERMILION, where also the Rev. M. Scott labours. Both speak of a refreshing season of spiritual revival to themselves and their Indians. Mr. Scott writes:—

> I must confess that the first ten weeks of this year were to myself a time of much trial, and of walking low in the "valley of humiliation." Everything seemed to have gone backward; such marked carelessness, worldliness, and discord pervaded our people. Nothing could be of any avail to move or quicken them, until some time in March, when it pleased our gracious Jehovah to send the much-sought blessing, by first reclaiming some of His children who had sadly backslided; then in converting some whose souls had for a long time been dear to me. Work and prayer since have had more of hope and joy. Still, one is taught more and more how deeply one must drink of the solitude and of the suffering of the Great Shepherd, if at His call he would faithfully pasture the sheep.

The much-sought-for blessing.

According to our custom I appointed the first Sunday in Advent a day for the harvest thanksgiving and Holy Communion. We besought the Lord much to make it a day of abundant blessing, and I endeavoured to stir up our people to expect much. We were not disappointed: all our people were present, and we realized also the presence of the Lord.

After the Lord's Supper I invited all to dinner, so that we might have an afternoon meeting, as almost all live several miles away and could not return. All who could stayed, and we had a most helpful time. The meeting was informal; all took part in prayer, praise, and testimony. The offertory, which was for the C.M.S., amounted to 50 dollars.

The opposition of the Romanists becomes more and more intense, and accommodation was prepared for several nuns who were expected to arrive in the summer of 1895. Mr. Warwick has charge of the Boarding School, and he states that the children are well grounded in the Scriptures, and can answer questions which he believes would be too hard for many English children. The inconvenience caused by the fire of November, 1893, is made little of by the brethren. Mr. Scott says: "Our wants in all things were fully attended to by our Heavenly Father."

The year at FORT CHIPEWYAN, where the Rev. J. R. Lucas is stationed, was uneventful. Mr. Lucas paid a visit to Mac Murray, a distance of 180 miles, the most southern out-station under his charge, in the summer.

Lesser Slave Lake.

At LESSER SLAVE LAKE Bishop Young confirmed four adult members of the congregation, two of whom formerly belonged to the Roman communion, and seven of the elder scholars in the Children's Home. The Rev. G. Holmes is strongly impressed with a sense of the necessity for such an institution as the Home on account of the immorality of the Indians. He says that among the adherents of the Roman Catholics this vice has alarmingly increased, and in some cases also among the Protestants. Mr. Holmes writes:—

A request for prayer.

From this may be seen the great necessity of getting these poor little souls into a place of spiritual shelter. I have been lifting up my voice against this soul-destroying sin, but, instead of giving heed to the message, many have stood aloof from us; they are averse to exposing their sin. Will our brothers and sisters in that favoured land of England pray for those who have lately been confirmed, that they may be kept in the midst of such wickedness; and for us, that we may be filled with the Spirit, and with might and power from on high to declare unto "Israel his sin, and Jacob his trangression"?

She died with the prayer upon her lips.

An old Indian, whose daughter was one of some thirty victims to the epidemic of sickness which invaded the station at the beginning of 1894 (when Mr. Holmes's own child died, as mentioned in last year's Report), and had formerly been an inmate of the Home, told Mr. Holmes that before she died she said, "Father, I am going to pray as I was taught in the Mission," and that she died with the prayer upon her lips. The Home has fifteen boys and twelve girls. Mr. Holmes states that a large accession joined the staff of the Roman Catholic Mission in the summer, a bishop, eight sisters, and several brothers reinforcing the party.

As already mentioned, the Rev. C. Weaver is at WABISGAW, and Mr. W. G. White at WHITE FISH LAKE.

V. DIOCESE OF MACKENZIE RIVER.

Ordination.

BISHOP REEVE admitted the Rev. J. Hawksley to Priest's Orders. The Bishop has had the joy of welcoming Mrs. Reeve to Fort Simpson. She arrived there in September, having left England the previous May, very little the worse for her long and trying journey.

The Rev. W. Spendlove, of FORT RESOLUTION, after fifteen years in Arctic regions, with only three months' furlough, and most of the time at a peculiarly trying station, finds his health failing.

HAY RIVER the Bishop describes as one of the bright spots in the diocese. The Indians have already learned to esteem the Rev. T. J. Marsh, who went there in 1893.

FORT SIMPSON, on the other hand, from a spiritual point of view, is perhaps the least satisfactory of the stations. The Bishop, however, observes a marked improvement in the attendance at the week-day services and in the desire for instruction.

First confirmation at Fort Norman.

The first confirmation ever held at FORT NORMAN was held by Bishop Reeve during the year. The Rev. J. Hawksley is in charge.

The work among the Tukudh Indians at FORT MCPHERSON, on the Peel River, progresses steadily under Archdeacon R. McDonald. During the summer, when the Indians assemble at the Fort, daily services, day and Sunday schools, Bible-classes, &c., are held for them. On one Sunday fifty-three partook of the Holy Communion. Four adults, on their own application, were admitted into communion who had formerly been members of the Church of Rome.

The Eskimo of Mackenzie Bay.

Two visits of the Rev. I. O. Stringer to the Eskimo of Mackenzie Bay were mentioned in the last Annual Report. The latter of these was in May, 1893, to Herschel Island. In August, 1893 Mr. Stringer visited an Eskimo village near the mouth of the Mackenzie River, where he stayed three weeks, teaching the people daily as opportunity offered. A hearty welcome was given him, and he derived much encouragement at the outset from hearing them singing a hymn which he had taught them the previous summer. On one occasion, when teaching in a small village on the opposite side of the channel, one of the men exclaimed with great earnestness, "Oh, I hope you will be able to teach us all soon! Hurry up, and learn our language well, so that we may understand everything. We may soon die, and we are not prepared. Kyeta! Kyeta! (Quick! Quick!)" "Quick Quick!" Mr. Stringer adds:—

"Something about the manner of the man and the eager assent of the others went through me like a thrill, and I realized what a responsibility rested upon me, and how little I had been doing."

The chief gave Mr. Stringer his boy, Kalukotok, fifteen years old, to stay with him through the winter at Fort McPherson. In October Mr. Stringer paid a second visit to Herschel Island, and had his first experience of living in a snow-house, and, indeed, had one of his own, "the first house," he says, "I ever owned." A party of Eskimo were met with about fifteen miles from the island, many of whom had never seen a missionary before, but Mr. Stringer could tell them news of relatives whom he had met the previous summer. After reaching the island, he visited the Eskimo within reach. Two visits were paid to a village on the mainland, staying overnight each time, and he says:—

They used to gather in the largest house, and were very attentive as I read them what I had translated, and tried to explain to them the Gospel. Their houses were half underground, built partly of poles, and covered with sods and snow. In the house where I stopped there were about twenty people living. The building was about six feet high in the centre, sloped to the sides, and would have a floor area of about fifteen square feet! I was kept busy while there, holding little services with them, and trying to answer all the questions they asked. One man said he had killed another a long time ago, and eagerly inquired if there was a chance of his going to heaven. A woman wanted to know if they used tobacco in heaven. Some of them had been at Peel River some time ago, and Archbishop McDonald or Bishop Bompas had given them some instruction, but most of them were from farther west, and had never been to the Fort. And to think of these poor people living and dying without the opportunity of hearing the blessed Gospel! It was little that I could do in such a short time, and with my limited knowledge of the language. But it was a beginning, and surely it was a privilege to bring the Good News to them if only in an imperfect and limited way. They were as kind as could be, and wanted me to stay all the winter. Then they wanted me to come back and stay all next winter, and said they would hunt for me, and get me a supply of meat." "Dying without the opportunity of hearing the Gospel!"

In May, 1894, Mr. Stringer visited the "Huskies" of Mackenzie Bay, accompanied only by the Eskimo youth who had spent the winter with him at the Fort.

VI. DIOCESE OF SELKIRK.

Bishop Bompas admitted the Rev. B. Totty to Priest's Orders at Buxton on July 15, 1894. Ordination.

A young Clapham student, Mr. R. Bowen, who has some knowledge of building, and is an earnest Christian, has been sent out to Bishop Bompas at his request. The Canadian Church Missionary Association has also sent a lay missionary, Mr. Charles Whittaker.

In one of his letters written in the summer of 1894 the Bishop said the previous winter had been the severest one he had experienced, the thermometer showing at one time the startling figure of 77° below zero! The Bishop and Mrs. Bompas continued to reside at Buxton; Archdeacon and Mrs. T. H. Canham were about to remove from Selkirk to Rampart House in the autumn of 1894; and the Rev. B. Totty removed to Selkirk. There had been thirty baptisms during the year, and the attendance at church had been good.

Archdeacon Canham wrote from the Old Fort on the Yukon in August, 1894, but his letter was not received until the end of May, 1895. He pleads very earnestly for reinforcements. He had, indeed, just returned from St. Michael's, at the mouth of the Yukon, whither he had gone with a double purpose. He hoped to meet there one or more recruits from home, and he intended to take Mrs. Canham, whose health had suffered greatly, to pass the winter of 1894–5 at San Francisco and undergo medical treatment. On finding, however, that no reinforcements had arrived, he and Mrs. Canham agreed, much as the latter needed change and rest, that it was right to return and face another winter in that rigorous and inhospitable climate. The cold of the previous winter was so intense that to go out of doors involved grave danger of frost-bites, with the possible effects of loss of joints and even death. There was great scarcity of food also. Yet, "in spite of the great cold, in spite of being half-clad and half-fed, the Indian children at Selkirk attended school well."

Expecting reinforcements, but disappointed!

NORTH PACIFIC MISSION.

In 1856 Captain Prevost, R.N., drew the Society's attention to the savage state of the Tsimshean Indians on the coast of British Columbia, and a young schoolmaster, Mr. W. Duncan, was sent out. A great blessing was vouchsafed to his labours; and in 1862 the Christian settlement of Metlakahtla was founded. In 1881, however, Mr. Duncan refused to work on the lines of the Church of England, and ceased to be a missionary of the Society, and an unhappy schism among the Native Christians resulted. But peace was in God's good providence ultimately restored, though at a heavy cost. Prolonged disputes about the land ensued between Mr. Duncan's Indians and the Government; and in the summer of 1887 Mr. Duncan removed with some hundreds of the Indians to a place seventy miles distant, within the United States territory of Alaska. Since the departure of the disaffected party the conduct of the loyal Indians has been so excellent that the Government Commissioners sent in November, 1888, to report on the condition of these disturbed districts stated that the Metlakahtla Church Indians were in happy contrast to all others, and were a credit to their instructors.

The Diocese of British Columbia was subdivided in 1879; and the Rev. W. Ridley, formerly a Missionary of the Society in the Punjab, was appointed the first Bishop of Caledonia, the Northern Division; in his diocese, with the exception of one station, Alert Bay, the C.M.S. Missions are situated.

Conference of missionaries. THE Annual Conference of missionaries was held at Vancouver on August 24 and 25. The Rev. B. Baring-Gould arrived from Winnipeg on the former date, and in the evening he held a devotional gathering with the missionaries, as he did also on Sunday evening, the 26th.

Reinforcements. Miss Edith G. Beeching, of the Highbury Training Home, joined the staff of this Mission; she sailed with the Rev. and Mrs. A. J. Hall, returning to the Mission in June, 1894. Miss Alice Jane Tyte also sailed to reinforce the Mission in May, 1895.

The Bishop and Mrs. Ridley, and Miss M. West, who came home as companion to Mrs. Ridley in 1894, returned to the Mission in May, 1895. The Rev. and Mrs. J. Field came home on furlough in July, 1894.

Metlakahtla. At METLAKAHTLA, after the Bishop's departure in May, 1894, the staff consisted of the Rev. and Mrs. W. Hogan, Dr. and Mrs. V. Ardagh, and Miss F. Appleyard, three of them being recruits of the previous year. An epidemic of measles earlier in the year kept the doctor busy. In spite of all precautions eventually the disease obtained an entrance to the Girls' Home and the Industrial School, but there was no fatal case. The Hospital is usually closed from March till August, as Dr. Ardagh goes then to the Naas River to meet the Indians, who gather there for the "oolachan" fishing, but in 1894 a dying Indian boy was in the hospital who could not be removed, so Miss Appleyard was left to care for him. As his end approached, he spoke in gasps to his relatives around his bed, begging them to follow the Lord Jesus and join him in the better land.

A dying Indian lad.

Kincolith. Archdeacon W. H. Collison was much occupied in connexion with the rebuilding of the village of KINCOLITH and the church, which were burnt down in 1893. The administration of a fund raised by friends at Victoria, as well as in England and Ireland, was in his hands. The results of the efforts to evangelize the Heathen Indians at the spring fishing up the Naas River, in the spring of 1893, referred to in last year's Report, did not prove to be transitory and evanescent. The Archdeacon wrote over twelve months afterwards:—

Permanent effects of spiritual revival.

It was feared last year by some that it was but an excitement, and that, "as the morning cloud and as the early dew," it would soon pass away. The results have not justified such fears. That there was much excitement is undoubted. The Indian of the North Pacific coast is of a more excitable temperament than those of the interior. Yet of the latter we find in the life of Brainerd he states that under the power of the Word they wept and trembled, while he stood amazed at the scene. But there could be no mistaking the tears of true repentance, the intense desire to know the Word of God and to obey it, the earnest and increased congregations, and the deep longing evinced to be present at the Holy Communion. Of those who received blessing last year I do not know of one who acted inconsistently or drew back during the year. A number of young men and women, who previously seldom appeared at Holy Communion, from that time became regular communicants. Their voices were always heard in the prayer-meetings. Almost all the young men have given up the habit of smoking. One of them, who had realized a profit of $5 on the sale of tobacco in a small trading store kept by him, brought this money and gave it me to assist in the purchase of a new bell for our Mission church.

Habit of smoking given up.

Voluntary evangelistic bands.

The zeal and desire of our young men to benefit their fellow-tribesmen induced me to form some of their number into a branch of the Church Army. These went off in mid-winter, some fourteen in number, on the ice, and preached and evangelized at every encampment on the river. When they reached Aiyansh, they found that a band of those whose hearts God had touched there had left a day or two previously with the same object, to evangelize in the Gitikshan villages. This was more than a mere coincidence! Was it not the leading of the Holy Spirit? Our detachment was absent three weeks. That from Aiyansh was away for a longer period. This action on the part of the Christians led the Heathen to expect a forward movement from them, when all should assemble at the fishing. And they had unconsciously rendered themselves more accessible to this by agreeing during the winter to rest from daily labour, and even from the celebration of their Heathen "potlatches" on the Sunday.

Similar efforts were visited with a like success in the spring of 1894. The Archdeacon wrote:—

The Gospel at an Indian feast.

When all had gathered for the fishing our Christians were all eager to do what they could to influence the hearts of the Heathen. Immediately after my arrival on the scene a message was conveyed to me that a large number of the Heathen were to assemble at a village higher up on the following Sunday to be feasted by the chiefs there. Thither I proceeded after an early morning service in our Mission church. Accompanied by some fifty of our Christians we marched up the river on the ice. They were just gathering to the feast. Our people conducted a service in front of the village, while I went round and spoke to each of those I met. Soon the large lodge was crowded.

I entered, and after singing and prayer, in which I was assisted by our Christians, I preached some forty minutes to a most attentive congregation. It was a scene not soon to be forgotten. We had there the men who have been the very strength of the Heathen party for many years. I reminded them of the number of years which had elapsed since the Gospel first came amongst them. I reminded them that of the large village where Mr. Doolan first erected the standard of the Cross in 1864, not a single vestige remained.

The river had washed all away. And yet the message of the Gospel was unchanged, and the first convert had increased to a multitude. And then I urged them to resist no longer, but to build their faith and hope of salvation on Christ, the "Rock of Ages." At the close one of the leading Heathen chiefs stood up and expressed his assent and that of his friends to the truth of the message I had delivered. Thus the Mission for the season was begun, and it was well sustained for some two months. Indoors and out of doors on Sunday and week-day the Word was proclaimed.

Services on Good Friday.

On Good Friday, which was during the great run of fish, all business was suspended, and at the morning service our church was unable to accommodate the numbers who came. At the early service for the administration of the Holy Communion some seventy came forward. It was truly a season of refreshing from the presence of the Lord. During the Easter week a new feature was introduced for the benefit of the Heathen. Our good Bishop had kindly lent me a set of new slides for the magic-lantern, illustrative of the life and death of Christ. Over 200 Heathen were present. The deepest interest was manifested, and the illustrations were accompanied by explanation and appeal, which were received with marked attention throughout.

Evangelistic meetings in Easter week.

But I must not proceed further with details. Permit me to acquaint you of the results so far as they are known. Ten persons have publicly renounced Heathenism and confessed Christ as their Saviour. Four who had lapsed to Heathenism several years ago publicly expressed their repentance and have been restored, whilst several others have quietly, almost secretly, joined the Christian community, amongst them a poor blind woman and her son. These are the visible results. But who can estimate the searchings of heart that have been going on under the influence of the strivings of the Spirit?

Visible results.

Aiyansh.

The Rev. J. B. McCullagh laid the foundation stone of a new church at AIYANSH during the year. The congregation consists of eighty-seven baptized Christians and twelve adherents. The choir is led by a Native organist, whom Mrs. McCullagh has trained. Mr. McCullagh says: "When looking at this young man presiding at the harmonium in the year 1894, and mentally turning my gaze back to 1884, when he was the 'gutter snipe' of the village, I can hardly realize the transition." A very interesting printed report of the station for the year 1893–4 has been received, and extracts were printed in the C.M. Gleaner for March, 1895.

A Native organist.

An old chief of the Gitwinlgot tribe, who had never been instructed by a missionary but only by Native Christians, was baptized on his dying bed in November, 1893, after witnessing a good confession. A party of twenty of the Aiyansh Christians went on an evangelistic tour in January, 1894, travelling in snow-shoes, and carrying with them a lantern and slides and also provisions and bedding for the journey. There was no whisky-making and no cannibal rioting among the Indians of the neighbourhood during the winter.

No whisky-making and no cannibal rioting.

During the Rev. J. Field's absence on furlough, Mr. E. C. Stephenson, brother of the Rev. F. L. Stephenson, who retired from this Mission in 1893, was temporarily stationed at HAZELTON by Bishop Ridley. The Rev. A. E. Price visited the station and baptized one adult. At Mr. Price's own station, GIATWANGAK, to which he returned in September, having laboured at the salmon fisheries since his arrival in the Mission the previous May, the chief Kitaloan has returned to the Christian profession and parted with his Heathen apparel, rattle, gambling sticks, &c. The services were better attended than ever before. Two adults were baptized. Giatwangak.

The Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Keen continue to labour at MASSETT, on Queen Charlotte's Island.

The Rev. and Mrs. A. J. Hall were warmly welcomed on their return to ALERT BAY, on Vancouver's Island. In November Mr. Hall wrote that the congregation numbered one hundred, and that often eighty were at the Sunday-schools. He said:— Alert Bay.

> I never before had such a happy season in the Mission as the past four months. The best sight of all is to see our little church full on Sunday. The people dress very appropriately, having discarded the blanket when they come to church; and as most of the young people use the Indian Prayer Book, we have a hearty service. Last Sunday morning the baptism of a young woman—who bravely confessed her faith publicly—gave an additional interest to the service.
> I have visited Fort Rupert, where a large number of Indians are assembled, twice. On each occasion I held seven services, and at each visit baptized two adults.

A few days after Mr. and Mrs. Hall's return the Indians invited the members of the Mission to a little gathering, at which they expressed their joy to welcome back their friends. The chief of the tribe, though still a Heathen, wished to be present, and expressed warm words of welcome. One of the Christian Indians said: "We were like a canoe without a rudder, or, worse than that, like drift-logs going out to sea, and Mr. Hall was the hand that God sent to pull us ashore to our heavenly rest. My heart is so full of joy at looking on his face again I do not know what to say." "Like drift-logs going out to sea."

Reports of Special Funds.

REPORT OF THE WILLIAM CHARLES JONES INDIA NATIVE CHURCH FUND.

THE interest of this Fund is available for assisting the Native Church Councils connected with the Church Missionary Society in India to employ more evangelistic labourers among the Heathen. Two important conditions are imposed regarding grants. It is necessary, before an application for a grant can be entertained, for a Native Council to show that the Christians whom it represents have actually engaged in aggressive evangelistic work through a Native Missionary Society, or that they are prepared so to do. It is necessary, also, that the Council be able to show that at least two-fifths of the cost of maintaining religious worship and pastoral work in its district has been raised from purely local sources; and that a definite sum has been contributed towards missionary work. The scheme also provides that the amount granted from the Fund to a Council shall not exceed the amount set apart by that Council for purely evangelistic purposes, or the amount raised by the Native Missionary Society in connexion with that Council.

Grants were made during 1894 to the following District Church Councils:—

	Rs.
Calcutta District Church Council	350
Santal ,, ,, ,,	300
North-West Provinces,, ,, ,,	1150
Punjab and Sindh ,, ,, ,,	800
Madras ,, ,, ,,	720

Cottayam ,, ,, ,,	470
Mavelicara ,, ,, ,,	640

In Travancore and Cochin twelve evangelists are employed, by whom 601 places were visited during the year, 4,222 houses called at, 75,945 persons spoken to, and 923 Scriptures and 407 tracts sold. The evangelists accompanied the Sabari Mala pilgrims, and the Report says:—

Thousands of Hindu pilgrims go up to a hill on the Western Ghats from all parts of Travancore annually in fulfilment of vows they make when suffering from illness, or for other purposes. These pilgrims have to prepare themselves by fasting and other observances for a month in advance of their start on the pilgrimage. On the day fixed for departure all the friends and neighbours of the pilgrim meet at his house to bid him good-speed, and they usually hold a feast and escort him with tom-toms, &c., to the first stage in the journey. It is a most solemn time, for it is looked upon as a very dangerous undertaking, the journey being through wild places infested by tigers, elephants, and other wild beasts, yet the pilgrims launch forth into it depending entirely on the favour of Ayippan, the presiding deity of Sabari Mala. The new pilgrims are entirely under the orders of the old ones, who initiate them into the function and receive handsome fees for it. Some twenty years ago Archdeacon Caley, when in charge of Tiruwella, organized a preaching party, and went along with the pilgrims most part of the way, preaching to them the way of salvation.

The Jones evangelists this year for the first time accompanied the pilgrims nearly the whole way for about ten days. They started from Cottayam with the pilgrims, speaking to individuals when on the march, for they go in single file, each one carrying his own provision for the whole journey (lasting about ten days) in a bag thrown over the head and reaching to the middle of the body. They sing the pilgrim song, consisting of a few words, as they go. When they halted for rest, the evangelists preached to them in public. Altogether it was an interesting work, but the veteran pilgrims did not at all like the presence of the evangelists with them. They tried to hinder the work in several ways by making the pilgrims cry out in loud and continued voice their pilgrim song when the evangelists preached, by making them do penance for accepting handbills and tracts, and by imposing fines on them. They threatened the evangelists, and said that if they insisted on the journey Sabari Mala Ayippan would be angry, and send among them his tigers, who are supposed to be subject to him, and they would devour them. Nevertheless, hundreds of pilgrims heard the Gospel message eagerly, and some bought Scripture portions, which they kept wrapped up in clothes lest the big Ayippans, as the older pilgrims were called, should see and be angry with them. The old pilgrims were jealous that their income should not suffer, for one of them said that by taking a new one he would get about Rs. 35, and that if the evangelist would give him Rs. 30 he [the young pilgrim] might go back immediately. Another remarked that they were bothered by the evangelists, for they were sure to come wherever a few Malayalees met. The evangelists returned by way of Ranee to meet the pilgrims who went home that way. On the way back a false report was spread that three of the evangelists were slain by tigers.

In Tinnevelly the evangelists are superintended by the Missionary Association, of which the Revs. E. A. Douglas and P. G. Simeon are the Secretaries. The former writes :—

The superintendence of the work of the Jones Fund evangelists is a very integral part of our duty, and we have, I think, made a forward movement in this branch. These evangelists, some twenty in number, whose salary is paid partly from the Walter Jones Fund and partly from the Native Church Fund, are working in various large Heathen centres throughout the district. They have no congregations to look after ; their whole effort being directed towards proclaiming the Gospel to Hindus and Mohammedans, by private conversations, street-preaching, tract-distributing, &c.

At times of the great Hindu festivals we arrange for a band of these evangelists to attend as Gospel-bearers to the crowds who throng to pay homage to the Hindu gods. To take one example, we had one such band at work in August at the Adi festival at Sankaranainarkoil, that "town of idols," as Bishop Hodges termed it. They began their work with the prayerful determination "not to let one soul leave the festival without hearing the name of Jesus." Not only did they preach to the crowds who gathered (at times so thickly that several climbed up trees to see and hear), but they went into the crowded bazaar streets, distributing tracts, entering into conversation with knots of idlers, and finally ended their crusade on the last day by all going in procession round the Car Street, singing and proclaiming Christ.

During the whole month of May four such associated bands of evangelists were itinerating amongst the towns and villages in four different parts of the district.

Two main results follow united efforts like these. The preachers themselves are stirred up in their common work. And secondly, the people's attention is specially arrested by the "special joint preaching," as one evangelist phrased it. Deeper results are with the Lord.

Two stirring days of meetings for the evangelists brought them all in to Palamcottah in October, and we had a good time. Two powerful addresses, one by Mr. Walker and the other by Mr. Paul, on the two successive mornings; two meetings for discussion with papers read on suitable subjects; an open-air preaching, followed by a meeting for criticism; a hearty missionary meeting in church—formed the doings of the special days, while all that came were sent away happy by a present from Mr. Walker, and the new work by Mr. Krishna Pillai, "The Journey to Heaven," a work which marks an era in Christian Tamil poetry.

NOTE ON SPELLING OF NATIVE NAMES.

THE following system for spelling NATIVE NAMES is recommended to the Society's Missionaries generally for adoption in their letters and reports, unless any of them should prefer a still closer approximation to the more elaborate scheme of Professor Lepsius. This system should not be applied, of course, to those well-known places of which the spelling has become so fixed that it would be mere pedantry to disturb it; as, for instance, Travancore (Travankur), and Lucknow (Laknau). Other well-known names, spelt correctly according to this method, are not pronounced accordingly by English residents. For example, the a in Lagos is always pronounced by English residents, when speaking English, as in the word make.

The powers of the vowels are as follows:—

a as in '*a*bout.'	o as in 'n*o*t,' or as in the French 'b*o*nne.'
â usually as in '*fa*ther' (in North-Indian words as in '*a*ll'.)	ô as in 'n*o*te.'
e as in 'p*e*n.'	u as in '*fu*ll.'
ê as in 'fête.'	û as in 'tr*u*ly.'
i as in 'th*i*n.'	ai as i in 'th*i*ne.'
î as in 'pique.'	au or ou or ow as in 'b*ough*.'

It needs only to be noticed further that—

y always sounds as in '*y*ou.'	gn as in 'poi*gn*ant.
g " as in '*g*o.'	ng as in 'thi*ng*.'
j " as in '*j*oin.'	ei as in 'v*ei*n.'

h has always a separate sound, except in ch as in '*ch*urc*h*,' and sh as in '*sh*e, th and dh should, therefore, not be used in South Indian names to express the dental t and d.

c, whether for k or s, being superfluous, is not used.

Doubled letters should each be pronounced distinctly, as in Italian.

ae represents a sound intermediate between a in 'm*a*t' and e in 'm*e*t.'

The above Rules are not adopted in the N.-W America Mission.

NOTICE TO TREASURERS AND SECRETARIES OF ASSOCIATIONS.

THE COMMITTEE OF THE CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY beg to remind the Treasurers or Secretaries of Associations that the Society's Financial year ends on the 31st of March.

Remittances may be made through local Bankers, and their correspondents in London, to the account of the Society at WILLIAMS DEACON and MANCHESTER and SALFORD BANK, Limited, 20 Birchin Lane, London, in which case it is requested that advice of the same be sent by post addressed to the Lay Secretary.

Or Drafts may be forwarded direct to the C.M. House, payable to D. MARSHALL LANG, Esq., Lay Secretary of the Church Missionary Society, and crossed WILLIAMS DEACON and MANCHESTER and SALFORD BANK, Limited, acct. C.M.S.

Post Office Orders should be drawn on the General Post Office, and be made payable to D. MARSHALL LANG, Esq.

Sums remaining unpaid on the 31st March are not shown in the Accounts as Balances. The Contribution Lists should therefore agree in total with the amounts actually paid to the Parent Society to that date.

Lists and Accounts (if not sent with the money) must be forwarded not later than April 6th. If not so sent the Lists are very liable to be excluded from the Report. At the head of the List should be furnished the name of the Diocese, Archdeaconry, Deanery and County in which each parish is situate. It is very essential that this information should be given accurately to ensure correct entry in Annual Report. The date at which the Accounts of the Association are closed, and the names of the Local Officers, should be specified. Should no officers be named it will be assumed that they remain the same as in the previous Report, and the List will be so printed. Where the Account or the List is a printed one, two copies should be forwarded.

The Contribution Lists should be written legibly to avoid mistakes in printing, and made up in the manner in which the same are printed in the Parent Society's Report. Forms of Account and ruled paper may be had on application at the Society's House.

Where an Association has Branches connected with it, the Money and Accounts of the Branches must be forwarded to the Secretary of the Association some time before the date for forwarding to London. When this is not done within a reasonable time, such Branches shall be considered as self-excluded.

Branch Associations should in every case, where practicable, forward their Money and Lists through the Association with which they are connected, and not direct to the Parent Society.

Particulars of Appropriated Contributions and Contributions to Special Funds are printed with the Lists to which they respectively belong, and the totals thereof only transferred to their respective Accounts. All such particulars should be received not later than April 6 in each year, in order that the amounts contributed can be credited to the Ledger Accounts concerned before the Society's Accounts for the year are balanced.

The Committee take this opportunity of requesting that Local Treasurers will remit to the Parent Committee at the end of every quarter (or oftener in cases of large sums being received) any sum in their hands, over and above the amount required to meet disbursements, &c., the balance being remitted when the Local Accounts are closed for the year. This course would tend to equalise in a greater degree the Income and Expenditure in the earlier months of the Society's Financial year, and save the Society a considerable yearly sum.

II.—ENGLISH AND WELSH ASSOCIATIONS.

NOTE.—Where the items number six and upwards the totals are given under each parish in the List of Contributions.
