PROCEEDINGS

OF THE

Church Missionary Society

1897–8.

Communications on the General Business of the Society to be thus addressed—

"SECRETARIES, CHURCH MISSIONARY HOUSE, SALISBURY SQUARE, LONDON, E.C."

Telegraphic Address: "TESTIMONY, LONDON."

All Bills and Orders for Money to be made payable to the Lay Secretary, Mr. D. MARSHALL LANG.

The Office of the Society is open Daily, from 9.45 till 5.30, except on Saturdays when it closes at One o'clock.

Except under very special circumstances, one or more of the Secretaries may be seen during office hours.

The Committee meet at the Society's House on the Second Tuesday in the Month throughout the year, at Eleven o'clock. (See Regulation xxi. p. lxiii.)

A Prayer Meeting for friends of the Society is held at the C.M. House every Thursday from 4 to 5 P.M.

SUBSCRIPTIONS AND CONTRIBUTIONS WILL BE RECEIVED

At the Society's House, Salisbury Square, London, E.C.;

At the Society's Bankers—WILLIAMS DEACON and MANCHESTER AND SALFORD BANK, LIMITED, 20 Birchin Lane, London, E.C.;

And in Ireland at the C.M.S. Office, 21, Molesworth Street, Dublin, or at the BANK OF IRELAND RULES OBSERVED IN THE DISTRIBUTION OF THE ANNUAL REPORT.

(1) Annual and Life Governors (see Laws and Regulations, p. lxii.) are entitled to a copy bound in blue cloth.

[N.B.—For this purpose, Annual Subscriptions of £5 are considered as Subscriptions of Five Guineas.]

(2) Annual and Life Members (see Laws and Regulations, p. lxii.), and all Clergymen who support the Society in any way, are entitled to a copy in paper covers, either with or without the detailed lists of Contributions received through Associations; or, if preferred, to a copy of the "Story of the Year."

[N.B.—For this purpose Annual Subscriptions of £1 are considered as Subscriptions of One Guinea.

Clergymen should receive copies containing the full details of Contributions through Associations.

The object of publishing the Report "without detailed Association lists" is to save expense in paper, printing, &c.]

(3) Annual Subscribers of 10/- or 10/6 (other than Clergymen), and Collectors of 20/- and upwards who are not Members, are entitled to a copy of the "Story of the Year," the C.M.S. Short Popular Report (Illustrated). This Edition may also be supplied to Active Workers at the discretion of Local Secretaries.

STATIONS, CLERICAL AND LAY MISSIONARIES, AND NATIVE CLERGYMEN,

ON JUNE 1, 1898.

 A STATION is the place at which a Clerical or Lay Missionary is stationed, or at which Native Christians are located under Native pastoral superintendence in connexion with the Society.

The figures after the Names of the European Labourers show the year of their first sailing for the Society's Missions, or of their reception into connexion in the field. Their University or College is indicated thus: Oxford, "Oxf."; Cambridge, "Camb."; Dublin, "Dub."; Durham, "Dur."; London, "Lond."; Archbishop of Canterbury's Degree, "Lamb."; Islington, "Isl."; London College of Divinity, "Lond. Coll Div."; King's College, London, "K.C.L." In the case of men trained at the Society's Preparatory Institution, Clapham, or of ladies trained at "The Willows," Stoke Newington, "The Olives," South Hampstead, and at the Society's Highbury Training Home, "Clapham," or "The Willows," or "The Olives," or "Highbury," occurs after their names. The letter D after the names of ordained men, whether Europeans or Natives, indicates that they were Deacons at the above date.

The terms "Hon." and "partly Hon.," in parenthesis, after the name of a Missionary, means that such Missionary draws no allowances, or only a portion of the usual allowances. Where Missionaries are supported by individual friends of the Society, or by Associations, or other bodies, the fact is indicated. In the case of the Colonial Associations (N. S. Wales = New South Wales, Vict. = Victoria, New Z. = New Zealand) the Missionaries have been selected, and, when necessary, also trained by the Associations, by which likewise they are supported in the field.

*This mark * denotes that the Missionaries to whose name it is prefixed are in Local Connexion,* i.e. that their offers of service were accepted by the Society's representatives in the several Missions.

The mark ‡ denotes that the name to which it is prefixed is that of an Agent supported by Native Church Funds, which are in most instances aided by the Society. The Native Ministers in New Zealand are supported partly by Subscriptions from Native Christians, and partly from the rents of lands belonging to the Society in the Colony.

The Names of Native Clergymen are printed in Italics. The figures after their names show the date of ordination.

The Maiden Names of Wives of European Missionaries, and the year of marriage, when known, are given in parenthesis; in the case of each lady who was a Missionary of the Society before marriage, the Mission in which she laboured, and the year of joining it are given; and in the case of ladies who were Missionaries of other Societies, the initials indicating the Society ("C.E.Z.M.S." = Church of England Zenana Missionary Society; "Z.B.M.M." = Zenana Bible and Medical Mission; "F.E.S." = Female Education Society) are given, as well as the country and year of joining. Wives of Missionaries are always expected by the Society to lay themselves out to do good, in every practicable way, among the native women, such as cultivating familiar intercourse with them, educating children, and instructing the adult women.

The Names under each station are printed in order of date, without reference to nationality, sex, orders, or other difference; except that, the Secretaries of Missions are placed first in order at the stations where they reside, and wives of Missionaries are placed, in almost every instance, immediately after their husbands.

At the Annual Meeting of the Church Missionary Society, held at Exeter Hall, London, Tuesday, May 3rd, 1898, being the Society's Ninety-ninth Anniversary,

THE RIGHT HON. SIR JOHN H. KENNAWAY, BART., M.P.,
President, in the Chair,

AFTER READING OF SCRIPTURE AND PRAYER,

The General Review of the Year was read, followed by the CHAIRMAN'S address, after which, on a motion by the RIGHT HON. AND RIGHT REV. THE LORD BISHOP OF LONDON, V.P., seconded by Mr. J. R. MOTT, it was Resolved—

That the General Review which has just been read, together with the Report, be adopted and printed under the direction of the Committee; that the thanks of the Meeting be given to the Rev. Handley C. G. Moule, D.D., for his Sermon before the Society last evening, and that it be printed and circulated; that Colonel Robert Williams, M.P., V.P., be the Treasurer of the Society; that the Committee be appointed for the ensuing year, with power to fill up vacancies; and that this Meeting, calling to mind the manifold mercies of Almighty God during the past year, both in the increased opportunities set before His Church and the growing interest and energy shown by His servants on behalf of the non-Christian world, while confessing the exceeding disproportion between that which is being done to preach the Gospel and that which might be done, earnestly desires that all Christian people will rise to, and act upon the words of the Lambeth Conference, "at the present time this stands first of all the tasks we have to do."

On a motion by the REV. DR. WACE, seconded by the REV. G. H. POLE, of Japan, it was Resolved—

That the Second Jubilee of the Society upon which it has now entered, is a call to its members in all parts of the world, to render heartfelt thanks to Almighty God for the marvellous and ever increasing proofs of His Goodness with which He has crowned another fifty years of Missionary labour; and that this Meeting, while deeply conscious of how much cause exists for humiliation before God on account of failures on the part of the Church of Christ to undertake with a whole heart the Evangelization of the World, yet emphatically declares that the history of the Society in the past is an evident encouragement to larger aims, more earnest efforts, and brighter hopes for the future, and prays that this Year of Jubilee may happily usher in the Centenary of the Society, and a joyful commemoration in which every member will take an active part.

On a motion by the REV. C. H. GILL, of N.-W.P., India, seconded by the REV. E. A. STUART, it was Resolved—

That in view of the many doors which now lie open before the Church of Christ on the N.-W. Frontier of India, the Hinterlands of the Society's Missions in East and West Africa, and in China as the result of the marked changes (social and political) which have recently been developed in that Empire, this Meeting solemnly calls upon the members of the Society to give themselves to earnest prayer that the Holy Spirit may so enkindle the hearts of God's people that workers and means may speedily be provided for a far more adequate proclamation among these peoples of "liberty to the captives, and . . . . the acceptable year of the Lord."

The following Meetings were also held in London on the same day in connexion with the Anniversary:—

At ST. JAMES'S HALL, Piccadilly, simultaneously with the Annual Meeting; Col. Robert Williams, M.P., V.P., in the Chair.

At the CHURCH HOUSE, Westminster, at 3.30 P.M., for Ladies; Mrs. Temple in the Chair.

At the LEOPOLD ROOMS, St. Bride Street, Ludgate Circus, at 3.30 P.M., Conference of Younger Clergy Unions; the Rev. E. A. Stuart in the Chair.

At EXETER HALL, Strand, at 7 P.M.; the Very Rev. the Dean of Norwich, V.P., in the Chair.

At LOWER EXETER HALL, Strand, at 7 P.M.; H. E. Thornton, Esq., in the Chair.

Addresses were delivered at these Meetings by the Rev. S. A. Selwyn, the Rev. R. C. Joynt, Lord Kinnaird, Sir G. S. Baden-Powell, M.P., Miss Mary Clifford, and others.

LAWS AND REGULATIONS

OF THE

CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY FOR AFRICA AND THE EAST.

(As revised at a Special Meeting of Members of the Society, held on July 2, 1890.)

I. THIS Institution shall be designated "The Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East;" and shall be conducted by a Patron or Patrons, a Vice-Patron, a President, Vice-Presidents, a COMMITTEE, and such Officers as may be deemed necessary, all being Members of the Established Church of England or of the Church of Ireland.

II. The office of PATRON of the Society shall be reserved for Members of the Royal Family; and that of VICE-PATRON for His Grace the Primate of All England, if, being a Member of the Society, he shall accept the office. The PRESIDENT shall be such Temporal Peer or Commoner as may be appointed to that office, and VICE-PRESIDENTS shall consist of all Archbishops and Bishops of the Churches of England and Ireland, who, being Members of the Society, shall accept the office; and of such other persons as, being also Members, shall be appointed thereto.

OF MEMBERS AND GOVERNORS.

III. Annual Subscribers of One Guinea and upwards, and if Clergymen Half-a-Guinea, with Collectors of Fifty-two Shillings, and upwards, per annum, shall be Members of the Society during the continuance of such Subscriptions or Collections. Benefactors of Ten Guineas, and upwards, in one sum shall be Members for Life.

IV. Annual Subscribers of Five Guineas shall be Governors during the continuance of such Subscription; and Benefactors of Fifty Pounds, and upwards, in one sum, shall be Governors for Life.

V. Subscriptions and Benefactions shall confer the same privileges, whether paid to the Society direct or through an Auxiliary or Association.

VI. The COMMITTEE may appoint such persons as have rendered essential services to the Society, either Honorary Members for Life, or Honorary Governors for Life.

OF GENERAL MEETINGS.

VII. An Annual Meeting of the Members of the Society shall be held in London, on the Tuesday next before the first Wednesday in May; when the proceedings of the foregoing year shall be reported, the Accounts presented, and the Treasurer and COMMITTEE chosen. And whenever any vacancy in the office of Treasurer shall occur, the COMMITTEE may fill up the vacancy, for the interval between the occurrence of such vacancy and the next Annual Meeting.

VIII. The COMMITTEE may summon a Special General Meeting of the Members of the Society, at which not less than Thirty shall constitute a Quorum, at any time, and they shall do so on receipt of a requisition in writing, addressed to the Secretaries, and signed by not less than Fifty Members of the Society, and specifying the object of the Meeting. Ten days' notice shall be given in Three London Daily Newspapers, and in two other Newspapers, of any such intended Meeting, and of the purpose for which it is called; which shall be deemed sufficient publicity.

IX. None of the Laws and Regulations of the Society shall be repealed or altered, nor any new ones made, but at the Annual Meeting or at a Special General Meeting called for that purpose.

X. An Anniversary Sermon shall be preached at some Church in London, by a Clergyman appointed by the COMMITTEE. An Annual Report of the Society shall be printed for the use of its Members.

OF THE COMMITTEE.

XI. The COMMITTEE shall consist of the following, being members of the Established Church of England or of the Church of Ireland:—(a) Twenty-four Lay Members of the Society elected at the Annual Meeting. (b) All Clergymen who are Members of the Society and have been so for not less than one year. (c) All Honorary Governors for Life, and all such other Governors as have been so for not less than one year. In every year so many of the elected Members shall go out of office as, with the vacancies, if any, occurring among them during the preceding year, will make six vacancies, and shall not be re-eligible until the following year. The COMMITTEE shall decide which Members go out of office in each year.

XII. The COMMITTEE shall elect, at their First Meeting in every year, either from among themselves, or from the other Members of the Society (being members of the Established Church of England or of the Church of Ireland), a Committee of Patronage, a Committee of Funds and Home Organization, a Committee of Correspondence, a Committee of Finance, and a Committee of Estimates, and shall have power to fill up vacancies. Each of the said Committees shall keep Minutes of its Proceedings, and shall make such reports of its proceedings to the COMMITTEE as the COMMITTEE shall require.

XIII. The office of the Committee of Patronage is to procure patronage and support to the Society; and to nominate to the COMMITTEE proper persons as Patrons, President, Vice-Presidents, Honorary Life Governors, Honorary Life Members of the Society, and preachers of the Anniversary Sermons.

XIV. The office of the Committee of Funds and Home Organization is to circulate information respecting the Society; to adopt means of obtaining Subscriptions, Benefactions, and Collections in Churches, Chapels, and at Meetings; to take a general oversight of the Associations; and to nominate, from time to time, to the COMMITTEE, suitable persons to act as Agents and Representatives of the Society for these objects.

XV. The office of the Committee of Correspondence is, to seek for proper Missionaries, to nominate them to the COMMITTEE, to superintend their instruction when necessary, to recommend their location, and to correspond with them when sent out, and generally to direct the foreign work of the Society. Subject to the control of the COMMITTEE, the Committee of Correspondence may delegate any of their duties to Committees elected from among themselves, and may authorize such Committees to report directly to the COMMITTEE, and may fix their Quorum.

XVI. The office of the Committee of Finance is, generally, to superintend the accounts and financial affairs of the Society, and from time to time to note and to report to the COMMITTEE how far the expenditure corresponds with the sanctioned Estimates.

XVII. The office of the Committee of Estimates is, to prepare and submit to the COMMITTEE an estimate of the probable expenditure of the Society.

XVIII. The Committee of Correspondence shall appoint from among themselves, at their First Meeting in every year, a Clerical Sub-Committee, and may appoint at their discretion other Committees, for the examination of Missionary Candidates.

XIX. The COMMITTEE may make regulations as to the conduct of business by themselves and by the other Committees, and subject to and so far as not inconsistent with any such regulations for the time being in force, the COMMITTEE shall receive and deal with the Reports of the other Committees, shall decide upon the countries where Missions shall be carried on, and shall superintend and control the affairs of the Society in general. The COMMITTEE may authorize any Committee appointed under Law XII., and with the consent of the Committee of Correspondence any Committee appointed under Law XV. to deal with and dispose of any matters and classes of matters the consideration of which falls within its province, reporting its action to the next meeting of the COMMITTEE. Subject to the control of the COMMITTEE, every Committee may make Bye-laws for its own government, and may appoint Sub-Committees and fix their quorum.

XX. The COMMITTEE shall have power to appoint such Officers and Assistants as they shall deem necessary for the well-conducting of the affairs of the Society, subject, in the case of the appointment of Secretaries, to the approbation of the next Annual Meeting. One, at least, of the Secretaries shall be a layman. The COMMITTEE shall also have power to acquire property of every description for the purposes of the Society, and to invest the funds of the Society as they may deem expedient, and to vest all or any portions of the property and funds of the Society in such Trustee or Trustees, or corporate body, as they may in each case think fit.

XXI. The COMMITTEE shall meet on the second Tuesday in every month, and oftener if needful. The other Committees shall meet as often, and at such places, as shall be by them agreed on. All Committee Meetings shall be opened with reading a Form of Prayer composed for that purpose, or one or more suitable Prayers selected from the Liturgy.

XXII. The Patrons, Vice-Patron, President, Vice-Presidents, Treasurer and Secretaries shall be considered, ex officio, Members of all Committees.

XXIII. Five Members shall be necessary to form a Quorum of the COMMITTEE; and Three of each of the Committees provided for in Law XII.; in each case exclusive of the Secretaries. In cases of equality of votes, the Chairman shall be entitled to a second or casting vote. Every Committee may act notwithstanding vacancies.

XXIV. All payments on account of the Society shall be signed by Three Members of the COMMITTEE, in Committee, and the Lay Secretary, or in his absence by one of the other Secretaries.

XXV. The accounts of the Society shall be audited and reported upon by Public Accountants appointed by the COMMITTEE, and Five Honorary Auditors, Members of the Society (of whom not more than two shall be Members of the COMMITTEE), shall be appointed annually by the COMMITTEE for the purpose of considering the Reports of Public Accountants, and of making recommendations thereon, and generally on the Accounts to the COMMITTEE once at least in every year.

OF MISSIONARIES.

XXVI. Every offer for Missionary Service shall be referred by the Secretaries either to the Committee of Correspondence or in the first instance to the Clerical Sub-Committee or other Committee appointed under Law XVIII. to which it shall belong under rules laid down by the Committee of Correspondence; and the Committee of Correspondence shall have power to deal with the offer, both as to the training and as to the nomination as a Missionary of the Candidate. Provided that no one shall be sent out as a Missionary without having been approved by the Committee of Correspondence; and without, as a general rule, having appeared before them.

XXVII. Candidates nominated by the Committee of Correspondence, and accepted by the COMMITTEE, shall receive instruction in such parts of knowledge, and be prepared in such a manner for their future employment, as the Committee of Correspondence shall judge expedient.

XXVIII. Candidates shall consider themselves engaged to go to any part of the world, and at any time that the COMMITTEE shall decide, and be subject to such regulations as may be established by the COMMITTEE for the direction of the Missionaries: respect, however, being had to their personal circumstances, or to any previous stipulation made by them with the Society.

XXIX. Men who have been duly prepared and finally approved for Missionary work, shall go out, either ordained or unordained, at the discretion of the COMMITTEE.*

XXX. The Missionaries who go out under the direction of this Society shall be allowed to visit home, permission having been previously obtained from the COMMITTEE; and after having laboured in the cause of the Society, to the satisfaction of the COMMITTEE, at the Stations committed to their care, until age or infirmity prevent further exertion, such provision shall be made to render their remaining days comfortable as in the judgment of the COMMITTEE is suitable. The COMMITTEE shall have the power to assist also, in particular cases, the dependent Relatives of those Missionaries, who, by devoting themselves to the service of the Society, are prevented from contributing to their support. The COMMITTEE shall be further empowered in special cases to make such arrangements with those employed by them as they may think fit.

GENERAL.

XXXI. A friendly intercourse shall be maintained with other Protestant Societies engaged in the same benevolent design of propagating the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

XXXII. All questions relating to matters of Ecclesiastical Order and Discipline, respecting which a difference shall arise between a Bishop of the Church of England abroad and the COMMITTEE, shall, in the absence of any tribunal having legal cognizance of the same, be referred to the Archbishops and Bishops of the Provinces of Canterbury and York, whose decision thereupon shall be binding upon the Society and its agents, and representatives. The proposed reference shall be made by the COMMITTEE, through His Grace the Primate, accompanied by such explanations and statements as the COMMITTEE may deem advisable.

XXXIII. The object of the preceding Law being only to provide a mode of settling questions relating to Ecclesiastical Order and Discipline as to which no provision has yet been made by the Society, it is not to be so construed, as in any other respect to alter the principles and practices of the Society, as they are contained in its Laws and Regulations.

XXXIV. It is recommended to every Member of the Society to pray to Almighty God for a blessing upon its designs; under the full conviction that, unless He "prevent us, in all our doings, with His most gracious favour, and further us with His continual help," the Society cannot reasonably hope to meet with persons of a proper spirit and qualifications to be Missionaries, or expect their endeavours to be crowned with success.

* The Bishops of the Church of England under the authority of the law of the land ordain and send forth [ecclesiastically speaking] the Society's Missionaries; and in the event of their being appointed by the COMMITTEE to labour at stations within the jurisdiction of a Bishop of the Church of England abroad, it is the practice of the Society to apply to the Bishop for licenses in which are specified the districts to which the Missionaries have been assigned. This is done on the understanding that licenses will neither be refused nor when granted be withdrawn from the Missionaries during their connection with the Society, except for some assigned legal cause.

PRAYER USED AT THE ANNUAL MEETINGS OF THE SOCIETY, AND AT THE OPENING OF MEETINGS OF THE GENERAL COMMITTEE.

ALMIGHTY and most merciful FATHER, we give Thee humble thanks for the light of Thy Gospel. Make us more grateful for this Thy mercy, and more zealous for the salvation of all mankind.

Visit in mercy the Church of Christ; enrich it more abundantly with the grace of Thy Holy Spirit; and bless its endeavours to make known Thy Truth. Unite, as one man, all who are truly labouring for Thee. Disappoint the designs of Satan. Let all Christian Societies live in harmony and love; give them wisdom in all their plans; perfect Thy strength in their weakness; and direct their labours to Thy glory.

The harvest truly is great, but the Labourers are few! O Thou Lord of the Harvest, send forth labourers into Thy Harvest! Fill with Thy Spirit those whom Thou hast sent forth; and enable them faithfully and boldly to preach, among Jews and Gentiles, the unsearchable riches of Christ. Keep them from the snares of the world, the flesh, and the devil; deliver them from all evil; and make them wise to win souls.

Upon all the Native Converts whom Thou hast gathered to Thyself, through Thy labouring servants throughout the world, pour out Thy Holy Spirit, that, as Thou hast begotten them again unto a lively hope, so they may ever be followers of Thee as dear children. Deliver them from all remaining darkness and ignorance; destroy and abolish in their hearts all that remains of Satan's kingdom; grant that their faith, and hope, and love may grow exceedingly; make them to be ready to every good work, and more especially to exert themselves for the salvation of those around them; that so, by their zeal and faithful testimony, by their holiness and fruitfulness, they may glorify Thy name before their countrymen, and bring in unto Thee, from the midst of them, such as shall be saved.

Have compassion, O Most-merciful Father, on all those who have come under instruction, though they be not yet altogether Christians. Convince them effectually, by Thy Word and Spirit, of their sinful and miserable state; pour upon them the spirit of grace and supplication, and draw them to Jesus.

Take away blindness from the Jews. Let them receive Thee, O Jesus, as their Messiah, and proclaim Thy saving Name among the Gentiles.

Deliver all Mohammedans from the delusions of the False Prophet! O Thou True Prophet of Thy Church, enlighten them by Thy Holy Spirit, and bow them down at the foot of Thy Cross!

Pity blind Idolaters who are kept in cruel bondage by the god of this world. Turn them from idols, that they may serve the Living and True God.

O Thou Almighty Saviour, who by the right hand of God art exalted, and hast received of the Father the promise of the Holy Ghost, shed forth His light and grace on this dark world!

Cause all Christians, we beseech Thee, to sow bountifully; that they may reap also bountifully. O Thou that lovest a cheerful giver, let all grace abound toward them, that they may minister liberally of their substance to the making known of Thy Name!

With these our humble prayers, we join our praises and thanksgiving for what Thou hast already done in making known Thy salvation; perfect Thy work, O Lord; shortly accomplish the number of Thine elect; and hasten the coming of Thy Kingdom.

Be present with us, O Lord, at this time. Give us all a single eye to Thy glory May Thy blessing rest upon our meeting; and may all our hearts be this day quickened and encouraged to fresh and persevering efforts in Thy Service.

We ask these mercies for the glory of Thy Name, through the merits and mediation of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ; and would ascribe to Father, Son, and Holy Ghost, Three Persons in One God, everlasting praise. Amen.

OUR Father, which art in heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name; Thy kingdom come; Thy will be done in earth, As it is in heaven: Give us this day our daily bread: And forgive us our trespasses, As we forgive them that trespass against us: And lead us not into temptation, But deliver us from evil: for Thine is the kingdom, the power, and the glory, For ever and ever. Amen.

PRAYER USED AT THE OPENING OF MEETINGS OF THE COMMITTEE OF CORRESPONDENCE.

ALMIGHTY GOD, our heavenly Father, Who hast purchased to Thyself an Universal Church, by the precious blood of Thy dear Son, we give Thee hearty thanks that it hath pleased Thee to call us to the knowledge of Thy grace and faith in Thee, and to appoint our lot in an age and country where the true light shineth. We bless Thee that Thou hast awakened us in some measure to feel our responsibilities. We praise Thee for what we have seen and heard of the power of Thy Word among the heathen, we adore Thee for Thy many servants who have gone out from amongst us to toil, and suffer, and die in making known Thy salvation; and we thank Thee that Thou dost allow us, unworthy sinners, to unite together in this work of faith and labour of love.

We humbly confess our past lukewarmness in this Thy service, notwithstanding these Thine inestimable benefits and mercies. For our Lord Jesus Christ's sake, forgive us our past negligences, and so endue us with Thy Holy Spirit, that we may more earnestly seek Thy glory in the salvation of souls.

Grant us, we beseech Thee, Thy very present help at these our meetings. We ask, most gracious God and Father, for a constraining sense of the love of the Lord Jesus, and for wisdom to direct us in all our endeavours. Increase upon us the spirit of power, and of love, and of a sound mind. Give us faith and courage; give us zeal and patience; give us a single eye to Thy glory, and help us to bear and to forbear. The silver and the gold are Thine, O King of kings! Supply us with what is needful for Thy great work, and make us faithful stewards of Thy bounty, for proclaiming to the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ.

We pray also for all who are united with us in the direction of this sacred cause.

May Thine especial blessing rest upon our Committees, with their Secretaries, throughout the world. Bestow on them the help that we feel so needful for ourselves. Enable them to maintain the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace, and ever to find favour in the sight of all with whom they may have to do.

Especially we beseech Thee to look, O most merciful Father, upon our Missionary brethren. Draw out our hearts towards them more and more; and while they are bearing the burden abroad, give us grace to help and succour them by our sympathy and prayers at home. Bless every letter written to them from this house, and all our intercourse with them. We pray for them that they may be filled with Thy Spirit. Grant that the same mind may be in them which was also in Christ Jesus. Let them never lose their first love. Raise them above the cares of this world. Help them to deny themselves and to endure all things for the elect's sake. Give them the tongue of him that is taught. Clothe them with humility. Teach them to follow peace with each other, and with all men. Support them under spiritual distresses, temptations of the adversary, bodily sickness, domestic anxieties, and hope deferred. And so confirm Thy word from their lips by the power of the Holy Ghost, that through them multitudes may be turned from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan unto Thee, our God.

We commend to Thee the Missionaries' children entrusted to our charge. Bring them all to a saving knowledge of Christ Jesus. Defend them with Thy heavenly grace, that they may continue Thine for ever; and daily increase in Thy Holy Spirit more and more, until they come unto Thy everlasting kingdom. Give all needed grace to those who have the direction of the Home in the discharge of the arduous work with which Thou hast been pleased to entrust them.

We most heartily thank Thee, O Lord, for those whom Thou hast already sent forth through this Society; and we pray for a yet larger outpouring of a Missionary spirit on our younger Clergy, on the members of our Universities, on those who are elsewhere preparing for this holy work, on the young men of all ranks and orders throughout our land. And herein do we implore Thy special favour on our Training Institutions, that their numbers may be replenished continually: and that none may go forth from them but such as shall be able ministers of the New Testament, full of Faith, and of the Holy Ghost.

We praise Thee, O Thou God of all grace, for the Converts, the Native Catechists, and the Native Clergy, whom Thou hast granted to us in our several Missions. As Thou hast raised the Native Churches thus far, bring them, we pray Thee, to full ripeness and perfectness of age in Christ. Pour out upon them Thy Holy Spirit. Stablish, strengthen, settle them, and so enlarge their liberality, that they may both maintain Thy Word among themselves, and may make it known to the regions beyond them, till all the Gentiles hear the glad tidings of Thy love.

And now, O Lord God, be Thou in the midst of us to-day. Give us a constant sense of Thy presence, and may all our undertakings be begun, continued, and ended in Thee, to the honour of Thy great name for the sake of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. Amen.

NOTE ON SPELLING OF NATIVE NAMES.

In the year 1896 the Council of the Royal Asiatic Society adopted the system for the Transliteration of Oriental Alphabets which will be found in the Journal of that Society for October of that year; and, on December 8th, 1896, the General Committee of the Church Missionary Society passed the following resolution relating to the same subject:—"The Committee recommend the use of this system, and hope that the missionaries of this Society who are engaged in translational or other literary work in the Roman character in the languages referred to in the Royal Asiatic Society's scheme or in those connected with them, will employ it; and that it may be used in transliterating the names of persons and places in all communications with the Committee, except those well-known and familiar names which it would be unwise to alter."

This system for spelling Native Names is, therefore, recommended to the Society's Missionaries generally for adoption in their letters and reports. It should not be applied, of course, to those well-known places of which the spelling has become so fixed that it would be mere pedantry to disturb it; as, for instance, Travancore (Travankur), and Lucknow (Laknau). Other well-known names, spelt correctly according to this method, are not pronounced accordingly by English residents. For example, the a in Lagos is always pronounced by English residents, when speaking English, as in the word make.

The powers of the vowels are as follows:—

a as in "*a*bout."
ā usually as in "f*a*ther" (in North-Indian words as in "*a*ll.") e as in "p*e*n."
ē as in "f*ê*te."
i as in "th*i*n."
ī as in "p*i*que."
o as in "n*o*t," or as in the French "b*o*nne."
ō as in "n*o*te."
u as in "f*u*ll."
ū as in "tr*u*ly."
ai as i in "th*i*ne."
au as ou in "b*ou*gh."

It needs only to be noticed further that—

y always sounds as in "*y*ou."
g „ as in "*g*o."
j „ as in "*j*oin."
gn as in "poi*gn*ant."
ng as in "thi*ng*."

h has always a separate sound, except in ch as in "*ch*urch," and sh as in "*sh*e," th and dh should, therefore, not be used in South Indian names to express the dental t and d.

c, whether for k or s, being superfluous, is not used.

Doubled letters should each be pronounced distinctly, as in Italian.

THE ANNUAL SERMON,

Preached at St. Bride's Church, Fleet Street, on Monday Evening, May 2nd, 1898,

BY THE

REV. HANDLEY C. G. MOULE, D.D.,

PRINCIPAL OF RIDLEY HALL, CAMBRIDGE,

A Vice-President of the Society.

"HE SAID UNTO THEM, THUS IT IS WRITTEN, AND THUS IT BEHOVED CHRIST TO SUFFER, AND TO RISE FROM THE DEAD THE THIRD DAY: AND THAT REPENTANCE AND REMISSION OF SINS SHOULD BE PREACHED IN HIS NAME AMONG ALL NATIONS, BEGINNING AT JERUSALEM."—Luke xxiv. 46, 47.

THE preacher called to minister to you to-night must needs feel his heart full of the future. He is indeed conscious also of the past, a wonderful past, a nearly finished century of grace and mercy, and of the patience and faith of saints. How can he not be stirred by the thought of those first days of our Church Missionary annals, those original acts of simple but supernatual obedience and reliance? An unpraised, unheeded group of pious men, our founders met to pray and to confer; they looked out from a threatened England upon a world at war, and they embraced the obligation to attempt from England the evangelization of the world. So began the story so familiar to us, and so dear, and which inevitably, by laws of human imagination, claims a peculiar realization as the landmark of a hundred years approaches. It is a retrospect vastly various under all its unity; —a long succession of suspenses, of fluctuations, of glowing hopes, of heart-sickening disappointments, of magnificent renewals of zeal, expectation, and advance. The first appeals to a Church almost more sceptical than indifferent; the slow growth of recognition and support; the first sacrifices and triumphs, in Western Africa, in New Zealand, in India and Ceylon, in Abyssinia, among the northern Redmen; the shocks and sorrows of the Niger Expedition, of the Mutiny, of the wars and rebellion of China, of the wreck of the Maori race and Church, yes, and of many a crisis of discouragement at home;—such are some of the features of our backward view. Then, nearer to us in time, we behold an ever-opening India, and wide doors unbarred on a sudden in Japan, and the long cloud of mystery swept from Eastern Africa, and North-Western America silently transformed into a province of missionary bishoprics. Then Hannington dies at the gate of Uganda, and the Cambridge Seven make London and England listen as never before to the missionary call. A new departure is manifestly taken. It is a new era in point of zeal, and purpose, and provision of resources, and offers of service, and organization of prayer and labour. The believing Church among us betrays now a consciousness larger and fuller than before that her light is given her that she may shine; she exists to be her Lord's implement for the evangelization of the world.

So our yesterday is strong in us, in this place of many memories, at this solemn date of period and reflection. Yet the future, immortal child of the immortal past, its effect and sequel, its longed-for flower and fruit, is present here in even greater power. We are met not for reverie half so much as for resolutions and advance. The names of our blessed fathers are dear to us, with an indescribable sense of loyalty and honour; but we cherish that sense, not that we may build their cenotaphs, but that we may carry on their work. Our Jubilee is a commemoration, but it is much more besides; it is a summons afresh to the foot of the atoning Cross, and a new proclamation there of the power and liberty of the Spirit, that we may go out in it before our Lord to announce Him, the Liberator, to the world. Our centenary year is a point of sight for a wider landscape; but not only that we may review and estimate achievements. Much rather we are looking forward, so far as mortal eyes can, into our second century, and the twentieth of our Lord. We want to see something, through whatever haze, of the vastness of the land in front, and how He would have us enter in, and set our feet here, and there, and everywhere upon it, claiming it for Him.

I am only giving voice to all your hearts. In the three years' preparation for our Centenary nothing has been more prominent than this consciousness of the overwhelming claims of the future. In every possible way the Society has emphasized its resolve (to an extent I had almost dared to call excessive) to silence all congratulations, under the conviction that the work is only at its threshold, and encumbered even there with incalculable arrears. It has spoken as if there were little to utter, if anything, save humiliation for the past, and penitent purposes for the future, nil actum reputans, dum quid superesset agendum.

And the agendum is so vast, and the night is coming down upon it, when no man can work!

To be sure, the non-Christian world has been lately traversed for the Gospel as never before. Two main masses of inhabited territory alone now remain practically untouched—Thibet, with Nepaul on its southern side, and the great Soudan. But the penetration of the world in its breadth has only made us the more conscious of its depths. The millions of the unevangelized earth have, as it were, multiplied themselves before us, for we can count them better, and we can realize them better too, in their greatness and in their need. Along with the stronger consciousness of their claim upon us for evangelization there grows the consciousness that the evangelization of such populations, and under such conditions, is no matter for forced marches, and hurried inroads, and feeble occupations. It calls for promptitude indeed, in the name of God. But it calls for patience and for thoroughness as well. In brief, it sets before the believing Church a task scarcely apprehended hitherto in its true proportions. It is a task which fills the whole immediate future with its greatness and variety, with its awfulness and its hopes; an enterprise compassable indeed, in Christ, but only compassable by a Church altogether wakeful, pressing towards the mark, forgetting the things which are behind and reaching forth to those things which are before.

This deepening, gathering, sense of the missionary future embodies itself around us in many methods and movements, full of a new age. Within our Society, I need but name the still young and growing work of the Gleaners' Union; with its fine simplicity of plan, its ubiquitous extension, its living network of contact and sympathy, and its rich results. Quite outside our organization, yet touching and touched by it at innumerable points, lies the large sphere of spiritual influence whose centre, in a certain sense, is the tent at Keswick. From that centre, to a memorable extent, notably within the last ten years, the missionary impulse has powerfully vibrated in (I venture to say) all the Churches of the Reformation, and most of all, if I read the facts aright, within our own. In no slight connexion with this movement, while going upon a perfectly independent line, the Students' Volunteer Missionary Union makes a sign and landmark of the times. It is the spontaneous issue of a deep loyalty to the Lord in our young educated Christendom, and as such it is an omen full of the future and of a glorious hope.

Its now well-known watchword is a call energetically forward, "The evangelization of the world within this generation." In no uninformed or unconsidering spirit that watchword is explained by its responsible advocates. They do not mean an undisciplined enthusiasm, nor the least tinge of weak depreciation of long-tried methods and of the glorious veterans of the field. They mean no blind and narrow indifference to the immovable claims of the work of God at home, where never was the call so acute, so intense, so awful as now, not for any labourers, but for labourers true to the heavenly Word and filled with the Holy Spirit of God. They avoid with growing care a certain tone of chiding, I had almost said of scolding, into missionary zeal, which has sometimes marred earnest appeals, striking a harsh discord with the blessed purpose of them. They are, as I believe, aware of the grave spiritual risks of an undue and premature pressure upon young men and women to sign declarations and promises. They know the need of waiting first for full light upon the conditions of the work, upon the whole range of personal duties, and upon God's whole purpose for the individual as shown in the build of character and faculty; woful have been the mistakes sometimes made under oblivion of that need. But what these youthful servants of God do mean is a deliberate and believing "new departure" in the study of the vast non-Christian world as it is, and so in the realization of its tremendous need, and so in the response of the Church to the call of the Redeemer, "Whom shall we send, and who will go for us?" The blessing of the Almighty, in His grace and guidance, be upon them.

So to the future tend all our hearts. These recent drifts and currents of enterprise and aspiration all betoken a great passage forwards, a period already upon us of large developments, and marked transitions, the free recognition of new conditions, and the application to them of methods often new and always ready of modification. True, this last great Students' movement has wisely and rightly disclaimed all idle love of revolution for its own sake; in particular, it has affirmed a full belief in the high value of Educational and of Medical Missions, methods which have been sometimes assailed by a short-sighted criticism. More, I think, rather than less, as time rolls, and thought as well as faith develops, the movement shows its true cohesion with the past. But its gaze is on the future; it sets its feet, it stretches out its hands, towards the time that is to be, the things that are before. It appeals to the Church to be ready for many a bold advance of thought and of action, in view of new regions, new problems of races and of faiths, and new conditions of both the world and the Church in an age when great chapters of history are written before our eyes within the limits of a month.

Let us be ready, in our Master's name, for the future, for the new.

But now I call you to a line of recollection drawn just the other way, yet in strong connexion with this curve of change. Amidst all conceivable other alterations there is that which must be unalterable to the end. Our beloved Society may and must keep its mind open to all the counsels which its Lord may give it through His providence. It must be prepared, if the need should arise (I do not say it will), to deal in courageous independence with many a long tradition of method. But the supreme question, after all, is not of method but of message. And the message, in its sacred essence, is of the things which are, and are to come. In the twentieth century as in the nineteenth, in our second age as in our first, the Gospel of the Grace of God, the Truth of sin and of salvation, the Word of the Cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, lives and abides for ever. It knows, like its Source, no variableness, nor shadow of turning; to-day and to-morrow it is the same.

This is a moment at which such a reminder is not out of season. At a time pregnant of change and transition in many things it is easy to get an impression that there must be change in all things. And beyond doubt the thought of modifications of the Christian message has made itself abundantly felt, and felt in the most various quarters, in our day. There are advocates in numbers around us who would altogether difference what they mean by religion from what they mean by theology; we are to hold the one off as free as possible from the other. Perhaps it is the theology of the Evangelical Revival. Perhaps it is the theology of the Reformation, true ancestor of the other, and itself the genuine heir, not only of the first days of the Faith, but of all that was noblest in the mediæval schools as well. Perhaps it is the theology of St. Paul. Yes, we are not to be too submissive now even before an Apostle, even before the Vessel of Election, chosen to bear the Name before the nations and before Israel. Religion is to be disengaged from too close a cohesion here. The warm messages of goodwill, of brotherhood, of altruistic sacrifice, of instincts for the unseen and the ideal, are not to be always encumbered with the dogmatic chain of guilt, and judgment, and expiation, and faith, and a mystic new creation. We are to beware even of too strait and exclusive a limitation within the lines of a Nicene account of the Person of the Man of Nazareth. Many have been the manifestations of the Eternal and the Good. Does not the Bible itself speak of sundry times and divers manners? The mercy of God is indeed in Christ; but is it in Christ alone? Revere His character; carry out as far as you may His precepts; imbibe His spirit; but beware of too positive a theology of His origin and His being.

Other voices speak from a place far, far nearer the centre of the Gospel; yet in a tone, I dare to say, never quite in concord with the full chorus of the Apostles. We are counselled by some Christians, perhaps, to remember the many-sidedness of the Gospel. It was given by its Lord for many ages and for many races. It must be expected, in its revolution upon its axis, to turn to this age and that, another face than that which their forerunners saw. It will be found to present to one race another range of its truths than that which regenerated a human family lodged upon another hemisphere. We are to beware of making always one doctrine the central and the radiating point. Or, again, if we do so, we are to see that we centralize that truth which alone can give significance to all the rest, and in which lies already hidden all the glory, the hope, the transfigured future, of man;—the Incarnation of the Eternal Word. To certain times, to certain regions, another centre, or what has seemed such, may have been fitly presented. But for the world, this was provisional. Atoning Sacrifice is great, but Incarnation is greater. What truth, what range of truth, can appeal as this can appeal to universal man as it ascends in its majesty before him, and he recognizes in its mysterious splendour, not only what God is, but what he is; what man is, that God is mindful of him?

I do not think that I have misrepresented what seems to me a powerful and prevalent element in large regions of Christian thought around us. And God forbid I should forget the strong relation of that element to unmistakable and all-important data of the Scriptures. The Incarnation—it is indeed, from one great view-point, the fact of facts, the royal, the imperial glory of all truth and of all spiritual joy. None but the Incarnate Lord of the Scriptures and of the Creeds could be to us the Eternal Word from the Eternal Heart, and could bear away from us the immeasurable burthen which in the Fall we had dragged down upon ourselves. "When Thou tookest upon Thee man to deliver him, Thou didst not abhor the Virgin's womb." "The Effulgence from the Father's Glory, the Expression of His Being, He took part in flesh and blood, and by Himself purged our sins, and sate down"—who but the Incarnate could so labour, and then so rest?—"on the right hand of the Majesty on high."

But this truth of all truths becomes another thing when it is taken apart from its primary revealed occasion and purpose for our race. And what I humbly contend is that it is so taken when Christian thought treats it as a Gospel in and by itself. It is so taken when we presume to answer in the affirmative the unanswerable question (unanswerable, because Revelation is absolutely silent here, and speculation is out of all its rights)—would Incarnation have taken place, if man had never sinned? It is so taken from its true use in general when we attempt to present an Evangelium to any race, in any stage of development, in any tract of time, which does not put into the foreground man's sin, in its guilt (be this well remembered) as well as in its power, and then the redemption that is in Christ Jesus in all its bleeding glory, the atoning work of Golgotha, the Sin-bearer for the condemned, the Head on which was laid the iniquity of us all, the Propitiation for our sins, without whose blood-shedding is no remission, but "in whom we have redemption through His blood, even the remission of our sins."

Yes, as we prepare to travel into another century, on our way to meet the Redeemer at His coming, this, and nothing other nor less than this, must be the unfaltering watchword of our work and witness. God forbid that we should glory in any climate, amidst the listeners of any race, save in the Cross of our Lord Jesus Christ; in that ancient and wonderful meaning of those words, in which they connote the sinner's guilt, the satisfaction of his Redeemer, our healing by His stripes, our rest because of His agonies, our welcome because of His dark deserted hour, our justification by His being made for us a curse, our life, our eternal life, because of the unique and awful glory of His most precious Death.

Immeasurably more things than this central splendour are contained in the Gospel of the Grace of God. All the antecedent and unbought love of the Eternal is in it; "for God so loved the world that He gave His Only Begotten." All the living glory of the work of the Eternal Spirit is in it; for "Christ redeemed us from the curse of the law, that we might receive the promise of the Spirit, through faith," and might by that Spirit in His power and fulness, experience a rest, and liberty, and purity, and joy, and everlasting hope, which is heaven itself begun upon the earth. In that Gospel—that revelation of Him "who loved us, and gave Himself for us," "who died for us and rose again"—lie at once the law and the motive force of a sacrifice of self for others which walks in simplicity and peace upon heights which alien philosophies and other Gospels attempt in vain effectually to climb. In it lie suggestions of promise, of deliverance, of blessing, vast as the universe of creation; "the creation itself shall be emancipated into the liberty of the glory of the sons of God." But, for us sinners, these truths all roll their golden circles round the sun of the Atonement. The "innumerable benefits" are all grouped within the blood-besprinkled precinct of the Passion. Without Christ who died for our sins, and, having died, is risen again, faith has no foothold, and conscience no rest, and hope no eastern window, and man knows neither himself nor God.

Once more I dare to affirm it—not only here and there, and at times, but at all times and in all places, this is the Gospel. It is this, it is this alone, which carries with it those two contrasted yet profoundly connected notes, that man's temptation is to be ashamed of it, and that to believing man it is the power of God unto salvation. It is abundantly possible to construct a would-be Gospel of which it would be as easy not to be ashamed as it is easy not to be ashamed of the Platonic philosophy, or of the Kantian. Into such "another Gospel" may be inserted sublime conceptions of God, and of man, and breathings after an immaculate purity, and sentiments of universal sympathy, and promises of a golden future, interminable and serene. But the true Gospel, by its own account, is a thing which man tends to be ashamed of, and which yet alone can come to him, and take him, and lift him up to God's own high places. And it is this because it insists upon approaching man as first a sinner, guilty, under sentence; no mere unfortunate, waylaid upon the bypaths of the Universe, fallen among thieves, but a criminal and in the grasp of law.

Its purpose with him is not benignant only but glorious. It means to do much more than to restore him to himself. It will transfigure him; it will give him power to become a son of God; it will make him partaker of the Divine nature; it will seat him in the heavenly places with his Lord. He shall tread upon all the power of the enemy, more than conqueror through Him that loved him. He shall never die; he shall appear with Christ in glory; he shall be like Him, seeing Him as He is. But antecedent to all this, and in direct order to it, the Gospel has to deal with man as not an unfortunate, but a sinner. It has to stop his mouth of the last faltering self-justification, and to teach him how to put out a mere mendicant hand to take a mere free pardon, totally undeserved, and so to be welcomed in Another's name, and henceforth to know no master, and no power, and no hope, beside Him who has loved him the unlovely, and given Himself for him the guilty.

And this is what the flesh is ashamed of. And this is the power of God unto salvation. And this is the inmost note and difference of the Gospel for the whole world, unalterable as the race of man and as the Christ of God. So it was in 1799. So it is to-day. So it shall be in the unknown twentieth century, yea, and usque ad tubam, till the trumpet shall sound, till the Lord shall come again, and all the saints with Him. Even so come, Lord Jesus.

If His own words of commission are indeed our warrant, so it is. I have recited as our text that most dogmatic of His recorded instructions to His Church after His resurrection, in view of the evangelization of the world. The whole burden of the words is this—His dying work, His resurrection power, the sin of man shewn in His light, the forgiveness of man given for His sake: "Thus it is written, that the Christ should suffer, and should rise again, and that repentance"—the recognition, the confession, the forsaking of sin—"and remission"—amnesty, pardon, welcome, peace with God—"should be preached in His name." All other blessings, but these first. For these

He suffered. For these He was exalted. He is enthroned, "a Prince and Saviour, to give repentance and remission." And this, not to one race or type of manhood rather than to another. Semite, Hamite, Turanian, Aryan, all have sinned, and all must thus be called and blessed. The message was alike to "begin at Jerusalem," specimen and type of whole regions of the Orient, and to extend "to all the nations" of every continent and every sea.

As the Master, so the servants. In the Apostolic writers we see chosen types of character, profoundly varied. In the regions and races they address, in speech and in Epistle, we see chosen samples of the world. The Hebrew is there, and the Athenian, the Roman, the Levantine, the Galatian Celt, the Phrygian of the remote Lycus, enamoured of the theosophy of the remoter East. To them messages are sent by men as different in cast of character and trend of thought as Paul, and Peter, and John. But every messenger to every tribe and mission sends a Gospel which, however rich, and varied, and locally adjusted in its circumference, is the same thing at its centre; it is the preaching of the Cross. "First of all, Christ died for our sins; so we preach, whether it were I or they." "He nailed to His Cross the handwriting that was against us." "Ye were redeemed with the precious blood of Christ, the unspotted Lamb." "Christ was once offered to bear the sins of many." "We have an Advocate with the Father, and He is the Propitiation for our sins, and for the sins of the whole world." "Thou wast slain, and hast redeemed us by Thy blood."

"From error and misunderstanding," so runs the Litany of the Moravians, "from the loss of our glory in Thee, from coldness to Thy merits and Thy death, Preserve us, gracious Lord and God."

Is this old Gospel of the Cross a narrow Gospel? Yes; just as narrow as the gate and as the way of which our Master spoke of old. Is it a narrow Gospel? No; in its beating heart, warm with the blood of the Atonement, there lie, always ready for infinite expansion, all the blessings, for eternity and for time, lodged for us by the Father in the Son, and liberated for us by the sacrifice of His death; for ever blessed be His Name.

In that Name our missionaries, "the messengers of the Churches, and the glory of Christ," go to all the nations. They go to teach them many things, yea, all things which He has commanded. They go to gather and to combine; to minister the Lord's ordinances; to build up men in the Lord's Body; to equip His disciples for His service; to lead them out into His holy war. But first and most they go to preach; and to glorify, His Cross.

For themselves, that Cross, borne for their own salvation, is the Divine peace and power for their suffering as for their witness. In that Sign they conquer. It is their victory beneath the tropic sun, and upon the arctic ice; in the long patience of the manifold ploughing and sowing, and in the joys of the harvest-home of souls. And it is all in all to them when the Master calls His beloved servant aside, and bids him bow down and glorify God by dying—in the shipwreck on the Indian deep, amidst the death-damps of the Niger, by the gunshot beside the Lake of the Equator, by the murderer's sword in Sierra Leone.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE.

General Review of the Year.

(READ AT THE ANNIVERSARY AT EXETER HALL, MAY 3, 1893.)

"His righteousness endureth for ever . . ."
"He will ever be mindful of His covenant . . ."
"His commandments are sure, they stand fast for ever and ever."
"His praise endureth for ever."—PSALM cxi. 3, 5, 7, 8, 10.

AN everlasting covenant guarded by everlasting righteousness, eternal glory governed by eternal laws; such are the foundations on which the Church rests her faith; from these spring her hopes; along these is the line of her obedience. Whatever else may change or come to an end, the people of God are guided by principles and pursue a policy which, like Jehovah Himself, never change and never pass away. He by Whom the worlds were made, made them for Himself, and the universal supremacy of His rule can no more be doubted than His own existence. Convulsions and catastrophes, the weakness of His saints, and the wickedness of His foes may sometimes seem to thwart His purposes, they are but working out His perfect will. "Heaven and earth pass away," "but the Word of the Lord endureth for ever."

Such thoughts seem appropriate to the circumstances under which the Society enters its Second Jubilee year, and which, in some respects, are not unlike those of fifty years ago. Then, as now, the war clouds hung heavy on the horizon. Then, as now, men felt keenly the tension of social unrest and political anxiety. Then, as now, the watchful servants of God read in the signs of the times, not only the brighter hope of the coming Kingdom, but also a clearer call to make ready the way of the King, by preaching His Gospel to the uttermost parts of the earth. With this end in view, nothing can alter the duty of Christian men. By the faithfulness of His Word, by the covenant in which He has bound Himself and them together, by the commandment which He has left them, by "the praise of the glory of His grace," their chief business in this world is to witness, to work, and to wait for Him and His return. Society Second Jubilee Year.

Unless that Advent intervene, the Society before its next anniversary will have completed the first hundred years of its existence.

Following as nearly as they could the course adopted at the first Jubilee, the Committee have recommended the observance of November 1st and 2nd as suitable days for the commemoration of its Second Jubilee. Adopting the language of their fathers, they earnestly desire that "among the various friends and Associations of the Society throughout the wide extent of its operations" it may be "a season of special humiliation before God for the inadequacy of past efforts, yet of gratitude and praise for what has been accomplished by His grace through the instrumentality of the Society; and at the same time an occasion for special contributions and for renewed efforts for the furtherance of His holy cause." On this account, as well as because at the last Anniversary the Committee reviewed the progress which the good hand of God had granted to the Society in the sixty years of the Queen's reign, they confine their remarks on this occasion to the more recent events of the Society's history.

Three Years' Enterprise.

Two years ago, when looking forward to the Centenary of the Society, the Committee appealed to their friends to make special efforts in a Three Years' Enterprise to raise the whole standard of their sympathy to a level more adequate with the needs and claims of the non-Christian world. The Committee heartily thank God for the results of this movement, shown not only in the £42,000 specially contributed in the first two years, but in the fresh organization of prayer and active interest among the rank and file of the Society. Certainly those to whom the thought was first given little realized that in the two following years the entire body of reinforcements, and others already in the field, would be adopted, and (as to their personal allowance) supported by the special contributions of individual or associated friends at home and in the Colonies; and that in so short a time the number of "Our Own Missionaries" would rise from 146 to 317.

Candidates.

Nor are these the only signs of progress in the home administration of the Society. Some years ago the increasing number of offers of service demanded the appointment of an Assistant to the Honorary Secretary, on whom, till then, the duty of interviewing and corresponding with candidates had almost wholly rested. During the past year no less than 530 inquiries and offers regarding missionary service have been received. From among the candidates already under training, or applicants ready to go out at once, 43 men and 36 women, 79 in all, including 8 from the Colonial Associations, have been finally accepted as missionaries, of whom 18 hold University degrees. The extent and importance of the duty involved in the selection and preparation of candidates has now led the Committee to transfer it to a new department, in charge of the Rev. D. H. D. Wilkinson, whose appointment as a Secretary of the Society is hereby submitted for approbation under Law XX. For a similar reason it has also been found necessary to create a new Committee which not only takes over the work hitherto carried on by the Medical Mission Auxiliary, but is also responsible for other medical questions affecting the Missions of the Society. Dr. Lankester, as Physician of the Society, is Secretary of this Committee.

To the cluster of Unions and Associations which have already sprung up within the Society, and have done so much to extend and strengthen interest in Missions, there has been added yet another, which, under the title of the Home Preparation Union, aims at directing and assisting the studies of those who hereafter may be led to offer for service in the Mission-field. Though only a few months old, it already numbers over 230 members.

With deep thankfulness also the Committee record the active expansion of the women's work in connexion with the Society at home. Well-attended gatherings, both for devotional and consultative purposes, have been held in London and in many parts of the country. The Hibernian C.M.S. Auxiliary has organized a Women's Department. Abroad, Women's Conferences are becoming a valuable consultative agency, and the Annual Letters from individual lady missionaries attest the great and growing importance of women's work in the Mission-field.

The Bishops' pronouncement.

Of home events affecting Foreign Missions during the past year, and lying outside the Society's administration, there has been none of so great importance as the Lambeth Conference in July, under the Presidency of the Archbishop of Canterbury. Never before have so many missionary Bishops been present, or has so great a prominence been given to missionary topics. Both in the Report of the Foreign Missions Committee, and in the Resolutions and Encyclical Letter of the Conference, the great duty of the Church in evangelizing the world was enforced in the plainest and most solemn manner. Emphatically that distinguished assembly expressed its opinion that "at the present time this stands first in all the tasks we have to do." And equally earnest was their recommendation, "that prompt and continuous efforts be made to arouse the Church to recognize, as a necessary and constant element in the spiritual life of the body and of each part of it, the fulfilment of our Lord's great commission to evangelize all nations."

India.

In reviewing the Society's foreign field, the Committee turn first to India with feelings of intense sympathy. Never perhaps in the history of that land have "four sore judgments" fallen within so short a space and so heavily as in the past year. At the very time when through the British Empire the song of thanksgiving was going up for the Sovereign's prolonged and prosperous reign, India, the most populous of her possessions, lay stricken with earthquake, famine, pestilence, and war. Never, surely, even in the sad days of the Mutiny, has He, by whom England is charged with the care of India, reminded her so solemnly of the responsibility of her trust. How long will He wait for her answer? The year has been one of widespread shaking and unrest. Even in India, very rapidly "the old order changeth, giving place to new." Our old measure of effort will not meet present needs. New problems face us everywhere. New conditions are bringing new opportunities, and involve new duties. There is a young India to-day, imbued with Western culture, which needs the Gospel just as much as, if not more than, the old India of ignorance and superstition. Social and political advances call for a corresponding movement by the servants of the great King. A movement indeed there is already: for example, probably few realize that on the North-West Frontier, part of which has been the scene of the recent conflict with the hill tribes, the Society has five Medical Missions, manned by ten doctors. But even these, and still more the isolated and undermanned stations occupied by evangelistic or educational missionaries, are quite inadequate to meet the needs which every year brings with it. Mohammedanism, nowhere more vulnerable than in India, summons the soldiers of Christ to a holy war. At the earnest desire of the Bishop of Lucknow and other influential friends, the Committee have undertaken to organize a special effort with this object in the North-West Provinces. But where they set apart a solitary missionary for such work they ought to send scores.

Of all the means, however, by which India is to be won for Christ, none will be so effective as the consecrated witness of her own sons and daughters. The Committee are very thankful for the efforts which have been made during the past year to deepen spiritual life in the Indian Churches. The recent visit of the Rev. S. A. Selwyn to North India, and the second visit of the Rev. E. Bacheler Russell to Travancore, have been full of encouragement, for which the Committee heartily thank Almighty God. From not a few places come assurances of much strengthening and refreshing to many by such ministry. From Agra, for example, the Committee hear of many baptisms, resulting not so much, as in some places, from the pressure of the late famine, as from the special mission reported last year, in which a devoted Indian clergyman, the Rev. Ihsan Ullah, took a leading part. They rejoice also to have evidence of the growth of the Church in other parts of India. From Masulipatam come reports of the baptism in the River Upputēru, on the last day of the year, of over a hundred villagers, who had endured a great trial of affliction at the hands of their neighbours, and witnessed a good confession before all men. The total number of adults baptized during the year in connexion with the Society's Missions in India was 1,806.

The Bishop of Calcutta and the Bishop of Bombay have retired from their respective sees, each after an episcopate of twenty-two years. To both the Society owes much for the constant kindness shown by them to its missionaries. The Rev. Robert Clark, who was one of the first two missionaries of the Church of England to the Punjab, in 1851, has, after a devoted service of nearly fifty years, resigned the Secretaryship of the Punjab and Sindh Mission, but remains on the roll of the Society's active missionaries, and a member of the Corresponding Committee.

The India Missions have also suffered a heavy loss by the retirement from the Home Secretariat, on account of ill-health, of the Rev. P. Ireland Jones. The Committee earnestly trust that his important services may yet, in the good Providence of God, be available either in England or abroad.

With much thankfulness the Committee report the quiet progress of the work in Ceylon and Mauritius. There, as elsewhere, they feel the need of the Church to be as much strengthening her stakes as lengthening her cords.

Moslem lands.

Difficulties peculiar in kind and measure are the common lot of a missionary in Moslem lands. If the work in those lands has got beyond the stage which Dr. Bruce once described as "gathering out the stones," it can hardly be said that there has been even yet much breaking-up of fallow ground. In Persia, during the early part of the year, the easily-excited suspicions of the mullahs raised a sharp persecution. But later reports speak of this as having subsided and also tell of hopeful opportunities for the medical missionary at Yezd, Kirman, and Julfa. In Palestine, notwithstanding every obstacle that can be used by Turkish officialism—lawfully or unlawfully—to hinder any form of Christianity which displays a missionary spirit, there is growing evidence in most of the Society's stations of a quiet loosening of prejudices and a better appreciation of the uncorrupted Gospel. The Committee rejoice to report the opening of a new hospital at Old Cairo, and the prospect of an early answer to Mr. Adeney's appeal for men to reach the great Moslem University of Al Azhar. They long for the time when openings into the Eastern Soudan will enable them to use the Gordon Memorial Fund, which was contributed for that purpose.

China.

In the further East the pathology of China has long been the study of others beside the political physician. With holier ambition, men of God have desired that land for the King of kings, and brought to it the only cure for its moral and spiritual paralysis. So impressed are your Committee with the seriousness of the present crisis, that they have lately issued an earnest appeal to their friends, soliciting greater sympathy and more active interest in view of the urgent needs and solemn opportunities of that vast Empire. They have also sanctioned a scheme for reaching the literary classes by means of higher grade schools, and to the utmost of the means placed at their disposal they are prepared to press forward both Medical Missions and work amongst women, as well as the older methods of evangelization. For each of these objects they earnestly call for men and women fitly qualified and filled with the Holy Ghost.

In South China the missionaries are again in sorrow for the loss of fellow-workers. Referring to the death of the Rev. J. S. Collins, so soon to be followed by those of his wife and children, and of Mrs. Smyth, and of their sister missionaries of the C.E.Z.M.S., in the terrible wreck of the s.s. Aden, Mr. Lloyd writes most touchingly: "Two years ago the Fuh-Kien Mission passed 'through the fire'; this year we have passed 'through the waters.' The River Min and the Indian Ocean have proved the last resting place of five of our most devoted workers, and now we believe that God, Who permitted these losses, will bring us out presently into 'a wealthy place'—a place of deeper consecration, of fuller blessing, and of larger expectations."

Among other interesting incidents of the year in China may be noted:—The public preaching of the Gospel in the city of Kien-Ning, which for so many years has been fast closed by aggressive fanaticism; hopeful expansion in Si-chuan; the dedication of a Memorial Chapel at Ku-cheng; a Conference of the Bishops of the Anglican Communion in China and Corea under the presidency of the veteran missionary, Bishop Moule; and the return of Bishop Burdon to the field in the capacity of a simple missionary. The adult baptisms of the year have been 744. How the Society's Missions are quietly growing, almost without notice, is illustrated by the fact that there are now in Fuh-Kien twice the number of missionaries that there were at the time of the Ku-cheng massacre—not three years ago. Among these the Committee have rejoiced to enrol Mrs. Saunders of Melbourne, whose daughters were among the band of sisters that perished at that time.

Japan. Japan has not escaped the social and political unrest which has spread over so many other lands. Her people, desiring rather to possess the advantages of Christianity than to yield to its restraints, present an attitude not so much of hostility as of indifference to the doctrines of the Gospel. Many of the cultured classes, who have lost faith in their own religions, have adopted no other. But negations can never satisfy men who are in earnest. The opinion of a Japanese newspaper probably represents that of many thoughtful people in Japan:—"The country feels deeply the necessity of morality and religion; the whole nation feels it; we ourselves have no direct connexion with religious parties, but we do firmly believe that religion is absolutely necessary to society, and that, along with materialistic progress, spiritual progress must go hand in hand." These are hopeful words. Special missions and devotional meetings in several places have been very useful in strengthening the spiritual life of the Church. The interesting work among policemen and soldiers continues to prosper, and those who came first for the sake of learning English and the Bible, now say they care more for the Bible than the English. By the death of Bishop Edward Bickersteth, the Church of Japan and his many friends in England and India have suffered a heavy loss. He lived to see his single diocese divided into four, and he has left the mark of his cultured mind and devoted life on the work which he had built up with such loving care. His place having been filled by the translation of Bishop Awdry of Osaka, the Committee await with prayerful hope the appointment of a new Bishop to the Diocese of Osaka, in which the Society has so large an interest.

Uganda.

Both in East and West Africa the Society's Missions have passed through a year of deep anxiety and distress. Uganda—the scene of so much spiritual blessing—has again been plunged in sorrow. The rebellion and flight of Mwanga, followed so soon by the mutiny of the Soudanese troops, have brought the country once more into painful prominence. On the immediate causes of these calamities the Committee do not dwell. It was scarcely to be expected that so rapid progress of the Gospel should not soon provoke the great Enemy of man to hinder God's work. A time of trouble, too, is sure to be a time of sifting. The Committee are persuaded that from her new trials the Church of Uganda will come forth, as she has done before in similar circumstances, stronger and purer for the testing. And even the loss of the scholar and saint, the beloved George Pilkington—theirs and ours—may bear its fruit of blessing to the Waganda for whom he lived, and in whose defence, at the imperative call of authority, he was ready to die. They are rich by the example of his devoted life, richer still by his precious legacy of the completed version of the Word of God in their own tongue. Nor are these the only causes for hope. The loyalty and bravery of the Protestant Christians during a time of extreme peril have earned the well-deserved praise of the representatives of the British Government in the Protectorate. Bishop Tucker's remarkable Charge on the division of his Diocese, while not without warning notes, is full of promise for the establishment of an independent and well-organized Church in Uganda. Earnestly do the Committee pray that the noble desire of the King of Toro may be realized, not only for his own part of Uganda, but for every other Kingdom in Africa, "I want my country to be a strong lantern that is not put out in this land of darkness."

The Committee would remind their friends that other Missions of the Society in East Africa stand as much in need of Christian sympathy and prayer. Less recognized, but quite as precious in the sight of the Lord, is the Mission work in Mombasa, the Coast districts, and Usagara; it costs the workers quite as much labour, and demands, perhaps, even more patient perseverance than that of other places which have won a wider fame. The future Bishop of the new Diocese of Mombasa—for whose appointment the Committee only await the decision of the Archbishop of Canterbury—will find fields "already white to harvest."

West Africa

West Africa, too, has had her burden of no common sorrows and trials. Beside the chronic curse of the liquor traffic, the disturbances and unrest on the Niger have given cause for prolonged anxiety, and the outbreak of hostilities in the Protectorate of Sierra Leone has led to the murder of the Rev. W. J. Humphrey, the devoted and deeply-valued Principal of Fourah Bay College, and to the imminent peril of other members of the Mission. The death of Archdeacon Dobinson, in April last year, deprived the Niger Mission of a wise, loving, and tactful leader. In the emergency thus created the Committee gratefully accepted the prompt and generous offer of one of their own number, Dr. Harford-Battersby, to proceed to Onitsha to counsel and strengthen the workers. The Committee deeply regret that the earnest appeal of Bishop Tugwell for Hausaland has not yet received the response which it deserves. They have, however, sent Mr. Nott to Tripoli, in order to acquire greater facility in the Hausa language, and they hope to associate with him others who may before long form a sufficient party to enter the Central Soudan. Nor is this the only open door which invites the entrance of the Gospel. The interior of the Yoruba country, still imperfectly reached by the too feeble staff of agents, and the Hinterland of Sierra Leone, where Mr. Alvarez and his little band of native evangelists have occupied the district of Falaba, both call for reinforcements. Meanwhile, the Committee note with much thankfulness the growth of the Native Church in the Niger Delta, under the guidance of Archdeacon Crowther, whom they gladly welcomed on his recent visit to England.

In the Society's African Missions 3,470 adults have this year been admitted to the Church of Christ, more than half of the total number in its Missions throughout the world, amounting to 6,581.

Canada and Australasia.

There are no Missions of the Society, perhaps, which entail more personal privations on the part of the missionaries than those of North-West Canada and British Columbia. Whether among the lonely Eskimo of Cumberland Sound, or in the now famous and crowded Klondyke, the difficulties which do not discourage the trader and the miner are cheerfully borne by those who seek for more precious treasure. There are no striking incidents to be reported, but quiet and steady progress in the various stations of the Society. Turning to New Zealand, the Committee are persuaded that the future of the remnant of the Maori race lies mainly with the young students of the Te Aute College. It is a token for good that in the last year or two a marked revival of Christian zeal and devotion has been wrought among them by the Holy Spirit, and they are now seeking in every way to promote the highest interests of their race. The work in New Zealand will now fall more and more upon the Church in the Colony; and the Committee look hopefully to the Missions among the Red Indians of North-West Canada being gradually and largely aided by the Canadian Church. The Victoria and New South Wales C.M. Associations have just undertaken important work among the Chinese in those Colonies. But both in New Zealand and in Canada, and also in Australia, Christian people are rightly perceiving that God calls them to take a part in the general evangelization of the great heathen world, and the Committee thankfully report that no less than 36 missionaries, sent forth by the Colonial Associations in the last few years, are now labouring in connexion with the Society in Africa, Palestine, Persia, India, Ceylon, China, Japan, and British Columbia.

Some deaths of the year.

The losses of the Society by death during the past year have been sadly heavy. Beside those already mentioned, and other loved and honoured friends whose names are recorded on a later page, there have entered into rest Bishop Walsham How, of Wakefield; Bishop Selwyn, formerly of Melanesia; Dean Vaughan, of Llandaff; Dr. Speechly, for twenty-nine years a missionary of the Society in Travancore, and ten years Bishop of the See; Dr. Billing, Bishop of Bedford, in the days of his parochial ministry an active and valued member of the Committee; the Rev. C. F. Childe, the second Principal of the Islington College; and the Rev. W. G. Barker, the second Director of the Children's Home. From the Honorary Governors for life the Society has lost its devoted missionary, the Rev. A. H. Arden, who died on his way to India; the Rev. T. J. Clarke, of York; the Rev. J. Wilkinson, a regular and valued member of their Committee; the Rev. F. Fitch, the venerable Vicar of Cromer; the Rev. E. P. Hathaway, formerly Rector of St. Ebbe's, Oxford; and Mr. Alfred Sutton, of Reading, who had given not only largely of his means, but three of his sons for the Mission-field. Also, Miss E. S. Elliott, an honorary member for life, and for many years a warm friend and fellow-worker in the missionary cause; and Miss A. E. Batty, who had rendered admirable service in the Editorial Department of the Society. From the roll of the Society in the Foreign Field (amongst others) it has pleased God to call home to Himself the Rev. J. B. Wood, the veteran missionary in the Yoruba country; the Rev. R. Burrows, for many years the able and zealous Secretary of the New Zealand Mission; the Revs. F. S. Allen and W. S. Cox, of West Africa, and the Rev. J. S. Callis, of Uganda, who had each but lately begun his missionary career; the Rev. E. H. Hubbard, the leader of the little band at Nassa; the Rev. E. Hughesdon, of Mid China; Mrs. Molony, of the Gond Mission; Miss Petrie, of Kashmir; and Miss Patching, of Palestine.

Finances. In reporting on the Society's finances, the Committee must on no account omit to mention first the loving-kindness of the Lord in regard to the accumulated deficit reported at the last Anniversary. It will be remembered that after partly covering it with certain reserve funds within the Committee's control, there remained £9,000 to be met, and the praying friends of the Society were invited to ask the Lord for that sum by June 30th. Within a few days of that date £9,621 had been received in spontaneous offerings. Ought such an answer to prayer to be forgotten? But now, turning to the year just closed, the Committee have to report that God has again manifested His abundant goodness to the Society. (1) The total amount received for the Society's general work, in the two forms of appropriated and un-appropriated contributions, but excluding the Indian Famine Fund and all other Special Funds, has been £305,625; which total is the largest sum ever received for the general work, £7,000 more than last year, and £44,000 more than the year before that. (2) Of this total the Associations have contributed to the general work, in the same two forms of appropriated and un-appropriated contributions, £197,224, which sum is the largest ever sent up by them, £12,500 more than last year, and £30,500 more than the year before that. (3) After allowing for certain differences in the mode of presenting the accounts, the total income of the past year for the general work is at least £100,000 more than the average of ten years ago. (4) Including all Special Funds, the total amount entrusted to the Society's administration has been £331,598.

In the face of such facts as these, and of the unprecedented development of the work in Africa, India, China, Japan, and other fields, which has thus been rendered possible, what can the Committee do but praise the Lord and thank the willing dispensers of His bounty? And what can the whole Society do but acknowledge with wonder and gratitude that His goodness has far exceeded the boldest anticipations of the most sanguine of the members ten years ago? The Committee trusted Him to send forth His servants into His vineyard, and He has much more than doubled the number. They trusted Him to supply the means. Has He not done so beyond all expectation? Nevertheless, the fact remains that the rapid advance of the work in all parts of the world, which is the natural consequence of the increase of labourers, has resulted in the past year's expenditure exceeding the available income by £20,000, and the working capital being temporarily reduced by that sum. It is obvious that a rapidly growing Annual Income will be needed; and the Committee doubt not that the coming Centenary Commemoration will be used of God to stir many hearts to add largely to their regular yearly contributions. Meanwhile, let even a deficit teach the lesson of the Society's absolute dependence year by year upon the Lord of the Harvest, not only for the labourers to go forth into His Harvest, but also for the means to maintain them there.

The Society has been praying for more labourers. God has heard that prayer. The Committee would recall Henry Wright's favourite phrase, "Answers to Prayer are Calls to Sacrifice." The Society still needs a large increase of labourers. If we ask God to supply them, and He gives them, that answer to prayer will be a call to further sacrifice. Shall we shrink from the further sacrifices called for now, and to be called for much more in the future? In other words, is the Hundredth Year to be, or not be, a starting point for fresh advance? Calls to sacrifice

The Committee earnestly beg their friends to fix their eyes upon the solemn facts thus presented to them. On the one hand the world—not half of which has yet been evangelized—lies open to the Christian Church, waiting to be evangelized on a scale which has never yet been attempted; on the other hand, men and women—undoubtedly moved and prepared by God, in increasing but still inadequate numbers—are ready to go. This can be no chance coincidence. Is not God showing His servants by these things more than ever that His Will calls them to a fuller confidence and a holier consecration? When those who are in living fellowship with Him realize what that Will is, must not all other aims and ambitions sink into insignificance? Dare they place any object, however dear, beside those eternal purposes ratified by the everlasting covenant and confirmed by eternal righteousness, which the Lord has set before Himself, and in which He calls His Church to be the partaker of His life, His resurrection, and His glory?

Home Operations.

Diamond Jubilee.

THE Committee of the Church Missionary Society took occasion to join in the loyal congratulations which millions of Queen Victoria's subjects in all parts of the world faithfully offered on the happy completion of sixty years of Her Majesty's reign. In the address which they were privileged to present, while acknowledging with deep gratitude the marvellous advances which have been made in science, commerce, and civilization during these six decades, they specially expressed their joy in the increasing efforts for the spread of the Gospel of a Divine Saviour for all mankind, to which Gospel above all things they expressed their belief that the Queen's Throne and Dominions owe their stability and welfare. The address proceeded:—

Committee's Address to the Queen.

When Your Majesty ascended the Throne, the whole of China and Japan, the greater part of Africa, large provinces in India, and vast tracts in America, were practically inaccessible to the Christian Missionary. The Church of England was represented by no more than seven Colonial and Missionary Bishops. The interest in Foreign Missions was extremely limited. Your Majesty has lived to see nearly the whole world open to the beneficent influences of Christianity; the Colonial and Missionary Episcopate of the Church of England now numbers ninety-two; Christians of many communions emulate one another in efforts to evangelize the world.

To their thanksgivings the Committee humbly add their prayers that it may please the King of kings so to prolong and prosper Your Majesty's reign, that throughout the Empire, united in allegiance to your Throne, the blessings of peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may continually prevail, and that from Your Majesty's Dominions there may go forth in increasing strength those sacred influences which are destined to extend to the uttermost parts of the earth.

British Empire.

What unprecedented opportunities for extending the influences of the blessed Gospel of Christ are afforded by the vast extent of the Queen's Dominions, and by the possessions of the great routes of the world's commerce, was ably and eloquently expressed in an article on *The World Empire and the Everlasting Kingdom:—

We are at once religiously the greatest Christian, the greatest Moslem, the greatest Heathen power in the world, and the power which holds the sacred seats of the Buddhist as well as the Hindu faiths, whilst we command from Aden the birthplace of Mohammedanism. In India alone we rule nearly 300 millions of mankind composed of these varying elements, and we are in contact with all the great races of the world at their busiest points.

The great trade routes of the world are in our hands. Gibraltar, Malta, and Cyprus command the Mediterranean and the world's ancient central sea, on which abut the shores of three of the six great European nations. Aden, Perim, Singapore, and Hong Kong guard the gates of the utmost

East. Zanzibar controls the growing trade of the Eastern African coast. The Cape and Mauritius watch over the waters of the Indian Ocean and over one passage to Australia, the Falkland Islands guard the Straits of Magellan and South America. The Bermudas and the Caribbean Islands keep us in touch with North America, and the Canadian Pacific Railway links us across our domain of sea and land with the great lands of the furthest East. The supremacy of the seas gives us the carrying trade of half the world, whilst our ships make the high seas the safe and open street of the world's commerce, and the colonizing instincts of our race thrust us forth to occupy in actual possession the fertile lands laid bare before us. The discoveries of modern science secure all and compact all by the swift steamships which bind these lands in one, and the telegraph which thrills them at the same moment with the same sentiments of loyalty and praise.

The blessings of our Empire are for all, and we make this the very principle of our advance. Portugal shuts the mouth of the great Zambesi. England opens it not to English alone, but to all. Other nations have their restrictive tariffs. We fling our trade with all its opportunities into the lap of the world. Slavery dies beneath our flag. Other nationalities share with us the equal benefits of our Colonial rule. This, then, not national glory, not territorial expansion for its own sake, not maritime supremacy, as though it were an end in itself, is the reason for our present place in the world.

The Church's opportunity.

The stewards of Christ have their great opportunity. All markets alike are open to their wares. The brokers may ply their glorious trade in every Eastern bazaar, every African village, every Corinth and Ephesus of mankind. Gentile history nears its climax. Once again, as in the days of St. Paul and of St. John, "it is the last time." The speed of events hastens as, by the force of ever more powerful attraction, they are drawn in their swift flight nearer and nearer to the great central event of all, round which their orbit turns. The riches and resources of the Gentiles are laid bare that they may yield royal largess to the coming King.

And the great lessons and obligations of extended empire were publicly acknowledged. The late Bishop of Wakefield's Diamond Jubilee Hymn, set to music by Sir Arthur Sullivan, which was used in every church throughout the land, and (wherever the text had been received) throughout the Empire, as part of the Special Service authorized for the 20th of June, concluded with the following lines:—

Where England's flag flies wide unfurl'd,
All tyrant wrongs repelling;
God make the world a better world
For man's brief earthly dwelling!
Lead on, O Lord, Thy people still,
New grace and wisdom giving,
To larger love, and purer will,
And nobler heights of living.
And, while of all Thy love below
They chant the gracious story,
Oh teach them first Thy Christ to know,
And magnify His glory.

Extension of the Episcopate.

In 1837, when Queen Victoria ascended the Throne, the number of Home Bishops of the Church of England was 49, and there were only seven Bishoprics beyond the limits of Great Britain and Ireland: two in North America—Nova Scotia and Lambeth Conference.

Quebec, two in India—Calcutta and Madras, two in the West Indies—Jamaica and Barbados, and one in Australia. At the fourth Lambeth Conference, which met under the presidency of Archbishop Temple, from July 1st to 31st, 1897, there were altogether—including 75 Home, 46 American, and 73 Colonial Missionary Bishops—194 present, and of course these were only a portion of the whole number. This Conference will be remembered above all things for its remarkable utterances on the subject of the Evangelization of the World. For the first time in history, it must be frankly and sadly owned, did the Church of England on that occasion, by its leading representatives, put Missions to the Heathen in the front rank of the subjects for its deliberations and for action. One-fourth of the space of the 172 pages of the Reports, Resolutions, and Encyclical Letter as published are occupied with Missionary topics, without including the additional space given to the Colonial Churches. The utterances themselves contained in those documents are indeed remarkable and epoch-making. The Encyclical Letter gives five out of its twenty pages to the subject, and further gives it marked emphasis by placing it last in order. This part of the letter begins:—

The "primary work."

Lastly, we come to the subject of Foreign Missions, the work that at the present time stands in the first rank of all the tasks we have to fulfil. We have especial reasons to be thankful to God for the awakened and increasing zeal of our whole Communion for this primary work of the Church, the work for which the Church was commissioned by our Lord. For some centuries it may be said we have slumbered. The duty has not been quite forgotten, but it has been remembered only by individuals and societies; the body as a whole has taken no part. The Book of Common Prayer contains very few prayers for Missionary work. It hardly seems to have been present to the minds of our great authorities and leaders in compiling that book that the matter should be in the thoughts of every one who calls himself a Christian, and that no ordinary service should be considered complete which did not plead amongst other things for the spread of the Gospel. We are beginning, though only beginning, to see what the Lord would have us do. He is opening the whole world to our easy access, and as He opens the way He is opening our eyes to see it, and to see His beckoning hand.

One of the Resolutions, the 14th, was as follows:—

That while we heartily thank God for the Missionary zeal which He has kindled in our Communion, and for the abundant blessing bestowed on such work as has been done, we recommend that prompt and continuous efforts be made to arouse the Church to recognize as a necessary and constant element in the spiritual life of the Body, and of each member of it, the fulfilment of our Lord's great commission to evangelize all nations.

The Foreign Missions Committee of the Conference was the largest of all the eleven Committees appointed, consisting of fifty-nine members, ten of whom are on the Church Missionary Society's list of missionaries, viz.:—Bishops Tucker, Ridley, Evington, Newnham, Taylor Smith, Hodges, Williams, Tugwell, Oluwole, and Phillips; and some others, like Bishops Royston and Clifford, are scarcely less identified with the Society. The Chairman of this Committee was the Bishop of Newcastle, than whom no one could have possessed better qualifications, in respect both of knowledge of the subject in its multifarious departments and of enthusiasm for the great cause of the World's Evangelization. In the Report of the Committee references are found to the rapid increase of the number of women "giving themselves to the service of the Missionary Church," the increased employment of medical missionaries, the work among Mohammedans in Egypt, Palestine, Persia, the Punjab, and Madras, the consecration of two African Assistant-Bishops, the progress in West Africa towards self-support, the evangelistic fervour of the Native Christians in Uganda, and to the "blood of the martyrs" in China, indicating that some, at all events, of the salient features of recent C.M.S. history were well in evidence before the Committee. The subjects submitted to the Committee, and with which their Report deals, were the following:—(a) The Duty of the Church to the Followers of:—(i.) Ethnic Religions; (ii.) Judaism; (iii.) Islam. (b) Development of Native Churches. (c) Relation of Missionary Bishops and Clergy to Missionary Societies.

On the last of these subjects the Committee said:—

The Church and Societies.

The Missions of the Church of England have been mainly, since the founding of the Societies for Promoting Christian Knowledge and for the Propagation of the Gospel, the especial care of societies within the Church, and it was hardly possible that, with a growing Church life and increasing Missionary zeal, difficulties should not from time to time arise requiring patient adjustment.

The Committee desire, however, to place on record their conviction—

1. That in the failure of the Church as a whole to realize her bounden duty to be the great Missionary Society of the world, the work could only be done by some of her members forming themselves into societies within the great Society to do what is the work of the entire Church, and that the Church owes to the great societies a debt of deep gratitude for the work which they have been enabled to do.

2. That the increasing life of the Missionary Societies has been the Providential way in which the Church has been gradually realizing the truth that the call to evangelize the world was given to the Church as a whole, and that thus the societies have not merely been enabled to do a great evangelizing work, but have supplied a Providential stage in leading the whole Church to a higher conception, which has never yet been adequately worked out in Church history.

3. That the societies do not profess to do more than form or found Churches, retiring from the work when the Missions pass on to the stage of organized Church life, and that, therefore, any difficulties pertain only to this transitional stage, and vary according to the degree of ripeness which the Mission has attained.

These general considerations seem to indicate the point of view from which any difficulties should be regarded—one which should be characterized by gratitude, sympathy, patience, and a firm belief that there are no difficulties which are not capable of friendly adjustment.

It seems impossible to deny the principle that those who subscribe the funds are entitled to a substantial voice in the administration of the funds, subject to the general principles of Church order; or the further principle, that however much it may be desired that donors would generally place their offerings at the disposal of a Church representative body, it is yet legitimate to offer funds for missionary, as for other purposes, impressed by the donor with a special trust, either for special localities, or for the carrying out of such special work, and on such special lines as are consistent with the belief, order, and discipline of the Church.

On the other hand, it may be laid down—

1. That clergy in any missionary jurisdiction whatever should be subject to the supervision of a Bishop, and that societies should use their power and influence in striving to foster a wholesome diocesan Church life.

2. That the whole object of Missionary work being to extend the Master's Kingdom, and to take up fresh ground, as soon as the Church is duly organized in any part of the world, the Society should seek to transfer, as early as possible, to representatives of the diocese powers which it naturally exercises in early stages of the Mission.

3. That as soon as a definite diocesan organization has been created with power to hold property, all Church property afterwards acquired should, when possible, be held by such Diocesan authorities, subject to trusts securing the rights or recognizing the interests of those concerned.

4. That all questions of internal Church discipline are for the Bishops and Diocesan authorities to deal with.

5. That in the event of the founding of a Theological College for the training of candidates for the Ministry within any diocese or missionary jurisdiction, the Bishop of the diocese or missionary jurisdiction should be the visitor of the college, to whose arbitration all matters in dispute may be referred.

6. That when diocesan organization has covered a given area, e.g. India, the further organization, provincial or diocesan, within the area is a matter in which the right of initiative and the general controlling voice must rest with the authorities of the province or diocese.

The portion of the Report above quoted was not in terms endorsed by the whole Conference in its Resolutions, but only "earnestly commended to the consideration of the Churches of the Anglican Communion"; and inasmuch as the Encyclical states that "the Reports of Committees can be taken to represent the mind of the Conference in so far only as they are reaffirmed or directly adopted in the Resolutions," it is clear that the above can be regarded as "having the authority only of the Committee by which they were prepared." It is, however, a matter of no small importance that so large and influential a Committee of Bishops should have given expression to such views, and that the whole Conference should have commended them earnestly to the consideration of Churchmen. They form a valuable vindication of the work of Missionary Societies, and, in particular, they vindicate a leading principle of the C.M.S. In behalf of Missionary Societies they say in effect three things. Firstly, they say that in the past the formation and support of societies have been not only justifiable but necessary if Christ's command was to be obeyed. The Church as a whole and the Bishops of the Church took no steps towards, and provided no opportunity for, the fulfilment of the duty which had been laid upon His people by the Lord, and therefore individual members of the Church on whom that duty was equally laid, those of them who realized their responsibility, had no other possible way of discharging the duty than by forming organizations for themselves. The Church, therefore, so far from speaking detrimentally of societies, must gratefully recognize that it is indebted to them for doing the work which it ought to have done, but left undone. That is what the Committee of Bishops say in the first place. In the second place, they say that not only is the Church under an obligation to societies for doing its work, but it is further indebted to them for teaching it its duty in the matter. The Bishops say in effect that it appears to them probable that but for societies the Church would to-day be as apathetic on the subject of Missions as it was in the past, and that God has used societies in His providence to lead His whole Church to a higher conception of its duty and privilege. And, thirdly, the Bishops, having been led to see God's gracious Hand in the Missionary efforts made by some of His people, are able to look forward to the ultimate issues with confidence. They say that any departures from the ideal and what should be the normal order of things which the Church's past negligence has necessitated will not be perpetuated. Societies have avowedly only a temporary aim. They are anxious not to linger in the spheres of their activities, but to fulfil their function and then to pass on. When a measure of spiritual maturity, a "stage of organized Church life" which can safely be left to stand alone, has been attained, societies will disappear from the scene, and self-supporting, self-governing, self-extending Churches, embodiments of the very ideals of all earnest Churchmen as of all enlightened members of missionary societies, will fill up the landscape. Thus the Bishops who formed the Committee vindicated the existence of societies.

A great principle recognized.

Then the statement that "it is legitimate to offer funds for missionary, as for other purposes, impressed by the donor with a special trust, either for special localities or for the carrying out of such special work, and on such special lines as are consistent with the belief, order, and discipline of the Church," is a welcome recognition of a principle for which the C.M.S. has insisted for well-nigh a hundred years, and for which it has had occasion to contend more than once. Upon the above statement the case stands as follows:—1st. It cannot be thought inconsistent with the belief, order, and discipline of the Church to send out Evangelical members of the Church to preach

Christ according to their lights in heathen lands. 2nd. It is therefore legitimate to offer funds impressed by the donors with a special trust for this end. And, 3rd, the societies which accept such gifts must be held responsible for seeing that the trust is duly discharged. In other words, in the view of the Bishops on the Foreign Missions Committee, Church order has nothing to say against a society which takes all proper safeguards to secure that its funds go exclusively to support such agents as the donors of those funds wish to support, always supposing that the agents in question accept the Church's belief, observe the Church's order, and are amenable to the Church's discipline.

The Bishops' unanimity

The Conference sat with closed doors, and no knowledge of the discussions is attainable by the public except from references made subsequently by the members. Bishop Whipple, the eloquent Bishop of Minnesota, so well known and universally esteemed in this country, telegraphed to the United States immediately after the close of the sessions a short statement of his impressions. He referred to "the decided unanimity of feeling at the Conference on the subject of Missions," to the spirit of love, which was "the most marked feature of all the gatherings," and "to the cheering story of the Church's triumphs in Mission-fields, such as Uganda." And the Archbishop of Dublin, in the course of a Missionary Conference held in August, 1897, is reported to have said:—

The Archbishop of Canterbury at the Conference.

> At the Lambeth Conference, when the subject of Foreign Missions was under discussion, after remarks had been made on every side of the question, the Archbishop of Canterbury rose and spoke what could only be described as words of living fire, urging every Bishop to do all in his power to stir the Church from the top to the bottom. His earnest words, his Grace said, he would never forget. When the Archbishop sat down, two Colonial Bishops arose and said that the words which had just been spoken by the English Primate would send them back to their work with a power never felt before.

The above makes it manifest that, under God, the Church is largely indebted for the unique emphasis given to this great subject by the Archbishop of Canterbury, whose utterances on many occasions while Bishop of London have tended more than any others in this generation to stir the Church to a sense of its missionary duties. It is a striking fact, moreover, that when, on the Sunday evening following the Conference, the Archbishop preached at St. Paul's Cathedral to the Bishops and a vast congregation, he chose for his text our Lord's farewell words in Acts i. 8. The following sentences from his Grace's closing remarks deserve to be impressed on the heart and conscience of every Christian:—

> The Christian who feels the power of Christ in his soul and longs to share that feeling with all mankind, the Christian who is thrilled through and through with the power of the wonderful cross, the Christian who has learned in some degree to understand that marvellous love beyond all other love,—he assuredly will find that of all things that he can do there is one that beyond all else will knit his very heart to God, and that is the longing desire and the earnest labour to give to others what is such a blessing to himself. He is but half a Christian who is content to receive what the Lord will be graciously pleased to give, and thinks only of the grace that shall enter into his own soul and shall penetrate and purify his own life, and casts no thought upon the many for whom Christ died, and for whom the death of Christ has not yet its real power, because they have not heard His Name. That Christian is not really living the full Christian life who forgets that which the Lord gave the Church to do in the beginning, and takes no part in prayer for the conversion of the world, and takes no part in sending forth those that shall undertake the task, and takes no interest in the progress of their work, and knows nothing and cares little whether or no the power of the love of Christ is made known to His fellow-men who breathe the same life, who are children of the same humanity, who have been redeemed by the same Redeemer. His appeal in St. Paul's Cathedral.

My brethren, we need to be aroused to the very bottom of our hearts, to be stirred to the very depths of our souls concerning that about which we ordinarily think so little, and yet which is so essential for that communion of saints in which we declare our belief whenever we repeat the Creed; we need to be roused to understand that Christian worship without prayer for the spreading of the truth of God, that Christian life without thought of the work which the Lord has put upon us, and that the devotion and the self-surrender which marks the Christian as distinct from all others—all this does not complete the Christian character if it is all wrapped up in ourselves, and we forget the many millions that have not yet received the message which has saved ourselves.

My brethren, the Church has been slumbering in this matter; the work has been taken up partially by devoted men, by associations of devoted men, but as a body the Church has left this quite alone, and many and many of us look upon it as a duty that sometimes is brought to our notice by special preachers preaching special sermons, and forget that this doctrine of the communion of saints, which teaches us that we must live in one another, calls upon every soul, every soul without exception, to think of these things, and to pray that God's work may be done, calls upon every soul to do his part, however little that may be, in carrying the work forward in its course. The Church slumbering.

My brethren, it is time for the Church to awake to all the fulness of what the Lord requires. We have been too long without sufficient thought of what the death of the Lord Jesus means, we have been too long content with thinking only of ourselves. It is time to arouse ourselves, to stand on a higher level, to take our part in a greater work. If we are indeed the Lord's we have to be witnesses for Him to the uttermost parts of the earth. That witness we have either to bear ourselves or by every means in our power to send forth true men who shall do what Christ has given us to do, and do it with their whole souls devoted to the task. It is time that this great work should not be passed aside by any single soul that lifts the heart to Christ, by any single soul that is fighting the battle which he is called to fight, by any single soul that has begun to love the Lord. Love the Lord, and you will not fail to take your part in that for which the Lord and Saviour died; love the Lord and you will be unable to keep away from the great work which at the beginning of the Gospel was necessarily the main work which the Church had to do, and which still, as long as the Church shall last, until the Lord our Redeemer comes back to earth to welcome all His own, shall still be the task which He has given us. We have been on this earth's surface now for nearly nineteen hundred years since the Lord was born, and yet a very, very small fraction of the world "It is time to arouse ourselves."

has been converted to the faith. We have to do our share, to do it for the sake of the Christ that bought us. Let us no longer be slack, but earnest in the great endeavour. It is the Lord that calls. I charge you follow the call.

The Bishops at the C.M.S. 1897 Anniversary,

The Society's friends who heard his Grace's opening words when presiding at the Anniversary Meeting in 1897, could not fail to be deeply touched with an allusion which he made to the human source whence his missionary interest was derived. He said: "With this Society I have indeed been in some sense connected even from the time before I went to school at twelve years of age. I have never lost sight of that connexion, nor have I ever failed to pray, as my mother bade me, for the prosperity of the work which this Society is doing." Not only the Archbishop's mother, but his father also, who died at his post as Governor of Sierra Leone in 1834, was a lover and helper of the C.M.S. The preacher of the Society's sermon at the same anniversary, Bishop Boyd Carpenter, of Ripon, mentioned very feelingly in his sermon his "hereditary right on both sides" to speak for the Church Missionary Society. A larger portion than usual of the Society's episcopal friends took part in the Anniversary proceedings. In addition to the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Bishop of Ripon, the Archbishop of Sydney, Primate of Australia, the Bishop of Newcastle, Bishop Williams of Waiapu, Bishops Tugwell and Oluwole of Western Equatorial Africa, Bishop Ridley of Caledonia, were all among the chosen speakers. The Bishop of Newcastle both presided at the evening meeting in Exeter Hall and addressed the gathering of Honorary District Secretaries at the annual breakfast given by the Honorary Clerical Secretary on the following Thursday. Again, at a summer dismissal of missionaries, held in Exeter Hall during the Lambeth Conference month, on July 15th, some sixty English, Irish, American, Colonial and Missionary Bishops manifested their sympathy with the Society's work by being present on the platform; and a still larger number responded on July 26th, to an invitation of the Society's President and Treasurer, Sir John Kennaway and Colonel Williams, to a reception at the Church Missionary House. Among the Bishops who attended by invitation at Windsor on July 13th, and who were selected for the honour of a special reception by Her Majesty, were Bishops Phillips and Oluwole and the Bishop of Cape Palmas, the only coloured Bishops of the Anglican Communion. To only sixteen other Bishops and Archbishops, most of them Metropolitans and Primates of Colonial Churches or Senior American Bishops, was a special reception accorded.

the summer dismissal,

and at reception by the President and Treasurer.

The Church Congress at Southwell, in October, and some of the Diocesan Conferences a few weeks later, bore testimony to the influence exercised by the Conference at Lambeth in directing the attention of Churchmen to their duties to the unevangelized world. The Bishop of Southwell, in his Presidential address, declared that the speciality of the Congress was its missionary character. Bishops Kestell-Cornish of Madagascar, Jacob of Newcastle, and Beecher Webb of Grahamstown, read thoughtful and able papers on certain practical problems and devotional aspects of missionary work; Dr. Lankester read a paper on the claims and functions of Medical Missions; and Miss Clifford, sister of the Bishop of Lucknow, read a paper on Women's Work in India. Among those who took part in the open discussion of Foreign Missions were Miss Patteson, sister of the martyred Bishop, Miss E. Mulvany of the C.E.Z.M.S., Bishop Taylor Smith of Sierra Leone, Bishop Awdry of Osaka, Archdeacon Crowther of the Niger, and the Rev. S. S. Allnutt of the Cambridge Delhi Mission affiliated to the S.P.G. In the Ecclesiastical Art Exhibition, an unofficial adjunct of the Congress, the C.M.S. was represented for the first time, two stalls, the one with models illustrating medical missionary work, and the other with C.M.S. publications, being under Dr. Cecil Lankester and the Rev. W. J. L. Sheppard, respectively. The Younger Clergy Federation organized a clerical breakfast in the Council Chamber, Exchange Hall, at which 170 sat down, under the presidency of the Bishop of Sierra Leone, and the Bishop of Newcastle gave an address. In the same place, also, Mr. H. E. Thornton, President of the Nottinghamshire C.M. Association, and Mrs. Thornton held a C.M.S. reception, at which the Archbishop of Sydney, the Bishop of Sierra Leone, Bishop Oluwole, and the Rev. Rowland Bateman spoke. Dr. Herbert Lankester, the Society's Physician, also addressed a large gathering in support of the Society's Medical Missions.

Foreign Missions at the Church Congress.

The following may be instanced among the Diocesan Conferences which approached the subject of Foreign Missions in a practical business-like spirit, and passed Resolutions insisting on the importance of the subject. In the Diocese of Bath and Wells, the Bishop of Adelaide moved "that the formation of a Missionary Association in every parish, and of a Junior Clergy Union in every archdeaconry, and the holding of an Annual Diocesan Missionary Conference, be recommended." At Peterborough, the Rev. W. Jeffry Thompson (Vicar of Holy Trinity, Leicester), moved, and the Rev. R. Blakeney (Vicar of Melton Mowbray) seconded, "That, in the opinion of this Conference, the fulfilment of our Lord's commission to evangelize all nations is a necessary and constant element in the spiritual life of the body of Christ, and of each member thereof; and that a grave responsibility rests upon the parochial clergy to recognize and enforce this truth in their life and teaching." At St. David's Conference, Dean Howell read an excellent paper on the progress of Foreign Missions during the Queen's Reign. In the Salisbury Diocesan Synod, the Rev. F. Phipps moved, and the Rev. E. N. Thwaites (Rector of Fisherton, Salisbury) seconded a motion expressing a hope "that the Lambeth Conference may be a turning-point in the history of the Missions of the Anglican Communion, and may be a step towards the realization of missionary duty by the Church in her corporate capacity." And, lastly, Bishop Ingham, in the Diocese of Rochester, moved, "That the time has more than come to aim at this most important and primary duty being brought systematically before every congregation in the diocese, and that it is essential to healthy Church life that each parish should be definitely linked with the Missionary Crusade."

"Time more than come."

Thirteen hundredth anniversary of King Ethelbert's baptism.

That the time has indeed "more than come" the celebration at Canterbury, on July 3rd, of the 1,300th anniversary of King Ethelbert's baptism in A.D. 597 is an emphatic and solemn reminder. Even thirteen hundred years does not take England back to the beginning of its Gospel privileges. In the same year that the Roman Mission was commenced in the Isle of Thanet, Iona witnessed the death of St. Columba, the Irish missionary, after more than thirty years of toil on behalf of Britain. And the record points even farther back. St. Martin's Church, which Augustine found at Canterbury, the same, after many architectural changes, in which the archbishop and bishops assembled in July, 1897, bore witness to an earlier British Church, the precise origin of which evades the historian's investigations. By many, indeed, the honour of a visit to these islands of the great Apostle of the Gentiles has been claimed on the strength of a reference in a letter of Clement of Rome. Surely no land and no Church can have greater missionary obligations! The possessor, in some measure, more or less continuously, of the treasures of God's Word from the earliest century of the Christian era, and that due to the disinterested labours of Gallican and Celtic and Roman missionaries, it is time indeed that the Church of England recognized its responsibilities to pass on the light.

The Church's expenditure on Home Missions,

An examination of the Official Year Book of the Church of England reveals that the Church as yet has fallen very far short of gauging the claims of Foreign Missions, as indicated by its pecuniary offerings, and in comparison with the provision made for Home Missions. Confessedly incomplete as the returns are, a total income of £8,054,338 is acknowledged for 1895, in part from endowments, for the following purposes:—the training of the clergy (under this head, however, no data of any value are furnished, and no sum is therefore entered); provision for the bishops and clergy, including relief of distress among the clergy, educating their children, &c.; provision for endowments, church buildings, &c.; church expenses and salaries of lay-helpers; elementary and Sunday-schools; evangelistic agencies (data very incomplete); and philanthropic work managed and supported by Church-people. This sum was in behalf of a population of some thirty millions inhabiting England and Wales, in which it has to be borne in mind (1) that extensive and costly pastoral and evangelistic agencies connected with other Protestant bodies are at work among the same population; (2) that philanthropic and eleemosynary institutions which are not connected with the Church are scattered over the land; and (3) that public funds greatly exceeding in amount the large and liberal voluntary contributions of Churchmen are devoted to elementary education.

and on Foreign Missions.

In the same year the Church of England's contribution for Foreign Missions—namely, for making Christ's Gospel known to one thousand millions of the human race—amounted to certainly not more than £650,000. From this sum, and the contributions of the small and poor Native Christian communities which through God's blessing have come into existence through their labours, the Church's Foreign Missionary agencies have had to train and support the missionary clergy, to build churches, to discharge Church expenses, to pay the salaries of lay agents, to provide for educational, evangelistic, and philanthropic work. If the total sum available for the Home and Foreign Missions of the Church be assumed to be ten millions a year, it is still less by one-and-a-half millions than the expenditure in England during 1896 on wine, while the total cost of all spirituous liquors consumed in the United Kingdom in 1897 was £152,286,723, an increase on that of 1896 of three millions and a-third. This shows an advance in average expenditure of one shilling per head of the population (being £3 16*s.* 5¾*d.* as compared with £3 15*s.* 6*d.* in 1896), whereas the sum contributed on the above estimate (and including receipts from endowments of past generations) by the Church of England to both Home and Foreign Missions averages only six shillings and eightpence per head, and that of Churchmen and Nonconformists combined to Foreign Missions alone to a fraction under sixpence per head of the population of England and Wales.

Analysis of contributions.

A clergyman of the Church of England has been led during the past year to institute a searching analysis of the missionary contributions of the diocese in which he exercises the cure of souls. For this purpose he examined the Reports of the S.P.G. for 1896, and that of the C.M.S. for 1896–97. The results of his investigation he embodied in an article which appeared in the C.M. Intelligencer for April, 1898. They are results which in their main features are equally true of almost every other diocese in the land. The population of the diocese in question is 1,015,194, and its contributions for Foreign Missions amount to £8,885—viz., £5,565 to C.M.S., £1,661 to S.P.G., and £1,810 to several smaller societies (the C.E.Z.M.S., £660; C.C.C.S., £210; L.J.S., £454; S.A.M.S., £337; and Universities' Mission, £149). This is slightly over twopence per head of the population. The number of churches in the diocese is 552; and of these 140 support the C.M.S. only, 220 the S.P.G. only, seventy-three both C.M.S. and S.P.G., and 119 neither S.P.G. nor C.M.S. Thus, more than one-fifth of the churches in the diocese do nothing for either of the two largest of the Church's missionary societies. Of the 213 churches supporting the C.M.S., only 156 have sermons for the Society, and still fewer, only eighty, have missionary meetings; in 144 of the parishes or districts represented by these churches annual subscriptions are collected, in 132 boxes are in use or other efforts were put forth to elicit the help of the young, and in twenty-nine there were sales of work, &c. A very cursory view of these figures reveals a deplorably prevalent languor and supineness in a large proportion of the clergy and laity of the Church on the subject of Foreign Missions. And the more closely the inquiry is pressed the more is this apparent. The following observations are well borne out:—1. The bulk of what is done in the matter is done by a very few parishes, where the clergy and some at all events of their people are in downright earnest. In the diocese in question, in one deanery, ten parishes contribute £211 to C.M.S., of which £132 comes from two; and in another thirteen contribute £88 to the S.P.G., of which £45 comes from one. 2. The parishes giving nothing are not by any means only poor agricultural and sparsely populated parishes. In one deanery they number seven out of twenty-three, and include one parish with 4,800, another with 4,200, a third with 3,600, and a fourth with 2,300. 3. Many of the parishes which give something, when their opportunities are looked at, are found to give practically nothing. A parish of over 4,000 sent 8*s.* 6*d.* as the proceeds of a collection; another of over 1,300 sent 10*s.*, the subscription of one individual; a parish of over 8,000 sent £2, the result of two subscriptions and one box. And these examples are frequent. The writer of the article from which the above figures are taken concludes with the following weighty words addressed to his brother clergy:—

Supineness deplorably prevalent.

> Do not too many of us clergy and communicants still think of the missionary cause and talk of it as the support of a society, the giving of a subscription, the putting into a missionary-box, the contribution to a sale of work? Do not too many of us relegate the instruction concerning it to the annual visit of the deputation? Do we not make too many excuses concerning our half-zeal for it, and sit down in despair too often because of the people's indifference and even hostility to it? Do we not all of us, again and again, need to stir up our sense of the deposit committed to us, and to live in the atmosphere of a perpetually real, vivid, and living recognition of the fact that Christ died for the whole world, and that therefore the whole world ought to know it; that, so far as we know, this fact and this duty are, respectively, above all account the most important and transcendently the greatest of all things and of all duties in heaven and earth.

The deficit of 1897 removed.

The Church Missionary Society's financial year 1896–97, it will be remembered, ended with an adverse balance of £23,608. This amount was the accumulation of three years' deficits. It was explained in last year's Report (p. 21) that the Committee had applied portions of certain funds within their control to meet a part of this adverse balance, and that they had appealed for special offerings to cover the outstanding sum of about £9,000 before the end of June. Altogether £9,621 was contributed for this purpose, about £4,000 of which was received a week or two after the 30th of June. The following is the financial statement of the year under review:—

The year began with an adverse balance of		£23,058
Less borne by certain Reserve Funds		13,443
Leaving a deficit brought forward of		£9,615
The expenditure of the year was		314,773
Making a total to be met of...		£324,388
The funds applicable to meet this have been:—
(a) Contributions to cover the Deficit of 1896–97	£9,621
(b) General Contributions	234,129
(c) Appropriated Contributions applicable to the year's expenditure (including certain balances of former years)	60,449
(d) Contingency Fund	176
	—— ——	304,375
Leaving an adverse balance on March 31st, 1898, of		£20,013

The year's receipts.

The total amount contributed for the general purposes of the Society (excluding India Famine and all other special funds) was £305,625, which is £8,000 more than the corresponding figure of 1896–97, and £44,000 more than any preceding year. Of this total the Associations throughout the country contributed £197,225, which is £12,500 more than in 1896–97, and £30,500 more than any preceding year. The total receipts under all heads, including Special Funds not applicable to the Society's general purposes, were £331,598. In 1896–97 the corresponding figure was £341,395, which included a special gift of £29,000 in invested funds. These Special Funds are, of course, no criterion of the Society's progress year by year, but some of them have an important relation to its financial position. That very gift of £29,000, for example—though for the time being only an investment bearing interest—will in course of time be available for use at the discretion of the Committee. A careful study of the facts, taking into consideration the various reserved funds, proves that the Society was never in a more sound financial position than it is at present, and that it is distinctly better off than it was when in 1887 it adopted the policy of sending out all suitable missionaries in reliance upon the Lord's supplying the funds for their support.[1] This was made clear in a Memorandum which the Secretaries presented to the Committee on April 12th, 1898; the Committee, after giving instruction that it should be entered on the Minutes, passed the following Resolution:—

That, reviewing the facts therein set forth, especially the increase in the number of missionaries in the past eleven years from 309 to 776, and the consequent large development in the work in Africa, India, China, Japan, and other Mission-fields, the Committee render humble and hearty thanks to Almighty God for such marked tokens of His gracious favour, since, as they believe, He led them to trust Him more and more implicitly for the means to send forth such men and women as He might be pleased to supply.

Deficit of £20,000.

That while the Committee feel that it would be wrong to minimize the importance of the fact that the expenditure of the past year has exceeded the available income of the year by £20,000, they would point out to their friends (1) that the Society is not in debt, and has not once been in debt in the past fifty-seven years; (2) that on a review of the whole eleven years, the general income has increased 50 per cent.; and taking all Appropriated and Special Funds into account, the general financial position proves to be sound; (3) that the Centenary Commemoration will assuredly issue in wider and deeper interest, and consequent continuance of larger support, especially in a steady increase of the General Funds.

The Committee's appeal.

That the Committee therefore dare not hesitate, relying upon Him who never fails those who really trust Him, to go forward in the work which He has committed to the Society; and they would call upon all their friends to manifest their devotion to the Captain of their salvation and their thankfulness for abounding opportunities and multiplying offers of service by their glad self-sacrifice in meeting the growing necessities of His work.

Special provision for support of missionaries.

In last year's Annual Report (pp. 23-25) a fact of immense financial importance was mentioned and dwelt upon, the fact, namely, that for a large proportion of the new missionaries sent out during the year special promises of support over and above ordinary contributions to the Society's funds had been received. This year, through God's bountiful goodness, the same may be said again. The recruits sent out between April 30th, 1897, and May 1st, 1898, numbered 76: 44 men and 32 unmarried ladies. Of this number 6 are honorary, 5 supported by Colonial Associations, and 52 are supported as regards their personal allowances by special gifts. The total number of missionaries on the list in the present Report for whom special provision is thus made is 370, of whom 214 are men and 156 ladies. 63 are honorary, individual friends are responsible for 83, parochial and other associations in England and Ireland for 102, the Gleaners' Union and its Branches for 45, various county organizations for 14, the Dublin University Fuh-Kien Mission for 8, other bodies of friends for 24, and Colonial Associations for 31. The Mission-fields to which the missionaries thus supported are attached are the following:—Africa, 83 (West Africa 23, East 60); Mohammedan Lands, 38; India, 110; Ceylon, 10; Mauritius, 1; China, 82; Japan, 38; New Zealand, 1; Canada, 7. In addition to this, over one hundred Native agents, ordained and lay, in the different Missions, are supported by special gifts paid to the Society's funds for the purpose.

The "Own Missionary" plan suggested in 1837.

It is interesting to recall the fact that as long ago as 1837, a few weeks before the Queen's Accession, the "Own Missionary" plan was anticipated in the Anniversary Sermon at St. Bride's, preached by the Rev. Thomas Dale, who was at that time Vicar of St. Bride's. If, he said, a true standard of self-sacrifice were followed, then—

> Not a few among us . . . would have each his own special representative ministering the Gospel to the Heathen, scattering among them, in his stead, the seed of life, and thus supplying his lack of personal service. . . .
> But next, there is a principle of combination, which is so often injuriously, that it might well be, for once, profitably applied. Where the burden is too heavy for one, why should not two, or four, or six, if linked together in close bonds of kindred, or by the closer tie of Christian brotherhood, combine to maintain their own missionary? . . .
> But if, again, there are many instances of disciples who can bestow largely, but not to this extent, is not the principle which we have laid down especially applicable to congregations? Cannot the Pastor urge upon his flock to adopt, as the lowest, such a scale of congregational contributions, as shall ensure for them one who shall represent them in the benighted empire of ignorance, and among the godless hordes of idolatry and superstition? Why should not the sword of the Spirit be unsheathed, why should not the banner of Salvation be unfurled, at their proper cost, and in their special name, by some intrepid warrior of Christ who has abjured home with all its comforts—kindred, with all its charities—society, with all its indulgencies and delights—country, with all the ties which it entwines so tenaciously around the heart, in order to be their delegate in the great work of preaching the Word of God? . . .
> Oh! if one thousand congregations were thus stirred up throughout the land, in our own Church alone, to say nothing of other denominations of Christians; nay, if one-half this number (not one in twenty), throughout the Empire, were kindled, as by a tongue of fire glanced from heaven, into this Divine work of faith and labour of love, then would our calculation be complete;—then would flow into the desolate wastes of Heathenism a full and gracious tide, not of seventy, but of seven hundred missionaries, to testify among all nations the wonderful works of God.

History of its adoption.

The idea took long to germinate and to bear fruit. In 1878, at the instance of the late Rev. V. J. Stanton, a "Substitute for Service" Fund was opened, and he himself gave from that time until 1886 the sum of £250, and subsequently until his death £500. His example, however, had few followers until early in the present decade. In June, 1893, the Committee issued an appeal inviting offerings appropriated in this way, so long as they were in addition to and not in lieu of subscriptions to the General Fund. In May, 1894, there were forty-eight missionaries thus supported. During the next two years the number trebled, standing at 146 in March, 1896, when the Three Years' Enterprise was inaugurated. Thus it has gone up during the first two years covered by the Enterprise by 161, a result which may probably be regarded, under God, as due in a large degree to that movement.

Missionaries accepted.

Some 530 inquiries and offers of service were received at the C.M. House during the year, and of these 226 were dealt with by one or other of the various Committees. Those who passed the several tests applied—medical, mental, and spiritual—numbered 143, of whom 79 were accepted for service, and 64 (23 men and 41 women) for training and probation. The following list gives the names of those accepted for service, the place from which they offered to the Society or the Colonial Association by which they were accepted, and, in the case of those who have sailed, the Mission to which they have been assigned. The men's colleges or training institutions are also given.

There has not been as yet so pronounced a progress in the number of missionaries sent forth to the work or in the number of candidates applying for acceptance as was hoped for as a result of the Three Years' Enterprise. The number who sailed from England and the Colonies, as already mentioned, was 90, compared with 81 in 1896–7, and 87 in 1895–6. The progress in this respect is, however, far from discouraging on a review of several years. In the General Review of the Year, which was read at the Anniversary of 1891 (see Annual Report 1890–91, page 8), it was stated that "a few members of the Committee who found themselves at Keswick last summer" had addressed "a joint-letter to their brethren assembled in London, urging a fresh appeal for one thousand additional missionaries in the next few years." No period was named, but a minute of Committee passed in June, 1893, said that "the prayers of many friends of the Society were directed towards sending forth one thousand new missionaries in the last decade of the century." To not a few it seemed little short of presumption at that time to ask for such a thing. But what has been so far the experience since then? The number added to the list between June 1st, 1890, and June 1st, 1898, including wives and missionaries in local connexion, has been 770, an average of 96 for the eight years, the average for the first four years having been 87, and for the latter four years 105. Clearly, encouragement is given by these facts to plead with enlarged desires. The following table carries the comparison further back, and also affords data for comparing the rate of increase in the Society's expenditure with the enlargement of its Missionary staff. It gives the expenditure of each tenth year of the Society's history, the number of missionaries (not including wives) on the roll at the end of each such year, and the number added to the roll during that and the preceding nine years:—

1819	27,274	39	46
1829	55,271	71	86
1839	91,453	148	144
1849	91,862	169	119
1859	126,975	226	139
1869	152,865	223	154
1879	212,581	268	187
1889	227,173	360	265
1897	304,635	720	600 (8 yrs.)

Valedictory meetings.

Two Public Dismissals of Out-going Missionaries were held, each at Exeter Hall. The former was on July 15th, and was the first Summer Dismissal to be held in Exeter Hall, previous ones having been held in Queen's Hall (1895), and Lower Exeter Hall (1896). The missionaries taken leave of included those for Africa, who were sailing in the course of the summer and early autumn, and several proceeding to India, China, and Japan. The closing address to the missionaries was delivered by the Archbishop of Dublin, and the closing prayer offered by the Bishop of Carlisle; on the following day a Communion Service was held at St. Bride's Church, at which the Bishop of Huron gave an address on St. John x. 3, 4. At the Autumn Dismissal, on October 12th, Bishop Ingham gave the address; Prebendary Webb-Peploe offered the closing prayer; and the Rev. A. E. Barnes-Lawrence spoke from St. Mark xiv. 14 to those who gathered at St. Bride's for the Holy Communion on October 13th.

Medical Missions.

Rather more than one-tenth of the whole number of the year's recruits were qualified doctors. Medical Missions at Home and Abroad, for January, 1898, gave a list of 247 medical missionaries holding British degrees or diplomas, connected with forty different societies. The C.M.S. stands first with forty-four, then follows the Free Church of Scotland with twenty-nine, and L.M.S. with twenty-four. In addition to those enumerated, the C.M.S. has several medical missionaries on its Staff who hold other than British diplomas, e.g., a Toronto graduate, a Melbourne graduate, a Beyrout graduate, and two Indian brethren. The total number of the Society's medical missionaries is 49; the number of beds in the various hospitals is 1,252; 9,364 in-patients were treated during 1897 and 594,074 out-patients.

Islington men.

Of the missionaries dismissed twelve were Islington men. Seven of these were admitted to deacons' orders at the Bishop of London's Trinity Ordination, and one of them, Mr. Ecob, as first deacon, read the Gospel. This is the ninth time since 1889 that an Islington man has taken the premier place at the deacon's examination in the Metropolitan Diocese. The Bishop of London, at a meeting in January, 1898, in support of the Missionary Studentship Association for the Diocese of London, which assists students to prepare for service under the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, took occasion to express his high regard for the training given at Islington College. According to the Guardian, he said:—

The Bishop of London's testimony to the C.M.S. College.

> The men came from the Church Missionary College at Islington carefully prepared, and in the examination before their ordination, although they had not had an University education, almost always did better than those who had. They are men full of zeal and enthusiasm who had given up their work, who came disciplined and mentally prepared; he could not speak too highly of their motives and their training.

The Guardian, in its editorial comments on the Bishop's speech, remarked:—

> There was another notable point in the Bishop's speech. He spoke in terms of strong praise of the men who came from the Church Missionary College at Islington. That they should be what the Bishop describes them does not in the least surprise us; on the contrary, it is quite in keeping with the importance attached by the Evangelical party to Foreign Missions.

Bishop Creighton visited the College in the summer of 1897, and personally interviewed the candidates. Among other visitors to the College may be mentioned the Bishop of Salisbury, and on another occasion Lord Halifax. The latter was accompanied by a French Roman Catholic divine, who was inquiring into the position of Church parties in England, and the President of the English Church Union thought the Church Missionary College would give him a good idea of one of the most important Evangelical enterprises. The College issued in January, 1898, the first number of an annual magazine, bearing the name Islingtonian. Sixty-eight students were in residence during the whole or part of the year. Nine entered for the Oxford and Cambridge Preliminary Theological Examination in March, 1898, of whom three were placed in the first class and the remaining six in the second.

Home Preparation Union.

A Home Preparation Union for those who look forward to becoming missionaries, if God permit, with the object of helping its members during the waiting time to keep definitely before themselves the thought of possible future service in the Mission-field, and of preparing them to prepare themselves for such service, was formed in the autumn of 1897, with the approval of the Committee, and worked by an Executive Committee of C.M.S. friends, but not otherwise officially connected with the Society. The Rev. G. H. Ayerst, Vicar of Kingsbury and Neasden, is the Secretary. During the Lambeth Conference a gathering of ladies was held at St. Martin's Town Hall, under the presidency of Mrs. Creighton, to confer on "Women's Work for the Church at Home and Abroad." Miss Gollock, Lady Secretary of the Women's Department of the C.M.S., read a paper by request explaining the practice of the Society in dealing with women candidates.

The instrumentalities and organizations for extending and deepening missionary interest in the country—such as Unions, Missionary Missions, Loan Exhibitions, &c.—which have been mentioned in previous Reports, continue to do active and efficient service. The Federation of the Younger Clergy Union held its Second Annual Conference at Liverpool, on June 9th and 10th, 1897. There was an administration of the Holy Communion for the delegates in St. Luke's, Bold Street, when the Rev. W. S. Standen preached from Isaiah xlii. 1. The Bishop of Liverpool and Bishop Royston presided respectively at the two sessions of the Conference, at one of which the "call with authority," a proposal that the Bishops of the Church should be invited to use their authority for increasing the number of labourers in the foreign field was considered, and the following wise Resolution was adopted :—

Younger Clergy Unions.

> That this Conference would welcome any movement on the part of the Bishops of the Church in the direction of pressing the claims of Foreign Missions upon the individual clergy ; but it urges that no man can escape from his own personal responsibility in this matter.

Twenty-one Unions were reported as having joined the Federation, with an aggregate membership of 1,163. The first Union, the London Y.C.U., was formed in 1885, and between that year and 1894 ten of the now federated Unions came into existence. The other eleven were started during 1895 and 1896. As many as fifty-six of the members have been accepted for missionary service. In one of the Unions (that for Belfast) it is said to be practically an unwritten law that each member should devote a week or a fortnight each year to deputation work, and another (that for Manchester) undertook to try to organize Missionary Missions in the several rural deaneries in its neighbourhood. The Bishop of London was present at the Anniversary of the London Y.C.U. on October 18th, and gave a stirring address to the members.* On Tuesday, May 3rd, 1898, the day of the Society's Anniversary, a Conference, convened by the Younger Clergy Federation, was held in the afternoon at the Leopold Rooms, Ludgate Circus.

Lay Workers' Unions.

The London Lay Workers' Union reported, at its Fifteenth Anniversary, in October, 1897, a total membership of 600, of whom 555 were ordinary members. The average attendance at its fifteen ordinary meetings was seventy. At one of these meetings Sir Charles A. Turner, formerly Chief Justice of Madras, addressed the members, giving valuable information on Mission work in South India. An important suggestion has been made by one of the members, and comments invited upon it, that the Union should bring influence to bear upon business firms sending representatives abroad, to induce them, as far as possible, to send out those who are in sympathy with missionary work. Fifty-nine Lay Workers' Unions and bands are associated with the Union. The members of one of these bands undertook to visit the men of their parish church and mission-hall congregations, and to try to interest them directly in missionary work. Half-yearly Conferences were held in July, 1897, at St. Mary's, Whitechapel, and in February, 1898, at St. Cuthbert's, West Hampstead; and in November, 1897, a devotional gathering was addressed by the Rev. E. A. Stuart, at St. Michael's, Burleigh Street, Strand. In Advent, the members gave addresses in Sunday-schools in various parts of London. Preparation classes were held during the year for intending Missionary candidates, conducted by the Revs. H. B. Worthington (Curate of Immanuel, Streatham), N. S. de Jersey (Curate of St. Mary, Kilburn), and J. A. Anderson (Curate of St. John's, Blackheath). Several of the provincial L.W. Unions also organized simultaneous Sunday-school addresses, and that in Bristol did so in July, 1897, for the first time, the members visiting for the purpose twenty-two schools in eighteen parishes. The Annual Conference of the Hereford, Worcester, and Malvern L.W. Unions was held in August, at St. Ann's Well, Malvern, under the presidency of the Revs. F. W. Davenport and Prebendary H. Askwith.

Ladies' Unions.

On the invitation of the London Ladies' Union, a gathering of some eighty nurses, from various London Hospitals and Institutions, was held during the same month, and heard addresses by Dr. H. Lankester (illustrated by limelight views), and by Miss Hewlett, of the C.E.Z.M.S.; while in October and December, over 300 members of the Y.W.C.A., representing forty-two branches, attended at the C.M. House and heard missionary addresses.

Women's Department.

The Women's Department organized two large and influential Conferences of Women Workers, the former in May, 1897, at the C.M. House, the latter in October, at Clifton. The former was a short one, of only three hours' duration, but it was of special interest. "The area represented, the material accumulated, the alertness of management, the practical solidity, and the deep undertone of purposeful devotion to the Saviour combined to make it a time of noteworthy distinctiveness," wrote one who was present. Mrs. H. E. Fox presided, and a succession of papers were read on work in "The poor agricultural parish," "The poor town parish," "The wealthier country town parish," &c. The Clifton Conference occupied two whole days and parts of two others, and was attended by over 200 lady workers in the western counties. Mrs. Fox and Miss Gollock presided successively at the Conference sessions, and Sir John Kennaway presided at a large public meeting in the Victoria Rooms, when over 1,200 were present. Numerous other conferences were held. For example, in London and its suburbs during the winter of 1897–8, fifteen parishes were represented at a Conference at Gipsy Hill, ten at Kensington, seventeen at Blackheath, seventeen at Finchley, twenty at Streatham, thirty-five at Islington, nineteen at West Hampstead, and twenty-one at Paddington. These conferences led up to a Central Conference at Salisbury Square on April 20th, at which lady delegates from 200 parishes, chosen by the respective vicars, were present. A final address was delivered by the Archbishop of Canterbury. Lady Kennaway presided at the Conference. Lady correspondents in the different dioceses have been appointed, to work in connexion with the Association Secretaries. The Women's Department has obtained openings for missionary appeals to numerous upper and middle-class girls' schools and colleges. Ladies on the deputation staff have made extended tours, visiting schools, holding meetings, and securing in most instances the appointment of a girl secretary to receive and distribute a Terminal Letter sent out from the C.M. House.

Work among schools.

A like work among boys' schools has been organized by the Rev. C. D. Snell. Under the auspices of the London Lay Workers' Union, a well-attended gathering of masters and teachers in boys' elementary schools was held at the C.M. House in May, 1897, when Sir Charles Elliott, K.C.S.I., presided, and addresses were given by the Revs. E. F. E. Wigram (Punjab), T. W. Drury, and F. C. Searle, Assistant Master of Harrow School, and by Mr. T. B. Ellery, ex-President of the National Union for Teachers. In the Harrow district the Board School teachers are invited once a year to hear the claims of the Heathen, and over sixty responded to the invitation in October. The work of interesting the pupils in Church Sunday-schools in Foreign Missions is much easier to arrange than that among children in private schools, and is consequently more general; nevertheless there is a vast field in this province also which is untilled, or which produces only a fraction of the harvest of which it is capable. The various Unions whose work has been already alluded to have all rendered valuable help in this direction by arranging for missionary addresses. In Sheffield 1,400 copies of a special missionary service were circulated in preparation for the "simultaneous Missionary Sunday." In London large numbers of Sunday-school Teachers have, on the invitation of the London Ladies' Union, been entertained and instructed at the C.M. House. At an Annual Conference of the Oxford Branch of the Church of England Sunday School Institute, which was held in September, 1897, and was attended by some 250 clergy and teachers, the subject of discussion was, "How best to Interest our Children in Foreign Missions." In Nottingham a Central Juvenile Association has been formed, the town being divided into districts, for each of which friends are appointed who aim at arranging meetings, &c. How much may be done in eliciting pecuniary help from the children when systematic and regular means are taken to interest them is instanced by a working-class parish in South Yorkshire, where the Juvenile Association raised in 1896 the sum of £182 12*s*. That parish has a missionary Sunday every month, when C.M.S. magazines are distributed to subscribers, and the Monthly Letter written by Miss Emily Symons is read by the teachers to their classes or its contents given in their own words. The scholars are encouraged to prepare and read papers themselves, followed by discussion. There are quarterly meetings for members, an annual missionary service in Church, an annual meeting with a tea, a Sale of Work and Exhibition, &c. &c. There are other hunting-grounds than the day and Sunday-schools where boys and girls may be sought and their interest won. At the sea-side resorts Missionary meetings are more and more becoming a recognized feature in the programme of the Children's Special Service Mission, and missionaries and accepted candidates for missionary service are frequently among those who conduct such efforts. At one place on the Cumberland coast missionary meetings were held daily on the shore for a whole week with most encouraging results as regards attendances. Missionary sand maps* are a great help on such occasions. In 1892, a Boys' Brigade Branch in aid of the C.M.S. Medical Missions was formed, which had a membership of twenty-nine companies in 1897 (out of a total of 783 companies in the Brigade), and which collected £65. The returns from Secretaries of Sowers' Bands show that there were about 13,000 sowers, 9,800 being girls.

Gleaners' Union:

The Gleaners' Union received an accession of 11,089 members during the year ending September 30th, 1897, making 102,216 enrolments since the formation of the Union, in July, 1886. Seventy-eight new Branches were registered, the number now in existence being 804; that for Nottingham has over a thousand members, of whom thirty are clergymen and one-fourth are men. Twenty-six of these Branches undertake the support of their "Own Missionary," and seven other missionaries are supported by the united efforts of two or more Branches, making thirty-three in all, while another Branch supports one of its members during his training at the C.M. College. Special gifts to the Gleaners' Union, amounting to £1,400, were received for the support of fourteen G.U. "Own Missionaries." The Anniversary of the Union was for the second time held in the provinces.

Anniversary at Sheffield.

In 1896, it was celebrated at Manchester, and in 1897 at Sheffield. On Sunday, October 31st, special sermons, without collections for C.M.S., were preached at many of the churches, and short mid-day services for men only were held on the two following days. An administration of the Holy Communion in the parish church, and a sermon by the Bishop of Beverley, on Matt. ix. 37, 38, was a meet commencement of the Anniversary. Conferences of Secretaries, a ladies' meeting, and two large public evening meetings filled the hours of November 1st and 2nd. At the Tuesday evening meeting, the Annual Meeting of the Union, some 2,500 were present in the Albert Hall (and this was the fourth time during the year that this large hall had been filled by C.M.S. gatherings), the chair being occupied by Archdeacon Eyre, Vicar of Sheffield. The friends who took part, by invitation, in the proceedings—besides officials and those whose names have been already mentioned—were Bishop Oluwole, Canon Rogers, of Yarmouth, the Revs. H. B. Macartney (Melbourne), T. C. Chapman (Clifton), A. Pearson (Sheffield), Victoria Lady Carbery, Mrs. Blakeney (Sheffield), Miss M. Bird (Persia), Miss E. Jackson (Cairo), and Mr. Bethune Baker (Birmingham). The Gleaners' Union—which was at the first merely a union of the readers of the C.M. Gleaner, who corresponded direct with its Editor—having grown to be an important part of the Society's home organization, has been recognized as such by the Committee, and has been constituted an integral part of the Home Organization Department. The Gleaners' Union Circulating Missionary Library is worked—and the work is of a truly onerous character—by the honorary Treasurer and Librarian, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Flint, with a staff of twelve lady Gleaners, from their private residence, Bracken Lodge, Hampstead, N.W. It possesses 1,500 volumes, and there are 140 subscribing branches, and private readers. Parcels of books are sent and exchanged quarterly.

Publications.

The dissemination of missionary literature is one of by no means the least important and productive of all the means of promoting the cause of Foreign Missions in the Church at home. Several of the Younger Clergy and Lay Workers' Unions have loan libraries for their members, and there are such also in connexion with missionary depôts at a few populous centres, as, e.g., Kensington and Clifton. In the latter town, one of the parish churches has in the porch a rack with various magazines, including the C.M. Gleaner, a box being placed underneath to receive the price. In some parts of Kent friends have sent a copy of the localized C.M. Gleaner to the stations of the London, Chatham, and Dover, and the South-Eastern Railways. The following have been the chief new publications of the Society during the past year:—The Story of the Year 1896-7, the 4th annual issue of the illustrated Report in popular form; Through my Spectacles in Uganda, by the Rev. Martin J. Hall, a Christmas book for children; The Great Big World; or, a Missionary Walk in the Zoo, a special picture-book for little children, which has been most highly commended, and of which the first edition of 5,000 copies is nearly exhausted; Bible Gleanings from Corners of the Field, by the Rev. W. E. Burroughs; and a Missionary Game, entitled A Missionary Tour in India. A 3rd edition of Japan and the Japan Mission, and a 4th edition of the Gleaner's Atlas, referred to in the last Report, were published during the year; also 2nd editions of Boys and Boys (5,000), Girls and Girls (5,000), and A Missionary Alphabet for Little Folk (3,000). Other new books are in preparation; also a 3rd edition of What's o'Clock, and a second edition of The Great Big World. The sale of books generally during the year was very satisfactory. The Sheet Almanack for 1898 has not maintained the increase shown in the issue for 1897, and has fallen almost to the level of the 1896 almanack. The circulation of the monthly periodicals continues to advance. The average numbers of copies printed each month were:—Intelligencer, 6,590; Gleaner (including 43,100 for localized editions), 81,900; Awake, 43,600; Children's World, 58,100; and Mercy and Truth (Medical Mission work), 5,500. Of the Quarterly Paper, 20,000 copies were printed each quarter, and of the Quarterly Token, an average each quarter of 218,750 English, 5,250 Welsh, and 300 with pictures only for a Chinese edition. Efforts are being made in India to publish monthly missionary magazines in the vernacular, picture insets being supplied from Salisbury Square; three such magazines have already been started. The total circulation of the Society's magazines and papers during the year exceeded six and a quarter millions, of which about 580,000 were papers in connexion with the Three Years' Enterprise.

Over six millions of magazines and papers circulated.

A very kindly and appreciative testimony regarding the Society's monthly magazines is borne by the Indian Witness, the organ of the American Methodist Episcopal Church's Mission in India. In an article headed "Inspiring Missionary Literature," the following occurs:—

> It is a positive inspiration, month by month, to peruse the excellent Missionary literature so wisely provided by the Church Missionary Society for its clientèle. For up-to-date information and fresh tidings from the front, we find no missionary periodical more thoroughly interesting at all points than the C.M. Intelligencer. The reports of valedictory meetings, the solid articles by men all on fire for the evangelization of the world, the letters from bishops and missionaries in all parts of the globe, the published addresses and sermons in behalf of Missions, the interesting extracts from the proceedings of the London Committee,—all combine to provide a magnificent missionary magazine. Of course it is mainly the record of the operations and achievements of but a single society; nevertheless, there is no periodical to which we find ourselves turning more eagerly when the mail that brings it arrives. Somehow a spirit seems to run through it and its subsidiary magazines—the Gleaner, Awake, Mercy and Truth, and Children's World—that makes one feel regarding the great society at the back of all these: Here is an organisation in which prayer is paramount, faith pre-eminent, and consecrated enthusiasm a supreme factor.

Annual Reports.

A change is made this year, by authority of the Committee, with regard to the various forms of Annual Reports issued by the Society. In lieu of what was called "Abridged Proceedings," consisting of the list of Officers and Missionaries, the Annual Sermon, the General Review of the Year, a Summary of Receipts from Associations, the Financial Statement, and full lists of contributions paid direct, balance-sheets, &c., the Story of the Year, somewhat modified, and with financial and statistical information added to make it an Illustrated Popular Report, has been substituted, and is given to subscribers of 10*s*. and collectors of 20*s*., and if preferred rather than the large Report (namely, the volume now in the reader's hands), to subscribers of 20*s*. and upwards.

James Long Lectures.

An important agency for diffusing correct information regarding the religions of the East is supported by the James Long Lectureship Fund. The Rev. James Long, who laboured as a missionary of the Society in Bengal from 1840–1872, bequeathed a sum in trust to the Society for the endowment of lectureships. During the year 1896–97 the Rev. E. Sell delivered twenty-seven lectures on Islam in various places, and the Rev. J. E. Padfield delivered sixty-three lectures on Hinduism.

Country Associations.

Turning now from the agencies for diffusing and deepening a missionary spirit to those whose main purpose is to gather the fruits of such increase, there is much to encourage in the reports which reach the Committee from the Country Associations. Those present at the annual gathering of Association Secretaries at the C.M. House in January, 1898, whose memory of these meetings went back the farthest—and that was not less than a quarter of a century—emphatically declared that they could not recollect one when the reports were so hopeful. The prevailing tone had never perhaps been utterly depressing, but there had been a somewhat monotonous reminder of the very palpable fact that Church patronage, and more especially Episcopal patronage, rarely goes to warm C.M.S. men. This fact is not less glaring now than at any previous time, but other facts are more in evidence. If any one were inclined to question the value of such recent developments as Appropriated Contributions, Own Missionaries, Missionary Missions, the Organization of Women's Work, and the Three Years' Enterprise, a comparison of these reports with those of any previous year would probably allay his doubts. They afford clear evidence of life and movement among the Society's friends, and almost every one reflects a confidence of better things ahead. Fifty-seven years ago, when the Society's income stood at £90,000, Mr. Henry Venn entered in his journal that the Association Secretaries had generally agreed that there was no prospect of increase. This feeling has found expression again and again since then. But no one thinks so now. A careful study of the brief accounts of Association Anniversaries sent by local friends to the C.M. House and published in the Intelligencer, confirms the view expressed by the Association Secretaries. Crowded meetings in the largest halls in large cities are common events. Contributions which have maintained a level for years—and that result announced with a sense of thankfulness—have gone forward in some cases by hundreds of pounds. More care is taken in the accessories of the meetings to make them hearty and attractive. Such remarks as "a new and welcome feature was the presence of an effective choir on the platform," or "a good choir of nearly one hundred voices rendered a number of missionary part-songs and hymns prior to the commencement of the meeting," are increasingly common. Of individual examples of zeal, coupled with ingenious inventiveness and plodding stedfastness, one in the Eastern Counties may be mentioned, where the ladies of a manor-house sell weekly, from their own and friends' gardens, flowers in the neighbouring county town, and realize often as much as £1 per week for the C.M.S.; and one in the Home Counties, where a bishop's daughter, and the sister of an earl, finding her income suddenly reduced to £150 a year, contrived to spare over £70 of this to help Missions, and to earn, in addition, some £200 for the same cause. The latter has explained that the above result has been attained by dispensing with servants, making her own clothes, and by manipulating, touching-up and selling at bazaars, remnants, pottery, wool work, &c., by selling also cut flowers, plants, dried bunches of grasses, collections of dried flowers, seaweeds, &c., by teaching, reading to, singing to, writing for, mending for, shopping for others, and she concludes: "We rise at five winter and summer, Missionary meetings.

Examples of parochial progress, and of individual zeal.

we work unceasingly, prayer is our mainstay in and for everything, and, though shortcomings and trials abound, our life is one long song of praise." Two other examples from the ranks of the very poor—and instances of conspicuous zeal are the most frequent perhaps among such—may be mentioned, one in a Birmingham parish, and the other in a remote Welsh village high up among the wild rocks of Merionethshire. In the former, a box held by a woman who earns a livelihood by hawking tapes and needles, contained, at the end of six months, 13*s.* 5½*d.*, viz., twenty-two threepenny bits, eighty-five pennies, and twenty-one half-pence, a total of 128 coins. In the latter, a box held by a poor spinster, who keeps a small shop in a Welsh mountain village, has raised for several years on an average over £3 per annum, and during the past year its contents reached £4 11*s.*

Church of Ireland.

But the Church of Ireland furnishes, on the whole, the most encouraging and stimulating record of progress in missionary zeal, and that under untoward conditions. During the year 1870, the year before the Disestablishment, the sum of £5,500 was collected in Ireland and sent to the C.M.S. In 1875–76 the amount was £6,794; in 1880-81, £6,200; in 1884-85, £4,900. This last was the lowest point reached, and since 1890–91, when the amount remitted was £7,736, the progress has been uninterrupted, the figures standing for the succeeding years at £8,163, £8,464, £9,836, £12,029, £12,474, £15,948 (including over £2,000 for the C.M.S. Indian Famine Fund), and £17,606 in the year under review. It is worthy of record that on the occasion of the enthronement of Archbishop Peacocke, in the ancient cathedral of St. Brigid, at Kildare (the cathedral to open which the late Archbishop Benson had visited Ireland in the autumn of 1896) in August, 1897, a Missionary Conference was held in the cathedral. Is there any other Church not actually planted in a heathen land, which would make such a Conference an incident of such an event? Or could any Diocese out of Ireland produce a parish where, on a wet evening, and when no special attraction was provided in the way of speakers, about one-seventh (900) of the Church population (6,500) turned out to attend a missionary meeting?

Missionary boxes and Sales of Work.

The power of littles is strikingly illustrated by the aggregate amount collected in missionary boxes in England and Wales. In 1896–97 it was £36,688, an increase of £1,850 on the previous year. So far as could be traced, £12,982 of the above sum was contributed by children, which was an increase of £666 on the year before. The dioceses which raise most through boxes are: London, £4,887; Rochester, £2,992; Canterbury, £1,916; Worcester, £1,884; Winchester, £1,864; Gloucester and Bristol, £1,663; Liverpool, £1,661; and York, £1,647. The Province of Canterbury gave £27,594, fully 75 per cent. of the total. By Sales of Work the Province of Canterbury contributed £20,003, and the Province of York £5,055. The total, £25,058, was £936 above that of the previous year. Several large Missionary Loan Exhibitions have been held during the year under review, especially at Norwich and Paddington, in the spring of 1898, the reports of which have not been received in time for fuller notice in this Annual Report. One, which was got up by C.M.S. friends in the County of Surrey, was held at Guildford, in October, 1897, and was opened on the several days by Bishop Ingham (in lieu of the Bishop of Winchester, who was summoned to officiate at the funeral of Dean Vaughan), Viscount Midleton (Lord-Lieutenant of the County), General Sir John Field, K.C.B., and Mr. Eugene Stock. Missionary curios and maps, and lantern slides, &c., are increasingly in request. During the year ending March 31st, 1898, sets of slides sent out by the Loan Department, Salisbury Square, were used 2,925 times, sets of diagrams 1,040 times, maps 1,421 times, and curios 252 times; 2,360 books were lent, and 55 lecturers and exhibitors provided. In the Diocese of Manchester a new method of reaching the village populations has been inaugurated. By means of gifts for that object, sent to the Rev. W. J. L. Sheppard, Secretary of the Three Years' Enterprise, a Missionary Van has been constructed, and was formally dedicated to its sacred use by Bishop Cramer-Roberts on March 10th, 1898. It is in the charge of one who, after being accepted for training by the Committee, had to relinquish the hope of going abroad through failure of health; he works under the instruction of the Association Secretary of the district.

Loan Exhibitions.

Missionary Van.

With a view to bringing the districts of the Association Secretaries more conterminous with the diocesan boundaries, the following arrangements have been made:—the County of Gloucester has been taken from the Southern District, that of Worcester from the Western District, and that of Warwickshire from one of the sections of the Midland District, thus relieving three of the largest divisions, and a new district, comprising the Dioceses of Gloucester, Bristol, and Worcester, has been formed, to which the Rev. A. Bentley, of the London College of Divinity, Curate of Saltley, Birmingham, has been appointed. The Committee have also appointed the Rev. A. H. Bowman, M.A., who laboured successively in charge of the Old Church at Calcutta, and Girgaum Church, Bombay, and the Rev. Henry Stanley Mercer, M.A., Incumbent of Christ Church, Coventry, members of the Home Deputation Staff.

Association Secretaries.

The increasing number of candidates for missionary service has necessitated the formation of a new department at the Church Missionary House for dealing with them. This duty had previously been regarded as pertaining to the office of the Honorary Clerical Secretary, and indeed until 1891, when an Assistant-Secretary was appointed to relieve Mr. Wigram, the whole labour of interviewing and correspondence was actually done by him and his predecessors. By degrees, however, as the demands on the Hon. Secretary from all quarters increased at an equal rate with the number of candidates, it inevitably followed that he was less and less able to give his personal supervision to the candidates in the successive stages of testing. Accordingly, the Committee, in December, on the motion of Mr. Sydney Gedge, M.P., appointed the Rev. D. H. D. Wilkinson, M.A., Pembroke College, Cambridge, who, since 1892 had been Assistant-Secretary for the candidates' work, as a Secretary of the Society, and his name was submitted, in accordance with Law XX., to the Annual Meeting in May. The Committee have formally appointed Dr. Herbert Lankester as physician to the Society, and constituted a Medical Committee in lieu of the Medical Mission Auxiliary Committee, but having more extended duties and responsibilities assigned to it, of which Dr. Lankester is the Secretary. The Rev. J. D. Mullins, M.A., Pembroke College, Oxford, Curate of St. Stephen's, Coleman Street, London, and the Rev. Arthur Carruthers Stratton, B.A., St. Peter's College, Ridley Hall, Cambridge, Curate of St. Philip's, Chorley, have been appointed Assistant Secretaries, the former for work in the Editorial Department, and the latter in the Candidates' Department. Mr. E. M. Anderson has been transferred from the Editorial to the Home Organization Department. The Rev. P. Ireland Jones, whose ill-health was mentioned in last year's Annual Report (page 44), felt obliged in October, 1897, to resign his office as Secretary of the Society. For three years, since the autumn of 1894, he had under his administrative charge the Society's India and Persia Missions, having previously given eight years of service in Bengal. Only the explicit verdict of the Society's Medical Board, forbidding his return at that time to labour in India, could have availed to induce him to accept the home office, full of privileged opportunities though it was for helping the Indian work and workers. Mr. Jones passed through a season of sore domestic trouble and anxiety in the summer and autumn of 1896, and his health collapsed under the strain. In December, Mr. and Mrs. Ireland Jones sailed for India, deputed by the Committee to visit the Punjab, North-West Provinces, and Bengal, the doctors having recommended this tour as likely, with God's blessing, to prove beneficial for his restoration to health. The Rev. G. B. Durrant continued during the year to discharge the duties of the India Secretariat at Salisbury Square as Acting Secretary.

Missionaries' Children's Home.

The Church Missionary Children's Home sent in six girls to the Oxford Senior Local Examination, and seven to the Junior. Two succeeded in the former, all passing in religious knowledge; and four succeeded in the latter, one being placed in the second class for honours for the whole examination, and being bracketed 34th for French and 8th for German, and another in the second class for honours, and also being bracketed 15th for religious knowledge, out of a total of some four thousand candidates. One of the girls also passed the Oxford Senior Examination in music. Two classes and three distinctions were also won by the Juniors. During the year four former pupils obtained successes—one a Norfolk County Scholarship of £35, another a Senior Scholarship at Merchant Taylor's, a third won a Proximè Accessit at Repton, and a fourth took a £54 Scholarship at Highgate School. The director, the Rev. A. F. Thornhill, reports very encouragingly of the moral and spiritual tone of the Home.

Centenary of the Society.

This record of the Society's Home Operations for the year 1897-98 would be incomplete if it did not make reference to the One Hundredth Year upon which the C.M.S. entered at the close of the period under review. The first centenary commemoration relating to the Society's history was observed on November 9th, 1897. On that day, one hundred years ago—on November 9th, 1797—William Wilberforce, Charles Simeon, Charles Grant, John Venn, and Henry Thornton, met in the house of Mr. Henry Thornton, Battersea Rise, to confer on the subject of Foreign Missions. At this meeting good progress was made towards the object aimed at by those present, namely, the founding of the Church Missionary Society. The meeting in November, 1898, was very appropriately under the presidency of Mr. Percy Thornton, M.P. for Clapham, who is great nephew of the Henry Thornton of a hundred years ago, and who resides in the house in which the historical meeting was held. The object of the gathering was prospective and practical rather than retrospective and sentimental; it was to inaugurate a special local financial effort as a commemoration of the completion of the Society's One Hundredth Year. Thus some of the members of the Society did not wait for the Committee's reminder or suggestions in preparing for the auspicious epoch. Others made proposals of a more general character. The Bishop of Exeter in particular, the Society's honoured and ever generous friend, urged the raising of a million of money as a suitable thankoffering on the part of those who love the Society for its Master's and its work's sake. The Bishop wrote to the Honorary Clerical Secretary of the Society:—

Bishop of Exeter's Proposal.

> There is one thing which still presses very heavily on my heart, the provision of necessary means for sending out and sustaining the devoted men and women whom we humbly hope and believe that God, in answer to our prayers, will call and thrust forth into His harvest-fields between April 12th, 1898, and April 11th, 1899. Might we not expect that it would be a venture of faith, a draft upon His exhaustless riches of grace which God would honour, if our Society would only plead with England's Church to cast one million pounds (embracing the ordinary income) into His treasury during the Second Jubilee Year. I have thought it over for long years; and when last I opened my heart to Wigram, some twelve months before he was taken from us, regarding such an appeal, he looked upon it very favourably, and said he quite thought the money might be raised.

For myself personally I hope, if my life is spared, to send a cheque for £1,000 on April 12th next among the many offerings which we trust will be made on that first day of the Second Jubilee; but oh, with what intense delight would I give another like sum on the last day of that Jubilee Year, if only it filled up the million for which I think we ought to plead. This would not interfere at all with the income of the present financial year, which closes on March 31st next, on behalf of which the friends of our Society are rightly making every effort now. Surely if England would rise and occupy the missionary fields which God has set before us as a Church and nation, He would open the windows of heaven and pour us out a blessing that there would not be room enough to receive it.

The Committee's Manifesto.

The Committee issued a Manifesto on March 8th, 1898, which, slightly abridged, was as follows:—

APPROACHING CENTENARY OF THE CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

Just two years ago, viz., in March, 1896, the Committee of the Church Missionary Society issued a manifesto on the subject of the "Approaching Completion of the First Hundred Years of the C.M.S." The aim and purpose of that paper were to remind the friends of the Society everywhere that the interval of three years between its then approaching birthday, April 12th, 1896, and the day which would mark the completion of its First Hundred Years, April 12th, 1899, might best be employed in such earnest and prayerful efforts on their part as would advance the work of the C.M.S. and of all agencies for the world's evangelization to a point affording larger grounds for thankfulness and praise than at that moment existed.

The Three Years' Enterprise.

It is with no small gratitude to the Disposer of all hearts and the Giver of all good that the Committee have to record how practically the idea of a Three Years' Enterprise was taken up in many parts of the United Kingdom, as remarkably shown by the last Reports of the Association Secretaries, and in not a few places in far-off heathen lands, as shown by many of the Annual Letters. Two years of the allotted space of time have almost run, and while the Committee would thankfully have seen in many more places this solemn interval of preparation utilized, they bless God that no two years in the history of the Society have been marked by such onward progress as the first two years of the Three Years' Enterprise, and there are not wanting indications that the closing year of the Society's first century of existence will be "yet more abundant" in self-sacrificing labours and self-denying gifts.

The Second Jubilee.

The year, April 12th, 1898, to April 12th, 1899, lends itself to this larger hope in being a Church Missionary Jubilee, the Second Jubilee of the Society. As we take the name and idea of a Jubilee from the Divine rules for Israel's guidance, so may we adopt and adapt some, at least, of the ideas which marked that year-long festival of the Old Testament Church.

It was essentially a year of gladness, even though it called for remarkable deeds of self-sacrifice in compliance with the Divine commands. It was ushered in by the sound of the Jubilee trumpet throughout the land, to which almost certainly the Psalmist refers when he says, "Blessed is the people that know the joyful sound" (Ps. lxxxix. 15); and yet the day coincided with the annual recurrence of Israel's day of deepest humiliation and repentance. Strange combination, assuredly, yet most suggestive at all times—and to us at this time—was that Jubilee blast amid the solemn ceremonies of "the day of atonement" (Lev. xxv. 9). The reason is not, perhaps, far to seek. The Jubilee was the closing year of a Divinely-ordered cycle of years. As the seventh day owed its observation to no law of nature, such as gave the day, or the month, or the year, so God ordained the years to move in an inspired cycle of fifty years, closing with this Jubilee celebration. But the close meant memories of an irrevocable past—of things done which should not have been done, of things left undone which should have been done. Therefore must the joy be toned and tempered by self-abasement; therefore must the Jubilee synchronize with humiliation; therefore must the trumpet ring amid the solemn mysteries of "the day of atonement." Just so with us at this season—our Jubilee note sounds a second time, but sounds its note of gladness not altogether unmingled with a true, deep sense of the failings and failures of fifty years—a gladness not saddened but sobered by humiliation before God. But the cause of the joyfulness of the Jubilee was that it ushered in Liberty. Some were to grant it to others, some were to receive it, and it was to be at least as blessed to give as to receive; so all were to rejoice together. It was, moreover, a year of Preparation for a Fresh Start. Burdens were loosed, limbs were set free from servitude, debts were cancelled, and by the time the Jubilee year ended, Israel was ready to set forth anew on another cycle of fifty years.

The Committee would therefore earnestly hope that this Jubilee year may be everywhere observed by the Society's friends as an occasion for self-denying labours and gifts, for individual surrender to the work of carrying abroad the Gospel of liberty, and for very real and practical preparation for a fresh start upon the new era which will follow.

The Centenary.

The celebration of the Society's Centenary has for some time occupied the attention of the Committee.

But at this moment they are less anxious to deal with the actual details of the Centenary Commemoration itself than to impress upon themselves and upon their friends throughout the country what, in their judgment, should be the spirit in which that Commemoration is to be approached, and the aim with which it should be filled.

The Committee of to-day can but emphasize what was said by the Committee of fifty years ago, when, addressing their supporters, they suggested the need of Humiliation, of Thanksgiving, and of Renewed Efforts. If difference there be between then and now, it can only be a difference of degree.

Deeper Humiliation should be ours, in view of larger opportunities not more largely availed of. It was closed doors which our fathers had to deal with, through which they longed and prayed to enter. We look upon open doors all the world over, while on every side are hands beckoning to us, "Come over and help us!"

Livelier Thankfulness should be ours. How little do we reflect on the years of patient, prayerful, resultless toil which marked the earliest years of the Church Missionary Society's work, followed by many more years of but droppings where we have had "showers of blessing," years of but gleanings where we have reaped a great harvest. "Lift up your hearts." "We lift them up unto the Lord!"

Larger Efforts should be ours, just because of the deepened sense of past failures, of present possibilities, and of future opportunities. Who would not say that the twentieth century of the Church's life on earth opens with such grandeur of prospect as was never known before?

Jubilee and Centenary Thankofferings.

The Committee would place first and foremost amongst these the gifts at this solemn and important moment of Living Agents as that which must more than anything else guide or limit them in the great extension of their work. The opportunities in China, to which the Committee lately referred in a special Memorandum, in India, in Africa, may well be met just now by the response of hundreds who can say, "Here we offer and present unto Thee, O Lord, ourselves, our souls and bodies."

But it will, no doubt, be the desire of all members and friends of the Society to make Thankofferings to the Society's Funds in connexion with the Centenary, and the Committee have carefully considered in what form they should invite their friends to do this. In their original Manifesto in March, 1896, announcing the Three Years' Enterprise, they said that they did not intend to name a particular figure as that to which the Centenary Funds should amount. They thought that to do so would be either to cause disappointment if the amount were not reached or to limit the liberality of God's people if it were reached. The great purpose of the Society is to send forth missionaries and to provide for the work which they will carry on. It is not a great sum of money that should have the first place in our minds, but rather the missionary work and the labourers to do it, and the money merely as a necessary provision.

With these principles in view, the Committee invited contributions during the Three Years for the support of more missionaries. In response to this suggestion a large number of labourers have been adopted by particular parishes, &c., as their "Own Missionaries," and in addition to this, considerable contributions have been received, which have been applied to the expense of sending forth the missionaries of the Three Years.

The Committee, however, did announce that, as the period of the Centenary approached, certain specific objects would be named to which Thankofferings might be devoted, over and above the general work of reinforcing the Society's missionary staff. When the Society's first Jubilee was inaugurated in 1848-49, the Committee invited Thankofferings for four definite objects, viz., The Disabled Missionaries' Fund, the proposed Missionaries' Children's Home, a Native Church Endowment Fund, and a Fund for erecting Missionary Buildings. The total amount then raised was £55,000, which was, in due course, divided between these various objects. A list of objects for which Centenary Thankofferings are now invited is appended to this paper.

The total amount of all gifts and promises in connexion with the Society's Second Jubilee and Centenary, added to all the funds received in connexion with the Three Years' Enterprise, will be reported as the C.M.S. Centenary Funds. Without naming any particular large sum, the Committee trust that through God's goodness such a total may be reached as may greatly encourage them in going forward with His work in the world.

An examination of the Jubilee Contribution List of 1848-9 shows that in almost all the parishes supporting the Society a real effort was made to invite contributions from young and old, rich and poor, over and above their ordinary gifts. In many parishes it practically amounted to doubling the income from every source during that year. Although there were some large contributions, the bulk of the Jubilee Fund was not made up by these, but by an immense number of contributions from all classes of society.

The Jubilee Fund of 1848-49 was equal to about two-thirds of the annual income at that period. A corresponding proportion now is the smallest amount that will really meet the Society's present need of development. If the Lord is about to call upon the Society for larger extensions, it is not doubted that He will incline His people to give much more than that. And if the Million, which the Bishop of Exeter in his large-hearted faith and hope has suggested, should be contributed, it will be a token to the Society that its great Commander is about to send forth quickly some hundreds of fresh labourers, and to open the doors for us to enter still unoccupied fields.

Centenary Celebration.

I. In London.—The Committee propose to observe the Centenary in London from Sunday, April 9th, to Sunday, April 16th, 1899, which will be regarded as the "Centenary Week," and includes the Society's Hundredth Birthday.

The Clergy throughout the country will be earnestly invited to join with the Clergy in London in keeping one or other of the above Sundays—i.e., either April 9th or 16th—as "Centenary Sunday," by having special Sermons and Offertories for the Centenary Funds.

During the Centenary Week in London there will be a number of meetings and services which will be definitely announced later on. These will commence with a celebration of the Holy Communion and a meeting for prayer and humiliation before God. There will, on this unique occasion, be a Special Evening Service in St. Paul's Cathedral, by kind permission of the Dean and Chapter, and the great Centenary Meetings on April 12th will include a meeting for Clergy and Lay Delegates in Exeter Hall, and an evening gathering for Praise and Thanksgiving in the Albert Hall. The Society's work at home and abroad will be reviewed, and provision will also be made in the week's programme for some account of the work of other Societies and Missions, that thus clearer views may be obtained both of the actual work done and of the far greater work left undone. One day will be given to meetings having for their object personal consecration in obedience to the Lord's command, and in view of the opportunities and responsibilities of the opening century.

The Committee desire it to be understood that the arrangements in connexion with the Centenary will not interfere with the Anniversary of that year. The Anniversary Service will (D.V.) be held as usual in St. Bride's Church, on Monday, May 1st, and the Annual Meeting in Exeter Hall on Tuesday, May 2nd, 1899.

II. In the Provinces. — The Committee feel, in reference to the Commemoration of the Centenary elsewhere than in London, that they can but touch upon one or two points, leaving all else to the wisdom and energy of their friends, and suiting their own arrangements to local circumstances.

The Committee venture to express the very earnest hope that in every town and parish where there are friends and supporters of the Church Missionary Society, the Centenary will be utilized to arouse and deepen interest in the evangelization of the world.

They would also hopefully look forward to the presence of many of the country friends of the Church Missionary Society at the London Commemoration, thereby not only securing for that Commemoration a truly representative character, but still more enabling those friends to return to their homes, having caught such inspiration from what they shall have seen and heard as will equip them, by God's grace, to take their part in those ensuing commemorations which in a multitude of centres in the provinces will continue and emphasize the spirit of the London gatherings, until in ever-widening circles those notes of humble thankfulness and heartfelt purpose are heard throughout the land.

The Committee feel that no time should be lost before their friends begin to make their own preparations for such Commemoration as they are locally interested in; and where it is not intended to hold these Commemorations in the actual Centenary week (April 9th-16th), they hope that it will be found convenient to arrange for them between that week and the close of the month of April.

It is intended shortly to issue a small pamphlet, "Suggestions for the Commemoration of the Centenary of the Church Missionary Society," and the Committee will gladly arrange that a representative from headquarters should attend, if requested, any committees which may have this matter in hand throughout the country, to aid in making due preparation for the local commemoration of the Centenary.

The Outcome of the Centenary.

The Committee feel that, after all, the important question for them and all who love the Church Missionary Society is, What is to be the practical outcome of the Centenary? For large pecuniary results all friends of Missionary work would be thankful, in view of the doors opened on all sides and the grand possibilities of the new century. But surely such results are the last and least for which we should work and pray. A deeper sense of our own national privileges and responsibilities; a truer grasp of the opportunities of the hour; a warmer recognition of the Great Love that has reached and blessed us; and a clearer heart-response to the Command which lays on us this work of Christ;—these things may well be hoped for as the outcome of what is to be done and said on these memorable days, with the after-fruits of larger dedication of ourselves to that work, greater frequency and urgency of prayer to the Lord of the Harvest, and a brighter outlook for His return Whose path is being prepared by every missionary life, and gift, and intercession. Thus shall our Centenary be far less a goal to which we work than a starting point from which we once more set forth to run with patience the race set before us, hopeful that the Society's first Centenary may be also its last, for it may be that "the coming of the Lord draweth nigh."

That it may be so the Committee will not cease to pray, and they would call upon all their friends in all places to join with them in constant and believing prayer that the Holy Spirit "without Whom nothing is strong, nothing is holy," may so bless them and this solemn celebration that all concerning it may be "begun, continued, and ended" in Him, and be to the glory and praise of God, and to the extension of the Kingdom of Jesus Christ.

By order of the Committee,

John H. Kennaway, President.
Robert Williams, Chairman of Special Committee.
H. E. Fox, Hon. Secretary.

Obituary.

The obituary of the year is as usual a long list. The death of seven Vice-Presidents occurred: Bishop Walsham How, of Wakefield; Bishop Edward Bickersteth, of South Tokio; Bishop Billing, of Bedford; Bishop Speechly, formerly of Travancore and Cochin; Bishop Selwyn, formerly of Melanesia: Dean Vaughan, of Llandaff; and the Rev. C. F. Childe, for nearly twenty years—from 1839 to 1858—Principal of the C.M. College. Seven Honorary Governors for Life died: the Rev. J. Wilkinson, a valued member of the Committee; the Rev. T. J. Clarke, Vicar of St. Paul's, York; the Rev. F. Fitch, of Cromer; the Rev. E. P. Hathaway; the Rev. A. H. Arden; Mr. Alfred Sutton; Mr. George Skey. One Honorary Life Member, Miss Emily Steele Elliott, authoress of Copsley Annals, and for some years Editor of the C.M. Juvenile Instructor, now the Children's World, was removed by death. Among other home friends may be mentioned the Rev. W. G. Barker, Director of the Missionaries' Children's Home from 1833 to 1863; the Rev. Canon J. R. Rumpf, Rector of Bluntisham-cum-Earith, in the Diocese of Ely; the Rev. R. D. Travers, formerly Vicar of Swanage, in Dorset; Mr. E. F. Gedge, of Redhill; and Miss Adelaide Emily Batty, on the Editorial Staff at the C.M. House. There also died—five Retired Missionaries: the Rev. and Mrs. Septimus Hobbs (Mauritius and Ceylon), the Rev. S. W. Stagg (N.-W. Canada), the Rev. L. S. Tugwell (British Columbia), and Mrs. W. Jukes, wife of the Rev. W. Jukes (Punjab); sixteen Missionaries on Active Service: the Revs. W. J. Humphrey and W. S. Cox and F. S. Allen (Sierra Leone), Mrs. J. McKay (Yoruba), the Rev. J. S. Callis and the Rev. E. H. Hubbard and Mr. G. L. Pilkington (Uganda), Miss E. F. Goyen (Eastern Equatorial Africa), Miss F. Patching (Palestine), Mrs. H. J. Molony (N.-W. Provinces), Miss I. E. V. Petrie (Punjab and Sindh), the Rev. A. H. Arden (South India), Mrs. J. S. Collins (South China), the Rev. E. Hughesdon and Mrs. R. Smyth (Mid China), the Rev. R. Burrows (New Zealand); five Native Clergy: the Rev. Isaac Vincent (North India), the Revs. V. Simeon and M. Savarirayan and D. Stephen (Tinnevelly), the Rev. J. Sinclair (North-West Canada).

New Vice-Presidents.

The office of Vice-President has been accepted by the Bishop of Pretoria (Dr. Bousfield); the Bishop of Kilmore (Dr. A. G. Elliott); the Bishop of Meath (Dr. J. B. Keene); the Bishop of Ossory (Dr. Crozier); the Rev. Canon W. W. Gibbon, a devoted friend of many years in Yorkshire and now serving on the Committee; Lord Kinnaird, President of the Zenana Bible and Medical Mission, which labours in co-operation with the Society in the North-West Provinces and the Bombay Presidency; Sir W. Mackworth Young, Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab; Sir F. Cardew, Governor of Sierra Leone; General J. G. Touch and Henry Morris, Esq., who have rendered most important services as members of Committee and otherwise for a lengthened period. To vacancies in the list of Honorary Life Governors the Committee have elected the Rev. J. E. Brenan, Honorary Association Secretary for Bristol; the Rev. Dr. R. Bruce, who may truly be called the founder of the Society's Mission in Persia; the Rev. Canon Keeling, Honorary Association Secretary for Manchester; the Rev. G. F. W. Munby, who has rendered much valuable help in the training of candidates sent to his Vicarage at Turvey, near Bedford; the Rev. E. A. Stuart, of Bayswater, an unfailing friend as an advocate and for special services on the Committee; C. H. Bousfield, Esq., a generous donor; N. W. Hoyles, Esq., Q.C., President of the Canada C.M. Association; and S. H. Ramsbotham, Esq., M.D.; and they have added the names of Miss A. C. Buxton, Mrs. E. B. Garfit, Mrs. Henry Francis Hall, Miss J. A. Lamb, Mrs. J. R. MacInnes, Mrs. Maude, Mrs. Martin Tait, and Miss H. R. Whitehead to the list of Honorary Life Members.

The Colonial Associations.

None of the guests who took part in the Diamond Jubilee celebrations attracted so general and profound an interest as did the Premiers of eleven of the self-governing British Colonies. They represented a development of the Empire which peculiarly belongs to the Queen's reign, for every one of the Acts of Parliament conferring self-governing constituencies upon British Colonies bears the signature of Queen Victoria, whose reign, above that of any monarch either among her contemporaries or of the long line of her own ancestors, will ever be associated with the principles of freedom. In the year of the Queen's accession the white population of the now self-governing Colonies was less than 1,200,000, of which number about half was composed of French Canadians and Dutch South Africans. South Africa had lately emerged from the throes of the Kaffir war of 1835, Canada had been convulsed by the French-Canadian rebellion of 1836, and Australasia had for many years been the selected goal of the least hopeful members of the British population. In none could the conditions appear favourable for the exercise of high constitutional trust. The success of the probably unprecedented experiment, both in consolidating the various white races concerned and in uniting all in the bonds of loyal attachment to the Queen's Throne, was manifested by the presence of the Premiers, and especially by that of the French-Canadian, Roman Catholic, and Liberal Premier of the Dominion of Canada, who came not only to express by his presence the prevailing sentiments of affection and devotion to Her Majesty, but to represent and promote a movement towards closer union with the Mother Country. In Australasia, where in 1837 three apparently insignificant Crown Colonies and a few rough settlements languished half forgotten in rarely navigated seas—the fact of the Queen's accession was not known in Australia until four months after it had actually taken place, during the whole of which time the deceased Sovereign King William IV. was prayed for in the Australian churches—seven great self-governing communities now contribute nearly 5,000,000 of white population to the British total, and by their industry add an annual volume of about £120,000,000 in value to British trade. The total shipping entered and cleared in the Australasian ports in 1841 amounted to a tonnage of 552,347; in 1894 the shipping cleared and entered represented a total of 17,356,418 tons.

Growth of British Colonies during the Queen's reign.

It has been already mentioned under "Home Operations" (p. 13) that when Queen Victoria ascended the throne there were only seven bishoprics in the British dominions abroad. Two of these were in North America—viz., Nova Scotia and Quebec, formed in 1787 and 1793 respectively; and one was for Australia, formed into a diocese in 1836. In the remarkable development of the Colonial Episcopate which the past sixty years have witnessed, the Church Missionary Society cannot claim to have rendered help in any way proportionate to that afforded by the venerable Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge, or the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, whose generous gifts for the purpose of founding Colonial Sees entitle them to the lasting gratitude of the whole Church of England. The friends of the C.M.S., however, showed a deep interest in the formation of the Colonial Bishopric Endowment Fund in April, 1841, when the first resolution was seconded by the Earl of Chichester, the Society's President; one moiety of the stipend of the first bishop of New Zealand was contributed from C.M.S. Funds, on account of the Society's work among the Maoris in that Colony; and for a like reason, namely, the work among the Red Indians, several dioceses in the North-West Territories of the Dominion of Canada owe their formation and support entirely to the C.M.S. In 1837 the Society had missionary work not only in New Zealand and North-West Canada, but also in the West Indies, where in 1836 it had as many as thirteen ordained missionaries, and twenty-three English catechists and schoolmasters; and in South Africa, commenced among the Zulus in 1836 in response to an appeal of Captain Allen Gardiner, afterwards the martyr of Patagonia; and, lastly, in Australia, where three missionaries of the Society were engaged among the aborigines at posts two and four hundred miles respectively from Sydney.

Colonial Episcopate.

The Society's friends at the Anniversary in May, 1897, had the opportunity of hearing from the lips of the Archbishop of Sydney, the Primate of Australia, his testimony to the energy and fervour of the supporters of the Church Missionary Association in New South Wales and Victoria; and Bishop Leonard Williams of Waiapu on the same occasion spoke no less warmly of the influence of the Church Missionary Association in New Zealand, testifying that so far from having injured other missionary efforts, such as the Melanesian Mission, it had been a means of assisting them. The Primate of the Church in the Dominion of Canada, the venerable Archbishop of Rupert's Land, was prevented by illness from undertaking any public efforts in the Society's behalf (he had been invited at an early date to preach the Annual Sermon of 1897 during his visit to England), but he was present at a Dismissal of Missionaries at Exeter Hall in July, and another Canadian Bishop—the Bishop of Huron—preached the sermon at the Holy Communion Service at St. Bride's Church to the out-going missionaries on the following day.

Testimony of Bishops to the C.M. Associations.

I. NEW SOUTH WALES.

THE Constitution of the New South Wales Church Missionary Association (see last year's Annual Report, page 50), on which those of all the Colonial Associations were subsequently framed, included the following among the objects aimed at:—"To engage in missionary work in such other fields, not occupied by the C.M.S., as the Providence of God may direct"; and this was included more especially in anticipation of the possibility of the Association engaging in missionary work among the aborigines of Australia or among the Chinese settled in that Colony. In the autumn of 1896 the two Associations of New South Wales and Victoria, in view of urgent appeals which the Australian Board of Missions had put forth, made a joint offer to the Bishops of the province to undertake and become responsible for the maintenance of any Mission of the Board which the Bishops might see fit to entrust to them. This offer was considered by the Bishops at the General Synod, and they proposed, under certain conditions, to which the Associations readily acceded, to transfer to them the Chinese Mission in Australia. On this matter being subsequently reported, however, to the Executive Council of the Australian Board of Missions, the proposed transfer was not approved. Thereupon a Conference was held between all the Bishops of Australia and Tasmania and the Executive Council, when all the Bishops, except two, favoured the transfer, but a majority of the Council continued to evince a disinclination for it. As most of the Bishops left soon afterwards to attend the Lambeth Conference, no conclusion was arrived at.

Offer to relieve the Board of Missions of part of its missionary work.

In response to a request by the Bishop of Bathurst, the New South Wales C.M. Association took over the work among the Chinese in his diocese in the summer of 1897. That work had previously been conducted on undenominational lines, but the friends interested in it gladly assented to the transfer, and pledged themselves to continue their support.

Chinese work undertaken in Bathurst diocese.

The Association sent out one lady Missionary—Miss Leila Bibb—who had had the advantage of two years' training in the Home under Miss Hassall. She sailed for Fuh-Kien at the end of November, a Farewell Communion Service being held in St. Andrew's Cathedral, Sydney, on the day before she sailed, and a little service of prayer and praise on board the ship.

New Missionaries.

The Fourth Anniversary of the New South Wales Branch of the Gleaners' Union was held in November, and the roll showed a total membership of 2,615, an increase of 358 during the year. The contributions, including fees and freewill offerings, amounted to £104. There are fifty-one local Branches. The Union sent out boxes of goods to several of the missionaries in the field (Ceylon and China), and to stations of the Australian Board of Missions.

The Ven. Archdeacon King, one of the Vice-Presidents of the Association, died in the summer of 1897.

II. VICTORIA.

The acceptance of work among the immigrant Chinese by the New South Wales Association has been mentioned, and also the joint offer of that and the Victoria Association to relieve the Australian Board of Missions of part of its responsibilities. In the autumn of 1897 the Bishop of Melbourne and the Bishop Coadjutor of the Diocese of Ballarat, acting for his Ordinary, invited the Victoria Church Missionary Association to take over the management and control of the Mission to the Chinese in Victoria. This Mission had for over forty years been conducted by a diocesan society bearing the name "Church Missionary Society of Victoria." Bishop Goe had appointed a Commission to report on the general working and financial condition of the Mission, and they unanimously recommended a change of management. It was on their suggestion that the Bishop made the above proposal to the C.M. Association. The transfer was effected on December 1st, 1897. The buildings and other properties of the Board, and also a deficit amounting to £490, were included in the transfer. Adverse critics in Australia had frequently asserted that the C.M. Association, while zealous for the evangelization of the Heathen in distant lands, ignored the claims of the Heathen in their own midst. The joyful readiness of the Association to accept this work, when the way was opened for their doing so without the appearance of intrusion into or rivalry with the labours of others, has proved in the most practical way the falseness of such a charge. Archdeacon Samuel Williams, of Te Aute, New Zealand, has generously offered to establish a Training College for the purpose of training suitable agents for this work. There are some 8,500 Chinese in the Colony of Victoria.

Income.

In last year's Annual Report it was stated that the income of 1896 amounted to £1,350, which was an increase of almost a hundred per cent. on the income of 1895, but that this sum had proved inadequate to meet the increased liabilities, and a deficit of £150 had to be carried forward. The income for 1897 was £2,334, and in addition to this the sum of £534 was received on account of an Indian Famine Fund. The income includes a donation of £100 to be held as the nucleus of an Endowment Fund. A debit balance of £362 was brought forward. One congregation of 170 members, which contributed £375 for the maintenance of their own pastoral needs, sent besides £85 to the funds of the Association.

Candidates.

Three candidates were accepted by the Association, namely, the Rev. Godfrey Hull Smith, Miss Isabella Hughes, and Miss Louisa Alice Wilson, M.A. Miss Hughes sailed in the autumn for Mid China; and Miss Wilson, who is engaged to Mr. W. Holloway of the Gond Mission in the Central Provinces of India, came to England in October, 1897. Two ladies, Miss K. L. Nicholson and Miss Moul, were accepted for training. The third Anniversary of the Victoria Sowers' Band was held in May, 1897. The number of Bands was thirty-three, and the membership on the roll was 1,140. The Sowers undertook the support of Miss E. Martin of Baghdad. The energetic Secretary of the Band, Miss K. L. Nicholson, has been elected Honorary Secretary of a Ladies' Church Missionary Union, which was formed in June, 1897.

"Own Missionaries."

In connexion with the Three Years' Enterprise, the Association printed and circulated a prayer for daily use. Friends in Ballarat, Armadale, Richmond, South Melbourne, and Tasmania, undertook respectively to support "Own Missionaries" wholly or in part. The Association has sustained a heavy loss by the departure in the spring of 1898 of the Rev. H. B. Macartney, Incumbent of St. Mary's, Caulfield, Melbourne, in order to undertake work on the Secretariat of the British and Foreign Bible Society.

III. NEW ZEALAND.

THE Fifth Annual Report of the New Zealand Association has been received. The Anniversary of the Association was celebrated at Christchurch on February 5th, 1898, during the Session of the General Synod at the same place. It had been arranged to hold a Garden Fête in the combined interests of the Melanesian Mission and the Association, but the state of the weather necessitated a change of plans at the last moment, and the gathering was held in the Art Gallery, under the presidency of the Bishop of Christchurch. The speakers were the Rev. F. W. Chatterton, the Hon. Clerical Secretary of the Association; and Archdeacon S. Williams, the Bishop of Melanesia, and the Rev. G. MacMurray, Vice-Presidents of the Association.

Fifth Anniversary.

The Annual Meeting of the Association was held the same evening in the Oddfellows' Hall. The Primate of New Zealand, Bishop Cowie, of Auckland, presided, and among those present were the Bishops of Christchurch, Nelson, Waiapu, and Wellington, and Archdeacons Williams, Grace, and Gould. The Report was a hopeful one. It stated:—

> Our various branches have shown that their interest has not been merely a spasmodic one for a single year or two years, but has been consistently maintained, and therefore may be now regarded as likely to develop with a healthy growth. We have reached that stage when the first enthusiasm, or that element in it which belongs merely to the novelty of the undertaking, has had time to evaporate, and what remains is the enduring enthusiasm which is prepared to make sacrifices, because the cause demands them, and is worthy of them. We may therefore reasonably and hopefully expect steady progress from year to year, as those who realize the importance of the work make their influence more widely felt. We are thankful for the increasing knowledge of missionary work, for the more favourable attitude in many places of the press towards it, and for growing interest generally in the subject, all of which are evidences of the work of God's Holy Spirit.

No missionaries were sent out by the Association during the year, but three candidates—one male and two female—were reported as under training with a view to going out in the course of 1898. The receipts for the year amounted to £743, of which £397 was derived from missionary boxes. The expenditure amounted to £852, and to meet the deficit the sum of £100 was withdrawn from deposits in the Post Office Savings Bank.

Gleaners' Union.

The Gleaners' Union Branches are the chief mainstay of the Association, both in diffusing interest and supplying funds. The Report gives a list of fifty-three honorary secretaries of branches and the same number of missionary box secretaries in connexion with the same. The membership is 1,160, counting only those who renewed their membership for the year and the 236 new members who joined. The sale of publications increases.

1,100 monthly copies of the localized C.M. Gleaner were sold, 500 of the Children's World, 100 of Awake, 30 Mercy and Truth, and 16 C.M. Intelligencer. The speakers at the Anniversary Meeting were, besides the Primate, who was in the chair, the Bishop of Christchurch, the Rev. G. MacMurray, the Bishop of Nelson, Mr. E. V. Cox (who pointed out that one-fifth of the Association's foreign expenditure was devoted to Melanesia), the Bishop of Wellington, and Mr. T. Tanner. The Bishop of Wellington invited those present at the meeting to pray every day during Lent for Foreign Missions, and promised that he on his part would preach a missionary sermon in every church in his diocese in the course of the year.

IV. CANADA.

Missionaries and candidates.

THE Third Anniversary of the Canada Church Missionary Association was held in Wycliffe College Hall, Toronto, on October 7th, 1897, the President, Mr. N. W. Hoyles, Q.C., presiding. The Report mentioned that eleven married and ten unmarried missionaries of the Association (not, however, all in connexion with the C.M.S) were in the Mission-field. Two had been accepted, but had not sailed; three candidates were in training; and thirteen offers of service were under consideration. A Ladies' Candidates Committee was formed during the year. An increased circulation of C.M. publications was reported. The Gleaners' Union Branch enrolled 600 new members, making a total of 2,549 in forty-three local branches. Over 2,000 missionary-boxes were in use. The total receipts of the year amounted to $8,928, slightly less than for the year 1895–96.

The Association accepted and sent out the Rev. Arthur Lea, M.A., University of Toronto, Rector of New Glasgow, Nova Scotia; the Rev. S. H. Gould, B.A., Toronto University, M.D., Royal Medical College of Queen's University, Kingston. The former offered for Japan, and the latter was assigned by the Parent Committee to Palestine. In addition to these, the Association sent out in local connexion Mr. Stanley Soanes, for Mackenzie River Diocese, and Miss Bella Rutherford for the Diocese of Calgary.

Friends of the C.M.S. in Montreal have promised to contribute towards the support of Mr. Kristen Borup, of the Uganda Mission. Mr. Borup is a Dane by birth, but had lived ten years in Montreal, where he offered to the Montreal representatives of the Canada Association for service in Uganda. He studied a year at the Montreal Diocesan Theological College, and it was hoped that he would go out either as a missionary of the Canada Association, or of a Montreal Association which it was proposed to form. Eventually, however, he was sent to London by the Montreal friends to be examined and sent out by the Parent Committee.

THE WORLD.

On Midsummer Day and on Christmas Day, 1897, the quarcentenaries of events of great importance in the world's history were commemorated. On June 24th, 1497, John Cabot, a Bristol merchant of Genoese birth, sighted Newfoundland or Nova Scotia, or, possibly, Labrador, the results from which have been more important and far more beneficent than those which flowed from the discoveries, about the same time, of Columbus and Amerigo Vespatio. On December 25th, 1497, Vasco de Gama, the greatest of Portuguese navigators, having rounded the Cape, landed on African soil at a spot which he named Natal, in honour of the infant King Christ Jesus, and thence proceeded across the Indian Ocean to Calicut. Thus the length of the Queen's reign multiplied only sevenfold reaches back to when both the West and the East Indies—the Western and Eastern Worlds it may be said—were unknown, the former absolutely and the latter practically. It is a suggestive fact—suggestive of abounding mercies to England during those 400 years, and especially during the past sixty years—that the foundation stone of the proposed Cabot Memorial Tower, to be erected on Brandon Hill, Bristol, was laid on June 24th, 1897, by Lord Dufferin, who had been both Governor-General of Canada and Viceroy of India.

Quarcentenaries of great events.

Again, three months after the latter commemoration, a bicentenary was celebrated which recalls labours and influences, but for which the discoveries of explorers, the planting of colonies, and the extension of empire, would have made a sorry history for the Christian student's contemplation. On March 12th, 1698, the year when the new "English East India Company" was formed, five men founded the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge. That Society was the first among English agencies to put forth efforts for the evangelization of India, and for a whole century—from 1728 to 1828—its funds mainly supported the Danish Mission at Tranquebar. The labours of Fabricius, Gericke, Kohlhoff, Janicke, and, above all, Schwartz, in South India, were sustained by the generous subsidies of the S.P.C.K. The growth of the Colonial and Missionary Episcopate, having increased during the Queen's reign from seven to ninety, owes more to the S.P.C.K. than to any other human instrumentality, over £95,000 having been expended by that Society in the endowment of such sees. The same Society's service to Foreign Bicentenary of a great Society.

S.P.C.K. and the C.M.S.

Missions by its printing and publishing devotional works, and especially the Book of Common Prayer, in about one hundred different languages, is one of by no means the least important of its beneficent operations. The C.M.S. owes a debt of deep gratitude to the S.P.C.K. for its valued help, more especially in the last-named department of its labours, and the bi-centenary afforded the Committee an opportunity for expressing the Society's obligations. The following minute of the S.P.C.K. was received in reply:—

The members of the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge, assembled in their general meeting of March 1st, 1898, desire to express their hearty thanks for the sympathetic minute of congratulation and good wishes, on the occasion of their bi-centenary celebration, which has been communicated to them on behalf of the Church Missionary Society.

Looking back over the two centuries during which their Society has grown from its feeble beginnings to its present wide development, they are able to see how graciously it has been guided and helped through many a difficulty and trial, and how bountifully the faith and devotion of its founders and their successors have been owned and rewarded by God. And now, encouraged by the lessons of the past, they venture with humble confidence to say as they look forward—The Lord hath been mindful of us, He will bless us.

It is their earnest prayer that all who love the Lord, and long for the salvation of the world which He redeemed, may, in their several ways, join with one heart and one soul in the great work of promoting Christian knowledge, that the earth may at last be filled with the knowledge of the glory of the Lord as the waters cover the sea.

The British and Foreign Bible Society's issues during sixty years.

An interesting and remarkable table has been prepared by Dr. R. N. Cust, showing the languages and dialects added to the list of translations by the British and Foreign Bible Society between 1837 and 1897. The number is 196, viz., 23 European, 63 Asiatic, 32 of Oceania, 60 African, and 18 American and West Indian. Among them nearly fifty may be recognized which it is probably safe to say were translated wholly or partly by missionaries of the C.M.S., viz.:—

Gond, Jaunsari, Koi, Malto, Santali, Urdu, Punjabi, Toda (C.E.Z.M.S.), Fuh-chow Colloquial, Kien-ning ditto, Ningpo ditto, Shanghai ditto, Tai-chow ditto, Ainu, Japanese, Chagga, Ganda (Luganda), Giriama, Gogo, Creole, Nyamwezi, Nyika, Sagalla, Sukuma, Mombasa Swahili, Taveta, Hausa, Ibo, Idzo, Igbira, Mende, Nupe, Temne, Yoruba, Tukudh, Haida, Kwagutl, Neshga, Beaver, Blackfoot, Cree, Ojibwa, and Tinné.

In 1837 the B. and F.B.S. issued the Scriptures in 135 versions; in 1897 in 335 versions, and the circulation increased sevenfold during the sixty years. The issues for the year ending March, 1897, amounted to 3,776,133 copies of the Bible, New Testament, and Portions. The National Bible Society of Scotland issued 705,610 Bibles and Portions.

AFRICA.

Impediments to progress of civilization.

GRAVE and numerous are the problems which attend the advance of civilization in Africa; rough and often callous are the instruments which promote it; tardy and incomplete, and not seldom disappointing, is the measure of its success. Among the forces that have to be reckoned with, one of the most formidable is the resistance of the subject races, in whom the effects—deep and well-nigh ineradicable—of national and social disorganization, of cruel customs, of degrading vices and superstitions, render them on the one hand an easy and helpless prey to the nocuous imports of a corrupt civilization, and seemingly incapable on the other hand of intelligently co-operating to insure the success of measures of enlightened policy. Another element which constitutes no small part of the difficulty of the work is the influence of Mohammedanism over the most vigorous and powerful of the African races, rendering them forces which tend to the disintegration, demoralization, and destruction of the non-Moslem tribes. And, thirdly, the jealousies and ambitions of the rival European powers add a further and most anxious factor to the problem, tending, doubtless in some instances, to hasten its solution, but meanwhile creating confusion and unrest in the regions concerned, and raising fears lest the pioneers of a higher civilization should belie their good professions by engaging in internecine strife on the soil which they have undertaken to redeem and before the races which they profess a wish to exalt.

Territorial questions between Great Britain and France.

In the Hinterland of the British colonies of Lagos and the Gold Coast the intrusion of armed parties of French subjects has given rise to great danger of collision during the year under review. The district regarding which disputes have arisen lies between the 9th and 13th parallels of north latitude, and between the Niger River on the east and the eastern frontier of the French colony of Senegal on the west. Great Britain has manifested no desire to interfere with French enterprise in the region to the north of the 13th parallel, viz., a line drawn from Say to Segu, although no international treaty gives effect to French occupation. On the other hand, the 9th parallel represents the outline of the territory between it and the sea which has been strictly delimited by international agreement. The contention of Great Britain has been that the colonies of the coast should each exercise the right to extend their several Hinterlands northward until they should reach the 13th parallel. It is claimed that this principle has been strictly observed by British agents, which have refrained from occupying towns within the Hinterlands of foreign powers. The French, however, while claiming to exercise the rights of Hinterland in a very marked degree for their own colonies, and to bring their Algerian possessions on their theory southward from the Mediterranean to the Say-Barua line, have wished to deny the Hinterland rights of other countries, and to claim the whole of the disputed territory as a legitimate field for lateral extension for their Senegal possessions. Hence British movements northward have been traversed by French movements eastward and southward, with the result that armed parties of the two nations have actually occupied the same town, and in other instances have been separated only by a few miles. French expeditions have burnt down numerous towns claiming British protection in the back country of Lagos. Natives have been armed to rise against chiefs loyal to their British allegiance, and the greater part of Boussa, or Borgu, has become a prey to anarchy. It is greatly to be hoped that the Anglo-French Commission which has met in Paris at intervals since October, 1897, and whose sittings have been protracted, will arrive at an understanding which will both avert the danger of collision in the future, and will be for the welfare of the country concerned.

Niger Protectorate.

The history of the British Protectorate in the Niger territories cannot fail to interest the friends of the Church Missionary Society. At the Berlin Conference, in 1884, Great Britain was recognized as being the only Power on the Lower Niger. In 1885 a British Protectorate was proclaimed up to the confluence of the Niger and Binué, and over a portion of the latter river. In 1887 the Royal Niger Company—which received its Charter the previous year—submitted over 200 treaties, including those with Sokoto and Gando, for approval to the Queen's Government. In 1889 the Lagos frontier on the western side was carried by Anglo-French agreement to the 9th parallel. In 1890 an Anglo-French treaty fixed the Say-Barua line as a northern boundary to the British territory in those regions. Subsequent treaties on the right bank of the Niger established claims which Lord Rosebery, in 1892, declared carried the British sphere to a line falling due south from Say to the 9th parallel. In 1894 Germany was notified of the formation of a British Protectorate over the territory lying east of a line from the Lagos boundary to Say, and on January 1st, 1895, the same notification was made to France.

Liquor duties in West Africa.

Complications in the interior are not the only evils arising from the rivalries of the great European Powers in Africa. Harm is inflicted on the Natives by the absence of a common united policy regarding the importation of spirituous liquors in a still greater degree than by their headlong race for the prior acquisition of territory. The Germans in Togoland and the Cameroons impose duties amounting only to 9¾*d.* per gallon, and in consequence of this the part of the English Gold Coast Colony which is east of the Volta, and the French Colony of Dahomey which adjoins Togoland, reduced their tariff to the same level—an even lower level (6½*d.*) in the case of Dahomey—in order to prevent the loss of revenue through smuggling. The French raise a 3*s.* duty in the Gaboon. The British duties are: Gold Coast west of the Volta, 2*s.* 6*d.*; Sierra Leone, 3*s.*; Lagos, 1*s.*; Niger Coast Protectorate, 1*s.*; Gambia, 2*s.*; Niger Company's Territory, 2*s.*, with total prohibition above latitude 7°. If the consent of Germany were obtained to raise her duties on the small Togoland seaboard only, it might be possible to equalize duties along the whole coast from the Gambia to the northern frontier of the Cameroons, a distance of 2,000 miles along the coast where the traffic is worst. A glance at the sources of the spirit supply is instructive. To the Gold Coast 100,000 gallons are despatched from Great Britain; while 300,000 gallons reach it from Germany, and 650,000 from the United States. Lagos imports 3,000 gallons from England, and 1,600,000 gallons from Germany.

Importance of prompt and concerted action by the Powers

Within the past few years the inter-tribal wars which had kept some of the West Coast tribes, notably those of the Yoruba Country, in a state of perpetual unrest, have been brought to an end; the heavy tolls formerly levied by the various tribes on goods in transit have been abolished; facilities of various kinds for the conveyance of merchandise have been introduced; and now at length the railway is beginning to penetrate through the thin line of coast tribes, and to bring the populous regions of the Hinterlands into direct touch with the ports and through them with the world of commerce. It is a most serious and anxious question, and one which largely depends on a mutual agreement on the part of the Powers, whether the immediate and chief effect of these changes as regards Africa itself is to be a vast increase of the area of distribution of imported liquor, and that in countries where by the Brussels Act England stands pledged to prevent its distribution. Six years expired on April 2nd, 1898, since the Brussels Act was notified to the Powers, and by the terms of that Act the revision of the scale of liquor duties became obligatory on that date; accordingly, the Committee of the C.M.S. presented in that month a petition to the Government appealing to them to make full use of the opportunity provided by the Conference to press forward measures for the further restriction of the traffic, and particularly for the extending so far as may be of prohibitive measures against the introduction of liquor into fresh regions of West Africa. In the view of Colonel Lugard, the chief hope for the future lies humanly speaking in France, Germany, and England coming to an understanding independently of such an international revision. He concluded an able article on the subject in the Nineteenth Century, with the words:—

> Shall we appeal in vain to those two great nations who march in the van of European civilization and progress? With their co-operation all difficulty vanishes. On the other hand, if our appeal be futile, shall we continue to pursue this immoral and commercially suicidal policy from fear of the extra cost of a preventive service on the extreme frontiers of Colonies well able to pay the charge?

The experience of the Royal Niger Company proves that any check to trade, even in the case of sudden and total prohibition, is only temporary. Sir George Goldie, who is honourably distinguished among British administrators on the West Coast for his consistent attitude towards this great evil during an experience of over sixteen years, has testified that after the liquor prohibition north of latitude 7° in the Niger territories came into operation trade soon recovered itself, and was indeed larger and more important than it had been before the prohibition. By the treaty of Ilorin made by Sir George Goldie with the Sultan of that State in February, 1897, the latter engaged to take every step in his power to prevent the introduction of gin and rum from Lagos, and to destroy those spirits when found in the country. And by the same treaty the status of slavery was abolished in Ilorin, as it was also by the treaty of Kosoji with Prince Markum, or Emir Mohammed, Sultan of Bida, in Southern Nupe—i.e., the part of Nupe which is south of the Niger and which passed by that treaty under the direct administration of the Royal Niger Company.

Abolition of status of slavery in Royal Niger Company's territories,

It was mentioned in last year's Annual Report (page 66), that Her Majesty's Government had given instructions for the proclamation of the abolition of the legal status of slavery in the islands of Zanzibar and Pemba. This was done by a decree of the Sultan of Zanzibar on April 6th, 1897. Articles I., II., and V. of that decree are as follows:—

and in the islands of Zanzibar and Pemba.

> Article I.—From and after this 1st day of Zilkada all claims of whatever description made before any Court or public authority in respect of the alleged relations of master and slave shall be referred to the District Court (Mehkemet el Wilaya) within whose jurisdiction they may arise, and shall be cognizable by that Court alone.
> Article II.—From and after this 1st day of Zilkada the District Court shall decline to enforce any alleged rights over the body, service, or property of any person on the ground that such person is a slave, but wherever any person shall claim that he was lawfully possessed of such rights, in accordance with the decrees of our predecessors, before the publication of the present decree, and has now by the application of the said decree been deprived of them, and has suffered loss by such deprivation, then the Court, unless satisfied that the claim is unfounded, shall report to our First Minister that it deems the claimant entitled, in consideration of the loss of such rights and damage resulting therefrom, to such pecuniary compensation as may be a just and reasonable equivalent for their value, and our First Minister shall then award him such sum.
> Article V.—Concubines shall be regarded as inmates of the harem in the same sense as wives, and shall remain in their present relations unless they should demand their dissolution on the ground of cruelty, in which case the District Court shall grant it if the alleged cruelty has been proved to its satisfaction. A concubine not having borne children may be redeemed with the sanction of the Court.

Several points in the decree have been criticized by the friends of the slaves, such as the administration of the Act being committed to Native Courts, presided over by those who cannot be expected to sympathize with the objects of the Act, but who, on the contrary, may be presumed to be in most cases the owners of slaves themselves; and the exemption of concubines from the operation of the Act. Ministers of State have, however, assured the House of Commons that, though the number who have claimed their freedom in Court has been few, larger numbers have taken advantage of the Act to enter into new relations with their masters, receiving wages in compensation for work done; and that care is taken to prevent the abuse to which Clause V. of the Act is especially liable. The Leader of the House of Commons pledged the Government on February 10th, 1898, in the following words:—"We are all at one in our earnest desire to carry out the policy to which both sides of the House have now committed themselves, and the House may rest assured that no measures will be left unattempted by us which may bring this great social reform to a successful issue, without importing into the attempt more than a minimum of the evil which any large social revolution must necessarily entail." Disappointment has been felt that Mombasa and the ten mile strip on the mainland—which are within the Zanzibar Protectorate and the Sultanate of Zanzibar, but in which, unlike Zanzibar itself, the law is administered by British subjects—have not shared with Zanzibar and Pemba the enjoyment of the right of abolition of the status of slavery. It is difficult to realize how such status can claim legality in Courts administered in the Queen's name, and there seems to be considerable difference of opinion as to how it derives effect. High legal authorities have expressed the opinion that in the district in question, the institution of slavery is absolutely illegal. The debates in June, 1897, elicited a promise from the Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs that specific instructions would be sent to Mombasa that proceedings should not in future be taken by the authorities for the restoration of runaway slaves. The same authority stated that slaves effecting their escape beyond the limits of the ten mile strip acquired their freedom, and could not be again claimed as slaves even should they return within those limits. The uncertainty on the subject is, however, a hardship in itself, and the Committee of the C.M.S. presented a petition to the Government in April, 1898, respectfully appealing to them to take into further and early consideration the grave question of the continued bondage of many slaves in the Zanzibar Protectorate, and to take such further action in the matter as may be necessary to bring about the speedy abolition of such bondage.

In the other British Protectorates, stretching from the western limits of the Sultanate to the boundaries of the Congo Free State, slavery has no recognition, and the conditions which have given encouragement to the slave trade are rapidly passing away. The tyranny of such once dominant tribes as the Masai, whose chief occupation was cattle-lifting and raiding, has been broken by a firm and just administration, which has won respect without provoking conflict. The Mombasa-Victoria Railway has doubtless already—though it has only penetrated about 120 miles from the Coast—done something towards this end, by furnishing the more capable and manageable Natives with new and profitable occupations. Some 4,000 Natives of East Africa were engaged on the line in the summer of 1897. The engineer of the line is Mr. G. Whitehouse. The metre gauge has been adopted, under the impression, it is stated, that that gauge had been selected for the Nile Valley line, but in point of fact the 3-ft. 6-in. gauge has been chosen for the latter.

Advance of Sir H. Kitchener on Khartoum.

This country has watched with deep interest the gradual advance by successive stages of Sir H. Kitchener towards Khartoum. Abu Hamed fell before the Egyptian advance in August, 1897, and Berber in September. Kassala, which the Italians wrested from the Dervishes in 1894, was by them handed over to Egypt in December, they having decided, after the disaster of Adowa, to contract their responsibilities in the Soudan; and from Kassala, El Fasher and Osobri, on the Atbara river, were captured by a body of Soudanese irregulars, sent thither by Colonel Parsons within twenty-four hours of his taking over command from the native officers.

The time would seem to be at hand when the Nile Valley, from its source in the Victoria Lake to its delta, will be under the government of either England or of Egypt. The precise boundaries of this region where it touches the Empire of Menelik of Abyssinia, and where further south it adjoins the sphere of influence ascribed to Italy, have probably at present a very imperfect delineation. It was to inspect the frontier territories and to cultivate friendly relations with the tribes, that Major Macdonald was commissioned in the summer of 1897 to undertake an expedition—an expedition which, through the mutiny of a number of its Soudanese constituents, indirectly led to consequences involving the greatest danger to the Uganda Protectorate, as will appear later (see page 116). The same Protectorate was also jeopardized by the mutiny of an expedition under Baron Dhanis, of the Congo Free State.

SIERRA LEONE MISSION.

Africa was the first field entered by the Society. Its first two Missionaries were sent in 1804 to the Susu tribes on the Rio Pongas. In 1816 the Society's efforts were concentrated upon the colony of Sierra Leone, which had, since the abolition of the slave-trade in 1807, become the depôt for Negroes rescued from slave ships by the British cruisers. Much blessing attended the labours of W. A. B. Johnson and other missionaries, and in 1822 nearly 2,000 of the freed slaves, adults and children, were in the Mission Schools, several thousands were attending public worship, and some hundreds had become sincere Christians. The work continued to prosper, but at a great cost of life; fifty-three missionaries and missionaries' wives dying between 1804 and 1824. In 1842 a Parliamentary Committee attributed the "considerable intellectual, moral, and religious improvement" of the people to "the valuable exertions of the Church Missionary Society more especially." Port Lokkoh, in the Temne country, was occupied from 1840–50 and reoccupied in 1875; Ro-Gbera was occupied in 1896; and Sinkunia, in the Yalunka Country, near the boundaries of the British Protectorate, in 1897.

In 1852 the Bishopric of Sierra Leone was founded, and the first three Bishops—Vidal, Weeks, and Bowen (the two latter C.M.S. Missionaries)—died within three years of their consecration. Since them the following have succeeded to the charge of the Diocese: Bishops Beckles (1860–69), Cheetham (1870–81), Ingham (1882–96), Taylor Smith (1897).

In 1862 the Sierra Leone Church was organized on an independent basis, and undertook the support of its own pastors, churches, and schools, aided by a small grant from the Society. In 1876 the Sierra Leone Church Missionary Society was founded, and has since carried on the outlying Missions established by the C.M.S. in the Bullom and Quiah countries. One hundred African clergymen have been ordained on the West Coast (including Yoruba and the Niger). Several of them are Government chaplains.

Bishop Taylor Smith's consecration.

THE consecration of Bishop Taylor Smith to the see of Sierra Leone on Ascension Day (May 27th, 1897) at St. Paul's Cathedral was mentioned in last year's Report. It was the seventh consecration of a bishop to that See, which was founded in 1852, the endowment, to which many of the Society's friends contributed, being vested in the Colonial Bishoprics Endowment Fund. The first three bishops, Vidal, Weeks, and Bowen, all died at their posts within seven years from the consecration of the first. The next two, Beckles and Cheetham, were each permitted to complete an episcopacy of about ten years; and the last, Bishop Ingham, of over fourteen years. Bishops Cheetham and Ingham were two of the prelates who laid their hands on the new bishop; so did also the two African Assistant Bishops, Phillips and Oluwole, who were themselves consecrated at St. Paul's four years earlier, along with the lamented Bishop Hill. So did Bishop Tugwell, of Western Equatorial Africa, Bishop Williams, of Waiapu, and Bishop Royston, formerly of Mauritius. The Archbishop of Canterbury and the Bishop of Ripon were the only two English prelates who took part. As the first alumnus of St. John's Hall, Highbury, raised to the Episcopate, Mr. Taylor Smith selected as the preacher on the occasion the Principal of that college, the Rev. Dr. Waller, whose text was Rom. xv. 18–21. The number of communicants exceeded 300, and among them was Princess Henry of Battenberg, who had travelled all night from Balmoral in order to be present. The Archbishop of Canterbury conferred the Lambeth D.D. degree on the Bishop on June 4th, and the University of Durham conferred on him a like honour on September 25th. On Sunday, June 27th, the Sunday after the Diamond Jubilee Celebration, the Bishop preached before the Queen at Frogmore, and was a guest at Windsor Castle from the Saturday till the following Monday; and again on August 22nd he officiated at Osborne, and was the guest of Her Majesty. He sailed on December 4th, a special farewell service having been held at St. Saviour's Collegiate Church, Southwark, the previous evening, by the permission of the Dean and Chapter; and he arrived in Sierra Leone on January 3rd, and was enthroned in St. George's Cathedral on the 6th.

The Committee noticed with much pleasure that, among the Diamond Jubilee honours, the Knighthood of the Order of St. Michael and St. George was conferred upon His Excellency Colonel Cardew, C.M.G., the Governor of Sierra Leone. The sixty years of Her Majesty's reign have witnessed undoubted improvement in the sanitary condition of the Peninsula, which up to the date of the Queen's accession continued to justify its reputation as the "White Man's Grave." Not only did the missionaries die, but governor after governor succumbed to the climate, among whom was Major Octavius Temple, father of the present Archbishop of Canterbury, who died at Sierra Leone in 1834.

The improvement notwithstanding, the mortality among the missionary staff during the year under review was heavy. The list included two European C.M.S. missionaries, the wives of two native clergymen, four missionaries of the American Soudan Mission labouring in the interior of the Colony, and a Roman Catholic missionary. The Rev. William Spiller Cox, B.A., of Queen's College and Wycliffe Hall, Oxford, joined the Mission in January, 1897, sailing with the Rev. F. Baylis. His missionary course was a very brief one, less than six months. After about three weeks of suffering from fever he was ordered to the Canaries, and sailed on June 10th; he died at sea on June 12th. Of him a friend has truly written:—

Death of Rev. W. S. Cox,

> Ready to die—to give thy life an off'ring
> And sacrifice to God of savour sweet.
> Ready to serve in doing or in suff'ring,
> Because thou'st laid thine all at Jesus' feet.
> For four short months 'mid toil and anxious labour
> Thy light for Jesus shone on Afric's shore,
> And now the call has come to rest for ever,
> Burden and heat shall weary thee no more.

The Rev. Frank S. Allen, who volunteered while a student at Islington College in response to an appeal for labourers for the new work in the interior, and sailed at the beginning of 1896, died on June 20th, 1897, at Port Lokkoh. He was admitted to deacon's orders by Bishop Ingham on February 23rd, 1896, at Freetown, and went soon afterwards to occupy Ro-Gbera, a new station just opened in the Temne country. In June, 1897, he went to Port Lokkoh to undergo his language examination, being apparently in good health when he left Ro-Gbera; he arrived, however, in an exhausted and weak state. He took to his bed, and died a week later, notwithstanding assiduous nursing by Mrs. Alley and Miss Hickmott. Rev. F. S. Allen,

The wife of the Rev. A. A. Elba, B.A., the native clergyman at Makomp, died in April, and the wife of the Rev. G. C. Nicol, M.A., late Colonial Chaplain at Gambia, died in May. Mrs. Elba was an old Annie Walsh School pupil. She was married in December, 1896, and much was hoped from her influence and work at Makomp. Mrs. Nicol was a daughter of Bishop Crowther, and in early life enjoyed a careful training under Bishop and Mrs. Weeks and the Rev. and Mrs. N. Denton, by the latter of whom she was brought to England, and on her return in 1849 became the first native teacher, under Miss Sass, in the Annie Walsh School, or the Female Institution as it was then called. and others.

And yet other deaths have to be recorded, of which the news reaches the Committee as these pages are passing through the press. These were not, however, due to the insalubrious climate, but to acts of violence, the full particulars of which are not yet fully known. It should be first explained that as a sequel to the establishment of a British Protectorate over the Hinterland of the Colony, the Government gave notice during 1897 that a hut tax would be imposed upon the inhabitants from January, 1898. This occasioned great dissatisfaction, and early in the year some of the native chiefs rose in insurrection. The Bishop of Sierra Leone, however, asserts that the real motive for the disturbances was not discontent on account of the hut tax, but the desire to continue the practice of slavery. However that may be, it has been owing to these troubles that the murder of several missionaries, one of the C.M.S. and five of an American Society, have occurred. The first sufferer, nay, rather the gainer, was the Rev. William John Humphrey, the Secretary of the Mission. On March 12th, 1898, he returned to Sierra Leone from a short health-trip he had taken with Mrs. Humphrey to Grand Canary. Concerned for the well-being of the young English and native agents in the stations recently opened in the Hinterland, on account of the disturbances occasioned by the disaffected Natives in the district, he left Freetown on March Murder of Rev. W. J. Humphrey.

15th to visit Ro-Gbera and assure himself that the food supplies were adequate, no apprehension being apparently entertained of serious personal danger. The insurgent chiefs, under the leadership of one named Bai Bureh, with their following, covered the country between Port Lokkoh and Makomp and Ro-Gbera. On March 18th Mr. Humphrey set out from Port Lokkoh with two porters, and arrived within four miles of Makomp. The insurgents refused to let him proceed, and he returned to Port Lokkoh. On March 25th he made a second attempt. After travelling about two hours from Port Lokkoh, his porters were fired on, and ran away. What occurred subsequently has yet to be divulged, except the terrible fact that by some one Mr. Humphrey's life was taken. Mr. Humphrey went to Sierra Leone in 1890; as Principal of Fourah Bay College and Secretary of the Mission he has laboured since then with unsparing devotion, often jeopardizing his health through plodding on when utterly run down, because the weakness of the staff seemed to him to render his stay in the Mission imperative. Bishop Ingham has borne testimony to Mr. Humphrey's "transparent sincerity, unobtrusive humility, charming selflessness, and courage in action." Shortly after the murder of Mr. Humphrey, a massacre of five missionaries belonging to an American Society called the "United Brethren in Christ" took place at Rotifunk, a town to the south-east of Freetown. These were the Rev. and Mrs. J. N. Cain, Miss Schenk, Miss Hatfield, and Miss Archer, the last-named being herself of African blood.

Reinforcement.

The Rev. Harry Castle, of Islington College, who was admitted to deacon's orders on December 19th, 1897, by the Bishop of London, was the only reinforcement sent out for this Mission. He sailed in January, 1898. The Rev. C. G. Hensley, however, who sailed in September for the Niger Mission, received instructions to remain for a season in Sierra Leone, and he rendered valuable help at the Temne stations. Miss A. J. Edwards and Miss S. Hickmott returned to the Mission in May, 1897 (but the former was invalided home again in December, and was transferred on grounds of health to the British Columbia Mission), Mrs. W. J. Humphrey in July, and Miss C. J. Elwin in September; Miss A. Long came home invalided in June, and Miss H. Bisset in August, the former returning again to the Mission in January, 1898, and the latter in March.

Jamaica Committee for selection of candidates.

A Committee has been formed in Jamaica for the selection of candidates, and to supervise their training, with the view to service in West Africa. It is an interesting fact that the College in that island which is now the property of the Lady Mico Trustees, was originally opened by the C.M.S., and was handed over to the Lady Mico Trustees when the Society retired from its work in Jamaica. It will be remembered that those Trustees generously offered (see Annual Report for 1895–96, page 66) to give a free education to a certain number of young men of African descent who might be selected by the Society's representatives. Both the Committee and the Trustees had forgotten the history of the institution when the offer was made and gratefully accepted in 1895.

SIERRA LEONE.

Fourah Bay College.

Fourah Bay College being affiliated with Durham University prepares men to take the B.A. Degree, and also the License in Theology. One student passed the latter examination in June, 1897. There are also students qualifying to become schoolmasters, and short course men. A valedictory dismissal was held in the Annie Walsh School for twelve of the last named in November, who were going to the Temne Country. Several Temne chiefs from the interior who happened to be in Freetown were present by invitation, and appeared impressed, Canon S. Spain says, with the large gathering of persons interested in the spiritual welfare of their countrymen. One of them addressed the meeting. The clerical staff of the College undertake the pastoral and evangelistic ministrations connected with St. Stephen's parish, Cline Town. The female members of this congregation have formed a "Gospel Fellowship Association" and a "Christian Union Band," the aim of both being, apparently, to influence the heathen Temne women in the district. Two women were baptized on Easter Day, 1897. The Sunday-school has an average attendance of ninety-six; the boys' classes are taught by several of the college students. The children of this school and of the Mohammedan school, also under the College staff, joined in a procession with banners and flags on the Queen's Diamond Jubilee Day, and received words of commendation from the Administrator.

Grammar School.

The Grammar School had in September 160 pupils, of whom 84 were boarders; a good number of the latter are from homes in Freetown. Six of the pupils went forward to Fourah Bay College, three with C.M.S. Scholarships; and one schoolmaster-student went to take charge of an elementary school. One lad, aged sixteen, the son of a chief at Bonny, on the Niger, and whose mother is a convert from Heathenism, was baptized. Three of the elder pupils passed an examination after a course of ambulance lectures in connexion with St. John's Ambulance Association. The native Principal of the School undertook temporarily in addition the general pastoral supervision of the parish of Wilberforce.

Annie Walsh School.

The Annie Walsh School suffered much from vacancies in its staff of native teachers, due to marriage and other causes, and from changes owing to ill-health among the European ladies. Miss Edwards, upon her return from furlough, rendered help in this emergency, and Miss C. C. Boyton, of the Lagos Girls' Seminary, took temporary charge during Miss Bisset's furlough. The monitress-pupils also rendered excellent service.

The Rev. Dr. A. T. Pierson's book, Seven Years in Sierra Leone, has drawn the attention of the Church of Christ to the remarkable spiritual blessing which was vouchsafed in the Peninsula of Sierra Leone some eighty years ago under the ministry of the Rev. W. A. B. Johnson. Dr. Pierson declares that "after a score of years of research into missionary history and biography he regards the story of Johnson's labours as the most remarkable story of seven years of missionary labour that he has ever read." May God grant that the day may come soon when such signs of the Holy Spirit's presence and power may be manifested again! The Report of the Thirty-fifth Anniversary of the Sierra Leone Pastorate Auxiliary, which was held in May, 1897, gives the Native Christians as 8,758 in number, and the communicants 5,567, both considerably fewer than the year before. There were 2,871 scholars in twenty-eight schools. The contributions to the Auxiliary Fund were the same as the year before, £2,100, but the expenditure was considerably greater—viz., £2,328. Over and above their remittances to the Fund of the Pastorate Auxiliary, each congregation contributed for other purposes—the total sum being £4,517. The statistics for 1897 have not been received from the Mission, owing doubtless to the sad succession of deaths which have been enumerated, and which specially affected the work of the secretariat.

Native Church.

TEMNE COUNTRY.

The late Rev. W. J. Humphrey, accompanied by the late Rev. W. S. Cox, made a tour in the Temne Country in March, 1897, spending three weeks in visiting the stations and holding services and Bible-readings. They were much encouraged by what they saw of the agents' zeal in itinerating, and their hopefulness of success. The Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Alley received a very hearty welcome on their return to PORT LOKKOH after furlough in November, 1896. The average attendances of Sierra Leoneans at the English service was sixty-seven, and of Temnes at the Vernacular service forty-six. Mr. Alley notices a more intelligent interest on the part of the Temnes who attend classes than is observable in the Sierra Leoneans. He and his native ordained fellow worker, the Rev. A. A. Elba, visited the compounds and conversed with nearly all the people; they found those professing Mohammedanism with few exceptions understood nothing of the prayers they regularly used. There was much sickness among the Natives, and Miss S. Hickmott had many eager applicants for medicine, some from a considerable distance. In his Annual Letter, written in November, Mr. Alley mentioned the discontent which the chiefs and people were manifesting at the announcement that from January, 1898, a hut tax would be imposed, while many of the Sierra Leoneans had returned to the coast in consequence of a £2 license having been laid on those engaging in trade. A few weeks later troops were sent up to quell the insurrection; and an engagement took place at Port Lokkoh at the beginning of March, 1898. For some months before the outbreak of the insurrection, the apprehensions of the people in this district prejudiced their minds against the missionaries, whom they naturally regarded as connected more or less with the Government. At Karene, about twenty-six miles from Port Lokkoh, where Mr. Elba, with two young recruits from Fourah Bay College, opened an out-station in November, this feeling of suspicion was very manifest. The chief, however, Bruema Sanda, notwithstanding that he is a Mohammedan, gave them a hearty welcome. The other chief out-stations are Makori, Makomp, and Magbankitta. The occupation of Ro-GBERA, by Mr. T. Caldwell in October, 1896, was mentioned last year. He was joined a fortnight later by five short-course men from Sierra Leone. Writing at the end of 1897 he reported, with much thankfulness, that although the novelty of having a white man "sitting down" amongst them had long worn off, the attendance at the Sunday services showed no abatement of interest, the average being about forty in the morning and 100 in the evening. The Gospel was also preached in some eighty villages, and Mr. Caldwell wrote:—

Port Lokkoh.

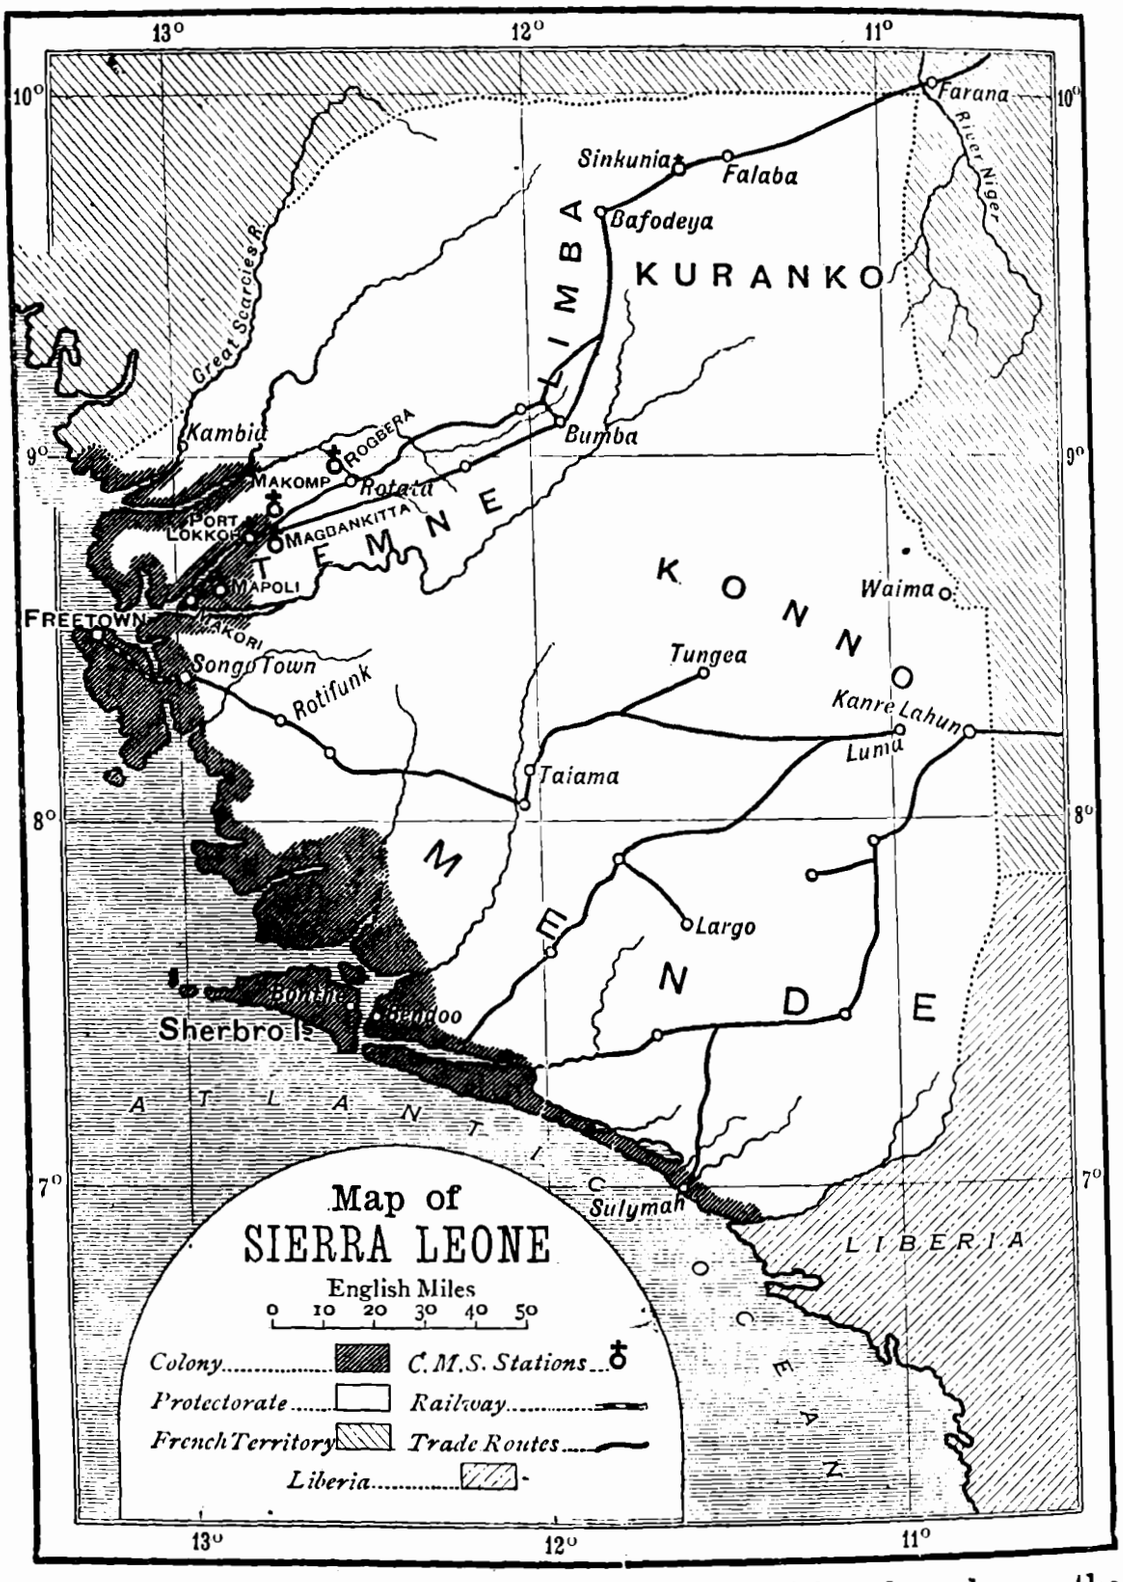
Ro-Gbera.

Old men attempting to lisp the name of Jesus Christ.



In the majority of these villages the Gospel had never been preached before, and our hearts were often saddened by hearing old, grey-haired men attempting to lisp the name of Jesus Christ. On more than one occasion we have been asked, if God loved them as we say He did, why did He not send the message before? If we may judge from externals this branch of our work is encouraging, because we have been, up to the present, gladly received and listened to attentively by the people. That they take an interest in what is said there can be no doubt, as we are often asked such questions as, "How can we repent?" "What do you want us to do?" "How are we to hold God's law?" When we finish the head-man usually thanks us, tells us he is glad to see us, and often asks us to come back again.

Mr. Caldwell expresses surprise at the intelligent questions which the people often put to him, and the children show a real anxiety to learn. The death of Mr. Allen was felt by him as a keen disappointment, but he is able to say, "He doeth all things well."

YALUNKA COUNTRY.

Mr. T. E. Alvarez, accompanied by two short-course students, Algernon Thomas and Samuel Marsh, left Freetown, after a Sinkunia. valedictory meeting and the Communion service, on March 5th, 1897, and arrived at SINKUNIA on the 25th. The distance is 210 miles. The first forty miles, as far as Port Lokkoh, are accomplished by water, but for the last 170 miles the mode of travelling is the same as that in East Africa has been, the goods having to be carried on men's heads. Mr. Alvarez thus describes the town, and refers to its recent history :—

Sinkunia is a fine old town, surrounded with a belt of magnificent cotton trees, higher than our English oaks, which give it a most imposing appearance. It is really situated on an island, as we are surrounded by water, the river Mongo on one side being some 120 feet wide and full of alligators. Some five years ago the Sofas raided this country, and a great number of the Yalunkas (who speak a dialect of Susu) were killed or enslaved. Now, however, that this country is part of the British Protectorate, and native troops are stationed at Falaba (eighteen miles from here) under the command of an English officer, confidence is restored, and many of the old towns which were destroyed are being rebuilt. The town proper lies on a slope some sixty to eighty feet above the river, with open level ground extending from a quarter to half a mile to the water-side in every direction, and just beyond the river and streams are hills varying from 400 to 1,000 feet above the river-level. Altogether the situation is a very pleasant one, and I am hoping that it will prove healthy too, as for some time, at any rate, I shall be the only European here.

The residences of the party through the remainder of the year were four country huts, each about twelve feet in diameter, without windows, and therefore dark, but water-tight. The chief, Yenuba Modi, like the one at Karene, professes himself a Mohammedan, but knows little about that religion; many of his people also make a profession of faith in Islam. Both chief and people accorded Mr. Alvarez and his companions a hearty welcome, though the chief subsequently, for a short time, prohibited public preaching. The children are described as "most affectionate little people, who love to pay us visits, morning, noon, and night, often bringing us little tit-bits of food, the giving of which means some self-denial at times." Soon after his arrival, Mr. Alvarez made a hurried journey round the district, holding interviews with the different chiefs. He went to the boundaries of the Protectorate, and within thirty miles of the Niger river; for three days he travelled alongside the French "boundary pillars." Everywhere the chiefs gave him a welcome. Fetish worship exists among them, but the main influences are Mohammedan; a sad testimony, when the terms of the report of the Government expedition sent to Falaba and Timbo in 1871 are recalled. Mr. Blyden, who drew up that report, took credit for the fact that through his diplomacy the Mohammedanizing of Falaba, which "years of hostile enterprises could not have accomplished, was likely to be brought about through the pacific and ordinary channels of political and commercial relations." When such a policy could be aimed at by Government agents, and avowed in a Government report, "published by authority," it is not to be surprised at that boundaries should have been permitted to limit the extent of British influence in this district. Regarding his two fellow-workers, Mr. Alvarez writes:—

As it was felt, owing to the distance—Falaba is some 230 miles from Freetown and about 170 beyond our nearest C.M.S. station—and the fact that the nature of the country, food-supply, &c., was to a great extent unknown, that the new work was one which called for men with a pioneer spirit and physical strength and energy, it was decided to ask for volunteers from the thirteen short-course students in the College, and trust to God to point us to those whom He had chosen for His work. In some measure it was a venture of faith: we all knew that the prospect of a life 230 miles from home among a strange people meant much more to our African brethren than coming to Africa from England meant to us; and as all our students value greatly their time of training at the College, it needed some self-denial too to give up the last six months of their course. God did not disappoint us—no less than six of the thirteen responded to the appeal; and of these the first two were just those whom—if one had wished to choose—one would have chosen. How we rejoiced at this answer to our prayers, and that the witness of our hearts tallied with the leading of God's Spirit!

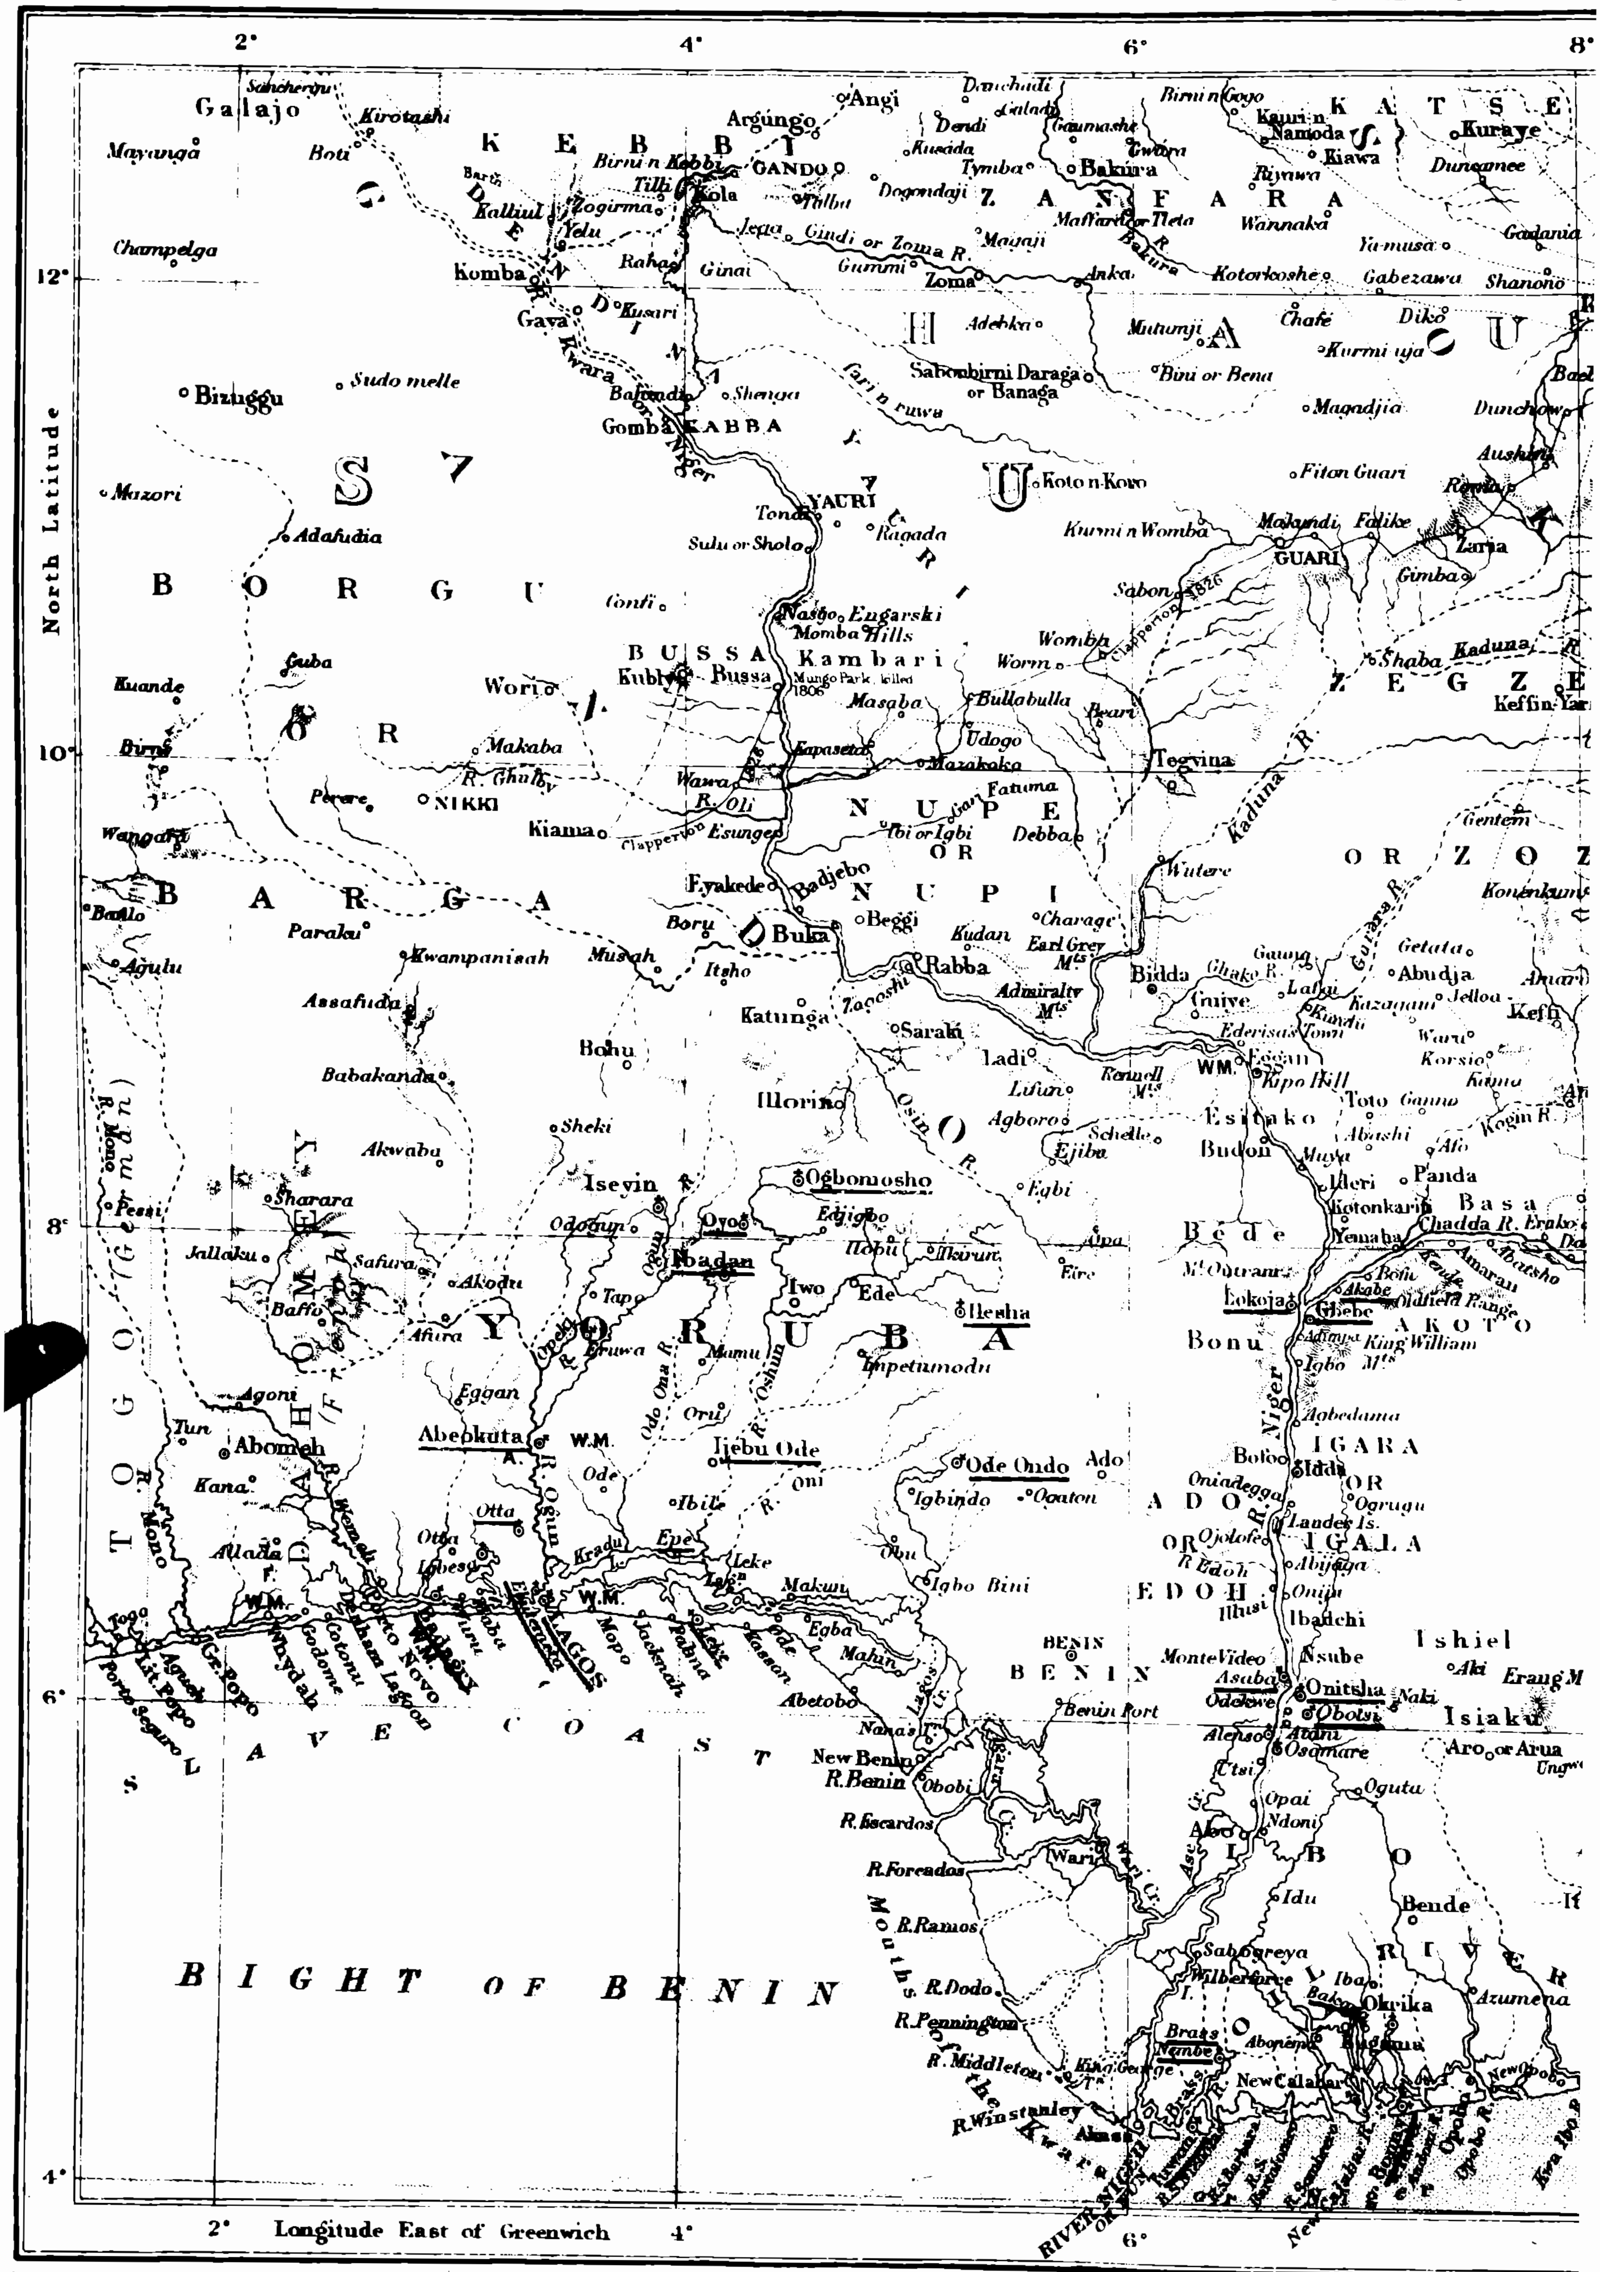
"Helpers in the war."

Both of these two, whom the Finance Committee selected to be my "helpers in the war," had learnt a trade: A. Thomas had completed his time as a shoemaker, and S. Marsh had but three months to run of his apprenticeship as a carpenter, when he came to us for training. We have now been more than nine months in harness together, and their faith has never wavered; they have proved that their zeal has been stirred of God, and was not an impulse of the moment: they have been tried in many ways, and the test has left them stronger and more determined than ever to preach the everlasting Gospel to these people.



In November, two additional native helpers were sent up, and Mr. Alvarez sent two of them, A. Thomas and N. Wilkinson (one of the new agents), in December to commence work at Falaba.

C.M.S. Report, Pl. 2.

Stanford's Geographical Estabt London.

catechist in 1857. In the following year, however, he returned home and entered Islington College, of which, meanwhile, Mr. Green had become principal. He was ordained in 1860 by the Archbishop of Canterbury, and then returned to Abeokuta. In the course of his forty years of service he held various posts in the Mission, among them the Principalship of the Training Institution (where he had as students for a time Bishop Oluwole and several others of the leading native clergy who survive him), and the Secretaryship; and his exemplary devotion to duty and almost unique degree of self-effacement gradually won for him a position of peculiar influence among the Yoruba people. Heathen, Mohammedans, and Christians alike held him in great respect. During the time of anxiety regarding the Niger Mission, he visited that river and sent a report home, which brought upon him much unpopularity for awhile, but he outlived all such feelings. Mr. E. Fry gave the following account of the funeral:—

Funeral. The funeral took place on May 25th at 3.45 p.m. It was the desire of the Christians and pastors to bury him in the churchyard, but as it was his own special request to be buried with his fellow-Christians in the cemetery they had to give way to his wishes. The funeral was arranged entirely by the five native pastors of Abeokuta, and was all that we could have wished for, quiet, orderly, and very simple, but as they said afterwards, "Its like had never been seen in Abeokuta before." The school-children led in procession, singing sweetly and softly. Each of the pastors took part in the service, which was as follows:—From the house: hymn, "We shall meet," &c.; opening sentences, the Rev. S. Doherty, of Igbore; Psalms, the Rev. D. O. Williams, of Ake; lesson, the Rev. J. A. Lahanmi, of Ikeruku; sermon (2 Tim. iv. 5, 6), the Rev. D. Williams, of Ikija; hymn, "Days and moments." Hymn on the way to the cemetery, "We shall sleep, but not for ever"; sentences, the Rev. E. W. George; committal, the Rev. D. Williams; responses, the Rev. D. O. Williams; prayers, the Rev. J. A. Lahanmi; hymn, "Hush! blessed are the dead"; the Grace, the Rev. D. Williams. On the way home the children sang, "Here we suffer grief and pain," and when they reached the compound the Rev. D. O. Williams addressed them briefly.

Mrs. Wood, the Misses Hudson and Duncum, Mr. Gifford, of the Wesleyan Mission, and myself were the only Europeans present, but there were some seven or eight hundred people in the church, and about twelve hundred at the graveside, and yet, in spite of the native customs of wailing and making noises, great consideration was shown and not a sound was heard.

Mr. Fry added:—

It is needless for me to say how Mr. Wood was respected and esteemed. The letters of sympathy from the Governor of Lagos and the other Missions (Roman Catholic, Wesleyan, and Baptist), journeys of two and three days made by the Native Christians and others, all show how far his influence extended and the respect paid to him, and yet he never shrank from speaking plainly, no matter who it was, and very often he had to do so. Of all men he was the most humble-minded I ever met, and I think the most considerate.

Death of Mrs. J. McKay. Another European labourer was also removed by death. Mrs. McKay, who went out to the Mission in 1893 as Miss Agnes Jane Hudson, and was married in July, 1897, to Mr. J. McKay, died from malarial fever at Ibadan on March 27th, 1898.

Reinforcements.

Mrs. Wood, whose honoured father, Canon Green, as already mentioned, had the privilege of training Mr. Wood for his future work, came home in August, 1897, and after a brief furlough offered to return to the Mission as an honorary missionary, which she did in November, and arrived at Abeokuta on December 24th. The Rev. Frederick Godfrey Toase, who laboured in the Mission from 1892 till 1896, when he retired on grounds of health, was enabled with Mrs. Toase to offer their services again, and sailed at the same time as Mrs. Wood. Mr. Herbert Francis Gane, a short-course student at Islington College, sailed to join the staff of this Mission in September with Bishop Tugwell. Miss J. J. Thomas and Miss J. Palmer returned to the Mission in October; and Miss H. J. Duncum, who came home in August, 1897, returned to the Mission in February, 1898. On the other hand, Miss C. C. Boyton, after assisting, as already mentioned under the "Sierra Leone Mission," for a few months at the Annie Walsh School, Sierra Leone, came home in February, 1898. In July, 1897, Mr. E. Fry was married to Miss P. Leach, of this Mission. The Rev. S. S. Farrow has resigned his connexion with the Society on medical grounds.

A number of Native Christians at Accra sent a petition to the Committee, dated August, 1897, inviting the Society to establish a Mission there as a base of operations in the Gold Coast Protectorate; but the Committee were unable to accede to the request, seeing that other missionary societies have for many years been in possession of that field.

LAGOS.

Lagos.

At Lagos, the Rev. T. Harding had charge of Christ Church, Faji, throughout 1897. The congregation somewhat decreased, and, so far as the native members were concerned, if they attended instead at a Yoruba service it is not a matter for regret, as Mr. Harding states that many who are in the habit of going to Christ Church are not able very intelligently to follow the English prayers and hymns and sermon. The spiritual condition of the congregation leaves much to be desired, and this is evidenced by small attendances at the week-day meetings. Some encouragement was experienced by Mrs. Harding in her Bible-classes for married women and for girls, and her visits at their homes were much appreciated by the women. Thirty-six young men of ages from sixteen to twenty-five, and two young women, were confirmed by Bishop Phillips in November, and their preparation was Mr. Harding's happiest work of the year. The subscriptions of the people for various objects diminished somewhat, many even of the communicants giving nothing. Trade was depressed in Lagos, but Mr. Harding considers that the young men are more worldly than their fathers were, and spend more on fine clothes, on enjoyments, and, alas, on their sins. On the Queen's Diamond Jubilee, when there were of course special services in all the churches of Lagos, the Governor (who is a regular attendant at the church) and Council went to Christ Church in state; Mr. Harding's text was from Proverbs xxxi. 29, 30. The day school connected with Christ Church passed 80 per cent. at the Government Inspector's Examination.

Training institution.

Assistance was rendered to Mr. Harding in the Sunday services by the Rev. A. W. Howells, the Acting Principal of the Training Institution. There were nineteen students in the autumn of 1896, six of whom left the following Easter to take up work as teachers in the Mission. The number of pupils at the Grammar School, under Mr. Fanimokum, fluctuated between sixty-two and 108. Eleven received certificates in the College of Preceptors' Examination, two in the first class. A visit of His Excellency Governor McCallum, though he remarked adversely on the great inadequacy of the teaching staff, was a great encouragement to the school. Dr. C. F. Harford-Battersby on his return journey from the Niger Mission (to be noticed later) addressed the boys. In the Girls' Seminary Miss E. Ballson, the lady principal, had Miss C. C. Boyton as a fellow labourer until July, 1897, when the latter was summoned to Sierra Leone, and Miss S. C. Grover took her place. The average attendance of girls was seventy-seven, and the number of boarders twelve. The effects of the school influence are much more manifest in the boarders than the day girls, and several of these girls give great encouragement. For the most part they come from the interior, but latterly some have come from different places on the coast. A Branch of the Sowers' Band in the Institution has twenty-four members.

Girls' Seminary.

Badagry.

Some improvement is observed in the congregation at Badagry, the oldest in the Mission. They are more regular in attendance at the services and classes, and Mr. Ajayi, the lay pastoral agent, notices with satisfaction that when market days fall on the Sunday the congregations are usually larger; on the other hand, on the days when the class fees are collected, the class meetings have a smaller attendance. Nevertheless, it must be said that the contributions were higher than for many years, making a total of £84. Four adults were baptized. The members are mostly Yoruba speaking; none of the aboriginal Popos are ever found in church, but they listen readily, as a rule, to preaching in the open air. Ajarra, a place marked on the map as in the French Dahomey Protectorate, was once visited, and was found to be "full of idols," one in every home and at every compound gate. The chief showed an old flint gun, covered with feathers and smeared with blood, as his god Ogun, the god of war. A new church was built at Leckie, which is fifty miles from Lagos eastward, about the same distance as Badagry is westward. This place was started as a refuge for slaves, and as it is on a belt of sand the people have to go to the mainland—three or even six hours' journey—to the farms which they cultivate. Mr. Harding anticipates that the place will inevitably be abandoned ere long.

An old flint gun used as an idol.

The churches other than Christ Church in the island of Lagos are St. Paul's, Breadfruit; St. Peter's, Faji; Araloya; and Holy Trinity, Ebute Ero—the work in which, including the pay of the nine pastors and thirty lay agents, is supported by the Native Church Pastorate Fund. The parish of Breadfruit, under the Rev. James Johnson, has over 1,400 Christians, of whom nearly 500 are communicants. About £1,000 is contributed by this congregation to the different branches of Church work.

IJEBU COUNTRY.

The IJEBU COUNTRY has been adopted by the Lagos Church Missionary Society as its sphere of work, receiving some help, however, from the funds of the Society. The Rev. R. A. Coker, whose services are lent for a time by the Society to the Lagos Church Missions, took up his residence at Iwade, a township of IJEBU ODE, in August, 1896, and he had the great sorrow, a year later, of losing his wife. Three lay agents had previously been stationed at Iwade, but they had left before Mr. Coker arrived. The king and chiefs at first manifested decided hostility, but their friendship was won by degrees, the "Christian humility, courtesy, and propriety of manners," which Mr. Coker inculcated in the little community of Christians overcoming their opposition. The people are described as ambitious, and very impatient to attain an end on which they have set their hearts. They appreciate the advantages of civilization, but cannot brook the delay in acquiring the art of reading, carpentering, shoemaking, tailoring, &c. They are intelligent and learn quickly. One man, observing a Christian neighbour in the act of reading, wished to learn at once, and being put off till the following day, expressed a fear that his friend would meanwhile consume all the books! He was able to read the Bible within a month, and was subsequently baptized. Some 600 copies of the Scriptures were sold during the year, and the reading of God's Word is the chief cause to which Mr. Coker ascribes the large accessions. The number of adults baptized in the district was 145, and of children 69; while there are some 1,600 adherents. The first confirmation took place in March, 1897, when forty-nine from Iwade and seven from Iporogun were confirmed. Of the adults baptized, 110 belonged to Iwade. Mr. Coker says that most of those baptized can read intelligently, and understand the Church Catechism. Two hundred children are under instruction in the day school, and a number of adults attended, until forbidden to do so by Mr. Coker, who found they monopolized the teachers' time.

Senior pupils and calisthenics.

It was amusing, he says, to see these seniors joining in the calisthenic exercises with the children. When requested not to do so, they begged not to be denied the benefit of any means which might infuse knowledge into their minds! Some forty of the Christians engage voluntarily in preaching in the neighbouring villages, in upwards of thirty of which there are readers and inquirers. Only three besides Iwade are occupied by a resident agent. Iporogun, another Ijebu Ode township, has a catechist and schoolmaster, and a congregation of over 100; Isoyin has a catechist, and a congregation of over 300; Esure has an evangelist and a congregation of 300. Other places call loudly for resident teachers. Ojowo, at Ijebu Igbo, where the adherents number 400; Ago with 200; Okun, over 200; and others. Mr. Coker concludes his Annual Letter with a request for prayer:—

> May I crave your prayers for myself and co-workers, that we may be drawn closer to God, and be fed by Him with the spirit of humility and holiness, that we may be fit teachers of these people, who look up to us for everything good? And we desire also your prayers for the Christian catechumens and inquirers, that they may continue in their first love, walking always in the full light of the Gospel, as well as for the whole nation, that they be brought to the foot of the Cross.

ABEOKUTA.

Abeokuta.

The town of ABEOKUTA has some 150,000 inhabitants. The European missionaries there are Mr. and Mrs. E. Fry, Mrs. Wood, and Miss H. J. Duncum. Mr. Fry does not think there is much bitter feeling in the minds of the population generally towards Christianity, but they are for the most part careless and indifferent. Drunkenness is terribly prevalent. The advent of a large number of Hausas and Nupes to the town has given an advantage to Mohammedanism, which Mr. Fry says is rapidly spreading. The bulk of the work, both pastoral and evangelistic, is in the hands of the six ordained and twenty-eight lay agents of the Native Church Council. The Rev. D. Williams is at Ikija, which was the third station taken up within the walls of Abeokuta. Since 1867 it has shown few signs of life and energy, and its numbers have actually diminished. A few new attendants are reported, among them two heathen chiefs, but polygamy as yet has proved an insuperable hindrance with one of them. The Ake congregation have formed the rather ambitious resolve to have a new church, which is estimated to cost £1,500, and this notwithstanding hard times; for, as the Rev. D. O. Williams explains, during the transition from slave-labour to free-labour, trade is almost at a standstill in Abeokuta. The hope is entertained of receiving substantial help from outside, and especially from Lagos. The Rev. E. W. George took the pastoral charge of Iporo in the spring of 1897. The congregation had not had a resident pastor for some years, and he found much needing to be reformed, but he is encouraged by the response of the people to his efforts. The foundation of a new church for the Ikeruku pastorate was laid in September, 1897. This congregation, the Rev. J. A. Lahanmi reports, is showing increased missionary fervour. After the Sunday afternoon's service the whole congregation divides itself into bands and disperses to preach the Gospel. It is very long since one of the principal chiefs of Abeokuta was baptized, but in September the Odofin of Ikija confessed Christ as his Saviour, "showing every sign of true conversion." The Igbore congregation has an average attendance of 320; and the class meetings, notwithstanding that most of the members are scattered during the week at the distant farmsteads, are well attended. Twenty-four adults were baptized during the year. The Rev. S. Doherty mentions the death of two of the early converts of nearly fifty years ago. One was a man who suffered from the early persecutions, and afterwards was employed as a reader; latterly he had been Mr. Doherty's "right-hand man and adviser," remarkable for intelligence and exemplary for straightforwardness. The other was a woman named Levena, who had learned to read the English Bible before the Yoruba version existed. She is described as full of faith to the end. The schools of the pastorate excite the interest of the people generally. At one of the examinations the head chief of Igbore and the head war chief were present, and some of the children recited the early history of the Egbas before Abeokuta was built. Mr. Doherty says the people are really tired of their old customs and worship, but he does not say that they are weary of sin or willing to be delivered from its power.

Deaths of old converts.

One of the last letters written to the Committee by the late Rev. J. B. Wood gave an account of the first dismissal meeting held by the Abeokuta Church Missions on April 22nd, 1897, when eleven men were taken leave of, one to be lent to the Lagos Church Missions Committee. The work at the farm stations beyond the walls of Abeokuta is supported by the Native Church. The Rev. J. J. Ransome-Kiti, who ministers under the supervision of Mr. Doherty to the farm congregations, says that the most prominent feature of the year 1897 was the zeal manifested by the leading Christians in co-operating with himself in opposing the vices of drunkenness and immorality. He writes:—

Measures against intemperance.

> We feel we must take steps to stop drink among our members. Whilst our dear Bishop Tugwell with his assistants, together with a host of the lovers of Africa in England, are lifting up their voices on platforms and in papers against pouring this "fire-water" into Africa as trade stuffs by European traders, and whilst some of our governors will oppose its suppression and stoppage on account of the revenue, we Native Christians, on whose country's account this war has been waged, have felt that, whilst we have no power to stop its importation into our land, we have power to stop its being drunk among ourselves.

Activity in church building.

There is a loud call from many of these farm hamlets for teachers, and several of them have made good progress in providing places of worship, the Heathen themselves having given help in some cases. For example, at Oba and Iro the walls have been built; at Sunren, the materials are being collected; at Ofada, the land has been secured; and at Tigbo, which has no agent, a building accommodating 120 has been erected. At this last named place, Tigbo, a Mohammedan, after comparing the Koran and the New Testament, and more especially the character and works of Mohammed and of Christ, declared himself a Christian. Twenty-three adults were baptized at these farm stations during the year. Twenty-five adults were baptized at Isan. The Christians at Igbo Itoku and those at Adawo (on the way to Ibadan) have erected churches.

IBADAN, OYO, AND OGBOMOSO.

Ibadan.

At the beginning of 1897, the Europeans at IBADAN were Miss J. J. Thomas, Miss P. Leach, and Miss S. C. Grover. In the course of January, the first left to take a much-needed furlough; in July, the second left to be married at Lagos to Mr. Fry of Abeokuta; and in August, Miss Grover was summoned to Lagos to assist at the Girls' Seminary. Mr. and Mrs. J. McKay took up their abode in Ibadan after their marriage in July, and there Mrs. McKay, as already mentioned, died in March, 1898. The Rev. T. Harding paid a visit to Ibadan from Lagos in March and April, 1897.

The ladies resided in the township of Kudeti, where they strengthened the hands of the veteran native pastor, the Rev. D. Olubi, by holding mothers' meetings, visiting the schools, conducting classes in the Sunday school, holding open-air services (together with the Christian women of the congregation) to reach the heathen women, and visiting the Heathen in their homes. The late Mrs. McKay after her arrival conducted a sewing meeting, and taught the women and girls who attended the dispensary over which her husband presided.

Spread of Mohammedanism.

Mr. McKay remarks on the large increase in the proportion of Mohammedan patients as compared with that in 1895, and he regards it as simply an evidence of the fact that Mohammedanism is spreading rapidly in nearly all the towns of the Yoruba Country. The death of an aged Scripture-reader, the oldest lay agent in the Mission, occurred at Kudeti, in September. His history was a remarkable one. When young he was kidnapped and sold more than once, and was shipped to America. From there he made his way to Sierra Leone; thence he returned to the Yoruba Country as a trader, having meanwhile embraced the faith of Christ, and was employed by Mr. Hinderer in the Mission in 1859. For many years he laboured at Oyo, and then was transferred back to Ibadan. On April 12th, 1897, the three congregations at Ibadan, viz., those at Kudeti, Aremo, and Ogunpa, united to hold a missionary prayer meeting and to inaugurate a special local effort in connexion with the Three Years' Enterprise. It was decided to endeavour to procure glebe lands for all the churches, and to make preparation for undertaking the entire support of one of the pastors by 1899. The congregation at Aremo, under the Rev. J. Okuseinde, numbers 270 souls, and the communicants 106. A decided improvement is reported in their liberality, especially in their subscriptions towards the Native Pastorate Fund and the British and Foreign Bible Society. Some of these were paid in at a time when much sickness and scarcity prevailed. In the case of some of the sufferers, Mr. Okuseinde considerately refrained from applying for their usual contributions, but from two of them double the amount sent the year before was received, with a message to the following effect: "Sir, why have you acted thus with us? we, though truly suffering, are not yet dead, and would rather starve and die than not contribute our share to our Father's work." Four adults were baptized on Whit Sunday, 1897; one being an aged man who had long been opposed to Christianity. Evangelistic bands, consisting respectively of elderly women, girls, and young men, visit the compounds of the Heathen to witness for their Saviour; and the hamlets in the vicinity of their farms are often visited by the more zealous members, with the result that several Heathen from these places have come into Ibadan for the Sunday worship.

Two new stations within the walls of Ibadan, making five altogether, were occupied during 1897, viz., Yemetu and Inolende, each about an hour distant from Kudeti. At the former a church was opened on August 16th. A son of the late king of the Yoruba Country resides there, and Miss Grover obtained permission to visit his wives, who gave her a most friendly welcome, and listened earnestly to her message. Subsequently the Mohammedan priests intervened, and the women were less accessible. Preparation was also made to occupy Apomu, a town of some 3,000 inhabitants, several hours' walk to the north-east of Ibadan, as a new outstation to be supported by the Native Church. Mr. Harding and Mr. Okuseinde went there together in the spring of 1897, and were permitted by the chiefs to select a piece of land. The agent for this place was at one time a Heathen, then he became a slave and embraced Mohammedanism; after redeeming himself from slavery, he became a Christian. He can speak Hausa and Arabic as well as his native Yoruba tongue. Between Ibadan and Oyo is Ijaye, where the Society formerly had a station, and where the late Rev. E. Roper was taken prisoner in 1864 by the Ibadans, and had to be redeemed by Mr. Hinderer. Mr. Harding found in passing through the town (he spent a night there) in the spring of 1897 a number of Christian Natives of the town who had lately returned to it, and they had built a shed for public worship. The land on which the Mission-house formerly stood was well known, and the people promised to reserve it for the same use again should it be needed.

Training Institution.

The Rev. and Mrs. F. Melville Jones had the pleasure of entering into occupation of the new buildings of the Training Institution at Oyo in April, 1897. They were erected under Mr. McKay's supervision, and consist of Principal's house, with classrooms and schoolroom attached; two blocks of students' rooms to accommodate twenty boys; tutor's house, kitchens, &c. After the appointment of a native tutor, a new class was formed, making seventeen students altogether. These students wash, iron, and mend their own clothes, make their bookcases, and plant the yams on the ground which they have fenced. They assisted in building a new church (a T.Y.E. effort) at Awe, a village on the outskirts of the town, and after it was opened assisted in the services and taught in the school. They take part three times a week in street-preaching, and visit the neighbouring villages. The man at Akimorin, who gave promise of becoming a convert, as mentioned last year (page 81) has not advanced, fear of his fellow townsmen being his hindrance. Miss J. J. Thomas and Miss J. Palmer arrived at Oyo in December after furlough. A small school-chapel has been built at Isehin, which Mr. Harding opened on the Thursday of Passion Week, 1897, the King and Bashorun of the town both being present. It is built on the site of an old idol grove.

A church was opened at Ogbomoso in November. Three adults were baptized by the Rev. F. L. Akiele, the native pastor. The Rev. F. G. and Mrs. Toase arrived at Ogbomoso in January, 1898.

Call for extension.

Mr. Harding writes of the need for extension in the north-west of the Yoruba Country:—

> During the latter part of this year the large towns in the north-west of Yoruba have been opened up by Government, such as Shaki—to which Mr.

Wood was appointed in 1857, but which he was never permitted to see up to the time of his death in May of this year—Igana, Oke-lho, Gboho, Kisi, Igbeti, and Ilorin.

ODE ONDO AND ILESA.

Ode Ondo. At Ode Ondo the Rev. E. M. Lijadu has been cheered by the king's attendance at the services, which began in August, 1897. His trumpeter, who is a baptized convert, has received the king's instructions to assist his memory regarding the recurrence of the Lord's Day, and has received a new title, viz., "Sabbath reminder"—so Mr. Lijadu interprets the designation. A family was fined a sum of about £30 by the king for attempting to administer the poison test. This fact affords a striking contrast to another, which is recorded by Mr. Lijadu to have occurred in a neighbouring town, in May, 1897 :—

A native king's "Sabbath reminder."

Eighteen poisoned for alleged witch-craft.

At Ikere the Ogoga (chief), having been told by the fetish priests of his town that the existing drought was caused by the witches (who were said to have combined to sit on the rain-string !), was advised to administer a poisonous drug to as many as were suspected of witchcraft in that town. Of the forty persons who were served with the drug, eighteen died and the rest were only recovering when I passed through that town on May 24th. I had an interview with the king on that evening, and plainly showed him the wickedness of such cruelties, and the consequences that may soon follow. He begged me to excuse him, since he had no other way by which to procure rain.

The influence of the Gospel. This Ogoga and three of his chiefs were arrested a few weeks later by Captain Alexander and taken to Ibadan. And again the same contrast, evidencing the beneficent influence of the Gospel, is shown in respect to Ado, one of the towns in the Ekiti country, where agents are placed and supervised from Ode Ondo. When the king heard that poison was about to be administered in a suburb of his town he sent to stop it, saying that the man of God in his town had condemned the practice. The first-fruits of this place, five adult converts, were admitted into the Church by baptism in May, 1897; two of them are sons of leading chiefs. Mr. Lijadu was greatly pleased with the answers of one of these youths at his baptism. He says :—

A school-boy's answers.

During the examination of candidates, I was particularly struck with the answer given by one of the boys to the question, "How do you know that Jesus is the Son of God ?" He answered, "The Word of God tells me so." On being asked which part of the Word told him so, he began to repeat from memory those most precious six verses from Matt. i., beginning at "Now the birth of Jesus Christ was on this wise," and continued smoothly on to "Behold, a virgin shall be with child, and shall bring forth a son, and they shall call His name Emmanuel, which being interpreted is, God with us." Sweet tears of joy stole down my cheeks as I listened to this sacred passage of Scripture repeated clearly and correctly from memory by an Ado schoolboy.

Two new out-stations were opened during the year, at Akure and Ise. Three adult converts were baptized in May by Mr. Lijadu at the latter place, and eight were baptized by the Rev. R. S. Oyebode at Ijero in June; the first-fruits of both places.

Ilesa. At ILESA, which is Mr. Oyebode's station, the indigenous Christians are being stirred by the Ondo and Ijebu Christian traders who visit the town, and who are diligent readers of the Word of God, to give more attention and application to reading. Their spiritual weakness is a source of much grief to their pastor.

A joint effort was made by the congregations in this district to promote the Three Years' Enterprise, and at the same time to commemorate Bishop Phillips' fiftieth birthday. Mr. Lijadu says:—

A Native Pastorate Fund started. The famous effort known all over the world as the T.Y.E. was, by a resolution of the Ondo Church elders' meeting, localized among us, and associated this year, by a special adaptation, with Bishop Phillips' jubilee (the dear Bishop having attained full fifty years on April 16th last). In connexion with this a "Native Pastorate Fund" was started, with subscriptions from various churches in this district as follows:—St. Stephen's Church, Ode Ondo, £24 10*s.*; St. John's, Ilesa, £2 5*s.*; Oke Igbo Church, Ondo, £1 11*s.*; Ado Church, Ekiti, 19*s.*; Itebu Church, Mahin, 8*s.*; Ijero Church, Ekiti, 5*s.*; total, £29 18*s.* 3*d.*

NIGER MISSION.

In 1841 a Government naval expedition, accompanied by a C.M.S. missionary, the Rev. J. F. Schön, and by Samuel Crowther, a liberated negro slave (who in 1864 was consecrated Bishop of the Niger), explored the River Niger. In 1854 a second expedition penetrated up the stream 500 miles, and found the Natives everywhere ready to receive Christian teachers; and in 1857 Mr. Crowther accompanied a third expedition undertaken for commercial purposes, and laid the foundation of the Niger Mission by establishing three stations. One of these was Onitsha. Other stations were subsequently occupied by African teachers, under the direction of the Bishop—viz., Lokoja, 1865; Bonny, 1866; Brass, 1868; Asaba, 1875; Gbebe, reoccupied, 1879; Obusi, 1890; and the Basa Country in 1897. Bishop Crowther continued to labour zealously in the Mission till the end of 1891, when he died at Lagos. (For account of Bishop Crowther's successors see notes at head of "Yoruba Mission.")

The superstitions of the people, and demoralization caused by the increasing European liquor traffic and by the general low tone of Christianity on the West African Coast, have proved formidable obstacles to the spread of the Gospel; but more than 4,000 persons have been baptized, including several influential chiefs, and some of the converts have exhibited Christian fortitude in enduring persecution, and liberality in contributing to the building of Mission churches, &c. At Bonny the once famous idol temple, decorated with human skulls, has been destroyed. Nevertheless, a higher standard of Christian life is much needed.

In 1890, a party of Missionaries went out under the leadership of the Rev. J. A. Robinson and Mr. G. Wilmot Brooke, with the idea of residing at Lokoja, on the Upper Niger, and thence making an effort to reach the Mohammedans of the Soudan. The climate shortly proved fatal to both the leaders, and drove the rest home, but others followed after a short interval, and itinerations have been made in the direction of Sokoto.

Bishop Tugwell, who sailed from England in September, reached the mouth of the Niger River early in November, made a short stay at Brass, then hastened to Lokoja, which he reached on December 3rd, and returned down the river to Onitsha at the close of that month. Archdeacon D. C. Crowther visited England during the year under review, and it afforded great pleasure to the Committee to welcome him once more at the C.M. House, and to hear from his lips renewed assurances that the Bonny Delta Pastorate is seeking to stand on a self-supporting basis, and would heartily welcome the counsels and appreciate the watchful solicitude of the Committee. The Archdeacon returned to the Niger in October, 1897.

Visit to England of Archdeacon Crowther.

The Committee received tidings during the Anniversary Week of 1897 (as mentioned in a footnote on page 86 of the last Annual Report) of the death of Archdeacon Henry Hughes Dobinson. Mr. Dobinson—a Reptonian and graduate of Brasenose College, Oxford—was formerly curate to the Rev. F. N. Eden, at St. James,' West Hartlepool, and offered, with his vicar, for Africa in 1889. They were taken leave of at the remarkable Valedictory Meeting in Exeter Hall (the first time that Hall was used by the Society for a Dismissal Meeting) in January, 1890. The late Bishop Crowther, Mr. (now Bishop) Tugwell, the late Graham

Death of Archdeacon Dobinson.

Wilmot Brooke, Dr. C. F. Harford-Battersby, and others for West Africa; and Mr. (now Rev.) Douglas Hooper, the late G. L. Pilkington, the Rev. G. K. Baskerville, and others for East Africa, formed the party dimissed. In 1896 Bishop Tugwell appointed Mr. Dobinson Archdeacon, and he was recognized by all in the Mission, Europeans and Natives alike, as a trusted and beloved leader and friend. All the Annual Letters, though written several months after his decease, make reference to the mournful loss suffered through his death. This occurred at Asaba on April 13th, 1897. He had gone thither from Onitsha a fortnight before to visit the out-stations, but was seized with dysentery, followed by fever of a very pernicious character. He had every attention in the house of Dr. Craster, the senior medical officer of the Royal Niger Company, but remedies were of no avail. Bishop Tugwell bore testimony to the late Archdeacon's work:—

> Thorough, true, sound, and good was the character and value of dear Dobinson's work. Conscientious and painstaking to a degree, he suffered nothing to be hurried over or slurred through. The principles by which his own conduct was actuated he sought to instil into others, and spared no pains to accomplish this end. The respect and regard of the Native agents for their "dear Ukucuku," as he was termed, spoke of a purity and force of character which Africans invariably esteem.

And the Rev. P. A. Bennett says of him:—

> Few will have forgotten the Niger troubles. That they have now passed into oblivion (I trust for ever) is due in a large measure to Archdeacon Dobinson's personal influence, as well as to his gentle courtesy and unfailing patience. Many a time and oft I have just stood and wondered, as he would patiently and kindly endeavour to explain to a not-over-bright workman the nature of his account, going over and over the same ground until at last he succeeded in letting daylight into the brain of his interviewer. Although the two men were so entirely different in personal character, yet of himself and the late Bishop Hill one could truly say they were the servants of all men. He was one of those quiet, strong men that inspire one instinctively with a feeling of confidence and trust. And it is perhaps only now, when the Master has taken him from us, we realize all his worth. He has been so intimately associated with all the work here, that it is difficult to think of it without him, and yet until the day break and the shadows flee away we shall see him no more. May God grant to us who are left to carry on the work like faith, persistence, and courage, that we, too, may have a full reward!

"Servants of all men."

Memorial gifts.

Archdeacon Dobinson's old schoolfellows at Repton are proposing to place a window to his memory in Repton School, and the parishioners of St. James', West Hartlepool, propose to do the like in their parish church, while in the Mission friends are hoping to erect a permanent dispensary at Onitsha to his memory in lieu of the present one, which has been described as a "ruinous mud-shed."

Within a few days of the receipt of the news of Archdeacon Dobinson's death the Committee received and gratefully accepted an offer of Dr. C. F. Harford-Battersby (who, as already mentioned, was one of the party that sailed for the Niger in 1890) to proceed at once to the Niger Mission on temporary service. Dr. Battersby sailed at the end of May, and reached Onitsha before the end of June. After spending six weeks at this station, two in the neighbourhood of Lokoja, and two at Brass, affording everywhere encouragement and help to the missionaries, for which they were exceedingly grateful, he returned home, arriving in London by the end of October. Dr. Battersby's recent inspection of the work at the several stations has rendered his counsels on the Committee even more valuable than before. He also used the opportunities which his visit afforded to make careful inquiries regarding the liquor traffic in West Africa, on which subject he contributed an article to the C.M. Intelligencer for December, 1897.

Visit of Dr. Harford-Battersby to the Niger.

The reinforcements sent out to the Mission during the year have been the following: the Revs. Charles Geoffrey Hensley and Sydney Richard Smith, of Islington College, who were admitted to deacons' orders by the Bishop of London at St. Paul's Cathedral on Trinity Sunday, June 13th, 1897; Mr. Arthur Edward Clayton, L.R.C.P. and S., Edinburgh, and L.F.P.S., Glasgow; Mr. James Craven Ridgway Wilson, who laboured for several years in connexion with the Congo-Balolo Mission, and had the entire concurrence of the heads of that Mission in offering his services to the C.M.S., and Mrs. Wilson; Miss Frances Mary Dennis, sister of the Rev. T. J. Dennis and of Miss E. Dennis, of this Mission; Miss M. Hamlin; and Miss Susan Agnes Hopkins. All the above (except Dr. Clayton, who sailed in March, 1898) sailed in September, 1897; but Mr. Hensley, in accordance with the Committee's instructions, has remained at Sierra Leone, as explained above, under that Mission. The Committee also sent out Mr. Frank Webber to fill the post of accountant to the Mission. He sailed with Dr. Battersby in June, 1897. There sailed also in September, returning to the Mission, the Rev. T. J. Dennis, and Mrs. Dennis, to whom he was married a few days before sailing, and who as Miss Matilda Phœbe Silman was accepted in June, 1897, as a missionary of the Society; Mr. E. A. J. Thomas; Miss L. M. Maxwell; and Miss E. A. Warner. Mr. L. H. W. Nott and Mr. H. Proctor came home in October (the latter returning to the Mission the following March); the Rev. P. A. Bennett in December, 1897; and the Rev. and Mrs. N. T. Hamlyn in March, 1898. Miss A. L. Wilson was invalided to the Canaries in January, and proceeded thence to her home in New Zealand.

Reinforcements.

Bishop Tugwell admitted Mr. George Nicholas Anyaegbunam to deacon's orders on February 13th, 1898, at Onitsha.

Ordination.

Tripoli occupied for language study.

Mr. Nott sailed in February to Tripoli. The Rev. Canon C. H. Robinson, of the Hausa Association, after his visit to Kano in 1895 (see Annual Report for 1895–96, page 90), directed the Committee's attention to the fact that a small colony of Hausas are to be found at Tripoli, and recommended that missionaries intended to penetrate into Central Soudan should in the first instance proceed thither and acquire in a climate which is reported to be suitable for Europeans such an elementary knowledge of Hausa as would enable them to be independent of interpreters when they should reach Hausaland. The paucity of labourers rendered the Committee unable to act on the suggestion at an earlier date, but they had reason to believe at the close of 1897 that they would be able to send two recruits to accompany Mr. Nott to study Hausa under his supervision. Disappointments occurred as to this, but they, nevertheless, sent Mr. Nott forward with instructions to make all necessary arrangements for others whom they trusted to be able to send after him.

DELTA AND LOWER NIGER.

Bonny.

THE latest report received of the work at BONNY and its out-stations is contained in the Delta Pastorate Chronicle for 1896. The income for the year ending December 31st, 1896, was £920, not including an annual grant of £200 to be used exclusively for industrial training from Sir Claude M. Macdonald, now British Minister at Pekin, who was at that time Consul-General of the Niger Coast Protectorate.

Brass Tuwon.

The Rev. N. T. Hamlyn (now at home) sent a more cheerful and encouraging report of BRASS TUWON than had been received for many years. The purchase by the Committee from a trading company of a house situated in the very midst of the native population in which Mr. and Mrs. Hamlyn resided during the past year, had something to do with this improvement. He wrote:—

> We are now living among the people, their houses are close to our doors. They have formed the habit of coming to us at all times and with any need, and so they have become more familiar with us and we with them. Now that we are living more among them, they evidently feel that we belong to them.

Industrial School.

An Industrial School was started in November, 1897, in which eight boys were instructed in carpentering, building, &c. During the Bishop's visit in December five adults were baptized and seven were confirmed. Two Christian marriages also took place, events to which both the Bishop and Mr. Hamlyn attached great importance, in view of the extremely low standard of morals prevailing among the people, and even among those who in past years were admitted by baptism into the Church. The villagers near Brass, whenever Mr. Hamlyn visited them, listened with apparent earnestness to his preaching. At Brass Nembe the Bishop confirmed seventeen candidates.

Onitsha.

Nearly one-half of the European staff stationed at Onitshsa left it to take furlough at the beginning of 1897; those remaining were Archdeacon Dobinson, the Rev. P. A. Bennett, and three ladies. The number was further reduced in April by the death of the Archdeacon, to which reference has been made in the introductory notes to this Mission. The arrival in October of the Rev. and Mrs. T. J. Dennis, the Rev. S. R. Smith, Dr. A. E. Clayton, and the Misses E. A. Warner, L. M. Maxwell, and F. M. Dennis, was very heartily welcomed. Mr. Bennett left in November to take furlough. The work at Christ Church, by the water-side, under the native pastor, the Rev. A. C. Strong, was beset with many difficulties. The moral and spiritual tone of the congregation—which is largely composed of freed slaves and refugees belonging to different tribes—is by no means on a high level. They are ill-fitted to stand their ground against the evil and superstitious customs of their environment; and the persistent efforts of Romanists to allure members into their communion added not a little to the anxieties of the situation. Dr. Battersby's visit was specially opportune, and a week of devotional meetings which he conducted provided the very best antidote to the troubles and worries and temptations that abounded. Twenty-five adults were baptized in connexion with the congregation, and the same number also in connexion with Emmanuel Church, while there were fifteen at Umuaroli, where a new church has been built. Fifteen out of the twenty-five of the Emmanuel congregation were baptized on Easter-day, 1897, in the Niger River, by Mr. Bennett. They were the first-fruits of that congregation, and were all free-born Natives of Onitsha and the children of heathen parents. They had long been under instruction and observation. Both Emmanuel Church and that at Umuaroli are in the town of Onitsha, and are centres of a very encouraging work, especially among the young men and boys. The two schools have an average daily attendance of sixty and fifty respectively, and many of the pupils are grown up and even married men, whose eagerness to learn is most marked. Most of those who are able to read have joined the Scripture Union, and over fifty attend regularly the fortnightly meetings of the same. The members of this Union support—at a cost of 8*s.* a month, raised in cowries collected by the members in bags—one of their number who goes daily to Nkpo, a village four miles distant, to teach those who are willing to learn. Those lately baptized had much petty persecution to suffer. Two were turned out of their homes by their enraged parents; one had his books burnt by his wife; and one, a chief, had his property stolen by the people of his village. The opponents of the work held meetings to consider how they could stop it, but the Christians met at the same time to pray that their designs might be frustrated; and though the threats were many and loud, nothing was done.

Opposition frustrated by prayer.

During Miss Warner's absence, Miss E. Dennis, assisted by Miss M. H. Holbrook, had charge of the Girls' Training School, which is close to the ladies' house on the outskirts of the town. Neither of these ladies had been twelve months in the Mission, and only four of the girls understood English. Happily they had the help for a few months of the daughter of one of the agents who had been educated at the Annie Walsh School, Sierra Leone. They succeeded in winning the love of the girls, and they found them lovable. Three were baptized in the course of the year. One of the ladies writes:—

Girls' Training School.

> It all seems such a very little to have done in sixteen months. Our life goes on from day to day, and we try to teach the children and give the Message to all who will hear; but there are no startling conversions, only a few slowly waking up. And just because the spiritual sleep is so deep around, only the Master knows how hard it is to keep awake and watching oneself. It is like the Pilgrim's enchanted land. Yet I would not be anywhere else than just here, and my heart is full of thankfulness when I remember all the way which the Lord my God has led me. He has shown me much more of myself and Himself than I could have learnt at home. He has kept me, too, in such good health, and has not let the climate try me very much.

"The Pilgrim's enchanted land."

Dispensary.

The Dispensary work was in a great measure in abeyance during Miss Maxwell's absence, but Miss Wilson attended, and undertook the dressing of sores, and she visited among the patients with the catechist, and among the women of the Waterside congregation. She also conducted a women's confirmation class with eighty-five members. The village of Nkpo has been mentioned above. The people in the first instance put up a booth of sticks and palm leaves to serve as a school and church, but they soon set about erecting a more substantial building. In Oba, another village, seven miles from Onitsha, a similar work with similar encouragement has taken place. It was to this place, Miss Wilson stated, that the original inhabitants of Onitsha fled as a city of refuge, when the present occupants crossed over from the Asaba side of the Niger and took possession.

Obusi.

The work at Obusi suffered much from having no European resident through a great part of the year. In November, Miss Wilson and Miss Holbrook went to reside there, but the former, as already mentioned, had to take sick leave in January, 1898. She wrote just before: "There are now only two women in the midst of a great heathen town; but we have His

Two women in a great heathen town.

Word, 'God hath chosen the weak things of the world to confound the mighty.'" They both felt it an honour to be the first women workers in the Mission to be sent alone to reside at an out-station. Six persons were baptized at Obonike, where there is considerable opposition.

Asaba.

ASABA also was left without a European labourer, after Mr. Dennis' departure in January, 1897. The Rev. J. Spencer was encouraged by the regular attendance of the Christians, and of not a few Heathen, at the services. Efforts were initiated, in connexion with the Three Years' Enterprise, to have a house of prayer put up in all the chief villages of Asaba. One such was built at Umuezei, and another was in course of erection at Umuagu, the latter hitherto a most difficult place to reach, owing to the prejudice of the people against all foreigners. The Training Institution under Mr. Spencer had thirteen students at the end of the year, and had sent out four to labour at different stations. At the two out-stations, Akwukwu and Onitsha Olona, eighteen and twenty miles respectively from Asaba, the first-fruits were reaped during the year; thirteen adults at the former, and four at the latter.

Prayer houses put up as a T.Y.E. effort.

A former station.

Mr. Dennis visited Osomali, a town of some 2,000 inhabitants, on the left bank of the Niger, some twenty miles below Onitsha, where the Society formerly had an agent, who was withdrawn in 1890. Several of the Christians left there still stand firm. In September, 1897, two young men of the place who had been taught at Onitsha returned to Osomali with the commission to do what they could to teach their fellow townsmen, and the Osomali Christians undertook their support. When Mr. Dennis went three months later, he found a school with an average attendance of forty, Sunday services were regularly held, and there were several candidates for baptism.

UPPER NIGER AND SOUDAN.

Lokoja.

LOKOJA has become a place of considerable importance as the military and administrative centre of the Royal Niger Company. Bishop Tugwell mentioned in one of his letters that on his way down the river, after his visit to Lokoja in December, he passed four steamers conveying one hundred Englishmen up, of whom about sixty were permanent officials. He added: "There are in Lokoja to-day one hundred and twenty Englishmen; one being a missionary. The climate does not appear to distress the Foreign Office, or to affect the courage of the British soldier or Government official: panic on the part of the Church of Christ in the face of such facts as these is surely disgraceful." "Panic" is perhaps too strong a word, but the Committee have felt much disappointment at the inadequate response to the call for advance which recent events have addressed to the Church, and most especially to the members of the C.M.S. Reference is made to a tentative preliminary step towards advance into the Soudan in the notes at the head of this section of the Report. At the Sunday Services the attendances of the native congregation averaged 174 and 104 in the mornings and afternoons respectively. Five adults were baptized in December, 1896, and four others in October, 1897. On the latter occasion the service was held at the river. Two of the converts had been Mohammedans. Bishop Oluwole confirmed twelve persons in December, 1896. The English service had an average attendance of twenty, one or two of the English officers occasionally being present. These officers subscribed for the purchase of a harmonium for the church, in response to the Rev. J. J. Williams' appeal. Last year's Report mentioned (p. 64) the decree of Sir George Goldie in the name of the Royal Niger Company, abolishing the legal status of slavery throughout the Niger territories from June 19th. The effects of this decree as witnessed in Lokoja and the district around are referred to by Mr. Williams :—

Effects of decree abolishing legal status of slavery.

> Liberty, both of body and conscience, has also been obtained by the agency of the British Government and the Royal Niger Company for the people of the Yoruba and Nupé countries. Since the memorable conquest of the Fullahs at Bida and Ilorin, we have seen no person in the streets of Lokoja girded with sword and spear, nor have we seen travellers going and coming to and from the interior of these countries that equipped themselves with weapons for self-defence against any sudden attack of raiders, &c., on their journeys. Thus we perceive with thankfulness the dawn of the radiant rays of God's Word in Mic. iv. 3-5 and Isa. xi. 1-10. I am persuaded that the political revolution in the Nupé and Yoruba countries is a presentation of a revolution in the spiritual kingdom of sin and Satan, and the transformation of the various tribes and nations of these countries into the glorious Kingdom of Christ Jesus.
> Here is a warrant that Christ has established His Kingdom in these lands, and has commanded us Christians to go in and possess them. In most of the Abunu, Akoko, Yagba towns, and other places in the Yoruba and Nupé countries, the people abstain from work on Sundays. They meet in their houses, eat and drink, and thank Isa, i.e. Jesus, the God of the Christians, Who has delivered them from their temporal bondage.

Disappearance of Mohammedans from Lokoja.

A further consequence of the decree was the disappearance of a large proportion of the Mohammedans from Lokoja. They had previously been a powerful element in the town, but finding their slaves, after the promulgation of the decree, running away in great numbers, they retired into the Soudan—to Kano, Sokoto, and other places. Their removal took away a hindrance which had operated to prevent the Heathen of Lokoja and neighbourhood showing an interest in the Gospel. Mr. Williams says that applications for teachers were made from several places, but it was impossible to respond to them. The members of the Scripture Union support a teacher, as a T.Y.E. effort, at Kporo, where a small church has been put up at a cost of £10; one-half of which was paid from the funds of the local branch of the Union. Some of the young men of the place have renounced idolatry and commenced to learn to read. At Victoria, a few miles below Lokoja, the Royal Niger Company has established a freed slave settlement, which has been visited regularly by Mr. Bako, the catechist at Gbebe.

A freed slave settlement.

Akabe, a village in the Basa country, about twelve miles from Lokoja, was occupied by the Rev. J. L. Macintyre and E. F. Wilson-Hill in February, 1897, but the interruptions caused by having to superintend the work at Lokoja, and by absence through sickness, rendered the occupation very far from effectual. The two were only present together at the place for nine weeks of the year. Mr. Macintyre thus writes of Akabe and of the language spoken:—

Basa country.

> Akabe is a typical Basa village, situated on the top of a rock-strewn hill about three hours' walk from Gbebe and the River Niger. Experience seems to point to its being more healthy than Lokoja; but it is perhaps too early to draw conclusions.
> Two languages are spoken in the Basa conntry: Basa—a dialect of Nupe—differing from it about as much as Lowland Scotch from English; and Bunu, a dialect of Yoruba. In towns near the river, like Kpata, where the people have crossed over most recently, almost all Basa is spoken; but the further inland one goes the less Basa and the more Bunu is spoken, till one comes to places where Basa is neither spoken nor understood at all. At Akabe the people are what might be termed bi-lingual, but there are old people who only understand Bunu.

Two buildings have been erected and designated the "Watney Training Institution," in memory of the late Rev. C. E. Watney, who died at Lokoja in June, 1895, and Mr. Macintyre took charge of a class of six youths selected from the pupils of the Lokoja school, to train them for future service. Four of the six, however, proved disappointing, and left or were dismissed during the year; the other two promised well. Mr. Wilson-Hill held daily classes for men, and the few who attended appeared to be deeply in earnest; the chief of a neighbouring village, Akke, being especially hopeful. Many appeals for teachers were received from other towns. The Rev. O. Thomas, a native clergyman removed from Gbebe to Kpata in May 1897, and began his ministration at the latter place on Whit Sunday, June 6th. He had an average attendance on Sundays of seventy both morning and afternoon, and of twenty-five at the Sunday School. A day school has sixty-seven names on its list, the majority of whom, Mr. Thomas says, know the Lord's Prayer and the Creed.

Watney Training Institution.

Bishop Tugwell, while at Lokoja, in December, 1897, paid a visit to Songa and Jebba, on the Upper Niger. The following extracts from his journal show the longings which the sight of the district, populous and open for the evangelist, excited in his mind :—

Bishop Tugwell's visit to Songa.

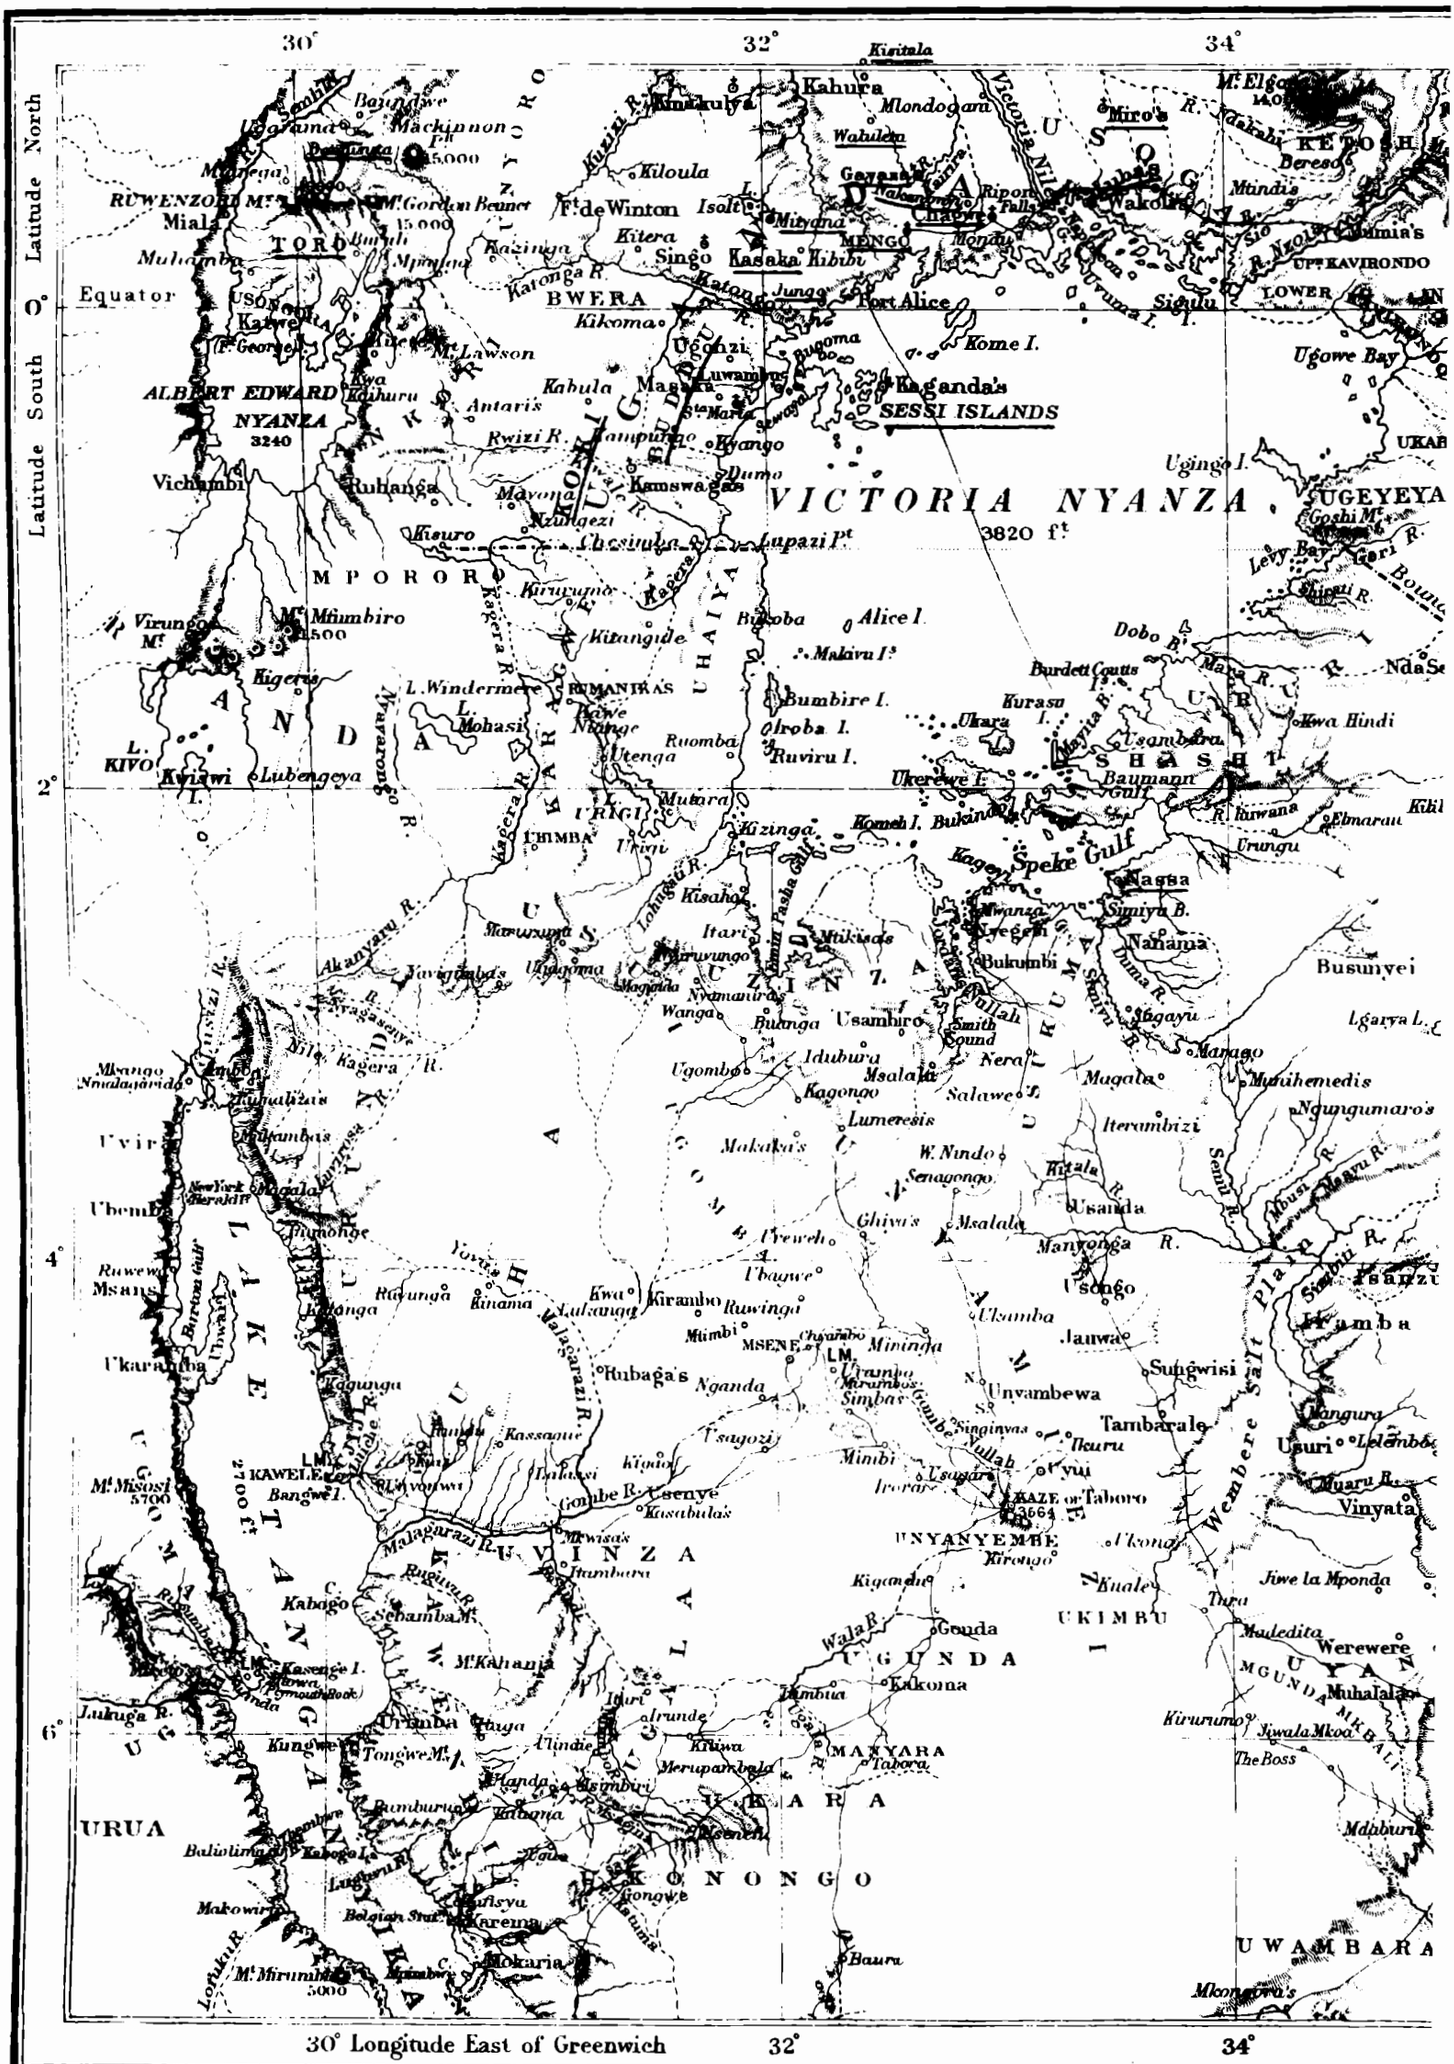
December 8th, 1897.—We are steaming steadily through a really beautiful country; on the right bank (south) the thick bush extends to the water's edge; on the left the country generally is open and undulating; in the distance are ranges of hills not unlike our Sussex Downs. Some of the river scenes are very beautiful in the early morning, "like the Thames at Richmond," as one of the officers on board remarked. What would I give to be free to go right through this country lying to the south of us! The people would eagerly welcome us. I have received urgent messages from several quarters. Men! men! men! This is the repeated cry. When will the Church of Christ awake and send forth her armies? At present we are only skirmishing, and that in a very extended line.

10th.—We reached Jebba at 7.30 yesterday morning. We were heartily welcomed. The people are Nupés, and many are Mohammedans, but when we explained who we were, and suggested the idea of settling amongst them, they unreservedly expressed their satisfaction.



In twelve months' time we shall see great changes out here, and British influence will be greatly extended. Let us not be behind the times. Oh! that the Spirit of God may strive in men's hearts, and thrust them out hither. The whole land south and north of the Niger is open, and the people waiting for teachers. The deliverance of the land from the yoke of Nupé tyranny calls forth from those thus delivered extravagant demonstrations of joy and gratitude; as we steam past their villages they turn out and prostrate themselves, women throw dust on their heads or clap their hands, and sing the white man's praises. This is the stage at which the Church of Christ should step in and claim these people for her Lord and Master. Let constant prayer ascend to God on behalf of this land.

The whole land open.

In the event of the British Government taking over the territories of the Royal Niger Company, Jebba will undoubtedly become an important centre. The trade caravans for Lagos will naturally follow the road, viâ Jebba. Moreover, here, the railway will eventually strike and cross the Niger, according to the published survey. It would appear to be a healthy district.

EASTERN EQUATORIAL AFRICA MISSION.

In 1844 Dr. Krapf, having lately been expelled from Abyssinia, established himself at Mombasa, and in the following year was joined by the Rev. John Rebmann, who opened the station at Kisulutini (Rabai) in 1846, and laboured on the coast twenty-nine years. Their remarkable journeys into the interior led to all the subsequent geographical and missionary enterprise in East Africa. It was chiefly through the Society's efforts that the Parliamentary Committee of 1871 was obtained, which led to Sir Bartle Frere's Mission to Zanzibar in the following year. In 1874 the Rev. W. S. Price, formerly in charge of the Asylum for rescued slaves at Nasik, Western India, was sent out; some 200 African Christians from the freed slaves entrusted to his care were collected as the nucleus of an industrial colony; land was purchased for a settlement, which was named Frere Town, in honour of Sir Bartle Frere; and some 500 rescued slaves were, in 1875, received from H.M. cruisers, and housed, fed, instructed, and led to work for their living. Stations were opened in the Taita country in 1883; in the Chagga country, at the base of the snow-capped mountain Kilima Njaro, in 1885, but the Mission was removed in 1893 to Taveta, within the British sphere of influence as fixed by treaty with Germany in 1886; and in the Giriama country, at Jilore, in 1890.

When in 1876 a Mission party was sent up country to establish a Mission in Uganda, the route travelled was from Bagamoyo, on the coast opposite Zanzibar, through Usagara, Ugogo, and Unyamwezi, and intermediate stations between the East Coast and the southern shore of the Lake were established in the Usagara hills—at Mpwapwa in 1876, at Mamboia in 1879; and at Nassa, in Usukuma, the south end of the Lake, in 1888.

For these Missions a new bishopric was established in 1884, with the title "Eastern Equatorial Africa," and the Rev. J. Hannington was consecrated the first Bishop on June 24th, 1884. He was murdered on October 31st, 1885, in Busoga, by the orders of King Mwanga. His successor, the Rev. H. P. Parker, previously a C.M.S. Missionary in North India, was consecrated on St. Luke's Day, October 18th, 1886, but his episcopal career was also of brief duration; he died from fever on March 26th, 1888. The present Bishop, the Right Rev. A. R. Tucker, was consecrated on April 25th, 1890.

Diocese of Eastern Equatorial Africa.

THE Diocese of Eastern Equatorial Africa was formed in 1884, and its southern boundaries were determined in conference with Bishop Smythies, of the Universities' Mission, so as to include the sphere of all then existing C.M.S. work in the east of Africa. The delimitation of spheres of influence by Great Britain and Germany was subsequent to the appointment of Bishop Hannington, the first Bishop of the new Diocese. At that time, in 1884, the C.M.S. had ten ordained and nine lay missionaries, no native clergymen, and seventeen native lay agents in the whole area included in the Diocese; there were 926 adherents and 144 native communicants. In a charge which Bishop Tucker issued* to the members of the Church in his Diocese at the close of 1897, he gave the total number at that date of European ordained men as thirty-two, of laymen twenty-four, and of European workers (including nineteen wives) as 102; of native clergy thirteen, and other native agents 729; of Christian adherents 15,305, and communicants 3,641. The striking progress indicated by the above comparison has been chiefly made during the present decade. In 1890, when Bishop Tucker succeeded to the

see, the total number of European workers was thirty-six, of native labourers twenty-one, of adherents 1,795, and of communicants 285. In view of the growth of the work and of the demands and openings on all hands for further development and extension, a division of the diocese has been for some time recognized as a matter of increasing urgency, and during Bishop Tucker's visit to England, arriving in broken health, as mentioned in last year's Report, at the end of 1896, the opportunity was taken by him of determining, in conference with the Archbishop of Canterbury and the C.M.S. Committee, the lines of division to be adopted. The following conclusions were arrived at, and received the assent of all the parties concerned:—

(1) That such part of the present diocese as falls within the Uganda Protectorate should belong to a new diocese of Uganda. (2) That the remainder of British East Africa within the present diocese should belong to a new diocese of Mombasa. (3) That the Church Missionary Society's Mission at Nassa should, if possible, be included—for practical purposes at least—within the constitution of the Uganda Church. (4) That subject to the last-mentioned proposal being effected either (a) by the incorporation of Nassa and the neighbourhood in the Uganda diocese, or (b) by Nassa and the neighbourhood, though included in the diocese of Mombasa, being brought under the proposed constitution of the Uganda Church by consent of the Bishops and by any necessary action of the proposed Uganda Synod, then the remaining portion of the present diocese should belong to the Mombasa diocese.

Bishop Tucker has elected to retain the interior division, viz., the Diocese of Uganda, under his own Episcopal supervision. The Committee have submitted names to the Archbishop of Canterbury, upon whom rests the responsibility of selecting the Bishop for the new Diocese of Mombasa.

Death of Miss E. F. Goyen.

Miss Emily Frances Goyen, who arrived in this Mission at the beginning of 1896, and laboured from that time at Jilore as an honorary missionary, died on February 10th, 1898, from black-water fever, after a fortnight's illness. A few months before—in August, 1897—an independent worker at the same station, i.e., not connected with the C.M.S. or any other Society, Mr. Barham (see last year's Report, page 104), died after a long illness.

Reinforcements.

The reinforcements sent out consisted of the following:—the Rev. David John Rees, L.Th. of Durham, Curate of St. Mark's, Southampton, and Mrs. Rees; the Rev. Kenneth St. Aubyn Rogers, M.A., Wadham College, Oxford, Curate of Melton Mowbray; Miss Alice Jane Madeley, Miss Alice Kathleen Malone, Miss Mary Louisa Mason, Miss Elizabeth Mayor, sister of Miss D. Mayor, of this Mission; Miss Emily Ruth Spriggs, and Miss Margaret Watermeyer. Most of these sailed in November, and the remainder in October or December, except Mr. Rogers, who sailed in February, 1898.

I. COAST DISTRICT.

Mrs. H. K. Binns, Miss M. L. Holmes, and Miss F. I. Deed came home in July, 1897; the Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Hamshere in September; Miss A. I. Grieve and Miss E. C. Wilde in December; and Miss M. R. Gedge in January, 1898. Miss J. B. Tobin sailed in October, 1897; Miss S. Bazett in November, and the Rev. A. G. Smith in December, to return to this Mission. Mr. Bailey, the accountant of the Mission, and Mrs. Bailey, returned to Frere Town in January, 1898, from England.

The Rev. H. K. Binns, the much-esteemed Secretary of this section of the Mission, and also of the part which includes the stations at Taita and Taveta, makes a complaint regarding the Society's friends at home, that the workers on the East Coast are not adequately supported by their fervent, sympathetic, and intelligent prayers. He says:—

Plea for prayer.

I sometimes think that we who live here on the coast get little sympathy from the Church at home; all their sympathy seems to be given to such Missions as Uganda, which can speak of hundreds of converts and thousands of inquirers. I remember when I was at home, on one or two occasions when on deputation work, being asked if I came from Uganda, and upon my answering "No," there seemed to be very little interest in anything I had to say. Can it be true that the Church of Christ has no sympathy for the worker in a town like Mombasa, for instance, who toils on year after year, patiently preaching and pleading with the darkest and deadest of souls, returning home after a long day spent in a hot, dusty town, going in and out of dirty houses amongst a lazy and sensual Mohammedan people, weary in body on account of the heat, and in spirit on account of the apathy and indifference, the carelessness and deadness of the sin-sick souls which have been come in contact with, coming to the feet of the Master, from whom the commission has been received, with sad heart and tearful eyes laying the burden there, it may be even with the murmuring cry, "How long, O Lord, how long?" but ever coming forth from that Presence refreshed and strengthened for fresh warfare and fresh and untiring effort? Or, on the other hand, the worker placed in a Christian settlement such as Frere Town or Kisulutini, where the Christianity, especially amongst the young, is mostly only nominal, where the failure and falls of those in whom one is interested are a frequent cause of grief.

We need your sympathy and your prayers, and we ask you to join your praises with ours for many mercies of the past year—for the privilege of proclaiming the Good News to many who had not heard it; of teaching and guiding some little ones to Jesus; of lifting up a fallen sister or brother; or to be allowed to give a cheering and encouraging word to some weary one. Above all do we praise Him that, notwithstanding all our shortcomings, the many times we have misrepresented Him, and the many times we have grieved Him, He permits us to remain in His service still.

The plea for more prayer will surely not be denied.

FRERE TOWN.

Frere Town.

Much unsettlement has been occasioned to the work at Frere Town by the comparatively high wages obtainable on the railway in course of construction from the Coast to Uganda. Several of the teachers in the schools have been attracted thereby to leave the work, and to many of the people, both men and women, the inducements have proved a snare leading them into positions of exceptional danger. The Rev. H. K. Binns writes :—

Snares besetting young Christians at the Coast.

Women have left their homes, taking their little children with them, to live in huts on the railway away from all means of grace, as sheep without a shepherd : young women just at the most susceptible age going off to work at a distance from home for weeks together, without any one to help or to care for their real good. Young men, in great demand as servants, cooks, clerks, &c., able to earn good wages—more than they really need—simply spending it in loose living, the example of the employer tending generally to lower rather than otherwise, and all this for the sake of a few rupees, which are really no benefit to them. They bring nothing home, the young men save nothing ; they do not build houses or think of marrying and settling down. Consequently, the girls have illegitimate children, and are in danger of becoming loose characters altogether. I do not think the girls themselves are to blame ; they would far rather settle down in a quiet place like Frere Town, with a home of their own, if only the young men would make homes for them. To my mind the wonder is not that so many have gone wrong, under the circumstances, but that any have kept straight. Several of the young women here would, in an ordinary way, have been married years ago. Many of the young men prefer a Swahili woman—who can be thrown over at any time—to being tied to a wife and have the care and expense of a family. Knowing the African character as I do, the strength of the animal nature and the facility of wrong-doing, the low standard of public opinion with regard to sins of immorality, the lax way the young people are brought up by the parents, the ordinarily low and degrading topics of conversation, even amongst the Christians, the low example set by the European community,—I say again, it is a wonder to me, humanly speaking, that any are kept.

That the civilization which accompanies the introduction of railways is not one that the friends of Missions can welcome with unmingled satisfaction the above sufficiently indicates. The severe testing has doubtless come at the time ordered by an unerring Providence, and will issue eventually in the purifying and strengthening of the work. But to human wisdom it may well appear to have come too soon. The first and second generations of liberated slaves brought from homes in the far interior, and representing many tribes, have not as a body acquired the power of self-discipline. A fact mentioned by Mr. Binns shows how much of the untamed spirit survives. During the year a state of tension and friction, owing to ill-feeling, manifested itself between the members of the Settlement descended from the Africans who were educated and brought up at Nasik, in India, and those belonging to the freed slaves and Wanyikas, who were received and educated at Frere Town. Even the little children manifested this ill-will, and it became necessary on one occasion to invoke the intervention of the police superintendent at Mombasa. It must not therefore be forgotten that Frere Town and all the coast stations are still on the borderland of savagery. The leopards which enter the houses from time to time, and the lions which lurk in the neighbouring thickets—one carried off a Swahili woman near Frere Town during the past year—are forcible reminders of this. The borderland of savagery.

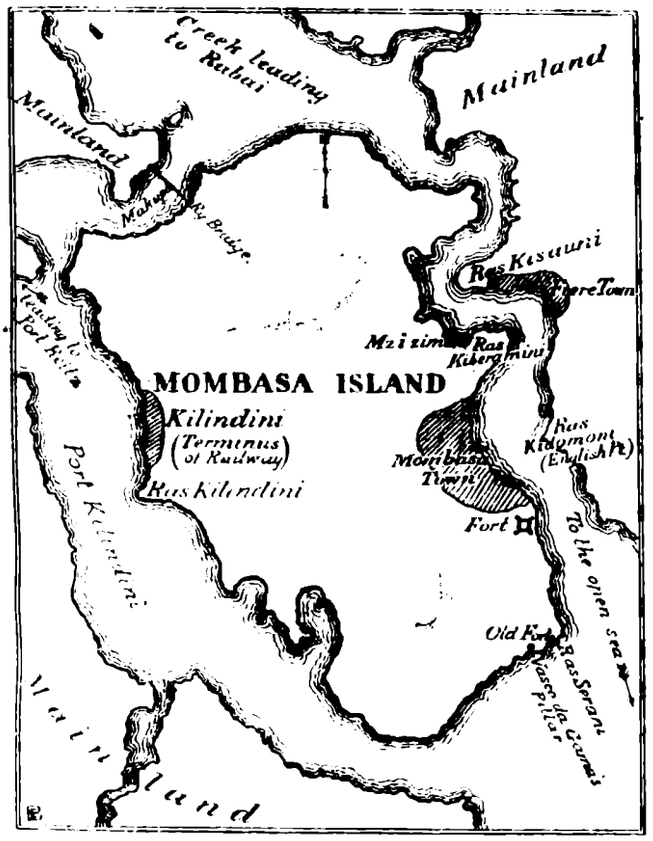
Progress is perceptible, thank God! Those who can recall the condition of the successive cargoes of liberated slaves which were disembarked some twenty-three years ago, would rejoice to witness the daily services, which are attended by about ten per cent. of the whole population of the Settlement at the new Church which Bishop Tucker dedicated in October, 1896.* Some half-dozen men and women visit the shambas, or farms, around Frere Town to deliver the Gospel message. Bishop Tucker confirmed fifty-two candidates in December, 1897. By the request of the Consul-General, an English service, in honour of the Queen's Diamond Jubilee, was held in the Church on June 20th, and attended by a large number of Government officials and others from Mombasa, and the Settlement was decorated and illuminated. Mr. Binns preached, and Rs. 95 were contributed at the collection towards the funds of the C.M.S. Hospital at Mombasa. The Divinity Class had a trying year. In the Spring of 1897 one of the students, from Kisokwe, was drowned, and the fact so depressed the minds and disturbed the faith of the other two students from the Usagara stations that they were sent home. A former student in the class, who is now working at Mamboia, Mugimbwa by name, wrote to them urging them not to withdraw from the class, but to no avail. The Rev. J. E. Hamshere was greatly cheered amid the sadness of this disappointment by Mugimbwa's letter. He says:— Divinity Class.

Mugimbwa—of whose excellent work at Mamboia all have testified—wrote to these two, Musa and Daniel, one of the most touching letters I have ever read. He had heard, while at Kisokwe, rumours of their troubled state, and wrote in most affectionate terms, begging them to remember on Whose side they were, that their sorrow was His sorrow, their disgrace His disgrace. He could not believe that they had thus grown cold in their love, and concluded, "Ah! ah! my sons, this which I speak of is no light matter; it is not, indeed, my sons." A native agent's faithful expostulation.



Mrs. Hamshere had a class for the students' wives. In August she and her husband were invalided home, and the Rev. E. H. Fincher was placed in charge, and he, after suffering from repeated attacks of fever, left for the Usagera district, and was succeeded by the Rev. T. S. England. Meanwhile, the class was reduced to only three members. The Boys' School, under Mr. E. Luckock, had an average attendance of thirty-nine, while the dormitory boys are now only four in number. Mr. Luckock refers to the strong temptations to which the young are exposed, "greatly increased through the arrival of so many European and Indian soldiers in the neighbourhood." The Africans from the Seychelles, whose return to their native land was mentioned last year, are now settled down at Maweni, and have joined the little congregation there. Mr. Luckock refers to the more recent arrival of a large body of Gallas from the Seychelles, who have joined other Gallas settled to the north of Melinde. One of them, he says, found a brother there from whom he had been separated at least twenty years, that is, since he was captured by the Arabs as a slave and afterwards set free and taken to the Seychelles by the English. Mrs. Pickthall, Miss M. C. Brewer, and Miss E. Lockett engage in Work among the Women and among the girls in the dormitory, in visiting the homes of the people, holding classes, and in superintending a laundry as a branch of industrial work for the girls.

MOMBASA.

Mombasa. The map on this page will convey an accurate idea of the whereabouts of the districts on the Island of Mombasa, where the several branches of the Society's work there are carried on.

The C.M.S. is the only Mission at present represented on this Island, with the exception of a Roman Catholic agency amongst the Goanese population. In the town of Mombasa the work is chiefly evangelistic, and is under the charge of the Rev. F. Burt. The open-air meetings were regularly carried on with a smaller attendance than in the previous year, but with more attention and less opposition. Mrs. Burt and Miss A. I. Grieve (now at home) occasionally spoke at these meetings, and when they did so were listened to with marked respect. Meetings in the Mission-hall in the evenings were poorly attended, but those who were present listened well, and frequently went again. On Sunday mornings a service for Native Christians is held in this hall, which many of the Kilindini people attend, and the Mohammedans often express surprise and displeasure to observe the number of native worshippers of the Lord Jesus living in the Island. The Boys' School, which Miss M. Bazett and Miss Grieve commenced, was taken over by Mr. W. E. Parker, in January, 1897. It is, as Mr. Parker observes, a "mixed school," inasmuch as Parsis, Hindus, Arabs, Swahili, Wanyika, Persian, Barowa, English, and Eurasian are from time to time found in its classes. The fabric is of a very modest order, the school being built of mud, and its makute roof is neither water-tight nor wind-tight. The average number during the first term after Mr. Parker took charge was sixteen; in the last term of 1897 it was slightly larger, while the number on the roll has varied from fifty to seventy, the attendance being very irregular. To all these the Gospel was taught. Miss Grieve took the Scripture teaching. She states that of the boys who were among her own pupils in the school, three died—one from the plague in India, whither he had returned; and another, so she was informed, was poisoned, he having, from conviction of the truth of the Gospel, given up fasting during Ramadhan. Miss M. R. Gedge (now at home) was in charge of the ladies' house, in which resided the Misses Wilde and Grieve, A. Higginbotham, and M. I. Culverwell, and for a few months—exchanging with Miss Wilde—Miss M. A. Ackerman, of Rabai. Miss Higginbotham made an attempt to get an influence over the native schoolmaster of the town, and took Swahili lessons in order to be admitted to the school. She says:—

Boys' School.

A "mixed school."

> He (the schoolmaster) is a good linguist, and occupies himself cleaning watches, sitting amongst his pupils, while the advanced ones teach the beginners to shout the Koran, writing it with reed pens on long wooden boards; he often lets me teach them the Commandments and show them Bible-pictures and the alphabet, and how to write it. The arithmetic of master and pupils was most primitive; they could only answer, say, nine times nine, after some prolonged mental calculations. Some of these boys are now in Mr. Parker's school. Another schoolmaster has told me his school is broken up; his pupils all had left him, and he himself was going to learn English from Mr. Parker. He bought the Gospel of St. Luke from me some time ago, and used to read it with me.

A native Mohammedan school.

The men's class in the boys' school gained another pupil through Miss Higginbotham. He was a night watchman, and on her visits to his wife Miss Higginbotham often found them playing cards. She suggested they might be better employed, and began to teach them to read and write, though the man would not listen to the Gospel. An increasing number of Christians from the stations on the mainland make their way to Mombasa. Mr. Burt says of these people:—

> Unfortunately, they frequently come with a bad character, and with no intention of attending a Christian service in a Mohammedan town. None ever bring a letter from their missionary or native pastor, and often cast off their distinctive dress for a Swahili one, thus identifying themselves with Mohammedans. There seems to be an increasing number who, breaking the marriage tie, come here to be married in Mohammedan fashion.

Miss Ackerman, knowing so well the people of Rabai, soon recognized faces once familiar in happier and purer scenes. She wrote:—

Looking after back-sliders.

One woman, Anipendaya, who has been here about four years with her husband, Umari, told me only the other day, "What is the use, Bibi, for you to come now to us? We have been here so long, and to come and stay in this town is to be lost, and I am finished, to be lost like a sheep." Another, Mapenzi, told me if she came with the others to read or class, she would make the others bad, "for," she said, "you know Bibi, if good and bad go together, the bad one is sure to draw the other after her and make her bad too." My heart aches after them, yet I feel incapable of the work, for I know there must be a Church gathered here out of these, so that the heathen Swahili and Mohammedans may see them take their stand on the Lord's side. At present they are scattered all over the town as sheep without a shepherd, and need to be gathered together into classes for the unbaptized, baptized, and communicants, and this, I feel, needs a man's power, with Divine help and guidance, for how to draw them in I do not know. I have tried to form these classes, but with little or no success. The longer they are left, increasingly difficult it will become. They have been so long used to absent themselves from public worship that now it seems as if they have no desire after God's House. Again, they have been laughed at, and have not been firm enough to stand the jeers of the Swahili, and many of them have forgotten when Sunday is, for in this town every day is alike, and even our Mission boys (and there are many, many), engaged as house-servants, are sent to shop on the Sabbath by their masters, and all kinds of work is carried on just as on a week-day.

Miss Culverwell visits in the district of Mji wa Kale, and her knowledge of medicine and nursing opened to her many doors, and the doors of some hearts. A Mohammedan Hindu-speaking woman, to whom relief from fever had been afforded, gratefully took her hand and said, "Bibi, it was the prayer in the name of Jesus that made me well." Of this same woman Miss Culverwell adds:—

"Thank you so much for coming!"

As the days and weeks went on she was ever a willing and interested listener, until one day she asked me about my father and mother and all my friends—why had I left them and come so far away? When I told her the reason I had come to Africa was to teach her and the other women of the town about the Lord Jesus Christ, Who alone can save us from sin now, and from the punishment of sin hereafter, that He left His Father's home to suffer and die instead of us, that we might become children of God and live with Him hereafter, her eyes filled with tears, and as they streamed down her face, she clasped my hands in hers and said, "Oh! Bibi, thank you, oh! thank you so much for coming; we do want to know about the Lord Jesus." Her tears of gratitude and mine of joy were mingled. Need I say that was one of the happiest afternoons I had experienced even among many happy times of visiting in Mombasa?

A Punjabi woman to whom in her illness Miss Culverwell was called, as she refused to see a male doctor, and to whom she spoke through the medium of a little girl interpreter, when

St. John iii. 16 was quoted, replied that she had heard those words long ago in the Punjab. Miss Grieve visited the Baluchis, and says of Zahurah, the woman mentioned in last year's Report (page 102), that she confesses Jesus as her Saviour and the Son of God. She says, "I have seen her beautiful eyes fill with tears as we spoke together of His love to sinful women, and we knelt together in prayer in His house." Miss Grieve visited the old Portuguese Fort, which is now used as a prison and barracks. At Kilindini, which is on the opposite side of the island to the town of Mombasa, and about three miles from it, Mr. Burt baptized eighteen adults, and Bishop Tucker confirmed sixteen candidates in January, 1898. This place is the terminus of the Mombasa to Uganda railway. Mzizima, where the Mission Hospital is, under Dr. C. S. Edwards, is immediately opposite Frere Town, separated only by about 300 yards of water. Mrs. A. G. Smith thus writes of the hospital buildings which Dr. Edwards' energy has put up:—

A Punjabi woman recognizes the Gospel message heard before in India.

The Hospital.

A monument of patience and perseverance.

Mzizima is about a mile from the Customs House and a quarter of a mile from the outskirts of the old town. After the noise and overcrowding of Mombasa, Mzizima seems a real haven of rest and quiet. Originally a cocoanut plantation belonging to the Sultan of Zanzibar, it was presented to Dr. Edwards as a site for his hospital. It stands to-day as a monument of what perseverance and patience can do, even in Africa.

At first Dr. Edwards used to take over boatloads of his "convalescent" patients from the Frere Town Hospital, and let each do just the little bit of work he felt capable of. The work was started by "the blind and the lame." Gradually, very gradually, order reigned over chaos. Roads were cut, a decent landing-place was made, and the palm trees were taken in hand, with the result that many of them "renewed their youth" and bore fruit for the Christian when they had ceased to do so for the Mohammedan. Sites were chosen and two large hospitals built, each with its splendid tank of rain-water. A doctor's house followed. Since then a large number of smaller dwellings, used as wards for special cases, leper houses, dispensary, kitchens, and store-rooms, now make Mzizima quite an industrial centre in a small way. A large proportion of the patients are practically incurable, and make it their home. Who can estimate the comfort and benefit of such an institution, both physically and spiritually, to these poor sufferers, some of whom are the outcasts of society? They receive religious instruction as well as bodily care, including morning and evening prayers, and regular Sunday and week-day services. Not a few have entered the kingdom of heaven from Mzizima. The chief characteristic of the place is that there is work for all. Idleness is unknown; the lame can work with their hands, the man with one whole arm can pick up cocoanuts! Thatch-making, rope-making, and basket-making are the chief industries.

Idleness is unknown.

Dr. Edwards reports one adult baptism. He dwells on the apathy that characterizes the Swahili Arabs in all their affairs, both mundane and religious, and he does not wonder that inquirers are so few from their midst.

Bishop Tucker has arranged for the erection of a temporary church at Mombasa for the growing English community, pending the erection of the Hannington-Parker Memorial Church.

RABAI.

Rabai.

The Rev. T. S. England, who had the misfortune to break his arm through a fall from a donkey, was in charge of the work at RABAI during the Rev. A. G. Smith's absence on furlough, and his European fellow-labourers were Mr. and Mrs. J. Burness, Mrs. E. Gardener, and, for a few months, Misses M. L. Holmes, M. A. Ackerman, F. I. Deed, and E. C. Wilde. The Revs. W. H. Jones and J. Deimler are the two native clergymen. Among them the services and the numerous classes and other departments of work involved in the pastoral care of a Christian community of some 1,100 souls are divided. Mr. England writes with thankfulness of a few whole-hearted voluntary workers who go out on Sunday afternoons to preach to the Wanyika and Warabai of the neighbouring villages. Bishop Tucker confirmed 175 candidates in Rabai in January, 1898. Mr. and Mrs. Burness resided, after the departure on furlough of Misses Holmes and Deed in the summer of 1897, at the out-station of Cha Ngombe, from which place the various groups of neighbouring villages were visited, those met with being mostly women and children, as the men leave home early in the morning to look after their cocoanut trees, from which the native beer, tembo, is extracted. In one day in eleven villages visited, 293 sat down before the preachers to be instructed. A hearty welcome is given them wherever they go. The native catechists Lugo and Timothy are men of much spiritual experience and zeal.

Heavy trials.

The year under review was one of peculiar trials at JILORE, trials even harder to bear than those which caused the closing of the station and the removal of its workers in 1895. The fall of one of the trusted native agents into grievous sin during the Rev. D. A. L. Hooper's absence on furlough in 1895, and his concealment of the sin until its discovery at the beginning of 1897, was the commencement of the troubles which resulted in the fall of others, so that six communicants were excluded from fellowship, and three men were expelled from the village, and others who had begun to run well dropped behind. The missionaries too were affected with serious illness, four having blackwater fever. Mr. Barham and Miss Goyen, as already mentioned, died, and Mr. Müller (who resided for a time at Jilore as an independent worker) returned to America in consequence of ill-health. The services and meetings are all conducted in the Giriama language, and Mr. Hooper has sent translations of the Psalms, St. Mark, and St. John, prepared by himself in that language, to the British and Foreign Bible Society to be printed, and the Offices of Communion and Baptism are being printed at Zanzibar. Six adults were baptized by immersion. Two men had been polygamists, and gave up in one case two out of three and in the other one out of two wives before being baptized. Bishop Tucker confirmed fifteen candidates in January, 1898. At a village of some 200 inhabitants a church has been built by the people themselves, fetish worship has entirely ceased, on Sunday work is stopped, day-school is held on three days a week, and the attendances at the daily services and three times on Sunday is, Mr. Hooper says, remarkably good. Mr. Hooper believes that the troubles which have been trying the work will prove to be the birth-pangs of a Native Church. In the winter of 1896–97 the Rev. T. S. England itinerated in the Biryaa district of the Giriama Country, accompanied by a number of Wagiriama porters from Rabai. Wherever they went they were well received. For a fortnight he made a large village called Mtangani his centre, and each morning the men (the women and children would not approach the Mzungu) assembled with the porters for prayer, although to kneel down with faces covered seemed to them so remarkable that explosions of laughter occurred here and there, which the porters immediately reproved.

II. TAITA AND TAVETA.

Mr. A. W. McGregor came home from Taveta in July, 1897; and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Wray sailed to return to Taita in the following December.

TAITA.

Mr. R. A. Maynard, after Mr. J. A. Wray left Sagalla, in the Taita Country, in March, 1897, to take furlough, welcomed the Rev. E. H. Fincher as a fellow-labourer, but the exigencies of the work at Frere Town required the latter to go thither in July, and Mr. J. Heselwood was sent to Taita. The average attendance at the Sunday services, which are still conducted in the open-air, was about one hundred. Fear of ridicule and persecution has hitherto kept from baptism those who have a wish to profess Christ; but several young men who attend an evening class call themselves Christians.

Taita.

TAVETA.

In April, 1897, Taveta became a station of the East Africa Protectorate with a resident British officer. Very naturally the introduction of a novel authority caused apprehensions and suspicions to a people who have enjoyed in the past a remarkable immunity, remarkable indeed in Africa, from molestation from without or tyranny from its own chiefs. But the new relations had one good effect at least, for it strengthened the ties of confidence and affection between the people and the missionaries. The Rev. A. R. Steggall gives an illustration of this:—

A Native Christian elected president of village council.

> The Government officer required the Taveta assembly to elect a council of thirteen, with which he might confer on matters of importance. Permission was asked for the lay-reader, Yohana, to be in this council, and the circumstances being special, and the distress of the people considerable, this permission was given. The council was next required to elect one of their number as president, to hold office for three months. Yohana was unanimously elected, and we doubt not but that his influence will be for good in many ways.

Sunday services are held at seven centres, with congregations aggregating a maximum of 560. The number of baptized persons is only thirty-four, and of these eight or nine take part as voluntary workers in conducting the services. Mr. Steggall says that the remarks and illustrations used in their addresses often show that they have both grasped the meaning of their subject and studied it in the pages of their Bibles. Nevertheless, he says, "they are only youths and inexperienced, and it is not surprising that their grandfathers and grandmothers in years rather despise their message." The chief obstacles to a profession of discipleship on the part of the adults, who attend the services with a fair degree of regularity and listen with apparent attention, are polygamy and drunkenness. Mr. Steggall observes that while the women, even the very ignorant ones, will readily make an attempt at extempore prayer, such a thing among the men is almost unheard of. The first Christian marriages at Mahoo, the Mission-station, took place during the year, one of them being that of Yohana the lay-reader, to Ruth Bakaa, the daughter of the first adult adherent, Yakobo Mture. Mr. V. V. Verbi has charge of the school, which has sixty-six names on the register, of whom forty-eight are boarders. School hours are from 10 A.M. to noon. Before school the boys engage in industrial work, under Mr. L. J. Vale, who writes:—

First Christian marriages.

Industrial work.

> I have not found one yet who has refused to do the work which he has been put to do, but they take a delight in doing it. You will think perhaps this is not very much to say, but when we wanted trees cut down for the pillars of our new church (which were as thick round as one's body), and these boys have to cut them with a large axe which takes all their young strength to swing, yet they do it cheerfully; and now having felled the tree they make it square, after which they fasten a rope to it and all pulling together, accompanied by some native "refrain," they soon drag it to the place you show them. I wonder how some of our English boys would like to do this kind of work—I expect they would grumble a little. Then they have to use the mallet, chisel, saw, plane, and various other tools, and all this has to be done before school, which begins at 10 A.M.

A new church was opened at Sela Ndongo on November 21st, the erection of which was mainly the work of the boys. Mr. Steggall says:—

Boys make bricks and build a church,

Having been taught indoors that m-a-, ma, t-o-, to, f-a-, fa, l-i-, li, spells matofali (bricks), they were marched out to spend many a weary hour in the manufacture of those articles, and so, too, with other branches of the builder's art. About 60,000 bricks were made, a quarter of which were destroyed by rain. Men came to assist in carrying and erecting the timbers of the roof and in the work of thatching. An expenditure of about Rs. 80 was incurred, chiefly in the purchase of raphia palms and grass, but it may be reckoned that if all the labour had been paid for, a sum approaching Rs. 1,000 would have had to be provided. The building measures internally 82 feet by 25 feet, to accommodate a congregation—containing the usual proportion of children—of more than 400. There yet remains to be completed the seating, as well as the finishing touches to the fabric of the building itself. It has been encouraging to notice a willingness to assist voluntarily on the part of some who hitherto would have been induced to do anything only with difficulty, even by an offer of wages. On hearing that the work was approaching completion, a deputation of elders came to the Mission, and having first asked what was most needed, eventually promised to supply thirty of the 120 seats required in the body of the church.

and preach the Gospel.

The boys also engage in evangelistic work, going out on Fridays in three bands to the several places of concourse—the market-places, the drinking-places, &c. Miss D. Mayor held a boys' sewing class, with an average of twenty-five, and a women's class, including some Masai women, with an average also of twenty-five, and visited the women of the several districts in their homes. She spent three months at Rabai, returning in November accompanied by Miss E. Mayor, her sister. Mr. Verbi visits Kikoro, eight miles to the south of Taveta, once a fortnight, and holds evangelistic services and a Sunday-school with much encouragement.

III. USAGARA.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Deekes, Mr. J. H. Briggs, and Mrs. H. Cole, came home in September, 1897, and the Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Beverley reached Marseilles in May, 1898, where they were detained by Mrs. Beverley's state of health. Mr. E. W. Doulton, of the New South Wales C.M. Association, was married in September, 1897, to Miss E. E. Waite, of this Mission. Both Mr. and Mrs. Deekes and the Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Beverley had the sorrow of losing infant children, born in Africa; and so had the Rev. and Mrs. A. N. Wood while at home on furlough.

MAMBOIA.

Mamboia.

After the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Deekes from Mamboia in August, 1897, until October, when Mr. and Mrs. Doulton temporarily took up their residence there after their marriage, there were no Europeans at the station, as Miss E. Colsey was requested to go to spend the two months in question at Mpwapwa. An opportunity was thus afforded of proving the sincerity and stability of the Native Christians, and also of exercising the gifts of the native catechist Asani Mugimbwa, to whom reference has been made above under Frere Town (page 10). One or two fell away, but the attendance at church and school was well maintained. Recalling what was said in last year's Report, regarding the extreme dulness of the pupils at this station, it speaks very much for the patience of their instructors that ten were passed up to the New Testament reading class during the year, small as that number is out of an average of seventy-six in the school. A class of catechumens was formed in January, 1897, with twenty-one members. Pombe drinking was a cause of falling to several of the inquirers. The Rev. and Mrs. D. J. Rees and Miss S. R. Spriggs, some of the year's recruits, arrived at Mamboia in January, 1898.

MPWAPWA AND KISOKWE.

Mpwapwa

The Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Beverley, Mr. J. H. Briggs, and Mr. E. W. Doulton were together at MPWAPWA until July, when the two last-named left, the former to take furlough and the latter to be married and to take charge for a time of the work at Mamboia. The attendance at the Sunday services fluctuated, that in the afternoon being sometimes crowded with Heathen, but at other times falling off considerably. The daily services, morning and evening, are described as "only very moderately" attended. At Whitsuntide, as for some years past, special meetings for the promotion of the spiritual life were held, and some of the Church members appeared to be helped, but in others Mr. Beverley saw little, if any, evidence of spiritual life, and two cases called for the exercise of discipline by suspending from the privileges of membership. Some of the pupils make good progress in reading. The Heathen show the same indifference as in former years; not opposing, on the contrary, professing to believe the Message, but disregarding its demands. Mr. Beverley makes grateful acknowledgment of the exceeding courtesy and kindness of the German officials at the station.

Kisokwe.

"Some progress" is reported by the Rev. H. Cole, at KISOKWE, in the increased earnestness and zeal of the Native Christians. The inhabitants resort daily to one or other of their streams for the purpose of drawing water, and little bands of Christians undertook to go to each of these places to preach Christ to the people, who at first were amused, bewildered, or annoyed, but after awhile acquiesced so far in the movement as to listen to the preachers. The number of baptized Christians is eighty, including nine adults and seven children baptized during the year. Mr. Cole feels the importance of exercising patience before admitting to baptism, and making sure so far as possible that there is a sincere desire and intention to persevere in a life of holiness and of aggressive witnessing. Most of the adult Christians have become total abstainers for the sake of example. Two of them conduct the catechumen's classes. Of the catechumens, one was a medicine man who for many years scorned and opposed Christianity; another is the Munyamhala Muwaha, or prime minister, of Madimiro, who has been a hearer for some fifteen years, but appears at length to be in earnest in seeking salvation. There are 212 pupils in five schools. The past year saw a growth of interest in reading, and more books were sold; even a chief at one of the outposts became a pupil.

Dr. E. J. Baxter was absent from the station the greater part of the year, being engaged as medical attendant to a party of missionaries, including ladies, from the coast to Uganda. He returned to Kisokwe in June, 1897. Mr. Cole did what he could for the patients who applied for treatment during his absence, and the number averaged forty daily, the large proportion of them being ulcer cases. There are five lepers at the station; one is a woman from Ugogo whose features were sadly deformed, and who had a narrow escape from being put to death for witchcraft, with which she was charged. Another, Dr. Baxter says, is an earnest Christian who "preaches almost all day long and every day to people drawing water at one of the streams." The Rev. E. H. Fincher has been transferred to Usagara from the Coast District, and arrived at Kisokwe in January, 1898.

UGANDA MISSION.

The first impetus to the exploration of Africa from the East Coast was given by the Society's missionaries, Krapf and Rebmann. In November, 1875, in consequence of information sent home by the traveller Stanley of the readiness of Mtesa, King of Uganda, to receive Christian teachers, and of two anonymous donations of £5,000 each being offered to send a missionary expedition to his dominions, the Society resolved, in dependence upon God, to organize a Mission in Uganda, and a well-equipped party proceeded accordingly to East Africa in the spring of 1876. The first leader, Lieut. G. Shergold Smith, R.N., and Mr. T. O'Neill, were killed, and several others, including Bishop Parker, died before reaching the country; but the Mission, in the face of tremendous difficulties, maintained its position in Uganda from July, 1877. A French Roman Catholic Mission arrived in 1879. King Mtesa died in 1884, and Mwanga succeeded to the throne. The new king, in 1885, was led to regard the missionaries with suspicion. He caused Bishop Hannington to be murdered on October 31st of that year, and the Mission was in danger. The storm reached its climax in the arrest of many Native Christians, and several were tortured and burnt to death. In August, 1888, King Mwanga was driven from the throne. In October, through the hostility of the Mohammedan Arabs, the English and French missionaries were expelled from the country. A period of revolution and bloodshed ensued. In October, 1889, exactly a year from the missionaries' expulsion, Mwanga re-entered Uganda, regained his throne, and the missionaries returned with him. King Mwanga accepted a British flag from the representatives of the Imperial British East Africa Company in 1889. Sir Gerald Portal reached Uganda, as Queen's Commissioner, in March, 1893, and in April, 1894, the British Government declared Uganda a British Protectorate. Mwanga fled from the capital and raised a revolution in the summer of 1897, and his infant son Chwa, baptized by the name of David, was proclaimed king.

The title of the Mission.

For the first eight years, from 1876–1884, after the Church Missionary Society undertook work on the shores of the Victoria Lake, the Society's Annual Report gave the story of its progress under the head "Nyanza Mission," the stations in Usagara, and one or two other stations in Unyanyembe and near the south coast of the Lake, which were all then in the line of route from the coast to the interior, being included. But when, in 1884, Bishop Hannington was consecrated to the new diocese of Eastern Equatorial Africa, as his episcopal jurisdiction embraced the work near the Lake and in Usagara as well as near the coast, all were grouped in the Annual Report in 1884–85 under the heading "Eastern Equatorial Africa." The sub-division of the diocese, to which reference has been made in the opening notes of the preceding Mission, gives occasion not to revert to the original nomenclature, or to the original geographical division, but to adopt the heading "Uganda Mission," corresponding to the title of the new diocese, and to include in its purview the work in Usukuma on the south of the Lake, as it is proposed that that work, although outside the territorial limits of the diocese of Uganda, shall be, with the consent of the future Bishop of Mombasa, under the episcopal supervision for the present of the Bishop of Uganda. Bishop Tucker elected to retain the interior and more remote division of his former diocese as his own sphere. He left London on November 2nd to return to East Africa, and reached Mombasa on the 25th. Hearing upon his landing the news of the grave troubles in Uganda, which are adverted to below, he made an effort to start at once up country, but he found it impossible to procure porters, as they were in such urgent request by the Government. The Bishop succeeded in getting away from the coast on March 25th, 1898.

Political troubles

A succession of wholly unforeseen political troubles rendered the year 1897 one of peculiar anxiety and danger in Uganda. In the spring of the year a mutiny which occurred in the Congo Free State was a cause of unrest and apprehension in the western extremity of the Uganda Protectorate. The native soldiers engaged in an expedition under Baron Dhanis, an officer of the Congo Free State, revolted in February, 1897, and killed, it was reported, fifty-nine Belgian officers and soldiers. The mutineers proceeded eastward and raided over the frontier of the British Protectorate, attacking and destroying Fort Katwe, on the Albert Edward Lake. Mr. A. B. Lloyd, who was in Toro at the time, was obliged by these disturbances to go to Mengo, but the Mission was re-occupied after a few weeks. A French priest fell into the hands of the mutineers, and by them was shamefully treated and beaten, but allowed to escape with his life.

Raids in Toro by mutineers from Congo Free State.

Revolutionary plot at Mengo.

In May, Mr. George Wilson, the officer in charge at Kampala, discovered a revolutionary plot in which two or three influential chiefs were implicated, namely, Mukwenda, the chief of Singo, whose suspension from church privileges was mentioned in last year's Report (page 128); Kaima, a Roman Catholic chief well known as hostile to the British influence in the country; and Gabriel, the Mujassi, or head of the soldiers, another Roman Catholic chief of bad character. The two former were arrested and sentenced to five and seven years' imprisonment with hard labour at the Eldoma Ravine, but the third managed to escape. King Mwanga, there was reason to suspect, was to some extent implicated in this attempt to cause a rising, and on July 6th he escaped from Mengo and fled to Budu. He left his enclosure at 3 a.m., cutting his way through the reed fences, evidently not caring to trust his gatekeepers, and he was unaccompanied in his flight save by a single chief and with only three canoes. It is uncertain to what extent Mwanga was actuated by fear of the consequences of his active connivance with sedition, but from his own character and that of the men who consorted with him, the ruling motive would seem to have been his wish to escape from the restraints imposed by the British power and by the Christian native chiefs on the gross excesses in vice and cruelty to which he was prone; and with this dislike of moral restraints the heathen portion of the community largely sympathized. Dr. A. R. Cook wrote in his journal on July 12th :—

Mwanga leaves the capital.

Grounds of the disaffection.

Nearly all the police have deserted, they went off with the guns last night to join Mwanga. The Katikiro wrote rather a gloomy letter to Walker, saying he does not realize how serious a matter it is, and that the people hate and detest the conquerors. This is mainly a religious war between the Heathen and the Christians. The king hates the Europeans because they stopped his gross immoralities; the chiefs hate us because a Christian is expected only to have one wife, and because no slaves are allowed; and the people hate us because they say they are obliged to carry loads and to make roads (measures adopted by the Government for the good of the country), and because the old heathen customs are dying away.

The worst of it is the Katikiro says half of the Baganda, when they get to the scene of war, are likely to desert to the king's side. The only faithful Natives are the Protestants. Nearly all the Christian teachers have been recalled from their work to go out to war, as they are the only ones that can really be depended on.

Dr. Cook also stated that Mwanga had sent messengers through the country, and also to the feudatory states, Busoga in the east and Toro in the west, and to Kabarega, ex-king of Unyoro, inciting to a general revolution with the object of driving all Europeans out of Uganda, killing all the Native Christians and readers, and then restoring the old customs. The time of his flight was evidently chosen with some premeditation. The Soudanese garrison had been reduced in order to man expeditions against Kamassia, on the right bank of the Nile, and Nandi, near Kavirondo. But unknown to Mwanga some of these forces were then at Luba's, in Busoga, and therefore more available than if they had been in Unyoro. In Budu Mwanga received the support of nearly all the chiefs. Archdeacon Walker wrote:—

The Province of Budu in revolt.

Some of the most important Roman Catholic chiefs have joined the king, and large numbers of others. One man, who was Roman Catholic Musalosalo in Captain Lugard's time, speared all his cattle the night before he left to join the king, hoping thereby to show his devotion to his king. He seems to be a second Ajax, for he did not stop to eat the beef and mutton, but went off, leaving eighty cows and fifty sheep dead on the ground.

The French priests in Budu, apprehensive for their personal safety, were escorted by Mr. Forster and a force of Soudanese to the borders of that province, whence they could make their way to Mengo. On July 20th, Major Ternan, the Acting Commissioner, with a force of 220 of all ranks, besides Waganda, routed Mwanga's army of several thousand guns, and practically the whole population of Budu armed with spears. Major Ternan received a wound in the shoulder, but was able on the 28th to attack and disperse the remnants of Mwanga's party, who had united forces with a colony of bhang smokers (Bangoni) on the Ankoli frontier. After the first disaster to his arms Mwanga made his way into German territory, and was sent as a prisoner to Mwanza at the south of the Lake, near the place from which he crossed the Lake to recover his throne from the Mohammedans with the help of his Christian subjects in 1889. Major Ternan proclaimed Mwanga an outlaw, and his infant son, Daudi Chwa, who was born in August, 1896, was placed on the throne of Uganda on August 14th. Three regents were appointed to administer the government in his behalf, namely, Apolo Kagwe and Mugwania, the Protestant and Roman Catholic Katikiros, and the Kangao, one of the leading Protestant chiefs. Archdeacon Walker wrote the following short account of the coronation ceremony:—

His infant son placed on the throne.

A proclamation was read out proscribing Mwanga and some twelve of the chiefs. All but one were Roman Catholics. All the rest of the rebels were pardoned on condition of their coming in and laying down their arms. Apolo Kagwe, the Katikiro, and Mugwania, the Roman Catholic Katikiro, with Zakaria Kangao, were appointed to administer the government of the country in the name of Daudi the king till he is able to act for himself. Fortunately there is a very good feeling between the Roman Catholic Katikiro, who represents the loyal Roman Catholics, and Apolo Kagwe, so we hope all will go well. They have a very difficult task to perform, because there is such a strong anti-European feeling in the country.

After the reading of the proclamation at Nakasero (Mr. Wilson's private house), the chiefs went to Mengo, and the young child Daudi was produced, and in accordance with ancient custom was set upon the seat of his forefathers (called Namulondo) by the chief called Mugema. He was arrayed in a bark-cloth and a shield, and two spears were held over him, and it was proclaimed that King Daudi had "eaten" Uganda. A small girl (called Yunia Kamwanda, about eight years of age, a Protestant child, though daughter of Kalema) was then arrayed in a bark-cloth as the Lubuga. She is also called "Kabaka" (= king), and is regarded as the king's sister. She receives great honour and considerable wealth. For the first time in Uganda history there is now a Christian king. Now the three called "Kabaka" are all Protestants: the king, Daudi; the queen-mother or Namasole, Eva; the queen-sister or Lubuga, Yunia Kamwanda. A good start has been made, for though the king is a child, yet in malice also he is a babe, and this is an advantage no king of Uganda has enjoyed before, I should suppose.

Budu continues in revolt.

A few days later Major Ternan started for the Coast in a very precarious state of health. Before the month was out the rebels in Budu had again drawn to a head and were met and defeated by Mr. Grant and Lieutenant Hobart. In December Mwanga made his escape from the Germans and reappeared in Budu, and a considerable force, numbering some 2,400, mustered to support him under the leadership of Mujassi Gabriel, the Roman Catholic chief referred to above as having been one of the first to revolt. Mwanga was said to have declared himself a Mohammedan. In the last days of December Lieutenant Hobart, with the Soudanese soldiers in Budu, defeated this force, but Mwanga evaded capture.

Acting-Commissioner's opinion of the C.M.S. missionaries.

After his return to England, Major Ternan, in reply to a letter of thanks addressed to him by Sir John Kennaway, the Society's President, for the consideration and active concern he had shown for the safety of the missionaries during these native rebellions, replied:—

It has been a great pleasure to me to have been of use to my friends of the Mission in Uganda, and I had the pleasure of drawing the attention of Lord Salisbury to the really excellent example set by the C.M.S. missionaries in Uganda. At a very critical moment they remained at their posts though surrounded by rebels, and by so doing reassured the native chiefs in their vicinity, and were able to furnish us with valuable information when most needed. I am very glad I should have this opportunity of bringing to the notice of the Society the very high opinion that we have for the members of the Mission in Uganda.

Disloyalty of Mohammedan Baganda.

Early in September news reached Kampala that symptoms of disaffection were manifesting themselves in Busoga, where some of the Mohammedan chiefs were reported to be in communication with Kabarega; as a precaution a guard was placed over Mbogo, the uncle of Mwanga, residing at the capital and recognized as local head of the Mohammedans, and the prompt steps taken by Mr. George Wilson effected the capture and imprisonment of the implicated or suspected chiefs. In view of what followed this was an act of the utmost importance, and the over-ruling Providence of God can be most clearly seen in the successive crises of this remarkable period.

Major Macdonald's expedition.

The next event was the most grave of the whole series of troubles. In the summer of 1897, Major Macdonald, R.E., was selected by the British Foreign Office to conduct an exploratory expedition in the districts adjacent to the Italian Sphere of Influence to the north of Lake Rudolph, where the River Juba is believed to take its rise, and the authorities in the Uganda Protectorate were instructed to supply him for this purpose with 300 Soudanese troops, besides a number of porters, &c. These were to meet Major Macdonald at a place between Lake Baringo and the Ravine in September, and accordingly the men who, after the operations in Kamassia and Nandi, referred to above, had been taken by Major Ternan to Budu in July, accompanied him on his way to the Coast so far as the Mau plateau. With Major Macdonald was Mr. J. F. Jackson, who took over the duties of Acting-Commissioner of the Uganda Protectorate from Major Ternan. As Major Macdonald was starting northward on September 23rd, with the third and last column of his expedition, a large proportion of the Soudanese, under Mbaruk Effendi, one of their captains, deserted.

Desertion of his Soudanese troops.

To Mr. Jackson, who followed them and visited their camp at the Eldoma Ravine, the mutineers gave as their reasons for deserting, that they were tired of being sent on successive expeditions while other companies remained comfortably in stations; that they were not allowed to take their women with them; that they were going to a foodless and waterless country, where they would all die; that they were underpaid and insufficiently fed, &c. They had not been informed by their Soudanese officers of the arrangements which Lord Salisbury had directed should be made for the support of their wives and families during their absence. Unfortunately they were fired upon by the garrison at the Ravine Station, and on September 25th they marched westward in the direction of Nandi. Part of the Nandi garrison joined them and took possession of the fort and its large store of ammunition, making Captain Bagnall a prisoner, but they left him unhurt. The few Soudanese at Mumia's also joined them, but Mr. Tomkins, the civilian in charge, saved that fort by means of a force of Swahilis which he collected. Meanwhile Major Thruston had proceeded from Mengo to Luba's to assist Mr. N. A. Wilson to defend that fort, but the garrison joined the mutineers, and made prisoners of Major Thruston, Mr. Wilson, and Mr. Scott, the last-named having just arrived from Mengo in the steam launch conveying a Maxim gun, which fell into the hands of the rebels.

The fort at Luba's in their possession.

Major Macdonald and Mr. Jackson reached Luba's on October 18th, and occupied a strong position on a hill overlooking the fort. But the force consisted only of ten Europeans, eighteen Sikhs, about 340 Swahilis, and a few Soudanese whom Major Macdonald had disarmed; and their operations were greatly hampered by a very short supply of ammunition, and also by the fact that the mutineers had driven into the fort a large number of women and children belonging to the loyal Soudanese, in the hope of inducing the latter to join the mutiny, on which account Major Macdonald was reluctant to shell the fort. An engagement took place on October 19th, in which Lieutenant Fielding was killed, Mr. Jackson severely wounded, and Dr. Macpherson slightly so. The Soudanese suffered defeat, and immediately afterwards murdered their three European prisoners, Major Thruston, and Messrs. Wilson and Scott. Mr. George Wilson sent from Mengo at this point a considerable force of Waganda, between 3,000 and 4,000, some armed with guns and others with spears, under their own chiefs, and in the subsequent engagements with the mutineers these bore a considerable share of the fighting, and among them the fatal effects of the Maxim gun were most severe. On October 26th and 28th the Waganda lost twenty killed, and fifty-four were wounded; on November 24th their losses were sixty killed and 280 wounded. Eventually, after the siege had lasted nearly three months, the mutineers, reduced to a fraction of their original number, evacuated Fort Luba's during the night of January 9th, crossed the Nile, and were overtaken by Captain Harrison at Kabagambi, a place near the south of Mruli. Captain Molony, R.A., was seriously wounded in this engagement. The mutineers who survived took refuge in the swamps of Lake Kioga. Thus was terminated a state of peril exceeding any probably that Uganda has known in the course of its eventful history.

escorted their leader to the Coast. Captain (now Colonel) Lugard introduced them into Uganda in 1891–92, and since that time they have been engaged first by the Imperial British East Africa Company, and since 1893 by the British Government, being known as the "Uganda Rifles." By them the forts throughout the Uganda Protectorate, from Eldoma Ravine to the Semliki River, and from Unyoro to Budu, were garrisoned, and the gravest apprehensions were entertained that these garrisons would all join with their comrades in throwing off allegiance to the Government, and that the Waganda Mohammedans at Mengo, in Busoga and elsewhere, would add their forces to the mutiny. However near these fears may have come to being realized, and in the case of the garrisons at Naivasha and the Ravine, and in Budu, there is no question that it was very near indeed, yet through God's great goodness none of them did actually join. At Kampala and at Port Alice, near the capital, Mr. Wilson, at an early date, October 18th, had by his courage, candour, and tact, succeeded in disarming the garrisons and winning their goodwill at the same time; and both Mbogo and the Soudanese officers were most serviceable in persuading the other garrisons to be loyal. Mbogo brought to Mr. Wilson a letter which he had received from the mutineers at Luba's, offering their support if he would incite a Mohammedan revolt and make a bid for the throne of Uganda; while the officers spontaneously offered to write, and did write, a joint-letter to the garrisons in Toro, Unyoro, and Budu, warning them against joining the mutiny and reflecting on the bad behaviour of the mutineers in murdering their English officers. At Luba's the Soudanese in Major Macdonald's camp who had been disarmed caught up the guns from those who were shot in some of the early engagements and fought steadily against their own race and blood, though knowing that the shots they fired might hit their wives or children within the fort.

Loyalty of some of their number.

The Government ordered several companies of Indian troops, Sikhs and 27th Bombay Infantry, to be sent, and these arrived in Uganda in January and February, 1898. A number of drill sergeants who volunteered for the service were also sent out from England, and most of these responded to an invitation to meet some of the Uganda missionaries who were at home at the Church Missionary House, and learn from them something about the Waganda and the wonderful story of God's dealings with them.

Some of the missionaries in the country had very merciful escapes from falling into the hands of various hostile forces, to which reference has been made. When, in July, Mwanga raised the revolt in Budu the Rev. H. Clayton, the late Mr. Pilkington (see below), and Mr. R. H. Leakey (now at home) were in Koki, the country to the south of Budu, and consequently were cut off from the possibility of reaching or communicating with Uganda. Mr. Leakey wrote some months afterwards:—

Preservation of missionaries in Koki.

I had arranged to return to Budu with Mr. Pilkington, but two days before we were to start we heard that Mwanga had fled from the capital and a revolt had broken out. The French priests in Budu with all loyal Waganda at once fled to the capital, while those here fled to German territory. Budu was thus in the hands of the rebels, and we were quite cut off here, having rebels east and south, and hostile Ankole people north and west.

The Rev. H. W. Weatherhead in October left his station in Busoga to pay a short holiday visit to Ngogwe. On October 15th, he was at Luba's and saw Major Thruston and Mr. N. A. Wilson at the fort, the latter being very confident of success in talking the Soudanese back to their allegiance, and no one dreaming of treachery on the part of the garrison. Mr. Weatherhead thus relates his experiences:—

Wonderful escape of Mr. Weatherhead at Luba's.

I arrived at Ngogwe on Friday, but rumours we heard on Saturday made me determine to rush back to the Mission station at Luba's to try and save a few things, especially the printing type, by hiding it in the jungle. I reckoned, and rightly so, that the Nubians would not even then have reached Luba's, and that they would not touch the Mission station till they had been to the fort. I walked straight through from Ngogwe to the Lake, and waited there for the moon to rise at twelve midnight. After a good deal of trouble I managed to get started, arriving in Busoga at 2.30 a.m. I found the fort most carefully guarded, pickets out all round, and patrols along the road leading to the hill. After handing over the Uganda postman to a sentry I passed on. Several sentries came and looked closely into my face. Why did they let me pass, for they must before that time have decided to let the rebels in? On reaching the foot of the great hill I came across four of the rebel Nubians. They dropped into the shade and seized their guns. I saluted them in Swahili as I passed, but got a rather grumpy return. On the hill I passed about twenty Nubians, all straggling down without order, and they, too, all let me pass through them unharmed. Why? There seems no good human reason. I reached the station at 4 a.m., and was resting a little, when, at 7.30, Nua [the Rev. Nua Kikwabanga] burst into my room with news from Miro's, who brought the news of the treachery and the seizing of the two white men in the fort; also that the Mohammedans had risen, and my life was in danger. Nua was most kind, and evidently meant to save me, if possible. He himself carried me over most of the swamps. In one we had to hide twice because of Nubians and Islamites. We walked ten and a half hours that day, and on Monday, after six hours' heavy walking through long grass, reached the Nile and crossed into Buganda and safety. (Isaiah xliii. 2.)

Ladies recalled to the capital.

As soon as the news of the mutiny reached Mengo, on the evening of October 18th, special messengers were instantly sent to the ladies and other missionaries at the various out-stations, to return at once to the capital, and early the next morning the male missionaries were summoned to Kampala to take part in the critical and anxious work of disarming the Soudanese garrison A little later on the same day, October 19th, Mr. George Wilson asked for volunteers from among the missionaries to accompany the army of Waganda soldiers he was sending to Luba's, in order to give them confidence and to interpret the orders of the Europeans in command. The missionaries decided after conference together that Mr. G. L. Pilkington and Dr. A. R. Cook should go, the former to act as interpreter, and the latter for medical duty. Indeed, everything, humanly speaking, seemed to depend on the native Protestant adherents. Major Macdonald's force consisted, as already mentioned, of only some 12 Sikhs and 215 Swahili porters whom he had put under arms. The loyalty of the Soudanese garrison at all the stations was suspected; the Mohammedan Baganda could not be trusted to hold aloof from their co-religionists; the heathen Baganda and not a few of the Roman Catholics in Budu had lately been in revolt; the Protestant Baganda therefore, chiefs and people, were the only people on whom absolute reliance could be placed, and with them the European officers were unable to hold communication in their own language. The arrival of the missionaries at Luba's was very warmly welcomed by Major Macdonald and Mr. Jackson, the latter, the Acting-Commissioner, had been severely wounded, and the Government doctor, who had himself been shot, was overwhelmed with the work of attending to the wounded after the battle of the 19th. Those killed and wounded included a number of prominent teachers, and on the news of some fifty-four Christians lying wounded reaching Mengo early in November, Messrs. A. B. Lloyd, T. B. Fletcher, and Allan Wilson were sent to Luba's to help in nursing them.

Many of the leading Christians killed and wounded.

But the war was to cause a still heavier loss to the Mission. Early in the morning of December 11th it was arranged to send a party of Waganda to cut down the banana-gardens on the right side of the fort at Luba's, from which the Soudanese obtained their food, and under cover of which they sheltered when advancing to attack.

A covering party under Captain Harrison went on in advance, and those who were to do the cutting were under Mr. Pilkington. No sooner had the latter taken up his position than his boy Aloni (Aaron) saw a number of Soudanese concealed in the grass close at hand, and fired at them. Captain Harrison and Mr. Pilkington thought them to be Waganda, and reprimanded Aloni for firing without orders, but they responded to his fire, and one of them took deliberate aim at Mr. Pilkington and fired several times, hitting him in the thigh and breaking the femoral artery. He was carried to the rear, and then back to the fort, and died a few minutes after reaching it. Mr. Lloyd relates that just after he fell, Aloni, observing his manifest prostration and the change in his face, said to him, "My master, you are dying, death has come"; to which he replied, "Yes, my child, it is as you say." Then Aloni said, "My master, he that believeth in Christ, although he die, yet shall he live"; to which the reply was made, "Yes, my child, it is as you say, shall never die." He thanked the men who carried him from the field, and expired at 8.30 a.m., being buried the same evening with Lieutenant Macdonald, brother of Major Macdonald, who was killed in the same engagement, under a tree outside the fort, very near the spot where Bishop Hannington was murdered on October 31st, 1885. The body was subsequently removed and conveyed to Mengo, where Bishop Hannington's remains were also finally interred.

Letters of condolence.

Numerous letters of condolence from the heads of the French and English Roman Catholic Mission and from the Government officers were written to Archdeacon Walker, the local head of the Mission, as soon as Mr. Pilkington's death became known. Mr. Wilson wrote at the request of Mr. Jackson, the Acting Administrator, "No higher tribute can be paid, nor one which Mr. Pilkington would have esteemed greater, than the sorrow which is expressed by the native population of the country for which he has worked so much, and for the honour of which I believe we can say in all sincerity he has given his life." A very touching letter was written by the Rev. Henry Wright Duta to the Rev. Ernest Millar, whom the former supposed to be in England, but who was on his way out, and on receiving the letter sent a translation of it to England. It is as follows :—

Namirembe, Uganda,
December 14th, 1897.

Letter from Rev. Henry Wright Duta.

My dear Millar,—How are you, my friend? I tell you about the sorrow which has just come to us, about our brother, Mr. Pilkington, whom we love very much; he was killed in the Soudanese war in Usoga on December 11th.

When he saw that the Baganda and the Government were going to war with the Soudanese because they had mutinied—you know what his love for us is—he went to the war with Dr. Cook, Lloyd, and Fletcher; and of the Baganda many, 110, were killed, but of all the English not one was killed. Pilkington was very sorry, and said, "I want very much to die; I should have liked to have died in the place of those Baganda."

Well, when they fought for the fourth time they killed him and Lieut. Macdonald, but we were all very much distressed at the death of Pilkington; we all shed tears, we cried our eyes out. Of Pilkington we have only now the footprints; but it is difficult to follow in the footprints when the leader is not there. Pilkington has died, but his work has not died; it is still with us. He preached to all men the Gospel; Protestants, Roman Catholics, and Mohammedans, all lamented him when he died, because he was beloved by all. He always welcomed both the wise and the foolish; all black people were his friends.

"We cried our eyes out."

We sorrow very much, beyond our strength; we do not see among the missionaries who we have any one who can fill his place and take on his work. I worked very hard at teaching him Luganda, and he learned it very well, and was able to speak Luganda like a Native, and could translate any book into Luganda without my help, and I was not afraid of him making any mistakes.

You see this is what makes all of us Baganda so sad. Where is another Englishman to give himself as he did to this work of translating our books?

Therefore I want you, if you are still in England, and have not yet left, to go to the Committee of the Church Missionary Society and tell them how our brother Pilkington has been killed; tell them that the Baganda sorrow very much for Pilkington, that if we could write their language, English, we would have written to them in tears, and our tears would have fallen on the letter as we begged them to seek for a man of Pilkington's ability, and to beg him to come here and help us, and to take on Pilkington's work.

His body we disinterred from Usoga, and we buried him here in Uganda near our church, that we might always remember him. If we had known how to carve his likeness on stone we would have done it; but the sight of his tomb will suffice us.

My friend Millar, I entreat you, do not fail to send my message to the leaders of the C.M.S. that they may send us someone to succeed Pilkington; and you yourself, do you beseech with tears those Christians who have hearts filled with the love of Jesus Christ, to come and pity us and help us.

It would be an excellent thing to circulate this letter among all the English. I know their love for us. They will hear us. I trust so.

(Signed) H. W. D. KITAKULE.

Mr. George L. Pilkington was son of Mr. H. M. Pilkington, Q.C., who at one time was Registrar of the Probate Division of the High Court of Justice in Ireland. The son was born at Tore, Tyrrell's Pass, and educated at Uppingham School and Pembroke College, Cambridge. After taking his degree in 1888, obtaining a first-class in the Classical Tripos, he was an assistant master for a short time at Harrow, and then at Bedford Grammar School. He was already widely known, especially among the young, in connexion with the Children's Special Service Mission and Schoolboys' Scripture Union. In 1889, when he was twenty-five years of age, he responded, together with two other Cambridge men, Messrs. Baskerville and Cotter, to Mr. Douglas Hooper's appeal for men for East Africa, and he was a member of one of the two parties, for West and East Africa respectively, of whom leave was taken at the great Valedictory Meeting on January 20th, 1890, when the late Archdeacon Dobinson of the Niger Mission (see above, page 87) was also taken leave of.

The Revs. E. C. Gordon, E. Millar, and F. C. Smith (formerly of the Mission), and Mr. A. B. Fisher wrote In Memoriam notices of Mr. Pilkington, which appeared in the C.M. Intelligencer.* Mr. Millar wrote:—

Mr. Pilkington's translation work.

When Mr. Pilkington first reached the country on December 27th, 1890, he had already picked up the language from Baganda who were in the caravan. At that time the only portions of the Luganda Bible which were in the hands of the Natives were the Gospels of St. Matthew and St. John, though the other two Gospels had been translated. By March, 1891, he had prepared a Luganda Handbook and Vocabulary—the first accurate one ever published—and translations flew from his pen until, by the middle of 1892, he had completed the whole of the New Testament and the Psalms. The whole New Testament was in the hands of the Natives by Christmas, 1893, and all copies were immediately bought up. He at once set about a revision of the New Testament, with the assistance of his most valuable helper, the Rev. Henry Wright Duta; and also went on with the translation of the Old Testament, which he finally completed during his furlough in England last year. The whole of the Old Testament, with the exception of a few of the Minor Prophets, was thus translated into Luganda by him.

* See C.M. Intelligencer for February and March, 1898.

During 1893 he was also engaged in the revision of the Book of Common Prayer, and added several of the Occasional Services, the Thirty-nine Articles, &c., which had not previously been translated. At the beginning of that year he also translated into Luganda the First Catechism of the Christian Vernacular Education Society of India, and added to it; and this catechism has ever since been the foundation of our teaching for baptism, every candidate having to learn it off by heart before being admitted as a catechumen. The advanced Catechism for Confirmation Candidates, written by the Bishop, was also translated into Luganda by Pilkington, and to him also are due the greater number of our Luganda hymns, many of which were written by him, and these are great favourites with the Baganda. He also, at the request of the missionaries, wrote a book entitled, "He who seeks finds" ("Anonyalaba"), pointing out the difference between nominal and real Christianity, and showing, by long extracts from the Bible, what God requires of us. His grasp of the language was wonderful, and he was known all over the country as a "true Muganda." One of his delights was to go out with a book and collect proverbs, traditions, &c., from all whom he met. We hoped that he would publish these later on.

His part in the spiritual revival of 1893.

He received a very great blessing in the baptism of the Holy Ghost when on the island of Kome in December, 1893, and it was this, coupled with other circumstances, which led to the great outpouring of the Spirit on the Native Church at that time. He was the chief speaker at the meetings, and I well remember his words and his humility in telling of the keeping power of the Holy Ghost. He was indeed from that time a different man, and a Native Christian, one who knew him best, said that he could hardly have believed that he was the same man. So anxious was he for the spiritual welfare of the Native Christians who were at that time going to the war with Unyoro, that he obtained leave to go with them as a lay chaplain, and used to hold services every day with much blessing as the result. His services to Colonel Colville as interpreter were most valuable, and he received the Unyoro medal for the campaign.

Captain Charles H. Villiers, of the Royal Horse Guards, who was on the staff of Sir Gerald Portal in 1898, wrote the following testimony to the Times:—

The Natives "would go anywhere and do anything for him."

On the arrival of Sir Gerald Portal in Uganda we were all surprised to find that the Waganda chiefs could read and write, and on our crossing the Nile these chiefs sent Sir Gerald Portal written congratulations on his safe arrival. But on coming to Mengo, the capital, which is also the head-quarters of the C.M.S., we soon saw the reason of the wonderful civilization to which these people had attained. Mr. Pilkington was the leading spirit of the C.M.S. missionaries. He was living in a neat bungalow built by the Natives under his direction. Here a large number of Natives of all ages had been taught to read and write. They looked up to Mr. Pilkington as their friend, and would go anywhere and do anything for him. He accompanied the Waganda, at their special request, as their chaplain, on the Unyoro expedition, living in their camp with them throughout the entire campaign, and was the cause of their abandoning all their former ideas of warfare and behaving as well as civilized troops. He was doubtless acting in the same capacity to the Protestant Waganda who have now joined Major Macdonald. It is owing to the attachment of the Protestant Waganda to men like Mr. Pilkington that we have been able to hold Uganda so easily up to the present time. In Mr. Pilkington's death the cause of civilization in Africa has received a severe blow and England has lost a devoted servant.

Only a sense of imperative duty could have induced the missionaries to be so closely mixed up with the fighting at Luba's. Archdeacon Walker expressed to Major Macdonald in December a hope that the missionaries might be set free from their unwonted duties at as early a date as possible. The following was the reply he received:—

The officer in command acknowledges the invaluable and indispensable assistance of the missionaries as interpreters.

With reference to your wish to know whether it would not be possible to withdraw from the army in Usoga the two members of the C.M.S. who are serving with the forces there, I have the honour to inform you that I consider such a step would be highly undesirable and fraught with public danger. Messrs Lloyd and Fletcher, together with the late Mr. Pilkington, whose death I so deeply deplore, have lent invaluable assistance in acting as interpreters between the Government officers and the Waganda, in carrying orders and in preventing misunderstandings which might so easily occur. Their withdrawal in this crisis would undoubtedly greatly detract from the value of our Uganda levies, who, in the siege of the mutineers' fort at Lubwa's, have to fight in a way to which they are quite unaccustomed. I have no hesitation in saying that but for the presence of the members of the Mission with the army in Usoga, the Waganda would lose far more heavily than they have done, as they would not so fully understand the wishes and plans of the officer commanding.

I need hardly mention that the present military operations are quite different from an ordinary campaign in Uganda, as our very existence, whether Government officials, missionaries, or traders, depends on our quelling this mutiny. It behoves all British subjects, whatever their profession, to stand together until the mutiny is suppressed; and, far from agreeing to the withdrawal of Messrs. Lloyd and Fletcher, I would ask you whether you could not spare another member of your Mission to help these gentlemen in their arduous duties.

I am aware that these duties are not those for which they came to Uganda; but when the existence of the Protectorate, and consequently of the Missions, the lives and honour of English ladies, and the saving of bloodshed are at stake, I have no hesitation in calling on all British subjects to assist in these military operations to the extent of their power.

Death of the Rev. J.S. Callis.

Besides Mr. Pilkington, the Mission suffered the loss of another of its European labourers by death. The Rev. John Samuel Callis, a son of the Rev. J. Callis, Rector of South Heigham, Norwich, only arrived in Uganda in February, 1897. He was a graduate of St. Catherine's College, Cambridge, and had studied Divinity, after taking his degree, at Wycliffe Hall, Oxford. A few days after reaching Mengo he started for Toro, the station to which the Uganda Finance Committee assigned him, and arrived there early in March. His death occurred at Mwenzi, in Toro, on April 24th, the Saturday of Easter week. Mr. A. B. Lloyd, who was stationed at Beteleyemu, the capital, 25 miles distant, hearing on Good Friday of his having fever, rode the intervening distance on his bicycle in three hours, and remained with him through his illness, for four days together not leaving his side. He wrote a most touching account of these days of watching:—

Wednesday morning he was particularly bright, and we sat and talked together. First I read to him John v., and he said a few words on verses 25, 28, and 29, mentioning the reference to the two resurrections—that which now is, and that which is to come. Then he asked me to sing to him again, and I did so, he himself choosing the hymns. His choice was curious. "Days and moments quickly flying" was one of the first; "We shall sleep, but not for ever," and then "Abide with me! fast falls the eventide." He really seemed much better, and his temperature was low. Alas! it was the calm before the storm—so treacherous is fever. At about five o'clock in the evening I left him a moment to get some food in the next room. He continued singing; first he sang, "The sands of time are sinking." I was much struck with the power he put into it. For a few moments he was quiet, and then he sang, "Peace, perfect peace." At the fifth verse he stopped. I thought he had fallen asleep, and in a few moments I walked to his bedside and was startled to see him with his eyes wide open, lying on his side. I spoke to him, but he neither moved nor spoke, and I knew he was unconscious.

Friday, no change; a much higher temperature, and not for one moment did his eyes close in sleep, jut that terrible vacant stare.

A solemn scene.

Friday night will be always vivid in my memory. The chief and many of the Natives had gathered together in the house, knowing the end was near. Oh, how my heart bled as I watched at his side! The chief's sister, who had been devoted to him in life, sat at the head of the bed, bathing him with cold water and wiping the death-dew from his brow. One woman's tender care and loving devotion he had right to the end. Towards morning, at about five o'clock, we all saw death was near. I called the people in, and we knelt and prayed together so far as sobs would let us; and then his heavy breathing was the only sound heard. All waited in breathless silence for the end. At last it came. My candle, which was by the bedside, flickered and then went out, and almost at the same moment our beloved brother fell asleep, and the first rays of the morning sun flashed into the room, the birds then burst into song as the Victor entered into the "endless day," to be "for ever with the Lord."

Instinctively we all fell upon our knees and had five minutes' silent prayer, broken only by the stifled sobs of all present. Then, with the help of the Muganda teacher, I performed the last service to the tired body. It was when this was done that I shed the first tears of manhood, and I wept like a little child, not for the one who had gone, but the awful feeling of loneliness seemed to overwhelm me; but Jesus poured in the healing balm, and I was able to look up into the face of my never-failing Friend and say, "Thy Will be done."

We chose a nice little spot for his grave, close by the church, and here we buried him. And as I read, before a vast crowd of Heathen and Christians, the glorious Burial Service, hope seemed to spring up within my heart, and I left the graveside feeling stronger.

"Here we offer and present unto Thee ourselves

The last sermons that Mr. Callis preached before leaving England, both in his father's church and at All Saints', Shooter's Hill, Woolwich, of which he had been curate, were from the text, "Except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die, it abideth alone; but if it die it bringeth forth much fruit." And on stepping on the shore of Uganda from the Ruwenzori, after singing the Doxology he led the rest of the party in the prayer,

"Here we offer and present unto Thee, O Lord, ourselves, our souls and bodies."

Reinforcements.

Two parties to reinforce the Mission arrived at Mengo from the coast in February, 1898. The former consisted of Mr. Charles William Hattersley and Mr. Roland Force-Jones, a short-course student of Islington College, who sailed from England in September and travelled up-country under the escort of the Rev. E. H. Hubbard, returning to the Mission after furlough. The latter consisted of the Rev. Charles Henry Thomas Ecob, of Islington College, who was admitted to deacon's orders by the Bishop of London on Trinity Sunday, June 19th, 1897; Mr. Harry E. Maddox; and Mr. Kristen Eskildsen Borup, a Dane by birth, who was sent from Canada by the Society's friends in Montreal (see above under "Colonial Associations," page 56), to be interviewed and accepted by the Committee, those friends contributing to the Society's funds for his support: these sailed in October with the Rev. J. Roscoe, returning to the Mission. Mr. Hubbard's party started from the coast early in October, and reached Kikuyu on November 6th. There they heard of the mutiny of the Soudanese, and of their having raided Nandi and Kavirondo, and that in consequence, the people in those countries, assuming that the Soudanese had acted by order of the Government, had risen in rebellion and the road was blocked. They were, however, permitted by the Consul-General of the East African Protectorate to proceed on December 1st. Near the Eldoma Ravine Mr. Hubbard* was accidentally shot in the back with the gun of one of his companions. He was carried in a hammock most of the way after the unhappy occurrence, and reached Mumia's in December, where he and his party were detained some weeks, and were caught up by Mr. Roscoe's party which left the coast some weeks later.

The following came home on furlough during the year. The Rev. W. A. Crabtree arrived in England in May, 1897; he received the Committee's permission to marry and to take his wife up-country, and in March, 1898, he was married at Didsbury to Miss Ethel Bronwen Poole, and they sailed for Africa in April. The Rev. E. Millar and Mr. A. B. Fisher reached home in June, 1897, having travelled from Uganda to the coast in the company of Dr. E. J. Baxter, and accomplished the journey in fifty-nine days; Mr. Millar sailed in February, 1898, to return. The Rev. E. C. Gordon reached England in September, travelling down by the old route through Usukuma and Usagara. The Rev. F. Rowling, who was married at Mengo on February 7th, 1898, to Miss E. E. Browne, of this Mission, reached home with Mrs. Rowling in May, as also did the Rev. A. J. Pike and Mr. R. H. Leakey.

* The sad news was received by telegram on April 30th, 1898, that Mr. Hubbard died at Mengo on March 9th.

Improved means of transit between Uganda and the Coast.

Every successive party, whether up- or down-country, bears testimony to the rapid improvements being made in the communication between Uganda and the coast. A road all the way from Mombasa to Port Victoria on the Victoria Lake, a distance of 627 miles, constructed by Captain Sclater, was completed in 1896. A number of excellent bridges have been made, and bullock-waggons have been taken the whole journey. This permits of the transport of heavy machinery, and Mr. R. J. D. MacAllister, the Vice-Consul of the Uganda Protectorate, stated, in May, 1897, that a new screw-steamer of seventy tons was about to be sent up for service on the Lake. The railway, moreover, is advancing, if not rapidly, yet surely, into the interior. By September, 1897, one hundred miles were completed. Bishop Tucker thus described his return journey to the coast after a visit to Taveta in February, 1898:—

Over the desert in a saloon carriage.

Frere Town, Feb. 23rd.—We got back here early yesterday. On the Monday morning we started to march to Voi. After a very hot march of six hours we found ourselves back at the railway. Captain and Mrs. Macpherson gave us tea, and to our great delight we heard that a train would start for Mombasa in one hour. I got a wash and found a comfortable place in a first-class saloon carriage. A more extraordinary thing was yet to happen. You remember the Taro desert—how often on getting to Maungu there was no water, and how one had to tramp on through the night to get water. Well, the train passes through this desert, and there is now a station at Maungu. At the last stopping place before we got there, we asked the station-master to telegraph on to the next station, and ask them to have some boiling water ready for us. This he did, so that on arriving at Maungu, not only did we have water, but it was boiling. We made tea straight away and drank it in our saloon carriage, as we were whirled across Taro at the rate of twenty miles an hour. What a strange contrast with three years ago!

Immunity from danger.

Moreover the entire immunity from danger from the once dreaded Masai and other tribes, owing to the wise and firm treatment of these tribes by the officials in charge of the Government stations in their countries, is a striking feature of up-country travelling when compared with what it was a few years ago. It was only in 1895 that a whole caravan of 920 men under an English trader, Mr. Dick, was utterly destroyed, speared to death, by Masai in the Kedong Valley, near Lake Naivasha. Mr. Hubbard, while detained in Kikuyu, as mentioned above, paid a visit to Lainana, the chief of the Masai. Bishop Tucker has pleaded strongly for the occupation of Kikuyu, and the Committee have recognized its claims and hope to locate two or more missionaries there at an early date.

Marriage regulations.

The considerations regarding the improved facilities of transit and the greater safety of the route have led the Committee to relax the rule—the unwritten but none the less rigidly imposed rule—of this Mission regarding the marriage of the missionaries.

The Committee have observed with thankfulness the conscientious and persevering patience and self-restraint in this matter of the missionaries through the period of twenty years since the Mission was begun, when it was not thought safe for married women to be sent up. The Committee have sanctioned special regulations on the subject.

Books sold.

The following is a list, prepared by Miss B. Taylor, of the books sold in Uganda during the six months from January to June, 1897:—

New Testaments	1519	James—Revelation	65	Daniel	145
Gospels and Acts	185	Hebrews	104	Hymns	1106

Epistles of Paul	106	Isaiah	207	Canticles	113

£2,000 paid by Natives in four years for books.

The late Treasurer of the Uganda Book Fund, the Rev. H. E. Fox, the Society's honorary Clerical Secretary, in balancing accounts in 1897, reported that the receipts during the past four years had amounted to £2,000, two-thirds of which had been received from Uganda in payment for the books sent thither, that is, an average of £500 a year for Bibles, prayer-books, etc., a truly wonderful fact to be said of a people whose civilization has not advanced beyond a currency of cowrie shells and cloth!

I. UGANDA.

PROVINCES OF KYADONDO AND BUSIRO.

The Diamond Jubilee celebrated at Mengo.

On June 20th a special English service was held in the large church at Mengo, the capital of Uganda, to thank God for the many blessings of the Queen's reign, and on the 22nd there was a grand reception at Kampala, the Government fort, at which all the Europeans were commanded to be present. Kampala was decorated with arches across the road, on which "God Save the Queen" was inscribed in Luganda. Miss Furley wrote in her journal:—

> They have a very fine Council-room at Kampala, where the reception was held. We were the first to arrive, so were in time to see the arrival of the king and other guests. All of us were astonished to see how many Europeans there were in the country. All the Roman Catholic priests were present, both the English and French fathers with their two Bishops—the former being Black Friars, the latter White Friars. At 11 a.m. the king arrived, accompanied by the Katikiro and a great following of chiefs; also Mbogo, the Mohammedan king, who is the king's uncle. There were not so many chiefs as sometimes, as so many of the principal ones were away in Toro. They poured in behind the king, leaving a great sea of shoes in the doorway. The king was conducted to a raised seat of honour, facing the company. He made a short speech in Kiswahili, saying they were met there to congratulate the Queen, &c. Then he had to inquire of the Katikiro as to what day it was that we were celebrating, and how long she had reigned. Then Mr. Wilson, the Government Representative, responded for the Queen, wishing blessing to the country, and the whole function was over. The king got up, shook hands with us, and departed with an air of relief that it was all over, the Natives who had come with him all following.

Archdeacon R. H. Walker resides at Mengo, where, in addition to the work of the Secretariat of the Mission, he conducts a divinity class. The following other missionaries resided there during the whole or greater part of 1897: the Rev. A. J. Pike (now at home), the late Mr. G. L. Pilkington, Dr. A. R. Cook, Miss E. M. Furley, Miss J. E. Chadwick, Miss B. Taylor, and Miss K. Timpson.

Whit-Sunday service at the Capital.

One encouraging symptom of growth in the work at the capital is mentioned by Miss Furley; it is the increased ability of the Native Christians to stand alone. On Whit-Sunday, for example, the whole service, including the administration of the Holy Communion, was taken by the Revs. Henry Wright Duta and Yairo Mutakyala, of whom Miss Furley writes:—

They are very different: Henry is a big man, like most of the Baganda, slow and sure and solid, a regular backbone to the work—a cautious, dependable man and wise counsellor; while Yairo is a little man, all life and fire, with wonderful energy for a Muganda, who are not as a rule too over-done with energy. Words pour from Yairo in great gusts, as the steam from a railway whistle.

Then in June, 1897, for the first time the monthly missionary meeting was managed entirely by the Natives. The chairman on that occasion was Ham Mukasa, and Miss Furley's account of him also is very interesting:—

Native chairman of missionary meeting.

Ham is a character, as many of the Baganda are. Because his name is Mukasa, do not think that that implies that he is any relation to the ordained deacon of that name, Samwili Mukasa. Mukasa is the name of one of the Lake spirits worshipped in the old days, and many of the people bear this name. Ham is a tall, big man, but lame from a gunshot wound in the knee received in one of the wars. Ham is the kindest-hearted man in Buganda. His face beams with true kindliness of heart. All the outcast and homeless find their way to old Ham, sure of a friendly reception. Ham has built himself a house; it is the most wonderful house in Buganda, and the biggest—a mud house. It has been I don't know how long in building; it was begun before we came, and he has just "entered in," as they say here. He has built a great part of it with his own hands. It is like a great benevolent institution, which practically is what it is, with a sort of bell-turret in the centre, and towers at either end. It is two storeys high, except in the towers, which are really three—a great marvel here. The Natives say of this house, as they say of the new Bible, "How it grew a queer shape!" It has something like twenty rooms in it.

Ham's wife is called Hana; she is short and plump, decidedly plump for a native woman, but she is as good-natured and kind-hearted as her husband. Hana was one of our earliest friends. Very soon after we arrived she came to see us with a letter from Ham to tell us who she was, and the Gabunga's wife came with her. The Gabunga is admiral of the Uganda fleet. His country place is Jungo, where Yairo is pastor. Ham's letter was in English, which he knows. I have always kept that letter, it was so quaint; it ran thus:—

Oct. 8. 95. Mengo.

A quaint letter. "Dear Mrs. Furley goodmorning how are you today I send to you the my wife her want to see you hers name called Hana and other she the wif of Gabunga Great man in Buganda. But that man was I friend his name Gabunga Yosiya But again Gabunga's wif called Meriya Kyamulabi two wifs come to see our friend Goodbey May God take care of you Both keep and Bless I am your friend. "M. HAM MUKASA."

"Strings of questions." He is a most intelligent man, as is seen by the good grasp he has got of English, a most difficult language to a Native. The Archdeacon says he takes him strings of questions to answer, as many as a hundred at once, all written out on paper, such as: "Where does the rain come from?" "What makes the water in the Lake?" "How does a cold in the head come?" "When fever leaves you where does it go to?" His whole intelligence is awakened with reading the Gospels.

Mission Hospital. In the same month of June a new Mission Hospital was dedicated to God's service, consisting of men's and women's wards and operating-room. It was quickly full of patients. Dr. Cook writes in terms of grateful appreciation of the help afforded him by Miss Timpson, who was formerly a sister at Guy's Hospital, and by Miss Taylor, in the treatment of female patients. Short services are conducted in the two wards every morning, with a Bible exposition, and nearly all the patients who have not already learned to read before entering, succeed in doing so before they go out. In the nine months 12,435 visits were paid to the dispensary, 136 in-patients were admitted, and 196 operations were performed. Miss Timpson sends the following interesting particulars of the work:—

Thursday is our operating day, and very busy we are then, never having a less number of cases than four to see to, and often these are of a serious character. We have no difficulty in getting them to take chloroform, and they have the greatest confidence in all we do for them. Above all, the Christians realize the promise, "I will hold thy right hand," and often before getting on to the operating table they kneel in prayer of their own accord. Last week we were waiting for a patient to come in for an operation, and, as she was a long time in coming, I went to see what had become of her, and found her hidden among the plantain trees praying. It is such a real joy to us to find how they rely upon God for strength at all times.

Patients kneel in prayer before getting on operating table.

We begin each day with prayer and the reading of God's Word and a hymn, the doctor in the men's ward and I in the women's, the patients joining in very heartily. I am hoping in the course of a week or so to begin Bible-readings with the women. They are not all Christians, but we do earnestly pray that the words spoken may go home to the hearts both of the Heathen and Roman Catholics. One Roman Catholic who has persistently refused to come in to prayers, told Dr. Cook that he wanted to learn to read.

After prayers are over the surgical cases are dressed, temperatures are taken, and by this time it is 9 a.m., and we go to the dispensary (we have altered the opening hour to 9 o'clock since the hospital was started) to begin a really hard but very pleasurable morning's work. The doctor is generally greeted at the door by notes being thrust at him on long sticks from some of the great chiefs or teachers who have some sick one for whom they want advice. They are often very funny, and worded in truly native fashion. Here is one of them :—

"To Dr. Cook,—How are you, sir? Give me medicine; my wife is ill, something swollen in her chest, she can't draw breath; in the day-time she is pretty well, but at night she coughs and can't get breath. You gave her medicine yesterday. Her name is —— —— ——."

I have known the doctor get four or five in the morning of these funny letters; they are very proud of the great accomplishment of writing, and use up every scrap of paper they can find for the purpose, often resorting to scraps of newspapers and advertisement pages, so sometimes they are a little difficult to decipher. They have a graphic way of describing their diseases. One comes who says: "I have something moving about in my chest with the rapidity of a wheel"; then another will come saying: "It begins in my legs, rushes all over my body, and finally takes up its abode in the head." I heard a man asking the other day if he was to swallow the paper in which the pills were done up, and another patient arguing as to whether the tabloids given him could really cure a skin trouble. "Oh!" said he, "if only I could have some medicine to smear on, then, yes then, I should be healed." A little ointment to rub on their bodies sends them away truly happy.

Graphic descriptions of disorders.

The children are so sweet and trustful, and those who are nearly blind will come and ask to have their eyes cut, saying, "Cut my eyes, like you did Eddiwidi (Edward)"; but, alas! many have been neglected so long that nothing can be done for them.

Miss Chadwick had charge of the secular classes, the bulk of the scholars being adults—both men and women. Much improvement is remarked in their writing, and some make creditable attempts at book-keeping, but geography is the popular study. The frequent wars of the year made very little difference to the Work among the Women, except indeed to give the women more freedom and time in their husbands' absence to attend Bible classes, &c. A general monthly meeting for women was started early in the year. Sometimes missionary addresses were given, and sometimes talks on temperance. Then, and growing out of these meetings, a "sort of little Gleaner's Union" was started, which fifteen women joined, all teachers except one. Miss Furley gives an account of the first two meetings :—

Women's work.

At our first meeting we took the map showing the religious differences of the world in different colours. We spread it on the floor, and the women, sitting on mats around, were intensely interested while Miss Chadwick explained it to them, dwelling most on their own country of Africa. They all had to have the word "Afrika" written on their books that they might remember the name of the country of which their own is a part. What interested them most was the idea of a chain of Missions to stretch right across the continent, and the thought that their own teachers sent from here to Toro were working within a few days' march of those who had gone up by the Congo from the other side. They promised to pray earnestly that God's Word might soon spread from shore to shore of this great continent. Our second meeting held this week was on Asia as a whole, and the different religions in it, when the thought of the poor widows in India, and of the burning of them, touched them very much. This week we enrolled one new member—the only one at present who is not a teacher. She seemed specially interested, and came back again after the meeting was over. She was an old woman we knew by sight without knowing her well, though she belongs to one of the biggest chiefs. She came back and said she had brought her gift to give to God. She brought a parcel containing 330 shells, all picked, large shells, beautifully and evenly strung together. She must have been some time saving such big ones, and though they are of no more money value than old and broken ones, there was a touching sense of the fitness of things in thus choosing the best for God. It is not much more than 2*s.* in our money, but a large sum for such a woman, and enough to support a teacher rather over a month.

Native women speakers.

During Advent meetings for women were held, and were addressed by six native women selected by the rest. They spoke, Miss Furley writes, "so nicely, so simply and modestly, and yet wisely and to the point." Miss Taylor visited in the Lubiri among Mwanga's women and their girls, including Eva Elini, the mother of the infant king David. She also visited the women, wives of the late king Mtesa, at Kasubi. Many of these women are bigoted Heathen, but Mtesa's "Queen-Sister," Damali (Damaris), is described as a most earnest Christian lady.

At the end of October nearly all the missionaries from the country stations were together at Mengo, summoned thither on account of the distrust of the Government in the loyalty of the Soudanese garrisons. One of them, the Rev. H. R. Sugden, wrote regarding this time :—

> We had a very pleasant time in the capital. We were all brought much together, with the result that we all got to know each other better, and I think we all felt that there was in consequence a much stronger bond of union between us. We also learnt more about the work in other parts of Buganda. I am sure that our stay in Mengo, though it seemed a great loss to the work in our several districts, did us all a great deal of good, and could not in any sense be called wasted time.

Gayaza.

The Rev. H. W. Tegart relieved Mr. J. B. Purvis of the charge of GAYAZA in the summer of 1897. The former writes admiringly of the two houses put up by the latter as "for comfort and appearance quite equal to anything of their size at home," and of a large new church which was left unfinished in consequence of the wars. Owing to the same disturbing cause the attendances at the services fell greatly. Ninety-eight were baptized during the year. At the beginning of 1897 the teachers of the district met together and discussed the subject of temperance, and expressed themselves very strongly regarding the snare of the sin of drunkenness to professing Christians. They wished to make total abstinence a condition required of all to be baptized. The matter was referred to the Mengo Church Council; but a Temperance Society was formed, and 400 adults were present at the first meeting. The chief of Kyadondo, the "Kago" (since made the "Mukwenda," chief of Singo) was invited by the teachers to visit all the churches in this district and seek to stir up in them a missionary spirit. This he did, dropping his title of chief and going among them as Paulo Bakanga, his private name. Mr. Purvis describes him as "a wise, kind, and loving Christian man." Mr. Purvis draws attention to an evil which he finds among the Christians, namely, a pronounced disinclination to engage in manual work. Of some 200 workmen whom he has employed only twelve were Christians by profession, and none of these were communicants. Those who attend classes for instruction, he says, promptly deck themselves in fine clothes, and leave off work as beneath them. This is undoubtedly an evil to be coped with.

Lady missionaries welcomed at an outstation.

At the end of February, 1897, Miss E. E. Browne (now Mrs. Rowling) and Miss M. S. Thomsett took up their abode at Gayaza. Their arrival was welcomed with much shouting, the whole population going some miles to meet them. They started classes at first for men and women, then, after Mr. Tegart's arrival, for women only. They had to limit the hours of study, as the men complained that their wives neglected their house work to attend classes. The number of women baptized was 65, less by one half than it was in 1896, but the reason assigned is that the standard of knowledge has been raised, candidates for baptism being required to give all the references to the Gospels (giving chapter and verse) found in the Catechism which is in use with the Bishop's approval. Miss Browne opened a children's school, starting, on a very wet day, with three, but shortly an average attendance of 19 rewarded her efforts. "Very shy" they were at first, then "inclined to be naughty," then, in response to mild discipline, "really very good."

School for children.

Jungo.

There is no European missionary in the province of Busiro, to the west, and adjoining Kyadondo. But the Rev. Yairo Mutakyala is stationed at Jungo, its capital, which is the seat of the Gabunga, or "admiral" of the canoes. The place is within two hours' walk from the shores of the Lake. Numerous and large villages cluster round Jungo, in which a considerable number of Christians are found.

PROVINCE OF BULEMEZI.

Waluleta.

The Rev. T. R. Buckley continued at WALULETA until May, 1897, when he removed to Toro in consequence of the Rev. J. S. Callis' death. The members of the congregation united to rebuild their church, the chief showing some remissness in erecting a new one as he had promised. The native deacon, the Rev. N. Mudeka, was the architect and overseer of the works, the teachers and others cut the poles and reeds, the women cut and carried the grass for the thatch. Mr. Buckley planned an organized attack on the Heathenism of the province at the beginning of 1897, but his removal prevented its being carried out in all the districts. Beginning, however, in Kungu, the district nearest Mengo, he with a band of native evangelists visited every village and left the Gospel message in every house. The band met first day by day for prayer, and then divided into parties of two, who went into the gardens and spoke to all whom they met. They found six villages in this district without either church, or teachers, or baptized converts, but none apparently without a few readers. The chief Yakobo Kibale, on being spoken to, had a church built within a month at each of the villages, and teachers visited them from Kunga on Saturdays, Sundays, and Mondays. After Mr. Buckley left, the work came under the charge of Mr. H. B. Lewin. He reports 546 adult baptisms in the whole province during the year, among whom were two influential chiefs, Kamiya and Musitala, one having been a bitter enemy to the Gospel and the other a notorious drunkard. The communicants' roll received 127 new names, and twenty-six young men were under training to be teachers. There are 120 churches, and forty-one Church Council teachers at work in the province. Three large churches were erected in addition to those mentioned above; but, on the other hand, four were burnt down by incendiaries.

A church for every village.

Kisitala.

At KISITALA, where Mr. Lewin resides, the mud church is always well filled. The first Christian marriage in this district took place during the year. The Diamond Jubilee was duly observed; a large feast and much gun firing being features of the celebration. During the general unrest attending Mwanga's revolution, a number of elephant hunters rebelled in Bulemezi, but the rebellion was crushed out without difficulty. Mr. Lewin continued at his station notwithstanding frequent dangers, and his doing so, by restoring confidence to the people and keeping the Christians together, was, he considers, a main cause of the degree of quiet which obtained in this province. For one month, during the troubles attending the Soudanese mutiny, he was in Mengo, returning on November 22nd. Many of the leading Christians of this province were among those who fell at Luba's, and at the close of the year a falling off in the attendance at the services and in the classes of catechumens was very noticeable.

Missionary remaining at his post in troublous times.

PROVINCES OF SINGO AND KITUNZI.

Change of chiefs.

The chief of the provinces of Singo, the Mukwenda, as has been stated in the notes introductory to this Mission, was one of the first to plot the revolution which came to a head in July, 1897, and he was sent to Eldoma Ravine as a prisoner, to undergo a sentence of hard labour. He was succeeded in his office as Mukwenda by Paulo Bakanga, who had been the Kago, the head chief of Kyadondo (see above, page 132), a change which gave great joy to the Christians of Singo and to the missionaries at MITYANA—the Revs. H. R. Sugden and B. E. Wigram, the latter having joined Mr. Sugden in February, 1897. In March the missionaries took possession of a new house, which Mr. Sugden describes as one of the best-built mud houses in the country, and as having "a special feature in two bow windows." During Holy Week an eight-days' Special Mission was held, Mr. T. B. Fletcher, from Kasaka, also rendering help. On one Sunday in August there were 84 communicants, the largest number that had been recorded at Mityana. Many of the inhabitants of the provinces joined the revolt in July and migrated to Budu, consequently work in the country villages was greatly interrupted. In Mityana itself, however, the work went on as usual, until towards the end of October, when the missionaries were summoned to Mengo. Mr. Sugden was about to leave Mityana under Mr. Wigram's charge, and to proceed to Kijungute, in North Singo, when the summons came which withdrew them both for a time from the work. Mityana.

Mr. Wigram mentions three visits he paid to KASAKA, in the province of Kitunzi, to baptize and administer the Holy Communion, but no Annual Letter has been received from Mr. Fletcher. Kasaka.

PROVINCE OF KYAGWE.

The Rev. G. R. Blackledge was privileged to witness a decided advance in the work under his charge in the district of Bukoba, the northern part of the province of Kyagwe. The baptisms were double those of the preceding year, viz. 452, and the communicants increased threefold. At NAKANYONYI, his station, the Sunday congregations averaged 550, and with the help of the young men of the congregation, all the villages for miles around were frequently visited during the year. In the Bukoba villages many of the chiefs opposed the work, some of them are Heathen and others only nominal Christians and lead inconsistent lives. Intemperance is a common failing of the people, and total abstinence is strongly pressed on candidates for baptism, not as a condition, but as a plain duty which they owe to Christ and to souls. The plea is seldom resisted, as moderate drinking is very little practised by the Baganda, they either leave off drink altogether or become drunkards. In the district of Bulondaganyi the people have proved very unimpressionable to Gospel appeals. Many of them are addicted to drunkenness and to hemp-smoking. The death of the chief, Sira Mulondo, was a great blow to the work in this district. Mr. Blackledge says of him:— Nakanyonyi.

Total abstinence recognized as a plain duty.

Death of an earnest Christian chief.

> This man was a splendid Christian, out-and-out for the Lord, loved by all who loved the Gospel, and respected and admired by the enemies of the Gospel. His earnestness and zeal for the Lord's work were remarkable. Sundays would find him in the pulpit of his church, preaching repentance towards God and faith towards our Lord Jesus Christ; and week-days would find him teaching his people, morning and afternoon, the truths of religion. But he showed his love for the Lord in a still more practical way: he was a rich man, and gave liberally of his riches, one time a splendid tusk of ivory, and another time two gigantic bulls. And the last time he passed through Nakanyonyi, on his way to his chieftainship, I mentioned to him that we were in need of funds to send out teachers; he replied at once that he had no ivory, but that he would go and hunt for some. And he went, and, while shooting at an elephant, his gun burst, shattering his arm, and in a few days he had entered into rest.

In the district of Kyabazala, on the other hand, the work is prosperous. The chief, Gayo Kagwa, who was formerly a drunkard, is now a great helper of the work. One of the four churches in this district accommodates 400 people.

Ngogwe.

The Rev. G. K. Baskerville, on his return from furlough at the beginning of 1897, had an exceedingly hearty welcome on crossing the Nile, when he was met by nearly all his "old boys." On reaching NGOGWE a service of praise and thanksgiving was held in the church, Mr. Baskerville, and also Dr. A. R. Cook who had made good progress in the language on the way up-country, giving short addresses. Mr. Baskerville went on to Mengo to escort the Misses E. L. Pilgrim and G. E. Bird to Ngogwe, and these ladies also received a most enthusiastic welcome. Miss Pilgrim opened a dispensary, and Miss Bird a school for women, in which singing was one of the subjects of the curriculum. It was attempted to utilize this latest accomplishment by introducing the chanting of the canticles at the daily services. The difficulties attending the innovation were not slight. Mr. Baskerville wrote:—

Chanting the Canticles.

It is hard work. You cannot talk of notes but "voices"; and then the accentuated syllables are "the syllables on which you stand for a little while." They are printed in italics, and you speak of them as "those letters which are falling over." However, after an hour this afternoon we got about three people to understand, and I hope they will be able to explain to others.

The daily congregation showed a steady increase, sometimes numbering 400. The number of candidates for baptism and for admission to the Lord's Table also increased. Mr. Baskerville also found the number of voluntary workers larger than when he left. In September a valedictory service was held to bid farewell to twenty teachers going forth to work at the out-stations. Mr. Baskerville wrote:—

A Valedictory Service.

We began with "The Son of God goes forth to War," and then two prayers. Then I read Eph. vi. 10 to the end. During another hymn, "Tell me the Old, Old Story," we took up the collection in kind as well as shells. After the collection I read out the stations to which we were sending teachers with the names of the men. As each name was called out, the teacher stood up during a brief pause for silent prayer. I then spoke on the passage I had read, ending with the two verses which dovetail together so beautifully and teach us so much—Col. i. 29 and 2 Cor. iv. 7, "Christ in us working"—"this treasure we have in earthen vessels." Then I asked all the congregation to stand up while our brethren knelt. The native pastor then commended them in prayer, and I followed, and then, sentence by sentence, we pronounced on them the Benediction, the whole congregation standing, repeating each sentence after us. And lastly, all kneeling, we sang one of Pilkington's beautiful hymns. May God bless each one! The collection came to nearly 4,000 shells, or Rs. 20 (about 30s.), and included cloth, shells, fowls, plantains, eggs, and sugar-cane.

The Rev. H. R. Sugden paid a visit to Ngogwe in November, and told the Christians about the work in Singo. He writes:—

I think less is known of Singo among the Baganda in general than of any other province. Every one in the capital and in Kyagwe, as well as other provinces, seems to look upon Singo as being at the end of the world. However, both at Nakononyi and at Ngogwe the people seemed very interested to hear about the work, and after I had returned to Mengo I received a letter from Mr. Baskerville saying that four of the Ngogwe Christians had volunteered to go back with us to Singo to work there. I was very pleased, for it really meant some self-denial on the part of those four.

Volunteers for missionary work.

The English Roman Catholics opened a station within five miles of Ngogwe, and showed great activity in distributing teachers and building churches over the district.

SESE ISLANDS.

The Rev. Martin J. Hall had the companionship of the Rev. E. C. Gordon at BUKASA for five weeks in May and June, 1897, with which exception he was, as he says, "in happy exile" on the island. He went the previous February to Mengo for a fortnight's change, and "a little practice in English," which he had not spoken (save in prayer) for six and a half months. To himself, he says, the year was a blessed year. The mere fact that his Divine Master was the only one to whom he could speak in English made Him increasingly "a living bright reality," and the time passed in meditation and study of the Word of God realized a long-standing wish for a "lull in life." For so solitary a life he enjoys the qualification of having "plenty of hobbies": music, sketching, swimming, fishing, boat-building, shooting, reading, &c., all, as he says, "real means of grace in their right place and proportion." His health continued good and he can speak with thankfulness after two and a half years in Africa of being still a "stranger to fever." Mr. Hall's opinion regarding the spiritual condition of many of the Christians—those baptized on the thirty-five islands number 605—is that "a shallow, lazy, antinomianism," is the most prominent feature among them. He corroborates the testimony of Mr. Purvis, quoted above (page 133), that Christianity and idleness are in danger of becoming synonymous terms. The chiefs complain that no persons are so difficult to get to do their lawful work for their chief as are the readers and baptized. Among the encouragements he mentions, one is the fact that the women in many cases are showing great zeal and constancy under systematic and cruel persecution; and another is that the same is true of the seven congregations on the Roman Catholic island of Bugala. The chief of Bukasa, Danieli Kaganda, is a great supporter of the work, a man of prayer and of deepening grace and zeal, equalling, if not surpassing, any of the unordained native preachers Mr. Hall has heard. Mr. Hall concludes his Annual Letter with the expression of a hope that English Christians will pray with a fuller knowledge of the deep needs and sad weakness of the Buganda Church.

II. BUSOGA.

LUBA'S.

THE year was one of opposition and disappointment in South Busoga. Of two chiefs from whom much was hoped, one, Kajaya, died, and his brother, a decided opponent, succeeded him; while the other, Menya, declared himself a Mohammedan and expelled the teacher. The fighting at LUBA'S at the close of the year entirely put a stop to evangelistic work for the time. The church at this station, mentioned last year, was completed at the beginning of 1897, and classes of those who visited the dispensary were held in it on alternate days. The first baptisms of this district occurred during the year, a Musoga woman, aged about thirty, and a boy. The Rev. F. Rowling (now at home) was alone at Luba's the greater part of the year and found the isolation very trying. The Printing Press gave occupation to ten Baganda boys, one of whom Mr. Rowling wrote of as "very smart." A short service book—Morning and Evening Prayers, the Litany, and Ante-Communion Service—was printed.

Iganga.

The chief Miro changed his residence during the year under review to IGANGA, a place some twelve miles south of the old station (called Miro's, after himself), and it was decided to move the mission station as well. The missionaries are the Rev. H. W. Weatherhead and Mr. A. Wilson, the former having joined the latter in May, 1897. A new church was begun but by no means finished when the mutineers entered Busoga. The congregation averaged about sixty. Mr. Wilson reports nine outstations, each having a church, and from 60 to 180 readers. The teachers in the district, all Waganda, met monthly at Iganga from Saturday till Monday, presenting their reports, and spending the time together in Christian fellowship and the reception of the Holy Communion. Mr. Weatherhead describes a visit he paid to one of these teachers, staying two days at his house as his guest:—

A native teacher at home.

From the first we have had a really splendid teacher, named Joshua, who is making real progress in spite of much opposition from the chief, and you know a chief's influence is almost paramount in Busoga. I stayed two days with Joshua in his (for a Native) very fine mud house. His "visitor's room" was comfortable, though more fresh air would have been most acceptable. I felt I was in a really Christian household. Joshua and his wife Yokobedi have meals together (a by no means universal custom, I am sorry to say, even among teachers). I gladly joined them on invitation. After prayers, at which all the household were present, it was delightful to see Joshua and Yokobedi bring out their books and read the same chapter of Mr. Pilkington's book through to themselves—only too glad to have the advantage of my candle. Yokobedi is the only teacher's wife, at any rate in North Busoga, who is doing a real work amongst the women of her district. Joshua's great friendliness and kindness, the careful way in which he greets all comers alike, together with his thorough knowledge of the people, their language and customs, have enabled him to gain a great hold of the young men of the place, and six, all of them Basoga, are now preparing for baptism. In the evening at sunset I went with Joshua to the chief's enclosure, where Joshua also has evening prayers. We found several men and women assembled drinking wine, but the wine-pots were removed, several men objecting, one carrying his away to a far corner (a Muganda Roman Catholic visitor among them!), and we had a hymn, which was really excellently sung (for Basoga). I found nearly all present knew by heart the General Confession and the Lord's Prayer.

III. KOKI.

Kamswaga's.

Mr. R. H. LEAKEY (now at home) visited Mengo in December, 1896, after eleven months alone in Koki, except for the companionship for a few days of the Revs. J. Roscoe and A. J. Pike, as mentioned in last year's Report. He returned to KAMSWAGA's at the beginning of March, 1897, taking with him the Rev. H. Clayton. The latter had a bad illness in April, and Dr. Cook made the journey from Mengo to see him, taking him back with him to the capital. Mr. Clayton returned in May, accompanied by the late Mr. Pilkington. The dangers experienced in the months of July and August have been referred to above (pages 114 and 119). Mr. Pilkington returned to Mengo at the beginning of August. Koki suffered very little from the rebels, though it was so near the scene of several battles. A "friendly" army, however, consisting of Roman Catholics, under the Roman Catholic Katikiro, entered the country and plundered women, and goats, and sheep, and guns extensively. Mr. Leakey says he had learned that this was a punishment inflicted on Kamswaga for becoming a Protestant and not a Roman Catholic. His Christianity, however, not to say his Protestantism, is of a very unsatisfactory kind, and he is in many ways rather a hindrance than a help to the Mission. Mr. Leakey had an opportunity of tending one of the French priests in Budu during a severe illness, and believes he was instrumental in saving his life, which naturally led to mutual kindly relations. Thirty-five adults were baptized during the year. Mr. Leakey crossed the British boundary into German territory in the winter of 1896–97. He saw evidences which convinced him that in this district the slave trade was active, and that an illicit trade in arms and ammunition was being carried on. Large quantities of gunpowder were supplied thence to the rebels. A teacher was sent to visit Kaiya, the king of Ankole, but he was received with much suspicion, Ankole and its king being very anti-European. The people are deeply sunk in superstition. Mr. Clayton writes :—

The Koki Christians are decidedly good. Their standard of living seems to be higher than I had expected it would be, and many of them seem to be very anxious to pass on to others what they have learnt themselves.

We have one excellent man who had a chieftainship here, but gave it up that he might be able to devote all his time to teaching, which he does without receiving any pay. I am hoping that he will make a really first-class teacher some day. But our Christians here are all young in the faith, and need much believing prayer on their behalf.

IV. TORO.

The King of Toro writes to the "Elders of the Church in Europe."

In February, 1897, King David, the native king of Toro, dictated to Mr. A. B. Lloyd a letter to the "Elders of the Church in Europe," of which the following is a literal translation :—

Beteriemu, Toro, Feb. 1st, 1897.

To my dear Friends the Elders of the Church in Europe.

I greet you very much in our Lord Jesus Christ, who died for us on the cross to make us children of God. How are you, sirs ?

I am Daudi (David) Kasagama, King of Toro, the reason why I commence to tell you that is because I wish you to know me well.

God our Father gave me the Kingdom of Toro to reign over for Him, therefore I write to you my brethren to beseech you to remember me and to pray for me every day, all the days.

He thanks them for sending "such beautiful words."

I praise my Lord very, very much indeed for the Words of the Gospels He brought into my country, and you my brothers I thank you for sending Teachers to come here to teach us such beautiful words.

I therefore tell you that I want very much, God giving me strength, to arrange all the matters of this country for Him only, that all my people may understand that Christ Jesus He is the Saviour of all countries, and that He is the King of all kings. Therefore, sirs, I tell you that I have built a very large church in my Capital, and we call it "The Church of St. John."

Also that very many people come every day into the Church to learn the "Words of Life," perhaps 150, also on Sunday they are very many who come to worship God our Father in His holy Church and to praise Him. I also tell you that in the gardens near here we have built six churches. The people of this place have very great hunger indeed for the "Bread of Life," many die every day while still in their sins, because they do not hear the Gospel. The teachers are few, and those who wish to read, many. Therefore, sirs, my dear friends, have pity on the people, in great darkness ; they do not know where they are going.

Also I want to tell you that there are very many heathen nations close to my country—Abakonjo, Abamha, Abahoko, Abasagala, Abasongola, Abaega and many others in darkness. We heard that now in Uganda there are English ladies ; but, sirs, here is very great need for ladies to come and teach our ladies. I want very, very much that they come.

Also my friends, help us every day in your prayers. I want my country to be a strong Lantern that is not put out, in this land of darkness. "I want my country to be a strong Lantern."

Also I wish to make dear friends in Europe, because we are One in Christ Jesus our Saviour. Now, good-bye, my dear friends. God be with you in all your decisions.

I am your friend who loves you in Jesus,

DAUDI KASAGAMA.

This letter was rendered in blank verse by Canon Rawnsley, Vicar of Crosthwaite, Cumberland, and published in the Anglican for October, 1897.*

The Rev. J. S. Callis joined Mr. A. B. Lloyd in Toro in March, 1897, and died, as already mentioned, on April 24th. At the end of March Mr. Callis had written:—

On Sunday, March 21st, I celebrated the Holy Communion for the first time in Luganda. Mr. Lloyd read the prayers and preached. Twenty stayed to the Communion, including the king, his wife, and his mother. On the Saturday, at the weekly afternoon prayer meeting, the king had prayed very simply and earnestly for wisdom to guide his people.

On Wednesday morning, at 9.30, fourteen persons (eight men) were baptized in the river. We had a most delightful service, and we felt it was a very real time of blessing. The king, his wife, his mother, and about four hundred people came to the river-side and were seated on the high bank. We began with several hymns and then, amid perfect silence and a deep sense of the Divine presence, I began to read the service. The candidates were several young chiefs and some of the young girls of the Namasole's (the king's mother) household. They stood in front of the congregation, with three witnesses to answer the questions, which they did most feelingly. Whilst we sang a hymn—"I am coming, Lord, coming now to Thee"—they walked round a short distance and across a bridge to the opposite side of the river. I then baptized them one by one in mid-stream, and they passed to the congregation on the shore. It was a most intensely interesting service. Not only were the candidates themselves in real earnest, but all the congregation followed the whole service most devoutly. The glimpses of their faces from the shore were wonderful. The Namasole embraced the girls of her household in a most loving way, greeting them afresh as true sisters in Christ. The Namasole is a most sweet Christian soul, and her influence is very great. The service ended with the hymn "Oh, happy day that fixed my choice," after which I gave the Benediction, when the big congregation went home with shouts—real expressions of joy.

An impressive baptismal service.

The converts greeted by the King's mother as "sisters in Christ."

Mr. Lloyd, soon after Mr. Callis' death, went to Mengo. In June the Rev. T. R. Buckley was transferred from Waluleta, in Bulemezi, to Toro. He reports much blessing as resulting from Mr. Lloyd's medical work. At Mboga, to the west of the Semliki River, the church was burnt down by the rebels from the Congo Free State in the spring of 1897. (See above, page 113). Eighty-six adults were baptized in Toro during the year.

V. USUKUMA.

THE Rev. F. H. WRIGHT was visited at NASSA by the Rev. E. C. Gordon, at the beginning of 1897, and he took the opportunity Nassa.

* See C.M. Gleaner for December, 1897, pages 186–7.

while the latter was there to cross the Lake in the steamer Ruwenzori, returning accompanied by Mr. A. Whitehouse. The latter suffered from ill-health, and had to cross the Lake in September to consult Dr. Cook at Mengo. The Christians at Nassa showed much pleasure on learning that the congregation at Salt, in Palestine (see Annual Report for 1896–97, page 153), had made a collection for the work in Usukuma, and they frequently in prayer asked for blessings on their unknown friends. Mr. Wright deplores the want of a sturdy independence in the converts and adherents. They expect to be supported, it would seem from his Annual Letter, without labour on their part—a most suicidal spirit, and one to be discouraged at all costs. Out-stations were opened in the district of Masanga and at Kilebelo, on the North of Speke Gulf. Lukongeh, who was king of the island of Ukerewe when the missionaries Lieutenant Shergold Smith and Mr. O'Neill were killed on that island in 1877, died in August at Mwanza, the German station, where he was as a captive. Mr. Wright made a preaching tour in September, and visited the old stations of Msalala and Usambiro. He found everywhere great willingness on the part of the people to assemble to hear his message. Of the graveyard at Usambiro, where Bishop Parker, and Messrs. Blackburn, Mackay, Hunt and Dunn were buried, he wrote :—

Visit to a lonely grave-yard.

The little graveyard was again overgrown with weeds and bushes, but two hours' work on the part of my boys soon put the place straight. The names on the wooden crosses were almost obliterated by the weather, so I cut them deeper with my pocket-knife. We held a short service when we had finished clearing the ground, at which there were eight Basukumas, who are consistent Christians. I could not help thinking how true it is, "One soweth, and another reapeth." The walls of the houses are still standing, and the boiler on which Mackay was engaged is still in a very good condition, in spite of so many years of African sun and rain.

MOHAMMEDAN LANDS.

The Lambeth Conference on the Church's duty to the followers of Islam.

THE Committee appointed by the Lambeth Conference of 1897 to consider and report upon the subject of Foreign Missions, presented the following report and recommendations regarding the duty of the Church to the followers of Islam :—

Islam is distinct from both Judaism and Heathen religions, and needs special attention and treatment. Your Committee would base the claims of Islam on the missionary energy of the Church on the following considerations :—(1) The Number and Distribution of Professed Mohammedans.— The total population of the world is estimated at 1,500,000,000; of these one-seventh are Mohammedans, distributed as follows :— Number of professed Mohammedans.

In Europe	5,750,000
In Asia and the Eastern Archipelago	169,000,000
In Africa	40,000,000
In Australasia	25,000

More than one-fourth of these are citizens of the British Empire, the Mohammedan portion of the population of India alone being returned at the last census as 57,321,164, and therefore have a special claim on the charity of their more favoured fellow-subjects. (2) The Character of Islam.—The amount of truth contained in Islam, such as the doctrine of the Unity, Personality, and Sovereignty of God, and some good habits inculcated, such as the habit of Worship, and Temperance in certain matters, may be used as a foundation on which to build the superstructure of Christian Truth. Character of Islam.

With regard to what has been done, and what is now being done, the Committee would call special attention to the inadequacy of our efforts. Until the present century very little systematic spiritual effort appears to have been made to convert Mohammedans. As regards the work of the present century there have been the efforts of magnificent pioneers, but we need something more ; we need continuous and systematic work such as has been begun in the Diocese of Lahore, and some other parts of India, and which has already borne considerable fruit. The attention of the Committee has been called to the following special works already undertaken :— (1) The temporarily suspended work in Constantinople ; (2) The educational and other work in Egypt, Palestine, and the adjacent countries ; (3) The pioneer work in Persia and Arabia ; (4) The work in India, especially in the Punjab, and in Madras ; (5) And last, but not least, the efforts of the Bible Societies to circulate the Bible among Mohammedans. What has been done.

As regards the opportunities of the present time, it is to be noticed that :—Never since the Crusades has the attention of Western Christendom been so forcibly directed to Islam and its followers as at present. (2) The optimistic view of Islam lately held by many Christians has been effectually destroyed by the history of the Armenian massacres. (3) The toleration which follows in the wake of civilization generally, and especially in the British Empire, has reduced very considerably the danger to the life and liberty of those who make efforts to convert Mohammedans to Christianity. As has been pointed out by an eminent writer, India is the place where Christian and Mohammedan can meet most fairly with a prospect of mutual understanding. This rare opportunity involves a corresponding obligation which the Church should not be slow to recognize. (4) The growth of a spirit of dissatisfaction with Islam is now showing itself among Mohammedans in parts both of Europe and of Asia. (5) The abolition of the legal status of slavery in parts of Eastern and Western Africa sets slaves free Present opportunities.

from the necessity of professing the religion of their masters. (6) Some recent political events in Africa have tended to lower the military prestige of Mohammedanism in that country.

Methods to be employed.

The Committee would call the attention of those concerned in this work to the following points regarding the methods to be employed :—(1) That one of the chief needs of the present time is clear, accurate, reasonable statements of positive Christian truth, especially with regard to the Nature of God, the Holy Trinity in Unity, the Divine Sonship of Christ, the Character of God, the balance of Moral Attributes in God, the essential character of morality, the nature of sin, the need of Atonement and Holiness. (2) That it is essential that there should be on the part of missionaries a thorough and patient study of Mohammedanism, also a knowledge of Arabic ; that they must show absolute fairness in dealing with the doctrines of Islam, and the character of Mohammed ; and that care should be taken not to lose sight of the points of contact between Christianity and Islam, whilst discussing the points of difference. (3) That missionaries should, as a rule, not be sent singly, in order to avoid those false charges against their moral character which are a favourite weapon of attack. (4) That those who undertake this work should, as a rule, be men who have received a special training for it, and should be exclusively set apart for it.

Direction which efforts should take.

With regard to the direction which our efforts might most profitably take, it is to be noted :—(1) That there are special opportunities for such work at the present time in the dioceses of Lahore, Lucknow, Eastern and Western Equatorial Africa, and Zanzibar ; particularly in the cities of Delhi and Hyderabad, and among the Hausa people of the Central Soudan. It is very desirable that these districts and places should be effectively occupied. (2) That more use might be made of such helps as are provided in this country and America and elsewhere, especially by the Indian Institute at Oxford, for the training of men to be employed in such work.

Discovery of papyri in Egypt.

The wonderful discovery of papyri made by Messrs. B. P. Grenfell and A. S. Hunt at the beginning of 1897 at Oxyrhynchus, some 120 miles south of Cairo, and especially of a fragment of an early Greek papyrus, containing a collection of what purport to be "Sayings of Jesus," created intense and world-wide interest. In the course of two days in the month of March over sixty large-sized baskets were filled with papyrus rolls found together in one thick layer of a rubbish heap in the above-named village, some of which proved to be of extra-ordinary interest. Clearly, the stagnation of Mohammedan life and the inertness of the Moslem character may have preserved treasures of unexampled literary value, awaiting the labour of archæologists and explorers. These long silent witnesses of a time when the native products of the Nile Valley were utilized to record the thoughts of Greek (Classical and Christian) authors are reminders of the long centuries which have elapsed during which lands, once under Christian rule, have been subjected to Moslem dynasties. During these twelve hundred years and more, the Church cannot plead guiltless that the "Words of Jesus," the undoubted words of the Amen, the faithful and true Witness, have been for the most part utterly unknown by the brave but deluded followers of the False Prophet.

EGYPT MISSION.

The original object of the Missions formerly grouped under the heading of the "Mediterranean Mission," which were begun at Malta in 1815, at the close of the great war, and were afterwards extended to Egypt, Abyssinia, Greece, Turkey, Asia Minor, and Palestine, was twofold: firstly, to revive the Eastern Churches; and, secondly, through them to evangelize the Mohammedans. Some very able and devoted Missionaries have been employed in this work—Jowett, Gobat, Krapf, Pfander, Koelle, &c. But the hopes of the first founders of the Society were not fulfilled. Oriental Christendom manifested no readiness to be quickened into life by emissaries from the West; and Moslem fanaticism, which barely tolerated Greek and Armenian Christianity, utterly repudiated the Gospel when presented in a pure form. Despite treaties and concessions on paper, missionary effort among the Moslem population of the Turkish Empire is carried on under the most vexatious restrictions, and a Mussulman can only become a Christian at the imminent risk of liberty and life.

As above stated, the Society had formerly a Mission in Egypt, as part of its scheme for the revival of the Eastern Churches. Many of the Coptic clergy, and one Bishop, were trained in the C.M.S. Seminary at Cairo; but the visible results were small. In 1882, in response to the appeals of the late Miss Whately, and in consequence of the British occupation of Egypt, the Rev. F. A. Klein, formerly of Jerusalem, was sent to Cairo to begin a new Mission among the Mohammedans. A Medical Mission was opened in 1889, and ladies were added to the staff in the following year.

Reinforcements.

ONLY one addition was made during the year to the ranks of the European labourers in the Egypt Mission, namely, Miss Emily Frances Waller (trained at "The Olives"), daughter of the Rev. C. H. Waller, D.D., Principal of St. John's Divinity College, Highbury. The Rev. John Goodenough Bayley Hollins and Mrs. Hollins were transferred from the Palestine Mission to Egypt on grounds of health at too late a date for the fact to be mentioned in the body of last year's Report, but their names were correctly entered under this Mission in the list of missionaries, and counted to it in the statistical table. Mr. Hollins sailed in May, 1897, and was joined by Mrs. Hollins in November. Mrs. E. B. Bywater and Miss J. E. B. Bywater returned to the Mission in September after furlough. The Rev. W. and Mrs. Morris came home on account of the former's state of health in November, 1897; and the Rev. F. F. Adeney, the Secretary of the Mission, and Mrs. Adeney, in May, 1898. Dr. A. C. Hall was married to Miss E. Jackson of this Mission in December.

Old Cairo. Hospital.

The new Hospital at OLD CAIRO, which was opened, as mentioned last year, on May 7th, 1897, had 339 in-patients as compared with 124 in the old building during the previous year. The number of out-patients is not mentioned, but Dr. F. J. Harpur states that the total number was smaller than in 1896, owing to the fact that it was limited to one hundred a day. Besides the two doctors, Dr. Harpur and Dr. Hall, four lady missionaries are engaged mainly among the patients as nurses and evangelists, viz., Misses M. Cay, F. M. Sells, E. A. Lawford, and L. Crowther. One of them mentions as the main cause of some of the discouragements which they experience, that many of the women patients are so completely ignorant of Mohammedanism that when they accept Gospel teaching they are not conscious of any incompatibility between it and the religion which they profess. Several individual cases raised hopes that the seed of the Kingdom had taken root. One man, after suffering twelve years from an illness, entered the hospital to die. He had mixed with Coptic Christians, and professed to believe in the atoning death of Christ. Another patient, an intelligent Moslem, was in the same ward with an Armenian Christian whose wife and children had been killed and his property taken from him in one of the recent massacres of those unhappy people. The latter did his best in broken Arabic to tell his Mohammedan fellow-sufferer the way of salvation, and, when his powers of language failed, to find for him texts in the Arabic Bible. When the Moslem left the hospital he professed to "believe in the Book." A lad of fifteen, when he first entered, would not listen to the Gospel, and interrupted the prayers of a Copt in the next bed by chanting the Koran in a loud voice. Before this lad left he frequently read the Gospel to the other patients, and on leaving asked for a New Testament to take home with him. A lame lad suffering from hip disease, who has been under treatment more or less continuously for two years, and has gained a considerable knowledge of the truth, is believed to be a sincere Christian, though nominally a Mohammedan, being too young to be baptized without his father's consent. The children's ward in the hospital is the only such ward in Egypt, and its youthful inmates are very responsive, listening simply and trustfully, and learning the Lord's Prayer and Christian hymns. The ladies visit the patients and ex-patients in their homes. A Sunday-school is held at the dispensary, which has an attendance of some twenty-five. Miss Crowther refers to a visit to the Pyramids which she made with Miss Jackson (now Mrs. Hall) and the school teachers, in December, 1896, as a Christmas treat for the teachers:—

Hopeful individual cases.

Children's ward—the only one in Egypt.

> Miss Jackson took her school teachers, as a Christmas treat, to the Pyramids, and, fortunately, I was able to go with them. After we had explored these wonderful buildings, we sat down and partook of some native refreshment, in truly native fashion, everybody's fingers dipping into the same dish. We were very hungry, and enjoyed it. Then Miss Jackson took her Bible, and we all sat in a group. Presently the boys with their camels were attracted and drew near; very soon they were intently listening to the reading; then some men came up and they sat down, and two of them began to repeat the usual formula, "There is but one God, and Mohammed is His prophet." Miss Jackson turned to them and said, "If you do not wish to listen, will you please go away, as there are others who wish to hear." Gradually they became perfectly quiet, and by this time there was a congregation of about forty men, and for two whole hours they listened earnestly, now and again breaking the silence by asking a question. When Miss Jackson closed the book, she turned to the two men who at first were so noisy and said, "How is it you are still sitting here so quietly when at first you were so noisy?" They replied, "We did not think it was going to be like this. We thought you were going to speak against our prophet, Mohammed. You are from England. You bring us beautiful words; such words we have never heard before. We must take care of you." As we rose to go down to our starting-point, they escorted us, and begged us to come and live among them; "for then," they said, "you would change the whole village with such words as those." Yes, it was the sayings of Jesus only which fell upon their ears as they sat under the shadow of the great Pyramids in the midst of the scorching desert sand. How one's heart yearned over those souls, and our one cry was that the "Sun of Righteousness might rise quickly with healing in His wings, and heal the now dark land of Egypt."

The sayings of Jesus under the shadow of the Pyramids.

The missionaries resident at Cairo are the Rev. and Mrs. J. G. B. Hollins, Mrs. and Miss Bywater, Miss H. Adeney, Miss M. J. Greer, and Miss E. F. Waller. Until the arrival of Mr. Hollins, Mr. Adeney superintended the work. The Sunday Services are usually well attended, especially by men, and about half the congregation are usually Mohammedans. Evangelistic meetings held on Sunday and Thursday evenings were attended in the summer by from sixty to seventy people, and Mr. Hollins invites those who seem interested in the Message to go home with him for a quiet talk. Mr. Hollins mentions two young Moslems who were confessing Christ in their daily life, and a man who had asked for baptism for himself and wife and children. The Boys' School has some 130 pupils, Copts, Moslems, and Jews. The youngest class consists mainly of boys belonging to Moslem families, and of them Mr. Hollins says:— Cairo.

To hear them repeat over twenty texts from the Old and New Testaments, referring to the life, and love, and power of the Lord Jesus to save, and their answers when questioned as to the meaning of the verses is most satisfactory. These lads, not content with the usual opening prayers of the school, generally wish to have their own prayer among themselves; and one little boy, when asked if he loved the Lord Jesus, replied, "I love Him more than my own eyes." "I love Him more than my own eyes."

The Girls' School is conducted by Miss Bywater and Miss Greer. Miss Adeney engages in Visiting, and she is, she says, the only lady so engaged in the whole city of Cairo. Miss Adeney thinks she sees signs of a sense of sin in some of the women.

PALESTINE MISSION.

The Society commenced work in Palestine in 1851, in response to an invitation by Bishop Gobat. The following places are occupied by European labourers: Jerusalem, 1851; Nazareth, 1852; Salt, 1873; Jaffa, 1876; Nablous, 1876; Ramallah, 1877; Gaza, 1878; Haifa, 1884; Acca, 1890; Kefr Yasif, 1892; Bir Zeit, 1892; Ramleh, 1894; and Kerak, 1894. In 1887 the Society commenced to send unmarried ladies to this Mission, and their work among Mohammedan women has been greatly blessed. Medical Missions also have done much to diminish prejudice. The first Mission hospital was opened at Gaza in 1891. Since then Nablous, Acca, and Kerak have been made centres of Medical Missionary work. (See also Headnotes to "Egypt," p. 145.)

Reinforcements.

THE reinforcements sent to the Palestine Mission during the year under review were the following:—The Rev. Charles Augustus Manley, London College of Divinity, Curate of All Souls', Marylebone, and Mrs. Manley; the Rev. Sydney Gould, M.D., M.S., Queen's College, Kingston, Canada, and B.A. of the University of Toronto, of the Canada Church Missionary Association; Miss Kate Dickinson; Miss Minnie Isabel Kitchin; and Miss Emily Molineux. Miss Dickinson was trained at "The Willows," Miss Kitchin at Highbury, and Miss Molineux at "The Olives." The above sailed in October, except Dr. Gould and Miss Molineux, who sailed from England in December and February respectively. The following returned to the Mission:—Miss H. Campbell, Miss E. E. Newton, and Miss F. Brownlow, in November, 1897, the last-named after three months in England on special leave; Miss M. A. Daniels, after seven months at home, in December; the Rev. H. Sykes and Dr. F. Johnson, after four months on sick leave, in March, 1898. The Rev. and Mrs. J. Zeller arrived in Saxony on furlough in June, 1897; Dr. and Mrs. J. Cropper, Misses E. C. and A. Wardlaw-Ramsay, G. F. Tindall, and E. E. Brodie in March, 1898; and Dr. and Mrs. G. R. M. Wright, and Misses E. Armstrong, S. L. Barker, and E. G. Reeve in April.

Death of Miss F. Patching.

Miss Frances Patching died at Kerak on August 23rd. A virulent fever, of the typhoid type, raged at that station during the summer, and a large proportion of those whom it attacked died. Miss Patching's illness began only a week before her death, and during that period Dr. Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Harding had feverish symptoms. Miss Patching went to Palestine in 1891. She was a trained medical and surgical nurse, and was stationed in the first instance at Gaza, and transferred to Kerak in May, 1897. Her unselfishness and thoughtfulness for others endeared her greatly to her fellow missionaries.

Mrs. Low, who went to North India as Miss Hooper in 1861, and joined the Palestine staff as an honorary worker in 1884, has felt obliged to retire, to the great regret of the Committee, owing to failing health. She still, however, purposes to reside in Palestine, and will render such help to the work as she has the strength for.

It is a difficult and responsible task to attempt to report on work for the conversion of Mohammedans in the Turkish Empire. To indicate precisely the places where fruits are beginning to appear, or individuals who have taken up the Cross, might very possibly be serviceable to the enemies of the Gospel, and add greatly to the convert's danger. On the other hand, to withhold the facts altogether would have the effect of restraining intercessory prayer, the best defence of persecuted disciples, and the surest means of baffling the designs of the great Adversary. For the above reasons, the particulars which follow regarding some women converts who were baptized in this Mission during the year under review are placed on record in this place, without indications of locality. One of the missionaries writes:—

Women converts.

From among this in-patients' class we have to thank God for three who have witnessed to their faith in Jesus as their Saviour by baptism. One is a girl of about twenty, from a village a few hours distant. Her people continually came for her, but she always made the excuse that her eyes were not yet well, until at last they became so angry that she feared to remain any longer. She was an unusually bright and intelligent girl, a general favourite in the hospital. From the first she was deeply interested in the teaching. One day, when speaking to them of Jesus taking away our sins, she said, thoughtfully, "That would be rest. Can Moslems have this rest?" Later on she said, "I believe with all my heart that Jesus is the Son of God, and that He died for our sins, and now I have rest." Finding her very receptive, I gave her a good deal of individual teaching, and her growth in grace was a cause of much joy; it was so evident that the Holy Spirit was working in her heart. As we were speaking together one day of the Second Coming, her whole face lighting up at the thought, she said, "Oh, that He would come quickly. I shall be at His right hand, for I have believed in Him and am saved!" At first she was afraid if they found out at her village that she had become a Christian they would kill her, so she wanted to stay always with us, but afterwards it seemed as though faith triumphed, and she said, "Shall I fear, and Jesus with me? I shall go back. I have many cousins, and I shall gather them around me like Jesus did His disciples and tell them all I have learnt, and they too will believe." She was very anxious to be baptized, and as her conception of the truth was so clear, ——— baptized her in his own house, a few of the workers only being present.

"Shall I fear, and Jesus with me?"

Not long after this two other women who had been in the hospital at the same time were, after careful preparation, also baptized. Both were women of unusual force of character for Moslems; one especially was of a very brave and fearless spirit. Her friend was naturally afraid of her baptism getting known, and was asking that it might be kept secret; so this one turned to me and said, "Do not mind me; let them know; I am not afraid; they may cut off my head if they like!" When examining them ——— was particularly pleased with this woman's answers, and she voluntarily said, "Mahomet was only a sinner like ourselves; he can do nothing for us." She had no special home ties, her husband having cast her off when her eyes became bad, saying she was no good to him. So she stayed on with us some time, and was most earnest in trying to win others for Christ. One young girl she used to have long talks with after the others in the ward were asleep. This girl has told me since that she too believes in Jesus as the Son of God. The other woman has also returned home, but hopes, if allowed, to come regularly for instruction. As a thankoffering she brought three pairs of pigeons and a quantity of eggs. Her people had continually been to take her out, but she had put them off with excuses, until one day they got desperate, and her mother and a number of women came outside the hospital walls, shrieking and wailing, saying she must come at once, as the house had fallen on her little girl and killed her. We soon found out that this was only a made-up story to get her away; but she felt she ought to leave as soon as possible after this, or her husband would never forgive her.

Not for one moment do we think these are the only ones brought out of darkness into light. We know that many, to use their own words, "have it in our hearts;" but it needs much courage here, more especially for a woman (a man can often be sent out of the country) to come forward and declare her faith by baptism; as should it be known, in the majority of cases death in one form or another awaits her.

The Rev. J. R. L. Hall is the Secretary of the Mission.

JERUSALEM.

Jerusalem. The charge of the Preparandi Institution and of the Bishop Gobat School at JERUSALEM was assigned to the Rev. J. H. Sedgwick when the Rev. J. Zeller left on furlough in the summer of 1897. The School had fifty-seven pupils at the close of the year, of whom thirty-seven were Protestants, eighteen members of the Greek Church, and two Roman Catholics. The boys celebrated the Queen's Diamond Jubilee by engaging in sports and partaking of a treat provided by British residents in Jerusalem to all pupils connected with British Societies. Three boys passed into the Preparandi Institution. The Girls' School was

Work among Women, under Miss J. Wenham and Mrs. Liggins. The Work among Mohammedan Women in Jerusalem was carried on by Miss A. M. Elverson, who visited regularly some sixty families and occasionally a number of others. Much bigotry and indifference is met with among the better educated Moslems, and the discouragements of the work are numerous. Miss Elverson's Sunday Bible Class for youths of all persuasions—Roman Catholics, Greeks, Armenians, Moslems—gives promise of fruit. Sixteen and in villages. Moslem Villages were systematically visited, and never without a welcome being accorded, and the teaching in some places has come to be valued for its own sake, not merely as an unpalatable adjunct of the medicines which Miss Elverson takes with her on her visits.

At Ramallah Mr. G. Nyland is encouraged by good attendances at the services. The boys' school has eighty boys, and the mothers' meetings are well maintained under the Bible-woman, and many texts have been committed to memory, although few of the women are able to read. The Rev. Hanna Musa is stationed at Tayibeh, where there is a flourishing school. The Jiffna congregation is increasing, and the school-room in which they meet is overcrowded.

JAFFA.

Jaffa. The Rev. T. F. Wolters, the veteran missionary of well-nigh forty years in the field, superintends the work at JAFFA. The Rev. As'ad Mansur writes in thankful terms of the love and unity among the growing congregation, who are all visited once a month; weekly meetings are held in the people's houses. He says that, as an indirect consequence of the Mission, the Word of God is found and read in many of the homes of the Greek Christians, though it is also treated by some as a charm. He also states that some of the Greek priests preach every Sunday, or explain the Gospel for the day, and one of them has translated into Arabic a Commentary on the Ten Commandments, the Nicene Creed, and the Lord's Prayer, by a former Bishop of Moscow, which Mr. Mansur says contains much evangelical teaching. Mr. Mansur visits twice a week the hospital under Miss C. Newton, of the Jaffa Medical Mission, where most of the inmates are Moslems. Miss E. Armstrong sees a decided improvement in intelligence on the part of the women she and her fellow lady missionaries visit. Mrs. Wolters conducts a ladies' working party in Arabic, which is much appreciated. An infant school has 150 on the roll, many of them children of Moslem families. At Ramleh no increase is perceptible in the congregation or school. Miss E. A. Cooke and Miss F. L. A. Roberts have classes for English, sewing, drawing, &c., which are attended by a number of bright, intelligent Greek, Jewish, and Moslem girls, who listen to the Gospel, and, excepting the Jewesses, kneel in prayer. A little dispensary in the ladies' house attracts patients from distant villages, whose extreme ignorance is touching. Miss Roberts says:—

Indirect results of the Mission.

Eastern women and pictures.

> It would be amusing, if it were not for the sad side of it, to see the astonishment of these poor Fellaheen at the first sight of a picture. Although accustomed to see shepherds and sheep all their lives, it takes some time for them to be sure which is which in the big picture on the wall; but when the matter is quite settled in their minds, they ask, "Where was that made?" and when we tell them in our country, they think all our people dress like that (although all the figures are in Eastern costume); so that it is a long while before the subject of the Good Shepherd can be touched upon. The Prodigal Son is also a great favourite, and they are so glad to hear the father received him kindly, and exclaim, "Praise be to God!" It is very sweet to hear an old patient trying to tell the story to a new one.

The ladies still find a welcome in the homes of the upper-class Moslems.

At Lydd also Miss Roberts and Miss Cooke are much encouraged by their reception in the homes of the people. The Rev. Hanna Dimishky is the native pastor.

GAZA.

Gaza. The relations of Rev. Dr. R. Sterling with the Mohammedan authorities at GAZA have always been of a friendly character, and Hospital. consequently the Hospital Work has suffered no hindrance. The year under review was marked by an exceptional prevalence of malarial fever, and the number of in-patients was 778, more than double that of the preceding year, and of out-patients 22,000. Miss E. E. Watney and her native fellow-nurse, of whom she writes as "thoroughly trustworthy and reliable, and yet withal so unobtrusive and humble," were kept exceedingly busy. Miss S. L. Barker (now at home) visited the hospital almost daily to instruct the women and children in the wards. She says:—

Vague ideas of sin. Of course their ideas of sin are very vague, and it is most difficult to bring it home to them. They are so fond of saying, "My heart is white." If you say, "But don't you tell lies?" they reply, "Oh, yes; of course—plenty of them!" Dr. Sterling one day was trying to drive home this same truth to the men. One old man said he was no sinner; his heart was white. So he asked him, "But don't you steal many horses and sheep?" He replied, "Not horses; only sheep!"

Village hospitality. Dr. Sterling at the beginning of 1897 itinerated in some of the villages of the plain, making Mejdel his headquarters, and he met everywhere with old patients, who contended for the privilege of showing him hospitality. Among some of the more distant villages a week was spent without incurring any expense whatever. Again, in the summer, he took a medical tour among the villages in the neighbourhood of Hebron, some of them being inhabited mainly by robbers, but all accorded him a cordial welcome. As many as 300 patients were seen in one day, and 200 on other days.

NABLOUS (DENIS CROFTON MISSION).

Nablous. The advent of a new governor to NABLOUS at the beginning of 1897 caused trouble to the work. He sent an unfavourable official report, which prejudiced the chances of obtaining a Firman for the building of a greatly needed new hospital, and when permission was received from Constantinople to enclose the site with a wall he refused to sanction it. The intervention of Mr. Arthur Ponsonby, Secretary to the British Embassy at Constantinople, who went to Nablous while on a visit to Jerusalem, overcame his opposition to the erection of the wall, but the Firman

Hospital. has not been obtained. The sixteen beds of the Hospital were kept constantly full of patients, and the out-patients numbered 11,940, to all of whom the Gospel was preached. Dr. Gaskoin R. M. Wright (now at home) commenced at the beginning of 1897 to give the Sunday afternoon addresses in the hospital himself, and was much surprised to find how readily and quietly the patients listened to Christian truth from his lips. He wrote:—

Prejudice overcome by kindness. Before I began to take these services and to give Gospel addresses to the patients, I had no idea of the wonderful power that a medical missionary has over the hearts of his patients. I can tell them anything, even speaking about doctrines which are most obnoxious to them, and which in any other place but in the hospital would be most stoutly denied. When I began to speak boldly to the patients, telling them of the death and resurrection of Christ, I fully expected some opposition, but, praise be to God, there has been none whatsoever, and although many of our people are very bigoted Moslems, yet after having been in the hospital a few days, the kindness they receive has such a marvellous effect upon them, that even the most bigoted will listen quietly to the wonderful story of Redemption through the blood of Christ. Perhaps also the fact of their feeling weak and ill makes them more ready to listen than they would be at any other time.

An Effendi read several books on Christian doctrine while in the hospital, and asked for a Bible when he went out, which he carried in his hand through the town. Miss M. C. S. Adamson says that too many of the patients who appear interested while in the hospital, do not by their lives on leaving it show that the Gospel has entered into their hearts. Between fifty and sixty women and children passed through the women's ward, and were nursed by Miss A. A. M. Bedells. They included all ages and conditions, from an old lady of good family who had made the pilgrimage to Mecca, to the little village girl who could not tell how many days there are in a week. Among the Congregation the Rev. C. Fallscheer believes that some are growing in faith, but much indifference and self-righteousness abound. He appears to think that the low tone of the Christians generally is largely due to their treatment by the Government. Visiting the Women in "this great grey Eastern city with its 35,000 Moslems," who are steeped in sin and sunk in apathy, is a peculiarly discouraging work. Miss E. G. Reeve (now at home) wrote:— Women's Ward.

I have just completed six years' residence in Nablous, and though constantly visiting the people, and in daily intercourse with them, I have never met one who desired to be saved from the wrath to come. I have never talked with one who is burdened, either by sin or by sorrow! All have the corpse-like fatalism of fancied submission to the will of God. We try to rouse them. We explain that now is the day of salvation; that to-morrow the door will be shut. They reply, "It will be as God wills." We tell them to seek the Lord while He may be found. We tell them of a Holy God Who cannot look on iniquity, but Who offers pardon by the death and merits of His Christ. They smile indulgently and say, "Christ for you, but Mohammed is our intercessor." I asked a man what he would say to the Lord Jesus when He came in judgment. He smiled and replied gently, "I will say 'Welcome' to Him!" This will show you how utterly unaware they are of their lost condition—out of Christ. Truly Mohammedanism is Satan's masterpiece. It is not only the disease, but the bandage which hides the wound. "Corpse-like fatalism."

The Schools are well attended, and some upper class Moslem girls are among the pupils, but both boys and girls leave school at an early age. The Bible is, of course, taught to all. Miss Reeve says she has found the women of the Zebabdeh congregation unusually intelligent.

NAZARETH, HAIFA, ACCA, AND KEFR YASIF.

Nazareth. The Rev. H. Sykes, who is in charge of the work in the northern district, was driven home by illness, as already mentioned, in November, 1897, but he returned the following March. At NAZARETH the Rev. Chalil Jamal reports an average attendance at the Sunday morning services of two hundred, and of seventy in the afternoon. A Bible Class for the younger female communicants is attended by between twenty and thirty. Bishop Blyth confirmed thirteen candidates in April, 1897, and four others, who had been baptized in the Greek Church, were admitted to the Lord's Table. The spiritual life of the congregation is still not very satisfactory, but, Mr. Jamal says, some are trying to live close to Christ. Four, who were excommunicated in 1893, were with the Bishop's consent, restored to full membership.

No report of the work at ACCA has been received. Dr. J. Cropper and the Misses E. C. and A. Wardlaw-Ramsay came home, as already mentioned, in March, 1898. The Church at Kefr Yasif, the erection of which has been mentioned in the last two annual reports, was opened for Divine Service on August 6th. Seven clergymen and over thirty European friends were present, and many Greeks, Moslems, and Druses also attended on the occasion. The Rev. J. R. Longley Hall sent the following account of the service:—

New church at Kefr Yasif.

> As there is no service for the dedication of a church in our Prayer-book, Mr. Sykes had all the principal prayers in the Service for the Dedication of a Church in the Irish Church Prayer-book translated into Arabic, and these were read in addition to the ordinary morning prayer with special Psalms and Lessons. The officiating clergy were Messrs. Sykes, Wolters, Donald Wilson, Kelk, jun. (in charge of Bishop Blyth's work at Haifa), Khalil Jamal, Khuri Girius, and myself. Three addresses were given, by Messrs. Wolters, Khalil Jamal, and Khuri Girius. The church was crammed, probably upwards of two hundred were present, and the people listened most attentively and joined in the prayers and responses most earnestly, and I think every one was pleased and thankful. There had been a number of very handsome gifts to the church by individuals—the font (made of stone and beautifully carved, more handsome than any in our other churches in Palestine—the gift of a native stonemason, a member of our Nazareth congregation, I believe the work of his own hands), the communion-table, communion-cloth, reading-desk, a large number of seats, a clock, &c. You will recollect that one native gentleman gave the land on which the church is built. Almost everybody present at the opening service—or at any rate a very large proportion—had contributed something in money towards the building, and two or three of our friends had been most liberal. The church is built with an arched roof according to native style, and will accommodate about two hundred people when fully seated.

To the deep regret of all, Mrs. Low, to whose efforts the initiation and the successful completion of the building were so largely due, was unable to be at Kefr Yasif on account of the heat, she being at that time at Haifa. Before she left this station, which owes very much to her labours, she held a missionary meeting for the children, using the diagrams representing the population of the world according to their religions. She says:—

Surprise to learn of the world's population.

A few adults had asked to be allowed to be present, and it was striking to hear their remarks to each other afterwards, and the questions they asked, as they tried to believe that each square represented a million human beings, and stretched their imagination to conceive that the globe could be so populous. There are no very large cities in Palestine, therefore the ideas of the people are limited, and they need to be led out of their selfishness to think of the sad state of the world at large.

Impression made by the story of the Uganda Mission.

It was a surprise to all to find that the world contains more Protestant than Greek Christians. In the autumn the Rev. C. T. Wilson, of Jerusalem, held a missionary meeting and related his experiences in Uganda, and the story of that Mission since he left it. Miss L. W. Lewis relates how deep an impression was caused:—

Most of the men in the congregation were present, and I am sure they will never forget that meeting. I have heard a great deal about it since; I think they realized as never before that Christianity means a radical change, and that it is still possible to give up something for Christ, and that in other lands there are those who have learnt to make sacrifices which as yet they themselves have little dreamed of.

Haifa.

Mrs. Low, who was at HAIFA from May until December, 1897, when Miss M. A. Daniels returned, was struck with the largely increased attendance in the schools since she and her daughter were at the station in 1891. She commenced a meeting for women, Moslems and Christians, in a new part of the town, and found them very glad to hear the simple truths and the beautiful stories of the Word of God, to which they had previously been utter strangers.

SALT AND KERAK.

Salt.

"Quiet progress" characterized the work at SALT. The congregations are beginning to take action with a view to building a new church, which is becoming a necessity. Greeks, Latins, Moslems, and Druses mingle in the schools with children of the Protestant congregation, and the Rev. D. M. Wilson writes:—

School-children's knowledge of Scripture texts.

I wish that some of our friends at home could visit these schools and see the bright, intelligent faces of the scholars. They would then be able to hear for themselves their ready answers, and to listen to their wonderful repetition of Scripture; for these children have extraordinary memories, and can learn any number of texts, hymns, &c., by heart with the greatest ease. The education given is, of course, not limited to purely religious subjects. It is, on the contrary, the excellence of the general education which the scholars receive that induces the parents in many cases to send their children to us, and for its sake in some instances to tolerate the large amount of religious teaching.

While the teachers are successful in imparting a knowledge of the facts and doctrines of the Bible, Mr. Wilson regrets to notice that too little effort is made to apply the teaching given to their hearts and consciences. Some trouble was occasioned by the local authorities, who intimidated the parents, and in the case of two lads forcibly removed them from the school and gave them a beating at the Serai. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson attended the dispensary, and a young Moslem whom the former met there subsequently visited at Mr. Wilson's house for instruction. Most of the children in the school at Jedaidah, near Damascus, are Druses. The Rev. J. Segall of the London Jews' Society has very kindly, as in past years, rendered help by supervising the school from Damascus.

Kerak.

Dr. F. Johnson was joined at KERAK by Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Harding and the late Miss F. Patching in 1897. The death of Miss Patching and the severe illness of Dr. Johnson have been mentioned. Mr. and Mrs. Harding accompanied the latter to Jerusalem in September, as soon as he could be removed, and returned to Kerak in November. Mr. Harding was for several years at Tripoli in connexion with the North Africa Mission, and in a comparison of the two spheres, he considers the conditions at Kerak more favourable to the work. Though more ignorant, the Moslems at Kerak are less bigoted and exclusive than those at Tripoli. These reflexions had regard to the people, and not to the rulers. A few weeks after they were written, Mr. Harding had experience of the opposition from the latter to which this station has been subjected since Kerak was occupied by officials of the Turkish Government. On December 16th the teacher of a little school (which was in existence some years prior to the Turkish occupation, but had been temporarily closed, and was reopened on a very small scale in December), was arrested and put in prison. He was released after some weeks of imprisonment, but was banished from Kerak. This young man is a Native of Kerak, and was educated there by Mr. Lethaby, before the C.M.S. took over the Mission. He has been admitted into the Preparandi Institution at Jerusalem.

Tripoli and Kerak compared as missionary spheres.

PERSIA AND BAGHDAD MISSION.

Persia, though one of the youngest of the Society's Missions, was one of the first countries thought of by the Committee, and was mentioned in each of the first two Annual Reports. Henry Martyn stayed ten months in the country in 1811. Since 1834 an American Mission has laboured with much blessing among the Nestorian Christians. In 1869 the Rev. R. Bruce, of the C.M.S., visited Persia on his way back to India, and finding the Moslems of Ispahan and its neighbourhood not unwilling to discuss religious subjects, he took up his abode there, and gathered round him some few of these, and a considerable number of Armenian Christians who were dissatisfied with their corrupt form of worship. He also opened schools, &c. In 1875 the Society formally adopted his work as one of its Missions. Ladies were added to the staff in 1891. Kirman was occupied in 1897, and Yezd in 1898.

In 1882 the Mission was extended by the occupation of Baghdad, which, though in the Turkish Empire, has opportunities for Persian work (work, however, which the C.M.S. has only been able very intermittently to carry on), being in the immediate neighbourhood of the sacred places of the Shiah Mohammedans, and therefore the resort of thousands of pilgrims from all parts of Persia.

Reinforcement.

THE Committee have sent out Mr. Peter Sturrock Sturrock, B.A., Merton College, Oxford, and M.B., B.C., Caius College, Cambridge, to reinforce Baghdad. Mr. Sturrock sailed in October, 1897, and Miss L. Stubbs returned to Julfa after furlough in the same month. Miss M. R. S. Bird came home in July, 1897 (travelling by Teheran, Resht, and Moscow); the Rev. W. A. Rice on medical grounds, and Dr. and Mrs. H. M. Sutton on furlough, in March, 1898. The Rev. J. T. Parfit was married to Miss Jessie Susanna King, an L.L.A. of St. Andrew's University, in November; Dr. H. White was married in December to Miss E. C. Davies-Colley of this Mission.

Bishop Stuart's journeys.

Bishop Stuart's visit to Baghdad at the close of 1896 was mentioned in last year's Annual Report. His account of the journey from Julfa to Baghdad was received after that Report went to press, and was published in the C.M. Intelligencer for July, 1897. A slight detour in order to include Sultanabad in the route was made, and altogether forty-three days were occupied in the journey, thirty-three in travelling (an average of fifteen miles), and ten in halts on Sundays and a few days spent at Sultanabad, Hamadan, and Kirmanshah. At the first-named place the Bishop paid an interesting visit to the most influential mullah in the town, and found him most friendly and not unacquainted with the Scriptures. Miss Stuart found the ladies also of his house very intelligent and interested in the Gospel story. Half-way between Sultanabad and Hamadan they struck the main pilgrim route from Central Persia, and that at the season of the year when the pilgrims are most numerous. They fell in with several who had heard the Word from their lips at Yezd and Kirman; and they had many opportunities of giving away tracts. The following picturesque scene, well fitted, as the Bishop remarks, to illustrate the importance of disseminating Christian literature in a country like Persia, was witnessed:—

Persian pilgrims reading Christian tracts.

One morning, where in a romantic valley the road skirted a hill and lay along a river-bank, we overtook a large party who had stayed the previous night at our caravanserai. As we passed the long train of mules carrying the kajavers (litters), in which the women mostly were conveyed, and of horses and donkeys with their riders, we heard one of our tracts being read aloud by a leader in the band of pilgrims. He was seated in a kajaver, and recited the words with that measured cadence of which the Persians are so fond, the women in the company swaying to and fro, and at the more pathetic parts beating their breasts as is their custom when listening to the moving tragedy of Hasan and Hosein.

And later in their journey, the following touching incident was met with:—

A dying pilgrim.

At the side of the road near a squalid hamlet in the hills lay, in the blazing sun, a dying man on his back, with limbs stretched out. His cap had been placed on his breast, and in it were a few coppers. He was a pilgrim who had been left there by the rest of his party to die, and the cap was a mute appeal for money to bury him. Finding that there was still life in him, we stopped, and tried to administer some restoratives, and contrived to screen him from the sun. He opened his eyes, and seemed to know that we were trying to do him good. But after some little time it was too evident that for him the sands of time had run out and his life's pilgrimage was ended. So we stood around him and commended him to the merciful Judge of all men, the God of the stranger and the Friend of the friendless. The villagers who had gathered round seemed touched by our concern for the poor fellow, and promised to give him burial, we helping to provide the winding-sheet. There are, alas! many who thus fall out of the ranks and die on the pilgrim route.

At Hamadan the Bishop and Miss Stuart were hospitably entertained by the brethren of the American Mission, and were much impressed with the thoroughness and completeness of the equipment of the Mission. The school-desks, for example, the Bishop was surprised and pleased to find, were of the most modern and approved pattern, beautifully made of American wood, and all sent out from the States ready to be put together. They were the gift of an American gentleman who had visited the school. The Bishop was also struck with the fact that the missionaries were not all resident in one part of the town, but occupied houses in different quarters, an arrangement which brings them into contact with the people at many points. At Baghdad the Bishop met Colonel Mockler, the British resident, at whose house at Muscat Bishop French died in 1891. Many endeared reminiscences crowded on his memory, from the days when he and French went out together in 1850, and laboured together for three years at Agra, as the Bishop talked over at Baghdad the last scenes of that honoured life. At Bushire the Bishop found a Persian convert who had been baptized in India, and was married to the daughter of an old and faithful catechist at Faizabad; and a Christian companion of his in the same place was educated at St. John's College, Agra, and is the son of a catechist who worked with Bishop Stuart at Jabalpur in 1858–59.

In October, 1897, the Bishop and Miss Stuart took a tour extending over eighteen days along the Shuster caravan route to the west of Ispahan. In these wild regions they frequently fell in with those who had been to the Julfa dispensaries or hospital. At one village where they had halted for the night a poor woman, whose leg had been amputated some months before, having heard of their arrival, literally dragged herself along the road to their serai in order to see Miss Stuart, and also Miss Conner who was with them at that part of the journey.

Julfa.

The disturbances which occurred in JULFA at the beginning of 1897, and which led to the temporary imprisonment of three pupils of the boarding-school, sons of Persian converts, and the father of two of them; then to the imprisonment, on a false charge, of a colporteur of the British and Foreign Bible Society; and, thirdly, to interference with the work of the hospital, were mentioned last year. The effects of these and subsequent troubles were felt in some degree throughout the year. The Persian day-school, which was closed in consequence of these disturbances, has not yet, so far as the Committee have been informed, been re-opened, to the great regret of the missionaries and of the pupils and their parents. Two of the lads who were ill-treated have been placed in the American Mission School at Teheran, and their father, Paulus, is also there, working at his trade of making gerbar, i.e., Persian shoes. Of this man Paulus, who visited Julfa in March, 1897, Bishop Stuart wrote :—

Persian day-school closed.

A convert rejoicing that counted worthy to suffer.

> Paulus left this morning before daylight. He had, of course, to be kept in hiding all the time he was here. But he is very brave and trusting in his Saviour. He has composed a song during his sufferings, and it is all praise that he has been counted worthy to suffer scourging, and insults, and bonds, and loss of all things for His Name. Truly such proofs, in one's own day, of the ever-present grace of God triumphing over all things which are seen and temporal imparts a new sense of reality to things not seen but eternal.

Benjamin Badal, the devoted labourer in the work of the Bible Society—who was sent to Teheran, in accordance with the demand of the British Consul, as the most likely course to secure him an impartial hearing on the malicious charge of causing the death of a Mohammedan—remained under the care of the British Legation in that city for some weeks awaiting his trial. As no one appeared against him, the Persian Government agreed to the proposal of the English Chargé d'Affaires that he should be set at liberty on condition of his undertaking not to return to Julfa. The missionaries in the report of the year's work presented to and approved by the Conference of the Mission, remark upon this :—

Injustice to an agent of the B. & F.B.S.

> To English ears it may sound strange that an innocent man, the victim of a malicious and groundless charge, should, without even the form of a trial, be banished indefinitely from his work and his home! But this is how matters are managed in Persia, where the Government is too weak to defy the interested and unscrupulous demands of the mullahs, except, perhaps, in a case where the Government has a strong motive of its own to assert itself. Anyhow, this present instance seems to show how abject is the social condition of a country where even the highest in authority confess themselves powerless to administer justice, to protect the innocent, and to punish the wrongdoer.

A closed dispensary opened by the British Consul.

At the end of March the Armenian workers at the dispensary in Jubarah, the Jewish quarter of Ispahan, were attacked by an angry crowd of Moslem theological students and Sayyids. For some days the dispensary was forcibly closed, but, upon the representations of the Legation at Teheran, the Persian Government recognized the legality of the work among the Jews, and the Consul at Ispahan, on receiving instructions to this effect, went personally to the dispensary and ordered his servants to force open the door. In May an agent of the Persian Foreign Office arbitrarily interfered by removing books from this dispensary, and taking into custody one of the teachers at the Jewish school, but orders from Teheran obliged him at once to restore the books and release the teacher, and reprimanded him for his illegal acts. He was subsequently recalled from Ispahan. This vigorous action on the part of the British authorities doubtless, under God, preserved the Mission from further direct interference. The parents of the Jewish lads attending the Jubarah school suffered much trying persecution in the shape of boycotting, but the school flourished notwithstanding, and was handed over at the end of 1897 to the Rev. J. L. Garland, a missionary sent out by the London Jews' Society, for which Society the C.M.S. temporarily carried on the work.

With the exception of the closing of the Persian school, the work of the Mission went on without further interruption, a matter on which the missionaries remark with thankfulness, considering the adverse and persistent forces around them.

The health of several of the missionaries suffered. Two of them and two children of the Rev. W. St. C. Tisdall, were ill with scarlet fever; Mr. Tisdall himself had a severe attack of fever; and the Rev. C. H. Stileman, the Secretary of the Mission, was brought to death's door by enteric fever, but his valuable life was mercifully spared.

Persian services.

The Persian Services on Sunday morning were attended by an unusually large number of Mohammedans, who listened most attentively to the whole service. These visitors are accommodated in the gallery of the church, and not infrequently this was overcrowded, and the vestry and another room had to be utilized. After the service some of the men attend a Bible Class held for Armenians by Mr. Tisdall. There were not, however, many regular inquirers. Mr. Tisdall mentions one or two interesting cases. A Native of Hyderabad, who, after visiting Mecca, had resided for some time at Kashan, asked for baptism, saying that what he had seen at Mecca and elsewhere had convinced him that there was no truth in Islam. This man went to Bombay (at his own expense), bearing a letter from Bishop Stuart to one of the missionaries there, and taking with him a brother-in-law—a "simple-minded young Persian" —who had resolved also to seek baptism. A Native of Shiraz, thirty-five years of age—a man of considerable Persian and Arabic learning, and of independent means—was brought to Mr. Tisdall by one of the members of his Armenian Bible Class, and told him that after studying in vain all Mohammedan religious and philosophical systems, he first got light through reading the Bible, a copy of which he had purchased from a colporteur of the British and Foreign Bible Society. Mr. Tisdall adds:—

Convinced at Mecca that Islam is false.

Light through reading the Bible.

> He told me that at one time he was entirely devoted to the Quran, rising in the night and reciting it, carrying the book everywhere in his bosom to read whenever he had a spare moment, and thus endeavouring to obtain peace with God. "But," he said, "I found no satisfaction to the soul, no knowledge of God in it." His conversations and questions show that he has thought deeply, and studied the Bible carefully. He is greatly struck by our Lord's character and teaching, and he joins with us in prayer, and asks for prayer that he may gain assurance of acceptance with God.

Converts.

A Jew, Manasseh by name, who first heard the Gospel at the Jubarah dispensary from the lips of Mr. Manook Hyrapiet, Mr. Stileman's office clerk, and subsequently was instructed by Mr. Stileman and Mr. Tisdall, was baptized on Advent Sunday, and suffered much persecution from his former co-religionists for his openly confessed faith in Christ. Two young Persian women, named Hamêdeh and Khûrshid, were also admitted by baptism into the Church, receiving the names Mariam and Marta respectively. Both were mentioned in a quotation from Miss M. R. S. Bird's Annual Letter in last year's Report (page 162). The former was baptized in May; she is only seventeen, but "very courageous and well established in the faith." She often said to the lady missionary, "I believe I shall be put to death for my faith in Christ, and I want to be baptized and be a full member of the Christian Church before I am killed." Bishop Stuart wrote of the service:—

An affecting baptisma service.

> She gave her answers in the service very distinctly and firmly, and was wonderfully calm. Only the Mission party were present. We all felt deeply solemnized, and it was with difficulty I could command my voice throughout the prayers and exhortation, knowing all that it meant for her.

Khûrshid was baptized on September 2nd; she became quite blind after entering the hospital, and was taught by Miss Braine-Hartnell to read the Persian Bible by the Braille system. Mr. Stileman wrote concerning her:—

A blind Persian girl confesses Christ.

She first came to Miss Bird's dispensary just a year ago, suffering very much from disease in the eyes. She came regularly week by week and heard the Gospel message there, and seemed to drink it in eagerly. After a time she was taken into the hospital, but it was evident that there was no hope of her being cured, and she patiently bore her suffering while learning more of the Saviour who suffered for her. Miss Bird taught her patients a text every morning as she went her rounds, and Khûrshid (which is the Persian word for sun) was always very anxious to learn and quick to grasp the meaning. She also enjoyed the daily reading in the wards and attended Bible classes at the ladies' house. The convert Hamîdeh (baptized in May) used to pass on what she knew to her blind friend, who soon expressed her wish to be baptized, and said she could rejoice in her blindness, for it had been the means of bringing her to the True Light. She took a keen delight in studying a portion of St. John's Gospel prepared on the Braille system, which had been adapted to Persian by Mr. Tisdall, and she can now truly say from her heart, "Once I was blind, but now I can see, the Light of the World is Jesus."

Confirmation of three Persian converts.

On the same day as the latter was baptized, she and Hamêdeh and Sakinah (see Annual Report, 1895–96, pages 154–5, and 1896–97, page 162) were confirmed by Bishop Stuart. Sakinah still remains in the anderîm of the Prince-Governor of Ispahan as a servant of one of his wives. For nearly two years after she was taken under the Prince's protection from the power of her persecutors, no opportunity occurred for her to hold communication with the missionaries. But in May, 1897, hearing that Miss Bird was about to leave on furlough, she obtained leave from the chief of the eunuchs to see her, another woman accompanying her to secure her return. Miss Bird's account of the interview is as follows:—

They left the anderîm at daybreak and came to the Julfa dispensary. Sakinah told me she was not allowed to have a Gospel or to speak of religion. "But that does not matter, for I have it in my heart." She wore no charms or talismans, but said the Prince had himself fastened a beautiful silver one inscribed with the Moslem creed on Abraham's arm. She had taken it off, saying her boy was not a Moslem, and though the Prince was angry, and every one treated her badly for some time, she remained firm. The church bell rang for the Persian morning service. She insisted on coming again to worship with the Christians, though knowing it was a risk to run. She repeated the Lord's Prayer, Creed, and Commandments, perfectly, and the greater part of the General Confession, whispering, "I say them every day, not to forget." She had to leave directly after service. Her last words were, "I trust Jesus will make me free some day and let me come back to the Mission."

"I say them every day, not to forget."

In the following month she visited the hospital to get medicine for her throat, and when Dr. Emmeline M. Stuart produced St. John's Gospel she read quite easily part of the first chapter, though not allowed in the Palace to have a book.

Mr. Tisdall was engaged mainly in Literary Work, viz., in the preparation of books and tracts and the translation of suitable works into Persian. In a country like Persia, where preaching the Word of Life in public is almost precluded, such work is of supreme importance, both with regard to the present and to future generations. The literary class in Persia is a numerous one. Even among the peasantry readers are often met with, while traders and shopkeepers generally are able to read. Mr. Tisdall wrote Friendly Dialogues, a book dealing with most of the leading difficulties which hinder Mohammedans from accepting the Gospel, and also setting forth the main doctrines of Christianity; and several Persian tracts, e.g., "God's Unspeakable Gift," "God's Jewels," &c.; and he is preparing an account of the life of Mohammed. He is engaged also in translating several books from Arabic, Greek, and English into Persian. The Henry Martyn Memorial Press, which was under Mr. Tisdall's charge during the year, issued a number of books and tracts. The Armenian Boys' School had an undisturbed year, except for an epidemic of scarlet fever which compelled its being closed for some weeks. Its numbers were somewhat increased by a few Persian boys, who, after the Persian school was closed, availed themselves of the English instruction given in this school. The Armenian Girls' School has suffered a real loss by the retirement of Mrs. Aidinyantz (formerly Miss Read) of the Female Education Society, after thirteen years of devoted service. Mrs. Stileman and Miss A. Stirling conducted the school during the greater part of the year, until Miss L. Stubbs' return in November. The Sunday-schools for Armenian boys and girls have 105 and 160 pupils respectively.

Schools.

The staff of the Medical Mission, increased by the arrival of Drs. H. White and Emmeline M. Stuart in May, 1897, were fully occupied at the hospitals and dispensaries, and in visiting distant places in response to earnest appeals. Dr. D. W. Carr took the out-patient and Dr. White the in-patient work at the Julfa hospital, and Miss Stuart had charge of the women's wards. The Julfa dispensaries for men and women were open two days, and the one at Jubarah also two days of each week. There is a short Gospel address with prayer with the out-patients, while a catechist reads with the in-patients daily, and a hospital service is held for them on Sunday afternoons. The Rev. A. R. Blackett gave valued help in frequently visiting the wards, and he writes:—

Medical Mission.

The spiritual value of hospital work.

It is impossible to over-estimate the spiritual value of the opportunities given by hospital work in a land like this, and I feel it a great privilege to be engaged in it. Patients come in from all parts of the country, some from the neighbouring city, some from far distant towns, and not a few from shifting homes in the wilds of Luristan; all ignorant of the Gospel, but driven by sickness and suffering to accept help at the hands of the despised Christian, who they know to be possessed of a scientific knowledge of the healing art. In the hospital they hear and see something of Christianity. The walls of the wards are brightened with texts of Scripture in their own tongue. From the lips of doctors and kashishes (clergymen), catechists and dispensers, they hear the Gospel read and explained, while the treatment and kindness they receive is a practical proof that the religion of the "infidel" is not without some elements of good. On leaving the hospital they return to old scenes, and perhaps never again in their lives hear anything of the Truth. How important that we should use that little opportunity well, and see to it that no patient ever goes away without having had the way of salvation explained to him.

"Buried under three paving-stones."

The soul of the Mohammedan seems to lie buried beneath the three paving-stones of fanaticism, self-righteousness, and timidity, but when the Life-Giver commands the blessing the seed will burst into vitality, and finding its way between the crevices, thrust the paving-stones apart and grow into a noble tree. Will the Church at home continue to pray that this may be the case in Persia?

In the course of six months Dr. Emmeline M. Stuart treated 100 in-patients in the four wards assigned to women, and 1,837 new out-patients were treated. Of the difficulties which attend the work for women in-patients, and of the indications that these difficulties through God's grace are no absolute bar to success, she writes:—

Female in-patients—their difficulties.

When a woman seeks admission she has either won a grudgingly-given, and oft-times short-lived, permission from an unwilling husband or father, or she has come in without their knowledge, and in a few days her male relatives will arrive and demand her. It is of no use to say she will get worse if she is removed then; entreaties and warnings are alike of no avail. A woman's life is of little value; she is not worth getting into trouble with the mullahs about; if she is to die, it is the will of God, and it is defilement to be in a Christian house; and so the poor thing is taken away, often, as we know, to get worse and die. But with all their prejudices and superstitions it is wonderful how sometimes they do let them stay until we can pronounce them cured, and I have had several such. Still, the majority are carried off before they are well, and this is the chief reason that our record of results is not as good as we should like it to be. But we have to remember what a strong foe we are fighting in this land, and be thankful for the smallest indications of the crumbling of the wall of prejudice and bigotry which is still barring our way. I had lately a woman, and though when she came in she was as bigoted as she could be, refusing to eat our food or use our dishes, by the end of her stay, as she herself said, her heart was softened, and she was most pressing in her invitations to us to come and visit her in town, and full of gratitude for her cure. She told us she would try and come over to our Sunday services sometimes, and she has actually come once since she left us.

Najifabad.

Bishop Stuart and his daughter and Miss Stirling spent ten days at Najifabad in September, and had a most hearty reception. Their daily prayer-meetings, morning and evening, were largely attended, and every afternoon the ladies had their room filled with women, so many of whom indeed were eager to hear that they were obliged to have them in successive groups. The party had similar experiences in some neighbouring villages which they visited.

Several Itinerating Tours were taken by members of the Mission. Dr. Carr started on a tour eastward in April, 1897, but after reaching Nain, he received an urgent request to go to Yezd to perform an operation on the governor, the Jelal-ud-Dowlat, the eldest son of the Zil-es-Sultan, or governor of Ispahan. Carriages were sent by the latter to convey him, and Yezd was reached in three and a half days. Five and a half weeks were spent in Yezd, during which patients flocked in such numbers that soldiers with fixed bayonets were placed to guard the operating room, and precious opportunities occurred of delivering the Message to all classes. Dr. Carr then returned to Ispahan in the company of the Jelal-ud-Dowlat. Then numerously signed letters followed Dr. Carr to Julfa, petitioning on the part of Moslems and Parsis that he might return to Yezd to repeat the "wonderful cures which by the help of God he had effected." In August Dr. White went, in response to an urgent message from a Bakhtiarí chief, to the Charmahal district, the hill country to the west of Ispahan on the caravan route to Shuster, near the ancient Shushan of the Bible story of Esther. There he met Iskander Khan, the Sirdar or head of all the Bakhtiari tribes, representing some 10,000 horsemen all armed with rifles. He was treated with lavish hospitality. The Armenian catechists who accompanied him held services, and had many talks with the people. Nearly 300 patients were treated, most of them being chiefs' wives and children. In October, en route to Kirman, Dr. Carr went first seven days' journey on the Shiraz road as far as Abadeh, and thence to Yezd by a somewhat unfrequented route. At Abadeh, where there are many Babis, they found the people most friendly; and at Abarguh, a large town between Abadeh and Yezd, a place noted for its violence, where every one carried long knives and pistols in his belt, they were received most cordially, and several of the chief people seemed delighted to receive a copy of the New Testament. The Committee have sanctioned the occupation of Yezd by a medical missionary, and have instructed Dr. and Mrs. White to proceed thither.

Occupation of Yezd.

The Rev. W. A. Rice spent a considerable portion of the year in itinerating, making altogether five journeys. He visited (1) Natauz and Kashan; (2) Yezd, in company with Dr. Carr in April; (3) Chahakhor and Urujin, in the Chahar Mahall district; (4) Najifabad, Khousar and Gulpaigan; (5) Kumisheh, Abadeh, and Shiraz. He writes:—

> The great value and interest of itinerating is that it brings one into comparatively easy contact with all sorts and conditions of men—governors, princes, noblemen, officials, mullahs, sayyids, akhunds, students, gentlemen, villagers, headmen of villages, pilgrims, dervishes, merchants, camel-drivers, Turkish gipsies, Parsis, proselytes to Mohammedanism from Jews or Christians (very rarely met with). Perhaps representatives of every one of these classes might be found in a great city like Ispahan; but it is less easy to get into contact with them there. Along the road there are no spies to report that such and such a person goes to see the Farangi, and in the villages the arrival of a European stranger, glad to talk with the people, and with books to give or sell and tracts to distribute, is generally welcomed, by some at all events, as a novelty and relief to the tedious monotony of their daily lives. The common people take their tone in treating a Christian stranger naturally enough from the behaviour of their "great men" and "grey-beards," so I make it a principle to try and call on these, where time and circumstances allow of it.

Seekers after truth.

It is a great happiness and privilege to meet, as happens from time to time, with souls really desirous to know the truth and the way of life, or really interested in knowing what the Gospel teaching is as to the way of salvation. One such was a Gabr, who struck me as one of the most earnest seekers I have met with. Another, a gentleman's son, is "most eager to arrive at truth, and says he looks upon me as his guide." (I quote from my diary.) Another was a young man, who came to see me one morning, when "his talk . . . . was all Sufiistic, and he came armed with the Masnavi. He passes for a Dervish in——, a fact which is openly proclaimed by his high-crowned, fawn-coloured, brimless felt hat, beautifully embroidered with Persian words and tasteful patterns. But now (on a late evening visit, Nicodemus-like) he says that he has accepted the religion of Jesus for four months, and is most anxious to know what to do, as he says his father . . . . would be ready to turn him out of house and home, or kill him, if he told him he was a Christian."

Kirman.

The Rev. H. Carless,* on his return from furlough at the close of 1896, after making a six weeks' visit to the Punjab and Sindh Mission, arrived at Bushire, in the Persian Gulf, in December, spent Christmas at Shiraz, reached Ispahan in January, and arrived at KIRMAN to occupy it tentatively, in accordance with the Committee's instructions, on March 27th. After spending eight months there he wrote in December that he had been accorded a most friendly reception, many Mohammedans having shown him marked kindness. He gathered a few boys around him as the nucleus of a school, the Governor of the province sending his son for education as his first pupil, but this Governor was removed soon afterwards to another part of the country. Sunday services were held with a growing attendance, "an oasis of love and peace in the desert," Mr. Carless says. A great trial and sorrow was suffered by the fall into the sin of drunkenness of one who joined Mr. Carless as a native fellow worker, a Persian convert of Dr. Bruce's of some six years' standing. Mr. Carless unhesitatingly recommends the permanent occupation of Kirman, and he concludes his report of the year's experiences and his statement of the chief need as follows:—

Reception of its first missionary.

"An oasis in the desert."

It has been a solemn year, realizing that we were the only witnesses for Christ in a very large tract of country, and the battle with sin and Satan has not been easy. The fight has been a hand-to-hand one, and the ruin and sin around are terrible. The power of Satan seems overwhelmingly great, but the Lord has given songs in the darkness, and in His power we are well able to overcome. We want the outpouring of the Holy Ghost, that out of the moral chaos may spring the new creation through the Word of God to the glory of the Father Almighty. As the Church of God claims this, both corporately and individually, we shall see wondrous things, even in Mohammedan lands. "Said I not unto thee, if thou wouldest believe, thou shouldest see the glory of God?"

* The sad news is received as these pages are passing through the press that the Rev. H. Carless died from typhoid fever on May 25th.

The Rev. and Mrs. A. R. Blackett were transferred to Kirman from Julfa in April, 1898.

BAGHDAD.

Baghdad.

Dr. H. M. Sutton had the pleasure of welcoming a medical colleague at BAGHDAD in the person of Dr. P. S. Sturrock in December, 1897, and in his hands he left the charge of the Medical Mission when he came home on furlough a few weeks later. The dispensary which, as mentioned last year, was closed by Dr. Sutton for several months because he found it impossible to treat the large number of patients who attended, was reopened in the summer of 1897, and the improved conduct of the patients seemed to show that the temporary loss of the privilege had made them appreciate it the more. The Congregation consists largely, if not entirely, of employés and colporteurs of the British and Foreign Bible Society and their families. They meet for worship in a room of the Rev. J. T. Parfit's house. A greater readiness to take part in prayer-meetings and in Sunday-school teaching, as well as an increase of liberality, are encouraging tokens of blessing. Miss E. E. Martin, who reached Baghdad from Melbourne at the end of 1896, was able at once, through having previously laboured in Palestine in connexion with the Female Education Society, to take up work in Arabic, and started a Bible-class for the women of the congregation. The Sunday-school grew from an average attendance of under fifty to over seventy during the year; three languages, Arabic, Armenian, and English being used in instructing the children. The Day-school, the opening of which, after long delays and much difficulty, was referred to last year, grew from fifty-seven children, both sexes, in January, 1897, to eighty-eight in December. The first prize-giving was held during Bishop Stuart's visit in November, 1896, and the largest gathering ever held in connexion with the Mission then assembled. In December, 1897, at the second prize-giving, the gathering was still larger by some seventy people, parents and friends of the children and others. The parents also are often found attending the services and meetings. Evangelistic work in Baghdad is hampered, as everywhere in the Turkish Empire, by the ever watchful vigilance of the authorities. At the beginning of 1898 a young man who had been visiting Mr. Parfit regularly for instruction was arrested outside the Mission house by soldiers waiting for him, and was taken to prison on his replying affirmatively to their question whether he was seeking Christianity. Miss A. Phillips, of the New South Wales Association, was chiefly engaged in language study.

Visit to the site of ancient Nineveh.

Mr. Parfit took a seven weeks' Itineration in the spring of 1897 through the borders of Kurdistan to Mosul on the site of ancient Nineveh, returning to Baghdad by the River Tigris on a raft. At Kifri, where the local official had confiscated the Bibles of the British and Foreign Bible Society colporteurs, Mr. Parfit, armed with an order from the Wali of Baghdad, recovered the volumes and sold a considerable number of Scripture portions to the people. Some opposition was experienced, stones were thrown, a colporteur was stripped of his coat, and the baggage animals were taken and put to other service. This occasioned delay, and the delay gave Mr. Parfit an opportunity of becoming acquainted with a devout Mussulman, to whom Bishop French had given a Testament ten years before, who on two successive nights reverently discussed with him the foundation truths of religion. Up to the time of their leaving the place people continued to call upon them to purchase books. Arrived at Mosul, Mr. Parfit visited the old ruined city of Hathra, and met with some of the wild Arabs inhabiting this portion of the Mesopotamian desert, of whom he says :—

Wild "praying Arabs."

Twice the Arabs mistook us for invading enemies, and as soon as our little caravan was sighted the war cry was raised, and the women fled for protection, whilst the half-naked men, with matted, shaggy hair, poured forth from every tent, snatching at spears, guns, axes, cudgels, and weapons of every description. I had some interesting talks with some of these men, and found they called themselves the "praying Arabs," by which they meant that they regularly observed the appointed hours for prayer ; but I found that, in spite of this, they did not even understand the prayers they offered, and they were as ignorant and as degraded as the Heathen of Africa. There is much to be done amongst the Arab tribes between here and Syria. They are only ferocious in appearance, in spite of their degradation, for when they found we were not enemies, they brought milk and leben to our tents, and killed for us a fine young lamb.

INDIA.

In last year's Report (pages 166-171) some facts were recorded and remarks made regarding the sore visitations of famine and plague which began to trouble India in the course of 1896. The year 1897 experienced, superadded to the famine and the plague, a number of most serious fanatical outbreaks on the north-west frontier, earthquakes in Bengal, political assassinations in Bombay, riots in Calcutta—a catalogue of calamities, some of them of almost unprecedented dimensions, which in the aggregate will render it an annus mirabilis indeed.

Frontier outbreaks.

In the summer of 1897, July 26th, the tribes of the Swat Valley, through whose territory the Indian Government resolved in 1896 to construct a road to Chitral, attacked a fortified post on the road, and were proceeded against and defeated by Sir Bindon Blood. A few days after the above rising another tribe attacked a fort only fifteen miles from Peshawar, an attack which was brilliantly repulsed. On August 23rd and 25th, the Afridis, a tribe hitherto loyal to the Government, and to whom had been entrusted for nearly twenty years the guardianship of the Khyber Pass, without provocation or warning treacherously attacked, and eventually captured and burned, the forts at Lundi Kotal, Ali Masjid, and Fort Maude. These risings necessitated military operations on a gigantic scale, larger forces being sent up than had ever been engaged by the British Government in any previous conflict in India. The warlike nature of the frontier tribes, Mohmands, Afridis, Orakzais, and Waziris, no less than the mountainous and well-nigh inaccessible character of their country, rendered the expedition one of extreme difficulty. Tirah, in particular, the land of the Afridis, was absolutely a terra incognita, so completely had the policy of non-interference been carried out; indeed, the only British officer who had ventured to enter it before Sir William Lockhart's force went there was punished for the act by being removed from his appointment. Heavy casualties, especially among officers, throughout the expedition proved that its difficulties and dangers had not been over-estimated, and when the approach of winter necessitated withdrawal, it was apprehended that warlike operations would have to be renewed against Tirah in the spring of 1898. Happily the tribes meanwhile accepted the terms which had been proclaimed, satisfied, apparently, with the demonstration that their mountain haunts were not beyond the effective reach of the Power they had so recklessly defied. Many stirring incidents of individual courage and heroism occurred during the campaign. The taking of Dargai on October 20th by the Gordon Highlanders in particular was a noteworthy instance of courage. Pointing to the seemingly impregnable position of the enemy, the colonel of the regiment made the laconic speech, "The General says the position must be taken; the Gordon Highlanders will take it!" and take it they did. No words can be needed to prove a parallel, or to apply the moral of such an example, to the readers of this Report.

"The position must be taken."

Earthquake in Bengal.

On June 12th, somewhat earlier than these risings, occurred the earthquake in Assam and Bengal, which resulted in the loss of over 1,500 lives, and the destruction of an enormous amount of property.

North-West Provinces Government Famine Report.

The Famine Report issued by the Government of the North-West Provinces and Oudh, in which provinces the distress was more general than in any other part of India, affords very remarkable evidence alike of the suffering involved in so terrible a visitation, and of the conspicuous zeal and wise efforts of the authorities in combating the evil. In no previous famine had the whole area of the North-West Provinces been so severely afflicted. In one-third there was actual famine, in another there was scarcity, and in the remainder there was the hard struggle for life which famine prices cause. In 1893 and 1894 the harvests proved deficient, and in the latter year 13,000,000 rupees' worth of food had to be purchased from other provinces. At the beginning of 1895 more than one-half the districts of the provinces were in part dependent on food supplies from outside, and in the summer several districts were not far removed from actual want of food. At the beginning of 1896, food stuffs went up in price 25 per cent. The cultivation had shrunk by over 2,000,000 acres, as seed grew dearer, and the chances of germination in unirrigated soil waxed fainter. The failure of the rainfall in that year brought the calamity to a climax. In many districts it was deficient by 40 per cent. below the average; in a larger area it was deficient by more than 50 per cent.; and in an ill-fated tract it was deficient by 69 per cent. The Government, by means of direct monetary advances to cultivators, by suspensions of revenue, and by digging temporary wells, effected a considerable increase in the cultivated area. No fewer than 550,759 temporary and 4,227 masonry wells were constructed. Notwithstanding these efforts, the total yield of food grains from the autumn crop of 1896 fell from 5,370,000 tons to 2,055,000 tons, a loss of some £11,000,000. The chief problem before the Government in 1897 was how to organize and distribute relief so as to keep alive a vast population of about 47,000,000 for nine months, i.e. until the end of the rainy season. The executive staff was considerably strengthened, additional relief works and poor-houses were opened, and gratuitous relief was more widely distributed. The flood mark of the famine was reached on February 27th, when there were 1,381,337 persons on relief works, and 315,385 persons were in receipt of gratuitous relief in poor-houses or at their homes. The spring crops of 1897 yielded only 60 per cent. of the average amount, which meant a loss of £12,000,000 at normal prices and at current rates of exchange. This, added to the loss of £11,000,000, mentioned above, and to £1,400,000 the cost of provincial relief measures, and to £2,000,000 the loss to the Imperial Government through remissions of land revenue, &c., made a total loss in these provinces amounting to £26,400,000. The Famine Report states that the death rate in the North-West Provinces during the twelve months of famine prevalence was 36·30 per thousand of the population, only 3·26 per thousand in excess of the average mortality upon the decennial period previous to 1896, and 1·75 per thousand less than the death rate of 1893–94, which was 38·05. The inference from these figures, however, has been called in question, inasmuch as it is doubtful whether during famine years the registration of deaths can be relied upon. There is a special tendency to migrate from the villages to the large towns during famine times. The Rev. J. P. Haythornthwaite states that in two villages in the Agra district only 230 returned out of 500 who left, none of their friends having heard of the missing ones; and from facts within his own knowledge and observation he is satisfied that many deaths occurred in the North-West Provinces of which no official record was possible. Moreover, the Famine Report states that the number of deaths due to starvation "amount in all to twenty-five deaths between September, 1896, and October, 1897." Upon this statement Mr. Haythornthwaite remarks:—

A loss of over 26 millions sterling.

> When the plague first began to appear in Bombay we were constantly assured that it was on the decrease, when deaths from other causes were suspiciously high, and it would seem that at famine times the official definition of what constitutes "death from starvation" is one which would never be accepted at a London Hospital. Apparently in an extreme famine year it is the only form of death which it is difficult, if not impossible, to meet with. Nine of the unrecorded deaths which occurred in connexion with the St. John's College feeding-station were registered by me as due to "starvation," but it was impossible to declare in each case that no food had been eaten for three days previous to death. That the organization of relief in the North-West Provinces and Oudh was a "conspicuous success" is beyond question, but the fact will not be more firmly established by undue straining at points like these.

Prompted doubtless by the desire to refrain from exercising, or even appearing to exercise, the slightest pressure in the direction of proselytizing through the famine distress and the Government relief, the services of missionaries were very sparingly availed of on the local relief committees. This was a departure from the course adopted in previous famines; and seeing that to these local relief committees the distribution of the Mansion House Fund and other public funds raised in the United Kingdom, British Colonies, and in India itself was entrusted, amounting to Rs. 16,536,000—much of it contributed by Christian congregations in response to pulpit appeals—it seemed somewhat incongruous that those who were already in friendly contact with the people, who were well acquainted with their habits and language, and who were in deepest sympathy with their sufferings, should, with a few exceptions, be excluded from assisting because they were missionaries, and that the distribution of these colossal sums of money should be committed to Government officials and wealthy Natives, where the vote of the majority would be non-Christian. Even zenana missionaries—the only class of persons in the country who, by virtue of their sex and calling, have access to the homes of high-caste women—were not less rigorously excluded from rendering help. And when the missionaries, beset with applications for aid, were constrained to undertake famine relief efforts, and applied for help from the Mansion House Fund, the non-Christian vote gave in many instances a negative response, and they were obliged to appeal to their friends at home. Mr. Haythornthwaite, for example, at Agra was instrumental in giving food, between March and September, to 145,342 persons, at a cost of Rs. 6,589. To assist such efforts the Famine Relief Fund opened bythe C.M.S. was available, but in some cases—and notably Mr. Haythornthwaite's—only a fraction of the sum expended was derived from that Fund, the balance being contributed direct by friends at home and in the colonies. The Society's Fund amounted to £10,937.

Efforts of individual missionaries.

The after-effects of a famine are often among its most terrible features, and these, like the direct and immediate effects, are continually in evidence before the missionaries. Ruined homes, dismembered families, deserted fields, disjointed trades, empty tool-chests, vacant stables, lonely orphans, deserted wives, desolate widows—these and others of like kind are the legacies bequeathed to the sympathies of Christians by this terrible visitation. Something of what has been attempted to meet these needs by the missionaries at the several stations will appear in the pages that follow.

After-effects of famine.

The plague unhappily cannot be spoken of in the past tense, inasmuch as its ravages, after abating for a brief season, were renewed, and continue still to defy the enlightened and self-denying efforts of the authorities to stamp it out. In the summer of 1897 it seemed virtually to have passed away, and the Times of India, in its issue of May 28th, gave a calculation of the extent of the mortality in the city of Bombay between September 29th, 1896, and May 25th, 1897. Deducting the normal mortality from the total number of deaths, 21,000 were left as probably due to the plague, nearly double the number given in the official returns, the difference being accounted for by the concealment of the cause of death. The worst weeks were the last in December, 1896, and the second in February, 1897, when the deaths were 1,384 and 1,371 respectively. In the autumn of 1897, however, the subject began to claim attention once more, especially in Poona and Bombay, and soon after in Nasik and Malegâm also. During November the deaths in Poona alone totalled 1,259. In the whole Bombay Presidency the total number of deaths from plague reported up to the end of 1897 was 56,000. Mr. H. M. Birdwood, C.S.I., late of the Governor's Council, Bombay, in a paper read before the Indian section of the Society of Arts in February, 1898, said that the real number was probably not fewer than 70,000.

Seventy thousand deaths.

In March, 1897, a plague committee, with General Gatacre as chairman, was appointed in Bombay, and before the middle of May there were forty-one plague hospitals in working order throughout the city. The Earl of Onslow informed the House of Lords in February, 1898, that the Home Government had sent out fifty-nine men and women doctors and sixty-one nurses. Two of the latter, Miss Morgan and Miss Macdougall, most unhappily fell victims themselves to the plague while engaged in the performance of their duties.

Death of two English nurses.

In the Presidency of Bombay, but excluding the city, the deaths ranged from 1,800 to 2,000 per week during November, 1897, but decreased considerably during January and February, 1898, ranging from 750 to 950. Beyond the limits of the Bombay Presidency a few cases were reported in Rajputana, in the border of the Jullundur and Hoshiapur districts of the Punjab, and in the Nizam's territory. All authorities are agreed that the disregard of considerations of hygiene in all that relates to dwellings, clothing, and the like, fosters the epidemic prevalence of this fell disease; and that being so, the report of Surgeon-Major Barry on the sanitary condition of Poona, prepared in pursuance of instructions from the Collector of the district, removes all possibility of surprise at the malignancy and persistency of the present attack. He described the city as lying on a bed of sewage, the wealthy quarters being nearly as bad as the poor ones. He mentioned that he had seen the city engineer's men seeking for an obstruction by digging up the public thoroughfares, and not merely failing to find the obstruction, but failing to hit on the drain at all. His description of a particular quarter called the Maharwada, where thirty deaths from plague occurred in a group of fifty-four houses, is revolting. And Dr. Barry added :—"When I recall the unctuous upbraidings addressed to Government from time to time by the very men who are running this municipality, urging upon Government to have bowels of compassion for the poor, the picture of the Maharwada—the poor at their own doors—discloses the shameless cant and humbug of it all. The Brahmans of Poona have had for years an absolutely free hand. They manned the municipal service up to the hilt with their own caste, and the result is a pitiably incompetent executive."

Murder of two English officers at Poona.

It was in Poona that Lieutenant C. E. Ayerst, of the Commissariat Department (the son of a member of the C.M.S. committee), was murdered, and Mr. Rand, the chief plague authority, was also fatally wounded, on June 22nd, 1897, on leaving the Diamond Jubilee reception given by Lord Sandhurst, the Governor of Bombay. A few days previously a seditious leaflet, both in English and the vernacular, had been widely circulated in Poona and Bombay, reviling the Queen and Government, and appealing to the civilized nations of the world "to hear the cry of oppressed Indians living in slavery," asserting that heartlessness for the sufferings of the people had been shown by the invading of zenanas and the pollution of temples and mosques, under the pretext of operations for suppressing the plague, and concluding, "Not even a demon would venture to celebrate his conquests in a time of famine, plague, and earthquake. An ancient and noble nation is being killed by a Christian Government. Will none lift a finger to check the excesses of the English tyrants who have been riding over us rough-shod for more than a century?"

Seditious literature.

Riots at Calcutta.

A week after the murder of Lieutenant Ayerst at Poona, grave riots occurred at Calcutta. A decree of the Civil Court gave repossession to a Hindu of certain lands on which it was alleged, but falsely, a mosque had been built. On June 29th, 2,000 low-class Mohammedans assembled to rebuild the supposed mosque, and these were dispersed by the police. On the following day they reassembled, and attacked the municipal pumping station in the neighbourhood. Europeans were assaulted in several places. It was estimated that at one time a body of over 5,000 rioters held the northern portion of the town. One of the most remarkable and disquieting features of the situation was the apparent absence of ill-feeling between the Mohammedans and Hindus, although the trouble arose from a claim brought by a Hindu against a Mohammedan tenant. Indeed, some of the educated Hindu papers expressed sympathy with the rioters. Their mutual animosities seemed to be subordinated to a common feeling of disloyalty to the Government.

The extreme danger arising to the State from the abuse of influence on the part of the press of India in connexion with the murders and riots above referred to attracted very general interest by the prosecution of the editor of a Bombay paper, Mr. Tilak. One line of argument used by Mr. Pugh, an advocate of leading position at the Calcutta Bar, in Mr. Tilak's defence was that the language for the use of which he stood in the dock was the natural outcome of the language taught in the schools of India.

What is taught to Indian school-boys.

The Times, in an article on "What we teach to Indian school-boys," after examining the instances adduced by Mr. Pugh, admitted the difficulty of resisting the contention "that the text-books and prize-books drawn up by Government Inspectors, sold at Government depôts, and adopted in Government-aided schools, supply the ideas and almost the phrases which, when reproduced in newspaper articles, become the basis of State prosecutions." In another direction the Government policy of education in India is open to grave animadversion, as has been pointed out again and again in the Society's publications, and that is its purely secular character. What could exceed in pathos the following reproach which was uttered by an educated Hindu at Calcutta, and quoted by the Rev. G. A. Lefroy, of the Cambridge Delhi Mission?—

"You have made our children irreligious, atheistic, agnostic."

You have taught our children science and philosophy, you have unrolled before their eyes the ample page of history, rich with the spoils of time, not only such as are recorded in the annals of mankind, but such as are written in letters of flame above and in the strata of the earth beneath; you call this civilization, and are proud of having communicated its impact to India. But are you aware what mischief you are unwittingly doing us? Your scientific education has made our children irreligious, atheistic, agnostic. They are beginning to look upon religion as what one of your clever writers called it the other day, "a dream of hysterical women and half-starved men." They no longer believe in the Divine source of virtue, but think that it is a proper balancing of profit and loss. They have become irreverent, disobedient, disloyal. They have lost all fixity of character. You say you have given us light, but your light is worse than darkness. We do not thank you for it. Better far that our children should remain ignorant of your sciences, but retain the simple faith of their ancestors, than that they should know all the 'ologies of the day, but turn their back upon religion and morality as mere rags and remnants of a superstitious age.

Growth of missionary effort and success in the Queen's Reign.

What has been written so far in these notes has reference to troubles and calamities which marked the year of our gracious Queen's Diamond Jubilee in the greatest of her Dependencies. It is a more agreeable task to look back over the sixty years of Her Majesty's reign, and to observe the gradual but unceasing growth, both of effort and of success, in the work of bringing the knowledge of the Gospel to the sons and daughters of India. The following statistical view of the Church Missionary Society's Indian Mission in the two years 1837 and 1897, gives a general idea of the advance made:—

Lady missionaries in 1837, and now.

In 1837 there were no unmarried European ladies on the Society's staff. Bishop Daniel Wilson appealed, in view of the awakening in Nadiya which commenced in that year, for money to provide instruction for women and girls. But this was to be done by taking them into the homes of married missionaries and clothing and feeding them. Archdeacon C. J. Hoare wrote to the Bishop from England about a lady who wished to go out and work in India, and received the reply, "I object on principle, and from the experiences of Indian life, to single ladies coming out to so distant a place, with the almost certainty of their marrying within a month of their arrival." The Bishop's views were not universally entertained, as the Society for Promoting Female Education in the East had begun in 1834 to send out the long succession of ladies on its staff who have done noble work, not in India only, but in other parts of Asia, both west and east. And even earlier still, the C.M.S. in 1822 had engaged the first lady worker, Miss Cooke. But what would Indian Missions, and those of the C.M.S. in particular, do now without the co-operation of Zenana Societies? The Church of England Zenana Society has 200 European ladies on its staff, and the Zenana Bible and Medical Mission 87.

Increase of native clergy and of communicants.

Again, in 1837 there were only two native clergymen on the C.M.S. roll,—Anund Masih, ordained in 1837 by Bishop Wilson, the first Brahman to enter Holy Orders; and John Devasagayam, in Tinnevelly. The number in 1897 was 151; while the number of native communicants increased from 291, nearly all in Tinnevelly, to 32,009. These statistics relate to the Missions of the C.M.S. only. On June 22nd an address to the Queen-Empress was presented to the Viceroy, containing 65,000 signatures of Native Christians, of which the following was the text:—

The Native Christians' address to the Queen Empress.

To Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen Empress of India.

May it please your Majesty,—

We, the Native Christian subjects of Your Majesty's Indian Empire, crave leave to approach Your Majesty with our humble congratulations, on this the auspicious occasion of the completion of the sixtieth year of your Majesty's benign reign.

We would raise our hearts in gratitude to God for the gracious Providence which has vouchsafed us, for the longest term on record, the enjoyment of so beneficent a rule.

In common with our fellow-subjects in the Empire, we would gratefully recall the numerous aspects in which Your Majesty's reign has proved an unfailing source of untold prosperity to India and India's peoples. It has contributed, beyond all precedent, to the development of our material resources, the realization of our intellectual capabilities, the improvement of our social economy, and the amelioration of our political status.

As privileged to rejoice in the Faith of which Your Majesty is the Royal Defender, we would, with devout thankfulness, refer to the unique progress of the Kingdom of Christ which has signalized Your Majesty's favoured reign. It has been an era of unparalleled activity in Christian enterprise of every possible variety, fruitful of marvellous results, among which, giving God the glory, we may, in all humility, name the remarkable growth of an indigenous Christian community, in course of equipment for a pervasive Christian influence on the destinies of the country.

We would close with the fervent prayer that the Most High may, of His bounty, add yet many years to Your Majesty's blissful reign, and may glorify Himself by using Your Majesty yet more conspicuously for the furtherance of His own plans and purposes, with which faithfully to fall in shall ever be our earnest aspiration.

We are,

YOUR MAJESTY'S NATIVE CHRISTIAN SUBJECTS OF THE INDIAN EMPIRE.

This address, exhibited at the Imperial Institute, London, together with other patriotic addresses and Diamond Jubilee gifts, was enclosed in a handsome oblong silver box, about 17 in. long, 6 in. broad, and 9 in. high. On the sloping sides of the lid the Royal Arms were beautifully enamelled. In the front a group representing the different races of India bowing to the Cross appearing in the rising sun, and on the back an elephant with trappings (symbolical of India) about to enter the gateway of the city of God. On either side of these designs are the symbols of the four Evangelists, and round the base are engraved the words, "Ask of Me, and I shall give thee the Heathen for thine inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for thy possession."

Political forecast.

A French paper, the Liberté, commenting in the autumn of 1897 on the frontier campaign, remarked: "Those acquainted with India, who are aware how English rule is riveted there, are convinced that it is imperishable as long as the old creeds subsist. The Hindus would have to turn Christians in order to become dangerous; in that case their union in a common effort would be terrible." To gauge the wisdom of this forecast, let the tone and spirit of the above address—in keeping as they are with the unswerving loyalty of the Native Protestant community throughout the Queen's reign and before it began—be compared with the demonstrations in Poona and Calcutta in June, 1897. Is there room for a moment's doubt or hesitation as to whether the dictates of the truest political sagacity do not coincide with the demands of religious duty? Happily, Christian officials who have recognized this, though few in number, have never been wanting in India; and within a few days of the Jubilee celebrations, at a C.M.S. meeting held at Naini Tal, the summer capital of the North-West Provinces, the well-known sentiments of the Grants and the Lawrences, of Macleod and Montgomery, of Edwardes and Aitchison, found an exponent in Mr. W. Grierson Jackson, C.I., Inspector-General of Registration and Commissioner of Excise, who said:—

"India a great trust from God."

It is well that, before this great celebration passes into history, we should spare an hour to recall to our minds that to us as a nation there has come, with all these material and moral gifts of God, a commensurate responsibility. As Christian people we can only regard the vast dominion which has been entrusted to the two branches of the Anglo-Saxon race, in the Old World and the New, as a great trust from God, to be administered according to His will and in furtherance of His purposes. And of His purposes we know at least this much, that He wills that the Gospel of Christ shall be proclaimed through human lips to all nations. We trust in the Living God Who is the Saviour of all men, specially of those who believe. We have this knowledge, and to know it is to incur a responsibility to every man that knows it not. It concerns all men. We are trustees, not sole proprietors. We cannot, as has been well said, appropriate this knowledge to our exclusive use without deliberately disregarding the Great Commission of the Ascension Day, without being guilty of a spiritual felony against the rest of mankind.

I believe with all solemnity that the discharge of this great trust is a condition intimately bound up with the continuance of our greatness as a Nation and an Empire, and that unless it is discharged the time will surely come when it shall be said to us, as it has been said to other nations, "I will remove thy candlestick out of its place." And so I think we do well to associate a thought concerning our responsibilities as Christians to our fellow-subjects with the great national thanksgiving just celebrated.

Religious neutrality

It is not desired nor desirable that the Government of India should engage in or be in any way identified with active evangelistic efforts for the conversion of the people to Christianity. The neutrality of officials quâ officials, so long as it is not an unfriendly neutrality—and, indeed, without becoming in any degree unreal, it might on the part of Christian officials be very rightly a benevolent neutrality—is as important to the best interests of missionary work as it is to the stability of British power. The forces which will bring India to Christ will not be those of material might or of human power, but the invincible and irresistible influence of the Spirit of God. With characteristic discernment of the true nature of the great task which confronts the Church of Christ, the Student Volunteer Missionary Union representatives in India suggested that a day of united humiliation and prayer should be observed by Christians throughout India and Ceylon, and this was accordingly done on December 12th. Under the same auspices a number of articles on "The Awakening of India," written by several missionaries—including the Rev. T. Walker of Tinnevelly and the Rev. G. H. Parsons of Calcutta—appeared in a large number of Indian papers. Mr. Walker's paper* was an earnest appeal for more prayer.

"The Awakening of India."

Anticipating this desire for more united prayer, and moved thereto by the One Spirit, a number of friends of India in this country—Lord Kinnaird, Lord Radstock, and the Secretaries of several missionary societies engaged in work in India, including the Hon. Clerical Secretary of the C.M.S.—issued an invitation to engage in prayer and conference at several convenient centres in London on July 28th, 1897.

BENGAL MISSION.

Lutheran missionaries under the S.P.C.K. laboured in India in the last century, and many thousands of converts were baptized; but the Missions, after the deaths of Schwartz and other leaders, languished, and at length only a few Christians remained in the south. For some years prior to the renewal of the East India Company's charter in 1813, no missionaries were allowed to reside within the British Dominions, and Carey, the famous Baptist Missionary, and his companions, had to take refuge in the Danish settlements. Among the Government chaplains, however, there were men like Brown, Buchanan, Henry Martyn, Corrie, and Thomason, who did what they could to prepare the way for future work. The C.M.S. had an important share in the establishment of the Bishopric of Calcutta in 1814, by its publication of Claudius Buchanan's work on the subject; and it granted the first Bishop, Dr. Middleton, £5,000 towards the cost of Bishop's College. His successors have been: Heber (1822), James (1826), Turner (1829), Daniel Wilson (1832), Cotton (1858), Milman (1867), Johnson (1876).

Before India was open to missionaries, a Corresponding Committee of the C.M.S. was formed at Calcutta, of which the above-named chaplains and several influential laymen were members. Two English missionaries were sent to Calcutta in 1816; Burdwan was occupied in 1817; Krishnagar (Nadiya) in 1831; and Bhagalpur in 1850. Great interest was aroused by a remarkable movement in the Nadiya district in 1838, when some 3,000 persons forsook Heathenism, and on one occasion 900 were baptized in the presence of Bishop Daniel Wilson. Work was begun among the Santals, an aboriginal tribe in Bengal, in 1860.

Reinforcements.

THE reinforcements sent out during the year to the Bengal Mission consisted of two clergymen: the Rev. Carl Ludvig Olsen, B.A., Hatfield Hall, Durham, Curate of All Saints, Hertford; and the Rev. John Walton Knight, Islington College, who was admitted to deacon's orders by the Bishop of London on Trinity Sunday, June 13th, 1897. Both sailed in October. On the other hand there have retired on grounds of health, except the last named, the Rev. and Mrs. A. J. Santer, the Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Crockett, and the Rev. W. Wallace.

The work in this Mission is carried on in six languages—Urdu, Hindi, Bengali, Santali, Malto, and English—by 44 European missionaries (not including wives) and 16 Indian clergy, besides lay preachers and teachers. In the Nadiya district the Native Church numbers 5,446 Christians, scattered in some forty different villages. During the cold season of 1897–98 there were, including those of the Church of England Zenana Missionary Society, who work in close co-operation with the missionaries of the C.M.S., twelve different parties in tents evangelizing the rural districts in various parts of Bengal. Ninety-eight adults and 475 children were baptized during the year. There are 11,190 Indian Christians connected with the Society's Mission, and these subscribed during the year Rs. 6,400.

The earthquake in June caused great damage to the Society's buildings in this Mission, the loss being estimated at nearly a lakh of rupees, or about £6,500. A grant of about £2,600 was made by the Committee from the General Fund towards the immediately necessary repairs.

The Calcutta Corresponding Committee consists of the following members:—the Bishop of Calcutta, the Revs. E. T. Butler, G. M. Davies, E. T. Sandys, Captain Dobbie, Col. Scott, R.E., Mr. J. A. Bourdillon, Mr. A. F. Cox, Mr. W. H. Dobbie, Mr. R. M. Gurney, Mr. S. Jacob, C.I.E., Mr. J. Monro, C.B., and Mr. M. C. Turner.

I. CALCUTTA AND BURDWAN.

Mrs. W. H. Ball and the Misses E. M. Hall and A. M. Sampson returned to the Mission in October, 1897; and the Rev. A. G. Lockett, also after furlough, in November. Mr. Lockett was assigned to the temporary charge of the Calcutta Divinity school. The Rev. C. B. Clarke came home on urgent family grounds in August, 1897; the Rev. and Mrs. G. H. Parsons on their second furlough, after eighteen and sixteen years of service respectively, in December; the Rev. J. F. Hewitt came home in March, 1898, and Miss E. J. Neele in April.

CALCUTTA.

Calcutta. The earthquake of June 12th caused much injury to property in Calcutta. Fifteen feet of the spire of the cathedral fell, and other church spires collapsed. The Old Church lost its steeple-

Old Church. tower and porch, but the church itself, happily, was practically uninjured and the services were not interrupted. The tower it is not proposed to rebuild, great ornament though it was; the west wall and porch, it was estimated, would cost some Rs. 13,000. The school buildings also suffered much damage, and accommodation for the inmates of the Girls' Home and free day school had to be found elsewhere. The Rev. H. Gouldsmith wrote at the time:—

The earthquake. We have just passed through a most severe earthquake. It was an experience that one never wishes to have again. High houses reeled and rocked, and for some four and a half minutes the suspense was terrible.

God's mercy in sparing life is past understanding. As far as we can hear only six Natives were killed throughout Calcutta, although plaster, bricks, parts of verandahs, turrets, and houses were falling in all directions. The panic and fear on the people's faces were most marked. Women clung to their husbands' necks, and seemed to have no rest or comfort.

At the time of the earthquake I was at our Band of Hope meeting. When the piano began rolling about the floor we thought it time to clear out, and a rush was made for the open air. Fortunately our new Welland Hall in which we were was untouched, but the old building was much cracked. Birds hanging from the ceiling swang about eight feet. Had there been one or two more shocks, half the houses in Calcutta would have come down.

The congregation of the Old Church contributed during 1896, for Mission work in connexion with the C.M.S. and C.E.Z.M.S., the sum of Rs. 3,273, or about £218. This sum included Rs. 920 for the Church Missionary Association, and Rs. 947 for the Gleaners' Union. Mr. Gouldsmith became Central Secretary for the Indian Branch of the Gleaners' Union on the Rev. G. H. Parsons' coming home on furlough. A United Service of Intercession for Foreign Missions was held in the church on December 2nd, when the Bishop and a large number of the clergy of the city were present, and the sermon was preached by the Archdeacon of Calcutta, from Romans iv. 38. As an outcome of the Mission conducted by Revs. E. N. Thwaites and Martin J. Hall, in January, 1894 (see Annual Report 1894–95, page 127), a Sunday-school was started for children of Jewish parents in Calcutta, and in September, 1896, a day-school for the same was opened. Several members of the Jewish community were present at the first prize distribution at the latter school in January, 1898, and expressed satisfaction at the work of the school. Miss I. F. Young writes hopefully regarding some of these Jewish girls.

Sunday-school for Jewish children.

The Rev. W. H. Ball was mainly occupied, after the departure of the Rev. H. D. Williamson in April, 1897, in the work of the Secretariat, but he superintended the Divinity School, which was temporarily conducted by Mr. P. H. Shaul. The latter found the work deeply interesting. He lectured in the vernacular, and one of the students was the pundit who had instructed him in Bengali; three Brahman converts were also under training. The students took part in preaching with the bands of the Associated Evangelists in the city and suburbs. One of the students, Babu Christo Choron Sirkar, who left the school after a three years' course in November, and was appointed to labour in Baranagur, died in December. Mr. Shaul states his conviction of the value of the training given to the men:—

Divinity School.

> However brave, eager, and zealous a raw recruit may be, a good training increases his value a hundredfold: so with our men. I can mention four of our most valued workers who owe their power and usefulness, under God, to the training received at the Divinity School. You cannot meet them without marking the impress of the unfailing patience and loving sympathy of Ireland Jones, or the sober teaching and indefatigable zeal of Ball, and you thank God and take courage.

The Christian Boys' Boarding School was placed temporarily under the Rev. C. Grant, upon the Rev. C. B. Clarke being suddenly summoned home in July, 1897. Two pupils of the school carried off scholarships, of the value of Rs. 60 per annum for two years, offered by the General Assembly's Institute for the two best papers on St. Luke i. to xii. Both this school and the Girls' Boarding School, and, indeed, the institutions generally throughout North India, found it a hard struggle to meet the monthly bills, owing to the high price of provisions prevailing on account of the famine. The girls in the boarding-school, however, through very successful Government examinations, earned exceptionally good grants, higher than ever before. Three passed the University Entrance, the highest number so far passed from this school. Two of these girls are prosecuting their studies for the First Arts, and the third became a teacher in a Mission-school. Up to the Upper Primary, or sixth standard, the teaching in the school is in Bengali, but above that standard it is in English. Miss E. J. Neele (now at home) conducted a Bible-class for the younger teachers and the F.A. students, &c. Three of the pupils of the school were baptized in May, 1897, one of whom was the daughter of a convert from Brahmoism, who had been adopted by a Bengali Christian lady. The lady Principal, Miss H. J. Neele, writes with thankfulness that the new school buildings were uninjured by the earthquake, and that the riots in June caused very little inconvenience to the school, only preventing the attendance of the day-scholars for a few days, and confining the inmates within the school for the same length of time. Miss Neele went unconsciously into danger, but was not hurt. She writes:—

Boarding Schools.

Bengali Christian girls at the University Examinations.

Unaffected by the riots.

> So little had we known of any probable outbreak, that on the first day of the riot Mr. Ball and I, on our way to visit Agarparah, drove right through the scene of the disturbance, just after the men had been disarmed of their "lathis," which we saw piled up by the road-side.

Miss Neele made a successful effort during the year to eliminate the heathen element from the teaching staff, substituting two native lady Christian graduates for Hindus. The health of these ladies caused several changes which was somewhat of a trial to the school. One of them, Miss Cohen, "a brilliant mathematician," Miss Neele says, during her short stay aroused among the pupils a prayerful interest in the Jews. The girls very warmly took up a suggestion of Miss L. A. Chapman (of the C.E.Z.M.S., who continued, until sickness drove her home in February, 1898, to give valued help in the school), and made garments for famine orphans. The school branch of the Gleaners' Union supports a Bible-woman labouring at Kamarhati among the people engaged in the jute and paper mills. Miss A. M. Sampson's return to the school in November was very warmly welcomed, some forty or fifty "old girls" gathered on the occasion to express their satisfaction. The pupils from the Girls' Boarding School and the students of the C.E.Z.M.S. Normal School, numbering altogether about 150, form the main part of the congregation of Christ Church. The Bishop of Calcutta confirmed twenty-five candidates in April, 1897. The Rev. P. T. Biswas, the pastor of the congregation, mentions a convert of some ten years ago, Bubu Russick Lal Sarkar (see Annual Report, 1888–89, pages 78 and 81), as "very strong in his Christian faith." He says of him:—

He often regrets that his long life has been uselessly spent because of being hindered by his father and the Zamindar from embracing Christianity at the age of fifteen; he was snatched away from the missionary and allowed to take all kinds of evil courses. He has much to bear from his own people—wife, son, daughter-in-law, &c., yet all are depending on him. He has to bear the cross continually, day and night, yet he bears it with great Christian patience and prayerfulness. That his continued prayer, that he may not lose even one of his Hindu relatives, will be answered before long, is his firm belief.

Four services are held on Sundays in Trinity Church, two in Bengali and two in Hindi. In the latter language the Rev. A. Stark is assisted by the Rev. Katwaru Lal. The native communicants number 110, and five adults were baptized during the year. On Good Friday the church was crowded, some 600 being present. The majority of the Christian inmates of the Leper Asylum belong to the Roman Catholic Church; four of these joined the little congregation to whom Mr. Stark and Mr. Lal minister in the Asylum. Two catechists engage in work among the Kols of Calcutta, and two Bible-women work among the women, especially in the hospitals.

Leper Asylum.

The three Hindustani schools under the Rev. R. J. Kennedy, of the Mohammedan Mission, viz., Garden Reach, Mattiaburj, and Bartola, have a total of 500 boys. Seven out of thirteen passed the Entrance Examination, and for the first time some of the Mattiaburj school lads entered for the Middle Examination. An old pupil of the Garden Reach School was baptized during the year by the Rev. E. T. Sandys. This was the only baptism in any way connected with the work among Moslems in the city, but Mr. Kennedy was encouraged by success in rescuing from Mohammedan influences a member of a well-known Christian family, two of whose relatives are ordained ministers of the Gospel in Calcutta. Mr. Kennedy says of him:—

Mohammedan Mission.

A lapsed Christian recovered from Mohammedanism.

Being enticed by a promise of employment if he became a Mohammedan, C. C. went to a mosque, repeated the formula of the faith, became a Mohammedan, and received a certificate (now in my possession), of which the following is a translation:—"Be it known to the whole brotherhood of Islam that the holder of this certificate, having left the Christian religion, has embraced Islam, and become a Mohammedan. His old name was C. C.; he has now received the name of Abdur Rahmán. To whatever Mussulman brother this man may come let him be well treated and kindly addressed, and neither rejected nor despised, but as far as possible helped." Then follow particulars of date, place, signature, &c. One of the agents of this Mission got hold of this unfortunate man, took him to his house, and was used in bringing him to sincere repentance. The Bishop was informed, and sanctioned his being received back into the Church, on which occasion he made a public confession of his sin.

Some help was received in the outdoor preaching by a remarkable young man whom Mr. Kennedy had previously known when labouring at Multán, and of whom he writes as follows :—

Christian faqirs.

> This brother had been baptized in Rangoon, and the interesting point about him is that he and another young man, who was the means of leading him to Christ, go about the Lord's work without receiving any fixed salary. They dress as Mohammedan faqirs, endure considerable privation and persecution for the name of Christ, and move about as itinerant evangelists, depending on the Lord for their support. . . These two Mohammedan converts are now travelling through Northern India, and hope eventually to return to Rangoon.

Large and attentive crowds notwithstanding riots.

The Mohammedan riots in the summer of 1897, being practically confined to the north end of Calcutta, caused no interruption to the open-air services; if any change was observable, Mr. Kennedy says, the crowds were larger and more attentive than usual. At one place, indeed, Wellington Square, a few hours after the workers had conducted a most encouraging preaching, a European was mobbed, and in self-defence had to use fire-arms, which resulted in a Native being killed. Mr. Kennedy records the fact as evidencing that the conciliatory preaching of the Gospel does not alienate the people. The Superintendent of Police nevertheless required the discontinuance of preaching at Garden Reach for a month.

Associated Evangelists.

The Rev. J. F. Hewitt (now at home), Leader of the Band of Associated Evangelists, expresses keen disappointment that its number, reduced by the death of Mr. Tugwell in 1896, was not reinforced from home during 1897; but one addition was made in the person of the Rev. H. Kitley, who joined the Band in February, 1897. The Committee had hoped to add another to the Band, but were unable to carry their purpose into effect. The native evangelists engaged systematically in house-to-house visitation, hospital ministrations, and evening preaching in the bazaars and streets. For the most part the public preaching was listened to quietly, but occasionally there was a measure of violence. On one occasion a party of Arya Samaj preachers took up their stations in close proximity to them, and went so far as to push and strike some of the Christian workers; but, Mr. Hewitt writes, "little real harm was done, and we still preach vigorously there, while they are no more to be seen." Controversy was as much as possible avoided in the open-air work, as it frequently ends in noise and tumult. The Hindi work was under Mr. A. C. Kestin. No permanent foothold has been gained in Bara Bazaar. For short periods rooms were rented and large numbers then attended the meetings, but soon opposition arose, and the landlords, with clasped hands, besought the missionaries to give up possession, offering to remit the rent due. At the riverside the attendances were good. An Englishman, after listening on one occasion, and observing the work, advanced and presented a contribution of Rs. 50 as an evidence of the interest aroused. There were a large number of inquirers, but very few of them proved, after searching examination, to be satisfactory. Not only unworthy motives came to light, but in some instances there was downright fraud. Several had been previously baptized, others gave false statements about their antecedents, and one was a fugitive from justice, having perpetrated a robbery of some Rs. 1,500. This last, after being declined, went to another Mission, and was hastily baptized by them. In the end he took his own life in gaol while awaiting trial. Mr. Kitley recommends as a preparation for missionary work a period of training as detectives, so much of his time was taken up in sifting evidence and in laboriously unravelling fabrications. Mr. Hewitt says:— Unsatisfactory inquirers.

We have seen so much attempted fraud on missionaries in the matter of baptism, that we have been led to believe that something approaching a trade in baptism is rapidly developing. Needy persons learn that there are various Missions, especially in large towns, desirous of making converts. If they present themselves as helpless and homeless, but desirous of learning, the missionary must, whilst he retains them for teaching, give them some temporal assistance. They stay with him till their fraud is discovered, and then approach a missionary of some other society with a similar plan of campaign. I am thankful to say, though, that I believe this only happens in city work. In the country individuals are better known, and such fraud is more difficult. It will be seen, too, how much "our unhappy divisions" lend themselves to this. The only way is extreme care, most careful inquiries into every statement made by a would-be inquirer, and abstinence from all haste in administering baptism. To assist in preventing unworthy candidates being baptized, we have adopted and translated the Service for the Admission of Catechumens drawn up by the Bishop of Calcutta, and have found it most useful as a starting point for definite teaching and as a preliminary to baptism. A trade in baptism!

Two were admitted as catechumens, but one absconded, and the other, a young Mohammedan, was enticed home by his parents. The latter was reported months afterwards to be holding out against arguments of the Maulavis. One youth was baptized and stood firm. Upon these results Mr. Hewitt comments as follows:—

It seems to me, however, that the time has not yet come for large numbers of simultaneous baptisms. Despite all the missionary work which is going on, the masses are wofully ignorant of even the elementary truths of the Gospel. Our work for many years to come must be to educate and change public opinion. Now Oriental public opinion is almost as unalterable as the laws of the Medes and Persians. "What was good enough for my forefathers is good enough for me," is a frequent argument. And yet this mighty work is being done, and the Indian public is beginning to appreciate the Lord Jesus in the fulness of His nature and character.

In a book by the Rev. J. Long, an old missionary who lived in this very house, and carried on the work we are now entrusted with, I read the account of the opening of a preaching-chapel in Pottoldanga. The room was filled with Hindus, who listened with rapt attention to the opening address until the name of Christ was mentioned, when, for fear of contamination, they rose in a body and fled. I myself have preached in what I believe must be that very room. I have clearly proclaimed that Jesus is the only Saviour; that all the so-called saviours of Hinduism are false; that there is no hope Change wrought in the attitude of the people.

of salvation in Mohammed Sahib; in short, "that there is none other name under heaven given among men" whereby we can be saved. And no one has stirred. Silently, with approving looks, Hindus and Mohammedans have listened while the Lord has been uplifted. Fifty short years have effected this marvellous change; what will another fifty years bring forth? Truly "the kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven, which a woman took and hid in three measures of meal, till the whole was leavened." So we will toil on, thankful for the past and hopeful for the future, for soon it will all be leavened.

A Sunday-school for Chamar boys.

The Band have taken over from Mr. Stark the charge of the Schools for Chamars, most of whom are Mohammedans. Some seventy of these Chamar boys attend a Gospel service in Mr. Kestin's house on Sunday mornings, and are not deterred, only half clad as they are, by heavy rain from putting in an appearance. The following figures give a statistical summary of the work of the Band for the year ending September 30th, 1897: 141 visits were paid to hostels, an English-speaking catechist having been appointed during the year for the purpose of visiting these students' quarters; 11,991 homes were visited; 774 visits were paid to hospitals; 1,826 addresses were delivered in the open-air and elsewhere; 54,896 people came under the sound of the Gospel; and 12,734 books were sold, the large majority having been Gospels.

Sale of books.

The report of the Calcutta Auxiliary of the British and Foreign Bible Society states that 12,982 Bibles and portions were sold in 1896 by the C.M.S. agents, which realized Rs. 623; the next nearest being the Wesleyan Mission with 8,052 Bibles and portions, which realized Rs. 132. In Bengal only ten churches had collections for the Bible Society in that year, of which eight were in connexion with the C.M.S., and Santalia stood first in this list, having sent Rs. 91 out of a total of Rs. 200 sent in as church collections from the whole of Bengal.

Agarpara Orphanage.

The children in the Agarpara Orphanage numbered 103. The earthquake gave occasion for lengthened repairs, and these gave opportunity for the spirit of mischief which is as rife in Eastern as in Western children. Miss K. Farler writes:—

> The little ones thought it fine (we did not); and small miscreants were found (spite of our watchfulness, prohibitions about wet paint, &c.) ornamenting arms, face, and feet with red paint, or mixing mud and water, and trying to excel the skill of the workmen by plastering this preparation on the walls (of course choosing a place newly coloured); and actually, one warm morning five or six venturesome spirits were caught paddling in the colouring which was being prepared for the outer walls of the house. I mention these little instances to show how easy (?) it is to get repairs satisfactorily completed in a house where there is such a large family of such very small folk.

Three of the girls were married, and the mother-in-law of one of them gave her self-satisfied testimony to the school training, saying, "Now I scarcely have any house-work to do, my little Bow does it all." Still better, report stated that the little Bow in question was universally loved. In the hot weather Miss Farler received very gratifying letters from some of the girls which seemed to come from their hearts. One said, "Pray for me that I may be the Lord's true serving handmaid, and so may be partaker in that first resurrection." A little Jewish boy, left by his mother in the Eden Hospital, was received in the Orphanage and baptized.

"The Lord's true serving handmaid.

BURDWAN.

The Rev. F. W. Bourdillon organized a house-to-house visitation of the town of BURDWAN in the Spring of 1897, a copy of St. Matthew's Gospel, and of a leaflet setting forth simply the great truths regarding sin and salvation, being left at every house. The work of distribution and visitation occupied the catechists for two months. No direct results appeared, but it was contemplated to repeat the effort in 1898. At Mankar the Misses C. Harding and M. E. Lloyd, of the C.E.Z.M.S., were caused much annoyance by evil characters, who first mobbed their house and took away by force an orphan child that had been committed to their care, and which died a week afterwards from sheer neglect, and then repeatedly appealed against the sentence of the magistrate. In the cold weather of 1896–97 Mr. and Mrs. Bourdillon spent six weeks in camp, pitching their tents successively at three different centres and preaching in the neighbouring villages.

II. NADIYA DISTRICT.

THE Rev. L. A. M. Newbery was married on November 24th, 1897, to Miss Clara Arnold, and the Rev. W. P. Parker was married to Miss Frances E. Bucke, on December 10th.

The charge of the station work at KRISHNAGAR is under the Rev. A. Le Feuvre. The Normal School sent a candidate to the Government Teachers' Examination, but he failed. The Model School passed a boy in the Middle Vernacular. This school acquired a new out-door gymnasium during the year, and formed an athletic club. Four football matches were all won, three against the Government College containing 400 boys, and one against the Chupra Boarding School. The congregation improved greatly in the mutual relations of the members, thanks mainly, Mr. Le Feuvre says, to the energy and patience of the leading catechist, Babu Solomon Biswas, regarding whom he adds:—

Krishnagar.

> It has been very refreshing to see how he, with the help of the Church Committee, has been enabled to deal successfully with some very difficult questions. Night after night, all the year round, has he, with a few earnest souls, gathered around the throne of grace for prayer and reading the Word.

Krishnagar Church had to be repaired at a cost of Rs. 3,000, towards which the poorer Native Christians gave Rs. 150, the richer giving nothing. The Rev. W. P. Parker, who was at Krishnagar until the end of 1897, visited English-speaking Babus in the town, whose religious opinions he found to be a strange mixture of Hinduism, Brahmoism, and Agnosticism, the works of such writers as Dean Farrar, Canon Liddon, Martineau, John Stuart Mill, Theodore Parker, and Darwin being frequently to be seen on their bookselves. Mr. Parker did some itinerating also in the villages. The Rev. L. A. M. Newbery was appointed to Krishnagar in the autumn of 1897.

Religious opinions of educated Natives—a strange mixture.

Chupra. The Boys' Boarding School at CHUPRA, under the Rev. C. H. Bradburn, has 114 boys on the books, of whom 51 are boarders. One passed the Middle Vernacular; two the Upper Primary, one in the first the other in the second division; twelve the Lower Primary, all in the first division. Mr. Bradburn attaches great importance to Government Examinations, he thinks they supply a gauge which indirectly applies to the religious aspect of the work, as well as directly to the secular, because, he says, "There is every probability that if work for which we assemble regularly every day for five hours, according to routine, be not satisfactory, other work which, in a certain sense, is non-regulation, will not be well done." It is probably not a test from which conscientious workers will shrink, but its application, whether to schools that are successful in securing distinction in Government Examinations, or to those which are unsuccessful, would need much discrimination. Assuredly, however, Mr. Bradburn is right when he says that "Mission School" should not be synonymous with "a third-rate school." Several of the boys from this school have been apprenticed at the workshops of the Eastern Bengal Railway, an opening which Mr. Bradburn looks upon as of great promise, and commends to the notice of those who realize the value of industrial work. A temporary hostel has been provided, with a convert from the family of the Rajah of Burdwan as the house-father, but a more permanent arrangement is desired.

Native Pastorates The Native Pastorates in the district are under the superintendence of the Rev. E. T. Butler, who resides at Bollobhpur. Ten months' experience is too short, he thinks, to justify his expressing a decided opinion regarding the spiritual state of the congregations. The few observations in which he indulges will be none the less valued for such self-restraint. He says:—

Character of congregations. Our people are affectionate, and respond to efforts made on their behalf. The result of Mr. Charlton's work remains in the lives of some of our agents, quickened and zealous to win souls, also here and there individuals who possess a hunger and thirst after the things of God which they had not before. Yet the congregations differ much: one is conspicuous for good attendance at church on Sundays, another for its liberality, another for the spirit of Christian love and sympathy which characterize the members, another for its good Sunday-school; while, on the other hand, one laments the non-observance of the Sunday by the members of one church, the failure to grasp even the most elementary truths of our holy religion by those of another, the constant quarrels amongst the members of another, also the want of real love for their spiritual guides in two or three others.

Two special Missions were held by a band of earnest native helpers, and God blessed them to the conversion of some who had previously been only nominal Christians. The Revs. H. Gouldsmith (by interpretation) and A. G. Lockett, of Calcutta, also held a five-days' Mission at Bollobhpur in January, 1898. Mr. Gouldsmith writes, "It was a joy to unite with such an earnest and devoted body of Christians." Mr. Butler and the Misses Leslie (C.E.Z.M.S.) of Ratnapur, obtained considerable help for the Christians, and also to some extent for the non-Christians, during the scarcity of the famine period, by collecting funds and purchasing rice, which they resold to the people at a lower rate. Several of the churches suffered from the earthquake. Three were rendered unusable for a time, and three others were damaged, but to a less degree. The Christians in Chupra pastorate contributed Rs. 300 towards the repairs of their church, and this notwithstanding exceptional poverty, as a consequence of which the Rev. D. N. Sircar states, the Christian mela which the Rev. I. W. Charlton started there in 1893 was not held in 1897. In Bollobhpur pastorate a Mohammedan and his family were baptized, and several who had seceded to Roman Catholicism at Tetulberia, an out-station, returned. In Kapasdanga pastorate a whole congregation of some forty-six souls who left the Protestant Communion for that of Rome some years ago (see Annual Report for 1891–92, page 89) expressed a desire to return. There was much distress prevailing at the time, and the Rev. L. H. C. Dey, the native pastor, suspected that the motive might be an expectation of pecuniary relief. He told them, therefore, that no such help must be looked for, and that it would be required from them to declare publicly before the Church their renunciation of the errors of Rome. They were admitted, and presented harvest offerings a few days afterwards. The Rev. T. C. Tarafdar has been placed in the Ratnapur pastorate. The average attendance at the daily morning and evening services was twenty-five, and at the Sunday services about 300, while the Sunday-school has an average attendance of seventy. In addition to the daily service in church, prayer-meetings are held on every day of the week except Saturday.

Perverts to Romanism return to Protestant Church.

The Band of Associated Evangelists who labour in North Nadiya, and whose centre is SANTIRAJPUR, was augmented by the accession of Mr. W. V. R. Kamcké in April, 1897, and of the Rev. J. W. Knight at the close of the year. The Mission buildings at Santirajpur, the generous gifts of the late Mr. Dudley Smith (who also for many years past anonymously gave £500 yearly to sustain the work), consist of a brick house for the missionaries, houses for the families of the catechists, a church with a peal of bells, a dispensary, and a small school. At the church there is daily morning and evening prayer, and daily preaching in the dispensary. At Tetulberia, the out-station six miles south of Santirajpur, the Mohammedan convert mentioned last year relapsed. This man, in reply to Mr. E. T. Noakes, who called upon him and asked him why he had denied his Lord, said, "I could not stand alone. I have no fault to find with the religion, it is excellent. My wife and children have been taken away, and I cannot stand alone." He promised, and that in the presence of a number of Mohammedans, to return after recovering his wife. The Mussulmans of the place tried hard to induce the widow of a former convert, Nazim, a blind man, to desert the fold of Christ and return to them. She, however, recalling the joy and faith manifested at the time of his death by her late husband, remained firm. There are two Christian families at this place, and the school is in a flourishing state. At Muratia also, eight miles north-west, there is a prosperous school with over forty scholars, and a Sunday-school. A mud and thatch hut provides shelter for the missionaries on their visits. Alla Dargu, fourteen miles east of the chief station, has a resident Christian schoolmaster, who has nearly thirty pupils. Kushtia is the most remote out-station, being thirty-two miles from Santirajpur. It is situated on the railway, and on the banks of the Gorai, a few miles before it flows into the Ganges. It is a place of growing importance, having law courts and a large bazaar, and Mr. Donne considers that it is better suited than Santirajpur to be the headquarters of the Band. The Rev. R. B. Marriott has resided at this place for the past several years in a mud and thatch house, practically alone, though occasionally visiting the other members of the Band, or being visited by some of them. He sees hopeful signs here and there, but inquirers manifest a shrinking from baptism. The educated classes welcome the visits of one of the Bengali catechists. Mr. Noakes says that during the famine distress the cry of the people met with when itinerating was, "How can we listen when we have nothing to eat?" Afterwards it was, "We cannot listen because we are so busy with our crops." He carried his medicine chest everywhere, and treated 500 in one camping season. Mr. Donne, in order to excite the missionary zeal of the native evangelists, gave a course of addresses on C.M.S. Missions, using for that purpose the Society's last Annual Report. During the famine he was enabled by the kindness of a friend to purchase a stock of rice—some 200 tons —which he sold at cost price to the poorest of the people. He remarks that not a single native landholder in that district stirred a finger to help the ryots, and the people naturally noticed the difference and remarked, "If it had not been for your help, sahib, we should all have died."

III. SANTALIA.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Jessop were invalided home in September, 1897. On December 7th the Rev. C. Hughesdon was married at Bangalore to Miss Helen Marian Slater, daughter of the Rev. F. E. Slater, of the London Missionary Society's Mission, Bangalore.

Santalia Pastorates

The Pastorates connected with the Santal Native Church Council, of which the Rev. F. T. Cole is the chairman, witnessed 257 baptisms during the year ending September 30th, 1897, of which 77 were of adults, and there were 106 catechumens looking forward to baptism, of whom 23 were baptized in December, viz.: twelve at Barhet and eleven on the Margo Hills. Mr. Cole sent home at the time some interesting particulars of the latter baptisms, those on the Margo Hills, which occurred on December 12th, the day appointed for Special Prayer for the awakening of India (see supra, page 178):—

A baptism service on the Margo Hills.

Being the day fixed for Special Prayer for the "Awakening of India," we did not have the regular afternoon service, but special extempore prayers for those who were about to be baptized, for the unbaptized members of Christian families, and for the outpouring of God's Holy Spirit upon the heathen world. Then came the baptismal service. A brass vessel placed upon an ukur (the large wooden mortar in which the rice is pounded) served as a font. The first to be baptized was Arjun, and then his whole family, wife and three children. As he knelt at the font he prayed aloud, "O God, wash me from all my sins in the blood of Jesus, and make me shine for ever, for Christ's sake." Then there were three brothers baptized, the eldest of them about seventeen. Their elder brother is the head of a village, and became a Christian three months ago. His bright, open face is very pleasant to look at, and it was very touching to hear him, between the services, give his testimony that since he became a Christian he had had such peace and happiness in his heart as he had never felt before. And when asked whether his heathen mother would not scold his brothers when they got home for becoming Christians, he said, "No; she herself is hoping before long to follow."

"Hoping to follow."

Mr. Cole cannot remember a year in which so many were added to the visible Church in this Mission. He does not attribute it to the scarcity; he is convinced that they are in no sense "rice Christians." The corn distributed was obtained from a cargo sent from America, and was given to Heathen as well as Christians.

During the prevalence of the scarcity, in the winter of 1896–97, a missionary of another Mission visited Santalia, and sent home to private friends the following account of harvest thanksgiving services which they witnessed at Taljhari:—

Harvest thanksgiving during the famine.

We visited Santalia at the very best time for seeing the wonderful liberality of the Christians in giving to God's work. The rice harvest is all over by the end of the year, so each church has its harvest thanksgiving as near as possible to New Year's Day, about the same time as the Heathen have their Saturnalia. The thanksgiving services consisted of suitable hymns and prayers, and a suitable address, after which began the offertory, which I will now describe ; first premising that the rice harvest had this year been, in most of our fields, a more or less total failure, owing to want of rain, so that what they gave they for the most part gave out of the depths of their poverty, like the Macedonians of old, and though the amount was less than usual, a much larger proportion—Mr. Cole said—was given of their income than usual. At a signal from the clergyman they began, one at a time, to bring up their baskets of rice-grain, some of them exceeding large, so that though they could bring it on their heads, one clergyman could not alone hold it in his hands or arms. Little children, some of them little tots, came after their mothers bringing small baskets of grain. In each case the clergyman received the basket from their hands, and (according to its weight) either held it in his hands or rested it on the Communion rails, while the offerer knelt down and prayed God to accept his or her gift. Then the clergyman took it away (and in this there was often the need of a second person within the rails), and, in the case of the smaller churches, laid it down in front of the table on the ground, till there was quite a pile, or rather many high piles, accumulated ; and in the Taljhari Church gave it to a helper, who carried it away to a side aisle and emptied it on the ground, so that the offerings of each village were in a heap by themselves. After service the whole of the grain is sold to any one who will buy it, and the proceeds go far towards the support of the pastors and churches through the whole year. But the selling is no part of the service, and we did not see it.

Santal colony under the Himalayas.

Two Pastorates connected with the Council are situated across the Ganges, where, at the foot of the Himalayas, a number of Santals formed a colony in 1891–92. The Revs. E. N. Thwaites and W. S. Standen visited this colony in January, 1897, with Mr. Cole, who wrote :—

The Christians, to the number of 700, had been most anxiously looking out and praying for a blessing. After the addresses opportunities were given for confession of sin and prayer. Many earnest petitions ascended up to heaven, some with tears confessing their sin and coldness. Day by day the interest seemed to grow, and on Wednesday we had our closing meeting for thanksgiving. The church, which had just been completed by the Christians themselves and at their own expense, was simply crowded, and when the collection was made afterwards, we were greatly surprised and delighted to see rings, necklets, and other ornaments as well as money amounting to thirty-seven rupees. I have never seen so large a collection at any one service in Santalia before.

The Christian villages of the colony were all visited in turn by the Missioners. It was a pretty sight to see the signs of welcome there, the different designs and arches erected for the occasion. All the villagers came out to meet us, singing their songs of welcome. Also numbers of the Christians brought gifts of fowls, eggs, milk, &c., showing in every way how fully they appreciated our coming amongst them. The pastor in charge of the colony writes to say how full of thanksgiving his heart is, and how much he has been refreshed by the Mission.

A week later the Bishop of Calcutta visited the colony and confirmed 64 men and 50 women, most of them unable to read, yet able to repeat the whole of the Church Catechism, showing thereby how carefully they had been prepared by the pastor, the Rev. B. Murmu and his helpers. Sixteen adults were baptized. In June, a few days before the earthquake, Mr. Murmu wrote :—

Support of an "Own Missionary."

To-day we visited the market, and after our address we offered books for sale. There was such a demand for them that we quickly sold twenty books and tracts, all we had, and the people said to us, "Come to our village and stay the night, we want to hear more. We believe the Christian religion is the right one." Many of the 700 Christians who have emigrated to the colony are indeed letting their light shine before the Heathen. They support an agent for preaching to the surrounding tribes.

And, after the earthquake, he wrote :—

The earthquake on June 12th was very severe. The whole surface of the land rose and fell. The country is broken up with large fissures. There were many narrow escapes. The earth threatened to engulf us. From the fissure columns of hot water and sand spurted up eight or ten feet high. The whole land seemed as if it would be destroyed by floods.

The earthquake a time of testing.

We had just had our usual Saturday prayer-meeting. Owing to the awfulness of the scene we were terrified, imagining every minute that our last hour had come. We all rushed to the church and commended ourselves to God. We remained in prayer the whole night. The shocks were incessant, and continued for more than a week. Owing to fear many were rushing hither and thither, asking, "How shall we escape?" It has been a time of testing. Some are reading their Bibles and are constantly engaged in prayer, and hardly any one is thinking about his crops.

Taljhari.

The Rev. J. Blaich, of TALJHARI, ascribes the good health of himself and some of his brother missionaries to the valuable gift of vegetable seeds which Messrs. Sutton and Sons, of Reading, send out annually to him and to all the missionaries of the Society. Mr. Blaich baptized eight students of the Boys' Boarding School in February, 1897, during a visit of the Revs. E. N. Thwaites and W. S. Standen to Taljhari. In every case in which these were still boys, the consent of their heathen parents had been given for their baptism. Other five were baptized in November. Mr. Blaich received a touching letter from a former student in the Government Normal School, of which he is the superintendent, and which had five under training during the year. This student acknowledged that he had spent some Rs. 50 in money over sacrifices to save his father's life, and then on his becoming ill his people had spent more money on his account to appease the demons, with the result that the family were reduced to extreme poverty. And he concluded the letter with the words: "But, now I remember your teaching, and I have found that it is God who gives and takes away. By this letter I beseech you all to pray for me."

Translations.

The Rev. and Mrs. F. T. Cole reside at BARHAWA, and the latter has charge of the Girls' Boarding School, with ninety girls, in which she has the assistance of Miss Cole. Mr. Cole published an elementary Santal Grammar, revised the Morning and Evening Services in Santali, and brought out a revised edition of the Santali hymn-book, containing 280 hymns.

The Rev. and Mrs. D. M. Brown are stationed at HIRANPUR.

Bhagaya. In the BHAGAYA district the Rev. H. J. Jackson preached the Gospel in the villages and markets. Several professed a readiness to be baptized, but on the condition of sustenance being given during the famine, or help rendered to recover land, &c.

Death of a catechist from cholera. Cholera raged in the district, and one of the catechists, after taking part at a prayer-meeting at 5 p.m. on one day, was seized at 2 a.m. the day after, died at 10 a.m. and was buried at 5 p.m. The Christians were greatly solemnized, and there was a danger of other cases arising from the terror inspired. But a special prayer-meeting was held, and the ninety-first Psalm read and dwelt upon to the manifest comfort of all. No other case occurred, though in the surrounding villages the mortality was very great.

Godda. The Rev. C. Hughesdon was left the solitary European labourer at GODDA when Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Jessop were sent home on account of the former's state of health in June, 1897. During the camping season of 1896–97 Mr. Hughesdon was able for the first time to visit the whole district, which covers an area of 1,500 square miles. He dispensed medicine and exhibited lantern slides, thus overcoming prejudice, exciting interest, and diffusing knowledge of the way of salvation. Large audiences gathered in some places to see the lantern exhibitions, and even in wild places, where comparatively few would venture abroad in the darkness, as many as 100 or 150 came together. In March, 1897, at Bhawani, Mr. Hughesdon baptized the wives and children of the two men baptized the year before (see last year's Report, page 193). Several other families in the same place are under instruction, who during the famine time were reduced to living on roots and leaves, but stood firm in their Christian profession, and even refrained from asking help from the Mission lest they should be reproached for becoming Christians on that account.

Pahari Boarding School. All the candidates for the Lower Primary Examination from the Pahari Boarding School succeeded, one gaining a Scholarship.

IV. BEHAR.

BHAGALPUR.

Bhagalpur. THE Rev. and Mrs. C. G. Mylrea arrived at BHAGALPUR at the beginning of March, 1897, and were joined a few weeks later by the Rev. S. R. Morse, who had been residing at Jabalpur while learning the language. On April 14th the Mission-house was burned down, the fire being caused by a bearer upsetting a lamp. For two nights Mr. Morse slept in the open air amidst the remnants of the furniture which had been rescued from the flames. Mr. Mylrea wrote:—

Native Christians protect missionaries' goods after a fire.

Certainly no praise is too great for the Native Christians. They not only saved our goods, but kept them from being stolen afterwards, and all showed the most real interest and sympathy.

The earthquake completed the ruin caused by the fire, and the house has had to be rebuilt. Mr. Mylrea cannot speak highly of the spiritual state of the Congregation; too many of them appear to be content with being enrolled as members, and seek neither to be instructed themselves nor to bear witness to others. On the occasion of the visit of the Revs. E. N. Thwaites and W. S. Standen in February, 1897, a young heifer was brought as an offering, and one of the agents at a thanksgiving service promised to give a month's salary to the Three Years' Enterprise. The High School has 100 heathen pupils and some fifty Christian orphans. The native doctor, supported by contributions of Mr. Morse's private friends, attended to 4,358 patients in the Dispensary, and effected 138 operations. One inmate of the Leper Asylum was baptized. The spiritual standard of some of the Christian lepers is a low one, and several fell into grievous sin. A large proportion of the inmates of the asylum attend the services regularly. Two catechists are stationed at Jamalpur, where there is a little congregation; at Forbesganj and Purneah also there are catechists and some Christians.

revised edition of the Santali hymn-book, containing 280 hymns.

The Rev. and Mrs. D. M. Brown are stationed at HIRANPUR.

Bhagaya. In the BHAGAYA district the Rev. H. J. Jackson preached the Gospel in the villages and markets. Several professed a readiness to be baptized, but on the condition of sustenance being given during the famine, or help rendered to recover land, &c.

Death of a catechist from cholera. Cholera raged in the district, and one of the catechists, after taking part at a prayer-meeting at 5 p.m. on one day, was seized at 2 a.m. the day after, died at 10 a.m. and was buried at 5 p.m. The Christians were greatly solemnized, and there was a danger of other cases arising from the terror inspired. But a special prayer-meeting was held, and the ninety-first Psalm read and dwelt upon to the manifest comfort of all. No other case occurred, though in the surrounding villages the mortality was very great.

Godda. The Rev. C. Hughesdon was left the solitary European labourer at GODDA when Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Jessop were sent home on account of the former's state of health in June, 1897. During the camping season of 1896–97 Mr. Hughesdon was able for the first time to visit the whole district, which covers an area of 1,500 square miles. He dispensed medicine and exhibited lantern slides, thus overcoming prejudice, exciting interest, and diffusing knowledge of the way of salvation. Large audiences gathered in some places to see the lantern exhibitions, and even in wild places, where comparatively few would venture abroad in the darkness, as many as 100 or 150 came together. In March, 1897, at Bhawani, Mr. Hughesdon baptized the wives and children of the two men baptized the year before (see last year's Report, page 193). Several other families in the same place are under instruction, who during the famine time were reduced to living on roots and leaves, but stood firm in their Christian profession, and even refrained from asking help from the Mission lest they should be reproached for becoming Christians on that account.

Pahari Boarding School. All the candidates for the Lower Primary Examination from the Pahari Boarding School succeeded, one gaining a Scholarship.

IV. BEHAR.

BHAGALPUR.

Bhagalpur. THE Rev. and Mrs. C. G. Mylrea arrived at BHAGALPUR at the beginning of March, 1897, and were joined a few weeks later by the Rev. S. R. Morse, who had been residing at Jabalpur while learning the language. On April 14th the Mission-house was burned down, the fire being caused by a bearer upsetting a lamp. For two nights Mr. Morse slept in the open air amidst the remnants of the furniture which had been rescued from the flames. Mr. Mylrea wrote:—

Native Christians protect missionaries' goods after a fire.

Certainly no praise is too great for the Native Christians. They not only saved our goods, but kept them from being stolen afterwards, and all showed the most real interest and sympathy.

The earthquake completed the ruin caused by the fire, and the house has had to be rebuilt. Mr. Mylrea cannot speak highly of the spiritual state of the Congregation; too many of them appear to be content with being enrolled as members, and seek neither to be instructed themselves nor to bear witness to others. On the occasion of the visit of the Revs. E. N. Thwaites and W. S. Standen in February, 1897, a young heifer was brought as an offering, and one of the agents at a thanksgiving service promised to give a month's salary to the Three Years' Enterprise. The High School has 100 heathen pupils and some fifty Christian orphans. The native doctor, supported by contributions of Mr. Morse's private friends, attended to 4,358 patients in the Dispensary, and effected 138 operations. One inmate of the Leper Asylum was baptized. The spiritual standard of some of the Christian lepers is a low one, and several fell into grievous sin. A large proportion of the inmates of the asylum attend the services regularly. Two catechists are stationed at Jamalpur, where there is a little congregation; at Forbesganj and Purneah also there are catechists and some Christians.

NORTH-WEST PROVINCES MISSION.

The Society's first agent in India was stationed in the North-West Provinces. He was a Native, Abdul Masih, Henry Martyn's solitary convert from Mohammedanism, and he was stationed, under Corrie's auspices, at Agra in 1813. Abdul Masih was ordained in 1826 by Bishop Heber, being thus the first Indian clergyman of the Church of England. Mirat was occupied in 1815; Benares, 1817; Gorakhpur, 1823; Azimgarh and Jaunpur, 1831; Jabalpur, 1854; Lucknow, 1858; Allahabad, 1859; Dehra Dun, 1859; Faizabad, 1862; Aligarh, 1863; Muttra, 1878; Mandla, 1879, and Marpha, 1892 (both Gond Mission); and Kherwara (Bheel Mission), 1880. A remarkable work was done by W. Smith and C. B. Leupolt at Benares, which began in 1832. In 1853, St. John's College at Agra was opened by T. V. French (late Bishop of Lahore) and E. C. Stuart (late Bishop of Waiapu, now in Persia). The Sepoy Mutiny of 1857 destroyed much of the Society's property, but the deep interest aroused by it caused a great extension of the work afterwards. Lucknow was occupied immediately on its re-conquest, on the invitation of the Chief Commissioner, Sir R. Montgomery. Allahabad was also occupied, and Christian villages established there and at Gorakhpur. In 1892 a new diocese (Lucknow) was formed out of the Diocese of Calcutta, the Bishop (Dr. A. Clifford, previously a C.M.S missionary at Calcutta) having episcopal supervision over the whole of the North-West Provinces.

Help in famine distress.

THE famine looms large in the reports from all the stations of the North-West Provinces Mission. Some statistics and remarks on the subject will be found above, on pages 170–172. The Society's missionaries received large sums of money from friends at home and in India and in the Colonies and grants were made to them, not only from the Society's Famine Fund, but also from a Special Fund raised by the Bishop of Lucknow, from Lord Radstock's Indian Succour Fund, from the New York Christian Herald Fund, and from the Mansion House Fund through the Government. Particulars as to the steps taken by the missionaries to save life and alleviate distress occupy a large proportion of the space in the report now presented. The Rev. A. W. Baumann, who, as chairman of the Native Church Council, visited most of the stations, writes:—

Mission orphanages.

On my official visits to the various Missions I have several times witnessed scenes of degradation and famishing want which the pen shrinks from describing, and which, I trust, I may never have to see again.

Our Mission orphanages have again proved very useful and much-needed institutions in a country where ever-growing progress and prosperity under the Pax Britannica seem to argue against the necessity of such charitable institutions. It is needless to add that many thousands of the poor waifs and starvelings would have met with a premature end of their existence, or lingered on as slaves and drudges of the harem, or joined some of the tribes of professional thieves and cattle-lifters, had they not been sheltered in these Christian asylums. Here they receive not only food and clothes and medicine, but also a moral and mental training. They are instructed and encouraged to do manual labour of various kinds, so that by-and-by they may go forth into the world as honest workers or artisans and loyal subjects, not of an earthly sovereign only, but also of the King of heaven and earth.

The Bishop of Lucknow was the chairman of the sub-Committee of the Foreign Missions Committee of the Lambeth Conference, which dealt with the subject of work among Mohammedans. The report (see above, page 143) points to the fact that of the 214,775,000 Mohammedans in the world, no less than 57,321,164 were registered at the last Indian census as residing in British India and the protected States. Among the most promising fields suggested by the report for evangelistic efforts on behalf of Mohammedans, the two Indian Dioceses of Lahore and Lucknow were specially and prominently mentioned. In the latter diocese there are 6,346,000 followers of Mahomet. During a stay at Lucknow in January, 1898, Bishop Clifford took the opportunity of calling the missionaries of the C.M.S. in that city together, and conferred with them and the Rev. A. H. Wright, the Acting-secretary of the Mission, on the importance of a new effort being initiated to reach Moslems. They agreed, and the Allahabad Corresponding Committee endorsed their recommendation, to urge the Society to send out a group of selected men of high spiritual tone, of intellectual power, and with a theological training, to fit themselves by the study of Arabic and Hindi and Persian to undertake such work; and they further recommended that Lucknow, having a Mohammedan population of 118,000, should be the centre for such an aggressive Mission, and that the Rev. A. E. Johnston, then working at Benares, should be appointed to begin the work. The Committee cordially agreed to assign Mr. Johnston at as early a date as possible to enter upon such work.

Mohammedans in diocese of Lucknow.

Four ordained men, one layman, and two single ladies reinforced the Mission at the end of 1897. They were:—The Rev. John Fishwick Pemberton, M.A., Queen's College, Cambridge, Curate of St. Andrew's, Watford, and Mrs. Pemberton; the Rev. Edward Harry Mansfield Waller, B.A., Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, who offered for educational work in India, in response to an invitation from the Committee, and Mrs. Waller; the Rev. Arthur Outram, B.A., Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, and Islington College, who was admitted to deacon's orders on Trinity Sunday, June 13th, 1897, by the Bishop of London; the Rev. Percy Webber, of Islington College, who was ordained deacon on the same occasion; the Rev. Charles Theodore Pargiter, Curate of St. Barnabas', Birmingham, who was trained at Islington College, and Mrs. Pargiter; Mr. Edward Walker, Islington College; Mr. Joseph McIntosh; Miss Anna Maud Tottenham, daughter of a member of the Society's Ladies' Candidates Committee; and Miss Gertrude Ellen Withers. The above all sailed in October, 1897, except Mr. and Mrs. Waller, who sailed in November.

Reinforcements.

The Rev. Robert John Bell, who laboured in North India for twenty-seven years, in connexion with the Society, from

Deaths of Rev. R. J. Bell,

1860 to 1887, died on April 26th, 1897. He was in the first instance taken into local connexion as a lay teacher, and laboured in that capacity successively at the Secundra Orphanage, at St. John's College, Agra, and at the Cathedral Mission College, Calcutta; then in 1879 he was admitted to deacon's orders by the Bishop of Calcutta, and laboured for the following eight years, with one furlough interval, at Agra and Benares.

Mrs. H. J. Molony,

The other deaths to be recorded were among those on the active list. Mrs. Molony, wife of the Rev. H. J. Molony, died on September 12th, 1897. Mrs. Molony was a sister of Mrs. H. D. Williamson, wife of the Secretary of the Calcutta Corresponding Committee, and of Miss C. Collisson, of the C.E.Z.M.S. She travelled from Australia to India in the same boat with the late Rev. R. W. Stewart, of Fuh-Kien, and Mr. Eugene Stock, in 1892; she was accepted as a missionary in local connexion early in 1894, and was married to Mr. Molony in 1895.

Miss H. Tillich,

Miss Helen Tillich, who laboured for eighteen years at Secundra, died on June 3rd, 1897. She was not a missionary of the C.M.S., but of the Berlin Ladies' Society, to which the C.M.S. is under a deep obligation for the devoted German ladies it has sent out for many years past for work at the Secundra Orphanage and at the Village Mission in the neighbourhood of Secundra.

and of Rev. I. Vincent.

The Rev. Isaac Vincent, pastor of Gorakhpur, died on October 31st, 1897. His parents, who were of good caste, died during a season of famine, leaving him and several other children. He was received into the Secundra Orphanage. After labouring as a lay agent of the Society for twenty-one years, he was admitted to deacon's orders, by the Bishop of Calcutta, in 1890, and to priest's orders, by the Bishop of Lucknow, in 1895. For the first four years of his ministry he was pastor of Jabalpur. The Basharatpur and Gorakhpur Church Council sent a letter of condolence to Mrs. Vincent, from a translation of which the following is an extract:—

"A faithful and loving pastor."

We can truly say that he was a faithful and loving pastor, and he was always thinking how he could really help and be of use to his people. When the clouds refused to give their rain during the famine, how he walked about in the heat of the sun to pray with the people in different places for rain; and when the rain did come, how readily he called the people together to return thanks whilst the rain was falling. God endued him with special wisdom in conducting panchayats, and many who had been at enmity for years he reconciled. Such was his wisdom in this respect that even the Heathen came to him to help them to settle their quarrels. The Sunday-school received new life at his coming, and the "Women's Committee" for the village was quite an idea of his own, in order to deal with the women of the village. At Christmas time how he longed for all his flock to have some little remembrance of this happy day! So he sought out the poor and sick especially that they might rejoice with the rest. Those who neglected the Lord's Table he brought to Christ, and promoted a spirit of peace and love. During the famine he sought out the poor and feeble in the neighbouring villages.

Church Council Meetings.

The Annual Meeting of the Church Councils of the North-West and Central Provinces met at Agra, on October 5th to 7th, 1897, under the chairmanship of the Rev. A. W. Baumann. The Treasurer, the Hon. Mr. Justice Knox, presented an account of receipts and expenditure for the year and for the previous five years, and it was remarked upon as a matter for thankfulness that, although the Society's grant to the Council Fund had been reduced at the rate of one-fortieth year by year, and notwithstanding the high prices prevailing on account of dearth and famine, the returns showed that the various pastorates had done their best to prevent an excess of expenditure over income. The Rev. A. H. Wright preached the Council sermon. The Bishop of Lucknow presided over the Central Council meeting. Papers were read on the following subjects: "How to draw out the activities of our laity on behalf of the Church," by the Rev. T. Noah; "What ought to be the outcome of the recent famine, from a Christian and missionary point of view?" by the Rev. S. Nihal Singh; "What should be the attitude of Indian members of the Church of England to Christians in this country, belonging to other Christian denominations," by the Rev. J. Qalandar; and "Our Devotional life—how may it best be cultivated?" by two lay delegates. October 7th was observed as a Quiet Day, and the Bishop gave a succession of addresses on "Man's relation to his own soul, and the Christian's relation to the members of his own family, to the Church, and to the world." The same evening the members of the Council entertained the Bishop and other friends at a homely repast. Mr. Baumann, in his Annual Letter, wrote of the pastorates generally as follows:—

Slow but steady progress.

Most of the C.M.S. Missions in the North-West Provinces are progressing slowly but steadily. Some of our Indian brethren begin to see more clearly their responsibilities as regards the support of their ministry; but they are often apt to look to what is, or would be, convenient for the ministry, and not what would contribute to the growth and welfare of the Church. A little more activity and direct effort shown by our Indian Church members for leading souls to Christ would be appreciated very much. The present is no time for discouragement. Many non-Christians are on the point of letting go their old anchorage, and accepting the Christian faith; many more are waiting for teaching. Would that our Indian Christians were spiritually-minded enough to hold out a helping hand and speak a friendly word to these halting and wavering souls, and thus help us in the evangelizing efforts by which we try to sow the Gospel "beside all waters."

Ordinations.

On March 29th, 1897, the Bishop of Lucknow admitted the Rev. R. Hack to priest's orders, and Babu John Qalandar and Babu John Baptist Ventura to deacons' orders; and on March 6th, 1898, he admitted the Revs. C. C. Petch and A. Butterworth to priests' orders.

The following are the members of the Allahabad Corresponding Committee: the Bishop of Lucknow, the Revs. P. H. Chapman, J. P. Ellwood, and T. Russell, Mr. F. E. Eliott, Captain Gibbon, and the Hon. Mr. Justice Knox.

I. NORTH-WEST PROVINCES.

THE Rev. and Mrs. J. M. Paterson came home in May, 1897, the former returning in July and the latter in October; Mrs. H. W. V. Birney came home in June and returned in October; Miss E. M. Beyts came home (invalided) in March, 1898; the Rev. and Mrs. J. P. Haythornthwaite, the Rev. and Mrs. W. McLean, and Mrs. E. and Miss E. B. Durrant in April; and the Rev. and Mrs. A. H. Wright, the Rev. J. S. Gray, and the Rev. A. W. Baumann in May. On the other hand, the Rev. A. E. Johnston returned to the Mission in September, 1897, Mr. H. Bennett in October, and the Rev. and Mrs. J. N. Carpenter in November.

ALLAHABAD.

Allahabad.

Divinity School.

The Divinity School at ALLAHABAD, which, as mentioned in last year's Report, was closed in August, 1896, under the pressure of necessity owing to the lack of workers, was re-opened on January 1st, 1898. The day was observed as a Quiet Day, and the Rev. J. N. Carpenter, the Principal, preached from Romans viii. 14. In the evening the Vice-Principal, the Rev. E. H. M. Waller, gave by interpretation an address on Preparation for the Holy Communion. The students are eight in number. The Rev. T. Russell finds the incumbency of Holy Trinity Church a busy and happy sphere of service. Bible readings are well attended, and he was privileged to be the instrument of the conversion of four men through individual dealing. A Communicants' Union was formed during the year. Mr. Russell finds, in addition to this work among the Europeans and Eurasians, many opportunities for giving help to the members of the Native Congregation. The Rev. M. Drummond was in charge of this congregation, but he has been transferred to Mirat, and the Rev. B. Ventura, ordained in March, 1897, has succeeded him.

Inquirers and converts.

Three Hindu inquirers are mentioned by Mr. Russell, who gave much encouragement. Two of them were of high caste, the younger being the son of a wealthy Hindu, and a student at the Government High School. The third was prepared for baptism, but quailed before the storm of persecution raised by his friends. Other inquirers are referred to by the Rev. S. N. Singh, who is especially assigned to Evangelistic Work. He baptized five adults. One was a man who had been on pilgrimage to Benares, where he received a tract which was the means of disturbing his confidence in Hinduism. Another Hindu, a woman, was baptized; the other three converts were Mohammedans. Mr. Singh conducted a weekly prayer meeting for the Christian drummers of a Regiment of the Bengal Native Infantry, with the permission of the Colonel of the Regiment. He preached in the city during the hot season, and Mrs. Singh visited the homes of the people, especially of women in their sickness. Mr. Singh took part with the Rev. Dr. W. Hooper in the vivâ voce language examination of missionaries. The congregation in the Christian village of Muirabad was placed under Mr. Russell's supervision at the beginning of 1898, and the Rev. Ihsan Ullah, of Narowal, in the Punjab, conducted an eight-days' Mission there in January. The church was crowded every night.

Women's work.

The Z.B.M. Mission has a staff of three European ladies and sixteen native teachers at Allahabad. The Converts' Home sent out eleven of its inmates to be teachers, and three were married. Miss L. Fallon refers to one of the eleven being a woman of exceptional dulness and apparent mental incapacity. She said that a picture of the Crucifixion shown by a missionary from a lantern led her to long to know more. Her industry and perseverance in learning were such that after a year and a half she left to assist in evangelistic work in a hospital, knowing Urdu, Roman Urdu, and a little Hindi, able to write a little, and sew fairly, and, above all, with a real love for her Bible. Sixteen were admitted from all parts of India, e.g., Calcutta, Bombay, and Lahore. The same Society has six schools with 140 pupils. In one of the schools three little children, two of them being Hindus, were examined in St. Luke's Gospel, and out of twenty by no means easy questions, one answered seventeen, one fifteen, and the third fourteen correctly.

Children's knowledge of Scripture.

BENARES.

Benares.

After the death of the Rev. B. Davis, in February, 1897, Jay Narayan's School at BENARES was placed successively under the Rev. J. S. Gray and the Rev. J. J. Johnson, until the arrival of the Rev. A. E. Johnston, in November. The Girls' Orphanage, under Miss A. H. R. Bull, had 113 on the roll at the end of 1897, fifty-eight famine orphans having been admitted during the year. These children, weakened by hunger and disease, needed special care to save their lives, but only three succumbed. The famine prices of food added not a little pecuniary anxiety to the labourers, but Miss Bull bears thankful testimony to the Lord's goodness in supplying every need. Miss E. M. Beyts' arrival in January, 1897, was warmly welcomed, but she had, as already mentioned, to return home invalided in the spring of 1898. Miss Beyts gave a touching example of the sad scenes which came under her observation :—

Orphanage.

Famine waifs.

Since my coming I have had the joy of seeing many famine waifs (whose shrivelled-up frames made one's heart ache when they arrived at our doors) grow strong and well in this fold, and not only so, but seem to understand what a Friend they have in Jesus with all the strong, vivid faith of childhood. Just now I have in mind a little one whose mother is a poor, blind widow, who gave up her child to us rather than have her starve to death by her side. This woman is allowed to come and visit her daughter sometimes, and then I wish you could hear the little one repeating texts to her mother which she has learnt in the school, and telling her about the King Jesus who came to die for sinners. "Oh, mother," she said on one occasion, "I wish you knew about Him, too!" "Child," said the mother, "I am blind, I cannot read; tell me about Him that I may know!" And so the little one speaks and sings to her "the Old, Old Story," and so the Gospel is spread, and out of the mouths of babes and sucklings His praise is perfected!

A pilgrim led to Christ.

All the teachers in the Orphanage are Christians. The last to be engaged was a man who had visited Benares from Baij-Nath, as a pilgrim seeking salvation; his steps were directed to the Orphanage, and Miss Bull led him to Christ. At Chunar a large accession was made to the little Hindustani congregation, which only numbered thirty at the beginning of 1897. A home for women and girls left destitute by the famine, and an Orphanage for young children, were opened by Miss Patteson, formerly of the Z.B.M.M., and of the inmates nineteen adults and twenty-two children were baptized, making the congregation number seventy-two. These women and children were sent to Miss Patteson from Faizabad, Ajodhya, Tanda, Benares, Mirzapur, Jabalpur, Cawnpur, Allahabad, and Lucknow in a half-starved, diseased, despairing condition, the little children and babies, "with no flesh, no brightness, just alive," being especially sad sights. The children soon became healthy and happy, and quickly learned to read and to repeat verses and hymns, and openings were found for the useful employment of the women. There are 17 Anglo-Vernacular and Hindi primary schools in Benares and its out-stations. At Ahroura there is a primary school for boys (with ninety-two scholars) and one for girls (at which the attendance in consequence of the famine dwindled to sixteen). A school with forty-five boys is at Fathpur, and one with thirty boys at Barhawa. At Jaunpur the congregation of forty Christians consists of the families of the employés of the Z.B.M.M. and the C.M.S. Three pupils from the High School, under Mr. P. N. Ghose, carried off the first three out of five Scholarships given upon an Examination in Scripture, open to schools in the North-West Provinces.

A native head master receives a Diamond Jubilee Certificate.

The head master of the High School at Azimgarh, Mr. Bose, has retired on account of old age. Most of the Babus in the district have been educated by him. The Collector, Mr. W. H. D. Lovett, gave him in June, 1897, a Diamond Jubilee Certificate, in acknowledgment of the part he has taken in furthering education in the city. Mr. Gangouli, a B.A. of Allahabad University, has succeeded Mr. Bose. One of the teachers in the school was attacked by cholera during a severe visitation of that terrible disease in July, and died within two hours. Azimgarh was occupied at the end of October by Miss E. A. Luce and Miss J. E. Puckle, who had resided at Benares studying Urdu and Hindi since their arrival in India at the end of 1896, and in November they were joined by Miss A. M. Tottenham. They found many "open doors" in the city of 19,000 people and in the numerous villages around. Within a month, fifteen zenanas were regularly visited by them, and they had spoken to gatherings of women in some twenty villages.

The Z.B.M. Mission has ten European ladies, three assistant missionaries, twenty-five native teachers (of whom seven are paid by the C.M.S.), and four Bible-women engaged in work at Benares and Sigra. At the Victoria Hospital over 5,000 out-patients and 473 in-patients were treated during 1896. Miss Johnson-Smyth tells a touching story of a poor woman whom she visited at her home during the famine, who died repeating again and again the name of Jesus.

GORAKHPUR.

Gorakhpur.

"Never," writes the Rev. J. P. Ellwood, "have we realized so forcibly the prayer of our beautiful Litany, 'From lightning and tempest, from plague, pestilence, and famine, from battle and murder, and from sudden death, good Lord, deliver us,' as this year." Writing at the beginning of 1898, he could look back with feelings of thankfulness and awe at the wonders God had wrought, the wondrous judgments and the no less wondrous grace and blessing. Mr. Ellwood commenced early, as last year's Report showed, to prepare for the approaching famine by opening a children's kitchen, in which 300 children received two meals a day; and later as many as 800 men, women, and children were being fed. Those able to work were given work to do, the stronger ones being set to build new wells for the future water supply of the Christian village of Basharatpur. On January 3rd, three of these wells were formally opened in the presence of Lord and Lady Kinnaird, who were on a cold-season visit to India; and the Rev. A. R. Cavalier, Secretary of the Z.B.M.M., was also present. The wells were named "The Bishop's Well," "The Pastor's Well," and "The Lord Sahib's Well," and it was announced that if in the future villages should spring up around these wells they should be called "Cliffordpur" (after the Bishop of Lucknow), "Vincentpur" (after the late Rev. Isaac Vincent, whose death has been mentioned above on page 198), and "Kinnairdpur." Mr. Ellwood wrote:—

Opening of wells.

> The scene was one of peculiar interest and impressiveness, and those who were privileged to witness it will not readily lose the impressions made on their minds by the long procession headed by the clergy in their robes, walking in most cases in Indian file through the fields, now on raised pathways, now on dried water-courses; and by the quiet reverent gathering round each well in succession, with the short impressive service, only broken by the loud naming of the well and the declaration of the name of the future village.

While these and other works were in course of construction, the catechists spent their whole time in preaching to the crowds of starving people engaged upon them and on the Government famine works, and it appeared manifest that many of the hearers took a real interest in the Gospel message. Miss Heywood and other ladies of the Z.B.M.M. were kindly sent to give assistance at Basharatpur in preparing the inquirers among the women and children for baptism, and Miss Hibberd, of the same society, gave like help at Gorakhpur. On August 29th Mr. Ellwood baptized nine Hindus (seven being Brahmans) and one Mohammedan at the latter place, most of them the fruits of the labours of the Z.B.M.M. ladies, who at this station number six Europeans, fourteen native teachers, and five Bible-women. On January 2nd Mr. Ellwood had the joy of baptizing, also at Gorakhpur, twenty-nine orphans, some of whom were able to answer for themselves, and on the same day 100 were baptized at Basharatpur, many of them being adults, both men and women, who were first attracted to Christianity through the kindness received during the famine. Mr. Ellwood refers to two men who were brought to him by the catechists whose story is a somewhat remarkable one:—

Brahman converts.

Inquirers from borders of Nepal.

Two years ago these two men, living near the Nepal border—one a Chhatri and another a Kurmi—went to Allahabad along with a Brahman friend, and went down to the Ganges to bathe. There some catechist gave them a tract on Christianity, and begged them to read it. Both were interested and read the tract. On returning home they asked their Brahman friend if he had received a tract on this new religion called Christianity. It was certainly a wonderful religion, as it responded so wonderfully to the human heart and human needs. Long they had sought such teaching in Hinduism, but had never found it. The Brahman informed them he had received a book, but did not think much about it. It was also on this new religion, but they could have the book if they wished. Our two friends, being possessed of another book, at once proceeded to read it, and called in some of their friends to hear it read. It was a copy of St. Luke's Gospel in Hindi, and it was wonderful how much these men knew from a perusal of this marvellous copy of St. Luke. "Now," they said to me, "we want you to teach us how to pray, and if you have any more of this book please give us what you have, and we will proceed home and read it." The interview was a most interesting one, and after much conversation and prayer we let them go to their homes to carry a further message to their friends. They live fifty miles away towards the Nepal frontier, and it is seldom people in those parts see a European. May God bless the reading of His own Word!

The High School, under the Rev. T. F. Robathan, passed four (two in the first and two in the second division) out of eight in the Entrance Examination, and nine out of eighteen in the Anglo-Vernacular Middle Examination, two boys coming out eighth and tenth out of 3,400 candidates and also obtaining honours in mathematics. The school has 307 on its rolls, the Alinagar branch school has eighty-three, and the Swinton Memorial Vernacular Middle School, ninety-one. Mr. Robathan, with the help of seven Indian Christian workers, conducts a Sunday-school with 120 pupils. The Rev. C. C. Petch engaged with the catechists in Evangelistic Work. The Brahmans sometimes caused disturbance either by ridiculing the preacher or by setting school-boys to ask senseless questions. On one occasion they prompted a boy to put a mouse up the back of Mr. Petch's coat, which he allowed to creep up his back and down his sleeve, when he returned it to the Brahman.

Provoking interruptions of preaching.

LUCKNOW AND FAIZABAD.

At LUCKNOW, the Rev. A. I. Birkett is in charge of the High School, which had an average on the rolls of 164, thirty-six of whom were Christians, including seven in the Normal School for training teachers. One of the students in the latter passed the Allahabad University Entrance Examination, and entered the Government Teachers' Training College. The Rev. E. A. Hensley conducted services in the English Church (assisted by the Rev. H. B. Durrant while residing at Lucknow, studying Urdu) and presented twelve candidates for confirmation. Weekly Bible readings were held, and there is a Sunday-school with some fifty children. A Gleaners' Union Branch has over eighty members, who support a catechist at Rs. 30 a month, and further remitted £6 6*s*. to the Rev. E. J. Peck, of Cumberland Sound, for his work among the Eskimo. In February and March, 1897, Lucknow was favoured by visits of three missioners from England. The Rev. Canon Lester, who went out to the North-West Provinces in response to an invitation of Bishop Clifford, conducted a Mission for the English in the Civil Church, which was "a great spiritual feast" to the missionaries and to others, though the very small attendance of English residents was a cause of disappointment. The other two missioners were the Revs. E. N. Thwaites and W. S. Standen, who held a five-days' Mission for Indian Christians. A missionary meeting, at which all the three visitors spoke, was held on March 1st, and Rs. 135 was given, the largest sum ever contributed at such a gathering in Lucknow. The collection on the closing day of the Mission to the Hindustani Congregation, at which thankofferings for blessings received were invited, amounted to Rs. 69, which was devoted to the Indian Pastorate Endowment Fund. The Rev. T. Noah is the pastor of this congregation, under the supervision of the Rev. A. W. Baumann, the chairman of the Native Church Council, who resides in Lucknow.

Mission services.

The Band of Associated Evangelists received a welcome accession in the person of Mr. J. McIntosh. The chief effort of the year in Lucknow city was a Special Mission for Hindus and Mohammedans in November, from the 2nd to the 10th.

Special evangelistic efforts.

Those who took part in it numbered forty-five workers, including four European missionaries, three Indian pastors, and thirty native lay evangelists and colporteurs. The effort in behalf of the non-Christians was very wisely preceded by services and meetings for the Native Christians, which lasted from Saturday, October 30th, to Monday, November 1st, and the Rev. C. H. R. Janvier, of the Presbyterian Mission, Allahabad, distinguished both for his knowledge of Urdu and for spiritual gifts, most generously consented to leave his own work, in order to conduct them. The Rev. E. A. Hensley wrote of these gatherings:—

A Presbyterian missionary renders help.

> From Saturday to Monday we were able to have seven meetings. The quiet, earnest, practical addresses of Mr. Janvier were most helpful. The Spirit of God seemed to many of us to be present to aid the speaker, and to guide all in the prayers that followed. What struck us perhaps specially was the absence of indefiniteness and unnecessary length in the prayers. Every time many of the brethren prayed, and there were no awkward pauses. What one felt was that the message had gone home, and one silently thanked God for it.

And the Rev. S. Nihal Singh, also of Allahabad (C.M.S.), who was one of those who took part in this effort, said:—

> The first three days of the Mission were set apart for the Christians; and the Rev. C. H. R. Janvier, of the American Presbyterian Mission, of Allahabad, the well-known Urdu orator, gave a series of addresses in eloquent Urdu style to us in the once royal hall of Zahur Bakhsh, on different portions of the Holy Scripture. These addresses were highly appreciated by every one present; they infused into the workers, both volunteer and paid, a new spirit and light, with which the most noble work of preaching the Gospel ought to be undertaken by all who wish to do this glorious work. We were armed, as it were, with fresh spiritual weapons to fight against sin, the world, and the devil. And all being thus filled with the Holy Ghost went into the city to pull down the strongholds of Satan in the streets of Lucknow, "the modern Sodom," to use the words of Suleman, the historian of Lucknow.

A notice in Urdu, Hindi, and English.

On November 1st a handbill containing the following notice, printed in Urdu, Hindi, and English, was widely distributed through the city:—

> The true and living God, Maker of Heaven and Earth, King of all kings, and Lord of all lords, sent the Lord Jesus Christ to deliver all mankind from the power and dominion of sin, which has brought so much sorrow into the world.
>
> Prophets foretold the coming of this great Saviour from the time that men fell into sin, and these prophecies had their fulfilment in the coming of Jesus Christ in the flesh nineteen hundred years ago. From that time to this all who have believed in Him with all their heart have received pardon for all their sins, and power to lead a holy life. Through Him they have entered into a state of true peace and joy, and the certainty of eternal life. This certainty no one else has given nor can give.
> Therefore, because the all-merciful God wishes that all men should know and believe His blessed Gospel, we heartily invite you to receive all these inestimable benefits which will be explained to you by preachers and lecturers in different places throughout this city of Lucknow during the days from November 1st to 10th. We cordially invite you all to come. "The Spirit and the Bride (i.e. the Christian Church) say, Come. And let him that heareth say, Come. And let him that is athirst come. And whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely" (Rev. xxii. 17).

The notice also contained a list of the preaching places and rooms where lectures, &c., would be given. Daily thirteen or fourteen companies, with three men in each company, went to the appointed places in different parts of Lucknow, and meetings were held in four different rooms. Of the in-door meetings Mr. Hensley wrote :—

The work in the rooms was very interesting, particularly so in two places—one in the heart of the Mohammedan quarter of the town, and one where perhaps the majority of people are Hindus. In these rooms addresses were given in the vernacular, and were listened to with marked attention by numbers of people. In one room the magic-lantern was shown on four nights, and was much appreciated. In the other two places the audiences were not large, but who can tell but that these may be productive of most good? In one, vernacular lectures were given on certain appointed subjects by two of our Indian pastors. In the other, four missionaries delivered English lectures.

Thousands of tracts were distributed, and Gospel portions and other books sold, and hundreds of thousands must have heard the news of salvation. The workers were all surprised at the absence of opposition. To those who engaged in the Special Mission a blessing was vouchsafed, as Mr. Nihal Singh bears witness :—

Absence of opposition.

Some of the workers mentioned to me that they have been greatly benefited by coming here for the Mission. They said that they learnt many things regarding the method of working among non-Christians; and the great responsibility of preaching the Word of God in the true spirit of a servant of God was here realized by them in quite a new light and spirit, which never shone and worked in them before. And I am sure that many of our brethren have gone from Lucknow to their work of preaching quite full of the Holy Spirit of God.

But as regards the non-Christians, in whose behalf the effort was undertaken, no results were immediately apparent. Mr. Hensley wrote :—

City still sleeping.

That results will follow we have not a doubt. That many were impressed we are quite certain. That the literature so freely distributed will be blessed we have abundant cause for hope ; but to our knowledge up to the time of writing nothing definite has resulted from the effort. There are no more inquirers, there is no apparent waking out of sleep, no one seems to be crying out to know more of the way of salvation. The city still seems to be sleeping ; and though the watchmen have cried, and cried assuredly not in vain, yet there is apparently no stir among the citizens. May there continue to be much prayer for Lucknow.

Rest-houses exist at five places, where members of the Associated Evangelists' Band lodge from time to time, and at two of the same places schools have been opened. Mr. Hensley, the leader of the Band, baptized a woman and her three children at Nigohan, in April, 1897, in the presence of some 100 of the villagers. Mr. J. C. Harrison mentions several interesting inquirers whom he met with—a Brahman, well read and with a knowledge of English, to whom he gave a copy of the Hindi Bible; and a Brahmani, who publicly denounced idolatry. Mr. H. Blackwood found it a great help in his language studies to go into the district with some catechists, but without a European companion. He itinerated over some 200 square miles in this way, and had a very encouraging sale of books. Famine relief was organized by the missionaries, and during seven months of the year, at six different places, starving men, women, and children were helped with food at a cost of an average of Rs. 1,000 a month. Some 1,400 people daily received grain enough to maintain life during this period, and systematic instruction was given to them at the same time. The Bishop of Lucknow's Fund afforded assistance, and donations amounting to Rs. 3,250, were received from America, through the Christian Herald, besides a present of fourteen tons of grain. All who received relief were given work to do.

Mr. Baumann (now at home) reports twenty-one adult baptisms, but most of them were from other stations, sent to Mr. Baumann for instruction. Five adults were baptized in October, two being Mohammedans of Lucknow; two Hindus, one a woman, the wife of a man who was baptized thirteen years before by the Rev. Dr. W. Hooper, and then apostatized, and subsequently offered as an inquirer, feigning himself a Hindu, but now living with his wife under Christian instruction; the fifth was a coolie. Mr. Baumann mentions several inquirers placed with him for instruction by different missionaries. He specially refers to a Hindu of the Kayasth caste and his family, sent by the Z.B.M.M. ladies at Benares. This family had gone on a pilgrimage—first to Muttra and then to Benares—from the Monghyr district, and had been mulcted heavily at both places by the Pundits and Pandays, whose grasping proclivities opened his eyes to the falsehood of Hinduism. The eagerness with which this man studied and the intelligence with which he apprehended Christian teaching greatly struck Mr. Baumann.

A staff of eleven European ladies, six assistant missionaries, nineteen native teachers and nurses, and nine Bible women labour in connexion with the zenana and medical and village work of the Z.B.M. Mission. Miss L. Marston writes of the assistance rendered to Purdah women during the time of famine distress. She says:—

> I often thought in those days how the eyes of those who imagine that we in any way force the Gospel upon the people would have been opened if they could have been with me on these visitations. It was not I who begged them to listen, but they who begged me to talk to them. "Don't come when you have only just a little while to stay, but come when you can stop all day," was said to me in one house. I need hardly say that that day never came. "When we hear these words we forget our poverty and our ragged clothes, and our hearts are comforted," was the response of one as I ceased speaking on the words, "Come unto Me all ye that labour, and are heavy-laden, and I will give you rest"; and so as they thankfully took from our hands that which was to furnish the bread which perisheth, they also heard with joy of the living Bread which came down from heaven.

In visiting a former zenana pupil, who had upon her marriage removed from Lucknow, the conversation turned upon the Second Advent of our Lord. Miss Marston says :—

I was telling her about the birth of Christ, and referred to the fact that He was coming again. She eagerly interrupted me to ask, "Do you know when Christ is coming?" I told her that though we could not tell exactly, yet we hoped that it would be very soon. "But I know," she said; "it will be in one-and-a-half years." And then she told me this story :—A few months before a Hindu was worshipping in a temple in Benares when a piece of paper written in golden letters came down to him from heaven, and this is what it said: "This is a very wicked age, but soon it will end and another begin, when there will be much less sin, and a great King will come from heaven and reign a thousand years. The news of this is to be spread all over the world, and whoever believes it will be blessed, but if any disbelieve it great harm will come to him." When she finished reading I said, "But it does not say that this great King will be Jesus Christ." "No," she answered, "it does not say so, but that is what it means." And I rejoiced to think that this Hindu girl in her heathen home had so learnt of Christ that she recognized in Him the coming King, whose reign must bring peace and righteousness. It is wonderful to see how in this land Christians, Mohammedans, and Hindus are all thinking and speaking of the coming of our Lord, and as we realize how very near that time may be, it strengthens our hearts and increases our faith to go on proclaiming His message, that those who hear and receive it may learn with us to "love His appearing."

Christ's second coming expected.

Faizabad was visited from Lucknow monthly by Mr. Hensley, and so was Sultanpur, an out-station. The Z.B.M. Mission has four European ladies, seven native teachers, and two Bible women at Faizabad.

AGRA AND SECUNDRA.

The Rev. J. P. Haythornthwaite (now at home) institutes a comparison between the statistics of St. John's College in 1890, when he first went to Agra and took charge, and 1897. The staff in the College and school departments grew in the seven years from twenty-four masters, of whom two were Europeans and two were graduates, to thirty-nine, of whom five are Europeans and ten are graduates. In the former year only one-tenth of the students were Christians, now the proportion is one-fifth; the number of Christians in the College is five times as many as it was in 1890, and the number in the Collegiate school twice as many. Six students during the seven years passed the M.A., eight the LL.B., and thirty-four the B.A. Examinations, of whom two M.A.'s and five B.A.'s were Christians. Mr. Haythornthwaite is satisfied that a decided advance in the spiritual and moral tone of the College has taken place. The Christian students are more ready to witness for Christ, and both Christians and non-Christians are more manly and straightforward. Among the latter he remarks a "wonderful readiness" to receive Bible teaching. He gives the following examples :—

Agra.

Growth of St. John's College.

Readiness of non-Christian students to receive Bible teaching.

Now the daily Bible instruction and Saturday morning addresses—begun in 1892—are listened to with the utmost attention, and every appearance of interest and appreciation. I am becoming more and more convinced that students value the earnest solicitude for their moral and spiritual well-being which they find in mission colleges; and that the Bible and Christian ideals of life and conduct, when sympathetically presented, no longer repel, but attract students to missionary institutions. In October last there was an illustration of this change of front on the part of Hindus in the Hindu Hostel. In 1891 a Christian superintendent was appointed to the Hindu Hostel, an institution recently opened. The appointment was by no means a success. He was not very wise in some of his methods, but the religious hostility was so great that I thought it best to appoint a Hindu superintendent in future. In October last, however, there was considerable friction, which led to the resignation of the Hindu manager. A petition was then presented to me—signed by all the boarders—requesting me to appoint a Christian graduate of the College, who is also an assistant professor. They were so sure of the probity of his character, and that he would govern with justice and kindness, that they preferred him to any Hindu graduates of the College, amongst whom the appointment has rested since 1892. The appointment has proved a most happy one. For the last four months no appeal or complaint of any kind has reached me. Yet the superintendent does not hide his Christianity under a bushel! Every Sunday morning he holds a voluntary Bible-class—hitherto held somewhat spasmodically by myself, owing to other Sunday duties—which is very well attended.

Change of front.

The Rev. J. M. Challis, the acting Principal of the College during Mr. Haythornthwaite's absence, who took the daily Bible instruction of the M.A. and B.A. classes, also wrote at the close of 1897:—

For the Scripture teaching a somewhat new plan was adopted this year, or rather, since July. Instead of the usual Scripture lesson in the separate classes at different times, all the College students were assembled in the large hall for the first half-hour each morning, and I gave a course of teaching on the Book of Exodus, prefaced by an outline of Genesis, with special reference to the Fall, and God's plan of salvation. The examination at the close of the year showed some encouraging results. Non-Christian students had evidently taken careful notes of the addresses, and showed that they grasped the subject. One Hindu student writes, in answer to the question, "What is the main subject of the New Testament, and the object of the whole Bible?"—"The second division is concerned with the period of grace brought about by the birth of Christ; it deals with the sacrifice which has been offered by God in His Son Jesus Christ. It contains the revelation of God on this earth in His Son." Another writes on the meaning of the Bible, "It is the turning of the mind towards the right path, and it teaches men to turn towards that path." A third writes, "Jesus Christ sacrificed His life for our sins, so unless we love Jesus Christ, and act in dependence upon Him, we cannot reach God." One of our senior Christian students, who is superintendent of the Hindu Hostel, tells me the interest taken in the Scripture teaching is far more general and deeper than formerly. The many requests for the loan of Commentaries showed the same thing. Also in open competition a Hindu took the second prize for Scripture in both the B.A. classes.

Answers to Scripture questions.

The Hindu referred to in the closing sentence of the extract just quoted is mentioned by the Rev. J. M. Paterson as a Christian at heart, often speaking up boldly for Christianity in the College Debating Society. Some eighteen of the Hindu boys declared their faith in Christ as their Saviour during the visit of the Revs. E. N. Thwaites and W. S. Standen at the beginning of 1897. The proportion of passes in the University Examinations during 1897 was below the hopes of the Principal. Two out of five passed the M.A., eight out of eighteen the B.A., thirteen out of thirty-nine the F.A., four out of ten the School Final, and thirteen out of twenty-two the Entrance. A Christian student of the College was second in order of merit in English Literature in the M.A. Examination, and one of the other students obtained a first class in the School Final Examination.

Christian Hostel.

Mr. Paterson superintended the Christian Hostel during the year (except for a few months in the summer, when he paid a short visit to England), but resigned the charge at the beginning of 1898, and was appointed to take up temporarily the evangelistic work of the Agra district on the Rev. W. McLean taking furlough. Nearly all the boys, whose spiritual conversion (they were sons of Christian parents) was mentioned in last year's report, stood firm, and grew manifestly in grace. They formed themselves into a band of volunteer workers. Two new bazaar Sunday-schools were opened during the year by the boys, and other boys taught in the Christian Sunday-school; while many others took part in bazaar and Mission-room preaching. The change in the character of the preaching is as remarkable, Mr. Paterson says, as the change in the number of helpers. "Formerly the subject-matter was 'Christians,' now it is 'Christ'; and formerly the crowd listened indifferently, and remained silent, now they press around close, and argue very angrily." Mr. Paterson adds:—

Band of volunteer workers.

A prayer meeting in College quadrangle.

One evening, returning after a long and interesting argument, our volunteers were so filled with joy and praise that they implored me to join with them, just as they were, in the middle of our College quadrangle, in a prayer-meeting, where they could just pour out the overflowings of their hearts to God. It was truly delightful, and more than encouraging.

Some of the newer boys in the Hostel, nominally Christians though they were, opposed these evangelistic efforts, abusing and annoying the members of the band. Mr. Challis observes the same encouraging interest in the Scripture lessons on the part of the boys in the two Branch Schools as in those of the College. He says:—

"Do you love Jesus from your hearts?"

Mr. Frank Anderson, of the S.V.M.U., when staying with us last March, kindly examined one school by interpretation, and at the close asked, "Do you love Jesus Christ?" "Yes, sir," they all answered, very brightly. Then, turning to me, he asked if I thought they really understood his question. I suggested his repeating it: "Do you love Jesus from your hearts?" "Yes, from our hearts," they answered, just as readily. "Why?" "Because He saves us from sin."

Girls' High School.

A girls' school of thirty, mostly Brahman and other high caste children, made good progress. It is regularly visited by Mr. Challis, and by the ladies of the Girls' High School. On one day a week two of the pupils from the latter school accompanied Miss V. H. Latham, of the New Zealand C.M. Association, to the above Hindu school, and imparted instruction to their younger sisters. Miss Latham thus pictured the scene, and commented upon its lessons:—

Pupil-teachers.

My children sit on chairs at either end of the room, and the others sit round them on the floor and listen. I sit between them and listen, too, sometimes to one and sometimes to the other. I wish all who do not believe in Educational Missions could sit there with me. The lessons are all carefully prepared the day before with Miss Banks, who helps them to make their teaching simple and plain, and by questions and answers to lead from the known to the unknown. Apt pupils they have been, and true teachers they are; and oh, thank God, their teaching has not been mere words, words, words, but with power to touch hearts; and already my children have begun to learn the difference between the enticing words of men's wisdom and the demonstration of the Spirit. Our children teach as we can never teach—at least some of us. Their words, their illustrations, all are understood without an effort; there is nothing to draw the restless, merry little minds away from the message given. And to us is given the opportunity in our daily school routine of showing that to teach in the Spirit we must walk in the Spirit; that if we wish to teach to the glory of God we must do all, all that our hands find to do, to His glory too. How the daily English lessons, history lessons, the corrections, the household drudgery, is transfigured and ennobled, and all is one long, glorious opportunity of showing that the message must be the life and the life must be the message, and if it is to be Jesus for one hour a week, why, it must be Jesus all the way along, too. And so I find that I, who never gave a thought to Educational Missions, except to be thankful that I had nothing to do with them—I am now so thoroughly an educational missionary that, wherever I go, or whatever I do, I shall remain one all my life.

Miss Latham's health has necessitated her transfer from the high school to Muttra, and Miss E. F. Bazeley from Muttra has succeeded her. Miss A. E. Banks is the Principal of the school, and as the teaching is in English, she was able to commence work the very day after her arrival in November, 1896. There are thirty-two girls on the roll, who are taught in nine classes. Four of the girls were confirmed in December, 1896.

The Native Congregation, according to the Rev. W. Seetal, numbers 550 souls, of whom exactly one half, 225, are communicants. The average attendance, however, at the Sunday morning services is 325, and on the chief festivals, 450; while the average number of communicants is ninety. Their contributions for religious purposes amounted to Rs. 1,253. The Sunday-school for Christian children has an average of eighty-five pupils, and two others for heathen children have forty boys and twelve girls. Mr. Seetal reports thirty-six adults baptized, who were mostly the fruits of the Evangelistic Work under the Rev. W. McLean (now at home), but the latter attributes most of them to the Special Mission of the Revs. I. W. Charlton and Ihsan Ullah in the autumn of 1896 (see last year's Report, page 207). They included a Sikh with his family from Tai Gunj; a farmer from Tundla, who died a few months after his baptism; the wife and children and father-in-law of the last-named, who are fairly well off; a Kayasth from Sandila, in the Hardoi district; Gumti, the wife of a Brahman convert of two years ago, who, after his baptism, had been sent fifty miles away by his father, a learned pundit, but who maintained his Christian profession; and a man from Joki Ka Bas, near Khandouli, who, after his baptism, was ostracized by his caste fellows. During the six years since Mr. McLean took up evangelistic work in Agra he has been privileged to baptize 140 Hindus and Mohammedans, a few of whom, he says, caused much pain, but many proved faithful and true. In the city of Agra the homes of native gentlemen were visited, and mission services were held in a hall in Hinki Mandi with an average attendance of about sixty. Mr. McLean was hopeful to be able to open a Mission hall and Dispensary at Khandouli and also at Tundla. Several inquirers are reported at Ferozabad, which Mr. McLean describes as a "hard place." The sufferings from the famine there were exceptionally severe. Mr. McLean saw many distressing sights during his itinerations. In Ferozabad hundreds of little children, without clothing, and that in the winter time, were huddled together in the streets and lanes dependent for food upon the charity of Hindus and Mohammedans. At Saiyan Mr. McLean's tent was besieged by clamorous beggars. He wrote:—

Thirty-six adults baptized.

Sad famine sights.

Never shall I forget some of the sights—here an aged father borne on the back of his starving son; there a mother holding an infant, a skeleton, in her exhausted arms, while two or three others cling to her ragged garments. But here is a family of seven—what do they want? On they come; as they draw near, the parents fall on the ground and offer their children for sale. Of course I explain to them that I cannot buy them, but if they give them to me I will have them sent to our Orphanage at Secundra. At last they consent to give one, and go away saying, "If we can't dispose of the others, we will give them to you." One day a little girl of eight years came to our tents, crying and saying that she had not tasted food for two days; on being questioned she related her tale of woe. Her father had sold her for eight rupees, and the man who purchased her left her with some of his friends to look after and give her food, but they took no care of the little one, nor gave her anything to eat. I sent for the people with whom she was living, and found her story was true. They also produced a stamped paper on which the sale was written, regularly signed by witnesses, &c. On referring the matter to the collector of Agra, I found it was quite illegal, and sent the child to the Secundra Orphanage.

Children sold by their parents.

Mr. McLean was elected a member of the Government Famine Relief Committee, and made a disburser in Agra city, which brought him into contact with the wealthy Hindus and Mohammedans on the Committee, and gave him opportunities of telling the Gospel story to hundreds. For the Native Christians he purchased grain, set a number of widows to grind it for pay, and sold it at a reduced price. Some 1,200 received a daily allowance. What was done by Mr. Haythornthwaite in the same direction, but on a still larger scale, has been referred to above (see page 172). Mr. McLean believes the famine led many of the people to think, and that the practical sympathy manifested by the Government increased their respect for British rule. Very many also gave up the worship of idols.

Secundra Orphanage.

The Rev. and Mrs. E. T. Pegg received 295 children into the Secundra Orphanage during the year, but for some reason unexplained the inmates at the close of the year were slightly under 300. Miss Tillich's death has been already referred to (page 198); her place has been taken by Miss Lorbeer, and the Berlin Society has sent out Miss Lucas to supply the vacancy in the staff.

MUTTRA.

Muttra.

The veteran missionary at MUTTRA, the Rev. P. M. Zenker, has the privilege, which he prizes very much, of giving his valuable help to some of the lady recruits year by year in the study of Urdu and Hindi. He had the satisfaction of seeing Miss E. M. F. Major and Miss E. F. Bazeley pass their first, and Miss E. B. Durrant the final Urdu Examination in October. He mentions with much sorrow that the convert who received the name Dhirajwant Dharmsevak, referred to last year, turned out to be insincere and disappeared from the station. In July, 1897, an old Indian Christian worker named Robert Michael died at Muttra. Baptized at the age of two, in 1829, he was educated at the Free Church Mission School at Poona, and after serving for a time in Government service, on becoming entitled to a pension of amount sufficient for his modest wants, he adopted the work of a travelling evangelist. Mr. Zenker says he journeyed through the length and breadth of Northern and Central India proclaiming the Gospel. Muttra suffered from an epidemic of illness after the rains of a very severe nature. Mrs. Durrant states that few individuals altogether escaped; the schools were emptied of children, and the zenanas were closed except to those who could impart medical help. This Miss E. B. Durrant did, and that to the detriment of her own health, so that she was obliged, and her mother also, to come home at the beginning of 1898.

ALIGARH.

Aligarh.

The Rev. A. E. Bowlby writes with much thankfulness for the appointment of the Rev. and Mrs. J. F. Pemberton to reinforce ALIGARH, the district around which has a population of three million people. Mr. Bowlby was also greatly cheered by the liberality of the Native Congregation, who, notwithstanding the prevailing distress, increased their contributions from Rs. 252 to Rs. 452, including Rs. 65 to the Native Church Endowment Fund as a T.Y.E. effort. The services were very well attended, the church on Sunday morning being full to overflowing towards the end of 1897, many being unbaptized adherents. The unity and friendliness of the Christians was also more marked. Mr. Bowlby acknowledges the great help rendered for four months in the summer by the Rev. J. B. Ventura, while he himself was laid aside by ill-health. Two adults were baptized, a man and his wife, servants at the Mission-house. At Bulandshahr there were no resident ladies of the Z.B.M.M. for part of the year. There were inquirers at Khurja, but none were passed for baptism. The work of the faithful catechist at Sikandarabad was much blessed, and there are several very hopeful inquirers. A new school, opened by some Hindu Babus in honour of the Diamond Jubilee, was at their request taken over by the Mission. The Dispensary at Bilaspur saw 4,735 patients treated during eleven months of the year. At Soron a Church Committee, appointing delegates to the Aligarh Pastorate Committee, was formed, and the people began to contribute towards the expenses of public worship. Mr. Bowlby sold about Rs. 140 worth of Gospels and tracts while itinerating in the three civil districts dependent on him for evangelization, namely, Aligarh, Bulandshahr, and Etah. The Z.B.M. Mission has three European ladies, two native teachers, and three Bible women labouring at Aligarh.

MIRAT.

A year of struggle, but nevertheless a year of blessing, is the Rev. J. W. Hall's summary of the experiences of himself and his fellow-workers at MIRAT during 1897. The struggle was occasioned by very determined efforts of the Aryas to close the High School. Having collected some Rs. 50,000, and opened a College and High School, they issued a pamphlet offering to educate lads at half the usual fees, and succeeded in drawing away from other schools no less than 400 boys, including about 100 from the C.M.S. High School, so that when the latter, and its two branch schools, reopened after the summer vacation, only 186 boys instead of 300 appeared. Before the spring of 1898, however, the number had risen to 230, while the Arya school, having failed to fulfil its elaborate programme, dwindled from 400 to 150. Mr. Hall attributes the desire of the Aryas to close the Mission schools to the influence they have gained in the city through the high standard of efficiency for which they are noted. Out of sixteen boys sent up for the Matriculation Examination twelve passed; and five out of eight passed the Middle English Examination. The boys are very keen in all athletic exercises, and carried off the second prize for gymnastics at the Annual Departmental Tournament, held at Moradabad. Two hostels, for Mohammedan and Hindu pupils respectively, had nineteen inmates. The Christian masters of the school take part with the catechists in street preaching, and sometimes even non-Christian pupils have assisted in selling Christian books to the crowds in the bazaar. Much blessing rested on the Evangelistic Work. Six baptisms resulted under God from the proclamation of the Gospel at eight preaching-places in Mirat city; and Mr. Hall baptized thirty-one converts at Jeyi in March, 1898 (after the conclusion of the statistical year), and was hoping soon to baptize over 100 others at Sial, two miles distant from Jeyi, and other outstations. The catechist at Parichatgarh, Matthew, was trained by the Rev. Rowland Bateman of the Punjab Mission, and Mr. Hall writes in terms of thankfulness regarding his devotion, and the influence he has acquired over the Hindus and Mussulmans, high and low, rich and poor. A Mohammedan said to him, "Matthew, I am afraid of you, for you will be converting me and my people ere long to Jesus Christ." Mr. Hall says that his case is an illustration of the fact that the best work in the Church of Christ is done not by the intellectually great, but by men of average or even less than average ability, who are filled with the Spirit of God.

Baptisms at outstations.

Mrs. Hall writes encouragingly of the work among women and girls. She has a Bible-class for the Christian women, attended on the average by thirteen. The people of Malyana, a village near Mirat, she was told, when first she went to Mirat, were bitterly opposed, the Bible-woman often being threatened by the Mohammedans. Now the present Bible-woman finds ready listeners everywhere, and Mrs. Hall found women in every lane listening gladly to the Bible, and giving her a hearty welcome. A catechist was placed at Hapur during the year, and his wife visits zenanas and conducts a small girls' school in spite of the opposition of Arya Samajists.

Ghaziabad.

Miss G. L. West, at Ghaziabad, also met with opposition from members of the Arya Samaj, but in spite of it the attendance at the girls' school almost doubled during the first few months of 1897, and the zenanas open for visitation trebled in number. A Government order to whitewash the houses as a prevention against the plague was supposed to have been suggested by Miss West, and the school attendance diminished for a time, but no zenanas were closed, and before the end of 1897, over 100 were open. Even the Aryas became less inimical, and at a meeting in September, when the question was raised whether the visits of the missionaries were to be allowed or not, the decision was favourable, because they "taught nothing but what was good." The two Bible-women paid 1,298 visits, and gave 582 reading lessons during the year; 3,488 women heard the Gospel from their lips. One of them works two small schools for Chumars (low-caste Hindus) and also visits among these people, with whom she is a great favourite. A dispensary for women and children is conducted by Miss Jonathan, which has an average attendance of about thirty.

The Rev. H. W. V. Birney preached in seventy-nine villages during an itineration in the 1896–97 cold season, and was generally well received. In the autumn he accompanied Mr. Hall and all the catechists of the station to the mela at Garmukhteshwar, and had large audiences. Mr. Birney was transferred at the end of 1897 to Agra, to resume work at St. John's College. The C.E.Z.M.S. has four European ladies, two assistant-missionaries, eleven native teachers, and four Bible-women working at Mirat.

DEHRA DUN AND MUSSOURIE.

Dehra Dun.

Signs of blessing on the inhabitants of the three Christian villages in DEHRA DUN gladden the heart of the Rev. T. Carmichael. The encouraging symptoms mentioned in last year's Report are dwelt upon again; and further, Mr. Carmichael is able to add that prayer-meetings are now regularly held and attended in the villages, that seventeen men and thirty-five women professed to give their hearts to Christ in the course of some Special Services conducted by himself and the Rev. Yakub Ali; that a marked increase in church attendance and at the Holy Communion is observable; and that the first converts from Heathenism which this station has witnessed for many years were baptized during the year, consisting of a man and his wife, the former of whom had first heard the Gospel at a mela five years before. The Gahrwali Bible-woman laboured among a few Gahrwali families in Dehra. A woman whom she taught to read the Gospel in Hindi was directed by an Arya Samaj teacher to give up reading the New Testament, but replied, "Never! This is the Book that tells us of the Saviour, Jesus; if we give up this we shall be lost!" Mr. and Mrs. Carmichael paid three visits to the hill people of Jaunsar, singing hymns and reading and explaining portions of St. Matthew's Gospel, and met everywhere with a welcome and with attention. He aimed at inducing the people to commit verses of Scripture and Christian hymns to memory, and at instructing them in the following points, counting them on the five fingers: (1) God is Holy; (2) Man is a sinner; (3) Jesus Christ is the only Saviour; (4) Pray for salvation; (5) The Holy Spirit will make you holy.

"If we give up this Book we shall be lost."

Mussourie

The Rev. Dr. W. Hooper welcomes the appointment of Mr. H. Bennett to carry on the pastoral and evangelistic work, under his superintendence, in and around MUSSOURIE. For several weeks of 1897 the Rev. A. W. Baumann, of Lucknow, rendered help, and for some months the Rev. J. Qalandar's ministrations, until his transfer to Gorakhpur, were much valued. There were eight adult baptisms, all of whom Dr. Hooper reports as doing well. One of those baptized in 1896, however, apostatized; while one whom Dr. Hooper baptized in 1895, and who had been living as a Heathen in other places most of the time since, returned during 1897, apparently truly penitent.

Dr. Hooper's Work among the English at Mussourie is much appreciated. He gave four courses of sermons at All Saints' Church, he conducted a weekly Bible reading on the Book of Revelation, and Mrs. Hooper had Bible readings for ladies. Besides these Dr. Hooper mentions a quite new effort to interest the "upper ten" in divine things. He says:—

Drawing-room Bible-readings.

Several ladies at the "West End" of Mussourie agreed together to have these meetings in their drawing-rooms in turn. There was a great variety in the subjects; but knowing that several of those attending were sceptically inclined, if no more, Dr. Kellogg and I took subjects specially adapted for them. I took two on "Miracles"; but Dr. Kellogg had the widest door opened to him in this respect. There is something in his whole manner, as well as in the clear way in which he put things, that very specially adapts him for dealing with refined and educated unbelievers. Just lately also I have been asked to continue a course of meetings begun by Dr. Kellogg in Landour, mainly among Presbyterians, on the Lord's Second Coming, so great has been the interest awakened in the subject.

Bible translation.

Dr. Hooper and Dr. Kellogg (the health of the latter, who is of the American Presbyterian Mission, is happily completely restored) continued the work of translating the Old Testament into Hindi: Joshua, Judges, Ruth, Ezra, Nehemiah, Esther, Ecclesiastes, Canticles, Daniel, and part of Job have been printed tentatively, and it is hoped that the whole version will be in type by the end of 1898, leaving the following year for revision. The translators are much encouraged by the opinions expressed on their work, as to the simplicity, faithfulness to idiom, and intelligibility of the translation, by those to whom it has been submitted. The same favourable opinion is expressed on the Urdu New Testament.

II. CENTRAL PROVINCES AND RAJPUTANA.

THE Rev. E. D. Price was married to Miss M. C. F. Lillingston, daughter of the Rev. F. A. C. Lillingston, Vicar of St. James', Clapham, on October 23rd, 1897, at Girgaum Church, Bombay; and the Rev. H. Mould was married to Miss Mildred Legg on November 24th, at the Old Church, Calcutta. The Rev. H. J. Molony came home on furlough in October, 1897, and the Rev. and Mrs. W. Latham reached Europe in April, 1898.

JABALPUR.

Jabalpur.

The Rev. W. Latham (now at home), who succeeded the Rev. C. H. Gill in the charge of the work at JABALPUR when the latter came home in the spring of 1897, rightly says that his Annual Letter is more like a famine report than an account of missionary work, and he explains that the whole staff, including the native agents, were to a large extent occupied during a great part of the year in famine duties. Considerable pecuniary help was afforded from the Mansion House Fund. Over seven hundred children passed through the hands of the Mission workers, many of whom died notwithstanding all they could do, and most of the rest were eventually forwarded to permanent orphanages; but 160 were still left at the end of November. Some 600 adults also were relieved between the months of August and October, when the distress was at its height, supplementary to the Government relief, the funds and grain supplied by the New York Christian Herald largely affording the means. Gospel preaching was not neglected. On the contrary, Mr. Latham considers it was done more systematically than in most years, as an audience of some 600 adults heard the Gospel and listened to it attentively morning and evening. The Schools, with an aggregate of 1,073 pupils, were under the Rev. J. A. F. Warren. Nine boys out of eighteen passed the Allahabad University Entrance Examination: two in Division i., thus gaining a Scholarship of Rs. 10 a month, tenable for two years; three in Division ii.; and four in Division iii. A new rule required all boys, good and bad, to be sent up, not merely as in the past, those thought likely to succeed. In the Middle School eleven succeeded, the school standing first among the Jabalpur schools in the proportion of passes in this Examination. In the Vernacular Department seventy-four out of ninety-eight passed. Mr. Warren says the boys of the two senior classes listen most respectfully to the Scripture lessons which he takes with them, and a goodly number voluntarily attend a Sunday class, which some of the former pupils now reading at the Government College, or employed in the city, also attend. The Rev. R. Hack, sent away from Marpha on account of ill-health, itinerated in the Katni district to the north of Jabalpur in the winter of 1897–98. In the course of a month's tour he found only one resident Native Christian—a man converted in Africa!

MANDLA AND MARPHA (GOND MISSION).

The famine in the Gond Country was more intense than in any other part of India, and it was accompanied by cholera which recurred again and again. The Rev. H. J. Molony (now at home) wrote:—

> It has been a year of sowing in tears; the poor dying all around us, dying in spite of untiring effort and unsparing charity on the part of the Government and of the Christian public, as well as of those who have worked specially through and with us.
> I cannot speak too highly of the hard work done by all our Mission agents in this famine time. We distributed between £3,000 and £4,000 in penny meals, and the work was done almost entirely by Christian hands. The labour involved was incessant, and without trustworthy assistants would not have been done. Only one Heathen was put in a position of trust, and within three weeks he had to be handed over to the police for selling the grain for his own benefit. He escaped imprisonment on technical grounds; there was no doubt of his guilt.

The famine has also brought many hundreds of people into a grateful friendship with us, and scores to inquiry about the truth of Christ, and I believe we shall see that this year of trouble has been a turning-point in the history of the Gond Mission.

Mandla. The Gond Mission, and especially MANDLA, suffered a great loss by the death of Mrs. Molony in November, 1897. There was no famine relief undertaken by the missionaries in Mandla town, but Mr. Molony was much occupied in correspondence and business for the purchase, weighing, and transport of grain to the relief centres opened among the villages.

Marpha. The Rev. E. D. Price gives an account of the extensive efforts put forth at MARPHA for the relief of famine distress. Donations sent by Miss A. Boys, the Honorary Secretary of "The Living Waters Missionary Union," whose "Own Missionary" Mr. Price is, supplied the means. The difficulty of obtaining grain was exceedingly great. It had to be purchased from places distant sixty, eighty-five, and 120 miles; there were no roads, so that carts could not be used, and at times 300 oxen had to be hired and employed, which travelled at the rate of about six miles a day. The grain having been obtained had to be protected from thieves. Mr. Price relates how this was done:—

Difficulty of obtaining grain.

Protecting it from thieves.

I believe all the neighbouring thieves and dakoits began to congregate around us. I had to form the villagers into a united band ready to turn out night or day at a moment's notice, and to drill them. We formed a company of bowmen and spearmen, the rest had simply axes. Our pony-boys formed a small company of cavalry, and we had too some who formed a native band playing tom-toms and clashing tiny cymbals. We had a hundred men altogether. Many of the villages around us were looted. At one time there were a hundred dakoits in the jungle close to our house. We made ample preparations for them, and many sat up all night watching, but they were afraid to attack us, and decamped in the night. The next morning we searched the jungles for them, but they were not to be found.

After this many thieves used to creep into the village at midnight, often in companies of two and three, but the alarm was generally given, and the regiment turned out and the thieves captured there and then or tracked in the early morning by our Baigas. We captured every thief that came; on the average there was a night alarm once a week. Our nearest police live nine miles away, and even there only two or three are to be found.

At Marpha alone about 800 lbs. daily of grain were distributed, and in addition grain was supplied for children's soup kitchens at Banguar, Gurumgaon, Singpur, Basadongri, and Diuari. In August and September 1,200 were in receipt of daily relief at Marpha, and quite as many more at the ten other relief centres; those able to work being engaged in building a well. The missionaries lived daily amid such distressing scenes as the following, described by Mr. Price:—

Distressing scenes.

Once Holloway and I were looking at the children finishing their morning meal, when an old starving blind man stumbled up for food. He was almost a walking skeleton. We relieved him; then his wife, bent double with hunger and age, and nearly blind too, crawled up. As we were giving her relief, a leper stood some distance off and began to cry out for food. I turned to look, and as I did so, he uncovered a cloth and exposed a fingerless hand and an arm half raw; it was a fearful sight, no wonder the flies buzzed round him in swarms. As we were giving him grain for food I saw a man reeling up. He came to the steps and said, "Food, Sahib! food, Sahib!" I said, "Sit down, and I will give you some." As he tried to do so he rolled helplessly on to the ground. Mr. Holloway got a bamboo door, and we raised the unconscious man up, and carried him away to a sheltered place, and gave him medicine. His one hope had been to get to our bungalow, and he had even bound his legs up to keep them going. As soon as his hopes were realized, all his forced energy gave way. He revived a little while after, but in a week or so both he and the blind man passed away.

Feeding on mud.

One night a poor woman came and threw herself down in our verandah. I had great difficulty in getting her away. I had to call for help. The next morning she came for some food. Just previously I saw her cooking something in a pot. I inquired what it was, and found she had actually boiled up mud for food. It was all she had to eat.

Outbreak of cholera.

In May, 1897, cholera broke out at Marpha; the head man of the village was taken ill and died. Only six died in Marpha itself, and no Christians, but all around the mortality was very great. Large numbers who came in search of famine relief died from this awful disease, and their remains in the fields and jungles around were a source of further danger, and at one time it was feared the missionaries would have to leave Marpha, as the stench was so unspeakably sickening.

Twenty six adults were baptized during the year, and forty-three were entered as catechumens at Marpha, besides forty at Diuari, twenty-one at Muria Rachkha, and four at Khajri. A large number of children desired to be baptized, and actually cut off their tik, or jealously guarded tuft of hair, by which the common belief is that the gods haul them up into heaven.

A heathen festival not observed.

For the first time the Holi Festival was not observed at Marpha in 1897. In March, 1897, eleven of the Marpha Christians were confirmed at Mandla by the Bishop of Lucknow. The Queen's birthday was celebrated by an excursion of the Sunday-school children to the hills some three miles from Marpha, where they encamped for the night. On Sunday, June 20th, the church was crowded, and on the following night there was a torchlight procession at Marpha.

Patpara.

Mr. J. Fryer took up his abode at Patpara in the spring of 1897, and erected an orphanage and a leper asylum. Four hundred children were received in the former, but over one-third of them died from the effects of starvation; seventy lepers also were received, but of these two-thirds died. Mr. Fryer estimates that from famine and cholera little short of one-fourth of the Gond population must have died. On December 5th the first baptisms and the first harvest thanksgiving at Patpara took place, and on the following Sunday fourteen others were baptized.

Translation. St. John's Gospel was translated into Gondi by Phailbus, one of the catechists, and revised by Mr. Molony during the year.

KHERWARA (BHEEL MISSION).

Kherwara. The Revs. E. P. Herbert and H. Mould took a considerable preaching tour in the winter of 1896–97, going south-west down the Mahi River to a point 100 miles from Kherwara, then turning east into South Malwa, then from Rutlan turning north-westward to Dungarpur (where they were very kindly entertained by His Highness the Maha Rawal, who sent an elephant to convey them to his palace) and back to Kherwara. The journey took about thirty days, and they were struck with the great tracts of country in which no evangelistic work is being done. Mr. Herbert spent several weeks at a time at the out-stations, and Mr. Mould spent some months at Kotra. In August they were both at Kherwara, and then in the following month the catechist, Satya Das, died, the first adult Christian to be taken from this Mission among the Bheels. Mr. Mould, with whom he laboured latterly, writes of him as a faithful preacher of Jesus Christ.

PUNJAB AND SINDH MISSION.

The Punjab Mission was begun in 1851, soon after the annexation of the province to British India. The first station occupied was Amritsar, the sacred city of the Sikhs; Kangra was occupied in 1854; Peshawar, 1855; Mûltan, 1856; Narowal, 1859; Dera Ismail Khan, 1861; Kashmir, 1863; Bannu, 1864; Lahore, 1867; Clarkabad, 1869; Pind Dadan Khan, 1876; Batala, 1878; Dera Ghazi Khan, 1879; Tarn Taran, 1885; Quetta, 1886. At Lahore, the capital of the province, the Divinity School was founded in 1870 by the late Rev. T. V. French. Mr. Gordon (who was killed at Kandahar, August 16th, 1880) established, mainly at his own expense, stations at Pind Dadan Khan and Dera Ghazi Khan, the latter as a base for work among the Beluch tribes. Several other stations fringe the British frontier, the most important of which is Peshawar, where a Mission to the Afghans was established in 1855 under the auspices of Sir Herbert Edwardes, then Commissioner of the Division. In the valley of Kashmir a Medical Mission was started by Dr. Elmslie in 1865, which has been a great blessing to the people, especially during the famine in 1880, and the earthquake in 1884. The work in the Punjab is deeply indebted to men like Lord Lawrence, Sir H. Edwardes, Sir R. Montgomery, Sir D. Macleod, Generals Lake, Taylor, and Maclagan, Colonel Martin, and others, who nobly exerted themselves to bring the Gospel to the people under their administration.

The Sindh Mission is older in date, having been begun in 1850, but is far behind in progress, owing mainly to its having always been quite undermanned. Yet important fruit has been granted to the patient labours of the Rev. J. Sheldon and others at Karachi (commenced 1850) and Hydrabad (1856), and more recently (1887) at Sukkur, on the Indus.

The Diocese of Lahore was founded in 1877, the Rev. T. V. French, a C.M.S. Missionary, being the first Bishop. On his retirement in 1887, the present Bishop, Dr. Matthew, succeeded.

The frontier policy of the C.M.S.

What should be the frontier policy of the Indian Government is a subject of anxious moment to statesmen, and of keen controversy among political parties. The frontier policy of the Church Missionary Society, however, is a plain one theoretically, and admits of no controversy. It is to be ever ready to advance whenever it may please God to open the gates through the mountain passes admitting to the unevangelized regions beyond. Soon after the Society's First Jubilee a beginning was made to establish Mission stations at the frontier vantage points, and link by link a chain of such stations has been created, which extends from Simla, through Kangra, Srinagar, Peshawar, Bannu, Dera Ismail Khan, Dera Ghazi Khan, and Quetta to Karachi. The turbulent and lawless and intensely fanatical mountain tribes, who have from time to time necessitated, by their unprovoked hostilities, armed expeditions, and who have, when reduced to submission, furnished some of the best regiments in the Indian army, have come into contact with God's servants, and some individuals of them have embraced and held fast and striven earnestly for the Gospel of Christ. Medical Missions in particular have been instrumental in diminishing their hostility and prejudice. Srinagar, Bannu, Tank, Dera Ghazi Khan, and Quetta have for some years been the centres of medical missionary work, to which list Peshawar was added during 1897, and all these stations, except Tank, are manned Half-a-dozen medical missionaries better than as many forts.

by at least two fully-qualified medical missionaries of the C.M.S. and the C.E.Z.M.S. Dr. A. Neve well says that "half a dozen earnest, capable medical missionaries, speaking the language of the people, sympathizing with them, visiting their villages, partaking of their hospitality, and healing their sick, would do more for the prevention of inter-tribal and frontier wars than half a dozen forts and as many brigades of soldiers." And he has made the following wise and opportune remarks:—

> I would urge the policy of complete preparedness. Medical missionaries living near the frontier should aim at securing the confidence of the British officials. Any headlong rashness, or disobedience of orders, any public criticism of the Government or its officers, would hinder the work as much by alienating their sympathy or assistance, as would any indiscreet zeal which challenged public controversy and aroused fanatical opposition.
> It is the duty of the Christian Church to do something for these peoples. In turn they have been cajoled and threatened, subsidized, and punished. The cost to the Imperial Government has been immense, both in money and in lives. If at last we succeed in convincing them of our power, let us at once proceed to prove our goodwill. The lives of those bright, promising young officers who have fallen in these costly campaigns will not have been given in vain if Christian people awaken to their responsibilities, and extend to these brave but savage tribes the blessings of the Gospel, not merely as a message of the lips, but as a witness of the life, like Him who "went about doing good," "and healing all manner of sickness and disease among the people."

Reinforcements.

Of the four recruits sent out during the year to be reviewed three were medical men, viz., Mr. William Benjamin Heywood, B.A., M.B., Emmanuel College, Cambridge, M.R.C.S., L.R.C.P.; Mr. Cecil Lankester, M.R.C.S., L.R.C.P., a brother of Dr. H. Lankester, the Society's physician, and of Dr. A. C. Lankester, of this Mission; and Mr. Horace Allenby Smit, F.R.C.S., L.R.C.P., Edin., formerly a missionary of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in South India. The fourth member of the reinforcement party was the Rev. Douglas Charles William Harrison, Wycliffe College, Oxford, late Captain Harrison in the Indian army, who was admitted to deacon's orders by the Bishop of Exeter in Exeter Cathedral on Trinity Sunday, 1896. These sailed, respectively, in October, November, and December, 1897, and January, 1898, and all of them have been stationed at frontier posts.

Deaths of Mrs. Worthington Jukes,

Two ladies, who have devotedly shared the patient labours of the men at frontier stations, were called to their rest during the year. Mrs. Jukes, wife of the Rev. Worthington Jukes, contracted ill health during five years (1882–87) spent at Peshawar, which obliged her to return home in the latter year. Her husband went out alone in 1889, but her continued weakness compelled him in 1890 to retire. She died at Sudbrooke Rectory, Crediton, on February 25th, 1898.

Miss Irene Eleanora Verita Petrie died on August 6th, 1897, and Miss I. E. V. Petrie.

at Leh, in Kashmiri Tibet, whither she had gone for change and rest. Miss Petrie went to India to join the St. Hilda's Mission, under the Bishop of Lahore, and became an honorary missionary of the C.M.S. in 1894. She was the youngest child of Colonel Martin Petrie, of H.M. 97th Regiment and Topographical Department, War Office, and sister of Mrs. Ashley Carus-Wilson, the wife of Professor Ashley Carus-Wilson, of Montreal University. She possessed exceptional gifts of mind and character. At school her success was of a brilliant order. In the Cambridge Local Examinations she won a double first class, with seven distinctions. In 1887 she was first in all England in the annual examinations of the Church of England Sunday-school Institute; and in 1890 she won the silver medal of the National Health Society: the courses of Scripture and Church History, and of hygiene and nursing, had been undertaken with the object of fitting herself for work abroad when the way should open. She was an accomplished musician, and her artistic skill was no less marked; and these gifts were devoted unsparingly to promoting the great cause which she loved above all others. "Organist at four services on Sunday" is a by no means exceptional entry in the diary of her last week at Srinagar; while the proceeds of her sketches of the Himalayas purchased an organ for St. Luke's Church, consecrated in September, 1896, as the first Christian Church in Kashmir. In a little more than three years she mastered two languages, passing in Urdu at the head of the list in March, 1895, and in Kashmiri in the spring of 1897. She died from typhoid fever, contracted probably in Srinagar, the germs unsuspectingly having been carried with her on the journey to Leh to break out when the destination was only eight miles distant. Dr. A. Neve and three of the C.E.Z.M.S. Peshawar Mission ladies were with her, and the Moravian missionaries at Leh showed every possible care that love and kindness could suggest. One of them, Dr. Graham, read the English funeral service, and another, Mr. Francke, spoke some words and offered prayer in Tibetan, for the sake of the Native Christians who were present, and Miss Petrie's favourite hymns, "For all Thy saints who from their labours rest," and "Peace, perfect peace," were sung. Mrs. C. E. Tyndale-Biscoe, in whose house at Srinagar Miss Petrie lived for the last year and a half of her life, wrote:—

Buried in Tibet by Moravian missionaries.

> Her presence was one continual joy to us, and the longer we knew her the more could we see how her outward life was fed by the inward Power. She was one who had laid all her gifts and talents, which were many, at her Master's feet, and had learnt how to pass on the Love of Christ, not merely by words, but by deeds also.
> She would be the last to wish any one to speak of her wholeheartedness, unless it was for some practical purpose. So let me recall a few facts in her Kashmiri life, so that they may be helpful to others.

1. It is well known how gifted she was in intellect, and what a power she had for retaining what she read, so much so that she was to us as an ever-ready book of reference. Remember her powers, and now look at her work.

She has for some time been giving a Kashmiri girl lessons in reading, and has at last succeeded in teaching her the first page of the Urdu Primer; the lessons are interrupted for a short time, and when she returns the girl has forgotten everything, and all has to be begun over again. And again, time after time, she would visit at the same house and repeat the same Gospel message without seemingly making any impression. But bravely she would plod on, until a gleam of intelligence would dawn on the dull faces of the listeners. She would often come in, after a long and weary day's teaching amongst such people, tired out and depressed, but in a very short time would be her cheery self again, once more ready to go bravely on, and to struggle with a dulness resulting from generations of mental undevelopment. One can understand a person of less ability having some sympathy with such dulness, but for one so highly cultured as Irene, her patience and sympathy were indeed wonderful.

2. The ladies' work in Srinagar is increased by the indescribable filth of the city. Most of the streets possess no drains, and the courtyards are very cesspools, so that the ladies have oftentimes to be carried on the backs of their servants down the courts in order to reach the houses, the filth being above their boots. Think of the refinement and comfort to which Irene had been accustomed, and then carry your thoughts to the scene of her labours. Kashmir, for tourists, may be one of the most beautiful places in the world; but workers in its cities and villages can tell another tale.

Her patience and energy.

3. There are people full of energy and activity who are tempted to look down upon the work of others who are not able to do as much as themselves; but not so Irene. She was always advocating rest for others, and making out that every one worked far harder than she did, and could speak the language far better than she could. Her wonderful energy of mind seemed to triumph over physical weakness; she never seemed to know when she was tired or needed rest, and we have even known her start out to her work with a temperature over 100 deg., so that we have had to give positive orders to her boatmen not to take her to the city. She did not intend to be deliberately rash, but her energy and spirit were so great that she would not believe she was unfit for work. Considering her indomitable energy, it was marvellous to see her sympathy for the unenergetic; she had all sorts of excuses ready for other people who were unable to do as much as she did.

Death of Mrs. Broadbent.

Another death, though not of a missionary, may be alluded to, as it leaves a blank which C.M.S. and C.E.Z.M.S. circles in the Punjab will long lament, namely, that of Mrs. Broadbent, wife of Colonel J. E. Broadbent, R.E. (a member of the Punjab and Sindh Corresponding Committee), and mother of Mrs. C. E. Barton, of this Mission.

The Corresponding Committee.

The Corresponding Committee, which administers this Mission under the authority of the Parent Committee, consists of the following members:—The Bishop of Lahore, Col. J. E. Broadbent, R.E., Mr. C. F. Elliott, Mr. W. B. Harington, Mr. J. Harvey, Dr. H. Hendley, Col. J. B. Hutchinson, Col. W. W. Marriott Smith, R.A., Col. J. A. L. Montgomery, Col. George Marshall, R.E., Mr. J. Sime, Rev. W. Thwaites, Rev. H. U. Weitbrecht, Ph.D.

To the Committee's regret it became necessary at the close of 1897 for the Rev. Robert Clark, acting under medical advice, to resign the office of Secretary of the Corresponding Committee, which he had held since that Committee was formed on the creation of the Diocese of Lahore in 1877, when this Mission was separated from the "North India Mission," which has since been subdivided into "Bengal" and "North-West Provinces" Missions. The Committee have very warmly appreciated Mr. Clark's able and faithful services, and they earnestly pray that God's blessing may continue to rest upon him and his work during the time he may yet be spared to labour for Christ in the Punjab. His time of service already extends to forty-six years, for he went out first in 1851, two years after the annexation of the Punjab. The Rev. H. G. Grey has been appointed to succeed Mr. Clark, and it has been arranged that he shall reside at Lahore, which is the seat of Government, and on that account more convenient for the bulk of the members of the Corresponding Committee.

Retirement of Rev. Robert Clark from the Secretaryship.

The Bishop of Lahore admitted Mr. Talib Masih to deacon's orders and the Rev. Ali Bakhsh to priest's orders on December 19th, 1897, at Lahore Cathedral. The Rev. Dr. H. U. Weitbrecht preached the Ordination Sermon.

On the invitation of the Bishop of Lahore and of the Punjab and Sindh Corresponding Committee, the Rev. S. A. Selwyn, Vicar of St. John's, Boscombe, visited the Punjab to conduct Special Mission Services in the winter of 1897–8. Mr. Selwyn sailed from Marseilles on October 7th; from October 26th to November 1st he held a Mission at Karachi; on November 2nd to 4th he was at Sukkur, 5th to 9th at Multan, 9th to 17th at Amritsar, 20th to 25th at Peshawar, 27th to December 1st at Clarkabad, December 2nd to 12th at Lahore, 13th to 27th at Amritsar, 28th to 30th at Bahrwal Atari, December 31st to January 3rd at Ajnala, January 5th to 8th at Narowal, 8th to 10th at Batala, 10th to 14th at Tarn Taran, and 15th to 17th at Amritsar. The missionaries were deeply grateful to him for the help his visit afforded, and to his flock at Boscombe for not only sparing him, but providing him with the means to visit India. One of them wrote, "His visit to us was a truly blessed time, and afforded us a feast of fat things," and he is not likely to be forgotten by any who had the pleasure of meeting him and of hearing his faithful Gospel addresses, whether to the English missionaries, the Indian Christians, or the non-Christians. No work is second in importance, with a view to the speedy evangelization of India, to that of stirring up the Native Christian congregations to perceive their Gospel privileges and responsibilities.

Visit of the Rev. S. A. Selwyn to the Punjab

The Annual Meeting of the Punjab Native Church Council

in 1897 was held at Amritsar from April 22nd to 24th. The Rev. Fath Masih preached the sermon, and discussions were held on the following among other subjects: "How to improve the Church Council," "The pay of Indian clergy," "Do the existing schools for the education of Indian Christians supply all our needs?" A brass tablet was unveiled in the church in the course of the Council meeting to the memory of Rallid Ram, Pleader, who had been for sixteen years the Honorary Secretary of the Council.

Revision of Gurmukhi New Testament.

The Rev. E. Guilford, in co-operation with the Rev. E. J. Newton and Dr. C. Newton, of the American Presbyterian Mission, has completed, after over seven years' of labour during spare hours, the revision of the Gurmukhi New Testament. A writer in the Lahore Civil and Military Gazette observed that the book would be greatly appreciated by all Sikhs "who may be wishful to know and find out for themselves what the teaching and the claims are of the great 'Nihkalank Sat Avtar,' i.e. 'the Spotless and True Incarnation,' the fuller revelation of which the English people have brought to India, and of whom their ninth guru prophesied to them, when he pointed southwards and said, 'Look! years hence, people wearing topis will come from thence, and they will teach you who the true Nihkalank,' i.e. 'Sinless One,' 'is, and how you are to obey Him.'"

I. PUNJAB.

Miss A. F. Wright came home in June, 1897, the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. H. U. Weitbrecht in March, 1898, the Rev. A. E. Day and the Rev. and Mrs. E. Guilford in April, and the Rev. and Mrs. F. Lawrence, and the Rev. R. H. W. Welchman in May; while the Rev. and Mrs. T. R. Wade, the Rev. E. F. E. Wigram, and the Rev. T. E. Coverdale, returned to the Mission in October, 1897. The Rev. A. H. Storrs was married at Multan, on December 3rd, 1897, to Miss Olga May Hulbert; the Rev. C. M. Gough was married, on February 3rd, 1898, to Miss Lizzie M. Middleton, a missionary of the C.E.Z.M.S., who went out in 1893; and Mr. E. Rhodes was married to Miss C. E. Ware, in November, 1897.

LAHORE AND CLARKABAD.

Lahore.

The Society's work in Lahore, the old Mohammedan and Sikh capital, and still the seat of Government, is comparatively small, the American Presbyterian Mission, at whose invitation, in 1850, to join them in the "new subjugation of the land by the Sword of the Spirit" the Society first entered the Punjab, having a strong Mission in the city. The Divinity School and Hostel were under the temporary headship of the Rev. R. H. W. Welchman, assisted by the Rev. E. A. Causton, during the absence of the Principal, the Rev. E. F. E. Wigram. No report has been received, except from the Rev. Ali Bakhsh, who lectured on five subjects, including Moule's "Outlines of Christian Doctrine." The Rev. S. A. Selwyn, on his visit in December, found two of his former Curates on the little staff of missionaries, Mr. Wigram and Mr. Causton. Special Services were held in the Divinity School Chapel, where European and Indian Christians listened to addresses on the Christian Life; at the Mission Church, where evangelistic services were held for non-Christians, the Rev. Ihsan Ullah, of Narowal, helping Mr. Selwyn; and at the Y.M.C.A. Hall, where native students at the Lahore University were addressed by Mr. Selwyn in English. An "At Home" at the Divinity School was attended by the Bishop and Mrs. Matthew, and some forty or more of the leading Indian and European Christians in Lahore.

Clarkabad

At CLARKABAD, Mr. H. B. Claxton is in charge of the Boys' Orphanage, Miss Edgley, of the C.E.Z.M.S., is in charge of the Girls' Orphanage, and the Misses M. E. and M. J. Farthing labour among the 200 Christian women and the girls in the settlement, holding Bible-classes, confirmation-classes, &c. The Rev. S. A. Selwyn held a three days' Mission in December, in which he was interpreted by Dr. Weitbrecht. He wrote:—

Native music!

One of the features of our six mission services here was the "bhajan" (pronounced "budgeon") or native music. Only about a tenth part of the men and women could read. They had come from different parts of the Punjab, after they had professed Christianity by baptism, and had settled down either as landowners or workers, but they had no chance of learning, so that a hymn could only be sung by the few. Consequently these simple choruses had been learnt, and sung to four native instruments. Don't ask me to explain how they were played or what was the musical result! Tears rolled down my cheeks at first, and I would gladly have run out into the vestry, but one soon got used to it! We had splendid numbers at each service—varying between 250 and 500. On Sunday morning there were over 100 communicants. Another feature of this Mission has been that this is the first church that I have served in where the congregation squat on the floor.

Medical itinerations.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Venables Greene (now at home), of Kashmir, spent four months of the year under review itinerating in the Chunian Tehsil, lying between the Ravi and Sutlej rivers, and extending some fifty by twenty miles. Mr. Greene performed many ophthalmic operations, and Mrs. Greene proclaimed the Gospel to men and women alike, with many encouragements. In one place their tents were pitched by request in the garden of a Mohammedan Zaildar, a man of good family, who listened willingly to the Word, and whose wives sent frequently for Mrs. Greene to go and teach them. Lantern pictures were shown on one occasion in his zenana. The Rev. T. Howell attended at this place to conduct a discussion with the mullahs, the two Sirdars, one a Mohammedan and the other a Sikh, being the judges. The mullahs withdrew ashamed from the contest, and the Sikh Sirdar declared that from that day he should cease to respect the Mohammedan religion. At another place a low caste man of some property was greatly struck with the fact that "Christians attend to the sick low caste, and all with their own hands." For forty days, their bread being exhausted, Mr. and Mrs. Greene were obliged to substitute brown unleavened wafers. At one place where they remained a month, the Sirdars placed three rooms in the yard of their Sikh temple for use as dispensary and hospital, and when they left, they lent waggons and oxen, and riding horses, and one of them accompanied them for six miles.

"Christians attend with their own hands to the sick low caste.

AMRITSAR.

Amritsar.

Mr. Selwyn paid two visits to AMRITSAR in November and December, 1897. "Beautiful Amritsar," he calls it. On the former occasion he held three "Quiet Days" for C.M.S. and C.E.Z.M.S. workers and a few others just before the meetings of the C.M.S. Missionary Conference began, and on the latter he conducted a Mission to the Native Congregation, his addresses being interpreted by Dr. H. Martyn Clark. Mr. Selwyn wrote to his Boscombe parishioners:—

> It was certainly a splendid opportunity. Old and young, clever and stupid, men and women from Amritsar and from some of the villages around, people of various castes, some who had been Mohammedans, some who had been Sikhs, and some who had been Hindus, now gathered around the Cross of Christ! Yes, and we sang (Miss Hewlett leading most helpfully on the American organ) the old hymns, only in a different language, to the same dear tunes as at home. And very hearty, too, the singing and responding were. One of our favourite hymns was, "Lord, I hear of showers of blessing" (56 in Sankey's book); we sang it to the same tune.

Christmas Day services.

> You will like to know how Christmas Day was spent. I will tell you. The morning began (i.e. to me) at 7 o'clock, when a terrific noise from brass (and perhaps reed) instruments awoke me! Then there came some Alexandra girls, who sang a Christmas carol, I think, in Hindustani, and then followed Mrs. Grime's girls, who sang one of our Christmas hymns in English. At church I preached to a large and happy congregation. It was a stirring sight. The church was full. I should guess that there were about 400 present. We sang the same hymns that you sang at home, to the same tunes, only in a different tongue. Another matter that could not fail to stir our hearts was this. There were serving at the Lord's Table two men who in many ways are notable. There was at the north end one of the pioneers and founders of the Punjab Mission, the Rev. R. Clark. Wonderfully has the Lord preserved him, and has used him, too, in building up this Punjab Mission, with its many churches, schools, and hospitals, and its thousands of Christians, some of whom are themselves missionaries. How full of joy and gratitude to God must his heart have been to see the fruits of his faithful labours, and those, too, who have worked so well with him! Then there was at the other end of the Holy Table an Indian clergyman—the Rev. Imad-ud-din, once a noted Mohammedan, now a Christian minister of many years' experience, to whom the late Archbishop of Canterbury gave the degree of Doctor of Divinity for his literary attainments.

Missionary Institutions.

Mr. Selwyn visited all the missionary institutions and addressed their inmates—the Alexandra Girls' School, under Miss Saw (of the C.E.Z.M.S.) and Miss Wright; the Middle School for Girls, under Mrs. Grime and Miss Nevill; the Boys' High School, under the Rev. A. C. Clarke; the various Primary Girls' Schools, under Miss Wauton, of the C.E.Z.M.S.; the St. Catherine's Hospital, under Miss Hewlett, of the C.E.Z.M.S.—"a splendid institution, with its work among the blind, its dispensary, its hospital, and its valuable training school for Indian lady doctors and nurses"; the widows' class and industrial work, under Miss Jackson, of the C.E.Z.M.S.; and the Medical Mission, under Dr. H. M. Clark.

High Schools.

The Boys' High School, under the Rev. A. C. Clarke (during the Rev. D. J. McKenzie's absence on furlough), passed eight in the Lahore University Entrance out of ten who entered. The boys showed an interest ("more or less") in the religious teaching, and one of the former pupils was baptized at another station during the year. An Old Boys' Club was formed. At the Alexandra High School for Girls, a C.M.S. institution under the Principalship of a C.E.Z.M.S. missionary, Miss F. M. Saw, good examination results were obtained, fifty-four passing out of sixty-eight presented for all the tests. In the Upper Primary, in December, all the six candidates presented passed. One of the girls won the third prize in the Lake Memorial Scripture Senior Examination for Christians, and five others passed the same Examination in the Senior and four the Junior Division. Still more satisfactory is Miss Saw's testimony to the fact that the private and voluntary study of God's Word increases. Three former pupils were engaged as teachers in the school, and two others entered Miss Wauton's Institution to be trained for Mission work. Several of the girls give Scripture lessons in the elementary girls' schools. Three of the girls were confirmed. One of the students in Miss K. Wright's training class passed the junior Anglo-Vernacular Teachers' Examination, and, though the only female candidate, came out at the top of the list of so-called private students, and even outstripped many who had been trained at the Central Training College, Lahore. Several girls also passed the Middle Examination. Dr. H. Martyn Clark, who has charge of the extensive Medical Mission in Amritsar, with its branches at Narowal, Beas, and Sultanwind, suffered from ill-health in the spring. Later in the year a man, who styled himself the "Last of the Prophets," was apprehended and tried before the district magistrate at Batala on a charge of inciting another man to make a murderous assault on Dr. Clark.

Assault on a missionary.

The Boys' High School at Majitha is under the Principal of the Amritsar High School. The rival Arya Somaj School, which was started in 1894, and succeeded for a time in greatly reducing the attendance, was closed in September, 1897, and the Mission School is more prosperous than ever, having 130 pupils. In the Primary Department fifty-three boys passed out of fifty-nine presented, and the Inspectors gave the school excellent reports. The Rev. Q. K. Nehemiah resides at Majitha shepherding the few Christians in that place and at Gosal, instructing some 200 inquirers in the district, and preaching the Gospel to the Heathen. The Rev. W. Mull, of Bahrwal-Atari, reports twelve adult baptisms. The Rev. Mian Sadiq Masih dwells upon his experiences with a number of inquirers in the district around Ajnala, in order, as he says, "that it may be known with what sort of inquiries we often have to do." One, a Hindu faqir, met with at a mêla, learnt gladly for a time, but then gave up, disappointed with a religion that gives no quarter to the lusts of the flesh. Another, who has since been baptized at Lahore, tried to persuade a friend to become a Christian; but failing to satisfy him that he had committed any sin which needed forgiveness, told him to "go and commit some sin that he might receive Christ"! Three adults were baptized.

Strange conceptions of sin and forgiveness.

The C.E.Z.M.S. has thirty-one European ladies, thirteen assistant missionaries, twenty-nine native teachers, and twenty-eight Bible-women engaged in multifarious labours—educational, medical, and evangelistic, in and around Amritsar.

BATALA.

Batala.

The Rev. C. M. Gough, residing at Narowal, was in general charge of the work at BATALA until the close of 1897, when the Rev. T. E. Coverdale returned from furlough in England. The Rev. F. Lawrence, who was appointed to the station, was too unwell to undertake the charge. The Rev. N. C. Das is the pastor of the native congregation, and the Rev. Fath Masih looked after the work in the villages. The number of boarders in the Baring High School at the close of the year was fifty, twelve in the Primary, twenty in the Middle School, and eighteen in the Matriculation classes. About two-thirds of the boys are the sons of upper class Indian Christians and pay full fees. In the Entrance Examination of the Lahore University all the six candidates sent in succeeded, and one of them stood the highest of all the Christian candidates. Nineteen out of twenty-three passed the Junior University Examination, and all the fifteen presented for the Lower School Examination passed. The grant earned exceeded Rs. 1,600, and was the highest ever obtained by the school. The Inspector reported the discipline as excellent, and the physical training, boarding arrangements, and general management creditable. The religious education, in its intellectual aspect, is also attested to be excellent by the fact that out of three senior prizes offered by the Committee of the General Lake Memorial Scripture Prizes, which are open to all scholars, boys and girls, in the Punjab, the first and second were gained by boys of the Baring High School. The third junior prize was also awarded to one of the boys. Formerly the school carried off sometimes the whole sum—Rs. 150—offered in prizes, but the competition is now much more severe. The foundation stone of a permanent chapel for the school was laid by Miss Mason, of the C.E.Z.M.S., on Diamond Jubilee Day, June 22nd, and the old garden of the palace in which the school dormitories stand, some eight acres, was purchased for a cricket ground. The Rev. E. Corfield, the Principal of the school, wishes it to be "borne in mind that the money spent in such things does not come from Salisbury Square!" At the kind invitation of the Bishop the boys spent an enjoyable day at Lahore in March, 1897, and were addressed from the Cathedral pulpit by a former pupil of the school, the Rev. S. C. Ghose, B.A., of the Cambridge Delhi Mission. The Rev. Ihsan Ullah is another "old boy"; another is a revenue officer, of whom the people of the district say, "that his life is more powerful for good than years of preaching"; and yet another is the doctor in charge of the Batala Government Hospital, Dr. Inayat Ullah Nasir, who is the honorary medical adviser of the school. This gentleman opened a Bible class during the year, taking as his subject "the life of our Blessed Saviour." His brother is the headmaster of the Mission School at Fathgarh. The Rev. Fath Masih mentions that Divan Nand Lall Sahib, the chief citizen of Fathgarh, has offered a prize of five rupees to the best boys in the several classes. He refers also to one of the village Christians, whose faith during the time of scarcity was much tried :— Former pupils.

Baring High School.

"Out of weakness made strong."

There was a Christian sweeper who asked the Mohammedans to give him some work. They were willing to give him if he would only deny Christ. He denied Christ and began to work. In the evening his landlord gave him some food, which he brought home to his wife. His wife was greatly astonished to see it, and asked her husband where did he get it from. He told her that by denying Christ he obtained it. On hearing it, his wife was very much displeased, and made her husband give back the food to the Mohammedan landlord, and confirmed his faith by advising him to suffer hunger rather than to deny Christ. So he went back to the Mohammedans, and there he boldly confessed his weakness of faith, and told them that he loved Christ, and became His true follower; and they left that village and lived in another. I am extremely sorry that I could not help them when they were in these troubles.

NAROWAL.

The Rev. R. Bateman left NAROWAL to come home on March 8th, 1897. On March 4th a farewell meeting was held over which Dr. H. Martyn Clark presided. The Punjab Mission News, in the course of an account of the meeting, remarked :— Narowal.

An impressive leave-taking.

It was indeed a memorable and touching sight to see our veteran missionary, to take leave of whom we had assembled, surrounded by the fruits of his work, his "crown of rejoicing" in the Lord: to think of the day, some twenty-eight years ago, when he had "put his hand to the plough" in a district where there were then but half a dozen Christians, and of all the intervening years of service for the Master, which have so surely won their reward in the increase of that half-dozen into some fifteen hundred believers, and in the existence of a living and growing Church. No one could be present on such an occasion to see the bright Christian faces or hear the words and prayers which ascended from full hearts—no one could look around him and see the results of that one faithful life—the manifestation of the spiritual temple of God and the material building, raised by his hands and labour—but must have felt stirred in his heart to gratitude to God and to a desire to follow in his steps.

In a postscript to the printed report of the Missions for 1896–97 Mr. Bateman wrote while in England :—

"The Christians know more, do more, and are more."

As to the fabric of our big church, I despair, without artistic illustration, of representing it at all adequately. . . . To put it briefly, my mind recalls a holy and beautiful house wherein over 2,000 Christians could easily gather. As to the "lively stones" which compose the Church in its higher sense, I can thankfully say that I have never had so much evidence of the deepening and widening of Christianity as last year afforded. By "deepening," I mean that the Christians know more, do more, and are more than was the case a year ago. By "widening," I do not merely mean that grace is taking hold of a larger number of professed Christians, so that in the teachers and the taught, among old and young, the high and the low, this happy evidence may be traced ; but I mean, further, that the acknowledgment of the truth is seen in a continually growing proportion of the population. Writing, as I am, away from my books, I cannot give exact figures, but I know that during the last twelve months I was in Narowal there were roughly 200 baptisms from fifty villages. About half of these were infants. I know, too, that upon our list of catechumens there are over 250 names of men and women who have already earned a right to be placed there by some earnestness in application and diligence in learning. There has been a great improvement among the Christian women in the villages. Miss Catchpool, whose loss we are deploring, spared no pains in bringing home to them the duties and privileges to which their new faith introduced them. And the revival services held by the Rev. Ihsan Ullah in numerous centres were unmistakably means of grace. It is not therefore a time when it was at all easy to leave Narowal. There are bereavements and oppositions crowded in with gains and encouragements, which made it difficult to turn one's back upon the scene of them. It is delightful, however, to know that the work is the Lord's, and that He has provided and prepared His servants to carry it on.

About one thousand men and women gathered in the court-yard of the church to hear Mr. Selwyn in January, 1898. The Rev. C. M. Gough, as stated in last year's Annual Report, succeeded Mr. Bateman, and had the assistance of the Rev. H. F. Rowlands and of Miss Middleton (now Mrs. Gough), and Miss Reuther, of the C.E.Z.M.S. The Mission School at Narowal suffered numerically through the opening of a school by the members of the Arya Somaj. The Christian Boarding School flourishes. The hospital had 38 in-patients, and 8,537 out-patients, who paid 14,647 visits. Out of 240 villages in the district, 106 have Christians living in them.

TARN TARAN.

Tarn Taran.

The Rev. E. Guilford (now at home) gives a cheering report of the congregation at TARN TARAN. One or two members caused sorrow, but the majority showed signs of spiritual growth, and especially of growth in liberality. Their promised gifts to support an "own missionary," as a Three Years' Enterprise effort, were cheerfully made, and that without in any way diminishing their usual weekly offerings; indeed, the amount of these latter was larger than ever before. Their self-denial during Lent enabled Mr. Guilford to send over Rs. 66 to Dr. Barnardo towards the support of the Armenian orphans in his institution. Mr. Guilford opened a new Reading and Lecture room during the year. This room is supplied with English and vernacular newspapers, and is frequented by the chief men of the town and by the boys in the Government School. The boys in the village day schools are instructed in a catechism compiled by Mr. Bateman, and Mr. Guilford found that many of them knew the book by heart, from beginning to end. Six adults were baptized, but Mr. Guilford is convinced that large numbers in the district believe that Christ alone can save them, but have not yet the courage to confess Him in baptism. He finds, too, an almost universal expectation, among both Mohammedans and Hindus, of the "Coming of One who shall put an end to the present state of things, and establish a reign of universal peace and righteousness." During the Mission services conducted by Mr. Selywn in January, 1898, the native magistrate and over thirty of the English speaking members of the Municipal Council attended, and they invited Mr. Selywn to have a special service in English in the Municipal Hall for themselves. He wrote:—

Contributions towards support of Armenian Orphans.

Expectation of a coming king.

> Of course I assented. The hall was filled. Mr. and Mrs. Guilford, Miss Parslee, of Jandiala, and myself were the only Christians present. Can you imagine our feelings as we sang, we four alone, to that audience of non-Christian men, these three hymns—"Sing them over again to me, wonderful words of life"; "One there is above all others, oh! how He loves!" and closing with the sweet hymn, "Jesu, Lover of my soul, let me to Thy bosom fly"? Never before had I sung these words under more pathetic circumstances. And then came the address. It was almost too much. The responsibility of pleading the blessed Master's cause seemed almost more than one could bear. But He stood by and strengthened. Oh, what a solemn time it was! Here were a number of Indian gentlemen who had themselves invited us to hold this meeting, having twice heard the Word preached just before, so that they must have known beforehand something of what they would listen to. Was not this an "open door"?

A special service in the Municipal Hall, by invitation of the Council.

On the occasion of the Diamond Jubilee the loyalty to the Queen-Empress and the kindly feeling towards Mr. Guilford were manifested by the inhabitants of Tarn Taran, the "Home of the Sikhs," in a remarkable way. Mrs. Guilford wrote:—

> First might be mentioned that, although Mr. Guilford has been for some years President of the Municipal Committee of the town, yet in the matter of how to honour the Queen he was not consulted at all. The whole thing was planned out by the people themselves without European advice or assistance of any kind; and they showed an amount of loyalty and generosity which we were quite unprepared for. First they voted among themselves the large sum of Rs. 2,000—large for the size of the place and the famine year. Part of this they spent in building a splendid tank at the entrance of the town, to be called the Diamond Jubilee Tank. When all was planned, and magnificent programmes in green and gold had been pasted all round the town, Mr. Guilford was requested to represent the Queen in their midst throughout the whole of the celebrations.

Missionary invited to represent the Queen.

And now I will proceed to a detailed account of all that took place.

Service in Mission Church.

On Sunday, the 20th, for which a special service had been prepared in the vernacular by the Bishop of Lahore, and printed sheets of the National Anthem also, the people of the town were invited to come to the C.M.S. church and to join us on that day in worship. To our surprise and joy they came in numbers, and the church was quite full on the men's side. They joined us lustily in singing "God save the Queen," both at the beginning and end of the service, as well as saying "Amen" at the end of the prayers. A very appropriate sermon was then preached, suitable to all, on 1 Tim. ii. 1-3, concluding with a few striking stories of the Queen's life, as well as recounting some of the blessings of her reign—one which they seemed specially to appreciate being that Mohammedan could not molest Hindu, nor Sikh attack Mohammedan, but that all could live and let live, and that out of this universal peace a way had thus been made for God's servants to come and live among the people of all lands, and God's truth and message of grace and salvation to be proclaimed everywhere, and that any who will may accept freely now.

On the 22nd, Mr. Phelin, the Superintendent of Canals in these parts, joined us at early breakfast at 6 a.m., and spent the day with us, assisting Mr. Guilford very kindly through the rest of his duties. At 6.30 a.m. a grand procession of some hundreds of people was formed, with flags and banners, including all the schools, and Mr. Guilford, Mr. Phelin, and the Tehsildar at the head, accompanied by a splendid old Sikh in full uniform, a former A.D.C. to the Viceroy. They then marched all through the town to the martial strains of two native bands, returning by the Mission compounds, through both of which the whole procession marched, stopping to present arms where we all stood. This somewhat alarmed our Bibis, who were quite unprepared for so many bayonets pointed at them. They finally drew up at the Diamond Jubilee Tank, and here Mr. Guilford performed a little religious ceremony, offering some appropriate prayers, and all the people said "Amen." It was a most interesting sight, the Christian missionary thus unanimously placed by the people themselves in the place of their priest, and he surrounded by hundreds of Hindus, Mohammedans, and Sikhs, praying for them and for the Queen, and they adopting our Christian way of response to prayer by all saying "Amen." Sweets were then again distributed to all the boys' and girls' schools, and another feast given to the chiefs of the district, as well as one to the poor.

"All the people said Amen.'"

Later in the day there was a display of acrobatic feats, and in the evening all the town and Mission compounds were illuminated, and the whole was concluded by a grand display of fireworks on the camping-ground, to which we all went.

The C.E.Z.M.S. has two European ladies and two assistant missionaries, with four native teachers and four Bible-women, stationed at Tarn Taran.

MULTAN.

Multan.

The Revs. C. E. Barton and W. F. Cobb were in charge of the work at MULTAN throughout the year under review. The head catechist, Talib Masih, the first convert of this station whom Bishop French baptized in 1870, was admitted to deacon's orders, as already mentioned, on December 21st. The missionaries ask for prayer on his behalf that his ministry over the little Congregation of some forty baptized Christians and his evangelistic labours may be richly blessed. The High School has changed its head-master, Mr. Khem Chand, B.A., having accepted a Government post and been succeeded by Mr. T. C. Mukerjee.

Much encouragement was given to the workers by the sympathy and interest of the Rev. R. A. Storrs, the Chaplain. He invited the Native Christians to the Cantonment Church on the first Sunday of 1898 to meet with the European residents around the Lord's Table, an invitation which they readily accepted. Mr. Storr's Bible-class, and also the English soldier members of the "Guild of the Holy Standard," twice invited their Indian Christian brethren to tea, and on Good Friday, 1897, a sergeant of the Hampshire Regiment preached to Hindus and Mohammedans from the steps of the Church, his address being interpreted by one of the Native Christians. Mr. Selwyn, during the four days' Mission which he conducted in Multan in December, had the great pleasure (being himself a Hampshire Incumbent) of preaching to some 500 officers and men of the Hampshire Regiment. Evangelistic preaching was carried on all the year round on four evenings a week, the place being changed day by day; sometimes at the bookshop in the principal street, at other times at one of the six city gates, at others from the church steps, and at others again in the Cantonment bazaar. Among inquirers was a Mohammedan youth, a pupil in the Multan Board School, who for months visited Mr. Barton regularly to read the Bible, and had to bear much persecution in consequence, being openly rebuked by the Hindu headmaster. The only adult baptized relapsed to Mohammedanism, under severe temptation, though Mr. Barton is very hopeful that he will repent and return to the fold.

Soldiers of Hampshire Regiment and Native Christians

In the district, which is about the size of Ireland, the people are generally attentive and willing listeners when the Gospel is preached to them. Their attitude is not so much one of active opposition as of indifference and worldliness. Mr. and Mrs. Barton, and Miss Wadsworth (of the Female Education Society), made a tour in the winter of 1896–97 in the Mozaffargarh District, travelling some 150 miles, and visiting fifteen large villages and some smaller ones, staying two or three days at each. Large crowds, as in former years, assembled in the evenings to see lantern slides illustrating the lives of Abraham or Joseph, or the parable of the Prodigal Son, or the life of Christ. At Jatoi, Miss Wadsworth addressed by invitation some 200 women on the life of Christ in the houses of two of the leading Mohammedans of the place. Dr. Summerhayes, of Dera Ghazi Khan, joined the party here and attended to some hundreds of patients. The people were very eager to have a dispensary opened at their village, and promised Rs. 300 towards the cost of building one.

DERA GHAZI KHAN.

Dera Ghazi Khan.

Dr. and Mrs. A. Jukes returned to DERA GHAZI KHAN after furlough in January, 1897, and received a warm welcome from their fellow labourers, the Rev. A. E. Day and Dr. J. O. Summerhayes. Dr. Jukes refers to, as apparently hopeful inquirers, two compounders in the hospital—Hindus, and three compounders were baptized. On the other hand, there were some painful disappointments. One of the leaders of the Sunnis professed himself an inquirer, but disappeared before the day fixed for his baptism. A young Hindu and a Mohammedan youth, who were baptized and suffered persecution, after awhile recanted. A Pathan from Yusufzai who was baptized went away, but whether he abjured Christianity there was no evidence. The Rev. A. E. Day came home in April, 1898.

DERA ISMAIL KHAN, BANNU, AND TANK.

Dera Ismail Khan.

Upon the Rev. H. J. Hoare leaving for furlough in April, 1897, the charge of the work at DERA ISMAIL KHAN fell upon the Rev. C. D. Fothergill, who had reached India for the first time six months before. The Rev. Mulaim-ud-din is the pastor of the Native Congregation, whose attendance at the Sunday services, Mr. Fothergill says, is usually very good, and the singing and responses are heartily rendered. One man was baptized. Mr. Fothergill's special charge is the High School, with over 300 boys, of whom sixty-one are boarders. The school maintained its good reputation in the Government Examinations; twenty-four passed the Middle School Examination out of twenty-nine who entered, and twenty-seven passed the Lahore University Entrance out of thirty-six sent up, one gaining the ninth place out of 1,816 examinees. The answers of some of the boys to questions by Mr. Fothergill on "Remission of Sins," "Repentance," "Purpose of Christ's Birth, Death, and Resurrection," were most encouraging, and several boys were removed from the school by their friends on the ground that "they were getting to know too much of Christianity." Frequent opportunities for personal talks with the boarders occur, especially on Sundays, when they all visit the Mission compound. The boys are drawn from villages and cities extending over an area of 8,000 square miles. One of the boys (20 years of age) who passed the Middle School Examination, was a Waziri, the first of his race to perform this feat. He is regarded as a "walking encyclopædia" by his people. He is reading for the Entrance. On prize day Nawab Allah Dar Khan, the direct descendant of Ismail Khan, the founder of the city centuries ago, gave away the prizes for Bible knowledge at his own request. Every Nawab, reis, and pleader, and every Mohammedan and Hindu of any influence or position in the neighbourhood was present, a throng of some 1,500 persons, all most orderly and good-humoured. Mr. Fothergill says of this occasion:—

Native officials at a school prize-giving.

A native military band was in attendance; and at 3.30, the Nawab, accompanied by the Principal, came upon the field. His entry was the signal for a round of applause. The programme, which included, besides prize distribution, sundry exhibitions of drill and gymnastics by High and Middle departments, a tug-of-war, in which twelve boarders beat twelve of their city schoolfellows, and speeches by the Nawab (a Mohammedan) and the Gosain (chief Hindu priest), was closed by ringing cheers for the Queen and others. The impression produced in the city, I have since been constantly told, is one of great pleasure and satisfaction that we should have invited the native element to take a prominent part in the proceedings. Without doubt this must disarm prejudice and place the Mission on friendly terms with those whom we wish to influence. I must not forget to say that part of our audience consisted of some fifteen Waziri chiefs, who are now held as hostages by Government in our station. Prior to the prize-day they had joined with our boys in a tug-of-war with evident enjoyment.

Bannu.

There is no ordained missionary or native clergyman stationed at BANNU. The two medical missionaries, Dr. T. L. Pennell and Dr. W. F. Adams, conducted the Church services, Bible-classes, and preaching to the hospital patients and in the bazaars. There were two adult baptisms, both of women, the wife of a low caste convert, and the wife of Syed Bedshah, the village schoolmaster mentioned in last year's Report (page 233), who was baptized by the Rev. H. J. Hoare in the spring of 1897. This man on May 5th, a few weeks after his baptism, was shot fatally, and that by another convert, in revenge. Such crimes are frequent among the Bannuchis, but it was a source of great grief that one who bore the Christian name should be guilty of such an act. The murderer was sentenced to only seven years imprisonment. The frontier war prevented itineration among the tribes. Just before the Afridi outbreak, Dr. Pennell was on a tour in the Samana Range, not far from their country. He wrote:—

On the Samana Range before the Afridi outbreak.

Last month I was encamped on the Samana, and at Hangu, now the headquarters of one of the Tirah columns, and both here and at other villages near the frontier I had many arguments with mullahs and others, who, in fact, were often so eager for discussion as to leave very little time for medical work. It was certainly remarkable to find, even in the most out-of-the-way villages, the interest, sometimes almost approaching to excitement, of the latest news of the war of Rúm (Turkey), the items of which were gathered up and garnished and passed on again with improvements, all of course to the greater glory of Rúm, by the talibs, who acted as the medium of spreading it from village to village. Even the unread villagers and ploughmen would seek to catechize me on the relative resources, powers, prestige, &c., of Rúm and the Christian Powers, all of which, they seemed to think, might reasonably be thrown into the balance against Rúm and yet leave the Sultan-i-Rúm power to carry through a succcessful jihad with the aid of the Mohammedans of other countries who looked up to him as the war-leader of Islam. My representation of the facts was usually met by an incredulous or cynical smile, as much as to say, "You don't think we'll swallow that"; and I also noticed that where usually I was known and greeted as the Padre Sahib, I was now spoken of, despite my native dress, as "one of those Feringhees." In argument with one mullah, who had even had the advantage of some part of his education in a Mission School, he gave his deliberate opinion that were they free agents it would be the duty of the Mohammedans to take my life as an enemy of Islam; and though I do not think many of his hearers shared his view, yet he followed up his argument by showing that Islam had won its glory by being a "Zor ka din" (religion of force), and that it would only regain its old glory by means of Zor. By the way, their teaching in the matter of jihad was rather of a contradictory character, for while they laid down the rule that a reasonable hope of success was a sine quâ non to a true jihad, and that, therefore, to fight against the 'Sircar' would not be a jihad, yet they believed that the Waziris and Swatis who had lost their lives before the British arms were as sure of paradise as if they had been fighting in a jihad organized by the Sultan-i-Rúm himself. In this way tribes who do not wish to risk their lives in an unpromising cause find an honourable and orthodox excuse for not joining, while those who do engage believe they gain all the future bliss merited by having done so. Still even the zeal of the talibs, in relating all the noble deeds of the armies of Rúm and the pleasures of paradise, with embellishments of their own, would probably have been unable to excite the people, were it not for local irritation and for exaggerated accounts of the successes of the Mohammedan tribes on other parts of the frontier.

Scares of night attacks.

When, in the middle of June, 1897, the news of the Waziri treachery in the Tochi Valley, some forty miles from Bannu, reached the station, great excitement prevailed, and there were frequent scares of night attacks from the Waziris. Colonel Bunny, who with his fellow officers and men were the unfortunate victims of the outbreak, was well known to the missionaries and had shown friendliness to the work from time to time. Dr. Heywood, one of the year's reinforcements, was assigned to Bannu, and Dr. Adams was transferred temporarily to Kashmir.

The medical work at Tank, which is in the Waziri country, was placed under Drs. Pennell and Adams, and the latter visited it several times, a Native Christian qualified hospital assistant, Samuel Singh, being placed in residence. The people were friendly and attentive to the preaching whenever Dr. Adams went to Tank. The late Rev. Dr. J. Williams' memory is much respected, and were not his grave in the Mission garden, and therefore not very accessible, Dr. Adams believes it would be made a ziarat, or saint's shrine.

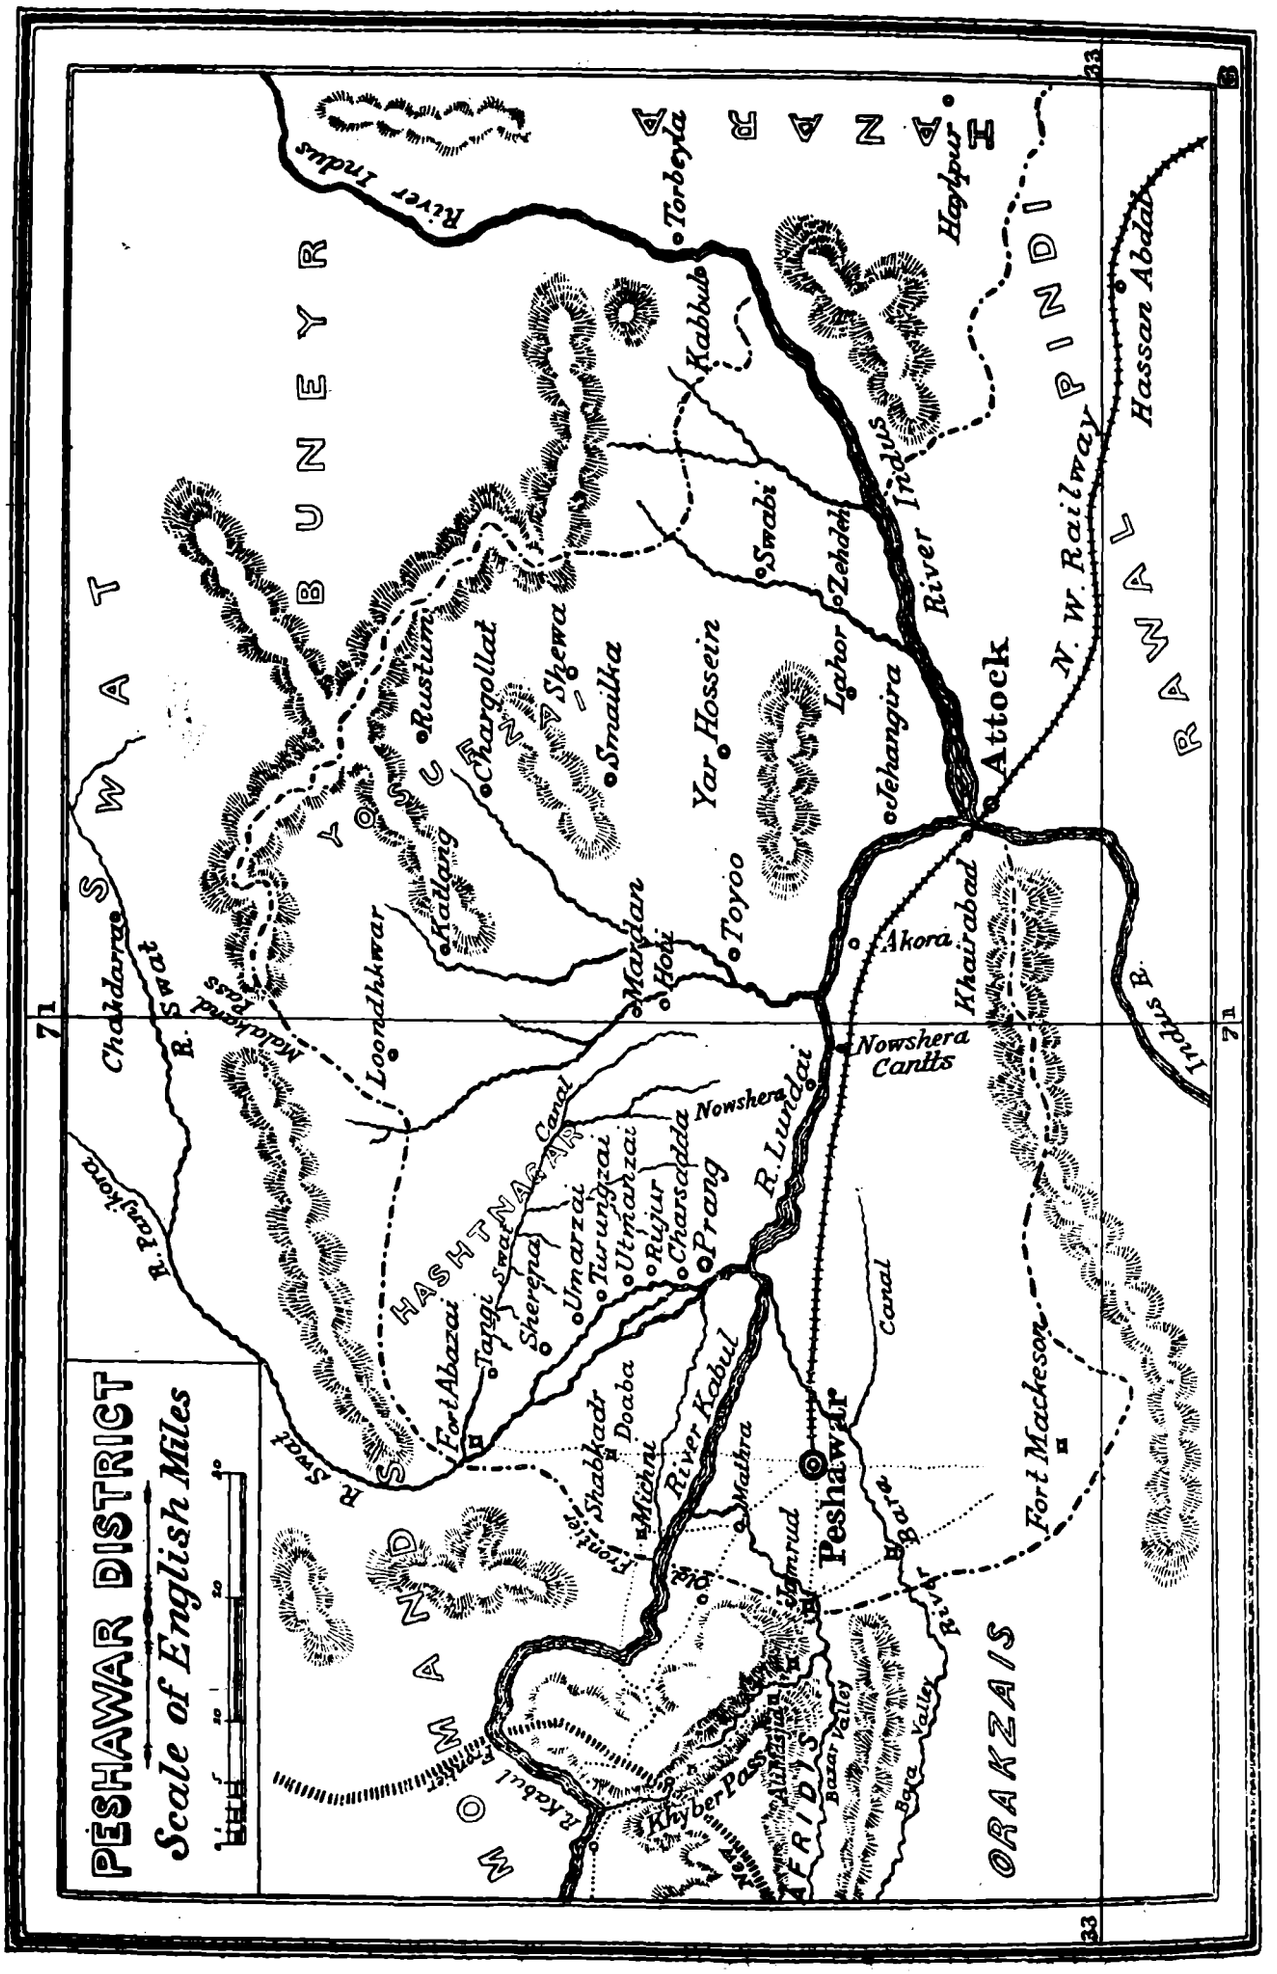
A medical missionary's grave in danger of being treated as a shrine.

PESHAWAR.

Peshawar.

The European staff at PESHAWAR during the year were the Rev. W. Thwaites, in general charge, and more particularly responsible for the Edwardes High School, and Mrs. Thwaites; the Rev. C. H. A. Field over the evangelistic work, and Mrs. Field; and Drs. A. C. Lankester and A. H. Browne, and Mrs



Browne. Mr. Selwyn conducted a five days' Mission for the Native Congregation in November. The services were well attended all through, and Mr. Selwyn also preached to some 300 soldiers and 200 civilians in the Station Church in the Cantonments. An able report on the advantage of stationing a Medical Mission at Peshawar was presented to the Committee by the two doctors above named in the summer of 1897, and was printed in the C.M. Intelligencer for October. The following extracts, together with the map on page 242, will serve to show the nature of the opportunities and the need :— New Medical Mission.

Situation of Peshawar.

The only town of note in Peshawar valley is Peshawar city itself, which has in every way an altogether commanding importance. It is situated in the westerly portion of the valley, quite near to the frontier—the fort of Jumrood, which stands at the entrance of the famous Khyber Pass between India and Afghanistan, being only nine miles distant to the west. It contains upwards of 80,000 inhabitants, and of the whole district it is the seat of government, of commerce, and of learning. A city of great historical importance, situated as it is at the entrance to India from Afghanistan and Central Asia—the point to which the great caravans converge—the mart for Central Asian produce, the terminus of the railway, as also of the Grand Trunk Road, which crosses India from Calcutta, the most important military station on the frontier, Peshawar has probably a far more paramount and dominating position as regards the country around than obtains in most other districts. Its influence, as regards Afghanistan and trans-frontier districts generally, is not less important; every week two large caravans, under special Government protection, enter the city by way of the Khyber Pass, with numbers of camels laden with produce from Afghanistan or Central Asia destined for the Indian markets, and similarly caravans of corresponding dimensions leave the city for Kabul. There is a constant influx of traders from Swat, Buneyr, Kohat, and other surrounding parts.

It may be well now to note the position of the principal points of entrance or exit between the valley and the surrounding parts. The most important of these, of course, is the great Attock Bridge, over which, by road or rail, all the traffic from the Punjab finds an entrance. On the east there is a much-frequented ferry over the Indus from Torbeyla in Hazara to Kubbul, which latter town has a road running through into Yusufzai. North of this there are numerous unimportant mountain-passes between Buneyr and Yusufzai, the most frequented being perhaps those leading into the Sudhum or Rustum Valley. On the north there are several passes through the boundary hills into the independent Swat country, but, more especially since the Chitral Campaign, the Malakand Pass has become by far the most important, since it has now a good road for wheeled traffic and is under Government protection. Much the most notable point of entrance on the west is at the Khyber Pass, through which passes the road from Peshawar to Kabul, a distance of 190 miles. Lastly, on the south, there is the Kohat Pass, through which lies the road to Kohat, which is thirty-seven and a half miles distant.

The Committee in October, 1897, approved the proposals of Drs. Lankester and Browne sent home through the Corresponding Committee, and before the end of the year a site and buildings for a hospital were secured within the city and close to the large camel square, which is the resting place of all the caravans from Afghanistan and Central Asia. The use of a hospital at Nowshera has been granted by the Government, and work was commenced there in the summer of 1897.

Mr. Field is engaged in Evangelistic Work. He reports the baptism of two Pathans from the Peshawar district, one of whom possesses faculties above the average and speaks well at the services in the Anjuman or mission-room. Most of the inquirers, Mr. Field says, seemed to belong to the class who look on Christian Missions as an elaborate system of bribery to induce them to change their religion; and seemed surprised that they were not received with open arms. Less bigotry is manifested by the people of Yusufzai than by those in and near Peshawar. At Zeyda, the Khan possesses a library which comprises many Christian books in English and copies of the Scriptures in Persian, Arabic, and Urdu. "Altogether," Mr. Field writes, "evangelistic work here is rather like stone-breaking, but doubtless has its place in preparing the way. Even from these stones sparks are occasionally struck out by the hammer of the Word." "Evangelistic work like stone-breaking."

Dr. C. Lankester has been assigned to work with his brother, and Dr. Browne has been transferred to Amritsar.

The C.E.Z.M.S. has the Duchess of Connaught Hospital at Peshawar with a staff of two European ladies, two assistant missionaries, and a Bible-woman; while two other European ladies, with eight native teachers and a Bible-woman, engage in zenana work.

KANGRA, KOTGUR, AND SIMLA.

The Rev. J. Tunbridge and Mr. E. Rhodes laboured together at KANGRA throughout the year. A special ten-days' Mission was conducted for the native congregation by the Rev. Ihsan Ullah in August, and in October Mr. B. Herklots, of the Children's Special Service Mission, held services which were chiefly attended by the young. The congregation are endeavouring to support an evangelist, and some of them are engaged in direct voluntary evangelistic work. A Sunday-school was organized during the year. Mr. Tunbridge is greatly dissatisfied with a practice to which, at this station and many others, the inadequate supply of Christian teachers reduces the missionaries, that, namely, of employing non-Christian teachers. He gives reasons for believing that sometimes teachers actively discourage any leaning that may be perceptible among the scholars towards Christianity. The Rev. B. L. Datt, the blind head-master of the boarding school, has resigned, and a certificated Christian man, a graduate of Lahore University, has succeeded him. Two adults were baptized, one a blind Mohammedan and the other a Rajput leper in the asylum. Mr. Rhodes spent three months in evangelistic tours. The Aryas were the chief opponents met with, and in one place they covered him with bazaar filth in their rage on account of his preaching. At Jawalla Mukhi, a place of pilgrimage, he met with two families who regularly read copies of the New Testa- Kangra. Opposition of Aryas.

ment of which they had become possessed, and they said that they trusted in Christ. In a remote village Mr. Rhodes opened an abscess on a shepherd's hand, and then dressed the wound, and three months later this man visited some of the catechists, desiring to know more about the religion that would make an Englishman care for a poor man like himself.

A native clergyman invited to conduct a Special Mission to English residents.

At Dharmsala, in the autumn of 1896, the unusual and probably unprecedented course (in the Punjab, at all events) was adopted by the Kangra Mission Committee, of which the chaplain of the station, the Rev. A. Lewis (formerly C.M.S. Missionary), is a member, of inviting a native clergyman, the Rev. Ihsan Ullah, to conduct a Special Mission to the English residents, and in English. This was done in April, 1897, and most of the residents, including civil and military officers, attended some of the services. Urdu services were also held for the native congregation, and some divisions and animosities of long standing were healed, and an inquirer was "helped across the border." A new church, in memory of the late Rev. G. C. Däuble, who laboured for a short while at Dharmsala, was opened in September. Mrs. Däuble made an itinerating tour southward from her station at Dharmsala, and visited Palampur, Mandi, Hamirpur, and Nadaun. Her last visit to some of these places was in 1891, and she found people who remembered it, and even school girls who still knew the bhajans which she had taught them then.

Simla.

The Rev. Dr. H. U. Weitbrecht (now at home) was at SIMLA from April till October, 1897, and had charge of the work. During his absence a lay catechist, Munshi Yaqub Khan, who holds the Bishop's license, ministered to the congregation. The Rev. Fath Masih, of Fathgur, held a series of Special Mission Services during the week commencing with Whit Sunday, which were well attended. Archdeacon Spens gave an earnest address on "Right Thoughts of Christ," and the Bishop of Lahore concluded the Mission with a helpful sermon on 2 Cor. xiii. 14. The Misses Paton, lady missionaries of the S.P.G., kindly visited the women of the congregation and held Bible-classes for them and a Sunday-school for the children. On the occasion of the Diamond Jubilee, Kanwar and Lady Harnam Singh gave a garden-party to all the Christians of Simla. Dr. Weitbrecht's own special work was upon the Urdu translation of the New Testament, the tentative revision of which he completed during the year.

Kotgur.

The Rev. H. F. T. Beutel says that a considerable degree of scarcity prevailed during the famine period in KOTGUR and the hill district generally. He opened relief works, and employed for a time from fifty to eighty people in recovering waste land. As an industrial enterprise he has planted a number—about 1,000—of fruit trees. The Christians gave from one-tenth to one-sixteenth of their incomes to God's work. Several catechists were engaged in itinerating, one of whom visited 314 villages. Mr. Beutel visited the Rampur méla and exhibited lantern views of our Lord's life and death. He was struck with the profound silence that prevailed when the picture of the Crucifixion was shown. Some few years since, the same picture excited outbursts of laughter.

II. KASHMIR.

The Rev. and Mrs. C. E. Tyndale-Biscoe came home on furlough in November, 1897; Dr. A. Neve in January, 1898; and Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Greene in April. No Annual Letters have been received from any of the missionaries at Srinagar.

III. BELUCHISTAN.

Dr. S. W. Sutton was married in December, 1897, to Miss Margaret Emily Jessie Richards. For the first six months of that year he was alone at Quetta, as his comrade, Dr. M. J. Eustace, went on a tour to the border of Persia in company with a political officer. The pastoral care of the Native Christians was shared between Dr. Sutton and Dr. Eustace, no ordained missionary being at the station, assisted by Miss Shaw, of the C.E.Z.M.S., who looked after the women and children. Quetta.

Barkhurdar Khan, whose baptism at Karachi was referred to under his initials, B.K., in last year's Report (page 242), spent the year under review at Quetta, and Dr. Sutton continued to give him instruction in Christian truth. His wife and children were baptized by the Rev. A. E. Ball, while on a visit to Quetta from Karachi. Altogether, twenty-one adults were baptized, the majority consisting of native servants and dressers in the hospital for European soldiers in the cantonments, whom the Rev. Imam Shah, of Peshawar, baptized during a visit in May. Dr. Sutton reports ten people—Indian camp followers, not Pathans—as ready for baptism at Chaman, the furthest British outpost in the direction of Kandahar, about eighty miles from Quetta, which he visited more than once. The Rev. D. C. W. Harrison has been appointed to Quetta.

Two lady missionaries of the C.E.Z.M.S. and three assistants are at Quetta.

IV. SINDH.

The Rev. and Mrs. J. Redman sailed to return to the Mission after a short furlough in December, 1897. The Rev. R. Sinker was married to Miss E. B. Carey, of the C.E.Z.M.S., on September 14th, 1897, at Karachi, and Mr. and Mrs. Sinker came home on medical grounds in May, 1898.

KARACHI.

Karachi.

The prevalence of the plague, the Rev. A. E. Ball says, was one of the most notable facts of the year in Karachi. The first case occurred on December 10th, 1896, and the scourge continued, in spite of all efforts to arrest it, for nearly seven months. The number of reported cases (but Mr. Ball remarks that many cases were not reported) was 4,167, and of them 3,387 died. The wife of Mr. Ball's cook died in the Mission compound, but with that exception both the missionaries and their households, and the Native Christians also, were mercifully preserved, and this notwithstanding that the Mission-house is in the very heart of the affected district. A panic seized the people in the city, and whole streets and bazaars were vacated. Karachi was "like a city of the dead." Mr. and Mrs. Ball were inoculated, and thirty of the Native Christians followed their example. Some eight or nine of the Native Christian women volunteered for service in the plague hospital, and one was accepted and worked well. That so many, knowing the risk they ran, were willing to engage in plague nursing, is, as Mr. Ball observes, "a significant fact." No effect upon the people generally in humbling them, or disposing them to think seriously of their sins, or to entertain favourably the Gospel message, is apparent.

The account of the Congregation, consisting of eighty-eight souls, of whom thirty-eight are communicants, is a chequered one. Some caused unfeigned joy, but others caused scandal and sorrow. Mr. Selwyn's Mission in October was a means of blessing and strengthening to many. All the services were well attended, and a good number of Europeans were present at all the meetings. The native pastor, the Rev. B. N. Ghose, suffers from cataract, one eye is quite, and the other nearly blind. In commemoration of the Diamond Jubilee, a guest-house, named the "Victoria Guest-house," was built, largely through the generosity of Mr. G. J. Jacob, the district judge, and was opened in December. The same kind friend entertained the members of the congregation in the Government gardens on June 24th. Mr. and Mrs. Ball each conduct a Bible-class for men and women respectively on Sundays. The Week of Prayer at the beginning of 1898 was observed in union with the Europeans at the Station Church, at the invitation of the Chaplain. The High School had only sixty-three boys when it reopened in June, 1897 (having been closed for five months on account of the plague), in lieu of the 300 who were in it at the close of 1896. In the spring, the Rev. R. Sinker (now at home) wrote that out of 700 pupils at the various C.M.S. Mission Schools, probably not more than thirty were then in Karachi. But by the end of the year the number had reached 220, and there was a full complement of masters. Mr. Sinker refers to two boys who died from the plague, and whom he believes to have died trusting in the Saviour. They, with two others, had agreed among themselves to be baptized as soon as they should reach full age. Out of twenty prizes given by the Commissioner in Sindh, Mr. Wingate, on Diamond Jubilee Day for athletic contests, twelve were carried off by the High School boys. "We were glad," Mr. Sinker writes, "that others should see that the effect of Christianity in our Mission School is to make a boy more manly." The Book Depôt sales were far below those of previous years, in consequence of the plague. The total number of books and tracts disposed of was 6,440, as compared with 11,689 in 1896. The vernacular sales were five Bibles, twenty-five New Testaments, 407 portions, and 4,239 books and tracts. In spite of the plague a good deal of Evangelistic Work was done. During the latter half of the year bazaar preaching was carried on, and during the whole year the people were visited. At the beginning of 1897, Mr. Ball and the Rev. J. Redman, of Hydrabad, made a tour with the object of reaching the Kalis, who are found in fairly large numbers in parts of Lower Sindh. They were cordially received, Mr. Redman being known to the people from former visits, and during their stay nine men were admitted to the catechumenate. A catechist was appointed to work amongst them, and he settled with his wife at Mirpur in March, 1897. This, Mr. Ball says, is the first instance in the history of the Sindh Mission of an agent being settled out in the district. The guru of the colony of Gujerathi-speaking shoemakers, referred to in last year's Report (page 241), now expresses a wish to be baptized, but secretly for fear of persecution. The old Mission scholar, who remembered Mr. Knott, was met with again, but Mr. Ball fears he is stifling his convictions.

The C.E.Z.M.S. has four missionaries and four assistant missionaries at Karachi.

HYDRABAD.

The Rev. J. Redman, of HYDRABAD, was in England during the greater part of 1897. The Rev. D. A. Canney was very active in ministering to the plague patients, and he received the following letter, printed on white silk, and enclosed in a brocade case, conveying the thanks of the Hindu Panchayat for his help:—

Hydrabad.

On behalf of the Hindu Panchayat, I beg to tender you our warmest thanks for the voluntary help you so freely rendered in nursing patients, and in the work of general superintendence in the Hindu Panchayati Plague Hospital, at a critical time, at great personal risk. Such noble, unselfish work is always blessed, and it is a privilege to express our gratitude to you for the important part you have taken in saving human life.

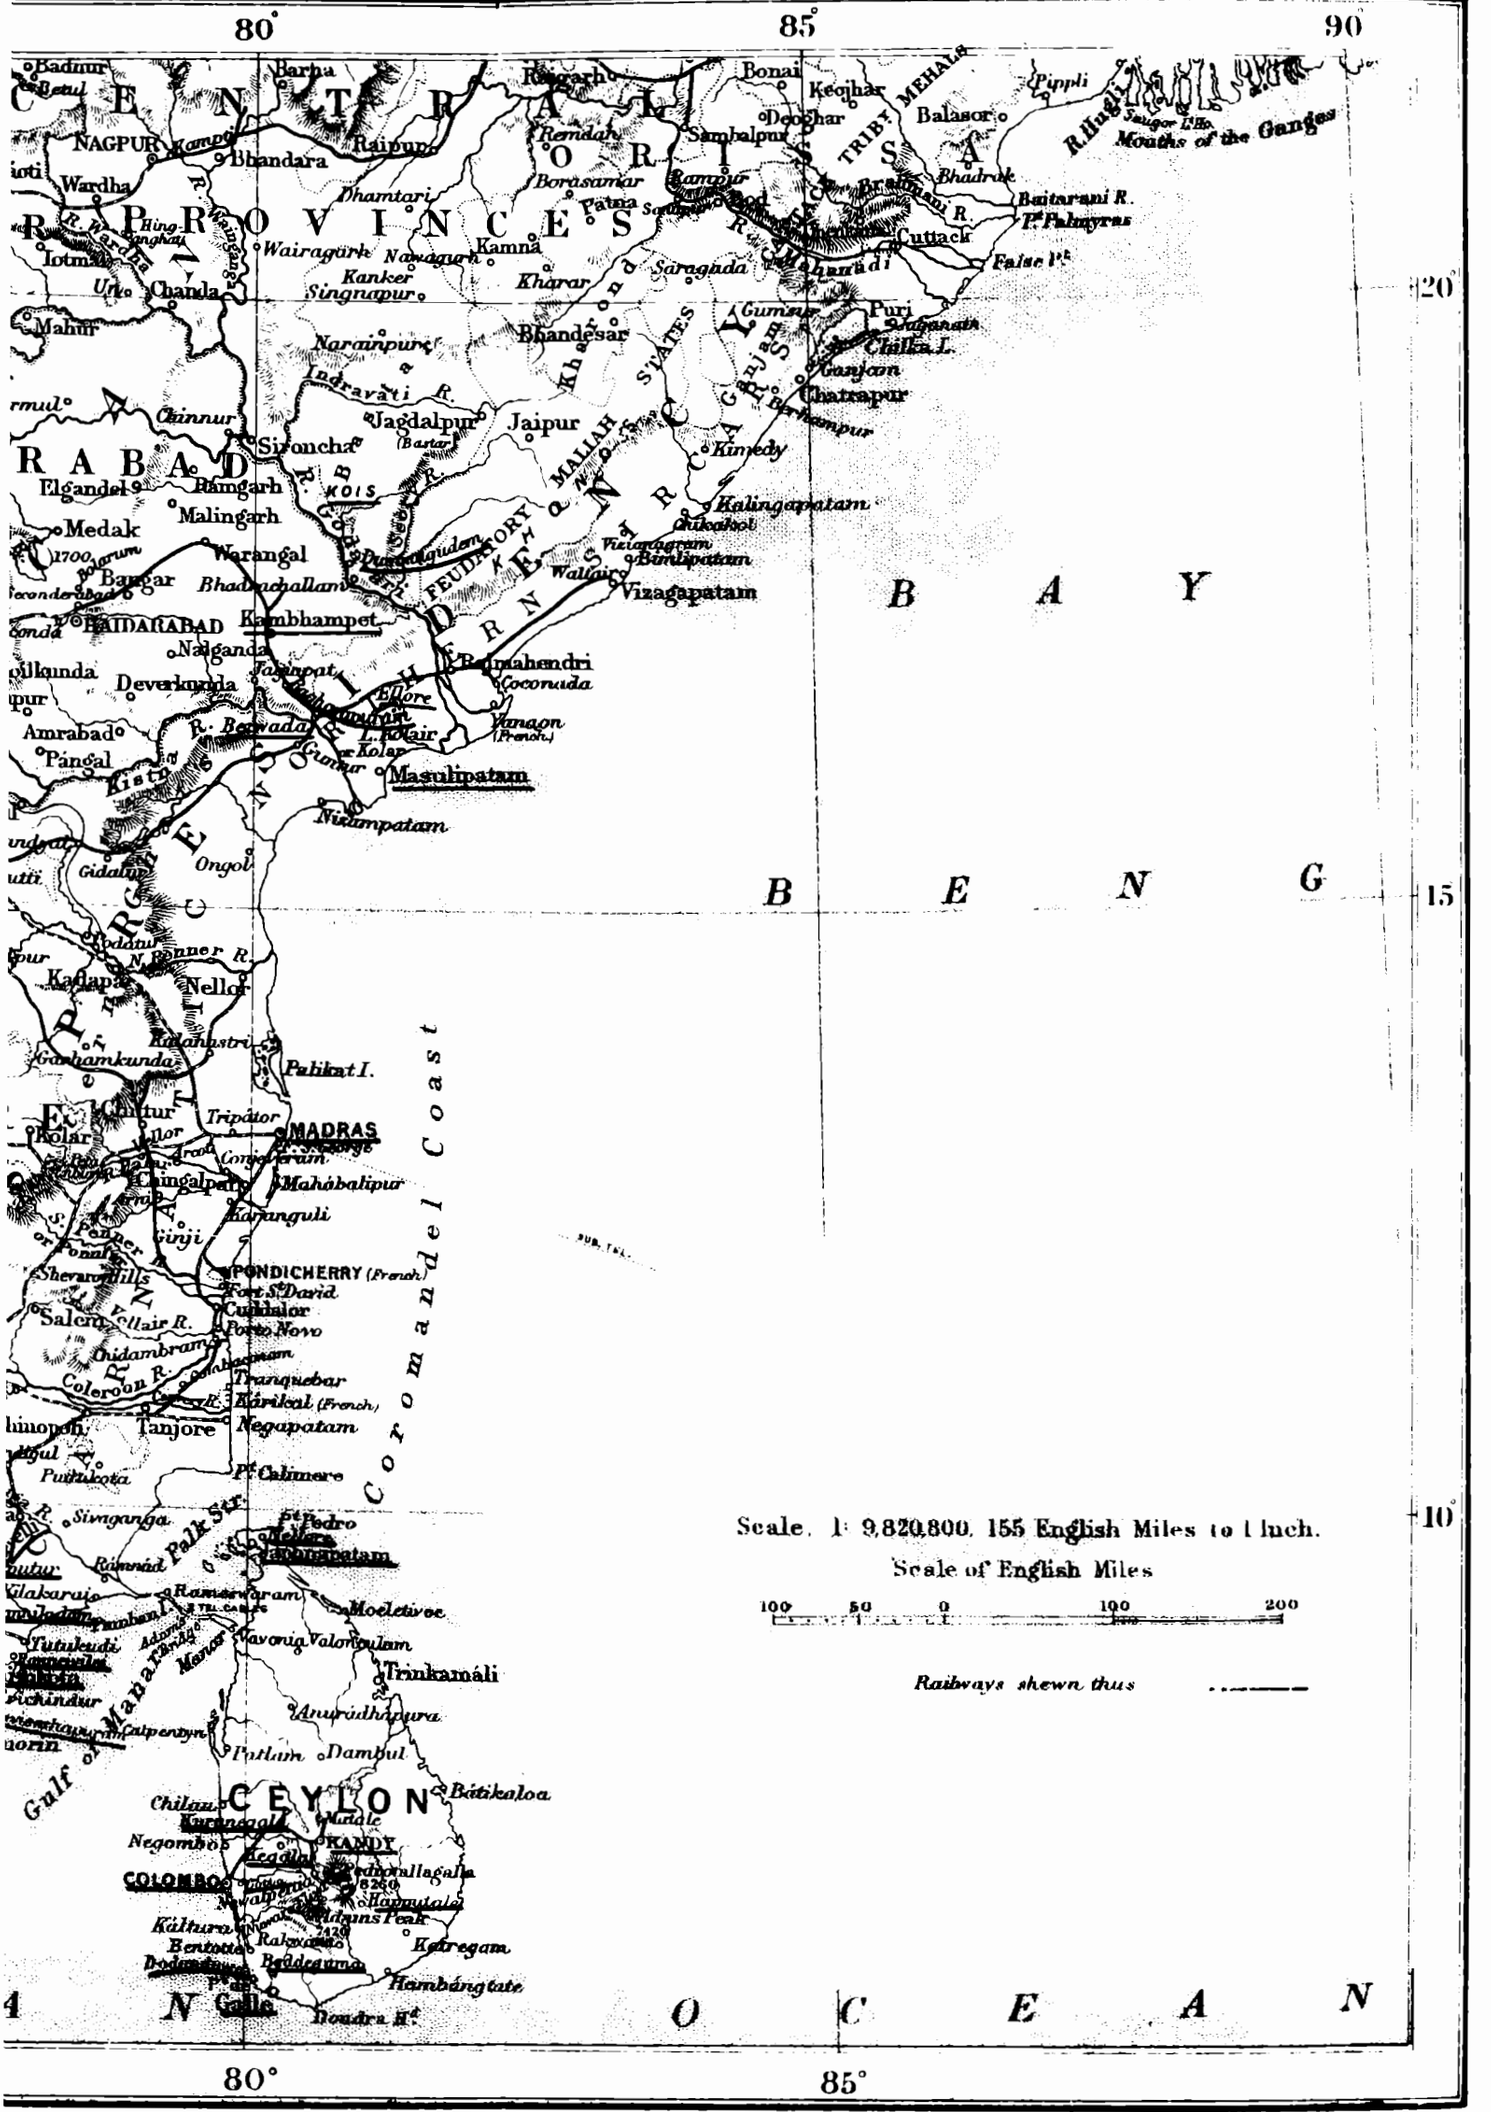
(Signed) DAYARAM GIDUMAL.

Missionary thanked for help in nursing plague patients.

Mr. Canney has been transferred to Amritsar.

The C.E.Z.M.S. has four lady missionaries and three assistant missionaries labouring at Hydrabad.

SUKKUR.



Sukkur. Evangelistic Work at SUKKUR was stopped during four months of 1897 by the plague. The city was nearly deserted, the people fleeing not so much, the Rev. A. E. Redman says, from the disease as from the regulations adopted to arrest it. The Christians were preserved from sickness. Mr. Redman writes in grateful terms of visits from Ihsan Ullah and from Mr. Selwyn. The C.E.Z.M.S. has four lady missionaries and two assistant missionaries at Sukkur and Shikarpur.

WESTERN INDIA MISSION.

For fifty years after Bombay became a British possession the English had neither church nor chaplain in the city, and it was not till a century later that any effort was made for the evangelization of its inhabitants. The first missionary of the C.M.S. to work in Bombay was the Rev. Richard Kenney, who landed in 1820; Nasik was occupied in 1832; Junir, 1846; Malegâm, 1848; Aurangabad, 1860; and Poona, 1882.

In a year of manifold trials which affected a large part of India, the Bombay Presidency suffered, perhaps, more than any other. It escaped, indeed, the ravages of the earthquake, and the famine was less severe than in the North-West and Central Provinces; but, as already commented upon under the Notes introductory to the Indian Missions (see above, pages 172 and 173), the terrible plague, most dire of all the visitations of 1897, was practically confined within its borders, where it wrought havoc and devastation on a most extensive scale. The Rev. A. H. Bowman wrote at the beginning of 1898:—

The terrible plague of 1896–98.

Of all the troubles that have lately befallen India, the plague is by far the worst, because none can foresee its end. The war, sad though it is, may conclude any day with the submission of the hostile tribes. The famine, terrible though it was, is practically over, through a bountiful rain which refreshed the land when it was so dry. The earthquake, though full of disaster, only lasted a few minutes. But the plague, which has already worked such deadly havoc among tens of thousands of the Natives of Western India, is in possession to-day, and none can tell how far it may spread or when its work will be done. It is a most mysterious visitation. None can tell whence it came or its cause. Indeed, the medical men themselves have said they have no remedy for the disease. Two Japanese doctors have declared that they have discovered the bacillus, a thing so minute that it needs to be magnified 14,000 times before it can be seen. A strange feature in Bombay was that the only two animals susceptible to the microbe were rats and men, and it was said to be exactly the same microbe in the blood of the rat as in the blood of the man. The most remarkable thing was that of the thousand vultures which were day by day devouring the bodies of the Parsis who had died of the plague, not a single one died. So great was the panic in Bombay that out of a population of 800,000 some 500,000, it was computed, left the city. In less than six months, with the reduced population, some 25,000 died, and these were not only the very poor, but numbers of them were men of wealth and good position. Scarcely a single European of pure English blood died, though several took the disease. As I write, the plague still hovers over Bombay. The death-rate in the city itself has declined, but in Poona the mortality is exceedingly great, and the disease seems to be spreading over the other towns of the Presidency.

A mysterious visitation.

Reinforcement.

The only additional labourer sent out to reinforce the European staff of this Mission during the year was Mr. George Henry Hodgson, an experienced business man, who will render assistance to the Rev. W. G. Peel in the work of the secretariat. Mr. Hodgson sailed in October, 1897. The Rev. A. H. Bowman and the Rev. and Mrs. A. A. Parry came home in December, 1897; and the Rev. and Mrs. A. Manwaring in April, 1898. Mrs. W. G. Peel returned to the Mission in September, 1897.

Ordination.

The Bishop of Bombay admitted Mr. Gnanamuttu Yesudian to deacon's orders on Trinity Sunday, June 13th, 1897, at Poona. Mr. Yesudian is a Tamil by birth, and was a teacher for twenty-five years in a C.M.S. school in the Nallur district, Tinnevelly. He was transferred to this Mission in 1892 to minister as a pastoral catechist to the Tamil Christians at Poona, and for this work he was admitted to the sacred ministry.

Retirement of Bishop Mylne.

Bishop Mylne, after twenty-one laborious years of service in and for India, to the sincere regret of the clergy—European and native—and, not least, those in connexion with the C.M.S., to whom his courtesy, and frankness, and kindness, never failed, has retired from his charge during 1897. The number of native clergy in his diocese in 1876 was four, in 1897 it was eleven. In the first sixteen years Bishop Mylne ordained six Natives, in the last five of his episcopate he ordained nine. On June 22nd, a few weeks before the Bishop's departure from Bombay, a deputation of the native clergy of the diocese met him in the C.M.S. Divinity School, Poona, and offered him the following farewell address, which was signed by all of them:—

Farewell address by native Clergy.

We, the undersigned Indian clergy of the diocese of Bombay, desire to approach your Lordship with feelings of deep respect and esteem; and express our heartfelt regret at your Lordship's departure and retirement.

During the twenty years of administration as Bishop, your Lordship has taken a very deep interest in the Mission work carried on by the various Church of England societies in the diocese, and often cheered and encouraged workers in Mission stations by personal visits, help, and counsel. As regards the Native Church, it has progressed in numbers, and, we trust, grown in grace; and, we know, your Lordship has always taken a fatherly interest in everything that affected her welfare. Under your spiritual supervision the number of Indian clergy has increased; and we cannot help remarking on one fact, which forms a close tie between your Lordship and ourselves, viz., each one of us has received his orders (deacon's or priest's) at your Lordship's hands.

Personally, we gladly take this opportunity of expressing our gratitude to you and Mrs. Mylne for the extreme courtesy and kindness shown to us, putting each one at his ease immediately by a sympathy which encouraged all to complete confidence and esteem. We beg to request that your Lordship will be pleased to accept this present as a very small token of our regard and gratitude.

Finally, we pray to Almighty God that He will grant your Lordship journeying mercies, and that His richest blessing may rest on whatever work He may commit to you to do, to His glory, in the future.

Bishop Mylne was the fourth Bishop of Bombay; the first, Bishop Carr, was consecrated a few months after the Queen's Accession. The Rev. James McArthur, Vicar of All Saints', South Acton, in the diocese of London, has been appointed to succeed Dr. Mylne.

The following are the members of the Bombay Corresponding Committee:—The Bishop of Bombay, the Revs. W. G. Peel, W. A. Roberts, Mr. H. M. Birdwood, C.S.I., Col. Freeman, Mr. H. E. E. Proctor, C.I.E., Mr. P. B. Savile, and the Hon. Mr. Wingate.

BOMBAY.

Bombay.

The Rev. A. H. Bowman retired from the incumbency of Girgaum Church, BOMBAY, in November, 1897. The congregation marked their appreciation of his faithful five years' ministry by presenting him with an address enclosed in a silver casket. Upon his departure from Bombay the Committee invited the Rev. W. G. Peel, the Secretary of the Mission, to undertake the incumbency, in addition to the duties of the secretariat, and he proceeded to do so. His work in both capacities was an anxious one, as the plague, which it was hoped had well-nigh disappeared, revived, and assumed in February, 1898, more alarming proportions than before. On February 12th Mr. Peel wrote: "Our total mortality one day this week reached 348, against 75 in ordinary years. Daily attacks number about 170. . . . Europeans are now being attacked in Bombay. Famine fever, too, is causing many deaths here." A month later serious riots occurred in the city. Mr. Peel wrote:—

Serious riots.

Europeans have been murdered in the streets in broad daylight. Troops are guarding all the chief centres, and cannon have been planted in the thoroughfares where the most hostility has been evinced. Discontent on account of quarantine and house inspection was the cause of the rush upon the Europeans. Events of this kind enable us to gauge very accurately what the real character of the Indian mob is.

The Rev. D. L. Joshi, in his Annual Letter, refers to the comparative immunity of the Christians from the ravages of the plague:—

Death-rate of Protestant Indian Christians very low.

Besides the enormous loss of life, for months together all business was unhinged in the city and trade paralyzed. From the plague statistics given by the Times of India, it appears that the death-rate among the Protestant Indian Christians during the darkest days of the epidemic was very low compared with most of the other Native communities—a fact we note with feelings of deep gratitude to Him who has so wonderfully protected His people in the midst of danger.

Marathi Congregation.

Only three members of the Marathi Congregation fell victims to the plague. One was a Government pensioner, who had served in the Military Accounts Department. Having studied chemistry and the medical properties of herbs, on his retirement he had opened a dispensary in Bombay, and some success is said to have attended a specific which he prepared against the plague. He himself, however, caught the infection and died. Mr. Joshi says of him, "He was a thorough Christian gentleman." The other two deaths were of young men, clerks, who were both consistent Christians. The congregation contains several members of good social position among the native community. One is an LL.B., and is commencing to practise as a High Court pleader; another is a B.A.; a third is a landed proprietor and contractor; and a fourth, an undergraduate, is employed in the Government secretariat. Several of the young men, finding a difficulty in obtaining employment in workshops owing to the system of bribery which prevails among the native foremen, are beginning to start industries by combination on their own account. One of the congregation, the leader of the choir, accompanied the Rev. J. T. Parfit in December to Baghdad, and started there as an optician. The contributions of the congregation, notwithstanding the exceptional conditions which prevailed, and which affected business of all kinds, more than doubled during the year. In December, 1896, the members had subscribed towards a proposed Christmas dinner, but when they witnessed the prevailing famine distress they agreed to hand the money over to the Dnyanodaya Famine Fund. The attendances at the Sunday morning services varied between 110 and 130. Evangelistic efforts are undertaken by a voluntary band of preachers. Some of these took part with members of the Y.M.C.A. in delivering a series of lectures in English in the C.M.S. Hall at Thakurdwar, and preaching in Marathi and Hindustani in the C.M.S. Hall at Byculla. All the Indian Christians connected with the Church of England took part in a large social gathering, organized and carried out by themselves, at the Money School in honour of the Diamond Jubilee.

Money given for a Christmas dinner handed over to Famine Fund.

Robert Money School.

The schools in Bombay were greatly affected by the plague, but those were so more especially which, like the Robert Money School, are mainly for Hindu boys. During the first four months, when an almost general exodus took place from the city, most of the schools for Natives closed, but Mr. J. Jackson kept open the Money School nearly the whole time, though the attendances dwindled to only seven students. At the close of the year there were 139—still considerably below the normal number.

Visits to plague hospitals and segregation camps.

In the Marathi Evangelistic Work, under the Rev. W. H. Dixon, new methods had to be adopted. Preaching in the town was of little avail; the men were too few and too frightened to stand to listen. The railway stations were resorted to, and tracts distributed to the crowds who daily went in and out of the city; plague hospitals also, and segregation camps, and the neighbouring villages were visited. Mr. Dixon was struck with the patience of the poor sufferers in the hospitals, and with the affection and self-forgetfulness of relatives in sitting all day by the bedside of their sick friends regardless of their own sick. Others, as will appear below, remark on characteristics of a contrary nature to these. The Mission Hall in Girgaum was used uninterruptedly for Bible readings and lectures, and though the attendance was small, the people were regular and attentive. Colonel Freeman, Mr. Dixon, and others gave lectures to educated Natives in the John Connon School, in accordance with a scheme planned by the Parsi Christian Association. The President of this Association, the Rev. Dhanjibhoy Nowroji, of the Free Church of Scotland Mission, celebrated the jubilee of his ordination in the early part of the year. He was baptized in 1839, and was, so far as is known, the first convert from Parsiism. Two Parsi inquirers are mentioned, one from Poona; and a third of good position from Karachi, though not an inquirer, is willing to reside with Christians in the Converts' Home, under the care of Mr. Rustomji Mistry. Copying the example of the energetic Student Secretary of the Y.M.C.A., open air preaching in English on an open space near the Churchgate Railway Station was begun. Near to this spot Parsis flock to the seashore to say their evening prayers, and an audience is always found at about 5.30 p.m., who listen with interest and intelligence. At the time of the University Examinations, when students from all parts of the Presidency gather to Bombay, efforts were made by preaching and the distribution of Christian literature to influence them. Mr. Dixon says of this important class :—

Training a nation of atheists.

Many of them openly declare themselves atheists, others try to philosophize about their own religions, few have any definite system to uphold. There is, indeed, a shaking of the spiritual beliefs of these young men. Their mental pabulum has been Mill, and Huxley, and Spencer, everything destructive of faith, and there has hitherto been little of the constructive element in their education. Hence there is too much reason to fear that we are training a nation of atheists! Religious Hindus deplore this as much as we do. The manager of a Hindu institution for students told us that, though a temple is specially attached to the institution, they do not go there more than once a year, nor do they attend the reformed Somajes in any numbers, they are in fact, "without God in the world."

The Mohammedan Work was carried on by the Rev. T. Davis. The Hindustani services were attended by a few, but it was not possible to hold many meetings, and Mr. Davis, having more time available, did more house-to-house visitation among the Christians. Two of the three inquirers mentioned last year (page 249) were baptized, but one of them, who showed signs of being a very useful Christian, died within a fortnight of his baptism. Three other adults were also baptized, one being Mr. Davis' servant. Houses, shops, coffee-taverns, gardens, &c., were visited, and once a week the Hindustani Mission Hall was open for conversational discussions. A touching account of a vast prayer-meeting, organized by Mohammedans in Bombay to deprecate the Divine wrath manifested in the visitation of the plague is given by the Bombay Guardian :—

A Mohammedan prayer meeting on account of the plague.

A novel sight was witnessed in Bombay on Saturday afternoon, when upwards of two thousand Mohammedans gathered for prayer. This was the sequel to three days' fasting, a fast which, it is said, was kept by almost the entire community, who at the same time made incessant prayer that the plague might be averted. After obtaining the sanction of Government the Mohammedans put up screens of matting on the west side. Several thousand pieces of palm-leaf matting were laid out on the ground, about a hundred huge earthen jars, each containing about fifty gallons of water, being placed at regular intervals. Large crowds began to pour into the Esplanade from an early hour in the afternoon, and by 4.30 p.m., the time notified for the holding of the prayer, the whole of the extensive ground was filled by Mohammedans of all sections of the community squatting down on the matting provided for them. The Kazees and Moulvies occupied about an hour with prayers, afterwards preaching sermons from various points on the efficacy of prayer. The usual evening prayer followed; hands and feet were washed, and they proceeded to break their fast. There were several thousand cakes and about 8,000 pounds weight of dry dates provided for the faithful, and by the time they dispersed, about 6 p.m., there was not one cake or a date to be seen.

During the first attack of the plague at Bombay, at the close of 1896, the four ladies connected with the Missionary Settlement of University Women volunteered as nurses. The services of only one of them were accepted, the others being declined on the score of health. Two of these, Miss de Selincourt and Miss Boyland, then offered to relieve Miss Edge, of the Z.B.M.M., of her school work in order that the latter might devote herself to the alleviation of the sufferings of those in hospital, which she did. The Z.B.M. Mission has a staff of nine lady missionaries, fourteen assistant missionaries, eleven native teachers, and six Bible-women labouring in Bombay.

NASIK.

Nasik. Measures for the relief of famine engaged the energies of the Rev. A. Manwaring (now at home), who had charge of the work at NASIK and of the Christian village of Sharanpur. Assisted by the C.M.S. Famine Fund, the Mansion House Fund, Indian Succour to India Fund, and by private friends, he and the Rev. E. J. Jones were able to afford relief to a large number, some 15,000 sufferers. He found the best methods of doing this to be the opening of a cheap grain shop at Sharanpur, and giving work in the village, such as erecting buildings, making roads, digging wells, planting trees, &c. In the summer of 1897, cholera broke out among the starving people, and in one day there were sixty deaths in Nasik. No case of cholera or of plague occurred in the Christian village of Sharanpur, although a large Government segregation camp and plague hospital were erected in one of the fields of the settlement. A considerable increase to the number of children in the Orphanage was brought by the famine. Mr. Manwaring reports with thankfulness the general good conduct of the Christian congregation, under the pastoral care of the Rev. A. Cornelius. Gopal Chundra Shastri, referred to as a convert in last year's Report (page 251), and who was sent to the Divinity Class at Madras, left that institution under circumstances which throw discredit on his previous allegations (see infra, page 263). The famine gave Mr. Jones and his native catechists many opportunities of presenting the Gospel message, but the plague tended to paralyze the Work of the Itinerancy, as quarantine regulations prevented their visiting many of the towns and villages. The congregation at Igatpuri has been formed into a pastorate in connexion with the Church Council.

No case of cholera or plague at Sharanpur

The Z.B.M. Mission has two European ladies, thirteen native teachers, and three Bible-women at Nasik.

POONA AND JUNIR.

Poona. Divinity School.

The Divinity School, at POONA, under the Rev. R. S. Heywood, sent out three students to engage in work as catechists, and one to engage in pastoral work, viz., the Tamil deacon whose ordination has been mentioned on page 250. The autumn term began with seven students, who had all previously been at work under different missionaries. Mr. Heywood notices a want of animation in their preaching, and most of them lack power of initiative, but there are one or two exceptions. Their health continued good, and when the plague was at its worst all around the students seemed stronger than usual, a result which Mr. Heywood ascribes, under God, largely to their taking a good deal of out-door exercise. The plague made its appearance in Poona in December, 1896, and steadily increased until April, when it began to diminish. In September it returned with greater virulence than before. The Rev. D. K. Shindé, pastor of the Marathi Congregation, numbering 168 persons and eighty-eight communicants, wrote in December :—

Peaceful deaths of plague patients.

During the early part of the year not one of our people died from plague, although some of them lived in parts of the city where the plague was bad ; but latterly there had been five deaths from plague in the Marathi congregation, of whom three used to attend our Sunday-school regularly. I visited all five in their illness, and in each case the end was peaceful. One, an orphan girl of ten years old, who was adopted in a Christian family, died repeating the Lord's Prayer, which she had learnt in the Sunday-school ; another, a boy, before he died asked his mother to remember him to his Sunday-school friends, for whom he was praying.

The plague, as yet, shows no signs of abatement. Very many of the people in the city have fled, and it looks deserted and desolate. We have prayers every Tuesday in the Divinity School, when we wait upon the Lord that He may be pleased to remove this plague from us. We ask our friends to remember us in their prayers.

Poona Christians express indignation at the murder of English officers.

One member of the Tamil Congregation, a woman, fell a victim to the plague. These Tamils in Poona, the Rev. G. Yesudian explains, are descendants of those who accompanied the English from Madras about the year 1817, when the British were attacked in Kirkee by the Mahrattas. The congregation numbers 150, of whom forty are regular communicants. After the outrages in Poona on June 22nd, 1897, when Lieutenant Ayerst and Mr. Rand were shot (see supra, page 174), the Poona Indian Christian Association passed a resolution expressing in strong terms their horror at the crime, and their sympathy with the Government, and with the bereaved wives of the two officers.

Ten assistant missionaries, twelve native teachers, and two Bible-women form the staff of the Z.B.M. Mission in Poona. Mrs. F. Sorabji, who superintends the Victoria High School, wrote:—

> Though the plague was almost entirely confined to the city, which in Poona is quite distinct from the camp, there were some cases among servants in the latter part, and the city people now and again brought their plague-stricken relatives and left them to die in the compounds of people living in camp to avoid their own houses being disinfected and unroofed, their clothes destroyed, and themselves being carried off to the segregation camp. They seem to lose even natural affections. A Hindu mother at the railway station, on hearing from the doctor that her child had the plague, left it and fled. She disappeared among the crowd, and the deserted child had to be carried by strangers to the hospital.

The district assigned to the Rev. W. A. Roberts for Evangelistic Work consists of the valleys of the upper course of the rivers Indrayani and Bhima and the valley of the Bhama, and contains about 400 towns and villages. Mr. Roberts and his three native evangelists visited the whole district during the year and preached the Gospel in some 350 different villages, in about 200 of which the Gospel had never previously been proclaimed. The people were, of course, very ignorant—the Name of Jesus having never been heard before by many of them—and very superstitious. Reports had been spread that the evangelists had a powder wherewith to poison the wells, or a bottle the gaseous contents of which would render the people insensible, or that they wanted the children's livers. Nevertheless, the men in the villages were usually got together and were most attentive. Almost no opposition was encountered; where it was met with, it was from the Brahmans.

Ignorant fear of the people.

The Rev. W. C. Whiteside, who resided at JUNIR, and itinerated in the Junir and Khed districts, also refers to the remarkable stories which he found current regarding the object of his Mission. He writes:—

Junir.

> In one village where there was Government relief work going on, the idea got abroad that the separation of the children into a specially constructed enclosure was done for our benefit—that we might baptize them wholesale. As a result of this belief the majority of the workers deserted in one day. At another village some women ran when they saw me at some distance, two little girls not able to keep up with their mothers, far in the rear, yelling vigorously, and hardly able to make progress from sheer terror. It would have been simply laughable had the cause been other than terror of him who should be looked on as a messenger of the Gospel of Peace. I found out afterwards that we were supposed to give poisoned sweetmeats to children! The awful visitation of bubonic plague, first in Bombay and then in Poona, was responsible for the peculiar fancies prevailing among the villagers. Exaggerated stories of the violence of European soldiers belonging to the search parties, and of the mortality in hospitals, caused, as was commonly supposed, by deliberate poisoning of patients, were the common village gossip, and we had to answer to such charges before or after preaching.

Dangerous gossip in the villages.

Mr. Whiteside gave employment to 300 persons for a considerable time during the famine, and he believes a favourable impression was widely made by the contrast between the efforts of Christians and the avarice of Brahman clerks on some of the relief works who required to be bribed to put the needy on dole relief. Moreover, he dwells upon some painful traits on the native character which the distress brought into prominence :— A contrast.

It was not possible, for instance, to avoid noticing the shallowness of domestic affection. When the famine pressed, sons left aged parents to sink or swim, and wandered abroad to fend for themselves. Husbands left their wives in vast numbers, and wives their husbands; parents in some instances left children. On the other hand, those who had little among the poorer people, gave of that little to those who had nothing; but the wealthy held their purse-strings tight; owning the land, they yet would not help their poor slave-tenants, the actual farmers; while the grain merchants kept the price of grain abnormally high, and made vicious profits out of dole relief. Shallow domestic affection.

The Revs. H. T. Jacob and L. B. Butcher resided together during the year, mainly engaged in the study of Marathi, at Khed. There are Anglo-vernacular and vernacular schools at this out-station.

MALEGÂM.

The Rev. F. G. Macartney, of Malegâm, was thankful to be enabled by the C.M.S. Famine Relief Fund and the Christian Succour for India Fund to disburse Rs. 3,400 in assisting cases which he is sure would otherwise have succumbed, especially such as the blind, the lame, the lepers, the aged, and the women and children deserted by their husbands and fathers. The poor Mohammedan weavers in the city were the first to feel the pinch of hard times. Many of the men, both Mohammedans and Hindus, deserted their wives and families and fled to Bombay to seek employment, and the preaching-hall at Malegâm was daily crowded with women and children thus abandoned and utterly destitute. In the summer a large number of poor cultivators from the Konkan and western parts of the Malegâm district found their way to the city, all in a very sad condition—starving, weak, and naked. These received medicine and light food in the Mission compound, and not one death occurred during the four months that they crowded these premises. Altogether about 300 men, women, and children were maintained (being employed at well-making, hedge-cutting, &c.) for several months, and to all the Gospel was simply and lovingly proclaimed. Many of them asked for baptism, but only a very few were received into the visible Church, as in the majority of cases a low motive for coming forward was patent. Twenty-two were baptized on August 12th, and on another occasion two lads and two women—the latter the first-fruits of the Z.B.M.M. work at Malegâm. One of the converts was Mr. R. A. Joshi, a young Brahman of good education, the son of a station-master. Malegâm. Wives and children deserted. Converts.

Another was a woman from Dhulia, "one of Khandoba's Muralies—in other words, one of the many wives of the well-known god of impurity" and her three children. The number of Christians at Malegâm and its out-stations is 218, of whom more than half are children. The Rev. Lucas Maloba Joshi is the native pastor. The Schools contain 570 pupils, and the five Sunday-schools 350. Mrs. Macartney sends an interesting report of the work of herself and two Bible-women in Malegâm. Thirty zenanas were visited. Miss King, of the Z.B.M.M. staff in Bombay, gave assistance for a time.

All the towns and nearly all the villages in three out of the four taluqs of the district were visited by the native preachers, and one of them, and also one Christian woman, were told off to work exclusively among the people on the ten Government relief camps. Mr. Macartney paid a visit to Nandurbar in February, 1897, to see and encourage Mr. B. Antoba, the agent of the Church Council, who went there a year before as a missionary to the Bheels. En route at Ranala—a town where a number of Bohars, a class of Mohammedan traders, have their private houses—he met a solitary Christian man whom he had baptized many years before. This man declared that he was still trusting in Christ as his Saviour, and had never returned to idol worship. He was prospering in temporal things as a result of his industry, being possessed of two good houses and more than a hundred head of cattle, sheep, &c. At the same place Mr. Macartney heard of a singular example—of which others have already been given in this Report and others will yet occur—of the wide expectation of the approaching Second Advent of our Lord. He says:—

A Mohammedan teaches the approach of Christ's advent.

Among the Bohars of Ranala there is a man who, strange to say, has been preaching about the second coming of Christ. All Mohammedans believe that our Lord will return. Christ, they think, is to descend on one of the minarets of the mosque of Damascus, but this belief has no practical effect upon their conduct. The man I referred to, however, has been led to believe that Christ's second coming is near at hand, and his opinion has such a firm hold upon him that he has been publicly teaching his tenet, and urging his co-religionists to prepare for the great event by repentance and amendment of life. They have reviled him as a Christian, and he has been subjected to bitter persecution. His house has been mobbed, property destroyed, and he has been forced to seek the protection of the law. In spite of all he still holds to his belief.

Work among Bheels.

At Nandurbar several non-Christians attended the Sunday services in Mr. Antoba's house, one of them, a Brahman, professing to be an inquirer, but Mr. Macartney was not impressed with his sincerity. The catechist had visited a number of Bheel settlements in the Tapti Valley, where a small house has been given up for a school and another for the residence of the master. Mr. Macartney spent ten days at the home of one of these Bheels. He says they are "a laughing, jovial lot," who take life very easily. They are in easy circumstances and are addicted to liquor, often on festive occasions spending Rs. 100 on intoxicating drink. Polygamy is rife among them.

Mr. Macartney had an accident in January, 1898, which might have had most serious consequences. He was thrown from his tonga (native conveyance) and fell on his head. Providentially his solar hat protected his head, but he was much bruised.

The Z.B.M. Mission has five European ladies, two native teachers, and three Bible-women at Malegâm.

AURUNGABAD.

Aurunga bad.

The Bishop of Madras, whose diocese includes the Nizam's territories in which AURUNGABAD is situated, paid his triennial visit to this station in February, 1897, and confirmed several members of the native congregation whom the Rev. Ruttonji Nowroji presented to him. He visited the schools and listened to the account given by the catechists of the work in the villages, and exhorted and encouraged the labourers. The Rev. A. A. Parry (now at home) had charge of the Anglo-Vernacular School. Mr. Ruttonji erected two boarding-schools for boys and for girls, and a day-school during the year, the work proving an opportune means of employment to famine sufferers. In the stress of need, parents sold or deserted their starving children, Mr. Ruttonji says, and grown-up children hardened their hearts against their aged parents and turned them out of doors. Itinerations were interrupted, as the country was too unsettled for it to be safe, hungry people in search of food or money frequently robbing travellers and passers-by in open day. Mr. Ruttonji states that a deep impression has been made on the people's minds by predictions of Hindu astrologers at Benares, who had sent messages in all directions to the effect that India was to be convulsed with mighty events in the near future. Seventeen adults were baptized. Many starving people applied for baptism, but their importunities were not yielded to.

SOUTH INDIA MISSION.

The Tamil country south of Madras was the scene of the S.P.C.K.'s Missions in the last century. But the first two clergymen of the Church of England who went to India as missionaries were sent to Madras by the Church Missionary Society in 1814. The East India Act of 1833 made provision for a new bishopric of Madras, and Daniel Corrie was consecrated in 1835. His successors have been Bishops Spencer (1837), Dealtry (1849), Gell (1861). Work was commenced at Ootacamund, on the Nilgiri Hills, in 1870.

The Telugu Mission was begun in 1841 by two of the most devoted men on the roll of missionaries, Robert Noble and Henry Watson Fox. Noble started the famous English school at Masulipatam, now known by his name, worked it for twenty-four years, and died at his post in 1865. Several Brahmans trained in it have embraced the Gospel, and it has sent forth several native clergymen to labour among their countrymen. Fox was a preaching missionary, and set the example of those itinerating and rural missionary efforts which have resulted in the foundation of an increasing Telugu Native Church, chiefly drawn from the Malas and other low-caste or out-caste people. Ellore was occupied in 1854; Bezwada, 1858; Râghavapuram, 1872; and Khammamett, 1888. A Mission among the Kois, a non-Aryan tribe on the Upper Godávari, was founded by General Haig in 1860.

In 1820 the Rev. J. Hough, Chaplain at Palamcotta, drew the attention of the Society to the claims of Tinnevelly, where there was already a community of 3,000 professed Native Christians, an offshoot from the S.P.C.K.'s Lutheran Mission in Tanjore. Two missionaries were at once set apart for this work, and from that time to this, through the labours of Rhenius, Pettitt, Thomas, J. T. Tucker, Hobbs, Sargent, and others, the Gospel has not ceased to spread among the Tamil population, chiefly among the Shanars, or cultivators of the palmyra tree. In North Tinnevelly a vigorous Itinerant Mission was established by Ragland, D. Fenn, and Meadows. Dr. Sargent and Dr. Caldwell were consecrated in 1877 as Assistant Bishops to the Bishop of Madras for the Native Churches. The former died in 1889 and the latter in 1891. Dr. Morley was consecrated in 1896, his jurisdiction (consensual) extending over Tinnevelly and Madura.

Bishop Gell the senior English Bishop at Lambeth Conference.

At the Lambeth Conference of 1897 the senior English Bishop present was Bishop Gell, of Madras; indeed, of all the Bishops of the Anglican Communion only three, and those all presiding over American dioceses, had occupied their sees a longer period than Bishop Gell, who was consecrated in 1861. Others of the Indian Bishops stood well in order of seniority. The Bishops of Colombo and Bombay (now resigned) had only two seniors among the Bishops of English sees, having been consecrated in 1875 and 1876 respectively, and the Metropolitan (who has also since resigned) had only three. The Bishop of Rangoon has been thirty-seven years in India, though a bishop only fifteen; the Bishop of Chhota-Nagpur also went out to India thirty-seven years since; the Bishop of Lahore, thirty-one; the Bishop of Lucknow, twenty-four; Bishop Morley of Tinnevelly, twenty-three; and the Bishop of Travancore and Cochin, twenty-one. Certainly the Indian Bishops cannot be accused of hurrying back to the Mother-country, after a few years of duty abroad, to occupy pleasant and lucrative posts in the Church at home.

Ordinations.

Bishop Gell admitted Mr. Latchman Singh Dhan Singh to deacon's orders, and the Rev. Marumudi Devanandam to priest's orders on December 26th, 1897. The ordination took place in Zion Church, Madras, and as it was the first time that such a service had been held there, it excited very great interest. The building was crowded some time before the service commenced. The Rev. D. A. Peter, native chaplain to the Bishop and pastor of the Mount Pastorate, preached the sermon, and six other native clergymen assisted in the service.

Death of the Rev. A. H. Arden.

A heavy loss befell the Mission and the whole Society in the death of the Rev. Albert Henry Arden on Sunday, November 7th, 1897, on board the P. and O. steamship Massilia, as he was proceeding to take charge as an honorary missionary of the Nilgiri and Wynaad Mission. Mr. Arden, who was descended from the ancient house of Arden in Warwickshire, and could thus claim the proud distinction of being akin to William Shakespeare, graduated at Christ's College, Cambridge, in 1862, and went out two years afterwards to the Telugu Mission, to which ten years' devoted service were given. Then four years were spent in the home ministry as successively Curate of All Saints', Newmarket, Vicar of All Saints', Sudbury, and Vicar of Newhall, Burton-on-Trent. In 1878 he sailed again for India with the intention of returning to his former Mission in the Telugu country, but on reaching Madras he was detained there to take up the joint secretaryship with the Rev. David Fenn of the Corresponding Committee, and after Mr. Fenn's death the same year he became sole secretary. His second term of service in the field was, however, a brief one, and from 1881 to 1895 he was in this country, engaged as Association Secretary, part of the time in Bedfordshire, Herts, Hants, and Cambridgeshire, residing at Cambridge, where he was lecturer in Telugu at the University, and latterly as an Honorary Association Secretary for South Wales. His fervent incisive appeals will long be remembered, and happily his well-known books, Are Foreign Missions doing any Good? Foreign Missions and Home Calls, and Objections to Foreign Missions, remain to perpetuate his ministry. His third term of missionary service was in 1895–96, when he again acted as secretary of the Madras Corresponding Committee during the furlough of the Rev. E. Sell. He suffered from a fall from his horse in September, 1895, and the following April his own and his eldest daughter's state of health obliged him to leave India. In September, 1896, his daughter, Mary Arden—a friend of the family wrote, "There has always been a Mary Arden"—died at Leysin-sur-Aigle, in the valley of the Rhône. On the return home of the Rev. A. H. Lash from Ootacamund, Mr. Arden volunteered to go out once more, and was accompanied by his second daughter. The Rev. Ll. G. Scott Price of this Mission, who was on board the Massilia with Mr. Arden returning to the field, wrote home some interesting particulars of his last hours:—

His books on Foreign Missions

> He came on board this vessel at Port Said, and soon after arrival came to greet us of the C.M.S. his fellow-passengers. He complained a good deal of his head, and the noise and movement incidental to ship life were exceedingly distressing to him. But we all hoped he would be benefited by the voyage, and his daughter said to him, "We hope you are patched up for many a year yet." He came aboard on Wednesday, the 3rd. We did not see much of him on Thursday, owing to his need of rest and quiet.

Seeking to win a Bengali for Christ.

On Friday evening, while many of the passengers were amusing themselves at a ball on the quarter-deck, he was seeking for nearly two hours to win for Christ a young Bengali whom he had met in England and who is a passenger.

On Saturday evening I went to have a talk with him about the Sunday's services. He then told me he had been feeling the heat a great deal. He had only been able to read seventy-eight verses of St. Matthew's Gospel in Tamil—taking about ten at a time as he felt he could do it. . . .

His daughter relates most touchingly the story of his death:—

His last appeal.

On Sunday morning (November 7th) at 10.45, Morning Service was held in the saloon. Mr. MacDonald took the prayers and father gave the address. He chose for his text the words, "All authority is given unto Me in heaven and on earth. Go ye, therefore, and make disciples of all the nations" (St. Matt. xxviii. 18, 19, R.V.). He dwelt on the deep importance of our Lord's great parting charge, and pleaded so earnestly for Mission work, showing how little the Church of Christ is yet doing. His voice was strong and vigorous until he came to the words, "Lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end." This was said in a quiet, intense tone, and at the word "end," without sign or warning, he suddenly fell forward on the floor quite unconscious. In a moment I was at his side, and the captain and the doctor immediately tried every restorative, but he just drew a breath or two, and then, without sigh or struggle, his spirit returned to God who gave it. How can we grieve over such a beautiful Home-going? The last words of His Master were the last words on his lips, and in an earnest effort to press home this great parting charge he was translated into the presence of the Lord he loved to serve.

Our hearts are full of glad, deep thankfulness, so great is the feeling of his joy, that all the pain of the parting is taken away, and we who love him —oh, so dearly—can look up to our heavenly Father and say, "Thou hast given him his heart's desire, and hast not withholden the request of his lips."

Buried at sea.

His remains were buried at sea, about twelve miles south of the island Jebel Tuir. For all Mr. Arden's labours, and the spirit in which he undertook them, for his acute perception of missionary principles, for the unwearied devotion in which he illustrated his own faith in the Gospel and the great command, for a noble life consistently closed in the very act of urging the claims of Christ and of souls for whom He died, the Committee render humble and hearty thanks to Almighty God.

The Revs. W. M. H. Wathen and W. S. Hooton have retired from the Mission.

I. MADRAS AND THE NILGIRIS.

The Rev. and Mrs. H. D. Goldsmith came home on furlough, and the Rev. M. G. Goldsmith on account of health in April, 1898. The Rev. and Mrs. A. H. Lash returned to the Mission in February.

MADRAS.

The Divinity School, MADRAS, had a year of steady progress under the Rev. H. D. Goldsmith (now at home), its Principal since it was revived in 1884. Two of its students, P. M. Aaron and J. Gnanamuttu, both graduates, were presented for the October Universities' Preliminary Examination for Orders, and both passed in the second class. Two other students did well in the Bishop's Greek Testament Examination; A. Devadas obtained the first prize, and A. Manikam was awarded a third prize, being only 1½ marks below the S.P.G. College student who won the second prize. The students have meetings among themselves and quite spontaneously for Bible reading and prayers; one of them has formed a Sunday-school which he instructs, the nucleus being the children of his brother students who live in the Celia Hostel belonging to the Divinity School; another has a class for the domestic servants in the school; and the newly-formed branch of the Y.M.C.A. in Royapettah is to a large degree worked by the students. One of the students was a cause of deep sorrow and disappointment. It was mentioned in last year's Report that a convert named Gopal Chandra Shastri, who was baptized at Nasik in August, 1896, had joined the Divinity School. This man, whose ability and cleverness raised high hopes of his future usefulness, and whose apparently deep earnestness endeared him to all the staff and to his fellow students, had while still a Hindu given out that he was an M.A. of Calcutta University. This was not the case, and most lamentably he lacked the moral courage to throw off the mask. When the University Calendar was produced and he was invited to point out his name, he equivocated, and then resigned and disappeared. "May God open his eyes to see and acknowledge his sin, and bring back the wanderer to the fold of Christ," is the aspiration of Mr. Goldsmith, in which the readers of this Report will unite. On Mr. Goldsmith taking furlough in April, 1898, the Rev. E. A. L. Moore, who spent the year mainly in the study of Tamil—first in Madras and then at Palamcotta, in Tinnevelly—took charge of the Divinity School.

Madras. Divinity School. A sad disappointment.

The Society's direct evangelistic work in the city and neighbourhood of Madras is carried on by public preaching in the bazaars, by visiting the educated Hindu gentlemen, and by means of a High School for Mohammedan youths. This last, known as the Harris High School, which was established in 1856 by a legacy left by the Hon. Sibylla Harris, daughter of the hero of Seringapatam, is under the Rev. T. H. Fitzpatrick. Its native head-master is the Rev. J. S. Peter, B.A., and two other Christian B.A.'s of the University of Madras are among the tutors. The Rev. Latchman Singh Dhan Singh, who was admitted to deacon's orders in December, as mentioned above, was a pupil in the school, and he also is one of the tutors. The school has never been so well provided with Hindustani-speaking teachers. The number of boys on the roll is 202. Colonel H. S. Stewart, I.S.C., presided at the annual prize-giving in March, 1897. The Rev. Dhan Singh has, in addition to his school duties, the pastoral charge of the Hindustani Congregation which meets for worship in the school-hall. His sermons, Mr. Fitzpatrick says, are "clear, faithful, and practical." Bazaar Preaching is carried on in Triplicane, the Moslem quarter close to the school, on four mornings and two evenings of each week. The audiences are few in the mornings, but on Thursday evenings they are seldom less than sixty. The Divinity School students, who are Tamils, then unite with the Hindustani-speaking catechists, and the addresses are thus adapted to the audience, according as Hindus or Mohammedans preponderate. One Mohammedan became an inquirer as the fruit of the out-door preaching; and three other inquirers are mentioned: an old man who attended a mission school, when a boy; a young man from St. Thomas' Mount, of whom some hope is entertained, although his account of his own past history proved on investigation to be not a true one; and a young man who is what is termed a Labba, namely, a Tamil-speaking Mohammedan, a descendant of converts to Mohammedanism from Hinduism, of whom there are many in South India. This last is considered the most hopeful of the four inquirers. He has assisted in translating tracts into Tamil Arabic, i.e., Tamil written in Arabic character, which the Madras Religious Tract Society has undertaken to print and circulate. It is believed that this is the first effort to bring religious truth in readable form before this class of the community. The Rev. S. John continues his labours among Educated Hindus. He gives the names of several whom he regards as hopeful, one who regularly attends the monthly prayer meeting of the Madras Civil Service Prayer Union; another who reads every Christian pamphlet and tract he receives; and a third, a man in very high position in the Madras Registration Office, who allows the females of his household to mix freely with Christian women. In February, 1897, the Hindus in Madras were excited to a high pitch of expectation by the visit of Swami Vivekananda, who had represented Hinduism at the Chicago Parliament of Religions in 1893, and about whose "successes" in America and England elaborate accounts had been circulated. Many of his hearers were, however, greatly disappointed, inasmuch as he discouraged many of their own superstitious customs and practices, and consequently before he left those who had hailed him as competent to provide the world with a universal religion, taunted him with having violated his caste and brought disgrace on the Hindu community. Mr. John held a religious discussion with him for the space of two or three hours in the presence of forty or fifty educated Hindus. Mr. John says that the visit and lectures of the Rev. Dr. Barrows (who had presided at the World's Parliament of Religions) immediately after the departure of Swami Vivekananda, greatly helped the cause of Christianity. and of Dr. Barrows.

December 12th, 1897, the day suggested by the Indian Secretaries of the S.V.M.U., and adopted by the various Missionary Conferences as a day of prayer for the awakening of India, was observed in Madras by two large united prayer-meetings in the Satthianadhan Memorial Hall, at which Professor Satthianadhan of the Presidency College, and Mr. D. Maconaughty, Madras Secretary of the S.V.M.U., respectively presided. Miss Maud Arden, second daughter of the late Rev. A. H. Arden, has been appointed Secretary of the Madras Y.W.C.A. Observance of Day of Prayer.

The four pastorates connected with the Madras Church Council are the Southern Pastorate, under the Rev. W. D. Clarke, son-in-law of the late Rev. W. T. Satthianadhan; the Mount Pastorate, under the Rev. D. A. Peter; the Northern Pastorate, under the Rev. J. Satthianadhan; and Poonamalee Pastorate, also under the care of Rev. D. A. Peter, with a resident deacon, the Rev. J. Gnanapragasam. The Rev. W. D. Clarke, reviewing the past thirty years since the Southern Pastorate was organized in 1867, remarks with thankfulness on the growth in numbers and in liberality of the two congregations under his charge. The number of baptized Christians increased from 232 to 839 in the thirty years; and the contributions from Rs. 497 to Rs. 2,793; the former fourfold, and the latter sixfold. He believes, however, that the spiritual growth is still more marked. He says:— Pastorates Growth of Southern Pastorate in thirty years.

There has been of late a deepening of the spiritual life of the members of the congregation. I cannot say this of every man, woman, and child in the pastorate, but there has been a general awakening and earnest activity in many a heart, and there are not a few in the congregation who lead lives of deep devotion and great usefulness, and in whom there has been a complete transformation of character. This is indeed remarkable in Indian Christianity, for time was when Indian Christians were sadly wanting in a spirit of entire consecration and active voluntary work for the extension of the Kingdom of Christ among their countrymen, and the spirit of entire devotion, and even the spiritual tone of Indian Christians, was, as a rule, very low. But I notice a remarkable change in these respects among our Christian brethren. A general awakening.

Confining my remarks to the members of my own congregation, I may state that in the two congregations entrusted to my care I see some men and women who practise self-denial, and devote their time, money, and influence for the building up of Christ's Church and the extension of His Kingdom. The richer and well-to-do in the congregation cheerfully attend to the physical and spiritual wants of the poor, by house-to-house visitation and by conducting Bible-classes and prayer-meetings, and it is a matter for thankfulness that the Sunday services are now attended by the members, not because they are expected to do so, nor because they have to do it as a matter of duty, but because they love and enjoy them.

The Zion Church was built in 1847 by the American Mission, and was enlarged in 1881 by the late Rev. W. T. Satthianadhan. It is now in need of further enlargement, and it is proposed to erect a gallery. In 1881 the cost of enlargement was mainly met by friends in England, but the Pastorate Committee do not wish their pastor now to appeal either to the C.M.S. or to the Madras Church Council for help; they expect the members of the congregation to bear the cost. On one occasion, in November, when an organ, the gift of the late Rev. A. H. Arden in memory of his daughter Miss Mary Arden, was dedicated, there were 950 people present, and many were unable to gain admittance. Since this organ was introduced the singing at the services has much improved. The holding of an ordination in the Church in December, 1897, has been mentioned above (page 260). The Three Years' Enterprise, Mr. Clarke says, has proved a great blessing to his people, raising the tone of every department of the work of the pastorate. Ten adults were baptized, and one who was by profession a Roman Catholic but was living a godless life, was, through the influence of a member of Zion congregation, who lodged in his house, led into Gospel light, and publicly renounced the errors of the Church of Rome at the watch-night service in Zion Church. The Juvenile Association connected with the pastorate is one of the oldest associations in Madras, having been commenced in 1870 by Mrs. Clarke, when she was a child. Sunday-schools are conducted by members of the congregation at ten different places in Madras; and much open-air preaching is also done. The Preachers' Association was formed in 1887; in 1890 the members undertook an annual preaching tour to places outside Madras; and in 1894 this annual preaching tour became half-yearly. In June, 1897, Poonamallee was visited; and the last four days of December were spent by the members of the Association at Pallavaram. The methods and incidents were similar to those described in recent Annual Reports. The Chintadrepetta Christian Association, of which the Bishop of Madras is the patron, has an attractive reading-room, in which monthly lectures are delivered in English, and other gatherings are held with the view to presenting Christian truths to the educated Hindus of the city. The Rev. A. A. Williams, the Cathedral Chaplain, in June, 1897, lectured on the Queen, dwelling upon the striking features of her Christian character. Professor S. Satthianadhan, the Vice-president of the Association (who had the pleasure of receiving from the late Mr. Gladstone an autograph letter thanking him for copies of his late wife's works, Saguna and Kamala, which were mentioned in the Annual Report for 1894–95, pages 197–8), lectured on his recent tour in Europe and America, especially dwelling on the power of Christianity as he witnessed it in the lives of people he had met with.

The Three Years' Enterprise a great blessing.

An autograph letter from the late Mr. Gladstone.

The Rev. J. Satthianadhan has two congregations in the Northern Pastorate; one at Black Town which consists of Government officials, college students, and others of comparatively good social position; and the other at Tinnevelly Settlement, which consists of settlers from the South, who are sellers of rice, firewood, &c. The two congregations number 676, including children, of whom 383 are communicants. Cottage prayer-meetings are held in the people's houses, in which lay members of the congregation assist. Thirty-six candidates were confirmed. An ingathering service and sale produced Rs. 136, less than the sum realized in 1896 by Rs. 96; but the total sum contributed was Rs. 1,467, over Rs. 300 in advance of the previous year, notwithstanding high prices through the famine. In connexion with the Three Years' Enterprise some members of the congregation and some Mission agents agreed to set apart a month's full salary, and others took boxes and collecting cards. Eight adults were baptized. One was a young girl who for eight years had suffered from leprosy and who heard the Gospel at the services at the Leper Hospital; another learned the truth while a pupil in a Mission School. In the four primary schools of the pastorate there are 224 pupils, of whom 52 are girls. The Rev. J. Gnanapragasam, of the Poonamalee Pastorate, dwells on the privations suffered by many of the Christian villagers under his charge, a few of whom, he says, even died of starvation. At Padur twelve adults were baptized in the open air in front of the little thatched prayer-house, which did not afford under its roof accommodation for the numerous heathen relatives who wished to witness the ceremony. The late Mr. Arden had purchased and presented to the Christians in this village a mango garden of twelve acres, when the oppression of their heathen landlords placed them in a grave extremity. During a visitation of cholera the Christian settlers on this land were entirely exempt from its ravages, only the caste portion of the village occupied by the landlords being assailed. Consequently this little enclosure became, as Mr. Gnanapragasam says, "a veritable Zoar" amidst surrounding judgments, and the Heathen observed the fact with wonder. One of them publicly cried in the street, that "the God of the Christians is the most powerful of all; therefore go to Him for safety." Forty-four candidates from the five congregations of the pastorate were confirmed during the year.

The C.E.Z.M.S. has three European lady missionaries and nine assistant missionaries, fifty native teachers, and fifteen Bible-women labouring among the Mohammedans and Hindus of Madras.

The Rev. M. G. Goldsmith (now at home) continued throughout 1897 to labour at Hyderabad in the Nizam's Dominions as the agent, lent by the C.M.S., of the Madras Diocesan Mission. His health obliged him to take a trip to Cairo in January, 1898, and he was advised then to proceed to England. He testifies to the toleration practised by the Government of the Nizam towards all creeds, a probably unique spectacle on the part of a Mohammedan Government. He attributes this to the ability and enlightenment of the men who for many years past have held the highest offices of State. It is among the men employed in the Government offices that the most hopeful opportunities for exerting Christian influence are found. Some fifty usually attend the Sunday Hindustani services. An Industrial School has twenty-two inmates. The chief work of the Mission is open-air preaching and discussion. A society called the "Mohammedan Opposition Society" had its representatives as near as the police would allow, most of them being men of indifferent character. The Christian preachers confine their addresses to simple proclamations regarding Sin and Atonement, and some of them, Mr. Goldsmith says, are very clever and eloquent in expounding parables such as the Prodigal Son, or the Pharisee and the Publican. A man of the Shia sect was baptized on July 11th, receiving the name of Justin Dildarali. His native place is Junir. A little niece of the second catechist Maulavi Abdullah, who sang "Jesus loves me" most feelingly, was baptized. A number of professed inquirers were met with, as in previous years, whose motives did not bear scrutiny. Being required to work to support themselves proves the crux in most cases. One man, named Sheikh Abu Saoud, who had visited England, remained some ten days in the Mission-house, and then went without notice over to the Mohammedan Opposition, and subsequently removed to Bombay. The Rev. E. A. L. Moore, who had some intercourse with him in Madras, writes :—

Religious toleration of the Nizam's Government.

Godless Europeans the cause of a convert's relapse.

> I saw something of him in a social way for about a week, and was much impressed by his simplicity and affableness. Owing to his insufficient power of speaking English, it was difficult to converse with him upon religious and other matters. I think the main cause of his sudden lapse almost immediately after reaching India may have been his unfortunate experiences on board ship coming out. He was friendless and apparently the object of much ridicule. The majority of his fellow-passengers were godless, and constantly getting drunk, a vice specially odious to a Mohammedan. One man in conversation with him scoffed at religion, and others tried to tempt him to enter a drink-shop at Port Said. Unless this account, which he himself gave, is exaggerated, this was certainly enough to try the faith of a new convert severely.

Discussion with an apostate.

Mr. Goldsmith took a tour in January, 1897, to the ancient city of Bidar, 85 miles north-west of Hyderabad. There he and his party met in discussion a lapsed convert of some years ago, viz. Paulus Abdul Haqq, whom the late Rev. Dr. C. Baumann baptized in Calcutta in 1884 (see Annual Report 1884–85, page 71). The place of meeting was a room in the palatial quarters of the First Taluqdar, and all the officials of the place, some 70 in number, were present. Mr. Goldsmith says of the man and of the encounter:—

I had not seen this poor apostate before. His haggard look and manner seemed to tell a tale of long wandering from the Fold. He is employed as a preacher by the great Pir Chanda Sahib of Bidar. The subject he chose was, "How could Christ be perfect God and perfect Man?" and in the one and a half hours of the discussion many important Scripture proofs were brought out by Hafiz Muhammad Jan, who was our spokesman. We were very thankful for this "drawing-room meeting," as many were there whom we could not otherwise have met, and the proceedings were orderly, which disconcerted Paulus and the more bitter of his party, who had been planning for a disturbance.

NILGIRI AND WYNAAD TAMIL MISSION.

The Rev. A. H. Lash left OOTACAMUND to come to England in April, 1897, and returned, after the death of the Rev. A. H. Arden, in February, 1898. The Rev. T. Kember, of Palamcotta, took charge for a few months. The Rev. G. Swamiadian, the native pastor, reports upon the work. The baptized Christians number 514; and two adults were baptized. The Rev. A. S. Vores was transferred from Coonoor to Tinnevelly in October, 1897, a catechist being placed in temporary charge. Mr. Lash mentions the willingness of the people in the wild and mountainous Nilgiri district to receive and listen to the preachers of the Gospel, their readiness to send their children to the Mission-school, and the pleasure which the children themselves take in their lessons. He says:— Ootacamund. Nilgiri.

I was much struck last year, when visiting the first purely Kurumbur school, with the intelligence of the boys; one boy, when describing how God created man in His own image, and formed him of the dust of the ground, appeared to model an imaginary man with his hands, and blew upon it while he narrated how God breathed into his nostrils the breath of life and man became a living soul. They also sang and acted in their simple way a poetical description of the parable of the Prodigal Son. One could not but feel that the beautiful truths with which we are so familiar, and to which many of us have become more or less callous or indifferent, had to them the power and interest of a new revelation, destined to transform their lives.

Three C.E.Z.M.S. lady missionaries, one assistant, fifteen native teachers, and seven Bible-women are at work at Ootacamund.

II. TELUGU MISSION.

THE Rev. E. G. Roberts was married on December 8th, 1897, to Miss Charlotte Primrose Sharman, who had been previously accepted as a missionary of the Society. Mrs. H. W. Eales returned to the Mission in November; and the Rev. A. E. Goodman and Mr. and Mrs. M. Browne came home in May, 1898.

MASULIPATAM.

MASULIPATAM is the centre of the Society's Telugu Mission. In it are not only a large college for influencing high-caste Masulipatam.

young men and making known to them the Gospel of the Lord Jesus Christ, but also a Training Institution for preparing the natives to be agents, teachers, and pastors, and a large girls' school with training department for future female agents. The Noble College experienced well-deserved academical successes, exceeding those of any previous year, and such as the Principal, the Rev. C. W. A. Clarke, says astonished the whole staff. The B.A. results were brilliant. Eight appeared for the English branch of this Examination, and all passed, one being well up in the first class—the first time the College has scored a first class in this examination. In the second language branch also all passed, one being in the first class, and the second in Latin in the whole Presidency. In the History branch, five out of six passed, and the fifth and sixth places in the Presidency were secured. The fifth place fell to Miss K. Krishnamma, now Mrs. S. Satthianadhan, wife of Professor Satthianadhan, of Madras, one of the two Native Christian sisters who were students in the College. She took a second class in all three branches, and is the first Indian lady graduate of the Madras University. Her younger sister, who took a first class in the F.A., as mentioned last year (page 268), is reading for the same examination. In the F.A. Examination, eleven out of twenty-one passed, two being in the first class. In the Matriculation, fifteen out of thirty passed, one in the first class. The Rev. W. C. Penn took the senior B.A. class in Scripture. Four in this class, out of eight, were Christians—namely, Miss Krishnamma, who is the daughter of a Brahman convert; one who was himself converted from Brahmanism; the son of another Brahman convert; and an Eurasian. Of the four Hindus, two call themselves Brahmos, or Deists, but are much in sympathy with Christianity and hold Christ and His teaching in great respect. The Rev. E. G. Roberts gives expression to some early impressions which have undoubtedly a value, because he had a not inconsiderable experience of scholastic work at home before he went out to the Mission-field. Regarding the care taken to promote the spiritual interests of the students, he writes:—

Noble College.

Academical successes.

First Indian lady graduate of Madras University

Care for spiritual interests of students.

> I have had much experience of school-work at home, both as pupil and as teacher, and that in schools where the religious work was considered to be a predominant element; and I do not hesitate to say that nowhere in my experience has the moral and spiritual interest of the pupils been so carefully attended to as at the Noble College.

Then as to the amount of intelligent acquaintance with Christian truth possessed by the students:—

Intelligent knowledge of the Bible.

> The intelligence and power of memory displayed by the more advanced pupils simply astonished me. It was difficult at first to realize that some of the answers were given by other than Christian boys brought up in Christian homes. In fact, during all the years (twenty at least) during which I have had experience of teaching in various forms at home, I have not known any pupils give more intelligent answers, or show such interest in the spiritual lessons of the Bible, as some of these young students.

He gives as examples of questions asked him by members of his Bible-class: "In what way did the miraculous power of Jesus Christ differ from that of Elijah or any other worker of miracles?" "What connexion is there between Christ's power to heal the sick of the palsy, and His claim to have the power of forgiving sins?" "How can we know that Christ really worked the miracles ascribed to Him?" "What grounds are there for believing that Christ really claimed to be the Son of God. Were not these claims really put forward in after years by His disciples?"

Mr. G. S. Eddy, of the S.V.M.U. and Travelling Secretary of the Y.M.C.A., Madras, conducted a Special Mission for the students in March, 1898. Mr. Clarke writes:—

Special mission for students.

The general plan was this: Mr. Eddy took the hour always devoted at the College to prayers and Bible lesson, viz. 10—11, for his addresses to the English-speaking boys each day. He took the Gospel of St. John, and made "Life" his main topic, and then worked through the Gospel, a chapter or two each day, getting the boys to study the claims made by or for Jesus Christ, the evidence adduced in support of them, and the results recorded in each chapter as to belief and unbelief. The boys were deeply interested from the first, and as the evidence was massed day by day, and the results shown and dwelt upon, many of them were greatly stirred. They were given fixed times for coming to see and talk with Mr. Eddy, and a large number availed themselves of the opportunity. They came in large numbers to the lectures given to educated Hindus on four evenings of the week, and many seemed to have taken a very real step forward, and to be determined to sift the claims of Jesus Christ to the bottom. We have re-arranged our Bible-classes, one class being formed for those boys who are eager to pursue this inquiry, and want to follow it out systematically, working up the evidence in the Gospels and the Acts; this class I take, and it at present consists of about twelve members. More may join, or some may fall off after the novelty has ceased, and go back to their ordinary classes; but there is no question that great interest has been evoked, and the College has been stirred to its depths. We are praying and expecting that many of those who have been touched may be led by the Spirit to accept Jesus as their Saviour. The number of boys capable of understanding English, and present in the College Hall daily, was about 175, and in addition I specially requested all the non-Christian masters to attend during the hour.

On the second Saturday (March 12th) the boys who wanted to hear more were invited to attend a meeting, as Saturday is a whole holiday, and many boys go away to neighbouring villages. I did not expect many, and, indeed, only some thirty or forty came; four of these openly declared that they had been led to believe that Jesus was Divine, though they had not yet found in Him their Saviour. The consequence was that one of these boys was instantly sent off to a neighbouring village by his friends, and was detained there by his father until Mr. Eddy had gone, and another was besieged by his friends all day to expostulate with him upon the enormity of his declaration. You will realize from this that any advance towards Christianity, if it seems sincere, meets with prompt and energetic opposition.

I thank God with all my heart for this mission, for I have been greatly blessed personally in it, and it has drawn us Christian workers nearer together, and has shaken the confidence of the enemy considerably. I trust many prayers will go up for Masulipatam, that the work may be consummated and many souls saved.

Lectures to educated Hindus.

Lectures to educated Hindus, followed by discussions, were a special feature of the year's work on the part of the College staff. Mr. Venkatachelam, a deputy collector, one of Mr. Noble's converts, who is a great student of Sanskrit, lectured on "The True Position of Krishna in the Vedantic Teaching." Mr. Roberts was struck with the manifest want of earnestness, or belief in their own religion, on the part of those who took part in the discussions; the leading men, indeed, candidly confessed that they knew nothing of the subject treated of. The line taken by the Hindus in these discussions was to attack Christianity, and they usually did so with weapons supplied from England and America, their objections being derived from Unitarian and infidel pamphlets, such as difficulties about the account of the Creation, Resurrection, &c. Mr. Roberts says as to this literature:—

Unitarian pamphlets freely circulated

I have not seen any of the coarser kind of infidel pamphlets such as are but too common in England, though Native Christians have told me that they are sometimes to be found. I believe, however, that they would be rejected by the religious mind of the Hindu with disgust. But Unitarian pamphlets are circulated freely, and find their way into the hands of the students. I have found some of them and read them. They are chiefly the work of theistic writers in America, and their object is to overthrow the authority of Scripture, and, of course, to destroy belief in the Divinity of our Lord Jesus Christ. Difficulties arising from the account of the Creation, the histories of Israel and Judah, and other portions of Bible history are strongly and often unfairly stated. The theories of Strauss and Renan are brought to bear upon the Gospels, and the vagaries of the author of Supernatural Religion and similar writers are quoted as though they were established facts. These pamphlets, the work of men whose knowledge of the Scriptures is very superficial, and who repeat the statements of anti-Christian theorists without any serious attempt to investigate their truth, have undoubtedly added much to the difficulties which the educational missionary has to contend with. The statements they contain, often strange enough in themselves, become even stranger when repeated by the Hindus. One of the most intelligent of the students in my class, and one by no means hostile to the Gospel, had believed that St. Paul was a writer of the second century, A.D. ! And one student of the F.A. division, who aspires to be a leader of religious thought in his class, and whose devotion to the study of anti-Christian pamphlets has brought about his failure to pass his preliminary examination for the F.A. examination, has been assuring an admiring audience that the Gospel of St. John was written by a Roman Catholic in the fourth century, A.D. ! These anti-Christian pamphlets are, so far as I can ascertain, supplied by the Unitarians in America and at home to the Brahmos in India, with whom Unitarians have much in common.

A Hindu Lecture Committee.

One result of this activity of the College Staff in the direction of these lectures was that a Hindu Lecture Committee was formed to arrange for lectures to be delivered on the fundamental principles of Hinduism. The sub-judge, a Hindu of considerable learning, for whose character the missionaries entertain great respect, as do the whole community, was the moving spirit in this movement. Six Branch Schools are connected with the College. Mr. Penn, on visiting a pupil of one of them, aged seven, who was ill with fever, was told by the lad's Hindu father that, as he lay in pain, he would repeat texts of Scripture learnt in school. Mr. Roberts pleads for prayer for Indian students :—

The Indian student-plea for sympathy and prayer.

He has many estimable and lovable qualities, whatever his faults may be. He is not, as a rule, of the same strong nature as is found so often in the British student; yet, even in the short time I have spent in India, I believe I have found some at any rate who have in them a true manly character. I believe that he is very susceptible to kindness and sympathy; and his position is in many ways a trying one. Often he is extremely poor, and finds it very hard to support himself while at school and college. If his thoughts are drawn to religious subjects, he must go through many a painful hour of thought. He cannot but feel the utter inadequacy of his own religion to supply his needs; yet it is hallowed to him by centuries of history, and by all the ties of kindred and country. The truths of the Gospel are utterly new to him, and in many ways most strange, and he knows that if he accepts them, and makes up his mind to acknowledge Christ before men, he must, literally in some cases, suffer the loss of all things that he holds dear. May we on whom the light of the glorious Gospel of Christ has shone so long, sympathize with him, and help him, and intercede for him with the One whose strength is made perfect in weakness.

Preparandi Institution.

The Rev. A. E. Goodman (now at home) was Principal of the Preparandi Institution until November, 1897, when he was succeeded by the Rev. H. J. Tanner. In the Normal Department, twenty-nine students passed the Method or written Examination for teachers' certificates out of forty-three who were presented, and thirteen passed the Practical Test out of fourteen. Twenty-six men with complete teachers' certificates left the Institution to take up work as schoolmasters in the several districts of the Mission. In the Practising Department, eight out of nine candidates obtained primary certificates. Six passed, out of fourteen, the full evangelist's Second Year Bible Examination, and one out of five the First Year Examination. The Sharkey Memorial School is under Mrs. Tanner. An Indian lady who had the supervision of this school for some few years died in February, 1898, viz., the widow of the Rev. M. Ratnam, one of Noble's first converts. For nearly a quarter of a century she laboured with her husband in Masulipatam and Bezwada, and for seven years after her husband's death she continued to labour at this station. She was the first Indian Christian lady to open caste-girls' schools in Masulipatam, and was deeply respected by Christians and non-Christians alike.

Death of Mrs. Ratnam.

Pastorates

There are seven Pastorates in connexion with the Masulipatam Church Council, of which the Rev. A. E. Goodman was the chairman during the year under review. The Masulipatam Pastorate has the largest congregation in the district, and during the year Mr. Goodman's efforts—heartily seconded by those of the Rev. M. Devanandham, the native pastor—to bring about complete self-support were entirely successful. Not only is the pastor maintained by the offerings of the people, and the expenses of Christian worship and of fabric repairs met, but a substantial sum, viz., Rs. 400, in addition is contributed to the funds of the Church Council. The church collections and monthly subscriptions in this pastorate doubled during the year. This effort was in response to the Three Years' Enterprise appeal. The sum raised was Rs. 1,214, viz., Rs. 413 from church offertories, Rs. 472 from monthly subscriptions, and Rs. 227 from thank-offerings at the harvest festival. Besides these amounts, over Rs. 38 was contributed for famine relief, Rs. 18 for the Bible Society, Rs. 29 for Sunday-school prizes, and Rs. 15 for a Poor Fund, and an additional Rs. 500 was given in thankofferings after a Special Mission, apparently held at the beginning of 1898, which Mr. Dévanandham mentions without giving particulars. The harvest festival at which Rs. 227 was contributed was held on December 4th, 1897, and Mr. Devanandham believes it was the first to be held in the C.M.S. Telugu Mission. It was proposed to use the money for the support of an evangelist in the town of Masulipatam. At Areperala, seven families are reported ready for baptism. At Kondaram, an old post which was reoccupied during the past year, fifty-three persons were under instruction. At Nuthalapad, which was also occupied during the year, there are eleven inquirers. Mr. Goodman baptized in August, 1897, twenty-two converts connected with Doddanapudi, in the Godaveri district. The elders of this group were the parents, elder brothers, and sisters of two of the agents. The father of Yesudas, one of these two agents, is 90 years of age, and it was touching to see the feeble old man kneeling to receive the rite, and his son standing by with eyes full of tears—tears of joy. In the same month, Mr. Goodman baptized nineteen catechumens at Avukuru. And on the last day of the year he baptized by immersion in the River Upataru 101 people of the hamlets of Yeatipoggaru and Chinna Gollapollem. These people had asked for teachers in June, 1896, but although they were occasionally visited, no agent could be spared to reside among them until August, 1897. Mr. Goodman gives the following account of their steadfastness under persecution:—

One hundred baptized in a river.

Persecution of catechumens.

> Great persecution has prevailed. Some of the families were driven from their homes; the men were beaten; public ways were shut against them; false charges laid against them in court. The ferryman was instructed by the opposition party not to ferry any of those who had become inquirers to the weekly market on the other side of the river; the Komaties were forbidden to sell them food and provisions; and the dhobies refused to wash their clothes: but the catechumens care for none of these things. In November last the climax was reached when the leader of the opposition party set fire to and burnt down one of the school-houses which these people had erected at their own cost. During all this persecution not one of the 117 has gone back! They have been living examples of the "power of Christ to save to the uttermost all that come unto God by Him." One old woman—Muthyalumma—received a visit one morning from some of the opposition. They told her she must give up Christianity, or they would burn her house down. She replied, "You may burn my house, and "I will never give up Christ." even kill me, but I will never give up Christ." I have again just visited the villages, and after due examination, prayer, and exhortation, on the last day of the old year, at 7 A.M., I publicly baptized by immersion 101 of these people in the River Upputeru. The service was orderly and marked with great solemnity. The morning sun shone forth in all his splendour as those "who had come through great tribulation" descended to me in the river, were baptized, and received into the Church of Christ. I believe these villages will be a great centre of Christian life and activity. The "Sun of Righteousness" has dawned: "the Light is come, and the glory of the Lord has risen" upon them. There are yet two families, consisting of sixteen souls, to be baptized in these hamlets. They had gone to distant villages, and were unable to be present on this occasion.

The total number of adherents in the district increased during the year from 3,345 to 3,769.

The Rev. W. J. Williamson resided at Masulipatam engaged in language study until the autumn, when he removed to Bezwada. The C.E.Z.M.S. has six lady missionaries, four assistants, forty-two native teachers, and thirteen Bible-women in Masulipatam.

BEZWADA.

forates in the Bezwada district, and formed a new pastorate for Bezwada and a district of twelve miles' radius around it, which was placed under the Rev. G. H. Asirvatham, transferred from Masulipatam. This pastorate contains 773 adherents and 156 communicants. The services are held in the hall of the High School. Mr. Stone sees great possibilities for development, but laments the lack of suitable agents. Many of the Christians have a low standard of life and holiness. Mr. Stone found when he first took charge of the district that Sunday work was engaged in by many of them on very trivial pretexts. The members of the Church Council took up the question, and some improvement resulted, but a few of the Christians had engaged themselves to heathen employers on conditions which obliged them to do Sunday labour until the expiration of their term of service at the annual harvest. The Bolapad Pastorate, under the Rev. K. Naganna, has 1,081 adherents in twenty-eight congregations, for whose instruction, besides himself, there are eight teachers and two evangelists. The Tiyoor Pastorate, under the Rev. Battu Daniel, is some thirty-six miles long, and is partly within the Nizam's dominion. There are 1,110 adherents living in fifty-four villages, and fifteen agents labour among them. Both Mr. Naganna and Mr. Daniel speak of the well-to-do farmers' oppression of the low-caste Christians. Oppression by caste people.

The sufferings, too, of the poorer people, including the Christians, were great during the time of famine. Mr. Stone says:—

Reduced to eating a poisonous jungle root.

In the Tiruvoor Pastorate of this Mission district I found people as early as May last living on leaves of trees and various herbs which they boiled and ate. In many villages people existed by eating a kind of jungle-root, which they prepared by soaking it for forty-eight hours in boiling water, and then boiling it. When I questioned them as to the reason for soaking it, the people told me it was to extract the poison. So poisonous was this root, that the water in which it was soaked had to be thrown away most carefully to prevent fowls, &c., from drinking it and dying. People after a meal from this root seemed to get into a kind of stupor, and lie, apparently asleep, for four or five hours together. They also suffered a good deal from sharp, shooting pains in their limbs. Still, many subsisted on these roots during the hot season. The people seemed truly grateful for the help I was enabled to give them, chiefly in the way of grain, from money kindly supplied by the Society. Several European gentlemen, too, in this district helped me liberally, so that I was permitted to save many from starving. As soon as the early rains came, where the scarcity had been felt most, there cholera appeared and laid many low. Very few, however, died, as I was able to supply the poor people with suitable medicines, which no doubt again saved their lives.

Itineration.

The High School was under the charge of the Rev. H. J. Tanner until his transfer in the autumn of 1897 to Masulipatam. The Telugu Itinerants, under the leadership of the Rev. R. W. Peachey, visited over 200 towns and villages during the year, and were for the most part well received, the people willingly listening for even as long as two hours at a time to the Gospel preaching. When there was discussion, it was almost always carried on in a friendly spirit, without bitterness or disposition to oppose. The Itinerants were joined during February, 1897, by Mr. Venkatachelam (referred to above under Masulipatam, page 272), who spent his holiday in their company, and being famed far and wide for his knowledge of Hindu theology, made a great impression in favour of Christianity among the educated classes. A number of Vaishnava Brahmans, in one place, invited the band to go to them early, their object being to read a dissertation on idolatry, the points of which were easily answered. In another village a baffled opponent made a pathetic speech. Mr. Peachey writes:—

Pathetic infatuation.

We had some fifty or sixty people gathered round us, when a Komatie, who had been asking questions and opposing us in previous gatherings, at last, not being able to refute our answers, said with pitiable pathos, "My child may be covered with boils, the most loathsome object imaginable, but he is dear to me, and although others will not touch him, yet I fondle him and kiss him because I love him. So with my religion. It may be wrong. It may be foolish. It may be madness. It is dear to me. Leave me my madness. I love it!"

Mr. Peachey met with evidences that a monthly paper, called the Messenger of Truth, published in Madras, of which he sends copies to those whom he believes to be disposed to inquire about Christianity, is much read and valued. The missionaries from several of the stations, each accompanied by some evangelists, as well as the Itinerants, went in September to the Pushkaram Bathing Festival, which takes place in the River Kistna once in twelve years. Day by day, during the eleven days that the festival lasted, five C.M.S. preaching parties occupied as many centres. Some 8,000 handbills were given away, and hundreds of R.T.S. books and Bible portions were sold.

The C.E.Z.M.S. has two lady missionaries, four native teachers, and four Bible-women on its staff at Bezwada.

ELLORE.

Ellore.

The Rev. F. W. N. Alexander reports an increase of 160 on the roll of baptized Christians in the district around ELLORE, which is under his charge. The Christians in Chirivada subscribed Rs. 50, and pledged their crops for another Rs. 50, and that during famine time, to secure a site for a prayer-house and school-room in a place where the higher caste people could be educated and evangelized. The young men in the same town had the courage to preach Christ in the Brahman street. They have formed themselves into a branch of the Y.M.C.A. A second congregation has been formed in Ellore. The Rev. M. Jeevaratnam, younger brother of the Rev. M. Devanandam, of Masulipatam, is the pastor. In his pastorate there are 720 adherents and 156 communicants in fifteen congregations. Fifty-two adults were baptized during the year. There are thirteen schools, with 305 pupils. Mr. Alexander spent some Rs. 3,000 in famine relief in his district.

Poor Christians deny themselves for evangelization of high caste people.

Mr. M. Browne says that in the Ellore High School, of which he is Principal, there are not a few boys who by a quiet determined resistance to idol worship and the ceremonials of Hinduism, and by reading their Bibles and praying to God, are making it appear in which direction their religious sympathies trend. He gives the following examples :—

High School.

One of the senior Brahman students—one who has always taken the deepest interest in Bible study, and stood high in the "pass list" of the last Peter Cator Scripture examination—has openly confessed to us that he is a true and firm believer in the Gospel. He tells us, moreover, that his younger brother and another Brahman student, both of whom, having now matriculated, are reading in the Noble College, are believers like himself. The three boys, in their study and conversation together, discovered one another's faith in Christ some time ago, and ever since they have been steadily and firmly progressing together in heavenly knowledge. Of all three boys I may say that in high character and exemplary conduct they have stood out before the whole school, and all the more conspicuously as they are all three among the most talented of our students. The bright intelligence of one placed him head and shoulders above all, and he held the position of head boy, or monitor, of the school. He gained first-class honours at the last matriculation, and even as a Fourth Form boy he passed the Peter Cator Examination over the heads of the Fifth and Sixth Forms. He has all along made a remarkably firm stand for Christ, not only before the boys of his class, but to outsiders as well.

On one occasion the Rev. G. Krishnayya, the headmaster, in opening the school, used the Prayer Book for Indian Students of Dr. Murdoch, published by the Christian Literature Society, and several boys applied to him afterwards for copies of this Prayer-book and paid the price. Two leading Brahman lawyers in the town gave the boys a picnic. Mr. Browne says:—

A Brahman lawyer sets caste rules at naught.

> To see the thraldom of caste thus defied and its terrors thrown to the winds, and Christians, Mohammedans, and Hindus sitting and eating together as brothers, the hosts Brahmans, and the place a European's compound, was a truly novel spectacle. Could it be that some of those present—the hosts at all events—desired to show that they long for the time to come when Christianity shall bring the brotherhood of man to perfection and remove all restrictions against such happy social gatherings? All the speeches that were made on the occasion, both by Hindus and Mohammedans, certainly breathed this spirit. The significance of the event is enhanced by the fact that this was the way in which these Hindu gentlemen chose to celebrate the festival of the Telugu New Year's Day.

One of these lawyers was educated in a Mission school.

The C.E.Z.M.S. has two lady missionaries, one assistant, twelve native teachers, and five Bible-women at Ellore.

RAGHAVAPURAM AND KHAMMAMETT.

The Rev. H. W. Eales was in charge of the work in the RAGHAVAPURAM district, but no report has been received.

Khammamett.

The Rev. J. B. Panes, of KHAMMAMETT, states that the year was one of severe trials, but one also of many and great blessings. Grain was double its usual price in April, 1897, and nearly treble in June. The people gathered grass reeds in the jungle, dug up roots, &c., and for their cattle, of which thousands died, they even uncovered their thatched houses for food to keep them alive. The quality of the food eaten was probably largely responsible for a very severe visitation of cholera which followed close upon the famine. In Khammamett itself over 200 Hindus and Mohammedans died, and quite a thousand in other villages. But the Christians were graciously preserved, only four of them altogether being fatally attacked. Absence from panic and good medicine helped the recovery of such as were ill. Regarding the Heathen in this time of their trouble, Mr. Panes says:—

Christians preserved during cholera visitation.

Despair of the poor Heathen.

> The awful despair of the Heathen, their terrible ignorance and superstition, their vain efforts in seeking relief from their gods by means of sacrifices, nostrums, and witchcraft, were most appalling. We felt, as never before, how great a burden of responsibility as Christians was laid upon us, and what a privilege was ours in being witnesses for Christ in the midst of so much sorrow, sickness, and sin.

In spite of these troubles the Christians contributed over Rs. 650 for Church work; and the children in the schools 103 in number, gave Mr. Panes Rs. 5 towards a famine collection, which they had saved by denying themselves part of their food. Fifty-three adults were baptized: on Easter Day, 1897, ten from the Gopavaram Circle; and on October 27th, twenty-six in the village of Uppelamadaka in the Kalakudem Circle. Mr. Panes describes the latter occasion:—

Twenty-six baptized by immersion

The candidates had been under instruction for nearly two years. Each one had learnt all the appointed lessons, and could give a good reason for the hope within him, rejoicing in Christ as Saviour and Friend. We had two special preparatory meetings for prayer and instruction in the baptismal covenant, and on Wednesday afternoon the baptismal service took place. The first part, to the end of the covenant questions, was held in front of my tent. A short address on our Lord's baptism was given, emphasizing the fact that while praying the Holy Ghost came upon Him. Then, singing hymns, we marched to the river's bank. The Rev. K. David and I entered the water and baptized them by immersion, taking the members of each family in order. A few Christians from a neighbouring village and a lot of their Hindu neighbours sat quietly on the bank watching us. All were baptized just before sunset, after which the service was concluded and another short address on "Flee," "Follow," "Fight" (1 Tim. vi. 11, 12) given. It was a most solemn time, rich with the Lord's own presence and blessing, and I trust will be fruitful in fresh accessions ere long.

In the course of a journey to the west of Khammamett, Mr. Panes received 110 new inquirers, and found many others anxious to receive instruction. At Nadigudem and two neighbouring villages in the Munagala Zemindary—which is in British territory, but being more accessible from Khammamett, is worked by Mr. Panes—there are 72 people attending prayers.

The C.E.Z.M.S. has one lady missionary, one assistant, and one Bible-woman at Khammamett.

DUMMAGUDEM.

Dummagudem.

An account of his efforts to relieve famine distress in and around DUMMAGUDEM occupies a large part of the Rev. J. Cain's Annual Letter. The prompt assistance rendered by General Haig at the beginning of 1897 enabled him to import grain from Rajahmundry, and many were thereby saved from perishing. Mission buildings, schoolrooms, teachers' houses, &c., were repaired, roads and fences mended, wells dug and deepened, an old tank restored: these and other useful works were done by the people relieved. Seed grain was distributed to some 200 cultivators who would otherwise have had no harvest to look forward to after the rains; cloths were purchased from the weavers and given to the destitute; 100 little Koi children received a daily dole of half a pint of grain. Over Rs. 12,000 were entrusted to Mr. Cain by friends in India, America, England, and Australia, and expended in the above various ways. Then followed the cholera. Several Christians fell victims. Mr. Cain relates the following touching incident:—

Famine relief.

A catechist's faith.

We were travelling in our boat, visiting the congregations lower down the river, and one Saturday evening we arrived at Injeram. On going ashore we were met with the sad tidings that the evangelist there had lost two sons from cholera that week, and that they were that day without food. The good old man had gathered together his family, and had read John xiv., and talked of the place our Saviour has gone to prepare, and wondered whether He was going to call any more of them to Himself, and had then knelt down and told all their sorrows and needs to their Heavenly Father, and was just finishing when a neighbour rushed in to say that we had arrived. As soon as we heard the news, and found out that there was but little grain in the village, we sent to the boat and relieved their immediate necessities, and before we left we arranged that they should have a proper supply of food. The old man rightly regarded our visit as an answer to prayer, and the faith of all was greatly strengthened.

The catechumens on the list are more numerous than for many years past—120. Requests for a teacher were received from a village in the direction of Ellore as the result of the visit of an illiterate Christian woman to her father's house. The Native Church Committee decided at Christmas, 1896, to send out special messengers to the unevangelized parts of the district, and three Christian cultivators were sent and had good audiences. Miss Graham, a trained nurse of the C.E.Z.M.S., gave medicine at the dispensary to 11,280 applicants. The people in Dummagudem and the Kois in the neighbourhood showed more faith in the remedies than they had done in any previous attack of cholera. A translation of Mr. Stock's Lessons on the Life of Our Lord, by M. Sadhavu, has been made, which Mr. Cain pronounces most successful. In the Rampa and Malkanagiri Taluqs the Rev. M. Gnanasigamoni is assisted by five school teachers. The most distant villages of the district are 180 miles from his place of residence, and he is 220 miles from Dummagudem.

Special messengers.

III. TINNEVELLY.

Visit of Governor of Madras to Tinnevelly.

His Excellency the Governor of Madras and Lady Havelock, in the course of a tour at the end of 1897, visited Palamcotta and inspected several of the Mission institutions. The Native Protestant Christian community, connected with the S.P.G. and the C.M.S., presented an Address to the Governor, from which the following paragraphs are extracted:—

Native Christians' address.

Your Excellency's interest in the progress and well-being of the Christian community in this country is well known. Standing, as it does, at the head of all effective attempts to ameliorate and brighten the dark, hard lot of tens of thousands of the peoples of this vast country, Christianity commands the attention, and claims the support, of all true philanthropists, and of all who are in authority. There are thousands in this district who have profited not only spiritually, but materially, by the direct influence of Christianity. From the commencement of the work of Protestant Christian Missions by the venerable Schwartz—about the year 1770—until the present time, this influence has spread with increasing rapidity and success until now. The number of Christians connected with the Church of England has reached about 90,000, being ministered to by some eighty native clergymen, assisted by a large force of catechists and readers, while evangelists from Tinnevelly are found preaching the Gospel to the Heathen in Ceylon, Mauritius, South Africa, and other distant countries.

From the first much energy has been spent on Christian education. Primary village schools cover the district, spreading the first principles of knowledge founded on Bible-teaching amongst the uneducated; Middle schools and High schools have been established in many places; and the C.M.S. has a Second Grade College in the town of Tinnevelly. For many years past the Christian community has furnished graduates, lawyers, doctors, magistrates, merchants, and educationists, who have proved themselves men of ability and integrity, and have amply justified their claim to an adequate share of trust and responsibility in the service of their Queen and country. We are thankful to know that you have already given attention to the claims of Native Christians to a fuller representation in Government service, and to the due advancement of those who are already in the ranks of Government servants, and trust your inquiries into the subject will lead to practical results.

Female education also has a large share of attention and energy. In village and boarding schools great pains are taken to instruct girls in all the elements of sound and useful knowledge, while the girls' schools at Nazareth, Tuticorin, Mengnanapuram, and Palamcottah, and the C.M.S. Sarah Tucker College, with its affiliated district schools, are all doing useful work in the cause of higher female education. And what the schools are doing for children, the Zenana ladies with their bands of Bible-women are seeking to accomplish for the Hindu women in their houses. At the Sarah Tucker College the cause of the blind and deaf and dumb is receiving attention, and altogether the advance in female education is especially gratifying.

Bishop Morley in England.

The Committee had the pleasure of welcoming Bishop Morley on the occasion of his visit to England to attend the Lambeth Conference. He told the Committee that he had since his consecration taken a tour in Tinnevelly with the object of getting into spiritual touch with the congregations, and he urged the need of prayer for the outpouring of the Holy Spirit on all the workers in his diocese.

Ordination.

On March 6th, 1898, Bishop Morley admitted the Rev. Arulanandam Sinnapan Devapiriam to priest's orders, and Messrs. Noah Adolphus, B.A. and M. Asirvatham to deacons' orders, at Holy Trinity Church, Palamcotta.

Death of five native pastors.

The Mission suffered the loss through death* of five native clergy. Three of them died in August, 1897, viz., the Rev. Vedanayagam Simeon, pastor of Nallur, and Chairman of the Nallur Circle Committee, who was ordained in 1866, and laboured for fourteen years in the Northern Pastorate, Madras; the Rev. Madurendiram Savarirayan, pastor of Nallammâlpuram, who was admitted to deacon's orders in 1851, and was the senior native clergyman on the Society's list; the Rev. David Stephen, pastor of Sâthankulam, and Chairman of the Sâthankulam Circle Committee, who was ordained in 1869. The Rev. Swamiadian Perpettan, pastor of Alvaneri, and Chairman of the Alvaneri Circle Committee, who was admitted to deacon's orders in 1881, died on February 2nd, 1898. And lastly,

* In addition to the deaths enumerated, tidings are received as these pages go to press that Mr. W. H. Wise, of this Mission, died in May, 1898.

the Rev. J. Sebagnanam, pastor of Kovilutta, died on March 26th. He was admitted to deacon's orders in 1876. Thus three of the native leaders, chairmen of the important committees which supervise groups of pastorates and relieve the Church Council of a large amount of responsible labour, were removed in the course of one year from the Tinnevelly Church.

The Rev. Ll. G. Scott Price was married on September 29th, 1897, at St. Margaret's Church, Ipswich, to Miss E. Cowell, a missionary of the C.E.Z.M.S., who went to India in 1895. Mr. and Mrs. Price sailed in October, and in the same month Mrs. E. S. Carr sailed to rejoin her husband in the Mission.

Palamcotta. The Rev. T. Kember, the Principal of the Preparandi Institution, PALAMCOTTA, spent several months, as already mentioned, at Ootacamund, in charge of the Nilgiri and Wynaad work.

Preparandi Institution. The Rev. F. W. Breed, the Vice-Principal, sends a report of the work. Mr. Kember and Mr. Breed gave an hour's Scripture teaching daily to the senior and junior theological classes, and to the secondary and primary classes of the Normal Department. In this latter Department Tamil is the medium of instruction; and a theological class to be taught in the Vernacular has been opened, Bishop Morley having expressed his readiness to receive for ordination men whose training has been solely in Tamil. The educational results

High School. at the High School were, as usual, very encouraging to the Principal, Mr. E. Keyworth, and to his staff. All the twelve candidates sent in for the Peter Cator Scripture examination passed. Two were in the first class, which was a large proportion, considering that only five were so placed, and that over twenty colleges and schools scattered over the Madras Presidency competed. Fourteen passed the Matriculation Examination out of 22 who entered, one being in the first class. This examination is conducted in the English language; and the average of passes in the whole Presidency was only one to three sent in. Twenty passed the Lower Secondary Examination out of twenty-four, and eight the Primary out of ten. The report of Her Majesty's Inspector was as follows:—

> "The efficiency and the tone of this institution are distinctly higher than that of most High-schools, and this is due to careful admissions and promotions, and to sound work done by the teachers. The dress and manners of the pupils were satisfactory.
> (Signed) "C. NAGOJI ROW, Inspector of Schools."

A pupil, and his brother who had also been a pupil at the school, died from cholera. Mr. Keyworth says:—

Death of Christian lads from cholera. The two boys were excellent Christian lads. The brother, Abraham, had been one of our very best students, and was greatly loved at our Tinnevelly College, whither he had proceeded after passing the Matriculation Examination with us. He had also distinguished himself in Religious Knowledge, and the Bible was not only in his head but also in his heart, as his life and death testify. His last words were, "Dear father, don't be very sorry for me. I am going to be with mother, in the arms of our Saviour. 'My God shall supply all your need out of His riches in glory by Christ Jesus.' Take care of my little brother and sister."

The school has 120 boarders, all Christians, and 114 day scholars, of whom all except thirty are Christians. The Mary Ann Arden School has 134 Hindu and Mohammedan boys under instruction by Christian teachers. They are quick to learn Bible texts and Christian hymns, and themselves urged that a Sunday-school should be opened, and when it was opened attended it to the number of forty and more. This school passed 80 per cent. for the Primary; and the Dohnavur School 100 per cent., or, in other words, all its candidates. No report has been received of the Girls' Boarding School, nor of the Sarah Tucker College and its branch schools.

Tinnevelly College.

The Rev. H. J. Schaffter was enabled to return to his much loved work at the College in TINNEVELLY TOWN after four months' rest in January, 1897, and the Rev. R. F. Ardell returned in April. Mr. Schaffter says the attention of the students to the Bible teaching is most encouraging, and that the Hindu objections which were current ten years ago are now never mentioned. Two of the Brahman masters of the College went to a place some six hours' distant by train to hear Mr. Swami Vivekananda lecture, but were very much disappointed and vexed by his saying to his Hindu audience that while missionaries called them "idolaters," he thought the best name for them was "kitchenolaters," as the main article in their creed was to see that no low-caste man cooks or touches their food. Mr. Schaffter says that in thus attacking the caste system, Mr. Swami should be considered an ally rather than an enemy. The new college building, of which the foundation-stone was laid at the beginning of 1896, was opened by Bishop Morley on January 24th, 1898. The Hostel for Christian students had 28 inmates, several of whom take classes in the Sunday-school for heathen students, which number over 100, and nearly all take part in street preaching twice a week.

Itinerating Band.

The Itinerating Band, under the leadership of the Rev. J. C. McLeod Hawkins, was strengthened by the presence of two students who had finished their course at the Madras Divinity School, namely, Messrs. N. Adolphus, B.A., and M. Asirvatham, F.A., whose ordination in March, 1898, has been mentioned above. Mr. Hawkins says that both proved themselves to be earnest Christians of no mean ability, and that their help in preaching and their influence over the younger members of the Band was invaluable. Three men also joined from the Palamcotta High School who had passed the matriculation, the lowest standard accepted for membership in the Band, service in which is a valuable training for the ministry. Messrs. Subamoni Shastri and Gnanathesikan are permanent members of the Band. Of the latter Mr. Hawkins knows few men who seem so wholly fitted as he is to point souls to the Saviour. The direction taken in the itinerating tours in 1897 was alternately east and westward of Palamcotta. Many individual incidents are mentioned illustrating the blessed opportunities of the work.

A successful soul winner.

Native Church.

The District Church Council is the legislative and administrative body of the numerous congregations of Christians in connexion with the C.M.S. scattered over a great part of Tinnevelly. The Rev. E. S. Carr is the Chairman, and he mentions that during his absence from India of nearly two years, from April, 1895, to March, 1897, eight of the native pastors were called away by death, and one had resigned. Since his return, five others have died. To supply the places of these fourteen men five only have been ordained, including the two in March, 1898. Mr. Carr accompanied Bishop Morley on his visitations to several centres for confirmation, and for the dedication of cemeteries.

A Y.M.C.A. Conference.

At the close of June a Y.M.C.A. Conference was held at Palamcotta, when Dr. W. W. White, Mr G. S. Eddy, of the S.V.M.U., Mr. Max Wood Moorhead, and Mr. Maconaughty, the Madras Secretary of the Y.M.C.A., were present. The meetings were well attended, and real blessing seemed to accompany the fervent addresses of the delegates. The Y.M.C.A. organization in Palamcotta has been divided into three branches: one for the Training Institution, one for the High School, and one for the town, each with its own secretary. Work among the young is carried on by the honorary secretaries of the Children's Mission, and this agency is a means of enlisting and exercising the spiritual gifts of the more promising young schoolmasters, some of them graduates and undergraduates of Madras University.

Decreasing number of adherents.

A printer's error in last year's Report (p. 283) represented the number of adherents to have diminished since 1892 by 11,000. The number should have been 1,100—viz., from 52,451 to 51,358. The number continues to decrease through the same cause—namely, the exercise of discipline. Nearly 200 were excommunicated during the year under review for irregular marriages, and some 500 were returned as "backsliders." One sad instance is mentioned, that of a man who was baptized by Bishop Sargent some fifteen years ago, and was for a time a member of the Itinerating Band. He succeeded his father in the office of a village munsiff (the lowest Government office and the only hereditary one), and the temptations of this office overcame him; he sank by degrees through the several stages of evil living to taking part in devil worship. Mr. Carr says:—

The crying need.

The great, the crying need, however, is a rich outpouring of the Holy Spirit. There is a mass of dry Christian bones to work upon; but oh!

how we need the breath of God to make them live. There is an earnest longing in the hearts of the Lord's true servants all over India for such an outpouring, and we believe that in answer to believing prayer the blessing will be given. December 12th has been fixed as a day of humiliation and intercession, and it will be widely observed all over the country, and many at home will be praying for us at the same time. God's voice is calling loudly to India. He has been speaking by His four great plagues, and now the fifth has come in the "tempest," the great cyclone at Chittagong. We have had the sword, the famine, the pestilence, and the earthquake, and they have all come together at the time of our great national rejoicing in the sixty years of the most blessed reign in history, "lest we forget."

Death of Secretary of Church Council.

The Report of the Council for 1896–97 bore the signature of Mr. T. Simeon, its indefatigable and able secretary. On December 27th Mr. Simeon died at the age of sixty-three. For forty-one years he resided at Nallur, working first as schoolmaster, and then until his death as Inspector of C.M.S. schools and Secretary of the Nallur Circle Committee, as well as Secretary of the District Council.

Pastorates

The Rev. D. M. Pakkinnadhan, Chairman of the Seval Circle Committee, reports on the Seval pastorate, which contains 722 baptized Christians and 188 communicants. Special prayer meetings were regularly held in connexion with the Three Years' Enterprise, and several Christians undertook, in response to the T.Y.E. appeal, to preach the Gospel to the non-Christians around. The Bishop confirmed 97 in this pastorate. In eight schools there are 290 boys and 21 girls, besides 100 girls in a branch school of the Sarah Tucker College. At Snviseshapuram some 2,000 people gathered to celebrate the Harvest Thanksgiving in March, 1897, and a sum of Rs. 318 was given. Bishop Morley was present, and confirmed at the same time 111 candidates and dedicated a cemetery. A girls' boarding school, a branch of the Sarah Tucker College, was opened at this place during the year. Nearly fifty inquirers have come forward in two villages in this pastorate. The Rev. P. G. Simeon baptized 21 adults. The Rev. S. Paul, of Sachiapuram, reports that new churches are in course of construction at five different places within the circle of which he is Chairman. He baptized 92 adults, and the Bishop confirmed 476 candidates. He appeals for workers in behalf of the 96,000 Tamil-speaking Mohammedans in his district, who reside in 625 villages. Not a single one of this class, so far as he knows, has embraced Christianity. The Roman Catholics in this neighbourhood caused much trouble during the year. A schoolmaster who was dismissed for bigamy went over to them, and offered to sell them a prayer-house, which had been the property of the Mission since 1857. This happened in 1895, and various attempts on the strength of this singular transaction were made to get possession of the building. In October, 1897, however, the priest entered it during the night and set up an altar and images in it. These Mr. Carr removed, and a criminal case was brought against him, which was thrown out by the magistrate. The headmaster of the boarding-school at Sachiapuram, Mr. P. Suviseshamuttu, translated Mr. Stock's Lessons on the Life of Our Lord into Tamil, and the same was published during the year by the S.P.C.K. at Madras.

Elliot Tuxford School.

At MENGNANAPURAM the Elliot Tuxford School has enjoyed the unique advantage of being under the supervision of the same wise heads for fifty-five years—for so long have Mrs. and Miss F. E. Thomas conducted it, sending forth several generations of girls to be helpmeets to the pastors and evangelists of the Church in Tinnevelly. Miss E. C. Vines rejoined the staff at the close of 1896. She mentions that several girls met, unknown to their teacher, to unite in prayer for an outpouring of the Holy Spirit on themselves, and their conduct shows that their prayers have been heard, for they manifest an increased desire to study the Word of God, are anxious that their schoolfellows should be brought to Christ, and are conscientiously diligent in their school work.

The C.E.Z.M.S. has altogether eleven lady missionaries on its Tinnevelly staff, four of whom are connected with the Sarah Tucker College, and two are in North Tinnevelly; fifty-six Bible-women and sixty-one native teachers are also on its list in this Mission.

TRAVANCORE AND COCHIN MISSION.

The Mission in the semi-independent Native States of Travancore and Cochin, which occupy a narrow strip of country on the south-western coast of India, between the Ghaut mountains and the sea, was established in 1816 at the invitation of Colonel Munro, the British Resident. For twenty years it was worked by Benjamin Bailey, Joseph Fenn, Henry Baker, sen., and others, mainly with a view to the reform of the ancient Malabar Syrian Church, which claims to have been founded by the Apostle St. Thomas. Since 1837 the missionaries have worked independently, the result of which has been not only the adhesion of many Syrians to the purer worship of the Church of England, but an active reforming movement within their own Church, which was much fostered by the late Metran, Mar Athanasius. The labours of Peet, Hawksworth, H. Baker, jun., and others, among the Heathen, particularly the lowest castes and the Hill Arrians, have been also greatly blessed. Allepie was occupied in 1816; Cottayam, 1817; Cochin, 1817; Mavelikára, 1839; Trichur, 1842; Pallam, 1845; Tiruwella, 1849; Kunnankulam, 1854; the Arrian Mission, 1855; and the Alwaye Itinerancy, 1881.

On July 25th, 1879, the Rev. J. M. Speechly, a C.M.S. Missionary and for some time Principal of the Cambridge Nicholson Institution, was consecrated first Bishop of Travancore and Cochin. On his resignation in 1889 the Rev. E. N. Hodges, who had previously been Principal of the Noble College, Masulipatam, and of the Trinity College, Kandy, Ceylon, was nominated to the See, and was consecrated on April 25th, 1890.

Death of Bishop Speechly.

Bishop Speechly's death in January, 1898, removed one whose graces and gifts had been laid at God's disposal, and used by Him in building up His Church in Travancore and Cochin. It was in 1860 that John Martindale Speechly went to India, soon after taking his degree from St. John's College, Cambridge. For several years he was Principal of the Cambridge Nicholson Training Institution at Cottayam, and in 1879 he commenced his ten years' episcopate. In both capacities, his influence on the Native Church was wise and wholesome, and the Natives whom he trained and whom he admitted to the Ministry have proved both the value of his influence and the wisdom of his choice by lives marked by fidelity and zeal. He was the first Bishop to elevate an Indian clergyman, in the person of the Rev. Koshi Koshi, to the office of Archdeacon. He resigned the See on grounds of health in 1889. In 1892, Archbishop Benson presented him to the living of Hernhill, near Faversham.

Bishop Hodges' testimony to the growth of the Mission.

The Committee had the pleasure of an interview with Bishop Hodges soon after his arrival in England, in May, 1897. He reviewed briefly the progress of the Mission during the seven years of his Episcopate, and showed that there were the strongest grounds for encouragement and hope. During the seven years the number of Christians had risen from 22,000 to 30,000, and the communicants from 6,500 to 9,225. He referred to the "Three Years' Enterprise" movement in the Mission, to the growing desire on the part of the Native Church for self-support and self-government, and to the winter visit (1896–97) of the Rev. E. Bacheler Russell and to his work, especially among the Syrian Christians and the Hill Arrians.

Reinforcements.

The only reinforcement sent out during the year was the Rev. John Ireland McDonald, of Islington College, who was admitted to deacon's orders by the Bishop of London on Trinity Sunday, June 13th, 1897; but the Committee also accepted, as a missionary in local connexion, Miss Kate Richards, daughter of Rev. W. J. Richards, who had passed her final Language Examination. Mr. McDonald sailed in October. The Rev. E. Bacheler Russell was married on September 15th, 1897, at High Leigh, Hoddesdon, Herts, to Miss Mary Dorothea Barclay. Mr. and Mrs. Bacheler Russell sailed the same month for a winter visit to Travancore, and returned home in May, 1898, being passengers on the P. & O. steamship "China," which went ashore at the entrance of the Red Sea, but happily no lives were lost. The Rev. and Mrs. C. A. Neve sailed in February, 1898, to return to the Mission after furlough. The Rev. and Mrs. E. Bellerby came home in May, 1898.

Translation work.

The Committee have gladly assented to an arrangement, whereby Archdeacon Koshi Koshi will devote his whole time, and the Rev. W. J. Richards a large part of his time, to the revision of the Malayalam Old Testament, which was the work of the Rev. Benjamin Bailey, who laboured in Travancore from 1816 to 1850.

The helpful report which Bishop Hodges has sent home in recent years of the Native Church is missed this year in consequence of the Bishop's absence from the Mission. Most of the native pastors, however, have as usual sent Annual Letters, and a few particulars of interest may be culled from them regarding the work in their respective pastorates.

The Pastorates

In connexion with the COTTAYAM CHURCH COUNCIL there are ten pastorates. The Rev. A. J. Pathen took charge of the Arpukara Pastorate in July, 1897, at a time when the whole body of Christians, some 1,100, were in a state bordering on starvation. Famine and pestilence were raging, and their fields were under water through floods. He was enabled to render timely assistance. In the Cottayam Pastorate the contributions of the Christians amounted to Rs. 321, as compared with Rs. 269 the previous year. The Rev. T. K. Benjamin bemoans the apathy of some members of the congregation; but others show an ever increasing interest in the spread of the Gospel. A Special Mission by Mr. Bacheler Russell was blessed to many. A branch of the Y.W.C.A. was started in the pastorate, after a visit by Miss Hill, Secretary of the Y.W.C.A. in India; and a little earlier a Malayalam branch of the Y.M.C.A. was also formed with thirty-five members. The Sunday-school, commenced in 1895, has 106 children. The congregation at Cochin has 530 members; there were thirty-three deaths during the year, a heavy mortality, largely due to visitations of cholera and enteric fever. Six families, all Chogans, were induced by the Roman Catholics at Kurumpanadam to join their church. The number of adherents in Pallam Pastorate, under the Rev. J. Chandy, is 3,409, and 170 adults were baptized during the year. The Rev. E. V. John, of Olesha, in order to relieve the distress of his poor parishioners, who were thrown out of work by floods when famine prices prevailed, bought a number of palmyra trees with money lent for that purpose, and divided them among his people. Notwithstanding the heavy rains and floods, the services were well attended. A monthly missionary meeting is held, and a little school for heathen Palayans is supported by the collections. Allepie, with nine congregations and 850 Church members, was formed into a pastorate under the Rev. M. P. Matthan, in January, 1897. The Rev. W. J. Richards writes:—

Progress of self-support under a native pastor.

Since the pastor took charge it is amazing to see how things a European would have thought impossible have become easy. The old contributions to the Sustentation Fund was about Rs. 30 in a year; now that amount is raised in a quarter, and from the women's "handfuls of rice" alone Rs. 96 will have been collected in the twelve months; and this is quite a new source of income for the pastorate, and is partly owing to the Three Years' Enterprise.

The congregations at Trichur and Kunnankulam were only formed into pastorates and united to the Church Council at the beginning of 1897. The Rev. A. E. David, the pastor of Trichur, writes:—

A wrong view slowly disappearing.

The passing year has been a remarkable one in the history of this Church. Since its foundation it was managed and supported by the C.M.S. The people were accustomed to receive help from the missionaries from the time of their conversion to Christianity, and were not taught from the beginning to follow the golden precept, "It is more blessed to give than to receive." Consequently, they did not feel the responsibility of providing for those who minister to their spiritual needs; therefore, when they were asked to contribute for this, they did not seem to understand their duty in this matter, or know it was a great privilege for Christians to do so. On the contrary, the great majority of them thought that it was the duty of the Society to provide them with everything always. But, thank God, this view is slowly disappearing from their minds.

Several wants were supplied during the year: The Church, which had been in course of restoration since 1891, was completed; a parsonage house was purchased; and a piece of ground was acquired for a new cemetery. On Easter Day the congregation numbered 818, and 119 partook of the Holy Communion. Mr. Bacheler Russell conducted a Special Mission in November and December, 1897. At the closing service, the congregation numbered 750, and the offertories amounted to Rs. 36. The Kunnankulam Pastorate contains only 341 adherents, of whom 161 are communicants. The people are extremely poor, many having no houses, and almost no clothes; but they contributed Rs. 363, and Rs. 52 to the T.Y.E.

One man presented a lectern to the Church, and another a "velvet collecting bag with silver border." Special Missions were held by Mr. L. M. Wadsworth, from Ceylon, who holds Bishop Copleston's license to preach, and by Mr. Bacheler Russell. Of the latter, the Rev. T. Koshi writes:—

Special Mission services.

Mr. Russell's Mission, as he himself expressed it, was not chiefly for outsiders (although evangelistic services for the unconverted were held every evening), but for those who had already accepted Jesus as their personal Saviour, to bring them to the "fulness of the blessing of the Gospel of Jesus Christ," to show them clearly and to make them realize what the secret of the Christian's position of power is, which, I am thankful to say, he most ably and vividly brought home to every heart, pointing to the Scriptural biographies of Elijah, Joshua, Joseph, Jacob, Gideon, and others by way of illustration. It was a spiritual delight to those earnest and diligent disciples of Jesus to sit down and feast upon those passages of Scripture that were marvellously enlightened by new heavenly light shining on old truths. Divine truths have been deeply and touchingly impressed on many a heart without any striking outward manifestation or excitement. The Missioner's chief aim was to make the people feel the powerful manifestation of the Great Jehovah through the still small voice, by meditating calmly and seriously on the messages delivered, though he admitted that God sometimes displayed His power through outward manifestations also. It is most encouraging to note that as a practical result the special freewill offering on the last day of the Mission from such a small and poor congregation amounted to Rs. 43 : 4 : 3.

Three pastorates are connected with the MELKAVU COUNCIL. The Rev. W. C. Kuruwella has charge of both Melkavu and Kuvupally Pastorates, and the Rev. P. A. Samuel of Mankompu. The lastnamed has a mothers' meeting whose members contribute daily a handful of rice, and bring the accumulations once a month to the meeting. From this source Rs. 39 was realized. He also has, what is less common, a "fathers' meeting," with thirty-six members, which meets every Sunday morning, and Scripture texts are committed to memory. The pastorates contributed Rs. 68 to the Three Years' Enterprise.

A "fathers' meeting."

The TIRUWELLA COUNCIL has three pastorates, one of which, however, has no resident ordained pastor. The Rev. K. P. Oomen, of Tiruwella, states that on the Sunday of a Special Mission, held by Mr. Bacheler Russell in January, 1897, twelve hundred were present at the services, including many Syrian Christians. The first year's subscriptions of the people to the T.Y.E. Centenary Fund amounted to Rs. 321, and a further sum of Rs. 34 was contributed through collecting cards. The girls' primary school in the pastorate sent eight girls in to the Madras Primary Examination, and seven of them passed, two being in the first-class. This, Mr. Oomen says, is the first instance of girls of their social position in Travancore passing such an examination. And the Rev. A. F. Painter writes:—

First outcaste girls in Travancore to pass a public examination.

Only those who know the great degradation of the poor people known as the outcastes in Travancore, and the great disabilities from which they suffer, will understand what this fact means. They are considered as defiled and defiling body and soul, and are regarded by the vast majority of high caste with abhorrence and loathing and disgust. According to Hinduism neither they nor their descendants can ever become fit to associate with others, or even to approach the temples of the gods. They were the original inhabitants of the country, and were reduced to the condition of slavery by their conquerors, who riveted their bonds more securely by placing them under a religious as well as social ban.

In British India their condition has long been ameliorated; but things move more slowly in Travancore, where their condition is still most pitiable. Christianity has done much for them, and many converts have been gathered in, and their children are being gradually raised, though progress has necessarily been slow. This is the first time, I believe, in our C.M.S. Mission in Travancore that girls from this class have been sent in for a public examination. No Government schools would admit them to learn.

The Normal School, chiefly for youths of the same class, though others learn in it, is also prospering. Eighteen have earned Government scholarships. These girls and youths will go out in time as fully-qualified teachers, and we trust will prove a great blessing. They have ability, and their degradation is not their fault.

The MEVELIKARA COUNCIL has eight pastorates. The Rev. M. C. Thoma, of Elantur, expresses surprise and thankfulness that the great scarcity prevailing and the poverty of the Christians did not cause a falling off in the income of the church. On the contrary, he says that these troubles had a salutary effect in calling out the active sympathy of the Christians towards those whose condition was still worse than their own. On the occasion of the Queen's Diamond Jubilee, the Christians gave a hearty meal to about 300 people in the church compound. The cholera had little, if any, effect on the Christians in this pastorate, though it carried off many in the neighbourhood. Mr. Thoma mentions the following instance of self-denial in a youth of sixteen :—

A boy's self-denial.

A pleasing event of the year is the starting of a self-denial week during the Passion Week, which, when suggested, was gladly taken up by a few. Among them was a boy of sixteen or seventeen, who resolved to set apart his supper for any charitable purpose. He could not forego his breakfast and noon meal, having to work in the field all the day. He slept one night without supper. On the second day he found it difficult to go to bed without supper; however, he stood by his resolution. On the third night he strove hard, but failed, though not entirely. He came to his mother while she was serving out and related his struggle, desiring to have half his share. Thus he spent the remaining days of the week. This is self-denial indeed. The amount thus willingly secured is about Rs. 4, which we propose to send to Dr. Barnardo for the support of his waifs and strays.

The Rev. T. I. Abraham, of Kodawalaniya, was called upon to part with his wife during a time when cholera, dysentery, and fever were prevalent all round. He reports forty-five adults baptized in his pastorate. The people contributed Rs. 108 to the T.Y.E. The Rev. P. P. Joseph states that the Kattanam Pastorate is the poorest in the whole diocese. Three services are held every Sunday in each of four stations, the morning one being set apart entirely for children. The Rev. P. M. Curien speaks of the year under review as one of great spiritual revival and blessing at Tallavadi. He says:—

Pestilence and famine leading to humiliation and fasting.

Pestilence and famine raged so strongly in these parts that almost all the people—the Heathen as well as the Christian—perceived the finger of the Lord, and sought remedy at His feet. Christians at various places convened special meetings and conducted special services and observed fasting days. On the whole, this year has been a season of great spiritual revival and blessing to many of us.

Y.M.C.A. week of prayer observed.

The week from November 14th to 21st was observed in the pastorate, as in all the others in this Mission and in some other Missions, as a week of prayer in connexion with the Y.M.C.A. The church was filled day by day, some 400 being present. Again, from December 30th to January 2nd, during a short Special Mission conducted by Mr. Bacheler Russell, there were on some occasions still larger congregations. There are more than 100 members of the Y.M.C.A. in the pastorate. Mr. Curien relates a touching story of the death of one of them, a victim to cholera:—

Singing in the hour of death.

A young man, one of the members of our Y.M.C.A., had an attack of cholera. He came to me at 9 P.M. for aid. After giving medicine, I told him that if unfavourable symptoms set in, he should be prepared to meet his God. The answer was quite pleasing and full of hope. He said that he was already prepared, and he expressed the assurance of his salvation in strong terms. With the early dawn he was quietly passing away when I was called for, and then to my extreme joy I found the patient comforting and encouraging his relatives, and those around him. Before his death, which took place about noon, he called all together, sang, and then prayed. Thus ended this young man's life on earth in song and praise. Surely here is one who has fallen asleep in Jesus.

COTTAYAM AND PALLAM.

Cottayam.

The European Missionaries at COTTAYAM were engaged in conducting important educational institutions for training agents and for bringing the Gospel to the minds and hearts of the high-caste non-Christians. The Cambridge Nicholson Institution is under the Rev. J. J. Beauchamp Palmer. Six students went out from the Institution after completing their course, leaving nine still in the class at the close of 1897. Five of these were to be presented for the Universities' Preliminary Theological Examination. These students all engage in open-air preaching in the week, and on Sundays conduct services, teach in Sunday-schools, engage in home visitation, &c. The Normal School sent out thirteen, and had fifteen at the end of the year. Nine of these young men were presented for the Madras University Examination, and all were successful; but of fourteen who appeared for the Travancore Examination only two passed, and the percentage of failures throughout the State was ninety-three! The Institution was visited in March, 1897, by the Maharajah of Travancore and his suite, who took much interest in being conducted over it. Shortly afterwards, the then acting British Resident, Mr. Rees, also paid a brief visit. Mr. Palmer is Secretary of the Committee which controls the extensive operations of the Mission Press. Eighty men are employed, and the Madras Auxiliary Bible Society has ordered the printing of a super-royal edition of the Bible (2,000 copies), and also a demy-octavo (7,500 copies) edition. Mr. Palmer expresses satisfaction with the progress made by the boys in the Industrial School in knowledge of carpentry and masonry. The work of training, he says, is being efficiently done. Mr. Palmer was president through the year of the local Y.M.C.A., which is a specially useful bond among the students in the town.

Visit of the Maharajah of Travancore.

Mission press.

The College also, as well as the Cambridge Nicholson Institution, had the honour of a visit from the Maharajah and from the Acting British Resident. On December 3rd, 1897, the Dewan Peishkar, or Prime Minister, was present when Archdeacon Caley laid the foundation-stone of a new building, an enlargement of the College. In the course of a short speech he observed that the Missionaries are the pioneers of education in India, and he expressed the appreciation entertained by the Government for the work done by the C.M.S. in North Travancore. The increased accommodation is much needed. In the course of the year the numbers increased by over 100, being at its close 518. The development of education in Cottayam was evidenced at the time of the Diamond Jubilee Celebration, when 1,400 school-boys paraded the town in procession. Twelve candidates from the College out of sixteen passed the F.A., one in the first class; twenty the Matriculation out of forty-seven, two being in first class; twenty out of thirty-nine in the Lower Secondary, three in the first class; and in the Peter Cator Scripture Examination, eighteen passed out of twenty-one, all in the second class, one receiving a prize. Cricket and Association football are now very popular institutions among the College students, and every match of the football season was won. The Girls' Boarding School is a lineal descendant of the school which Mrs. H. Baker, the wife of the Rev. Henry Baker, junior, commenced at Pallam in 1844, the year after she arrived out in the Mission with her husband. It was transferred to Cottayam in 1863. The still older school, which Mrs. Henry Baker, senior, conducted at Cottayam, was discontinued at her death in 1888. Miss M. F. Baker being in England, no report of the school has been received.

at home) were for some months caused anxiety (in common with others responsible for the public elementary schools in Travancore) regarding the Government grants, through the introduction of a new Educational Code in December, 1896. The grants, however, though delayed, were sanctioned and were made retrospective. One of the students passed the Peter Cator Lower Grade Examination in the second class. Three of the trained students passed out of the Institution to take up work. The whole Upper Primary Class of nineteen girls entered the Madras Primary Examination at Cottayam, and all passed, six gaining a first class. The Young People's Scripture Union has 120 members among the girls, and the Gleaners' Union fifty-four. The senior training students, Mr. Bellerby says, are truly Christian girls, and have an excellent influence over the rest of the boarders. There are eleven Branch Schools, with twenty-seven teachers and 542 pupils. Difficulties and discouragements arise through the irregularity of some of the children, and through the removal of Hindu girls at an early age for marriage.

ALLEPIE.

Allepie. The Rev. W. J. Richards was relieved of the pastoral charge of the native congregation in ALLEPIE and its district in January, 1897, by their becoming a part of the organization of the Cottayam Native Church Council, as already mentioned. He retained the schools, however, under his supervision, because the Council for the present deemed it prudent to decline the charge. The Leper Asylum. Leper Asylum has nine Christians among its twenty-four inmates, six of whom were baptized during the past year. No difference whatever is made in food, clothes, or other temporal conditions between the non-Christians and the Christians, so that the latter could not be influenced by the hope of temporal advantage in joining the Church, and Mr. Richards believes they are sincere converts. Mr. Richards was much occupied during the year in literary work: as Secretary of the Malayalam New Testament Revision Committee, which after seven years of labour has well-nigh completed its task; as convener of the revisers of the Malayalam Prayer Book; and in the preparation of tracts in the vernacular. The Bookshop is now in the Hindu quarter, and affords an excellent position for open-air preaching. There were sold during the year 111 copies of the Old and New Testaments and Bibles, and nearly 500 Portions.

TIRUWELLA AND ETTAMANUR ITINERANCY.

Archdeacon Caley resided at TIRUWELLA and superintended the Evangelistic work in the ETTAMANUR ITINERANCY. His Annual Letter gives a striking example of liberality on the part of a dying

Christian, whose generous gifts have been mentioned in previous Reports:—

A dying Christian's gift.

As I was sitting in the verandah of the pastor's house at Kanam one Sunday night, a young man named Ousep, from Kangra, came to see me. He had been expecting me at Kangra that day, but as I was taking duty at Kanam I could not go. He therefore came over in the evening, and after a little talk he counted out Rs. 50 and handed them to me, saying they were his father's dying gift to Chelakomba Church. The old father, Patros by name, once gave Mr. Painter a similar or larger sum. He was of the Pulayan caste, and knew well the joy of suffering for Christ's sake. He was once charged by the police with burning down the school, and was thrown into prison. He was then committed to the Sessions, ironed. Even in the presence of Mr. Painter, who nobly defended him, he was brutally taunted by the magistrate, and was accused of attempted suicide to cover the ill treatment inflicted by others. Yet he never complained. All idea of complaint was swallowed up in gratitude to God for delivering him. He said, "It seemed as if Jesus Christ Himself came down to set His slave free. Henceforth I am His." And he was. What he gave to God's cause was the fruit of effort and self-denial. His son Ousep, who, I trust, is following in the father's steps, told me when giving me the Rs. 50 that they represented several items of saving. When the herd of goats increased, two or three would be sold and the proceeds laid by. The same with the fowls. Then a little rice would be collected and its price added. Another way of raising money was by cutting and drying long grass for thatching houses. This, too, would be sold and taken to make up the gift. The fact of the matter was, there was a very strong desire to give, and the ingenuity of love discovered an effectual way of doing it.

The ingenuity of love.

The Rev. A. F. Painter, who is at home on furlough, writes regarding this faithful servant of Christ:—

"A wonderful instance of God's blessing.'

I think perhaps that nothing was more remarkable than the way in which God blessed that poor man. He sowed and got huge harvests, and gave all to God. He bought a few goats and cows and they multiplied marvellously. The more he gave to God the more God gave to him. And the more God gave him the more he gave back. He lived in the simplest style as a poor slave in a small hut, though he might have built a big house and lived in luxury. He was certainly a wonderful instance of God's blessing.

The Archdeacon adds, immediately after the extract quoted above, another example, but does not say whether the "Ousep" in this case is the same "Ousep," the son of Patros Moopen, referred to in the other. He says:—

A Native Christian supports an evangelist.

On the 10th of this month, December, I received a letter from the Secretary of "The Christian Charitable Association at Kottayam," which was started about six months ago, saying one of its members named Ittak Ousep had agreed to support an evangelist for one year, at the rate of Rs. 10 per mensem, and that he had already paid down Rs. 60, and had promised to pay the remaining Rs. 60 five months hence. I have since received the Rs. 60, and am requested to appoint a man from January 1st, 1898. Perhaps I ought to mention that one of the rules of the association is that all its members must be members of its regular Sunday prayer-meeting. Its objects are to help Christ's poor and Christ's cause—two of the noblest objects in which it is possible for man to be engaged.

Archdeacon Caley is satisfied that there is a great amount of spiritual life and fervour among both Protestants and Syrians. He adds:—

"Vital Christianity gaining ground."

That vital Christianity, after all deductions, is distinctly gaining ground, and is felt to be gaining ground, there can be no question. Our one great need is more daily morning prayer and daily morning reading of the Word of God. Spiritual life must have its regular food, but especially its breakfast, and the earlier the breakfast the better. I am as certain of this as I am of my own existence. My constant teaching is that we shall be strong and succeed just in proportion to our believing and practising this. One of the worst tendencies we have to meet is that of making much of special services, and then cooling down and slacking off soon after the services are over.

The total increase of adherents in the two districts amounted to about 700 souls, the larger number being in the Ettamanur Itinerancy, where two congregations were formed.

The Rev. M. Nallathambi ministers to some 530 Christians scattered among a population of 7,000 on the tea estates of the Peer Maad district. Four adults were baptized. Mr. Nallathambi mentions that the British Resident, Mr. F. A. Nicholson, in the absence of the Rev. C. A. Neve on furlough, conducted the English service on four occasions.

ALWAYE ITINERANCY.

Alwaye Itinerancy.

The ALWAYE ITINERANCY was added temporarily to the charge of the Rev. W. J. Richards when the Rev. C. E. R. Romilly left on furlough. The distance is sixty miles from Allepie, and it takes thirty hours to reach it by boat, so that the travelling involved was not inconsiderable. The Rev. T. K. Ninan, with seven evangelists as fellow-labourers (one of whom, Mr. Thommen, has passed the Universities' Preliminary Examination for orders), maintained the bazaar-preaching.

COCHIN: TRICHUR AND KUNNANKULAM.

Trichur.

The Rev. J. H. Bishop is in charge of the itinerating work in the district of TRICHUR beyond the limits of the pastorate. He also has charge of the High School, in the city of Trichur. The ex-Dewan presided at the annual prize-giving, and the school was also honoured by a visit from the Governor of Madras, Sir Arthur Havelock, K.C.S.I., and his staff. The Girls' Boarding School, under Mrs. Bishop, has sixty-four pupils, all Christians. Three Bible-women are supervised by Mrs. Bishop. Mr. Bishop made four Evangelistic Tours, three of which lasted about a month. He was accompanied by the Walter Jones' evangelists and two other experienced workers; and also by a Syrian Christian from Cottayam, whom the Rev. T. Walker, of Tinnevelly, had the privilege of leading to Christ during his visit to Travancore in 1894. Mala is an evangelistic centre, which Mr. Bishop opened during the year, in spite of some opposition from Roman Catholics. It has a Jewish Synagogue, a Mohammedan Mosque, a Hindu Temple, a large Roman Catholic Church, and only the last-named community objected to Mr. Bishop's acquiring a house as a starting-point for C.M.S. work. Eringalakuda and Perignottukara are other centres; at the former an evangelist is stationed, and there is a school for Mohammedan boys; at the latter there is a school with some fifty to sixty boys of the Tier caste. During his tours Mr. Bishop visited, wherever he found them, the Namburi Brahmans, and presented them with a copy of the Malayalam Bible, and, when they could read it, of St. John's Gospel in Sanskrit. About one-half of those visited were friendly. Mr. Bishop says:—

Visits to Namburi Brahmans.

Several living in remote places were astonished to see specimens of St. John iii. 16 in more than 300 different languages, and a map of the world. They thought, according to the Shastras, there were only eighteen languages! and they had no idea of the extreme insignificance of "Kerala Bhumi" (Malabar) compared with the rest of the world.

Surprise occasioned by John iii. 16 in 300 languages.

A Namburi Brahman, who had been more or less confined to his bed some years, allowed me to sit at the door of his chamber, and listened very attentively to the reading and explanation of St. John v. 1-17. Another actually asked me inside the sacred illum (house), and seated me in a chair, and presented me with a Malayalam drama he himself had composed. Some appeared (probably through misrepresentation) to be violently prejudiced against us and the Gospel, and would not look at the books or allow us to cross their courtyard. A few summarily ordered us off.

The Namburi Brahmans exercise enormous influence in the State, and over the minds of the common people, who call them "Tirumanasa" (i.e., holy mind), the title given to the Maharajah. They possess large estates, which they say were given to their ancestors by the god Parashurama, who settled them in Kerala, after he had recovered it from the sea! For the most part they are very proud and ignorant, though a few are learned in the Sanskrit Vedas and Shastras, and are courteous to Europeans.

Mr. Bishop's last tour was to the Neliampathy hills, due east of Trichur, to visit the Tamil and Malayalam coolies in the coffee estates. Asher, one of the evangelists, was able to speak in both languages. Mr. Bishop administered the Holy Communion to thirteen of his own countrymen (and women), who were grateful for the privilege, cut off from all means of grace as they are in the lonely hills. There is neither chapel nor cemetery, and the dead are buried in their coffee gardens. At Ernakulam, the political capital of Cochin, both Mr. Bishop and Mr. Richards had opportunities of delivering lectures to students and to other educated Hindus. The Dewan of Cochin was present at Mr. Richards' lecture, which was delivered in the Ernakulam College, and the subject was "Anno Domini, or 1897 B.C., a Foretelling, and A.D., 1897, a Fulfilling," showing how the promise to Abraham, "In thy seed shall all the nations of the earth be blessed," is being fulfilled at the present time. Mr. Bishop mentions two Brahman and one Nair inquirers.

Lectures to educated Natives.

Kunnankulam.

The Rev. and Mrs. F. Bower received a hearty welcome on their return to KUNNANKULAM, after furlough, in December, 1896. In February, 1898, they opened boarding schools for boys and girls in the town of Kunnankulam; in June a school for caste girls was opened in Wadakauchary, an important town some fourteen miles distant; and in June a boys' school was started at Chowghat. Mrs. Bower accompanies, whenever possible, the Bible-women in their visits to the Namburi and Pattar Brahmans, and other high caste Hindu women. Mr. Bower visited the Yagathashi Festival at Guruwayoor, and he enjoyed opportunities, such as he never experienced before, of conversing with young Brahmans and Nairs about the claims of Christ. Like Mr. Bishop, at Trichur, Mr. Bower visited the Namburi Brahmans, and offered the gift of the Malayalam Bible, and fifty-eight accepted it from him. Regarding the attitude of the people generally, Mr. Bower writes:—

I certainly think the attention both of Hindus and Mohammedans is more respectful and serious than formerly. Not a few of them appear to be really anxious not only to hear the Gospel, but also to understand what they hear. There is also a greater desire amongst them to possess and read the Word of God for themselves. Notwithstanding the famine, a considerable number of books have been sold, and several thousands of handbills and leaflets have been distributed. The educated classes are evidently beginning to see something of the aggressive power of Christianity. A very intelligent Hindu said the other day, "Hinduism has had its time, Buddha has had his time, and Mohammed has had his time, and now Christ will have His time."

"Now Christ will have His time.'

A Book Depôt was opened in February, 1897, at Kunnankulam, and Mr. Bower states that the sales were very encouraging.

CEYLON MISSION.

This Mission was commenced in 1817 among Singhalese and Tamils, the two races (with distinct languages) forming the population of the Island. For the Singhalese population work was begun at Kandy in 1818; at Baddêgama, 1819; at Cotta, 1822; and at Kurunêgala, 1880. For work among the Tamils Jaffna was occupied in 1818; Colombo, 1852; and the Tamil Coolie Mission was begun in 1855.

Deaths of Rev. and Mrs. S. Hobbs.

THE Rev. and Mrs. Septimus Hobbs, names much honoured in their generation in the Ceylon and also in the Tinnevelly Mission, died on March 5th and 15th, 1898, respectively. Mr. Hobbs went out to Tinnevelly in 1842, and in 1855 was transferred to Ceylon to organize and superintend the Tamil Coolie Mission, which was begun in that year by the Society. His marriage took place in 1849, during his first furlough to England. In 1862 Mr. and Mrs. Hobbs retired from active service, and four years after he was appointed to the Rectory of Compton Valence, Dorset, where he quietly lived and laboured for the last thirty years of his life. Mr. Hobbs was one of a family which gave four of its members to C.M.S. Mission-fields. His brother, Stephen Hobbs, who became successively Archdeacon of Seychelles and of Mauritius, after labouring first in Tinnevelly, preceded him to the Mission-field, and retired in 1877; and two of his sisters became respectively the wives of James and Thomas Spratt, of the Tinnevelly Mission, and both died in the Mission-field.

Reinforcements.

The additions to the staff consisted of Major G. H. F. Mathison, of the Royal Yorkshire Regiment, who joined the Mission in local connexion as an honorary worker; Miss Henrietta Mary Townsend, sister of the Rev. H. C. Townsend, of this Mission; and Miss Annie Louisa Earp, of "The Olives." Miss Earp was a member of the congregation of the Rev. A. Daintree, the Cape, South Africa. The two ladies sailed in November, 1897. The following missionaries came home during the year —the Rev. S. Coles and Mrs. H. E. Heinekey in April, 1897, and the Rev. H. E. Heinekey in May (Mr. and Mrs. Heinekey returning in June); the Rev. J. W. Fall in June; Miss H. P. Phillips in July, to spend a few months in England, and then proceed to Sydney, Australia; Miss H. M. W. Spreat* (invalided) and the Rev. H. P. Napier-Clavering in August, the latter returning the following April; Miss A. E. Paul in October; the Rev. J. W. Balding in December; the Rev. and Mrs. J. G. Garrett (invalided) in February, 1898; and the Rev. and Mrs. W. Welchman in March, the former returning in May. On the other hand, the following left England to return to the field:—Miss A. M. Denyer in June, 1897; Mrs. H. Horsley and Mrs. J. Carter, to join their husbands, in September; the Rev. and

* Miss Spreat died in England on May 31st.

Mrs. S. M. Simmons, who was admitted to deacon's orders by the Bishop of London on Trinity Sunday, June 13th, and was married at Thetford, on September 8th, to Miss B. M. Reynolds, in October; and Mr. E. J. Carus Wilson also in October. The Rev. R. W. Ryde was married on June 18th at Trinity Church, Kandy, to Miss E. M. Loveridge, of this Mission. The Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Fall and Miss A. E. Paul have retired from the work.

Missionary Conferences.

The sixty-seventh meeting of the South Ceylon Missionary Conference met at Trinity College, Kandy, on January 4th, 1898, which was observed as a Quiet Day, with morning service and Holy Communion. The Rev. J. G. Garrett preached. The Rev. W. Welchman conducted the devotions during the remainder of the day, in the course of which addresses were delivered by the Rev. J. D. Simmons, on "Knowing Christ"; by the Rev. R. T. Dowbiggin, on "Serving Christ"; and by the Rev. H. Horsley, on "Waiting for Christ." The regular business of the Conference began on the 5th, and was concluded on the 11th. The first session of the newly-formed Ceylon Women's Conference was opened at the same time and place, lasting three days. Mrs. Higgens was elected President and Mrs. Liesching Secretary for the session. Several sub-committees were appointed for women's missionary work in the various stations of the Mission. The minutes of the Women's Conference were read and considered by the men's Conference, and resolutions thereon were passed.

Native Church Council.

At the annual meeting of the Central Council of the native congregations (Tamil and Singhalese) connected with the Society in this Mission, which was held at Galle Face, Colombo, on October 1st, 1897, under the presidency of the Rev. R. T. Dowbiggin, it was decided, as a forward step in connexion with the Three Years' Enterprise, to make an earnest effort to start a pension scheme for disabled pastors and catechists and the widows of deceased agents.

The Bishop of Colombo admitted the Rev. A. Matthias to priest's orders at Christ Church, Jaffna, on February 20th, 1898.

The Rev. E. T. Higgens, whose missionary experience spans nearly half a century, is the Secretary of the Mission.

I. WESTERN AND SOUTHERN PROVINCES.

COLOMBO.

Colombo.

Christ Church, Galle Face, in the City of COLOMBO, the church in which English, Tamil, and Singhalese congregations have worshipped God for many years past, fell down on August 10th, 1897, or, rather, its west wall fell, and the rest of the building being found unstable was subsequently pulled down. The cost of erecting the church originally was assisted by a grant from the Society's first Jubilee Fund, and in its Second Jubilee Year assistance has had to be rendered from the Society's funds, although the several congregations, and especially the English congregation, have liberally contributed towards the heavy cost of reconstruction. Meanwhile the services are held in a schoolroom. The Tamil Work, upon the Rev. J. W. Fall coming home in the summer of 1897, again devolved on the Rev. A. E. Dibben, whose special work is in connexion with the English congregation, as no Tamil-speaking missionary was available. Some assistance was rendered by the Rev. H. C. Townsend while studying the language. The statistics show a falling off in the number of Tamil Christians, due mainly to the return of members to India. The number of baptized Christians now reported is 991, of whom 403 are communicants. The average attendance at the Sunday services is 539, slightly above that reported last year. The Rev. T. Walker, of the Tinnevelly Mission, during a short visit to Ceylon in November, held meetings for the deepening of the spiritual life, more especially for the workers. One result was to give a new impetus to open-air preaching. Members of five of the congregations now go with their pastor, the Rev. A. R. Virasinghe, and preach and sing the Gospel in the streets. Four adults were baptized, one of whom, a young man of the Chatty caste, was a fruit of the street preaching. Forty-five candidates were confirmed in October. Since the statistical year closed, on September 30th, two other adults have been baptized, one being an old servant of the Rev. W. E. Rowlands. The Tamil congregation worshipping at Galle Face Church has 171 on the roll, but the average attendance is 180, as a number of strangers, or members of other congregations, are usually present. The members are poor, but upwards of 100 of them subscribe Rs. 2 each per annum, and the total contributed during the year was Rs. 380. A collection for the Indian Famine Fund realized Rs. 28, and one for the Colombo Auxiliary of the B. and F.B.S. Rs. 5. Mrs. J. D. Thomas conducts two boarding schools, for boys and girls respectively. The matron of the latter is an old scholar of the Mengnanapuram (in Tinnevelly) Boarding School, where the veteran Mrs. Thomas (sen.) and her daughter labour. There are fifty-four boys and twenty-nine girls as boarders, and each school has a few day-scholars. One heathen girl, the only surviving child of her parents, was sent to the school, Mrs. J. D. Thomas suspects, as a means of breaking the evil spell and so saving her life. She desires now to be a Christian, but her parents oppose her baptism. Eight boys and five girls of these schools were confirmed. Five Bible-women are under the supervision of Miss E. S. Young and Miss Annie Thomas. They visit in Slave Island, Colpetty, the Pettah, and in Wellawatta, a village four miles south of Colombo. They have an average of thirty-four pupils, each of whom they visit and instruct at their homes. Both the ladies and the Bible-women are almost invariably welcomed by the women. Mrs. Thomas says :—

Boarding schools.

Expectation of some Great One.

The chief thing which seems to occupy their thoughts at the present time is the expected advent of some Great One, not only amongst Christians, but Mohammedans, Heathen, and Buddhists, too. One heathen man asked me if it were true that Christ was coming next year; he had been told that He would come next April, and he was anxious to have a Bible that he might read for himself. In one of the houses a pupil pointed out the plague, famine, earthquakes, &c., as signs.

Singhalese work.

Much opposition in the Singhalese Work is still experienced from the Buddhists, but as far as possible controversy is avoided. Two vernacular girls' schools, one in Colombo and the other in the village of Kollonawe, attract some 140 girls, daughters of poor Buddhist parents. A pupil in the village school was baptized, and subsequently married a Christian young man. The girls who leave the school unbaptized are mostly married to heathen husbands, and it is often sad to find them with "almost as much knowledge of the New Testament as ordinary English country girls," and acknowledging that they believe what they have been taught, yet afraid to speak to the Bible-women because of their husbands' opposition. Mrs. and Miss A. Higgens teach the Scriptures in the Colombo School, and they supervise the work of five Bible-women. These last have an "uphill work," as the Singhalese women are by no means easy of access. On one occasion a man threw some water upon Mrs. and Miss Higgens and two of the Bible-women, an indication, Mrs. Higgens says, that the Bible-women, when alone, have much worse things to endure. A poor woman was baptized in October. She earned her living by selling tea and native cakes on the road to passers by, and accosted Mrs. Higgens with, "Oh, I want to speak to you. I want to know about your religion." She explained that she had noticed that Christians lived different lives from the Heathen, and were happier. She learned willingly and well the Creed, Lord's Prayer, and Ten Commandments. After her baptism her mother, with whom she lived, turned her out of her house. One of the Bible-women is mainly supported by Miss Leslie, a Government lady doctor, and she devotes most of her time to the patients in the hospitals and dispensary under Miss Leslie's care.

"Uphill work."

COTTA.

Cotta.

The Rev. R. T. Dowbiggin's memory of the work at COTTA goes back thirty years, and a retrospect suggests many grounds for thanksgiving and praise. One feature in which a change is very perceptible, and which causes not a little trial to the faith and patience of evangelists, is regarded by Mr. Dowbiggin as distinctly hopeful, and that is the activity and aggressiveness of Buddhists at the present time. He says:—

Increased Buddhist activity.

At that time (thirty years ago) there was scarcely any movement of any kind among the Buddhist population. It is very different now. They are very active and aggressive. They have multiplied schools rapidly, and sent out their itinerant preachers even to remote villages. And whence all this? They have been stirred up by the onward, forward movement of the preachers of the Gospel of Jesus Christ. This is plain from the fact that the Buddhists are largely copying our methods, both as regards day and Sunday-schools and evangelistic work.

Growth of interest in church matters.

The growth of the spirit of self-support in the Native Church is a phenomenon which can be regarded with more unqualified satisfaction. This feature strikes Mr. Dowbiggin as "marvellous." And with regard to the general spiritual character of the Christians he says:—

The interest taken by the people in spiritual things and in church matters is greatly in advance of what it was thirty years ago. Among the more godly of our members there is a longing for fulness of blessing which was not so remarkable formerly. There is manifestly a decided effort to lead a higher, holier, purer life. The frequent meetings for the deepening of spiritual life are proofs of this. There is also among some of them a greater longing to save souls, and this has found expression, among other things, by a Missionary Society of their own to carry the Gospel to the more remote portions of the district. There is more endeavour to overtake work, grasp opportunities, and to redeem the time. Our Total Abstinence Societies and Bands of Hope are comparatively of recent growth, and Bible-women also are now employed, whereas a few years ago there were none.

Only yet half awake.

With all this, and with so much for which to thank God and take courage, I feel that we are only half awake to our responsibilities and opportunities. We all need to be endued with power from on high and filled with the Holy Ghost. All the vast and varied machinery and organizations which I have mentioned are like the stones, and wood, and water, and victim on Elijah's altar of sacrifice. We want the fire from Heaven to fall upon us, and the zeal for God's glory and the salvation of souls to consume us. Thank God that there is this sign of awakening also. We feel our need, and are crying to God to bless us. The prayer He has inspired, He will abundantly fulfil: "I will yet for this be inquired of by the house of Israel, to do it for them."

The staff of workers in the district numbers 102, viz.—Mr. and Mrs. Dowbiggin and their two daughters, four native clergy, twelve catechists and readers, six Bible-women and seventy-six schoolmasters and mistresses. Besides these, thirty voluntary unpaid workers render valued help. Major Mathison also, while residing at Cotta, engaged in language study, assisted in many ways. The district in which these workers labour is 600 square miles in extent. The Christians of the five Pastorates contributed Rs. 3,655 for the support of their pastors, an increase of Rs. 364 on the sum of the previous year. In all the churches collections were made for the relief of those suffering from the famine in India, and Rs. 192 were sent from the Cotta district. One Christian woman collected Rs. 12, and a Christian collected over two rupees from the pilgrims on their way to Adam's Peak. The Native Missionary Society received Rs. 260. The Total Abstinence Society has 308 members, and the Bands of Hope 216. The Rev. G. S. Amarasékara, looking back over the ten years of his ministry in the Cotta and Nugegoda Pastorate, bears witness that the blessing of God has rested in some measure on the congregation. Of the young men converts gathered in during that time several are Mission agents, two are clergymen, one occupies a responsible position under Government, and others are employees of the local government and mercantile firms. A new church has been built and another repaired during that period. While the income of these pastorates in 1887 was Rs. 443; in 1897 it was Rs. 1,822. Some of the people doubled their contribution during the year, and one increased his five-fold. Mr. Amarasékara says, "Those who give on the one-tenth principle find it easy and happy to give to the Lord's work." A member of the Colombo pastorate gave Rs. 250 to be spent on the church and schools at Nugegoda in memory of a deceased relation; a schoolmistress, on retiring after fifty years of service in that capacity, presented a font to the same church as a thankoffering, while a member of the Cotta congregation gave Rs. 100 to provide a treat to poor Christians and the school children on June 19th, when the Diamond Jubilee was celebrated at Cotta. The two congregations number 474, with 148 communicants. A convert of 1896, residing at the village of Keillapana in this pastorate, devoted his spare time for nearly three months to writing a letter to his heathen father, who lives at Anuradhapura, giving a detailed account of his own conversion, pointing out the absurdity of image worship, showing the plan of salvation through Christ, and concluding with a touching appeal to his father to accept the Lord Jesus as his Saviour. Seventeen adults were baptized in the Talangama and Welikada Pastorate (under the Rev. T. G. Perera) on September 5th. Mr. Dowbiggin writes of this service:—

Givers on the "one-tenth principle."

A letter which took three months to write.

A baptismal service.

On Sunday morning, September 5th, there were seventeen baptisms in the church at Talangama; eight were the children of Buddhist parentage, young people from fifteen to eighteen years of age, and two were older, of about fifty-six or sixty years old. Amongst the seventeen were seven boys and girls of from twelve to fifteen, whose parents, though Christians, had neglected to bring their children earlier to baptism. The candidates and their godparents and witnesses stood in a circle round me and the font, closely packed and in full view of all the congregation, which was a large one. The church was quite full. One of the candidates was an old man of about sixty, with only one arm; another was the mother of a family, many of whose members I had in previous years baptized. Others were young women of fifteen, sixteen, and eighteen years of age from our day-schools, whose Buddhist parents had consented to their baptism, and before whom there is a life of difficulty and temptation which will test and try their faith and patience. I always insist upon each candidate answering the questions put, and as each one was baptized and received into the congregation of Christ's Church individually, the service took a long time, but was deeply interesting. It was an impressive sight to look on that large circle round the font that morning, and one could not help wondering how many—why not all?—of them would surround the throne of God in Heaven and sing, "Glory, glory, glory."

A "record year" of giving.

The subscriptions of the Mampe Pastorate to the Church Council Fund in 1896 fell short of the sum asked for by Rs. 45, and as the year 1897 advanced it was feared there would be a further falling short. To avert this, the Rev. W. E. Boteju called a meeting and explained the financial position, and distributed addressed envelopes among those who attended, to be returned within a fortnight with their special offerings. All the recipients of such envelopes returned them on the appointed day, and the sum required was not only realized, but exceeded, and a "record year" was the result. One envelope contained a promise to give 80 per cent. of the writer's next month's salary, which was done; another sent half the month's income of a new business venture; and several children sent contributions.

Schools.

There are altogether fifty-six schools, thirty-three being for girls and twenty-three for boys, with 3,617 on the roll. The grants in aid from Government amounted to Rs. 8,150, the largest sum hitherto earned. The English School for Boys increased its roll from 150 to 189, and its average attendance from 117 to 160. More than one half of these boys are Buddhists, but some of them, especially in the upper classes, did their Scripture class work intelligently. The Girls' Boarding School is under Mrs. Dowbiggin, assisted by her second daughter (her elder sister, Miss A. L. Dowbiggin, being engaged in language study). The girls are privileged, indeed, under Mrs. Dowbiggin's loving individual motherly oversight, which follows their career long after they leave the school. A former pupil sent Rs. 65, which she had collected in her missionary box during several years. Another collected money from Buddhists around her for the Indian Famine Fund, and several sent gifts and money towards the support of a girl in the school.

Evangelistic work

The Evangelistic Work in this district is many-sided. The catechists and readers preached to 51,000 men in the streets and villages, and distributed 15,500 tracts. In addition, they also held 284 meetings, which were attended by 1,785 people. Yet, Mr. Dowbiggin says, only half the population around Cotta heard the Gospel during the year. Bible-women read the Scriptures to 10,615 women.

BADDEGAMA.

Baddegama.

The Rev. J. W. Balding (now at home) has told the story of BADDEGAMA and its Mission in a booklet published during the year. The place was occupied in 1819, the year that Queen Victoria was born, by the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Mayor. A list is given in the book of seventeen Natives of this district who have been admitted to holy orders. Mr. and Mrs. Balding's fellow-workers among the 150,000 Buddhists of the district consisted of two native clergymen, three lady missionaries, ten catechists and readers, six Bible-women, and fifty-eight school-teachers. The Native Christians number 615, of whom 280 are communicants. Twenty-two adults were baptized during the year, who had all, except two, been educated in Mission schools. Of these there are thirty-six in the district, with 2,411 children. In twenty Sunday-schools there are 906 children. The Girls' Boarding School continues to prosper and increase. Six of its pupils became teachers in village schools during the year, and one became matron of a cottage hospital. Four passed the Teacher's Examination. Forty-eight, out of fifty presented, passed the Government examination, obtaining 85 per cent. of passes, and a grant of Rs. 1,100, the highest amount ever received. Fourteen girls obtained prizes in the Diocesan Religious Examination, and the school obtained a second class certificate. There are fifty-four boarders in the school, of whom forty-six are Christians. The following extract from a letter of the Honorary Secretary in Calcutta of the Famine Relief Fund, sent to the Indian papers, refers to this school:—

Girls' Boarding School.

Self-denial to help Indian Famine Fund.

> Amongst numerous touching instances of self-denial for the benefit of those stricken by famine in India none is more striking than that reported in a letter from the Bishop of Colombo, of a large girls' school in Ceylon, who, by their own proposal, had no meat in their curry for a week, so that the saving might be sent to the Famine Fund.

Pastorates.

The contributions of the three Pastorates amounted to Rs. 2,005, just double what was given in 1882, when Mr. Balding went to the district. They also gave Rs. 85 to the Indian Famine Fund. In the Baddegama Pastorate the Bishop confirmed fifteen candidates. On Diamond Jubilee day, 200 adults and about 500 children attended the service at Baddegama Church, including all the headmen of the village in their quaint uniforms, and the Queen's message to the people was placed in large letters over the Communion Table. In the Dodanduwa Pastorate four adults were baptized, one of whom had been dedicated by his parents to the Buddhist priesthood. The Misses H. P. Phillips and E. M. Josolyne were stationed at Dodanduwa, but the former left in June to take her furlough in England and Australia, and Miss M. S. Gedge went to reside with Miss Josolyne.

Self-support.

Last year it was mentioned in the Annual Report that the congregation had accepted responsibility for the whole of the pastor's salary. The sum of Rs. 642 was raised, more by Rs. 142 than had been undertaken. A sale at Easter, 1897, of the proceeds of sewing meetings held in the homes of the Christians, produced Rs. 91. Besides the above Rs. 642, a sum of Rs. 50 was given by one Native Christian, though not a member of the congregation, towards repairing the church. A large new bungalow and school buildings have been erected at Miss Phillips' expense at Patawata, to the north of Dodanduwa, and close to the church. These buildings were opened and dedicated by prayer to God by the Bishop of Colombo, on May 20th, 1897, and were then presented by Miss Phillips to the Society. When a few weeks later Miss Phillips left to take her furlough, her Singhalese Christian friends presented her with an address got up in a beautiful and costly style. And when six months later still she made a short stay in Ceylon, en route from England to Australia, she received a welcome which gladdened her heart. Her train reached the nearest station at 6 p.m., too late for any women to be out, but 200 men were there, and escorted her with demonstrations of joy. The Industrial School, started by the ladies at Dodanduwa in 1894, had a daily attendance of over eighty during the year, and the Government made a grant of Rs. 550. The boys are taught printing, tailoring, and joinering, and the girls lace-making. Some plumbago mines opened in the neighbourhood—twenty miles distant—have proved a snare to a few of the lads, attracting them away, or they have been sent thither by their fathers, some of whom have become small shareholders in these speculations. Drinking and gambling are rife at these mines, and they are places of great temptation. Nine of the Industrial School boys and one girl were confirmed by the Bishop in May. The Sunday-school is held in the morning only, so the Christian boys arranged amongst themselves to have an afternoon meeting.

Evangelistic Work is done by the catechists who itinerate in the district. One reports that the Buddhists in a certain village know more about Christianity than about Buddhism. He sold 175 Scripture portions and other books. One was a Life of Queen Victoria, and reading this led a man to become an inquirer. Another catechist states that he is preparing an ex-Buddhist priest for baptism. There were sold in the district 25 Bibles, 50 New Testaments, 300 Gospels, and 200 Catechisms of Religion; also 8,000 tracts were distributed.

The Rev. S. M. Simmons and Mr. E. J. Carus-Wilson were assigned to Baddegama on their return from furlough, during the absence in England of Mr. Balding.

ladies of the Society (and also of the C.E.Z.M.S.) reside there for work both among Singhalese and Tamils, and it is the centre of a Native Pastorate. The chief educational institution of the Society, Trinity College, is located at Kandy. The Principal, the Rev. H. P. Napier-Clavering, informed the Committee in the course of an interview in October, 1897, that, while seven years ago only 260 boys were in the College, the number now stands at 355, besides 103 attending a Primary School adjoining; that while there were then forty-three boarders, there are now 119; and that Rs. 20,000 had been spent on extending the College buildings, without any appeal to the public or to the Society for financial help. During the past year the boarders increased 20 per cent., the addition of a new dormitory making this possible. The Rev. R. W. Ryde was in charge during the short absence of the Principal in England. He writes:—

Trinity College.

Extensive enlargements.

> Every night we have prayers for boys in the boarding-house; we do not compel non-Christian boys to kneel when we pray, but we notice that now one and now another non-Christian boy kneels down and joins in the prayers. Even during the last term a few who previously did not kneel have begun to do so. It was an encouragement not long since that a boy came of his own accord and said he had received help from an address given at morning prayers. It was the time when examinations were near, and the senior boys were working very hard. The object of the address was to urge them to prepare for working time by making praying time. Any time given to God could not possibly be lost time. This boy had successfully resisted the temptation to absent himself from a special evening service, and had experienced much help in his studies the following morning.
>
> On Sunday, December 12th, we were able to unite with many others in praying for the awakening of India and Ceylon, and I was quite rejoiced to find how eagerly the boys took up the idea of having a special prayer-meeting of our own for this object. On the evening of the 11th, the boys, with the help of a few resident masters, had arranged among themselves who should lead in prayer on various subjects. We gave about three minutes to each subject, so that, interspersed with a few verses of hymns, the meeting lasted little more than half an hour. I feel sure that those who took part were not a little strengthened in their faith, and we are expecting, as a result of that widely-observed day of intercession, a blessing upon India and Ceylon in general and our College in particular.

Observance of December 12th.

Two boys were baptized, one a convert from Buddhism, the other from Hinduism. Miss A. M. Denyer was much cheered by the arrival of Miss A. L. Earp to engage with her in work among Singhalese women. She finds many young women who were taught in Mission schools who are now wives of Buddhists.

The Rev. H. Gunasekara is pastor of Trinity Church, Kandy, and the pastorate attached thereto, which includes out-stations at Katukele, Gaetembe, Kadugannawa, Gampola, and Nawalapitiya, at all which places there are small bodies of Christians under pastoral catechists. Mr. Gunasekara reports nine adult baptisms.

KANDIAN SINGHALESE ITINERANCY.

Singhalese itinerancy.

The Rev. J. G. Garrett, who had charge of the work of the Singhalese Itinerancy in the SOUTH-EASTERN DISTRICT, had a severe accident in April, 1897. Riding homeward on his bicycle one evening he fell over a precipice, among some rocks and tea bushes. The latter broke his fall, but his bicycle went down about 100 feet. A compound fracture of his ankle was one painful result, and a still more trying one to him was a prolonged lying aside from the work he so truly loves, ending in his being sent home to recruit. Mr. Garrett's staff of itinerants was increased by two new workers from the Cotta Divinity Class, which the Rev. S. Coles conducted before he went home, and the teachers numbered fifty-one. He expresses deep appreciation for the zealous co-operation of Miss Scovell (now at home) and Miss Karney, of the C.E.Z.M.S. Village Mission. Studious readers of the Society's Annual Reports will rejoice to learn that among the eight adults baptized during the year was the wife of Boaz, of whose work, and fall, and rising again Mr. Garrett has often written (see Annual Report for 1895–96, page 294).

The Rev. H. E. Heinekey has the NORTHERN DISTRICT of the Itinerancy under his charge. He and Mrs. Heinekey, who reside at Kandy, were summoned home on account of family bereavements in the spring of 1897, but were only absent from the Mission a little over three months. Mr. Heinekey has a staff of fifteen teachers in his district, and the school houses become the headquarters of the missionary on his itinerating tours. A new catechist, who was in the Rev. H. Coles' class at Cotta, has been appointed to Wattegama. He mentions that a Buddhist monk bought a New Testament from him, and expressed surprise at the excellent precepts of the Sermon on the Mount. The Bishop confirmed eight persons at this place. A daughter of the Rev. H. Gunasekara teaches the girls' school. Mr. Heinekey visits Anuradhapura once a month, and encourages the Rev. J. Colombotantorige in his pastoral and evangelistic labours. The attendance at the services has increased, but the congregation is a migratory one. The pastor visits the gaol; and one of the Buddhist prisoners showed an apparently sincere interest in the Gospel, reading the New Testament daily. The superintendent of the prison showed his confidence in this man by raising him above his fellow-prisoners, and giving him work for which he received wages. Mr. Colombotantorige also visits the Civil Hospital, and preaches in the open-air. Anuradhapura is full of monasteries, and thousands visit it on pilgrimage to the sacred Bo Tree. The country round is very sparsely populated, and on one of his evangelistic tours, Mr. Colombotantorige got lost for several hours in the jungle. The death of Mr. F. de Silva, a faithful catechist at Talawa, in the Anuradhapura district, for thirteen years, is a great loss to the work. The Ceylon Gleaner said of him:—

> Converted from Buddhism in early life, he encountered the opposition of his relatives at Kitulampitiya, his native village, and they remained practically unreconciled to him to the end of his days. He was trained for the work of a catechist at Baddegama about the year 1865, and has been known from first to last as a good man, who was faithfully serving his Lord and Master in his life and work. Whilst itinerating in the Kandyan country, under the late Rev. J. Alcock, he was appointed to a post in the North-Central Province, but, shrinking from taking his wife and young family to live in such a remote and wild part of the country, he declined to go. Some time afterwards he became afflicted with a disease which greatly disfigured him, and which he regarded as a chastisement from God on account of his refusal to obey what he had now come to regard as a call from Him. In referring to this affliction afterwards, he said, "When it seized me I was glad to go away and hide myself from my friends, and willingly offered to take up the work in the North-Central Province, which I had before refused." Thus it came about that he settled at Talawa, a village on the Kurunegala road, about eight miles from Anuradhapura, where his work was that of preaching the Gospel to the Singhalese within a radius of twenty miles or so. His efforts were so owned of God, that a little church of about thirty members now exists at Talawa, and about twelve candidates for baptism are scattered about in the neighbourhood. Many a time has Frederick de Silva been laid by through serious sickness, brought on by the unhealthiness of the climate in which he was living, but he manfully stuck to his post, and only left for his native village when in his last illness all remedies had failed to give him relief. He died at Kitulampitiya on June 30th, having been kept in perfect peace in the midst of much bodily suffering.

Why he settled at Talawa.

One of Mr. de Silva's sons has succeeded to his work at Talawa.

A catechist and two school teachers are employed among the Tamils, at Anuradhapura, as there are in the place and neighbourhood some 5,000 Tamil-speaking Moors and others. Nine candidates were confirmed.

In the WESTERN DISTRICT of the Itinerancy, the Rev. L. G. P. Liesching directs the labours of one native brother in orders and of thirty-six lay teachers. There were 640 Native Christians scattered in little groups over the district, and 1,260 children are taught in twenty schools. The Christians contributed Rs. 1,380. Mr. Liesching also received an accession of two fellow-workers from Mr. Coles' class, one of whom is a convert of this district, and is the first of the village Christians within it to have the advantage of such a training. Mr. Liesching speaks of him as "humble-minded and tactful," and as "showing grit." Mr. Liesching is thankful for his staff of teachers. The schools show a decrease of 126 in the number on the list as compared with 1894, but the average attendance is thirty-nine higher, and the Government grant is Rs. 1,190 better, which means that the irregular children, who get almost no benefit from the schools, are being weeded out, and the quality of the work has improved. In a village a few miles north of Kurunegala, a weak school had been closed. The people are staunch Buddhists, which made Mr. Liesching regret all the more the necessity for this step. To his surprise, however, a deputation of villagers waited upon him requesting that it might be re-opened, and the headman laid on the table the first month's salary of the teacher, and promised that the Mission should not be burdened with the future cost—a "remarkable vote of confidence in Christians," Mr. Liesching justly observes. A Christian teacher was sent. The Girls' Boarding School at Kegala passed twelve out of thirteen in the Government Examination, and received commendation from the Inspector. Two of the girls were baptized. The little infirmary added to the school at the beginning of 1897 has not been so far needed, but the building was used as a place for retirement by teachers and girls for private prayer, Bible-reading, and meditation. The Rev. F. W. Daundesekara, the pastor of Kegala, gives a pleasing account of an aged Christian who rises at half-past four every morning and reads the Morning Service in the Prayer Book, and every night reads in like manner the Evening Service.

Buddhists petition for re-opening of a Mission school.

There is open-air preaching near the Law Courts and other places; the gaol and hospital are visited. The Village Congregation made a definite advance in the direction of self-support. Five adults were baptized. Three Bible-women, supported by the Bible Society, labour in the district.

TAMIL COOLIE MISSION.

The Tamil Coolie Mission was commenced in 1854 to promote the moral and religious welfare of the labourers—mostly immigrants from South India—on the tea and coffee estates in the island. There are altogether about 1,500 such estates in Ceylon, 1,000 of which are regularly visited by the agents of the Mission. The planters support the fund from which the native catechists are paid.

Tamil Coolie Mission.

The three districts are Kotagala, in which the agents are superintended by the Rev. J. Ilsley; Kandy, under the Rev. W. Welchman; and Haputala, under the Rev. J. D. Simmons. In the KOTAGALA DISTRICT, 1,000 Sunday services were held, and more than 4,000 addresses were given by catechists and evangelists at the morning muster to the coolies. Paul Appavoo, whose conversion was mentioned in last year's Report (page 309), is spoken of by the catechist in his district as making progress in the Christian life, and as taking great delight in teaching the Scriptures to little children. Twenty adults were baptized, five of them on December 21st, 1897, after the close of the statistical year. These five are the fruits of the labours of an evangelist named Israel, himself a convert of the Tamil Coolie Mission who was baptized by the Rev. W. E. Rowlands. Some particulars are given of two of these men. David is a Native of Salem district, near Madras. He was appointed by his cangany or foreman to take charge of the temple on the estate, to look after the idols, and perform the necessary ritual. Joseph is a Native of a village in the Suvesesham district, Tinnevelly, and was taught in a Mission school there. He wore the sadei, a long tangled plait of hair worn by Hindu ascetics as a mark of devotion to their religion, and this was cut off on the morning of his baptism.

A temple keeper's baptized.

The Rev. W. Welchman employed the enforced absence from the KANDY DISTRICT at the beginning of 1897, which was referred to last year, by visiting the Mission stations in Bengal, the North-West Provinces, and the Punjab, learning useful lessons from fellow missionaries, which he has since found of great help. He brought Mrs. Welchman home on account of her illness in the spring of 1898, returning himself at once. He reports that his sixteen catechists worked faithfully and well on the whole. Their work is difficult, and they do not always receive encouragement from the planters. A marked improvement is observable in their diligence in visiting the houses where the coolies dwell, and engaging in personal conversation. Ten adults were baptized. The schools are visited by a Mission school inspector, and a considerable increase in Government grants is recorded. There are twenty schools in the district, with 768 pupils. Mr. Welchman bears testimony to the good influence of these schools, which are very popular, and might be started in all directions if money and agents were available. Many of the children are members of the Children's Scripture Union. There is also, in addition to the twenty schools already mentioned, an Industrial School, in which lace-making and embroidery are taught, and some of the lace sent out has been pronounced equal to the finest from Honiton and Brussels. The circulation of such books as those of the Rev. Andrew Murray's among the schoolmasters and catechists has been much blessed to some of them. There are eighteen congregations, separated by considerable distances from each other. The number of adherents increased by 100 during the year. The attendance at services improves, and the contributions have lately advanced considerably. At Kandy the congregation is in charge of a pastoral catechist, Mr. Sydney J. Coilpillai. Miss H. E. Finney and Miss M. A. Wood were mainly engaged in language study, but they also assisted in Sunday-school work and in visiting Hindu and Mohammedan homes, with the Bible-women. A new church was opened at Polgahawela in June, 1897, towards the cost of which the Native Christians liberally contributed.

Kandy District.

Industrial work for girls.

When the Rev. and Mrs. J. D. Simmons returned to Ceylon in November, 1896, it was with a view to superintending the Tamil work in Colombo; but it was found that the heat was too great for Mrs. Simmons, and an exchange of spheres was arranged between Mr. Simmons and the Rev. J. W. Fall, the former assuming charge of the HAPUTALE DISTRICT of the Tamil Coolie Mission. He finds this more laborious than the Kotagala district in which he worked before, the hills steeper and more rugged, the distances greater, and the agents, proportionately to the area, less in number. He invited the five catechists and a few of the schoolmasters to meet at Haputale in October for four days of spiritual communion. He finds the spiritual state of the Christians to be low, and the efforts to arouse them have been somewhat feeble. He did not consider any of those presented to him for baptism to be ready, so there were no adults baptized during the year. Haputale.

III. NORTHERN PROVINCE.

THE Rev. H. Horsley, after resigning an English vicarage in order to return to Tamil work in Ceylon, entered on the charge of the work in the Jaffna Peninsula, and he finds it "very arduous indeed." The people are for the most part "set upon their idols," and are restoring and beautifying their temples. There are sixty-four vernacular schools under his supervision, which entail not a little labour and correspondence. The Rev. E. T. Higgens, the Secretary of the Mission, gave much encouragement and joy to the workers by a visit he paid to Jaffna in July, 1897. The Girls' Boarding School at NELLORE is under Miss K. Heaney. At the prize giving the teachers and girls were asked to indicate by vote the girl whom they considered the most unselfish and helpful in the school, to be the recipient of a prize, and the unanimous choice fell upon a girl who is from a staunch heathen home, but whom Miss Heaney describes as an "unbaptized Christian." Another girl, to whom the same description might be applied, was the first in the school in Scripture. Her wonderful knowledge of the Bible is not mere head knowledge, as she assured Miss Heaney that she prayed to the true God, and "no longer" as before "to the elephant headed god." The baptism of the girls, even when their parents assent, is sometimes deferred, as it is known that in all probability they will be required to marry heathen husbands, though in a few cases Jaffna girls have successfully withstood their friends in that matter. The present matron in the Boarding School did so, and suffered much persecution in consequence. A faithful member of the native congregation, which is under the Rev. S. Morse, died, viz.—Mr. Alexander Bailey. He was secretary and treasurer of the Church Committee, and had been instrumental in the conversion of several of his heathen neighbours.

Chundicully. The Rev. G. Champion continues, in his fifty-third year of service, to labour on at CHUNDICULLY, "in spite of old age, weakness, and family affliction," experiencing daily "the good and loving hand of his Heavenly Father to cherish and support him," as he testifies. The Christians under his pastoral care number 412, including children. No report of St. John's College has been received. Miss M. Saul resides at Pallai. Pallai, where she holds meetings for the women in the bazaars, speaking to as many as 150 at a time; visits the nearer villages, &c. The Rev. J. Backus is the pastor of the congregation of 227 Christians. The Rev. G. Daniel, of Copay, reports ten adults baptized, nine of whom were from the Training Institution. Miss L. A. Case visited the schools, and accompanied the Bible-women to the houses of the people. The Offerings of firstlings and tithes. Rev. A. Matthias, of Vavoniya, says that the farmers of his congregation give yearly the firstlings of their cattle, &c., and the tithe of their farm produce, which realized Rs. 136 in 1897. Four adults were baptized. The Rev. J. Carter, of Chundicully, who made a tour in The Wannie in April, 1897, admitted three adults by baptism into the Church. Mr. Carter, who travelled the eighty-eight miles to Vavoniya on his bicycle, wrote:—"Though there are not many Christians in The Wannie as yet, such as there are seem very much in earnest, and especially for the conversion of their own families and friends, which is a good sign."

MAURITIUS MISSION.

Though geographically more nearly connected with Africa, the little island of Mauritius is, in a missionary sense, a dependency of India. Two-thirds of the population are immigrants from Bengal and South India, brought hither to work on the sugar plantations; and among these are labouring Bengali and Tamil-speaking missionaries, whose work has been much blessed. Over 5,000 have been baptized, the majority of whom have returned to their own country. The Mission has owed much to successive Bishops of Mauritius, especially to Dr. Ryan, Dr. Royston, and Dr. Walsh.

The Right Rev. Dr. Walsh, after an Episcopate of seven years, has resigned the See of Mauritius, and accepted the appointment of Archdeacon of Canterbury. The Bishopric has thus for the fifth time been vacated since its creation in 1854.

Miss Mary Louisa Penley reinforced the Mission, sailing in November, 1897.

Archdeacon and Mrs. H. D. Buswell, and Miss H. A. Wilkinson, reside at Rose Belle, where the railway from Mahebourg on the east coast and one from the south coast unite to pursue a north-westerly course to Port Louis. The Archdeacon describes Rose Belle as virgin soil. A civil chaplain for many years occupied the Mission house, but his duties were not amongst the Heathen, though he did baptize a few from time to time. The great majority of the Indians in the district are from North India, and therefore speak Hindi. A few nominal Christians are to be found scattered among them, but the long distance at which most of them reside from any place of worship provides an excuse for the not over-zealous. The Rev. S. S. Singh, who speaks both Hindi and Bengali, has been transferred to Rose Belle, to assist the Archdeacon in the evangelistic work of the district. The little church has been renovated, and the congregation is growing. The Girls' School and Orphanage, under Mrs. Buswell, admitted twenty-three children during the year, while eleven left, leaving fifty-one at the beginning of 1898. Miss H. A. Wilkinson was busily occupied—holding meetings for Christian women in different parts of the Island, conducting Bible-classes for the Bible-women at different centres, administering simple medicinal remedies, and visiting heathen women in their homes. Eighty-three meetings for Christian women were held, with an aggregate attendance of over 2,000. They involve much travelling and absorb much time, but the need is imperative. There is a marvellous mingling of languages at some of these meetings. Miss Wilkinson says that English hymns, Hindi bhajans, French Cantiques, Creole addresses, and Hindi prayers are sometimes all heard at the same meeting. She believes, however, that in spite of the many difficulties the Message in the majority of cases is understood.

Rose Belle.

Mingling of languages.

Vacoas.

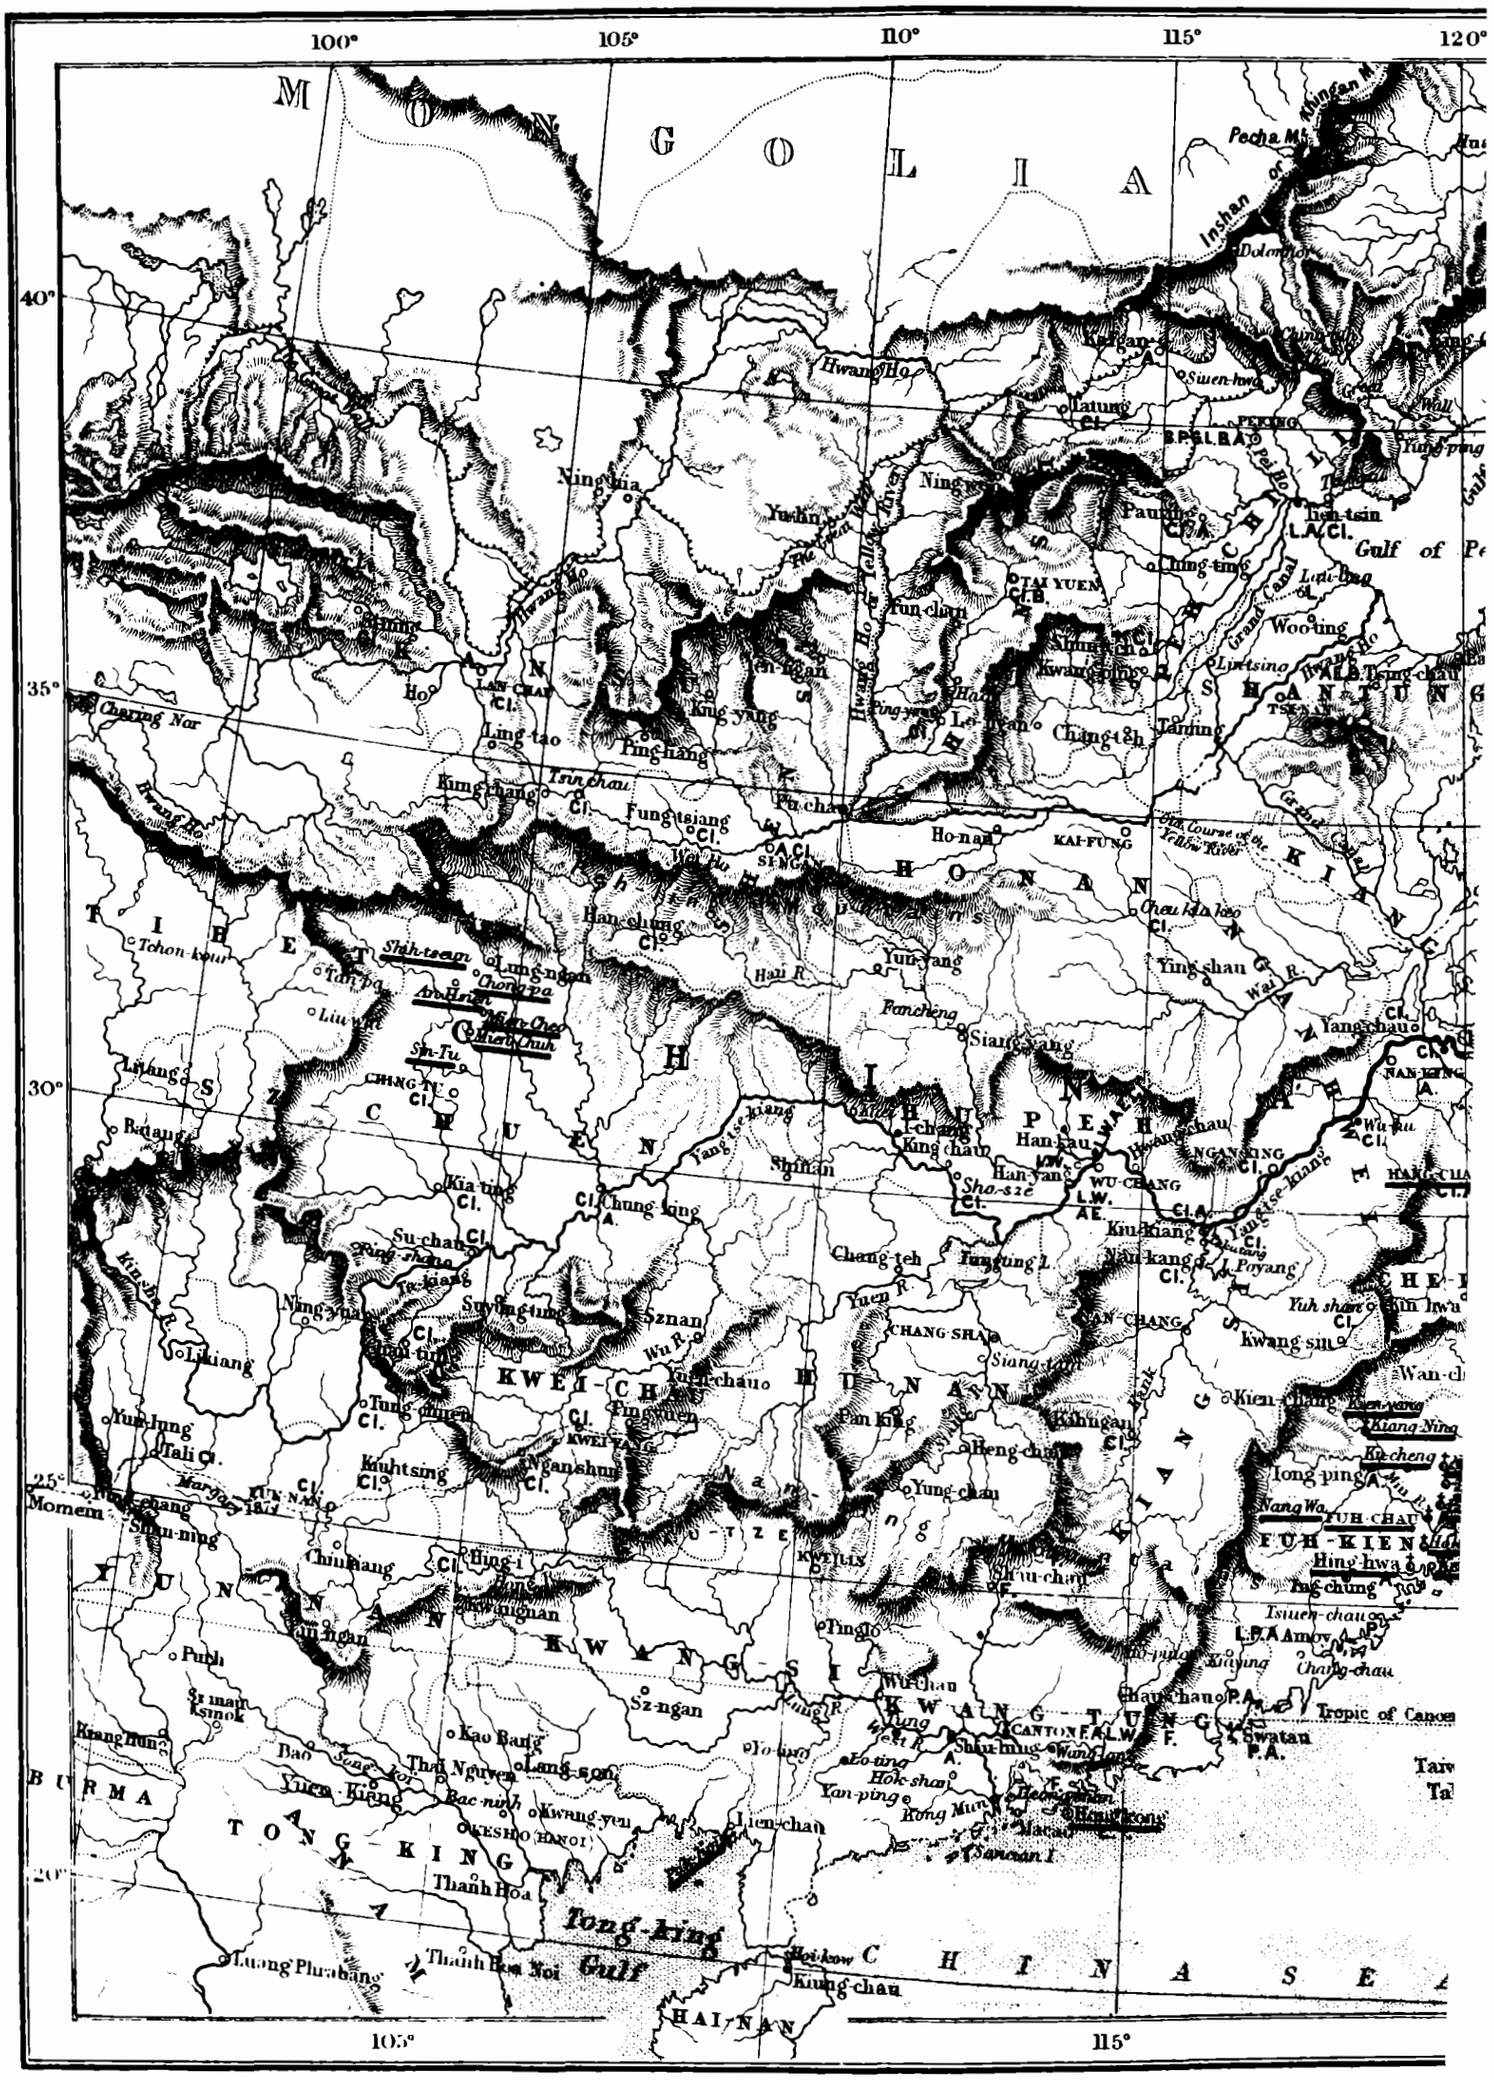
The Rev. A. K. Finnimore was appointed by Bishop Walsh to the chaplaincy of VACOAS in April, 1897. The boundaries of his parish are undefined, but it extends to the west coast of the Island. The Indian congregation has 182 members, of whom 100 are of North Indian descent, about seventy are of South Indian extraction, and the remainder of mixed nationality. The language difficulty reaches a climax when Chinamen join the little body of worshippers.

Plaisance.

A heterogeneous collection of little folk.

At PLAISANCE, the Rev. V. W. Harcourt has a probably unique charge. In the Boys' School and Orphanage, his forty-two boarders and twenty day scholars represent many races: "the blue-eyed, fair-haired French child; the African, with his large, soft black eyes and frizzly hair; the small, imperious quondam Moslem, but now Christian; the North and South Indians; the Creoles; and the English." In class-work, garden work, drill, bathing, cricket, and football, this heterogeneous company of little folk appear to lead a happy and united life. Mr. Harcourt has also six Preparandi students under his tuition, and he superintends seventeen other schools in different parts of the Island.

Beau Bassin.



The Rev. C. A. Blackburn is at BEAU BASSIN, about midway between Vacoas and Port Louis. He visits periodically eight out-stations, to stir up the Christians to seek more of the presence and power of the Holy Spirit, and he goes to camps of coolies on the estates to make Christ known to Hindus and Mohammedans.

Pastorates

Of the six Pastorates, three have native pastors in priests' orders, viz., Port Louis, under the Rev. S. Susunker, who ministers to a congregation of about 400; the Northern Pastorate, under the Rev. J. Ernest; and the North Central Pastorate, under the Rev. I. F. Chorley, who resides at Rose Hill, and who baptized eighteen adults.

CHINA.

Boundless material resources, illimitable administrative corruption, incredible feebleness and incapacity for self-defence, these are the facts upon which, as upon pivots, the history of China is slowly moving into new conditions and relations—an evolution which, while it interests intensely, on various grounds, the peoples of Europe and America, has a very special significance for the servants of the Lord Jesus Christ.

China and the Western Powers.

In last year's Report, some of the commercial consequences of the War of 1894-95 between China and Japan were pointed out. During the year 1897, some of the political consequences have come more distinctly into view. The intervention of Russia, Germany, and France to arrest the progress of the Japanese victorious army, and limit the territorial acquisition of that country, placed those three Powers in a position favourable for making demands on their own behalf, and Russia and France obtained, after a short interval, important privileges in the north and south of China respectively, permitting the creation of railway connexions from their own territories with populous centres of Chinese commercial activity. The murder of two German Roman Catholic Missionaries at Yen-Chau-fu, in Shantung, on or about November 1st, 1897, was promptly followed, a week or two later, by the occupation of Kiao-Chau by German blue-jackets, and eventually the concession of that important port, with sundry rights and monopolies, were granted on lease to Germany by China. The demand on the part of Russia, on similar terms, for Port Arthur—the port from which the Japanese had been compelled by European interposition to recede—followed, and was granted.

Lease of territories.

Meantime, an instalment of the war indemnity payable to Japan was becoming due, and the British Government was approached by China for a loan. Notwithstanding that a generous offer was made in response, China was induced by Russia to withdraw the application, and the loan was effected through German and British banks. Certain concessions, however, which had been under consideration while the loan was in contemplation, of a nature to benefit British trade and influence, in common with the trade and influence of all other countries dealing with China, were made. These were four in number. First, it was agreed that the internal navigation on all rivers in China should be open to foreign steamers after the summer of 1898. Second, it was undertaken by China that the territory in the Yangtse region shall not be alienated to any foreign Power. Third, it was conceded that the office of Inspector-General of the Imperial Maritime Customs should be held by a British subject so long as British trade is in the ascendant in China. And, fourth, it was promised that after the lapse of two years, a port in the province of Hunan should be opened to foreign trade.

British policy

The principles underlying the policy pursued by the British Government in its attitude towards China and the Great Powers on these questions have been officially declared to be the maintenance of the integrity and independence of China; the preservation of rights secured by treaty to Great Britain; and the promotion of free commerce. The Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs (Mr. Curzon), in expounding the Government's policy in the House of Commons, claimed that Englishmen had been the first to unlock the door of China to foreign trade, to survey her coasts, to drive away pirates from her seas, to stud the whole line of her coasts with ports open to the whole world, to send steamers up her waterways, to build railways for China, to explore her mines, and to carry into the interior of the country over thousands of miles the advantages of European commerce and European comforts. Certainly, the British Empire is responsible for a very large proportion of China's foreign trade. In 1896, the total value of this trade was fifty-five and a half millions sterling (333½ millions of taels), an increase of four millions on that of 1895, which increase was more than accounted for by the advance in British imports. The share of the British Empire in China's foreign trade increased by 9⅓ per cent. during 1896, and amounted to within a fraction of 70 per cent. Chinese trade with the United States increased by upwards of 2½ million taels, and that with the continent of Europe, excepting Russia, decreased by over a million taels.

The Yangtse Valley.

The Yangtse Valley in particular owes its commercial development to British merchants and financiers, and, moreover, its hinterland is contiguous with the upper regions of British Burma, and at some future date, it would seem reasonable to predict, a railway connexion will almost certainly be established. The natural outlet of such a Burma-Yangtse trade route would be Hunan, a province whose area equals that of England, and whose undeveloped resources in coal are enormous; whose present boast, moreover, is that it is the only province in the Empire in which the foreigner has obtained no foothold.

Hunan.

The people of Hunan claim to be the purest descendants of the old dominant stock. Changsha, its capital city, was the focus from which emanated much of the abusive literature that was largely responsible for the anti-foreign outbreaks in 1891. The first attempt to erect a line of telegraph was met by burning 1,000 of the poles, and sending the wire adrift in an open boat. But some evidences have recently appeared of a more enlightened spirit. The telegraph has been re-erected; electric light has been introduced; and a College of Western Science has been founded at Changsha, a Chinaman educated at Hong Kong being engaged as principal.

Awakening among the Mandarins.

Happily, there are signs in other directions also that the Mandarin class, or, at least, influential members of that class, are awaking to the realization that the policy of isolation is no longer practicable. At Hang-chow, a college formerly devoted to the study of Chinese classics has been transmuted into a school of languages and western sciences. It is even said that one of the subjects given out for essay-writing in a recent Government examination was, "Noah and his Family; or, the Re-peopling of the World after the Flood," and that the text-book recommended was the Old Testament—surely the first time in China's history that a knowledge of the Bible has been required in the State examinations.

The Committee of the Church Missionary Society at their monthly meeting in March, 1898, having taken in review the political changes which have been adverted to above, and the new openings which are likely in God's providence to result for the entrance of the bearers of the Gospel Message, and also the evidences as to the changed attitude discernible in important sections of the literati, passed the following Resolution:—

> At this particular juncture they believe that to the Church of Christ at large there is a distinct call for the advance of Missionary enterprise in the great Empire of China. The Committee feel it important to restate some of the well-known facts of the case. The population of China is estimated at more than one-fifth of the entire population of the world. It is said that, counting all bodies of Protestant Christians, there is only one Missionary for say every 250,000 of its inhabitants, while the number of Church of England workers foreign to the country, of both sexes, probably does not exceed 230. It is estimated that China has over one million unevangelized villages, varying in population up to 20,000. The present position of the Church of Christ in the country is far from discouraging. In 1842 the number of its communicants attached to the Protestant churches was six, it is now over 70,000.
> Recognizing a distinct and definite call from God to the Church of Christ to stand forth in a spirit of readiness, to press forward with promptitude as occasion is offered, and thus go in and possess the land of China for Him, they would invite all who cherish a holy enthusiasm for the extension of the Redeemer's Kingdom, and more particularly those who are in positions of responsibility connected with the Foreign Missionary enterprise, to join with them in earnest and believing prayer that the Holy Ghost may so fire the hearts of God's people that workers and means may speedily be provided for the far more adequate occupation of the heathen world.

China's call to the Church.

And the following month the Committee expressed their readiness to sanction a school or schools being tentatively commenced in China, in which higher English education might be provided, it being distinctly laid down that the aim and object of such school or schools should be to win to Christ youths of the higher classes by means of a sound and thorough Christian education.

Conference of Bishops of Anglican Communion at Shanghai

Five Bishops of the Anglican Communion met at Shanghai in April, 1897, namely, Bishops Moule of Mid China, Scott of North China, Corfe of Corea, Graves of Shanghai, and Cassels of Western China, and in the course of three days spent in deliberation and prayer the following important Resolutions were adopted:—

I. In view of current misunderstandings arising out of the two terms, "religion of the Lord of Heaven" and "religion of Jesus," as though the two were fundamentally distinct religions, this Conference recommends that all branches of the Anglican Communion should use and promote the use of "religion of Christ" as equivalent of Christianity.

II. That as a term to designate all Churches in China and Corea within the Anglican Communion, this Conference recommends the adoption of "Tsung Ku Chiao Hwei" as the equivalent of "Anglican Communion."

III. In view of the two renderings of the baptismal formula in use in the various Missions of the Anglican Church in China and Corea—the variety mainly turning on the question whether the formula should come from the Latin, as in our English Prayer-book, or direct from the original Greek—this Conference proposes to appoint a committee to investigate this question with a view to a uniform use hereafter.

IV. That this Conference, without any hesitation, reaffirms the sanctity and the importance to the life of the Church of the Lord's Day [see Report of Lambeth Conference, 1888], but nevertheless is convinced that under present conditions in these lands, clergy in charge of congregations and Bishops in judging cases referred to them are bound to give due consideration to circumstances in dealing with Christians who absent themselves from Divine service and plead the requirements of their occupation or trade as reason.

V. That a Committee be appointed to consider the various methods of discipline existing amongst us at present and to report at the next meeting of this Conference.

VI. This Conference, after full and careful consideration of the important letter addressed to them by many of their clergy in 1895, asking for a common classical version of the Book of Common Prayer, convinced as they are of the desirableness of uniformity in the rendering of theological and liturgical formulæ, nevertheless feel that in view of the difference in some minor but important respects, besides the Canon of the Holy Communion, between the American and English Prayer-books, it is impossible at present to secure a common version in classical Chinese for all our dioceses. Meantime, deeming on the one hand the widely used Prayer-book of Bishop Burdon to stand in need of revision in respect both of terminology and arrangement, and aware that the American Mission has bestowed much labour on the revision of their Prayer-book, and is now approaching its completion and publication, this Conference advises the postponement of the undertaking until the Bishops and their clergy shall have had an opportunity of studying that revision with a view to its possible adoption, at least in respect of theological terminology.

VII. That this Conference adopts the report of the provisional committee on the publication of a Church periodical subject to the acceptance of the office by the proposed editors.

VIII. Seeing that the existing method of reckoning the days of the week which has been commonly used by the non-Roman Catholic Churches in China since the early part of the century is inconvenient and misleading, this Conference resolves that it is most desirable that in all branches of the Church in China and Corea distinct efforts should be made to change the phraseology, so that whilst "Lord's Day" stands for Sunday, Monday is always spoken of as the second day of the week.

IX. This Conference recognizes with thankfulness the amount of unanimity already attained on the point of common terms for the Holy Ministry, and inasmuch as the chief diversity appears in the rendering adopted for the second order of the Ministry, the Conference resolves to appoint a committee for the consideration of this particular question, not excluding powers of considering and reporting on the names for the other orders of the Ministry.

X. This Conference records its sense of deep thankfulness to Almighty God for His assistance vouchsafed during the three days' session now ended, and resolves that, God willing, a similar Conference be convened at Shanghai by the senior Bishop in the autumn of 1899.

XI. That a letter in English and Chinese, accompanying the above resolutions, be sent to the clergy and Christians in China and Corea.

The letter sent in accordance with the terms of the last Resolution to the clergy and laity of the Anglican Communion in China and Corea, and signed by the same five Bishops, concluded with the following words :—

We pray that the deepened sense of our oneness in Christ Jesus and in the bonds of our common communion which have been vouchsafed to ourselves during this Conference may be abundantly granted to our clergy and their flocks also ; and further, that our having been permitted thus to manifest the real unity of the Anglican Communion in these countries, notwithstanding the different nationalities, various missionary agencies, and divergent schools of thought represented, may in the good providence of God prove to be one step onward in the direction of that perfect unity which we believe to be according to the mind of our Lord and Master Jesus Christ.

A comparison—1897 and 1837.

It is interesting to contemplate such a gathering of five Bishops of the Protestant Churches of England and America, meeting to discuss such problems in the interests of the widely scattered native congregations, in view of the fact that when Queen Victoria ascended the throne, China was closed to direct Christian effort. Robert Morrison, who died in 1834, had indeed done his great translational work at Canton, but he had only been able to reside there under the ægis of the East India Company. A few months before the Queen succeeded to the throne, the Peking Government, taking alarm at the efforts of Gutzlaff, a remarkable Prussian, an agent of the Netherland Missionary Society, to distribute Christian tracts and portions of Scripture in the towns along the coast, had issued an edict to the effect that "the Christian religion is the ruin of morals and of the human heart, therefore it is prohibited." Mr. E. B. Squire, whom the C.M.S. sent out in 1837, was two years wandering about in Eastern seas, but failed to get into China. Professor Legge, whose death at Oxford occurred at the close of 1897, when he went out in 1839 as a missionary of the London Missionary Society, laboured first at Malacca and then in Hong Kong.

The late Professor Legge.

SOUTH CHINA MISSION.

The great Empire of China was opened to missionary effort in 1844, when the Treaty of Nanking, which closed the first Chinese War, gave England the possession of Hong Kong, and the right of residence at five leading ports; and more fully in 1858–60, by the Treaty of Tientsin and Convention of Peking. Hong Kong was occupied in 1862, and Pakhoi in 1886.

The Fuh-Kien Mission has a truly remarkable history. Fuh-chow was occupied in 1850, and the first eleven years passed without a single convert appearing. Two out of five missionaries died during this interval, and two retired. The fifth died soon after gathering the first-fruits of his labours, leaving a new-comer, the Rev. J. R. (now Archdeacon) Wolfe, in charge. Up to 1864 the work was confined to Fuh-chow city. In that year and the following, other large cities were occupied by native evangelists. In 1866 the first two or three converts from these were baptized. Fuh-ning was occupied by European Missionaries in 1882; Ku-cheng, 1887; Lo-Ngwong, 1889; Nang-wa-Kau, 1889; Kien-Yang, 1891; Hing-hwa, 1894; Ning-taik, 1896; Keng-tau, 1896; Ko-Sang-Che, 1896; Lieng-Kong, 1897.

China, south of lat. 28°, is under the episcopal jurisdiction of the Bishop of Victoria, Hong Kong. The first Bishop, Dr. G. Smith, the third, Dr. Burdon, and the fourth, Dr. Hoare, were C.M.S. Missionaries; and the second, Dr. Alford, was an active friend of the Society at home.

Appointment to the Bishopric of Victoria.

THE Bishopric of Victoria, Hong Kong, has been offered by the Archbishop of Canterbury to the Rev. Joseph Charles Hoare,* and has been accepted by him. Mr. Hoare is a son of the late Canon Hoare, of Tunbridge Wells. At Cambridge he was a scholar of Trinity College, and graduated in the Classical Tripos, obtaining a second-class. He was admitted to deacon's orders by the Bishop of London in 1873, and after a two years' curacy under his father at Tunbridge Wells he went out to Mid China in 1875 to open the Training College at Ningpo. His work in that institution, in which he has continued (with furlough intervals) without interruption, has had a unique and blessed influence on the growth and stability of the Church in Mid China. Mr. Hoare has been an honorary missionary for the past several years. Mrs. Hoare was a daughter of the late Rev. F. F. Gough, who laboured in the Mid China Mission from 1849 to 1881. Mr. and Mrs. Hoare came home on furlough, in March, 1897.

Bishop Burdon returns to the field.

Bishop Burdon intimated to the Committee in his interview with them in April, 1897, soon after his arrival in England, that although he had retired from the Bishopric of Victoria, it was his hope to return to China at an early date, and to devote his time and remaining strength to forwarding missionary work, by translating, teaching, and preaching. In the autumn of the same year he volunteered to undertake the temporary charge of the work at Pakhoi, in order to set free the Rev. E. B. Beauchamp for a needed furlough, an offer which the Committee gratefully accepted. The Bishop and Mrs. Burdon sailed in December.

* Bishop Hoare was consecrated on June 11th, 1898.

Reinforcements.

The reinforcements sent out during the year were: the Rev. Sidney William Charles Howe, B.A., Emmanuel College, Cambridge, and Wycliffe Hall, Oxford, Curate of All Saints', Plumstead, and Mrs. Howe; the Rev. Marcus Mackenzie, M.B., C.M., Edinburgh, who was admitted to deacon's orders by the Archbishop of Dublin on January 31st, 1897; the Rev. Thomas de Clare Studdert, B.A., Trinity College, Dublin, Curate of Fanlobbus, diocese of Cork; the Rev. William Sandford Walsh, B.A., Trinity College, Dublin, Curate of Derriaghy, diocese of Connor, son of Bishop Pakenham Walsh, who resigned the See of Ossory in 1897; Mr. Hamilton Richard Pakenham, B.A., M.B., B.Ch., B.A.O., Dublin; Mr. Arthur Thomas Sampson, M.B., C.M., Edinburgh; Mr. William Muller and Mrs. Muller; Mr. William Ernest Henry Hipwell, who was married, after reaching Hong Kong, to Miss Kathleen Power, of this Mission; Mrs. Saunders; Miss Amy Bolton; Miss Emma Louisa Havers, who was trained at Highbury; and Miss Leila Bibb, of the New South Wales C.M. Association. Most of the above sailed in October, Miss Bolton and Miss Havers in November, and Mr. Hipwell in December.

Dublin University Fuh-Kien Mission.

Messrs. Mackenzie, Studdert, and Walsh are supported in the field by the Dublin University Fuh-Kien Mission. These, together with the Rev. L. H. F. Star, the Rev. and Mrs. S. Synge, Miss M. G. Harmar, and Miss J. E. Clarke, make eight missionaries now supported by the funds of that Mission. Fuh-Ning, the most northern station on the coast of Fuh-Kien, is now almost exclusively worked by missionaries sent out by the D.U.F.K.M., and it is under contemplation to extend the sphere of their operations by occupying Fu-Ting, which is at present an out-station of Fuh-Ning, near the boundary of the Fuh-Kien and Cheh-Kiang Provinces. Indeed, Mr. Star crossed the border (as will appear below) and visited the China Inland Missionaries in Cheh-Kiang in May, 1897. The going out of another of the year's reinforcement party was also mainly due to the Dublin University friends. The home of Mrs. Saunders (mother of the late Misses H. E. and E. M. Saunders, who were among the victims of the Hwa-sang tragedy) is at Melbourne, and naturally the Victoria Association would have sent her out to the field. The Dublin University Fuh-Kien Mission proposed that Mrs. Saunders should be invited to go out to mother the little party of unmarried ladies supported by them at Fuh-Ning. This is how it arises that Mrs. Saunders proceeded to the field unassociated, except by the links of loving interest and by the sacred ties of memory with the Victoria Association. On reaching Fuh-Kien, however, the Conference recommended Fuh-chow as a more suitable location, and this was concurred in by all concerned.

In last year's Report the death was recorded of the first missionary who went out in connexion with the Dublin University Fuh-Kien Mission, the Rev. James Stratford Collins. Some three hundred Native Christians attended his funeral in the Fuh-chow cemetery on April 17th, 1897. The hymn "Peace, perfect peace," was sung in English, and "For ever with the Lord," in Chinese. Mrs. Collins, with two children, and accompanied by Mrs. Smyth, wife of Dr. Smyth, of Ningpo, of the Mid China Mission, and by Misses F. M. Lloyd and E. Weller, of the C.E.Z.M.S. staff in Fuh-Kien, were passengers in the ill-fated P. and O. steamship Aden, which struck on a reef off the eastern coast of the Island of Socotra on June 9th, they having joined it on June 2nd, 1897, at Colombo en route for England. Mrs. Collins and Mrs. Smyth, with their children and Mrs. Collins' nurse, Margaret Hogan, left the ship, with such of the other lady passengers as elected to do so, in a lifeboat in charge of two officers and a crew, on June 10th, and the boat with its living freight was never heard of again. A passenger, Mr. F. Gillett, one of the very few who were eventually rescued of the thirty-one passengers, including fourteen children, who were on board, wrote to the *Times a graphic and deeply touching account of the wreck, from which a few paragraphs may be quoted here:—

Four lady missionaries in the wreck of the Aden.

We left Colombo on June 2nd at about 1.30 a.m., and here our troubles began, as within one day after leaving, the monsoon began to break upon us with considerable force, the seas ran high, violent squalls of wind accompanied by blinding rain and spray were constantly met with, and the ship, although behaving throughout as a first-class sea boat, began pitching and rolling heavily. Day by day as we proceeded the weather increased in violence, seldom was the sun visible, and the squalls increased in force, while the waves began to get truly mountainous. Not more than three or four days had elapsed before the big seas washing over the port or weather side began to break up the stack of coal on that side of the ship, and it was found necessary to get it shifted by the crew in baskets down to the bunkers, an operation by no means without danger to life and limb, taking into consideration the rolling of the ship, the slippery decks, and the increasing violence of the seas that broke over us aft. Things got from bad to worse until June 7th and 8th we were running in the teeth of such violent monsoon weather as was described to me by Mr. Carden, the chief officer, a bluff, good-hearted seaman of the kind that one likes to meet, as by far the worst that he had ever met with in his experience. The seas were tremendous, and the tops of the waves were carried along in blinding spray by the violent squalls which constantly struck us. Early, therefore, on the morning of the 8th the captain decided to head the ship up nearer into the wind and slow down to half-speed, so that by lessening the heavy rolling it might be possible to clear away the balance of the coal, and get it safely stowed in the bunkers. This change of course doubtless carried us down a little further south than where we should otherwise have been, but as we were going so slowly the deviation from our original course was probably of small extent, and by about 11.30 a.m. on June 8th the coal was all cleared and the ship headed round in a north-west direction to clear the eastern end of Socotra Island, which it was expected would be reached somewhere about ten or eleven o'clock that night.

Monsoon in the Indian Ocean.

During all this time Captain Hill, whom we shall always remember with affection for his unfailing geniality and kindness, had been doing his best to cheer up the distressed ladies and their children by kindly words and assurances that it would be the last bad night, and that before dawn we should be running into smooth water on the northern side of Socotra, and protected by it from the extreme violence of the monsoon. Would to God that it could have been so, and that the morning of the 9th might have seen us still sound and running on safely homeward, instead of lying a dismantled wreck on that fearful reef off Socotra! What was that fatal error in judgment that brought us to that pass it is not for me to consider; the matter will be doubtless made the subject of official inquiry, and I must pass on to what I have now to tell your readers of the horrors that ensued. The rolling of the ship on the night of the 8th, together with the discomforts consequent on the fact that the seas washing over us had entered many of the cabins on the starboard side alleyway, induced many of the lady passengers to seek rest by having their mattresses brought into the saloon, and placed together on the floor, and the appearance of the saloon that night was more like a camp hospital than anything else, it being difficult to cross it without treading on somebody. The few male passengers were mostly wandering about the ship unable to sleep, I myself being still in my day clothes and trying to get a little rest on a seat in the companion way at the top of the saloon stairs. Thoroughly tired out I must have dropped asleep on my rather uncomfortable seat, and it was with a dreadful shock that I was awakened at about 3 a.m. on that fatal June 9th, by feeling four violent bumps in quick succession towards the fore part of the ship, followed immediately by a horrid, grinding noise somewhat nearer the part where I was, and the horrible certainty was forced upon me that the good ship had struck. As I jumped from my seat and rushed down the saloon to seek for my wife and child, I met them leaving their cabin with agonized faces and in the lightest of sleeping dresses, and after begging my wife to be brave I rushed into our cabin to secure for them extra clothing.

Meanwhile, shouts were heard from above, "All passengers on deck!" "Bring your lifebelts!" and tearing down the three belts placed in our cabin I hurried out again to join my dear ones and get them up on deck. Ere we had crossed the saloon the steam was coming in thickly, presumably from the engine-room, and immediately also the electric light, which had been burning brightly, went out, leaving the saloon full of horror-struck ladies and children in utter darkness, frantic in their efforts to reach the staircase and get to the upper deck. There was an awful crush on the stairway, and the screams of women and children were piteous and heart-rending; but, eventually, the stairway was cleared and we passengers found ourselves huddled together on the lee side of the upper deck, most being totally unprotected from the violent wind and sheets of spray which had already begun to dash over us as the seas were hurled over the port side forward. The night was hideous in its blackness, faces were impossible to distinguish, and it was only by imploring cries heard on all sides that one could form an idea of those who were round about us. . . . .

The last remaining lifeboat was taken in hand by the third and fourth officers, Mr. Ralph Manning and Mr. E. H. Hurlstone, and calls were made for provisions and water to put into her before lowering away. These were passed up by the stewards from below, and after being handed in, the third officer, two able-bodied quartermasters, and the stewardess took seats in the boat. While she was being lowered, however, by some mischance, either from defective tackles or a heavy sea, the after tackles gave way and the boat hung by her fore tackles only; the four occupants, together with all stores and contents, being precipitated into the water. The three men succeeded in keeping themselves afloat by grasping floating oars and spars, while a lifebuoy was flung over and grasped by the stewardess, who, however, appeared to be in imminent danger of drowning right under us, through her abortive attempts to get into proper position in the lifebuoy. By this time, however, the boat had been launched, and the fourth officer, young Hurlstone, who had got into her, plunged from the side to swim to the assistance of the stewardess, amidst the cheers of all on deck, and succeeded in bringing her back and getting her safely into the boat. Then the remainder of the foreign quartermasters and carpenter took up positions in the boat, and calls were made for ladies and children to come aft to be lowered away, the boat having been passed back nearer the stern to avoid the heavy seas breaking over the fore portion of the ship. Using a sling as the means of lowering, and under the superintendence of the captain, the surgeon, Mr. Forman, who worked most manfully to assist the frightened passengers, and two of the stewards, the following passengers were gradually lowered :—Mrs. Reilly and her two children, Mrs. Collins and two children, Miss Hogan, Mrs. Robertson and three children, Mrs. Smyth and infant, Mrs. Suttie and infant, Mrs. Sanderson, and Miss Hewitt. Calls were then made for the remainder of the ladies and children, but although I cannot say that I heard the order distinctly given, it would seem that word was passed along that the husbands would not be able to go that trip in the boat, but would have to wait for its hoped-for return. On this, however, both Mrs. Strain, Mrs. Pearce, and my own wife declined at once to be separated from their husbands, nobly preferring what then looked like imminent death to all on board, through the ship breaking up or heeling over, to being parted from them at that fateful time ; and for some reason, I do not know what, Miss Weller and Miss Lloyd remained behind also ; and thus it came about that when the boat left the wreck seventeen passengers were left behind, who were as follows :—Mr. and Mrs. Strain, two infants and Chinese nurse ; Mr. and Mrs. Pearce, two infants and Chinese nurse ; Miss Weller, Miss Lloyd, Mr. Valpy, the Chinese nurse employed by Mrs. Smyth, my own wife and little girl and myself.

Some of the lady passengers leave the ship in a lifeboat.

Probably, with the view of securing a strong crew for the boat, no native sailors were taken, and seats were occupied by the first and second engineers, Mr. Carmichael and Mr. Chisholm ; the surgeon, chief and two other stewards, Carey, Rolls, and Barrow ; and the winchman, W. Atkins ; and was under the charge of the third and fourth officers. The boat left the side, and, after being partially baled out, was pulled away from the wreck in the direction of the nearest land, about a mile or more distant. Very soon, however, after leaving the partial shelter afforded by the ship, it became once more painfully evident to those left on board that the chances of the boat being able to reach land in the direction intended were most remote, and, after straining our eyes to watch their manful efforts for over half an hour, we saw at last that they had to put the boat about and let it run before the heavy monsoon sea on a course which might have crossed the track of any ships passing between Colombo and the Gulf of Aden, but which, with that track once crossed, could only leave them at the mercy of the wind and waves, with no chance of reaching any nearer shore than the remote coast of India ; and if, as I believe to be correct, the boat left without anything in the way of provisions and water, let your readers picture to themselves the awful prospects in store for the poor occupants, of whom so many were half clad ladies and children of tender years !

Deaths of Mrs. J. S. Collins,

Miss Weller and Miss Lloyd were washed off the Aden by the heavy sea later in the same day, June 9th, and perished in the waters. Mrs. Collins was Mary Isabella Johnson, a Dublin lady, who went to Fuh-Kien under the C.E.Z.M.S. in 1888, and became the wife of Mr. Collins in 1890. Miss Lloyd was a sister of Mr. A. B. Lloyd, of the Uganda Mission. Miss Weller was one of the Ku-cheng party of C.E.Z.M.S. ladies in 1895, the only one of that party of five who survived the massacre of Hwa-sang, she having unselfishly gone for her holiday to a sanatorium near Fuh-chow when the accommodation at Hwa-sang was inadequate for the whole party. The Rev. Ll. Lloyd, referring to the successive distressing calamities which have fallen upon the Fuh-Kien Mission within the past few years, writes:— and of Misses Lloyd and Weller.

A little more than two years ago the entire Christian world was startled and shocked, as it heard how the Fuh-Kien Mission had passed "through the fire." Hwa-sang and its martyrs were spoken of whenever two or three of Christ's people met together, and earnest world-wide prayer was offered that the sad calamity might result in more blessing than ever being vouchsafed to the Mission. This year we have passed "through the waters." The River Min and the Indian Ocean have proved the last resting-place of four of our most devoted workers, and now we believe that God, Who permitted these losses, will bring us out presently into a "wealthy place"—a place of deeper consecration, of fuller blessing, and of larger expectations. "Through the waters."

Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Colborne have been transferred on grounds of health to the Japan Mission.

PROVINCE OF KWAN-TUNG.

It was erroneously stated in last year's Report that Miss A. M. Jones had returned to England in April, 1897. Miss Jones continues at her station, Hong Kong. Dr. and Mrs. E. G. Horder sailed to return to the Mission after furlough in December, 1897, and the Rev. and Mrs. C. Bennett in March, 1898. The Committee's instructions to the latter were to occupy a suitable centre for evangelistic work on the West River, Sam Shiu being mentioned as a possible station.

The Rev. W. Banister made a visit in June, 1897, to Wu Chau Fu, in the province of Kwang-si, on the West River, a distance of 222 miles from Canton. Both the above places, Sam Shiu and Wu Chau, were formally opened as treaty ports on June 4th, 1897, and it was on June 11th that Mr. Banister left Hong Kong, in accordance with the Committee's instructions, to visit them. He met with two missionaries of the Wesleyan Missionary Society—the Rev. W. Bridie and Dr. Macdonald—who had just arrived at Wu Chau, and in their company he explored the city. He wrote:— Occupation of a station on the West River.

The city of Wu Chau is small, very small indeed, for a prefectural city. It is not so large as Ku-cheng or any of the cities in Fuh-Kien which are occupied by us. The streets are narrow even for Chinese streets, and we were able to traverse the whole city in a comparatively short time. There is, however, a fairly large and busy suburb which occupies the bank of the stream, and extends some distance up another smaller river on the west of the city. This is where all the business is done, and I am told that the commercial prospects of the place are very great. There is, of course, a large boat population, and there is water communication with all parts of the province. This fact makes the place of strategic importance, both from a missionary and a commercial point of view.

Mr. Banister left an experienced catechist and a young student pending arrangements for its occupation by European missionaries.

HONG KONG.

Hong Kong.

When HONG KONG was ceded to Great Britain after the treaty of Nanking, there was much controversy as to its utility. It was fever-haunted; an occupying force of 1,526 had lost 440 by death; the mountains falling perpendicularly into the sea left little space for building at their base; it was said to be incapable of being fortified at almost any expense, even if a garrison could be kept alive; and it had failed to attract any Chinese trade. It is curious to contrast the Hong Kong of to-day with the island denounced by the Colonial Treasurer in 1844. The health of Europeans is not exceptionally bad for a tropical station: space has been found for buildings to accommodate some 10,000 Europeans and 230,000 Chinese; and the harbour sheltered in 1896 twelve million tons of shipping. An article in the Times in December, 1897, observed:—

A contrast.

> Hong Kong has become an entrepôt of trade for the south of China, the Philippines, and French Indo-China, besides a great daily traffic with Canton. By dint of energy and outlay, it has been made as picturesque as it was formerly repulsive. Roads cut into the hillside have been lined with trees planted in soil that had to be carried to the spot. A tramway up the face of the mountain has enabled "The Peak" to be covered with bungalows and utilized as a sanatorium for the troops. The city is supplied with water from two great reservoirs which have been constructed to hold respectively 74,000,000 and 390,000,000 gallons. Here are excellent docks; and in one, known as the Admiralty Dock, the largest ironclad can be received.

A daughter of the young naval officer—the late Admiral Fletcher—who headed the landing party which took possession is now among the little force which is seeking against great odds (humanly speaking) to win the place for Christ, namely, Miss Fletcher, of the Female Education Society. She wrote in July, 1897, describing a united service of Native Christians in Hong Kong, held in the Cathedral to celebrate the Diamond Jubilee:—

Native Christians celebrate the Queen's Diamond Jubilee.

> The service originated with Mr. Banister (C.M.S.) in conjunction with Mr. Pierce (L.M.S.). Application was made for the use of the Cathedral, and easily obtained. It was crowded with a large and reverent congregation of Chinese men and women, representing the various Missions working in Hong Kong—the F.E.S., C.M.S., L.M.S., the Basle Mission, and the Berlin Mission. The choir was composed of about 150 girls from our own and other Mission-schools. The congregation joined heartily in the responses. . . . Altogether in numbers and in the heartiness of the service it was a surprise to many in Hong Kong, who were not aware of the existence of so many genuine Christians. Two short sermons were preached, the first by the Rev. Matthew Fong (C.M.S.) and the other in the Hakka dialect by the Basle Mission pastor. The Rev. Wong read the prayers, while the lesson was read by the Rev. Lewng. . . .

The Chinese of the various churches entered heartily into the idea of a united service from the very first; and the sight of the crowded church was one to be long remembered, making us say, "What hath God wrought!" Not unto the wisdom, nor even to the patient toil of the workers, can we ascribe any praise; but to Him in whose hands are the hearts of all men. Out of the barren rock has grown a prosperous English colony, and out of the stony ground of the Chinese has God called forth a people for His praise.

A reverent congregation.

The Rev. W. Banister describes the Native Congregation, of which the Rev. Matthew Fong is the pastor, as the "most orderly and reverent" he has yet seen in China. The church is well attended, and new seats had to be provided during the past year. The amount raised by the congregation was $516, which is enough to render it self-supporting, though, as a matter of fact, the money is spent in the support of evangelistic agents. Miss A. K. Hamper conducts Y.W.C.A. and Mothers' Union meetings for the women of the congregation, which are much valued by the members. The Schools are thirteen in number, with 437 scholars. One of them, with 105 pupils, is an English day-school, providing an education in the English language. Evangelistic work is carried on in "a hard and barren field." There is daily preaching in the Central Hall on the site of the former St. Stephen's Church, and opposite the Chinese recreation ground, and the latter is filled every night by attentive listeners.

Heathen preaching halls.

The Heathen have also opened preaching halls in which they expound night after night the ethics of Confucius. These halls, Mr. Banister states, are supported by public subscription, and each has a staff of two or three preachers. Four of them are found in Queen's Road, the main thoroughfare of the Colony, which is about three miles in length, but which has not one Christian preaching-place in its whole length. Miss Hamper mentions the baptism of an old man who had spent most of his life in Australia, where his children had been baptized in infancy, but he himself, as he said, worshipped God, Jesus, and his idol. He died a few weeks after his baptism, saying, "Jesus has come for me, it is all light." And Miss A. M. Jones refers to a young man who was instructed by a boy in her Sunday-school class, and was able to repeat, which he did most reverently, the Creed and the Lord's Prayer, and was baptized, together with another youth, a member of the same class. Miss Jones, with her Bible-woman, visited Heung Kong. She says:—

"It is all light!"

In "the highways and hedges."

My Bible-woman and I have literally gone out into "the streets and lanes, the highways and the hedges," and sought the people, and we have preached to the women on the road to Heung-Kong-Wai, sitting under the hedge with the buffaloes grazing near, whilst the women sat and stood around, ceasing from their labours to listen to the Gospel; and standing under the mountain-side at Tsak-u-Ch'ung, with the women sitting on the ground or leaning against the rocky mountain, and men, grimy workers from the sugar factory, pressing round to look at our pictures and listen to the Gospel stories, until the gong sounds and recalls women and men to their work in the factory; and in Hong Kong, in bye-streets and thoroughfares, wherever the women have invited us to sit down and teach them. The seed has been sown, and we look to the Lord of the harvest to give the increase.

Ladies go alone up the East River.

Preaching places were opened during the year at Yaumate and at Hung Horn on the mainland. Miss Finney (now at home) and Miss Jones went in October up the East River to visit the out-stations in that district. They were the first single ladies of the Society to make this journey alone. They travelled in a house-boat from Canton, being moored near a guard-boat for protection every night, as pirates abound on that as on most Chinese rivers. Both Christians and Heathen welcomed them most warmly, spoke with gratitude and affection of former visits of missionaries, and begged them soon to go again. They made Wang Long their head-quarters, and from thence walked or were carried to see the Christian women in the villages around. Miss Jones writes:—

Christian women in remote out-stations.

Our hearts did feel sad for some of the Christian women in the distant villages—no one to teach them, no preaching hall or chapel—poor ignorant women, not able to read the Word of God for themselves, they do indeed need our prayers. The men will walk long distances to attend the service at Wang Long on Sunday, and some of the women also, but others are not able, having young children, or perhaps are small-footed. On our return to Wang Long we often found people waiting who had walked long distances to see us and hear the doctrine, and who begged us to visit their villages, and in the evening there were two meetings, one in the open air for the Heathen and one in the chapel for the Christians; and Miss Finney and I took it in turns to give a little address at these meetings, either before or after the catechists. The Christians were most kind, giving up their time—these poor, hard-working people—to guide us about and help us preach Jesus, and this not for money; they did not even like us to thank them; said it was their duty; it was God's work.

PAKHOI.

Pakhoi.

The Rev. and Mrs. E. B. Beauchamp (now at home), and Dr. and Mrs. L. G. Hill were the missionaries at Pakhoi during 1897. They were encouraged by observing the regular attendance of several ladies, wives of the Imperial and local Customs' officials, at the Sunday services and classes. The number of adult baptisms was thirty, larger than in any previous year; of these twenty-two were lepers. The number of lepers in the hospital at one time rose to 120. Dr. Hill says regarding the general conduct of the lepers:—

Happiness of leper patients.

When one takes into consideration the fact that many of these have been beggars and thieves, and all of them outcasts from their homes and villages, it is a matter of no small wonder that we do not get an occasional outbreak of insubordination. We can only exclaim, "What hath God wrought!" when we look back and see the peace that has reigned in our midst, and how contented and happy the lepers have been. Part of this has undoubtedly been due to the influence of the leper Christians on their fellows, for although the former have been persecuted, they have kept firm and banded together in prayer for mutual help and encouragement.. There have been three or four deaths of leper Christians during the year, and it has been a most touching sight to see, and, I may add, a privilege, to attend these men on their death-beds ; they have been so patient and so peaceful, ever full of thanks for the least thing done for them.

The number of other patients (not lepers) attending the Hospital was larger than ever before, namely, 5,124 new out-patients, and 618 in-patients. Mr. Beauchamp mentions a curious meeting of a mother and her daughter in the hospital. The mother had been stolen by brigands from her home in Anam and sold when her daughter was eight years old. Thirty years later she was, in her old age, turned out to beg, and when ill she found her way to the hospital, where she was received as an in-patient and then engaged as a helper in the wards. Subsequently, the daughter, too, was stolen and sold to some one near Pakhoi, and visited the hospital for treatment. Thus, mother and daughter, after a lapse of thirty years, were brought together, and by some means recognized each other. Dr. Hill dwells on the advantage of hospital work as a missionary agency :—

Mission hospital a place of reunions.

In a hospital you have not only the theory to do good, but the practice. The sick and suffering are cared for, the outcast and leper are relieved, the blind and the lame are healed : these are the facts that are observed in the hospital along with the preaching, and it is the combination of these—the healing and the preaching—that appeals to the Chinese. And yet, after all, it is not so much the fact that these people are relieved or cured that has the greatest weight with them. It is what is behind it all, Love. We may fail to cure, or even to relieve, but we can always love ; a patient may go away in the same condition as when he came, but he goes away knowing he has been loved, and he associates this with what he has heard of the doctrine —"God so loved . . . ." I am more and more convinced that what we want is not more medicine, but more love in our work ; not larger wards, but a big heart of love. Personally, I am only at the beginning of all this, for it is often very hard to love the Chinese, and in looking back over the year one must deplore the little love one has shown.

"Love behind it all."

PROVINCE OF FUH-KIEN.

Protestan Missions in Fuh-Kien

The Chinese Recorder gives statistics of all the Protestant Missions in Fuh-Kien in 1896 : the London Missionary Society, the English Presbyterian Mission in Amoy, the American Societies, and the C.M.S. The missionaries (male and female) numbered 171, and there were 135 native pastors, 55,000 adherents, and 13,000 scholars under instruction in 697 schools. The contributions for Church purposes for the year were $38,167, an increase of $9,000 on the amount of the previous year, while the adherents advanced by 16,000.

Archdeacon Wolfe came home in July, 1897, accompanied by his daughter, Miss M. E. Wolfe, and Miss Annie Wolfe followed at the end of the year; all three sailed in April, 1898, to make a stay in the United States and then return to the Mission. The two Misses Wolfe were taken into full connexion by the Committee during their stay in England. The Rev. and Mrs. H. S. Phillips returned to the Mission in July, 1897. The Rev. Dr. S. Synge was married to Dr. Mary H. Harmar, of this Mission, at Fuh-chow, on April 5th, 1897; the Rev. W. C. White, of the Canada C.M. Association, to Miss Ray, at Shanghai, in October; and the Rev. F. E. Bland to Miss Harriette S. Mongan, a missionary of the C.E.Z.M.S., on February 9th, 1898.

Annual Conference.

The twenty-fourth Annual Conference of C.M.S. Fuh-Kien missionaries was held at Fuh-chow at the end of November, 1897. The Rev. Ll. Lloyd wrote :—

Presence of H.B.M.'s Consul.

> The tone of the gatherings was quite up to, if not above, the average, and several of the addresses were of a deeply spiritual nature, proving very clearly that the Holy Spirit was guiding and teaching our native brethren and making them able ministers of the New Testament. It is well worth notice here that for the first time, so far as I know, during the history of the Mission, H.B.M.'s Consul was present at his own request, that the Native Christians might understand his personal interest in the work of Missions, and he allowed me as chairman to tell the Conference this.
> The programme followed was much as in former years. On the two Saturday evenings, short accounts were given of striking facts in the various districts, and it was very interesting to note the different styles of address adopted, as well as to listen to what was said. As in other years, there was much to encourage and much to call forth earnest prayer and sympathy. Satan, as usual, had been busy sowing tares here and there among the wheat, but God had often manifested His power and stretched out His Holy Arm to save and defend. The subjects treated of during the week were, as usual, both practical and devotional. Such subjects as "Lying, its consequences to ourselves and to others," "Covetousness, its injurious character," "Reverence during Divine service," point to special dangers besetting the path of our Chinese Christians; while others, like "The power of the Holy Ghost, its nature, and the means by which it can be obtained," "The New Birth—what are its evidences?" and "The need of taking heed unto oneself—especially if a teacher," point to the needs of the Fuh-Kien Church.

FUH-CHOW.

Fuh-chow.

Upon the Rev. W. Banister going, in response to the Committee's request, to Hong Kong, the Rev. J. Martin removed from Ku-cheng to FUH-CHOW, retaining, however, general charge of the work in the former place and district. He arrived in March and took charge of the Theological College, which had thirty-nine students during the year, of whom nine were sent out to work in the several districts, and eight others went for a period of twelve months' probationary work to test their character and powers before proceeding further with their course of training.

A valedictory meeting.

A valedictory meeting was held to bid them all God-speed, and was addressed by the Rev. N. Plumb, of the American Methodist Episcopal Mission. In the case of six of the other twenty-two students, it was decided not to continue their training. There were thirty pupils in the Boys' High School, of whom three left to undergo a period of training as medical students. The Rev. F. E. Bland gave what time he could spare from language study to the school, and Miss E. S. Goldie gave two hours daily to Bible instruction, and one hour to the twelve pupils of the Junior Boys' Boarding-School. Mr. Martin refers to a spiritual movement affecting both these schools and also the College :—

Improved spiritual tone of students.

There is at present a movement amongst the young men of the three Missions in Fuh-chow, chiefly owing to the recent visit of Messrs. Mott and Lyon, of the Student Volunteer Movement and the Y.M.C.A. Several of our students and boys meet every day early in the morning for half an hour's study of the Bible and for prayer. When the weather is fine they meet on the hills ; otherwise they meet in the College or boys' school. Through these gatherings the spiritual tone of the College and school has greatly improved, and we thank God for it. We would ask for your continued earnest prayers for the students and boys as well as for us, their teachers.

There are 190 day-schools scattered over the Mission, which are supported largely by friends in Ireland through Miss Smyly, in memory of the late Rev. and Mrs. R. W. Stewart. The educational missionaries in Fuh-chow are responsible for their supervision. In the two Girls' Boarding-Schools there are 190 pupils ; in the one for Christians, taught by the Misses Bushell and Lambert, of the Female Education Society, there are ninety boarders and thirty day pupils ; and in the one for heathen children, taught by the Misses Lee and Leslie, of the C.E.Z.M.S., there are seventy pupils. The Women's Training Home is under Miss Stevens, of the C.E.Z.M.S., assisted by Mrs. Ling (Chitniô), and is quite full.

Native city of Fuh-chov re-occupied.

The chief event of the year at Fuh-chow was connected with the Evangelistic Work. It was the re-occupation by the Society's missionaries of the native city of Fuh-chow. Those who have studied the history of this Mission will recollect that the early missionaries obtained for a place of residence part of a temple on Wu-shih-shan, or Black-stone Hill, inside the south gate of the city, and that in 1879 this property had to be relinquished. Since the latter year the missionaries have resided in the Foreign Settlement on Nantai Island, which is some two and a half miles from the city walls, and separated by the river. In the course of 1896, not without difficulty, an excellent site was procured near the north gate, on which a commodious house was subsequently erected, and in the month of October Miss A. Wolfe, Miss E. M. Brooks, and Miss E. E. Massey took up their residence therein. Miss Mead and Miss Kingsmill, of the C.E.Z.M.S., also went to reside within the city walls in July, 1897. They met with no indications of dislike or suspicion, but, on the contrary, had numerous visitors, and were invited by the people to visit them. Miss Massey writes :—

No indications of ill-will.

I am told that two years ago a foreign lady could not walk in the streets at all. Now, I and my fellow-workers walk to church every Sunday (about half an hour's walk), and all the remarks we hear are that we are "going to worship"; and one Sunday I heard one of the people say that we did not ride on that one day.

The very day after their arrival the ladies were importuned by a woman to go to her house to help her sister, who had taken opium for the purpose of self-destruction. Miss Brooks writes:—

A case of opium poisoning.

We all three agreed that it would be best to go and see whether we could do anything. Taking with us the necessary remedies, and with the "sister" to lead the way, while our coolie woman brought up the rear, and, of course, others joined the procession, we walked quickly to the house, which was not far from ours. Every detail stands out in my memory; it was so dreadful—the first case I had seen. There was a large crowd round the door, while as many pressed into the room as could. They made way for us at once. The room was dark and small; to the left was a large coffin, probably the deceased husband of the woman; he had been dead a few years! On the other side was a square table, some stools, ancestral tablets, and idols near the door—lying across a chair the poor opium-eater, limp and apparently dying. Her teeth were clenched, and her friends were trying to open them with a rough piece of iron. We worked some time, probably hours, before signs of life appeared. Needless to say, we were silently praying. Oh, for a doctor! As soon as possible we sent for the American Chinese lady doctors, but they live a long way from here. They came, however, but not till about eight o'clock. I heard a man in the crowd say, "She has taken enough to kill her; if she lives, this is what the Christians call a miracle. It is only God can do that." At one o'clock the doctors said we might safely leave her. I felt it had been a hand-to-hand fight with death, but, "Thanks be unto Him Who giveth us the victory," life triumphed. Early next morning we found, on going to inquire, a very penitent and gentle woman, though sore, I fear, within and without! That Sunday afternoon visitors came in crowds, and, notwithstanding her fatigue, Miss Wolfe "preached Jesus" unto them nearly all the afternoon. During the next fortnight we had quite five hundred people, and these all heard the Gospel.

'It is only God can do that."

A few months after this occurrence Miss Brooks wrote:—

Miss Massey's knowledge of nursing is, of course, very valuable, and is a means of getting into hearts and homes. We can have an entrance into almost any of the houses round here. We have had mandarins' wives here, and have been asked to go to their houses. Already we have had four other opium cases, and many other complaints. I have done a good deal of visiting lately with a Bible-woman, and have been tremendously encouraged by the reception and attentive hearing.

Miss M. E. Molloy's work lies in the villages of the plain on the south side of the River Min.

Baptisms.

Fifty-four adult baptisms were yielded by the city and its suburbs; a small number, Mr. Lloyd says, out of a population of half a million, yet many more than was ever experienced before the remarkable movement of 1896. Archdeacon Wolfe baptized seventeen in February and nine on Easter Day, and Mr. Lloyd a number of others in October. The latter gives particulars regarding some of the converts he baptized. Mr. Wong Ing Ang owns several plots of land in the city, and offered in 1895 to sell a site to the Mission for building a house. The authorities, as so often before, refused to sanction the sale, and ordered the money to be returned, and would doubtless have dealt severely with the would-be vendor if the missionaries, in consenting to relinquish their title, had not expressly stipulated that Mr. Wong should not be arrested or in any way interfered with. During these negotiations Mr. Wong frequently visited Back Street Chapel and conversed with the Rev. Lau Taik Ong, and after a time of instruction and testing was baptized. A young man who was bedridden accepted the Gospel teaching through the ladies who visited the women at his house. A third convert, Mr. Ngoi Kiu Ang, is a scholar of about twenty years, and first heard the Gospel from Miss Mead, of the C.E.Z.M.S. Two of the converts mentioned in last year's Report (page 332) were the instruments of conveying the message to another scholar. Mr. Lloyd says:—

Blind catechists repeat the Scriptures from memory.

Mr. Kong Sen Ang is also a scholar, aged thirty-three, with a bright, intelligent face, who heard the Truth for the first time in our Back Street Church, where, as at the other two city churches, night and day preaching is regularly carried on. I may mention in this connexion that two blind catechists are very effective preachers—one lately a Taouist priest, and the other a reciter of stories. They have talked most of their lives on subjects very remote from the Gospel, and now they speak very readily on the facts of the Gospel, having committed much of the New Testament to memory, as read to them by their children. The fact of their sightlessness appeals to a Chinese audience with great force, and they are usually listened to with marked attention. Mr. Kong, as he listened, then, to the exhortations of the preacher, felt convicted of their truth, and after a time of probation was admitted into the Church. The value of this chapel-preaching is shown by the fact that about half of those baptized in October were, humanly speaking, the results of such preaching.

Proclamation against foot-binding.

Archdeacon Wolfe learned from his friends in the Mission, at the beginning of 1898, while he was at home, that the Chinese Government had issued a proclamation against the custom of foot-binding, and that the gentry and literati of Fuh-chow had rendered the proclamation into an easy rhythmical style, and employed blind beggars and other poor people to learn it by heart and recite it all over the city.

LIENG-KONG.

Lieng-kong.

Occupation of the district by ladies.

Lieng-Kong district is under the charge of the Rev. W. Light, who resides at Lo Ngwong. This district received resident European missionaries for the first time during the past year. In April, 1897, Miss Power (now Mrs. Hipwell, of Hong Kong), Miss A. I. Oxley (of the New South Wales C.M. Association), and Miss M. Searle (of the Victoria C.M. Association) took up their abode in the small house in the church compound in Lieng-Kong city. Miss Oxley writes regarding their experiences there:—

As we were the first kuniongs to live in this city the people were anxious to see us and our house, and numbers came in every day. We trust that the Word that was preached to them may take deep root in their hearts and bring forth fruit.

A few people asked for medicine, and when they found that it did them good they told their friends and relations, with the result that for days and days hundreds of people came: we limited the number to eighty or ninety a day, women and children only. Wherever we went in the street or the villages some poor creatures would beseech us to look at their sore leg, or eye, or something. A poor widow mother would bring her only son, and he hopelessly blind. A brother would bring his leper sister, and beg us to do something for her; and one day some men carried their mother from a village nine miles distant, and she, poor thing, dying of cancer.

Open doors.

It is possible here to have an audience at a few moments' notice. We open the church doors and then play some hymns on the baby-organ, and in walk all sorts and conditions, from the proudest man in the long blue coat to the dirtiest child imaginable, and the people will listen by the hour while the Gospel is preached to them, and we notice that some come again and again to listen. The people are very willing to receive us into their homes, and there are more invitations than we can accept.

In December the ladies removed fron Lieng-Kong to Teng Toi, a large village, six miles distant from the city, where a house had been built for their accommodation. Miss Oxley twice itinerated throughout the district with Miss Power. Miss S. S. Newton, of the New South Wales C.M. Association, has been also assigned to Teng Toi.

LO NGWONG.

Lo Ngwong.

The work in Lo Ngwong was unhindered during the year by persecution, such as that which was experienced at Lo Ngwong city in 1896. The city congregation maintained an average of 150, and some of the Christians encouraged the Rev. W. Light by manifesting more concern for the spiritual well-being of their children. He says it is too common for men to attend the services, while taking no interest in the religious instruction of their families. Mr. Light sought, by special meetings for devotion and mutual exhortation, to stir up the native agents in the district to a more lively sense of their responsibilities. They met at Lo Ngwong, and three earnest native laymen, two from Fuh-chow and one from Ku-cheng, spoke to them. Mr. Light says:—

Special meetings for the agents.

The result of these special meetings has been a deepening of the spiritual life of our catechists. At the end of the meetings all returned to their stations with a fresh determination to do their duty as before God. It cheered my heart to hear these three Native Christians, and to see the height of Christian experience to which they had attained. Let us pray that God will raise up many such men in this Fuh-Kien Church.

Nominal Christians.

Mr. Light laments the numbers of merely nominal (so far as can be judged by their lives) Christians in the district. He instances a small village of a hundred people in which every family except two are professing Christians; the village temple and its idol are forsaken, and the meetings for worship are held in the ancestral hall, which formerly was used for idolatry. Yet many of these people are nearly as ignorant as the Heathen themselves. Mr. Light sent two or three of the more earnest members of the city congregation to hold week-night services in the village, and they were much cheered by large attendances. Through the help of the Leper Society, a teacher has been appointed to the leper colony, outside Lo Ngwong city. A chapel was opened during the year at Liang-O, five miles from A. Ling, where the labours of a schoolmaster have been blessed. The labours of Miss Wedderspoon (of the C.E.Z.M.S., who resides at Lo Ngwong) among the women of this village have had much success. Miss Cooper and Miss Jackson, also of the C.E.Z.M.S., reside at Wong-Pwang, where the work is very encouraging. The contributions of the Christians in the district generally were larger than ever before, and for the first time exceeded the amount of the Society's reduction from its grant in aid to the District Church Council.

NING-TAIK.

Four German men-of-war appeared off the coast of NING-TAIK in November, 1897, to the consternation of the officials and people, but the Rev. L. H. F. Star, who superintends the work from Fuh-Ning, remarks, with thankfulness, that there were no disturbances. Misses M. D. Boileau, J. C. Clarke, and E. Little reside in a suburb of Ning-Taik city. Within their compound two schools have been built, one for women and one for girls, which were opened in the spring of 1897. The Women's School has some pupils over fifty years of age, yet all, Miss Boileau says, are most eager to learn. She writes:— Ning-taik. Women's school.

> They all receive Bible teaching with great simplicity, entering so into the life of the Lord Jesus; they wax so indignant with the Pharisees for their blasphemies and contradiction of His claims; and exclaim with horror at the treatment He received at Nazareth. The New Testament, the Hundred Texts, and a Christian Doctrine Catechism, are our chief hand-books. Not all those reading are baptized, but they are asking for it, and I feel I can recommend them all.

The Girls' School was Miss Clarke's special charge. It began with seventeen, and had thirty-seven at the close of the year, all making a small payment. Miss Clarke's Annual Letter introduces to the Committee four of her girls, "Snow Sister," "Sister of Light," "Showy Chrysanthemum," and "Honourable Clearness," as specimens of the dull, the quick, the spoiled, and the earnest—characteristics which are familiar enough at home! She says:— School girls.

> They are a very varied company—some utterly untrained, coming from country villages where customs are not strict, and they have been allowed to run wild; some from homes where they have been indulged and spoiled; some few, the children of catechists or Bible-women probably, have been better brought up, and have some idea of obedience; some come knowing nothing, and some having already learned a little.

A Sowers' Band has been formed with twelve members, each of whom pays fifteen cash a term and gives two hours of play-time every week to do needlework, and they pray together for the missionary cause. The city Congregation fluctuates in numbers. A theft from one of the Christian women was brought home to another of them, and while the trial was proceeding the city rang with the cry, "The followers of the doctrine, thieves!"—an evidence in itself to a widespread consciousness that Christianity and dishonesty are incompatible. But inquirers for the time moved away. The ladies found ample scope for evangelistic work in visiting and receiving visitors. Either from curiosity or from other motives they were welcomed readily everywhere and by all. Miss Little refers to visits from women of the upper class:—

The followers of the doctrine, thieves!"

Visits from well-to-do ladies.

Lately we have had a visit from some of the grand ladies of the city (the richest family in Ning-Taik). They came in chairs, with a number of attendant slave-girls. They came dressed in the richest silks and embroideries of many hues, and on their feet beautiful little embroidered shoes about two and a half inches in length. They looked like so many butterflies flitting about from thing to thing in our rooms. At last, when they had seen and admired everything, they settled down for a little and listened to the Gospel message. Some only listened from politeness, but others were really interested. This was proved by one of them coming again a few weeks later with another party of her relations, and bringing one old lady especially to hear the doctrine. Just as we were beginning to fear we would not get them to sit down quietly for a little, they asked, "At what hour do you preach the doctrine?" And when they were told at any hour, they sat down and listened with the greatest attention, while Miss Boileau and one of the native workers explained to them the story of the Prodigal Son. We believe God had prepared their hearts, as they seemed to be drinking in all they heard. They bought some tracts and books, and only left because it was getting dark. A few days afterwards they sent one of their slave-women to buy some more text-cards, and invite someone to go to their house to preach.

Some of the mandarins' wives have been to visit us—such very fine ladies, but most friendly and polite. To come and see the foreigners' house now seems to be the one great attraction for the ladies of Ning-Taik and their guests. It gives many opportunities for seed-sowing.

An idol procession, which took place on the opening of a new temple in October, brought more visitors than ever. Miss Little describes this painful sight:—

An idol procession

First, came the musicians making a most hideous noise; one can only describe it as devilish sounding. Then came the idol guests, in a red sedan chair, carried on men's shoulders. This idol, which they were fêting and spending so much money on (I believe they spent £500) was simply a piece of iron. It is difficult to believe that in a country so far civilized as China, men can be so utterly foolish and devoid of common sense. It only proves to us how terrible are the chains of Satan, and what tools he makes of men who are wholly in his power. There were several other idols in the procession, one about twelve feet high, dressed to represent a man, the flowing garments so arranged as to hide whoever was inside; so that it appeared to be walking alone, mincing along, bowing from side to side. As I watched them passing I seemed to feel the presence of the Evil One very near, and I realized as I never did before the awful thraldom in which he holds this people, and how utterly fruitless it would be for us to try and break these iron fetters, if we did not know that our God was mighty, stronger than this strong one, and that "The weapons of our warfare are not carnal, but mighty through God to the pulling down of strongholds."

The "Philippi of Ning-Taik."

Miss Clarke calls Lek-Tu the "Philippi of Ning-Taik," from the prominence and faith of its women converts. Patience, the Bible-woman, spent several months at Hwok-Tung. Miss Clarke pleads for prayer:—

"Pray for all."

Please, pray for all: for the schools and native workers, that the Holy Spirit may control and teach each one; for the yet infant Christians, that they may be freed from all that still trammels and hinders them, and come out into the full liberty of the Gospel; for inquirers groping after truth, that they may find Him who is "not far from everyone of us"; for these dark hearts who hear the Words of Life as a pleasant but strange sound, that the glorious light of the Gospel may shine into them by the Spirit's revealing power; and for us to whom this trust is given, that we may be ever more and more as faithful servants, with "loins girt and lights burning, like unto men that wait for their Lord."

FUH-NING (DUBLIN UNIVERSITY FUH-KIEN MISSION).

Fuh-ning.

The congregations in FUH-NING were organized into pastorates, with a representative Church Council, during the year. The Fuh-ning city congregation, the Rev. L. H. F. Star says, is encouraging, and the church on Sunday mornings is sometimes nearly full, while the quietness and reverence of the worshippers were specially remarked upon by two missionaries of the China Inland Mission who visited Fuh-ning from Ping-Yong, in Cheh-kiang province. This was a return visit. In May, 1897, Mr. Star had made the journey northward from Fuh-Ting for the express purpose of clasping hands with the nearest missionary neighbour in that direction. He was guided by a pedlar whom he had baptized at Fuh-Ting. He wrote:—

Clasping hands with Cheh-kiang missionaries.

I started with him and my native boy early on Monday morning, hiring a sedan-chair in Fuh-Ting city. Shortly after noon I found myself eating tiffin in an inn at Hung-Chwi-Kwang ("The Division of the Waters"), the boundary Customs station between the two provinces of Fuh-Kien and Cheh-kiang, and there I found a well-spoken young man in the Customs service who said that he was formerly a cook for Miss Codrington at Ku-cheng. The boundary is marked by a rough stone arch. Now the tea-coolies on the road were going north instead of south with their loads, and I found that I could no longer understand what the people were saying. By 5 P.M. I had reached Liang-K'd ("The Pass of the Stream"), a lively town of 800 houses, where my coolies put me down before a door over which were large characters meaning "Jesus' Holy Doctrine." What a good sight is that in a heathen land? And you may, or may not, imagine how thankful I was to see them, for it meant that in one day's travel—only twenty-seven miles from our northern outpost—I had reached the southern outpost of the C.I.M.

Another boat at daybreak, and by 1 P.M. I was shaking hands with Mr. Grierson, the senior C.I.M. missionary at the city of Ping-Yong. And a right good welcome I got. Mr. Grierson said that five years ago Archdeacon Wolfe, while on a visit to Shanghai, said that he hoped the day was not far distant when the brethren in Fuh-Kien would link hands with the brethren in Cheh-kiang, and thus the north and the south would be joined. Well, on Tuesday night last, May 11th, Mr. Grierson and his two companions—Mr. Searle and Mr. Grundy—and I, sang together on our knees, "Praise God from Whom all blessings flow," and thanked Him that that time had come.

The late Rev. J. E. Mahood and Archdeacon Wolfe made journeys over the same ground to Wenchow early in the sixties, when it was contemplated opening a C.M.S. station at Wenchow. The Girls' Boarding School has twenty-five boarders and three day-girls. Misses J. E. Clarke, R. Clemson, and E. M. K. Thomas all render help in the school. The Women's Class had ten members, boarders; all unbound their feet, though one, a girl of eighteen, was scolded by her mother into binding hers up again. The former member of the class whose unkind treatment by her husband was mentioned in last year's Report (page 338), has now the joy of seeing her husband not only much kinder to herself, but more favourably disposed towards the Gospel. Mr. Star baptized three men at Fuh-Ting, the first-fruits of that city. One of them was the pedlar referred to above. Miss Clarke took a long tour in the district with a Bible-woman in February, 1897, and again with Miss Clemson in August. At Bah-Sioh-bi, after she and the Bible-woman had retired to bed in the boat in which they were travelling, they were greeted by a woman, the only Christian in the village, and as yet unbaptized, who, hearing that a "ku-niong" was passing, had come out at 9 P.M. on a very cold February night to greet her and bring a present of tea and nuts. At Swa-Siek Mr. Star baptized seven women and a man who has independently opened a Christian school. The Christians of this place have bought a house on the shore, at a cost of $200, to serve as church, school, and catechists' house. There are now over seventy Christians in Swa-Siek. Dr. and Mrs. Synge, Miss G. M. Harmar, and Miss E. M. K. Thomas were chiefly engaged in language study, an experience which Miss Thomas says is "like a second infancy."

HOK CHIANG.

Hok-chiang.

The Rev. Ll. Lloyd, superintended from Fuh-chow the work of HOK-CHIANG during Archdeacon Wolfe's absence on furlough, and he was deeply impressed with its growth since he knew the district some years ago. He commends the Revs. Yek Siu Mi and Yek Twang Mi, who labour respectively in the northern and southern divisions of the district. Mr. Lloyd visited the island of Haitan in May, 1897, and traversed it from end to end, being much encouraged by what he saw. In the chief town a church has been erected. At Keng Tau the Misses F. E. Oatway and M. E. Barber suffered from ill-health, but their letters are full of praise for "a year of tender loving-kindness." The people were at first rude to them, but that has ceased. The little children now greet them with "Ping Ang" ("Peace"), and the elders sometimes speak kindly. One of the richest families in the place invited them to go and preach in their house. Miss Barber says:—

"Is it all true? I never heard before."

We went with the Bible-woman and had a grand time, explaining to the listening women who God was, and what Jesus came down to earth to do "for us men and for our salvation." How they listened! One old woman sitting next to me, to whom I told the Gospel story, said, "Kuniong, is it all true? I never heard about Heaven before." A few days afterwards this same woman came to see us, and her first remark was, "Tell me more about God and Heaven."

When itinerating the ladies everywhere met with a welcome. Miss I. Suttor has joined Miss Barber and Miss Oatway.

Miss M. E. Wolfe left Ko-sang-che in March to take furlough, the Misses K. Andrews and E. J. Harrison remaining to carry on the work among women begun in the autumn of 1896. They held a class for the wives of catechists, and they visited villages near and distant, and were often surprised at the number of Christians that turned up to meet them. They were told by the Christians that the Heathen treated them better since they, the ladies, went to reside in the district. Miss Andrews writes:—

Before, they reviled them very much, and said the Christian religion taught all that was bad, but now they say the religion is not bad, as they supposed, for the foreigners are very good and kind.

Caring for the sick, which Miss Andrews' knowledge of dispensing enables her to do, has doubtless mainly helped to this result.

HING-HWA.

Hing-hwa.

The Rev. C. Shaw concluded his fifth year of residence at HING-HWA before he came home on furlough in the spring of 1898. He was the first European to live in the district, and he looks back with thankfulness at the progress which has been vouchsafed. In the way of buildings there have risen up under his eye a Mission-house, Chinese in style externally, but English within; a church accommodating 600 people; and a college with class-rooms, &c., for fourteen students. The church and college are on the site of an ancestral hall, and much of the stone and woodwork used belonged to the former structure. At Ging Dong, Deng Sing, Sieng Iu, and Co Hau new churches have been built, each holding 300, and also catechists' houses and schools; and the C.E.Z.M.S. has put up a women's boarding-school at Dang Seng, which is the oldest and most flourishing station. In Hing-hwa city Dr. B. Van Someren Taylor has built a hospital, a college for medical students, and a house for himself and Mrs. Taylor. The hospital is capable of accommodating ninety-two men and twenty-eight women; and 677 in-patients were received, and 7,298 out-patients treated during the year. The students' class was opened in September with ten members, which fell to eight.

KU-CHENG AND PING-NANG.

Ku-cheng. The district of KU-CHENG in particular suffered by the losses through death which have been enumerated in the Notes at the beginning of this Mission. The Rev. J. S. Collins was on his way to confer with the Rev. J. Martin with a view to relieving the latter of the charge of the district when he met with his death. Miss Weller also, of the C.E.Z.M.S., who was one of the passengers in the Aden, laboured in Ku-cheng; while Miss Tolley and Miss Wade, of the C.E.Z.M.S., had to leave China for a time on account of health, and in consequence the Girl's Boarding School at Ku-cheng had to be closed for several months of the year. Miss Nisbet of the same Society has the care of the Foundlings. Miss E. S. Goldie removed to Fuh-chow in April, 1897.

Chapel to the memory of Hwa-sang martyrs. On Easter Day a chapel erected in the Mission compound in memory of those killed at Hwa-sang, with money contributed by the missionaries of the two Societies, C.M.S. and C.E.Z.M.S., was opened. Mr. Martin wrote:—

> We have a brass memorial plate which Mr. Phillips kindly did for us in England. The words on this plate are: "'What I do thou knowest not now, but shalt know hereafter.' We praise Thy Holy Name for all Thy servants who finished their course and won the crown at Hwa-sang, August 1st, 1895. 'If it die, it bringeth forth much fruit.' They with him—He with us." I have translated this into Chinese and Romanized colloquial, and with the addition of the names of those taken, have had two tablets done with a black ground, gold letters, and bamboo border. We have called the building "All Saints' Church," and on various beams inside have in Chinese characters the following texts:—
> I. In white: "Enter into His gates with thanksgiving, and into His courts with praise." "I am the Resurrection and the Life." "If we suffer with Him, we shall also reign with Him." "The glorious company of the Apostles, praise Thee." "The goodly fellowship of the Prophets, praise Thee." "The noble army of Martyrs, praise Thee."
>
> II. In gold characters: "Them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with Him." "Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life." "Thanks be unto God, Who giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ."
>
> The characters on the font are, at the top, "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved"; at the bottom, "Suffer little children to come unto Me, and forbid them not."
>
> The chapel is capable of holding just over two hundred, but yesterday, as all the Christians came over from the church in the city, we had nearly three hundred in it.

A new building has also been erected for the Boys' Boarding School in memory of the late Rev. R. W. Stewart, towards which the Chinese Christians subscribed most liberally. The medical catechist saw 1,729 patients, and made 4,129 visits, and four of the patients became inquirers. Nine lepers in the Leper Asylum were baptized, and seven died during the year. The Rev. J. R. S. Boyd resides in the house formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Stewart in Ku-cheng. Over several of the fireplaces are texts painted by the late Miss Saunders. In the sitting-room the text is, "The Lord is good; a stronghold in the day of trouble"; and in the study, "The King's Companion." Mr. Boyd states that a blind asylum was opened in Ku-cheng at the beginning of 1898 with six inmates. He also mentions the annual meeting of the Ku-cheng and Ping-nang Church Council, held in February, 1898, which Mr. Martin attended, as chairman, from Fuh-chow. One of the members, he says, treated the subject of catechists' failings very faithfully. Mr. Martin gives a brighter and more hopeful report of the pastorates than he did the year before. At Sang-Iong the Misses M. Newcombe and Burroughs, of the C.E.Z.M.S., are building a large girls' boarding school. They are encouraged by the interest shown in several of the villages. In one of these Mr. Martin baptized a man who had attended the services for several years, and had given up opium, which, he said, he would rather die than take again. This man's wife ridicules him when he prays, "because he has nothing to pray to," namely, no visible object; but he said, "I am praying that she may be converted." Miss Codrington, of the C.E.Z.M.S., the survivor of the Hwa-sang massacre of 1895, returned to Sa-Yong at the beginning of 1897. She thus touchingly described her reception:—

The late Robert Stewart's house.

Miss Codrington's return to Sa-Yong.

> The sympathy and love shown everywhere (on the journey) was very touching. One woman came and stroked my face softly as she told me how sorry they had been; even the rough coolies were full of concern. But what gave me most joy was that at a village which we came to about noon on Thursday, a woman from Hwa-sang came out and spoke to me, almost tremblingly at first, for I think she feared I would shrink from knowing where she came from. She told me how well she remembered us coming to her house to preach, and how very grieved she had been. Her daughter was innkeeper at this village, so at their urgent request we stopped for our dinner there. During dinner we had a nice opportunity of talking to both women, and it enabled me to send a message to the Hwa-sang people of God's love and forbearance towards them. As we neared Sa-Iong, the stir of excitement increased; Christians from all the different villages in the district met us, and surrounded or followed our chairs, and as we passed along the streets, greetings resounded on all sides. Our chairs were put down in the market-place, and there the little children clung round us, and with their dear, dirty little arms in ours, we entered the familiar old house. There such a sight met us—loving Chinese hands had been busy preparing for us, green arches and Chinese lanterns produced a fairy-like effect, and on either side of the large tiang dong (audience hall) were gathered a large group of men and women, men on one side, women on the other. Oh! to see the women's faces and to feel the clasp of their hands, it was more than sufficient reward for coming back to them.

The attitude of the people in the Sek-paik-fu pastorate has much improved. Formerly the people were decidedly opposed, and there were only two or three who met for worship. Now the Christians fill three houses which they have rented for the Sunday services. Miss Marshall, one of the Hwa-sang victims, worked in this pastorate. At Heng-tau-pang, which was one of the chief centres of the vegetarian sect, and where they threatened to burn down the house used as a chapel, the Christians have secured a site, and are giving liberally towards the cost of building a church. Choh-po and Ngu-tu, in the Lau-A pastorate, are oases in the midst of a desert of indifference and deadness. Eight men attend Ngu-tu Church from a village twenty miles distant, having to give three days of the week for the privilege, Saturday and Monday being spent on the journey to and fro.

Ping-Nang.

The district of PING-NANG has less attention than in previous years. It was necessary to remove the Rev. Li Sing Mi to Ku-cheng city in consequence of Mr. Martin leaving for Fuh-chow. The Tong-kio church is attended by people from several villages, some as far off as ten or twelve miles. Of one man baptized here after two years of probation Mr. Martin writes:—

"I used to do evil things, now I hate them."

He and other members of the family met for prayers in his house, and he had had the joy of leading his brother to Christ. When I asked him why he thought Jesus had saved him, he replied, "Jesus has redeemed and saved me, and I am quite different from what I used to be. I used to swear, do other evil things, and lie; now I do not, I hate them. The Bible tells me that if a man believes in Jesus, he is saved. I believe, and therefore know I am saved." He is fond of speaking to others about his Saviour. Some listen, others laugh and tell him he worships chairs and forms, because he kneels down by them.

At one of the villages in the Pi-liang pastorate the Heathen showed their resentment at the hymn-singing of the Christians, carried on late into the night, by destroying the path to the prayer-house, and threatening to do worse damage. The Christians replied that they had to endure the noise made by the Heathen in attending theatres. The catechist was appealed to, and advised the Christians to sing quietly, and thus peace was restored. Mr. Martin says he does not wonder at the objection taken to the singing, or rather shouting, of the Christians so late at night. The native tutor of Fuh-chow Theological College made an evangelistic tour in Ping-nang district, accompanied by a few friends. Mr. Martin says:—

Native evangelists abused.

They enjoyed their tour and got on very well in the villages, but in the city they were abused and covered with mud and filth, and were slightly wounded with stones. They escaped, however, without receiving much harm, and when advised to appeal to the mandarin, said, "No—they were willing to be rudely treated for Christ's sake." On the tutor's return to the college he gave an account of this visit, and one of the students said he would like to go to Ping-nang. He sent in a petition to the Conference, and we have given him permission to go, praying he may be used by God in that city and neighbourhood. The Ping-nang Native Church Council will make arrangements for him, and choose one or two other more experienced men to accompany him.

KIEN-NING AND YEN-PING.

Kien-ning

Dr. J. Rigg was the only C.M.S. European labourer in KIEN-NING at the beginning of 1897. In March, however, the Rev. J. S. Collins returned to Nang Wa after furlough, and he was followed a few days later by the Rev. W. C. White, of the Canada C.M. Association, though the latter was assigned to Kien-yang to labour with the Rev. H. S. Phillips. Mr. Collins' death on April 20th occasioned a change of plans for Mr. White, and he was definitely appointed to this district. The native workers in the district are nearly all from Ku-cheng, and Dr. Rigg speaks highly of their united and willing spirit. The hospital at Seven Stars' Bridge had 401 in-patients and 3,713 out-patients, considerable increases on the figures of 1896, showing a growing confidence on the part of the people. Their confidence has not yet reached the point, however, of submitting to major operations. Dr. Rigg has a class of three medical students. These and his other medical helpers take part in the preaching. Of one of his native assistants Dr. Rigg says :—

Seven Stars Bridge.

A faithful and efficient helper.

I have been greatly helped by the thorough and faithful work of one of my trained medical helpers. His name is Ngoi Tek Ling, and when he came to me seven years ago, he was an insignificant looking boy, but now he is a fine tall fellow of considerable ability. He is a Native of Kien-ning, and it was his father who, for selling a house to our Mission when Tek Ling was a child, was put in prison and died from the effects of the harsh treatment. So Tek Ling came into the care of the Church, and is now an evangelist to the people of his native city and county. His efficiency has surprised and delighted me, and he has very much lightened my task during the last year. He is much more gentlemanly and chivalrous than most Chinese, and this fits him for dealing with the C.E.Z.M.S. ladies, who all like him. He is, I believe, a true child of God, but has many trials and hindrances from his stepfather.

Four branch hospitals or dispensaries, in three of which in-patients can be accommodated, are open in the district, namely, one for women at Seven Stars' Bridge, under Misses Johnson and Gardner, of the C.E.Z.M.S.; one at Nang Wa; one at Yen Ping; and one at Ciong Bau, where Miss Darley, of the C.E.Z.M.S., had so many patients that she had to make her escape from the place in order to get time for language study. Dr. Rigg has welcomed Dr. H. R. Pakenham as a fellow labourer.

The Rev. Li Taik Ing, who was ordained in 1896, was placed at Kien-ning at the beginning of 1897, residing within the city. The obtaining of a house within the city of Kien-ning-fu was a step forward which has long been desired and several times attempted, but has never proved possible since 1876, when the chapel that had been erected was pulled down, and the catechist and four Christians were most barbarously treated by the people. Dr. Rigg hopes very soon to open a dispensary and preaching hall within the city. On January 23rd, 1898, the first Sunday of the Chinese New Year, an open service was held in this house for the first time. Dr. Rigg writes :—

This is the first time such preaching of the Gospel has taken place there, as years ago when native workers were in Kien Ning the services were either held with closed doors, or always in the Fuh-chow dialect. Though all was upset, and there were no seats for the worshippers and hearers, we all felt that our great opportunity had come, and so on the first Sunday of the Chinese New Year our workers boldly opened the doors to the street. They had their own morning service with some thirty regular worshippers, then opened the doors and sang a hymn. Some thirty or so outsiders came in and listened attentively to Mr. Li's preaching. As we decided on this step only the day before, not many knew, but next Sunday we expect a large attendance. There were disturbing rumours about, but now all is quiet.

Will it be permanent?

The question is, Will this occupation be permanent, or will the people attack us again? There are many signs of God's hand with us, and we feel confident that He will prevent our enemies stopping the work now at last begun.

Praise God with us, and pray with us, that we may go right forward, and that a rich blessing may fall on Kien Ning and a large harvest be gathered in. The work inside the city depends on the Rev. Mr. Li, and he needs much grace, tact, and courage.

Kieng-yang.

The Rev. H. S. Phillips returned with Mrs. Phillips to KIEN-YANG after furlough in October, 1897. The Rev. W. C. White spent from May to September there alone.

MID CHINA MISSION.

China, north of lat. 28°, became a separate diocese, "North China," in 1872. Dr. Russell, of the C.M.S., was the first Bishop. In 1880, after Bishop Russell's death, it was divided into two, and Dr. G. E. Moule, of the C.M.S., became Bishop of the new See of Mid China. Shanghai was occupied in 1845; Ningpo, 1848; Hang-chow, 1864; Shaou-hing, 1870; T'ai-chow, 1892; and Chuki, 1894. In the earlier years of the Mission much success was, by the Divine blessing, achieved in the numerous towns and villages around Ningpo. Later, in 1877, the Gospel was introduced under striking circumstances into the Chuki district from Hang-chow, and again in 1886 into the district of T'ai-chow from Ningpo. Many of the Christians in these districts have manifested exemplary Christian steadfastness and zeal, and fifteen of them have been ordained since 1863.

Reinforcements.

THE reinforcements sent out to Mid China during the year were the following: the Rev. Harry Barton, of Islington College, who was admitted to deacon's orders by the Bishop of London on Trinity Sunday, June 13th, 1897, and Mrs. Barton, who was Miss Agnes Mary Oakley, and was married to him on October 25th, 1897; Miss Dorcas Caroline Joynt; Miss Helen Wood, trained at "The Olives"; and Miss Isabella Hughes, of the Victoria C.M. Association. Miss Joynt and Miss Wood sailed in October, and Mr. and Mrs. Barton in November. On the other hand, the staff of the Mission suffers heavily by the appointment of the Rev. J. C. Hoare to the Bishopric of Victoria (see above, page 322); by the retirement of the Rev. C. E. Bousfield and Dr. H. Hickin; and by the deaths of Mrs. Smyth and of the Rev. E. Hughesdon.

Death of Mrs. R. Smyth,

Mrs. Smyth was a passenger on board the P. and O. steamship Aden, and she, in company with Mrs. J. S. Collins, of the South China Mission, and their children, put off with other passengers in a boat after the vessel had struck on the island of Socotra, and they were not heard of again. The painful circumstances of this wreck have been dwelt upon under South China (see above pages 324-326). Mrs. Smyth went to Shanghai under the C.M.S. as Miss Gertrude Stanley in 1891, and was married to Dr. R. Smyth, of the Ningpo Medical Mission, in 1895. She was coming home with her infant child on grounds of health when the wreck occurred. Many were the testimonies of her singularly beautiful character and influence. A sister missionary who laboured at the same station, Ningpo, wrote, "She seemed to move with a halo round her; no one could be in her presence many minutes without feeling a subtle influence of peace and holiness. She must have lived very very near to our Saviour." The Rev. W. S. Moule wrote, "Mrs. Smyth's was a beautiful influence, always for peace and charity—it was irresistible." And Bishop Moule:—

> Mrs. Smyth was one of the most beautiful and gracious Christian characters I ever had the privilege of knowing; naturally gracious, but conspicuously so by God's grace. When she was added to the missionary matrons of Ningpo we all felt that it was strong and favoured in its female contingent.

and of Rev. E. Hughesdon.

The Rev. E. Hughesdon died on October 8th, 1897, from dysentery. He went out to China in connexion with the China Inland Mission in 1884, and after six years of service, with the full consent of that Mission, offered to the C.M.S., his brother, the Rev. C. Hughesdon, of the Santal Mission, being then a student at Islington College. He was sent for further training to Islington, and was ordained deacon in 1894 by the Bishop of London, and priest in 1896 by Bishop Moule. "He loved his Master's service, and the souls redeemed by Him," is the Bishop's testimony.

Bishop Moule's seventieth birthday,

Bishop Moule received gratifying tokens of esteem and affection from the missionaries of the C.M.S. in his diocese, from the station missionaries at Hang-chow, including Americans, Presbyterian and others, and from the Chinese Christians under his episcopal care, on his seventieth birthday in January, 1898. The presentations from the missionaries took place at Dr. Main's house on the 27th, the occasion of the weekly combined prayer-meeting of missionaries, and consisted of a silver tea-service from the C.M.S. missionaries in Mid China, and a pair of silver candlesticks from the missionaries at Hang-chow. On the following day, which was his birthday, he was invited to meet the Hang-chow congregation in the church, and after the Litany the Rev. Sing Tsaeling—representing his father, the Rev. Sing Eng teh, the veteran native pastor of Kwun-hæ-we, near Ningpo, who was a Christian worker before the Bishop first went out in 1857—assisted by the two wardens and four catechists, presented a coffer containing a scroll on which the names of the Christians, 2,300 in all, were inscribed. The scroll was gradually unrolled, and when half its length was displayed it extended from end to end of the church. Its whole length was thirty-two yards, and it consisted of satin, and was embroidered and mounted in a costly and beautiful manner. The Bishop was much moved by this unexpected and thoughtful gift. He laid the roll in its casket on the Holy Table, and after offering a few words of prayer, expressed his thanks to those present, and subsequently sent a printed letter of thanks to all the Christians in other stations who had united in the gift. He was greatly impressed by the evidence of power to initiate and to organize which the preparation of the gift afforded, and he urged them to exercise the same power in establishing the Church and propagating the Gospel. In October and November the Bishop visited Ningpo and its out-stations and T'ai-chow—an expedition which occupied six weeks, and covered between 900 and 1,000 miles. Sixteen nights were spent on a camp-bed.

Presented by the Native Christians with a scroll 32 yards long.

Ordinations.

Several ordinations took place during the year. On June 10th, 1897, the Bishop admitted his son, the Rev. H. W. Moule, and the Rev. E. Thompson, to priests' orders; on July 25th, the Rev. Yü Hyien-ding to priest's orders, and on December 27th the Rev. Sing Tsaeling to priest's and Tai Yütsu to deacon's orders.

First conference of lady missionaries.

The first conference of lady missionaries in this Mission was held at Shanghai on April 2nd and 3rd. Eighteen ladies were present. Mrs. Moule presided, and Mrs. Elwin was appointed secretary.

Diocesan Synod.

A synod of the Mid China Diocese was held at Trinity College, Ningpo, on December 7th and 8th. Resolutions were passed on the following subjects: processions and plays in honour of idols; societies and feasts connected with idols and food offered in sacrifice; property, feasts, and food connected with ancestral worship; the admission of catechumens; the lawfulness of trading and commerce for clergy and other spiritual agents; and on the provision of a Handbook on the Roman Controversy. The Synod requested the Bishop, in conjunction with the Rev. J. C. Hoare and others, to edit an easy Wenli translation of the complete English Prayer-book, comparing for the purpose the new American Prayer-book, Bishop Burdon's, and the Hang-chow translations, and to present the same to the next meeting of the Synod for their acceptance or otherwise as the standard Prayer-book and basis for vernacular translations in the diocese.

PROVINCE OF KIANG-SU.

SHANGHAI.

Shanghai.

Even Bishop Moule's long period of missionary service in China falls short by several years of that of the London Missionary Society's veteran missionary at Shanghai, the Rev. W. Muirhead, who celebrated the jubilee of his missionary work in August, 1897, and received numerous illuminated banners and scrolls. Such inscriptions as "For fifty years, as one unbroken day, he has proclaimed the Word of God"; "His life, even to hoar hairs, has been devoted to the service of Christ," abounded, and testified to the deep admiration and respect with which his constancy is regarded.

Jubilee of the Rev. W. Muirhead's (L.M.S.) missionary work.

The Congregation.

The Rev. A. Elwin, the Secretary of the Mission, superintends the Native Congregation, in which he is assisted by the Rev. Dzing Kyi-doh. The Municipal Council of Shanghai has given permission to use the mortuary chapel in the cemetery, which has been closed since 1888. Sites in Shanghai are extremely difficult to obtain, and this one has the double advantage of being central and quiet, the chapel being in the midst of the cemetery. Among the congregation are several holding positions as clerks in the Imperial Customs Service and at the British Consulate, and others engaged in business, but many are irregular in attendance.

Some of the Christians rendered help in the Evangelistic Work, which was under the Rev. C. J. F. Symons. Almost every day, in the afternoon, the chapel in Nanking Road was filled with hearers, and those present were invited to attend a meeting for discussion and a closer study of the claims of Christianity which was held on Wednesday evenings. On Friday evenings meetings of a more social kind were held at Mr. Symons' house, and by means of lantern slides and in other ways it was sought to awaken interest and impart instruction. Ten adults were baptized, and another of the inquirers was baptized at Hong Kong while the vessel on which he is a steward was calling at that port. One of the converts is a ricksha painter. He induced others from his shop to attend the meetings. The ladies—Miss M. J. Godson and Miss R. M. Elwin—visited the day-schools and went to the homes of the pupils to make the acquaintance of their mothers, most of whom are Heathen.

Influence of children of Mission schools.

Miss Godson says there is a perceptible difference in the density of the darkness in the homes of these children as compared with those which have no children in Christian schools. One little girl she found had not only told her parents, but had collected her companions living in the same court, and taught them hymns. A Cantonese woman who was married to a Portuguese, and who stated that she had been baptized at Hong Kong when an infant and taught in a Mission school, was visited by Miss Elwin with a Bible-woman, and was most grateful for instruction. Miss Elwin regards her as an illustration of the value of Mission schools, inasmuch as, though without teaching for many years, her memory recalled things learned when a child, and she remarked from time to time, "Yes, that is just what Miss ——— used to say at school."

Anglo-Chinese school.

The attendance at the Anglo-Chinese School rose at one time at the beginning of 1897 to seventy, more than double the average of 1896. The demand for a knowledge of English on the part of the Chinese is very marked, and all the schools which supply it are full to overflowing. Mr. W. A. H. Moule uses the text-books of the Christian Vernacular Society, which are full of Scripture teaching as well as of general information, and are well fitted for removing racial prejudices and unkindly feelings towards foreigners. Mr. Moule's brother—Mr. E. C. H. Moule —went out in 1897, with the Committee's sanction, to assist in the school.

Mr. A. J. H. Moule made good progress with Translation Work. The Chinese Tract Society has accepted his translation of the R.T.S. Commentary on the Old Testament, and he has been elected a member of the Examining Committee of that Society.

PROVINCE OF CHEH KIANG.

Miss L. H. Barnes left Shanghai in March, 1897, and after visiting Australia, arrived in London in October; Dr. R. Smyth came home in December on special leave, and returned in March, 1898, to his work at Ningpo; the Misses M. A. Maddison, M. A. Wells, and I. S. Clarke, came home in March, 1898; the Rev. and Mrs. G. W. Coultas, Mrs. D. D. Main, and Miss A. Hunt, in April; and the Rev. W. G. Walshe in May.

NINGPO.

Ningpo. The general charge of the work at Ningpo rested upon the Rev. W. S. Moule. The Theological Class in the College had ten students, who all passed the examination prescribed by the Conference, and began work as catechists and evangelists at the beginning of 1898. Mr. Moule speaks thankfully and hopefully of them all. Six pupils left the College to take up work as teachers. A Y.M.C.A. was started during the year. A "Preaching Committee" was also formed to arrange for preaching in the city. The Rev. W. E. Godson is on the College staff. The Printing Press brought out a Commentary on the Acts by the Rev. J. C. Hoare.

College.

Critical time for native agents. Mr. Moule feels that the present is a critical time for the native agency of the Mission, and he asks for special prayer for these agents and for those who seek to superintend and guide them. He notices a growing dislike and impatience of foreign control, which he attributes in a great degree to the stirring political events of the past year, the startling descent of Germany on Kiaouchou Bay, and the talk of the dismemberment of China. He writes of the perplexity of the problems which a missionary must face, and the heart-ache which he must often feel, but he adds:—

> Still, it is abundantly worth while. We who live, by God's providence in this transition time, when this huge corrupt mass is being probed daily, and when the sleep of centuries is being disturbed, must feel some of its pangs.

Pastorates In connexion with the Pastorates there are 748 baptized Christians and 313 communicants. The contributions amounted to $446. One small congregation consisting of twelve Christians, thirty miles up the river from Ningpo, is not as yet connected with the Native Church Council. This little community of Christians was visited by a very exceptional mortality, six of its members dying. A young woman, who was baptized in April, 1897, and who was told by her heathen neighbours that her infant child would die if she had it baptized, did present it for baptism, and in God's providence the little one was taken. But the woman's faith was unshaken, and when she and her husband had adopted another child, she brought it, begging that it might be baptized.

A woman's faith.

The Bishop confirmed twelve women and one man at Ningpo in October, and four women at East Lake Chapel, twelve miles from Ningpo. Seven women were in the Women's School. Miss E. Green assisted Mrs. W. S. Moule by giving singing lessons and teaching sol-fa. Seven girls in the Girls' Boarding School, under Miss A. Maddison (now at home), were baptized. Miss M. E. Turnbull taught the younger girls musical drill. Mrs. Moule conducted a Sunday Bible-class for Christian women in Ningpo, which had twenty-five members; and besides this one, she had nine other Bible-classes weekly, and visited at the houses of the women. The work of Bible-women is one of the most fruitful of the Evangelistic Agencies at this station. Four Bible-women under Mrs. Moule's superintendence could each count one or more women who, through their instrumentality, had either been baptized during the year; or were being prepared for baptism at the year's close. One of them brought an old woman to her house, and kept her there as a visitor at her own expense that she might teach her. Mrs. Moule had a class of ten inquirers who were mostly the result of their labours.

Work of Bible-women.

T'AI-CHOW.

T'ai-chow.

Bishop Moule's visit to T'AI-CHOW in November, 1897, has been already referred to. He travelled by native steamer from Ningpo to Haiman, the port of T'ai-chow, where he was met by the Rev. G. H. Jose. They went thence by boat and sedan chair to San-K'ang, a market village in the Hsien of Hwang-yen. Some eighty gathered for worship; Mr. Jose baptized thirty-one on November 11th, twenty-four being adults, and the Bishop confirmed nine men and five women. Eight miles further they came to Ts'ing-yang-Dao, the place to which the Bishop and the Rev. J. C. Hoare went for the first time in 1893, and where they were welcomed by some sixty people, who had purchased a disused nunnery for use as a chapel (see Annual Report for 1893-4, page 200). Twenty-five adults were then baptized and confirmed. The Bishop's second visit was in May, 1896, when he confirmed more candidates and administered the Holy Communion to about seventy. Since this visit new congregrations have been formed at San-K'ang, and at one or two other places, many of whose members formerly met for worship at Ts'ing-yang-Dao. Nevertheless, on November 14th, 1897, the church, considerably enlarged, was quite filled with a devout congregation of 200, of whom the Bishop confirmed thirty, and the Lord's Supper was administered to sixty-nine Natives. When Mr. Jose had visited Ts'ing-yang-Dao a short time before, over 300 were present, many more than could get into the church; that was before its last enlargement. All these had brought their food (rice) with them, and at lunch time, in addition to the stoves, regular and improvised, on the church premises, cooking operations were proceeding in over eighteen boats tied up in the canal just outside the church. This place became the centre of a new pastorate, under the Rev. Yu-Hyien-ding, who was admitted to priest's orders in July, 1897. The Bishop made inquiries on the spot as to injuries inflicted by Romanists on one of the members of the congregation, regarding which he subsequently had a long correspondence with the Roman Catholic Bishop's commissary. From Ts'ing-yang-Dao the Bishop travelled by chair and boat some forty miles to T'ai-chow, the head-quarters of the Northern Pastorate, under the Rev. Dzing Teh-Kwong, where Mr. Jose resides. The work here and at Zih-veh Yang, and at Dazib, where is the oldest C.M.S. congregation in all T'ai-chow, is less interesting than that in the Southern Pastorate, and some trying cases of inconsistency were brought to light. The Bishop at the three places confirmed twenty-four candidates. He took occasion to rebuke the unhealthy and growing tendency to expect political help, i.e., the intervention of the British Consul, in behalf of the Christians when suffering oppression or injustice. Many of the French Consuls readily afford such help to Roman Catholics, which accounts for the expectation. Mr. Jose says as to this :—

New pastorate formed.

An unhealthy tendency.

> The attitude of the officials towards Christianity, or rather the Foreign Powers which (from their point of view) send Christianity, has quite changed, and they appear now inclined to give most to those who ask most noisily. At present these seem to be the Roman Catholics, who, by means of French gunboats, have secured the dismissal of a district magistrate, and the freedom from arrest for three years of the reputed guilty man he was trying to punish. The impression, rightly or wrongly, has got abroad that any one with a "business" who makes it worth the local native catechist's while, can get it taken up by the French priest in the Yamen as a case of persecution. No doubt many of our inquirers come to us with the same object in view, and many more in order to escape the wiles of these Roman Catholic protégés. There have been about six cases of trouble with them, two of which we have left alone, our men being only very recent inquirers ; three we have settled in a personal interview with M. Lepers, and one, in which a Christian named Chi'hsing had his hand injured permanently, besides other ill-treatment, still remains unsettled. All this has brought us between two fires. The Consul, who paid a visit to T'ai-chow in connexion with an attack by Roman Catholic converts on those of the China Inland Mission, and the ensuing free fight, has blamed the missionaries all round for lending too credulous ears, and giving too much aid to the Native Christians, while the senior native pastor here has sent in his resignation in great measure by way of protest against our unwillingness to write to the officials on their behalf where the case is not clearly one of persecution against Christianity.

From Titus iii. 8, and the context, the Bishop emphasized the duty of Chinese Christians being good subjects of their own, not of a foreign Government, and that notwithstanding all the corruption and weakness which, e.g., leaves T'ai-chow a very paradise of housebreakers and robbers. The Christians in the two Pastorates have eagerly taken up an endowment scheme, and $1,000 have been invested in land and houses bearing interest at ten per cent. In addition to the baptisms mentioned above, which occurred after the close of the statistical year, there were forty-nine adults received into the Church, and Mr. Jose notices with special satisfaction and hopefulness that one half of them were women, as also that a good proportion of the 300 catechumens on the list are women too, the fruits of Bible-women's work. The Rev. E. Thompson was engaged in language study.

A good proportion of women converts.

SHAOU-HING.

Shaou-hing.

There were no adult baptisms at SHAOU-HING during the year, and the little body of Christians were a cause of grave disappointment. It is feared, indeed, that want of spirituality and concern for souls on the part of the congregation is the most serious barrier to the increase of the Church by conversions from Heathenism. The boys' day school is more encouraging. The master is a son of the Rev. Tsong-Sieh-En, and bears a high character. The school is full, and the quarterly examinations show most satisfactory results.. The most hopeful feature of the work in the city, however, appears to be the growing friendliness of the native gentry. The Rev. W. G. Walshe (now at home) included in the circle of his friends and acquaintances many of the best families, and was frequently visited by young students. Through his Pundit, a Chinese graduate of over fifty years' standing, he had indirect access to a number of veteran scholars:—

Friendliness of native gentry.

Indirect access to a number of Chinese savants.

> The questions which every step of our studies suggested led to daily discussions between him and myself, during the summer and winter months when travelling was not convenient, and these were restated by him in a coterie of old scholars of which he is a member, producing the most interesting results. Sometimes the Christian teaching which I was able to introduce was accepted by them with little hesitation; sometimes the question would be returned to me with an expression of doubt or obscurity, and I would seek, through my old friend, to put it right; and thus a regular system of correspondence was established between these old men and myself, and a good deal of mutual sympathy. In fact, my old Pundit was as good as an evangelist, and introduced Christian teaching to a class of men who would be beyond the reach of the ordinary catechist, and was not, of course, handicapped by the suspicion with which a Christian adherent or paid agent would be treated. This old man is one of three Chinese graduates of long standing, who express sympathy with, and believe in, much of the Gospel teaching, but who are prevented from accepting Christianity, with all its issues, by the fear of losing their share of ancestral property, and their position in their respective clans.

Ladies visited by mandarins' wives.

The ladies, Miss I. S. Clarke (now at home) and Miss E. F. Turner, also found ready access to the houses of the well-to-do, and were visited in turn by the ladies of the same. Mrs. Tsong, a mandarin's wife, took nearly all her guests to call on the missionary ladies, and Mrs. Tsang, the daughter and widow of mandarins, visited them frequently, and had long and deeply interesting talks about Christianity. Mrs. Loh, referred to in last year's Report, still attends church, and says she truly believes. She has made repeated efforts to find other employment than that of rolling tinfoil paper for use in connexion with idolatry, but has had to resume this work. Such cases appeal very strongly to the sympathy of missionaries, and it is not easy to resist the natural inclination to give necessary assistance from their own pockets. The wiser course is that followed in this instance. Miss Clarke says:—

A natural inclination wisely resisted.

Knowing how many reports are spread abroad that we foreigners pay the people who become Christians, Miss Turner and myself feel the great importance of not helping by money any who appear to be interested, trusting that the Holy Spirit will, in his own good time, open up the way for those who truly believe to come out boldly on the Lord's side.

One woman, after a first visit, returned home, and took down her kitchen god and burnt it, saying it was of no use, and she "wanted to believe in the true God." Mr. Kyü, the ladies' language teacher, is still a regular attendant at the Sunday morning service, but makes no advance towards baptism. The Rev. A. Phelps preached in the High Street Chapel and in the open air, and visited some thirty-five villages. Mr. Walshe opened a preaching chapel in a district called "Sandy Region," thirty miles from Shaou-hing, reclaimed from the fast receding Tsien-tang river, and sparsely tenanted by squatters.

HANG-CHOW.

Hang-chow.

At a meeting of the Hang-chow and Chuki Church Council, held at HANG-CHOW in March, 1897, and presided over by Bishop Moule, the members agreed, on behalf of the several congregations which they represented, that contributions to the Council Fund should be increased at least fifty per cent. on condition that two additional pastors were appointed, and the selection of these from among the six catechists (two of them already in orders) was proceeded with. The result of the voting was confirmed by the Council meeting in October, and accordingly Bishop Moule admitted the Rev. Sing Tsaeling to priest's orders, and Mr. Tai Yütsu to deacon's orders, in December, as already mentioned, the former for Hang-chow, and the latter for a new pastorate in F stern Chuki.

Meetings of Church Council.

Drs. D. Duncan Main and A. T. Kember had a busy year. The care of the missionaries is by no means a light one, and Dr. Main would dissuade any one who seeks an easy vocation from offering to a Missionary Society. He finds a disposition in some missionaries to neglect the needs of the body, the effect of which is to throw more work on the medical missionary, and he strongly advocates plenty of exercise. In his own words, "Nothing is better for the inside of a missionary than the outside of a house." Of the Dispensary Work he writes :—

Dispensary work.

We admit all without election, irrespective of age, sex, condition, or creed, if they are eligible, i.e., sick. No golden key is needed to unlock the door to a needy candidate, although a small entrance fee of about ½d. is charged to foster the spirit of appreciation. In the waiting-room, the rich poor and poor rich, high and low, young and old, the halt, the blind, the deaf, the disfigured meet together. Words are inadequate to depict the wretchedness and misery of many of the poor creatures who come to us seeking help and relief.

In this benevolent work we do what we can for their ailments and press the claims of God upon our patients, and although we are not privileged to see much definite fruit, yet we feel sure that fruit in due time will appear.

Evil effects of foot-binding and of native quackery.

The In-patients numbered almost a thousand. All kinds of diseases, especially those of a chronic nature, are encountered. The evil effects of the barbarous, cruel, and deep-rooted custom of foot-binding are constantly met with ; and the consequences of native quackery are, of course, sadly in evidence. The time of both doctors and of their native helpers is largely taken up in purely medical work, but the great aim is neither forgotten nor neglected. Dr. Main says :—

Our patients soon learn that we work through their bodies to their souls, and that the great aim of our work is not only to supply their physical wants, but also to bring them by practice and precept to a knowledge of the Lord Jesus Christ, and to do this successfully let me say that much time must be given to works of healing. Patients remember what they see much longer than what they hear. It does not matter whether you get hold of a patient by the body or by the soul, so long as you get hold of him and win him for Christ. Ignorance, bigotry, prejudice, and opposition very quickly melt away in the bright, cheery, cleanly, comfortable wards of the hospital. We in the wards are often able (through an operation) to give relief from years of suffering for which heathen gods far and near have been implored, fortune-tellers have been consulted, most expensive medicines have been taken, their mothers' flesh and blood have been eaten, and their "all" spent in vain. Such an operation sometimes awakes a gratitude which makes the patient look upon the medical missionary as superhuman.

"Ignorance, bigotry, prejudice, and opposition melt away."

Opium Refuge and Leper Hospitals.

In the Opium Refuge one hundred patients were cured, a few of them only, in all probability, permanently rescued from the habit. The will-power to break with the vice is usually wanting. The Leper Work is supported by the Leper Mission, and is full of encouragement. At the close of the year fifteen were in the City Home and ten in the Lake Home. Nine were baptized. Mrs. Main (now at home) also managed a Home for Children of Lepers, a Hospital for Leper Women, and a Women's Hospital. The Medical Class represents the most important and hardest part of the work. Dr. Main says :—

Training medical students.

To impart a knowledge of medicine and surgery through the medium of the Chinese language, with the temperature over 90°, to a handful of Chinese youths, who do not yet realize that they were born to be doctors, is no easy task. I would ask you to keep a place in your thoughts and prayers for us in connexion with our students. The training of young men as medical missionaries is hard, and in many cases may be disappointing as it is at home, but it is a most important branch of Medical Mission work, and cannot be dispensed with.

Three students passed their final examination after finishing a five years' course. Two remained in the Hospital as assistants, and the third went to the Ningpo Hospital. Of the native assistants Dr. Main says :—

Native hospital assistants.

I must say a word or two about our assistants; they are good men and true, and their praise should be in all the Churches. They work hard and faithfully, and the amount of actual work they sometimes get through in the twenty-four hours is often very great. Liu's ability and personal help in connexion with the students and accounts are very praiseworthy, and Tsang's influence with the patients as an epistle known and read by all is most satisfactory, and Iniao's quiet help in the dispensary is indisputable. These men, on account of their training, are much run after, and more than once have had tempting salaries offered them in order to take them away from us.

Two Convalescent Homes were opened on the Queen's Diamond Jubilee. These, like most of Dr. Main's enlargements and extensions, have been completed without cost to the Society. The Hang-chow native officials showed their interest in the work by presenting the Mission with an acre and a half of land in the new Settlement for a hospital site. Of his relations with the official class, Dr. Main writes :—

Convalescent Homes.

"Officials of every rank send to us."

Our services have been in demand from the Governor of the province down to the petty tax-gatherer. Quite a number of the officials and gentry look upon us as their family physicians, and officials of every rank send to us for advice and medicine from this and other provinces.

"The crust of ages is breaking."

Our hold upon the officials and gentry may not yield much spiritual fruit, and absorb a great deal of time, still the connexion is most important, and we feel sure fruit will appear after many days. The crust of ages is breaking in places, and signs of life begin to manifest themselves. Intercourse with foreigners has opened the eyes of a few, and made them feel they are far behind the rest of the world in more ways than one. We have already got our silk, filature, and cotton mills, and we hear of railways and electric light, and many are full of most sanguine hope of China's future. But China needs more than these things; she needs to be born again; she needs salvation, and one of the best means for introducing Christianity is a Medical Mission. We know of no work better fitted to disarm prejudice, overcome bigotry and the self-conceit and stubborn exclusiveness of the Chinese than that of healing and preaching. Words that are backed up by deeds of charity are powerful weapons for good.

A severe epidemic of denguè fever attacked a large proportion of the inhabitants of Hang-chow in September; almost all the foreign community and about three-fourths of the Natives were sufferers. For over a fortnight the hospital had to be closed as nearly all its staff were invalids.

River out-stations.

The work at the Out-stations up the Hang-chow River was very encouraging. Fifteen adults were baptized, eight of them being women. Miss M. Vaughan had a class of eight women from these out-stations staying with her at Hang-chow for instruction in December, 1897. One of them had first heard the Gospel in the hospital nine years before, and had renounced idolatry at once. Miss Vaughan met her for the first time in 1895, and she told her she had prayed to God ever since she was in the hospital. When visited in her remote village, and asked on one occasion whether she still prayed to God, she replied, "How could I not pray? I pray many times a day, but when I am very busy I only pray morning and night." She is a very eager learner. Another, also a hospital patient, was from a still more distant village, to reach which eight passes and several rivers have to be crossed. A third was a woman aged eighty-three, of whom Miss Vaughan writes:—

"How could I not pray?"

Prayer, with fasting, for heathen relations.

She and her son live together, the only Christians in the village, and far away from any chapel. He is a most earnest Christian. He used to sell salt; but because he was a Christian, people would not buy his salt. Then he made paper, a trade much practised in that district. But because he would not work on Sunday, no one would employ him. This mother and son spend their Sunday mornings in prayer for their heathen relations; and not only do they pray, but they pray fasting.

This woman was one of those baptized. At a place ten miles beyond Dan-de, called Tsang-kya-fau, a little group of inquirers meet for worship in a large room given up for the purpose by one of their number. The Rev. G. W. Coultas, on coming home in January, 1898, resigned the charge of the river district to the Rev. H. W. Moule, whose work during the past year, as was that of Misses E. Goudge and J. C. Grant, was mainly language study.

CHUKI.

Chuki.

The Rev. J. B. Ost reports on the work at CHUKI in two divisions, that of the Native Church Council, and that of the C.M.S. It has already been stated under Hang-chow that two Pastorates have been formed by dividing the former Chuki pastorate, viz., Chuki West and Chuki East. The former includes the congregation worshipping at Chuki and in seven villages, and is under the pastoral care of the Rev. Nyi Liang-ping. There are 209 baptized Christians and 106 communicants, and twenty-eight adults were baptized during the year. The latter contains Do-Kyien-K'yi (or "Great Valley"), and two other country congregations, under the Rev. Tai Yutsu (John Tai), son of Matthew Tai, the artist whose name was intimately connected with the first introduction of the Gospel to the Chuki district. This pastorate has 202 baptized Christians, and 106 communicants. The contributions of the two pastorates amounted to $170, as compared with $112 from the undivided pastorate in 1896. This increase was largely brought about by special meetings held by Bishop Moule in January, 1897, and may be regarded, Mr. Ost says, as a Three Years' Enterprise effort. An improvement is observable in the church buildings. Two new churches, on native models, are in progress.

Division of pastorates.

Increased contributions.

Mrs. Ost has a boarding school for girls, in which a daughter of Luke Chow is the schoolmistress. In last year's Report reference was made to trouble caused by Roman Catholics. Mr. Ost discussed them with the French priest in charge, and on June 4th, 1897, a conference of native workers connected with the two communions was held. In every instance, Mr. Ost says, the Roman Catholics were found to have been in the wrong, and the native priest assisted in giving judgment in each case, and seemed to be much ashamed of his people's conduct. Mr. Ost states that the Roman Catholics charge a fee of one dollar on registering members, which the people who pay it understand to be in order to secure for them the assistance of the French priests in their troubles with neighbours and others. The French priest assured Mr. Ost that this charge should be abolished, but the latter learned afterwards that it was still being enforced. Old "Peaceful Times" of Dyke's head, who never recovered from the shock he received in 1895 (see Annual Report, 1894–95, pages 343-4), died in the winter of 1896-97. Mr. Ost relates the story of another of the Christians who died during the year. He had attended the services some time before, but persecutions and losses proved too much for his faith. It was during his last illness that his conversion occurred. Mr. Ost says:—

Deaths of Native Christians.

> He was visited constantly by ourselves and the Native Christians, and after some time seemed clearly to understand and grasp the plan of salvation. He was preremptory in forbidding all the idolatrous practices recommended by his heathen neighbours, and when he was too ill to speak he would "kick out" and shake his head in token of disapprobation. He was very happy towards the end, and especially radiant when the pastor acceded to his request to baptize him. It was cheering to hear him testify of the love of God and the willingness of the Saviour to receive sinners, "even such great ones as he," and his peaceful end made quite an impression upon his neighbours. We trust that his death-bed testimony and exhortation may be blessed to his wife, who has now for many months been a regular attendant at our services.

WEST CHINA MISSION.

The Province of Si-chuan was occupied by a party under the Rev. J. H. Horsburgh in 1892, but for more than a year it was impossible to rent houses in any place not already occupied by other Societies. In 1894 the cities of Chong-pa, Sin-tu, Mien-Chuh, Miencheo, and An Hsien received resident missionaries, and Shih-ts'uen Hsien in 1895. The Rev. W. W. Cassels, a missionary of the China Inland Mission, was appointed, on the nomination of the C.M.S., Bishop in Western China, and was consecrated on October 18th, 1895.

Boundaries of diocese.

THE formal definition of Bishop Cassels' diocese is, "Such portion of the provinces of Si-chuan and Kwei-Cheo as lie to the north of the 28th parallel of latitude." This boundary has of course neither natural nor political features to justify it, and was determined by the fact that the 28th parallel was the boundary line chosen when the diocesan delimitation of China was first attempted. At the beginning of 1872 Bishop Alford, of Victoria, was the only Bishop of the Church of England in China, and nominally had the whole country for his diocese. In that year a new diocese for the northern half of China was formed, and the 28th parallel of north latitude was fixed as the boundary. Bishop Russell was appointed its first Bishop. This latter diocese was further divided into North and Mid China in 1880, and Bishop Scott, of the S.P.G., appointed to the former; and Mid China was subdivided in 1895 by the formation of the diocese of West China and the appointment of Bishop Cassels. It will be seen therefore that to have altered the southern boundary would have affected the diocese of Victoria, and for this there was no necessity in the present initiatory stage of the work of the Church of England in that region, which work moreover lies well to the north of the boundary in question. Practically, the diocese may be said to be co-extensive with the Province of Si-Chuan, as only small parts of Kwei-Cheo and Si-chuan are respectively included and excluded. It is twenty years since Protestant Mission-work was begun in this Province by the China Inland Mission, and the first convert, who was Bishop Cassels' guest while he was writing his Annual Letter (which he considerately sends to the Committee every year) for 1897, was baptized in 1878. The work by members of the Church of England was begun in 1887, when the Rev. W. W. Cassels, the present Bishop, a missionary of the C.I.M., received Bishop Moule's license to labour in Si-Chuan. In 1888 the Rev. J. H. Horsburgh visited Si-chuan on a pioneer tour, and in 1892 he escorted the first party of C.M.S. missionaries to occupy a limited area whose boundaries were determined in conference with the missionaries of the China Inland Mission who are in that neighbourhood, all members of the Church of England, and with whom from the beginning the relations have been both cordial and intimate. Indeed, the Mission is under great obligations to the C.I.M. for help "all along the line," so to speak. That Society's Mission houses at Shanghai and at various stopping places on the river have afforded grateful hospitality and spiritual refreshment, and its missionaries have often acted as escorts to C.M.S. lady recruits (as during the year under review), giving them valuable lessons both in the language and, not unimportant, in manners of life and methods of work.

Bishop Cassels admitted Mr. D. A. Callum to deacon's orders at Pao-ning, on June 24th, 1897. Ordination.

PART OF THE PROVINCE OF SI-CHUAN.

The Committee have sent out the following reinforcements during the year:—Mr. Webley Hope Gill (brother of the Rev. C. H. Gill, of the C.M.S. Mission at Jabalpur, in the Central Provinces of India), who laboured for ten years, from 1885 to 1895, in connexion with the China Inland Mission, and who, having retired from that Mission, offered, with the goodwill of the leaders, to the C.M.S., and Mrs. Gill; Mr. Walter Kitley, a short-course Islington student; Mr. Arthur Lawrence; Miss Ida S. Mitchell, and Miss Rose Florence Murray, who were Reinforcements.

both trained at Highbury. Mr. Kitley sailed in October; so also did the two ladies, but by a later boat and in the company of Miss E. D. Mertens, who was returning after a short furlough, she having arrived in England in June, 1897; Mr. and Mrs. Gill and Mr. Lawrence sailed in December. On reaching I-Chang, in December, Miss Murray suffered from an attack of dysentery, and Miss Mitchell remained with her at the C.I.M. station there until she recovered, receiving the greatest kindness from the missionaries, and especially from Dr. and Mrs. Logan, American missionaries. They proceeded on their way with Mr. and Mrs. Hope Gill in February, 1898. Besides Miss Mertens, already mentioned, Misses R. Lloyd and G. E. Wells came home in June, 1897; and Mrs. J. H. Horsburgh in December.

Missionary parties on the Yang-tse River.

The party of recruits sent out in 1896 reached Shanghai, as mentioned in last year's Report, in November. Dr. W. Squibbs and Mr. W. Andrews started up the Yang-tse on December 14th, and reached Hankow on the 18th. Five days, until the 23rd, were spent at the C.I.M. Mission house, where, one of them writes, "We received as much kindness as if we were of their own number, and were helped heavenward by converse, and onward in a very practical way." At I-Chang, which they reached on the 29th, they were again the guests of C.I.M. missionaries, as they were also at Chung-King, which they reached, after a tedious six weeks spent in a house-boat, on February 8th. From thence a land journey of 270 miles, escorted by Mr. T. Simmonds, who met them at Chung-King, brought them to Mien-cheo on February 26th. The lady recruits, Misses I. K. S. Acheson, A. M. Barker, and L. S. Digby left Shanghai on December 29th, escorted by the Rev. and Mrs. W. Taylor, of the C.I.M. On account of the lowness of the river they had to take to a house-boat at Hankow, and had to change boats twice, at I-Chang and at the "New Rapid." At the latter place the head of a gang of robbers demanded money in broad daylight, under threat of returning with his followers in the night. To avert this real danger Mr. Taylor gave some money, and they were not molested. They disembarked at Wan-hsien and went thence in two parties by land to Pao-ning, the C.I.M. headquarters in Si-chuan, arriving on February 27th and 28th respectively.

Threatened by robbers.

Gift by Mrs. Isabella Bishop, and help from Tinnevelly Christians

Two gifts of special interest for the Mission may be mentioned here. One is that of Mrs. Isabella Bishop, whose visit to Si-chuan was referred to in last year's Report (page 363.) She has given £100 to purchase buildings for a hospital at Mien-cheo, to be called the "Emily Clayton Memorial Hospital." The other is a sum of Rs. 100 from a number of Tamil women, members of Mrs. T. Walker's Mothers' Meeting at Palamcotta, Tinnevelly, contributed for work in Si-chuan. Such practical exhibitions of sympathy and Christian love from fellow-citizens of the one household of faith, especially from such as have been brought out of the darkness of Heathenism, are a sweet savour indeed of Christ, precious fruit abounding richly to the account of givers and receivers alike.

The Rev. J. H. Horsburgh was away from Si-chuan for several months of the year on account of the health of some members of his family. He went down to the coast in May 1897, and proceeded to Japan the following July. He returned to Si-chuan in February, 1898.

MIEN-CHEO.

Mien-cheo.

The Rev. and Mrs. O. M. Jackson removed from Chong-pa to MIEN-CHEO in March, 1897, in order to take charge of the work during the absence of the Rev. J. H. Horsburgh, who left for the coast on May 14th. The journey from Chong-pa was made in a hired boat, and it was boarded en route by several bands of armed men, seeking for grain, which they would not allow to proceed down the river without money being given to them. Misses R. Lloyd and G. E. Wells left Mien-cheo for England at the beginning of March, 1897. Miss M. A. Thompson was joined by Miss I. K. S. Acheson a few days after the other ladies had left. Mr. Jackson set up a stall in the street for book-selling and as a place for preaching. This was moved from place to place; more than once it was erected within the precincts of a temple during a fair. The stall was under the care of Liao, one of the Christians. The attendance at the Sunday services was much interfered with by wet weather and the flooded state of the district, owing to exceptionally heavy rains. A number of literati showed much friendliness, and one appeared to be greatly interested in Christianity. One adult, a young man-servant, and two infant children were baptized. The infants are children of Mr. and Mrs. Chang, who were baptized in 1896 (see last year's Report). Mrs. Jackson says of the latter:—

A stall for book-selling and preaching.

A Christian mother.

Little Mrs. Chang, the weaver's wife, is a real cheer; she always seems bright, although she has to work so hard, for, in addition to her household duties and her two little children, she has her loom and has to weave. I know she is often tired and pressed. They have moved away into the country, about a mile away, and so she has a longer walk to get to the services. I hope to get a class of women at her house, and so reach that end of the city; I have been once, and the women seem extremely friendly and nice. The two little girls have recently been baptized; she was so happy about it. A few days before, she said, "I do want to give my little Teh-fang [the baby] to Jesus, and Ts'en-ti-tsï [the elder] too." She says she will never bind her children's feet, and to our joy she has unbound her own, and now wears quite large shoes; it means a good deal for a woman to do this, but she has braved it for Jesus' sake. She says it is so difficult to bring up Ts'en-ti-tsï as she would wish, because she must get out and play with other children, who use such bad language and do such naughty things. Those of us who have to bring up children among the Heathen can sympathize with her, and I am sure you will realize it too, and pray for these lambs.

SIN-TU.

Sin-tu. The Rev. D. A. Callum, at SIN-TU, was much discouraged by the secession of several inquirers to the Roman Catholics. Early in 1897, a servant, a Christian of five years' standing from Chen-tu, and another servant and her husband who were both inquirers (though far from satisfactory), were dismissed and joined the Roman Church, and through their efforts eight others went over. None of those baptized in the Mission, however, appear to have gone. Mr. Callum says:—

Secessions to the Church of Rome. One does not blame the people so much for going. They are mostly poor people, and have a hard struggle for food and raiment. The Roman Catholics give three months' food and lodgings to all candidates for baptism. They give food on Sundays to all who come to mass. They lend money to inquirers in order to begin business (looking tightly after them). They rent land at a lower rate than ordinary. They help Church members in lawsuits, and protect them in various ways. These are all very strong inducements to the poor Chinese; besides the hope of an easy way to eternal life. These customs that I have mentioned may not be universal; I only know that they are practised here.

I have been awfully discouraged about my people who have gone, not so much because they went from us, as because of the motives which led them. It does not follow that they were not real, but it seems to be that they were not spiritual. But God can reach them in the Romanist chapel as well as in our chapel, and we leave them in His hands.

Inquirers. There were other inquirers. Several whom Mr. Callum assisted to break off the opium habit professed to believe. Among them was a tailor named Li, who was preparing for baptism, and another was a Buddhist priest. Miss E. Casswell, who was the only unmarried lady at this station, after Miss E. D. Mertens left to take furlough in the spring of 1897, mentions a Mrs. Shï, who had a paralytic stroke in the autumn, and after her recovery (prayer having been made for her by the Christians) walked to the Mission house, saying she "wished to go the heavenly road." Miss Casswell adds:—

A vow to the thunder-god broken. She had taken a vow seventeen years ago to never taste meat again. Mr. Callum pointed out to her that if she trusted Jesus to save her, and wished to please Him, she ought to break her fast. At first, she was a little fearful of the results. She said, "If I break my vow, will not the thunder-god hurt me?" She had called him to witness her vow, and if she broke it, he was to strike her dead. When she was assured he could not harm her, she was eager to break her fast at once, and there and then did so. It is very sweet to hear her exhorting other women to do the same. She has a very simple, childlike faith. Naturally, she is a dull, stupid sort of woman, and her stroke has slightly affected her intellect. But she uses her whole heart in learning, and is getting on fairly well.

A winner of souls. Her case is not unlike that of Mrs. Uang, mentioned last year, of whom Miss Casswell reports that she witnesses for Christ with real power, being most fervent to win souls. Mr. Callum uses his lantern to show pictures of our Lord's life, &c., and finds them very helpful. He has exhibited in the Yamen to the mandarin and his entourage, the ladies looking and listening from the further side of the curtain; also in a native College in the town, where he spent a night as the guest of the students. A number of patients were treated medically. Mr. Callum paid a visit to Chen-tu in April, 1897, and during an idolatrous feast witnessed a play of which he says:—

Missionary impersonated in a Chinese play.

In one of the plays one of the actors impersonated a foreigner, selling books, and singing "Jesus loves me." One of the other actors ordered the "foreigner" to be beaten, and as he was dragged away he cried, "Jesus, save me! Jesus, save me!" and when he was about to be beaten he said, "Jesus won't come and save me." This of course was all great fun to the audience, and an unique innovation in the play. It was a skit on my evening preachings. The Romanists took the matter up warmly, and had the actor beaten a thousand blows with the bamboo. They wished me to join with them in prosecuting the actors, but I was away, and when I returned thought it best not to join with them. Why they moved in it at all I cannot tell, as they neither sell books nor sing "Jesus loves me."

MIEN-CHUH.

Mien-chuh

The first-fruits of MIEN-CHUH were gathered at the beginning of 1897. On January 10th, the Rev. O. M. Jackson, who had gone thither from Chong-pa for the purpose, baptized two brothers named Uh (both servants of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Phillips, of whose true conversion, Mr. Phillips says, there can be no doubt), and a farmer, named An. The last named was led to Christ by a man named Tsiang, who, in his turn, was converted through hearing Mr. Beauchamp, of the C.I.M. Mr. Beauchamp visited Mien-chuh, and rejoiced to see his "children's children" (Ps. cxxviii. 6). Again, on October 31st, two other men were baptized, named Wang and Sun; the former a coolie in the employ of an oil firm; the other a brassworker, who was led to inquire, by witnessing Mr. Phillips' care of an old man who had bruised his knee by a fall. This man, Sun, had lived a loose life, and was involved in debt, which he is seeking to discharge. He has brought a shoemaker named Hsü, and a former employer and his son, as inquirers, and the four meet together for family worship. Bishop Cassels visited Mien-chuh in October, and confirmed the three men who were baptized the previous January, and afterwards, for the first time, Chinese Christians at this station joined in commemorating their Saviour's death. No women have yet been baptized at Mien-chuh. Two women named Wang (not related), however, and one named U, are hopeful inquirers. A shop has been rented and opened for preaching in South Street, and the guest rooms for men and women, open daily, are visited by a goodly number; and at Hsiao-tsuen also, a town ten miles distant south, a small shop, with sleeping accommodation, has been secured. Mr. and Mrs. Phillips and Mr. Beach were called to no less than fifty cases of opium suicides during eleven months of the year, of which seven or eight cases were too far gone for remedy.

Converts.

An outstation opened.

Miss A. M. Barker arrived at Mien-chuh in March, 1897, and spent the remainder of the year in studying Chinese, and passed her first examination the following November.

AN-HSIEN.

An-Hsien.

No baptisms have yet occurred at AN-HSIEN, the "City of Peace," a place of 8,000 or 10,000 inhabitants. Mr. and Mrs. W. Knipe were cheered by the arrival of Dr. W. Squibbs and Mr. W. Andrews at the beginning of February, 1897. The former sums up the first year of his missionary life in one word—"disappointment." He expected hardships, and found comforts; thought the language a monster, and found it tameable; feared the way, but found the Lord beside him. His first impressions are very vividly stated:—

A new missionary's "disappointments."

One of the first things that begins to make itself plain, and rather painfully so, to the mind of a new arrival in this country, is that one is a "foreigner"; however much one endeavours to assimilate oneself to the people and become one of them, even to the shovelling one's food into the mouth from a basin by means of a pair of chopsticks, the shaving the head, and growing a queue, the gulf between you and them still remains. Your eyes are blue and your hair is light, and a Chinaman requires no near scrutiny to distinguish you from his yellow-skinned, brown-eyed, black-haired brethren, and audibly expresses his conclusion—"Foreigner!"—in varying tones denoting simple surprise, contempt, or malice. The very understanding on which you take up your abode amongst them at once divides you off—you are the guest of the Emperor, and every time you leave your home they insist on escorting you, in other words, tracking your movements.

"Foreigner."

But if one feels that a barrier is thus placed, as it were, to limit the degree of our social contact with the people, there is, nevertheless, abundance, sad to say, of objective evidence by which one may know their error and darkness, their sin and their sorrow, and this comes with a terrible force to one who passes directly from the atmosphere, however much vitiated, of Christian influence, into the midst of Heathenism; a "darkness that can be felt," pride and passion, lying and theft, cruelty and misery.

Evidences of darkness and evil.

Let me give you an example. Take a walk upon the street, and almost at every corner you will see a shrine with gods of mud and wood, and perhaps a deluded one bowing or burning incense before them. Turn the street corner, and you will, perhaps, meet a funeral procession, some beating gongs and burning incense, others laughing and joking, as they carry the fowl to be killed in sacrifice, and others scattering paper to represent money to bribe the evil spirits whom they suppose to hover around the path. The city is full of idolatry. Flee from it into the country, but there also at every turn of the road you find a shrine and idols, and Nature's choicest spots, the shady glen and the high hill-top, are usurped by a temple to Buddha and a thousand gods. Day and night seem to follow one another with heathen rites; the sound of Buddhist and Taouist priests chanting prayers for the dead, or incantations for the sick, the gong, the bell, and the drum calling to the worship, not of the Jehovah God, but of ancestors, idols, and demons—and the vicious accompaniments of idolatry are as clear as the noonday. Lying and theft, greed and pride, seem to have become a second nature.

The preaching-hall was open on market days, and attentive audiences usually assembled.

CHONG-PA.

When the Rev. and Mrs. O. M. Jackson left CHONG-PA in March to take charge of Mien-cheo, as already explained, Mr. T. Simmonds was left alone at this station. Chong-pa, with An-Hsien, are the only two places occupied by the C.M.S., where the workers have not yet been cheered by converts. Mr. Simmonds was instrumental in saving about thirty lives from opium poisoning. The people are very friendly, and one old man, named Yang, observes the Lord's Day and has destroyed his idols, and appears to Mr. Simmonds to be a true believer. Li (mentioned last year), though he does not worship idols, is less satisfactory than he. Chong-pa. Opium suicides.

SHI-TSUEN-HSIEN.

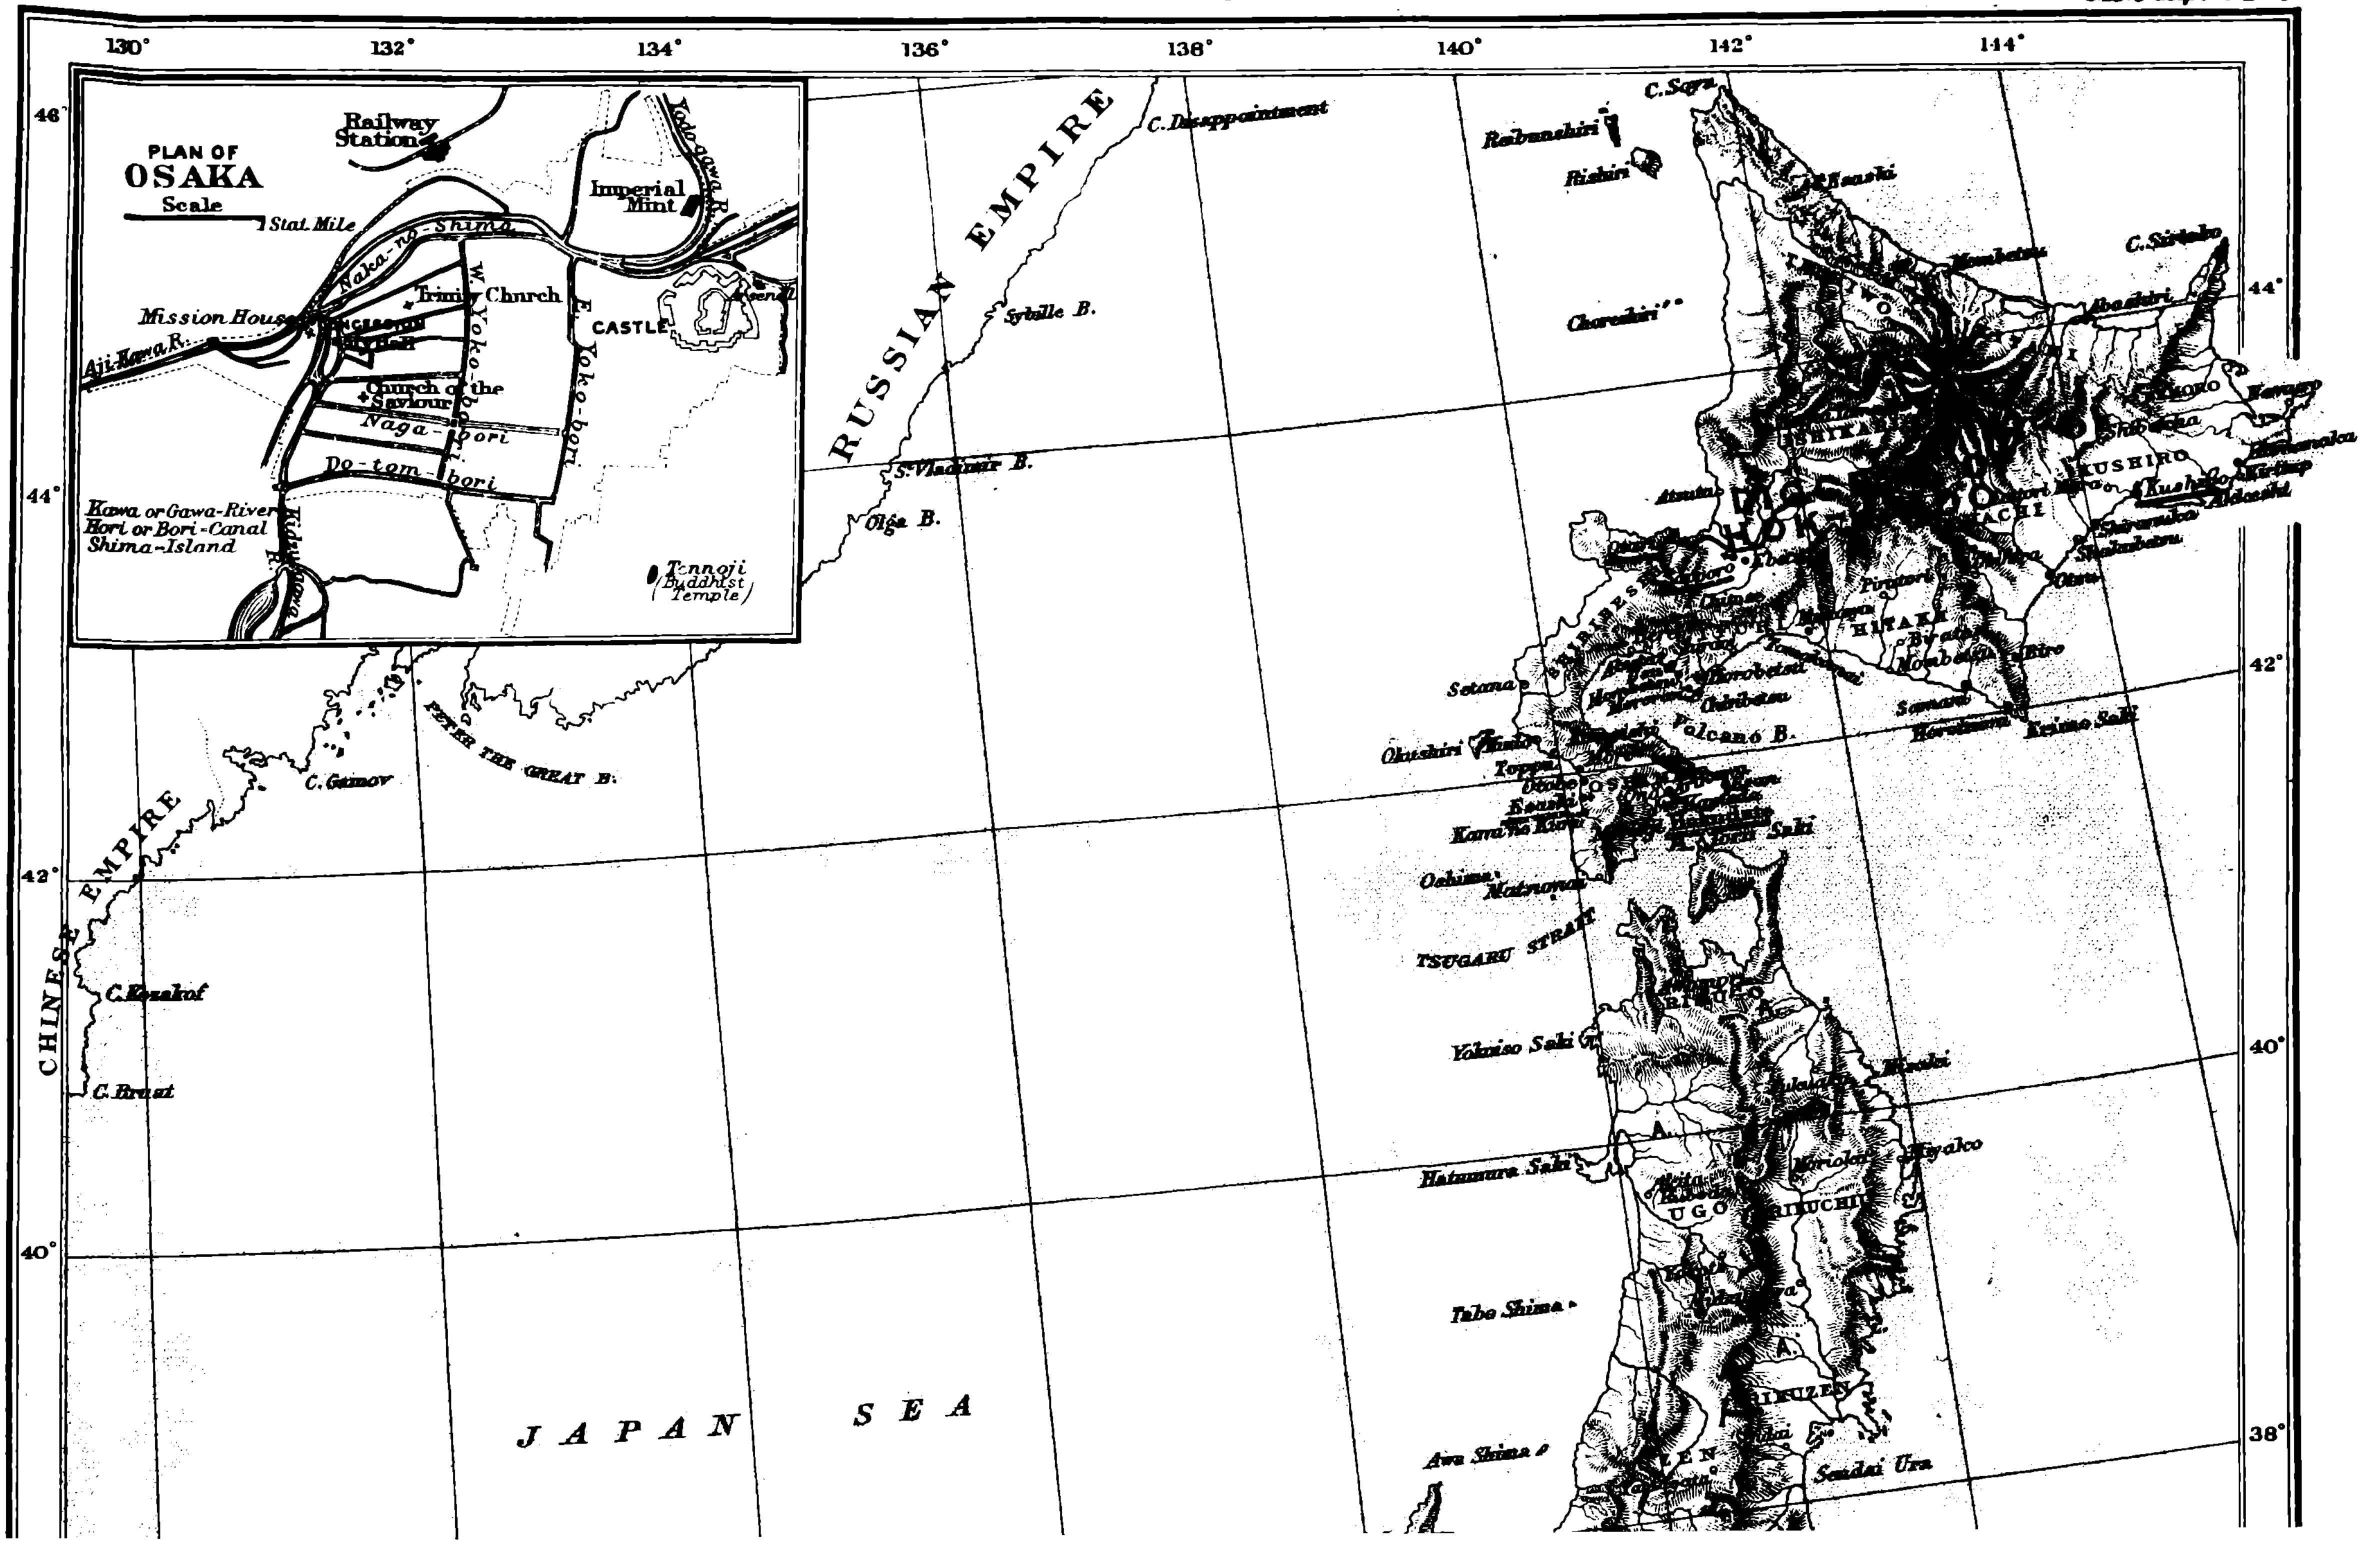
Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hickman had several encouragements at SHI-TSUEN-HSIEN during the year, for which the former expresses much thankfulness. A fellow missionary, in the person of Miss L. S. Digby, joined them in March, 1898; they were successful in renting and getting possession of a house within the city; and, best of all, two converts were baptized, the first fruits of the Mission. The first convert was the old woman mentioned last year as having broken her meritorious fast of fifty years and cast aside her idols. She was baptized on Whit-Sunday by the Rev. O. M. Jackson. The second was also mentioned last year, namely, the man whom Mr. Hickman was instrumental in curing of the opium habit. This man, named Ho, was baptized by Bishop Cassels in the autumn, and at the same time both the converts were confirmed. Mr. Hickman's language teacher, a Confucian graduate, was reading for baptism at the beginning of 1898. Mr. and Mrs. Hickman had previously for more than two years occupied part of an inn. A former teacher, Mr. Tuan, a graduate, offered to lease them a house near the north gate of the city, and this was taken possession of in July. Sundry changes and repairs had to be made to render it suitable for a Mission house, halls for preaching and for guests (male and female) having to be provided. This work took three months, and at the end of October the house was solemnly dedicated by Bishop Cassels. Saturday, the 30th, was observed by the missionaries as a Quiet Day. On Sunday, the 31st, the convert already mentioned was baptized at the morning service and confirmed with the other convert in the afternoon. Then on Monday, All Saints' Day, occurred "the Chinese opening." Mr. Hickman says:— Shi-Tsuen-Hsien. First baptisms. A Confucian graduate inquirer. New Mission house dedicated.

> I had known for some time before that they intended presenting me with a large banner of congratulation; indeed, I had already been consulted about it; at the same time, I was not supposed to have any idea of such a thing. Native congratulations.

As I saw the banner and scroll before they were presented, so I may as well tell you what they were like before I tell you about the presentation. The groundwork of the banner was a long piece of nice red serge about twelve feet long by two and a half wide, with large black velvet characters about twelve inches high, also a lot of small black velvet characters. There was a deep fringe of green satin at the top, with two large green satin streamers with tri-coloured silk tassels; with the banner is a pair of beautiful red satin scrolls. The inscription on the banner is as follows:—"In the twenty-third year of the Emperor Kuang Hsu, on the eighteenth day of the tenth moon, the citizens of Stone Fountain and friends offer most hearty congratulations to the English teacher, Mr. J. A. Hickman; (your) holy religion (is) exceedingly glorious, Sheu-Kiao-chang-ming." The last words were done in four large black velvet characters. After breakfast on All Saints' Day, the Bishop and I put on our dress hats and boots, &c., and went into our best Chinese guest-room to await the presentation. We had not to wait long ere we heard the boom of the cannon in the distance, announcing that the procession had started on its way to the "Fuh in Tang"; then we heard the band of music getting nearer and nearer; then the boom of the cannon at the guest door. The Bishop and I then advanced to receive those who were to make the presentation. The doors were thrown open; we invited them into the guest-hall; but before we could get into the guest-hall the chief men of the party brought the banner carried by two soldiers, amid the fearful din of endless crackers, and presented it in the name of the citizens and friends of Mr. Hickman on the opening of the new hall for the preaching of the Gospel. At the same time scrolls and lovely flowers were given, besides two long red silk scarfs, which were tied, one on the Bishop and the other on myself, after the manner deacons wear their stoles. We then invited the guests, who had come in their full dress, with buttons, &c., to take tea and cakes; then followed short speeches, all of the purely Oriental kind too flowery to put into plain English. Before this was at an end, we heard the cannon again boom in the distance; this was to let us know that the people on our street were making a separate presentation of scrolls, &c.; they too presented both the Bishop and me with a long red silk scarf each, and tied it on in the same manner as the first party, except that they tied it over the other shoulder, and so formed a cross of the red silk scarfs; the same kind of speech-making, the same kind of tea-drinking, &c., and then the opening was over. Hundreds of people came to see the presentation besides those who had contributed to the fund. Altogether there were over 12,000 cash given in sums of 100 cash and upwards. The Principal of the Government College was among those who sent scrolls. It was enough to make our hearts go up in praise and thanksgiving to see the way the hearts of the people have been changed towards us during the last year or so.

"Your holy religion is exceedingly glorious."

A banner presented in the name of the citizens.



A wonderful change.

Readers who will refer to the Annual Report for 1893-94, and read of the protracted and renewed difficulties which Mr. Horsburgh experienced in the opening months of the Mission to obtain houses in any of the cities of Si-chuan, will recognize that Mr. Hickman had abundant ground for praise for the truly wonderful change wrought in the people's hearts. The attendance at the meetings subsequently was excellent. The one thing needed, Mr. Hickman says, is the power of the Holy Spirit.

JAPAN MISSION.

For 230 years, in consequence of the political intrigues of the Jesuit missionaries in the sixteenth century, Japan was absolutely closed to the outer world. In 1853 the long-sealed empire began to open to European influences, and since that time the country has made most extraordinary progress in the adoption of Western civilization. Still more recent is the toleration now fully accorded to Christian effort. In 1889 a new constitution, formed somewhat on the lines of that of our own land, was promulgated. At the first General Election under this constitution, held in 1890, fourteen Christians were elected to seats in the House of Representatives; and a Christian was subsequently appointed Speaker.

American missionaries arrived in 1859, but for several years they could do scarcely any direct evangelistic work. In 1869, just after the wonderful revolution which restored power to the Mikado, the first C.M.S. missionary landed at Nagasaki. He also could only use quiet and indirect methods of making known the Gospel, and the few converts vouchsafed to his labours were baptized secretly. Since 1874 the Mission has been gradually extended and strengthened. In HONDO, the Main Island, Osaka and Tokio were occupied in 1874; Gifu, 1890; Fukuyama and Matsuye, 1891; Hiroshima and Toyohashi, 1896; Nagoya, previously worked by the Wycliffe College, Toronto, Mission, became a C.M.S. station in 1896. In SHIKOKU, Tokushima was occupied in 1888. In KIU-SHIU, Nagasaki was occupied in 1869; Kumamoto and Fukuoka, 1888; Oita, 1894; and Kagoshima, 1895. In HOKKAIDO, Hakodate was occupied in 1874; Kushiro, 1889; and Sapporo, 1892; Otaru, 1897.

Arrangements were made by Archbishop Tait for the establishment of an English Bishopric in Japan, and Archbishop Benson nominated the Rev. A. W. Poole, C.M.S. Missionary in South India, to be the first Bishop. He was consecrated October 18th, 1883. But in the mysterious providence of God he was permitted to labour for a few months only; he died in July, 1885. He was succeeded by Bishop Edward Bickersteth, of the Cambridge Delhi Mission, son of the Bishop of Exeter. In 1893, the Committee undertook, on the invitation of Bishop Bickersteth, to support two new Bishops for the southern and northern Islands respectively. Accordingly, on March 4th, 1894, and on June 29th, 1896, the Rev. H. Evington and the Rev. P. K. Fyson, C.M.S. missionaries of twenty and twenty-two years' experience in this Mission, were consecrated, the former Bishop of Kiu-shiu, and the latter Bishop of Hokkaido. Soon afterwards Bishop Bickersteth agreed with Bishop M'Kim, of the American Episcopal Church, upon a division of the main island into the Dioceses of North and South Tokio, Kyoto, and Osaka. Bishop Awdry was appointed to the Diocese of Osaka in 1896, and transferred to South Tokio on the death of Bishop Bickersteth in 1897.

IN the section of the Report dealing with China some of the consequences of the Chino-Japanese War on the history of that country have been adverted to, and especially the consequences affecting its relations with the European nations. The consequences to Japan also become every year increasingly perceptible, and these also have a manifest effect on its foreign relations. During the year under review the financial problems resulting from the heavily enhanced public expenditure were the most in evidence. During the tenth session of the Japanese Diet, which closed in March, 1897, in the course of the seventy-five hours which represented the aggregate period of the sittings—namely, thirty days, with an average time of sitting not exceeding two and a half hours—no fewer than 112 Bills were passed into law; and these included projects of law for the adoption of gold monometallism, for granting freedom to the Press, for a general tariff and Budget providing for expenditures of unprecedented magnitude, as well as for extensive schemes of military and naval expansion! Special committees had well considered the several subjects, and Parliament as a body did little more than hear and endorse their recommendations. A debate of eight hours' duration sufficed for passing through all its stages a drastic scheme of currency reform, namely, the adoption of a gold in lieu of a silver standard; for although, after the fall of feudalism, Japan in 1871 professedly adopted a gold standard, it had come in practice to be silver monometallic, the Treasury notes being redeemable in the cheaper metal. The ratio of silver to gold in the coinage of 1871 was 16–17 to 1, but in 1897 the ratio of the two metals in the bullion market was 32 to 1 approximately. Japan's financiers therefore decided on effecting the change by simply halving the original gold unit, leaving the silver equivalents unchanged. The unit adopted in 1871 was 1·5 grammes of pure gold, and the coin was called a yen—a term conveying simply the meaning "circular," equivalent to a little over four shillings. This was divided into 100 sen, the sen into 10 rin, and the rin into 10 mon. Now the 1 yen gold piece has disappeared, the lowest being 5 yen, with a value somewhat over ten shillings, the yen representing half its value in 1871. The indemnity received and anticipated from China supplied the gold reserve which was needed to make this change. And the leading motive for it may with tolerable certainty be conjectured; namely, the desire to place Japan within immediate reach of the stores of cheap capital awaiting investment in Europe. It was believed that were their public securities changed to a gold basis, Western capitalists would eagerly purchase them.

Adoption of a gold standard.

Necessity for a foreign loan.

The need for the help of foreign capital arises from two causes: the vast and sudden increase of outlay on account of naval and army expansion; and the absorption of the home capital in the no less vast and sudden expansion of commercial and industrial enterprises. An extraordinary State outlay, amounting to 435¼ million yen, has been sanctioned, the assets to meet which, including the indemnity and past accumulations of surplus, amount to 300 million yen. In the endeavour to effect a loan to meet the deficit the Treasury found itself under the necessity of obtaining capital from abroad.

Japan not ennobled by its material progress.

What end is designed by the All-wise Disposer of events in the successive Providences tending to bring into ever new and closer relations the vast populations of the Far East, naturally so self-satisfied and exclusive, with those of the West, Christians cannot doubt. Material benefits alone are sought for and desired, but the outstretched hand may receive ere it is aware the true riches. Let Japan be examined in 1897, when the Empress Dowager died on January 11th, and in 1849, when she became the consort of the late Emperor; and let the question be asked, what elements of a solid, enduring, and ennobling character has that country acquired in the marvellous transmutations which the interval has brought to pass? Her industrial activities give no satisfactory reply. In the debates on the Guilds Bill in the two Houses of the Japanese Parliament both Government delegates and private Members preferred a crushing indictment against the frauds of native manufacturers. Her educational system, which is the very foundation of Japan's modern civilization, affords no answer which can be considered more favourable. It is, by the confession of the Prime Minister, non-religious and utilitarian, and its effects, as witnessed to by Mrs. Isabella Bishop, are that its educated youths are mostly Agnostics, with a morality that is loose and low. The answer must be sought in the effects wrought by God through the labours of missionaries, against whom, in 1849, the repressive edicts of the Shogunate were in force, and for many years afterwards the Imperial notification ran, "The evil sect called Christian is strictly prohibited." In 1897, according to a table compiled by the Rev. H. Loomis, of Yokohama, agent of the American Bible Society in Japan, there were 233 male and 223 unmarried female missionaries in Japan, and the adult Church membership was 40,578, who contributed 81,551 yen, while 3,062 adults were baptized in 1897. What characteristics some of these converts are manifesting, and what hope they afford of being a holy leaven in the midst of a corrupt mass, the following pages will afford some indication.

Its youths Agnostic.

Christian statistics.

One who was privileged to see a considerable expansion of the Church's sphere of opportunity in Japan was taken to his rest in 1897. When Bishop Bickersteth entered on his work in Japan in 1886 all the C.M.S. missionaries were residing at the treaty ports of Nagasaki, Osaka, Tokio, and Hakodate; they are now found at sixteen other places more or less remote from the treaty ports, making a total of twenty stations which form so many bases for operations in the surrounding districts. Bishop Edward Bickersteth rejoiced at the new openings, and did more probably than any other man to lead the home Church to go in and possess them. It was his active initiation which led to the successive subdivisions of the diocese over which he went out to preside in 1886, after seven years given to founding the Cambridge Delhi Mission. Kiu-shiu and Hokkaido were first cut off and placed under new bishops. Then in co-operation with Bishop M'Kim, he divided the Main Island and Shikoku into four dioceses, of which he himself took South Tokio, Bishop Awdry was appointed to Osaka, and the other two were assigned to the Protestant Episcopal Church of America. It

Death of Bishop Bickersteth.

His influence on the progress of Episcopalian Missions in Japan was due, again, to his wise direction that the "Nippon Sei-Kokwai," or "Japan Church," was formed, which unites in one ecclesiastical organization all the congregations connected with the Anglican Communion in Japan. Bishop Bickersteth came to England at the beginning of 1897, earlier than he had intended, suffering from an attack of dysentery, contracted while visiting the C.M.S. Mission stations at Gifu and Nagoya in his diocese. His health made sufficient progress for him to venture to attend the early meetings of the Lambeth Conference, but increasing weakness compelled him to withdraw, and when pneumonia supervened his enfeebled constitution was not able to rally. He died on August 5th, and was buried at Chisledon, near Swindon, the service being jointly taken by the Bishops of Kiu-shiu, Osaka, and Tokio, and the Bishop of Salisbury. The beautiful hymn, "Peace, perfect peace," written by his father, the Bishop of Exeter, which has comforted so many mourners, while expressing at the same time the victory of their faith, was sung at the graveside. The Committee of the C.M.S. passed the following Resolution:—

The Committee's Minute.

That the Committee learn with much regret of the death of the Right Rev. Edward Bickersteth, Bishop of the Church of England in South Tokio, Japan. They recall with thankfulness to God the devotion and missionary zeal which characterized the late Bishop's life and ministry. His visitations of the Mission stations, accomplished often at an expenditure of no small measure of physical fatigue, were ever occasions of deep spiritual profit and enjoyment to the Society's missionaries and native agents. His sympathy and interest in all the problems and difficulties, as well as the joys and successes, of the work, made the bond between him and them a very close and warm one. He was mainly instrumental in organizing the Nippon Sei-Kokwai, or "Japan Church"; to his initiative and energy also was due, in conjunction with the American Bishop, Dr. M'Kim, the formation of the dioceses of Kiu-shiu and Hokkaido, and the division of the Main Island into four episcopal jurisdictions, to receive, pending the attainment of maturity by the Native Church, two Bishops from the American Church and two from the Church of England. That the Secretaries be instructed to express the Committee's deep sympathy with the widow of the late Bishop, and also to assure the Bishop of Exeter, his honoured father, their old and true friend, of their respectful and affectionate sorrow with him in the bereavement which, in God's Providence, he has been called to bear.

Bishop Awdry succeeds to South Tokio.

Bishop Awdry, of the Osaka diocese, was appointed in the autumn of 1897 to succeed Bishop Bickersteth in South Tokio, and no appointment has been made to fill the vacancy thus created in the diocese of Osaka.

The Nippon Sei-Kokwai sends a Japanese missionary to Formosa.

The Nippon Sei-Kokwai, which Bishop Bickersteth was so largely instrumental in forming, decided upon an important step at the beginning of 1897. The Deudô Kwaisha, or Missionary Society of the "Japan Church," at a meeting held at Tsakiji under the presidency of Bishop M'Kim, decided to send a missionary to Formosa, and at a meeting of the Bishops held at Tokio on February 4th and 5th, when Bishops M'Kim, Evington, Awdry, and Fyson were present, it was agreed that Bishop Awdry should have the episcopal oversight of the new work to be undertaken and the agents employed therein. Subsequently the Rev. D. T. Terata, one of the Japanese clergymen on the C.M.S. list who was working at Hiroshima, was invited to become the leader of the Mission. He was for this purpose admitted to priest's orders by Bishop Awdry on November 30th in the C.M.S. Divinity School-chapel at Osaka, Bishop M'Kim also taking part in the service.

Devotional Gatherings.

A gathering for study and prayer, called in Japan a "Summer School," was held for C.M.S. clergy and catechists at Muya, an out-station of Tokushima, on the Island of Shikoku, in July, 1897. Over seventy workers from the dioceses of Osaka, South Tokio, and Kiu-shiu were present. The regular daily programme was as follows:—6.30 a.m., shortened Morning Prayer; 9 a.m., two prepared papers on subjects connected with the Thirty-nine Articles; 7.30 p.m., addresses and discussion on various kinds of Mission work. In addition to these regular meetings, informal gatherings for Bible-reading, exhortation, and prayer were held out of doors in a quiet spot under the trees. These were almost all conducted by the Rev. W. P Buncombe. On Sunday (11th), at 9 a.m., Holy Communion was administered, and Mr. Buncombe preached; at 7.30 p.m. there was Evening Prayer, with a sermon by Mr. K. Nakamura. The papers on the Thirty-nine Articles were as follows:—(1) Main Purpose and Character of the Thirty-nine Articles (Revs. H. McC. E. Price and S. M. Koba); (2) The Rule of Faith (Revs. J. B. Brandram and J. T. Ko); (3) The Sacraments (Revs. G. Chapman and T. Makioka); (4) The Ministry (Rev. J. C. Robinson); (5) Sin and Salvation (Rev. W. P. Buncombe and Mr. S. Ushijima). The subjects and speakers at the evening meetings were:—(1) Mission Work in Cities (Rev. M. Tomita and Mr. N. Fukada); (2) Country Mission Work (Messrs. B. Koga and K. Masuda); (3) Itinerating Mission Work (general discussion). On the 14th a holiday excursion was made in boats to Naruto.

Reinforcements.

The reinforcements sent out from England and the Colonies were the following:—The Rev. Frederick William Rowlands, B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge, sometime Curate of St. Barnabas, Birmingham, son of the Rev. W. E. Rowlands, Rector of Bonchurch, Isle of Wight, formerly missionary in Ceylon, and brother of the Rev. H. F. Rowlands, of the Punjab Mission; the Rev. Arthur Lea, M.A., University of Toronto, sent out by the Canada C.M. Association, and Mrs. Lea; Miss Mary Brownlow, daughter of General Brownlow, of Gypsy Hill, a member of the C.M.S. Committee; Miss Clara Law Burnside, daughter of the Rev. H. Burnside, one of the early pioneers in this Mission; Miss Alice Mary Hughes; and Miss Alice Roberts. The last four were trained at "The Willows." All sailed in October, 1897. Dr. W. W. Colborne and Mrs. Colborne were transferred on grounds of health to this Mission from the South China Mission, and sailed from England, where they were taking furlough, in November.

The Rev. and Mrs. S. Swann and Mrs. Edmonds have resigned their connexion with the Society for family reasons.

Diamond Jubilee Service at Tokio.

On June 20th, 1897, a special Thanksgiving Service for the Queen's Diamond Jubilee was held at St. Andrew's Church, Tokio. Almost every British resident in the capital, from the Chargé d'Affaires down to the least significant, attended. The Emperor of Japan was represented; and amongst the congregation were members of other nationalities. Archdeacon Shaw, Chaplain to the British Legation, preached from Prov. xiv. 34.

I. DIOCESE OF OSAKA.

Archdeacon and Mrs. C. F. Warren came home on account of Mrs. Warren's state of health in July, 1897, and returned to the Mission in March, 1898. The duties of the Secretaryship were discharged during the Archdeacon's absence by the Rev. H. McC. E. Price.

Ordination.

Bishop Awdry admitted Messrs. Nuroki, Ushijima, Fukada, and Matsui to deacons' orders on January 9th, 1898, at Osaka.

Conference at Osaka.

Bishop Awdry presided at a joint conference of the Osaka and South Tokio Dioceses, which were held in Osaka from February 19th to 24th. Among the subjects discussed were "Special Missions to Christians and to non-Christians," "How to Promote Reverence in Places of Worship." The Rev. W. P. Buncombe gave an address on "The Holy Spirit" at a devotional meeting in the course of the Conference Services, at which many of the non-Episcopalian missionaries of Osaka were present by invitation.

OSAKA.

Osaka.

The four young men whom Bishop Awdry admitted to deacons' orders in January, 1898, were all graduates of the Divinity School, Osaka, and the Rev. McC. E. Price says they had all proved faithful workers. He regards the fact of their call to the ministry as one of great encouragement and full of hope for the future of the Native Church. The Rev. G. Chapman has temporary charge of the Divinity School. The Boys' Boarding School at Momoyama, outside the Concession, remained under Mr. Price's supervision as Principal, but the work was mainly carried on by the Rev. W. R. Gray, the Vice-Principal, Mr. F. E. Hamond, and the native staff during Mr. Price's temporary appointment as acting Secretary. Two of the students entered the Divinity School. Mr. Price often hears from former pupils. Many of them are settled in Tokio, and some of these are promoting the formation of an association of old Momoyama pupils at the capital, hoping thereby to exercise a Christian influence and to clinch the good impressions made on the students during their school life. One of the senior pupils, a Christian, left the school to visit Germany for the purpose of acquiring certain technical knowledge requisite for his future line of life. The Students' Y.M.C.A., which Mr. J. R. Mott, of the World's Students' Federation, organized at the close of 1896, holds its meetings weekly with a fair attendance. Dr. Handley Moule's Commentary on the Epistle to the Romans was the subject of study during one of the terms. Daily instruction, with exhortation, is given at morning prayers in addition to the time appointed in the school syllabus for such instruction. This was commenced by Mr. Gray with Mr. Price's hearty concurrence, and he believes he sees an increase of reverence and of reality on the part of the Christian students since the practice was adopted, and also a desire on the part of some of the non-Christians for further teaching. Four students were under instruction for baptism at the end of 1897. Mr. Hamond had a class of four students from a large Agricultural School who came to him for the purpose of studying St. Mark's Gospel in English, and they manifested real interest in the truths revealed, though finding the miracles a difficulty. Mr. Gray, at the close of his first year, acknowledges that he felt some disappointment at finding the contrast between the conditions of work at home and in Japan so wide as it proved to be. He says:—

Students' Y.M.C.A.

Contrast between work at home and in Japan.

The missionary publications, as well as the personal statements and letters of missionaries at home, most naturally present the brightest aspect of what must always in reality be a dark picture, except to the far-seeing eye of faith; for it is the picture of a world lying in darkness, in the false security of the "palace of the strong man armed," with here and there, it is true, a ray of hope, some brighter spot, some oasis in the desert, where "the parched ground has become a pool, and the thirsty lands a spring of water." This being so, some slight feeling of disappointment on first becoming acquainted with the reality of things in a heathen land is hardly to be wondered at. Face to face with actual work, however, one learns to accept facts as they are, and, seeing beneath the surface of things, to be grateful to God for revelations of His love and omnipotence already granted; and although neither Christian students nor the average professing Christian of the average Japanese Church in any way realize the expectations formed while in England, either as to their moral and spiritual standard, or their intellectual attainments, yet I am daily becoming cognizant of the unmistakable signs of divine working in the hearts and lives of our Japanese fellow-believers, who have been called out of pitiable superstition and indifference into a light of spiritual freedom, so brilliant as at first perhaps to dazzle them. I have learnt during this past year that a work of the Spirit in a man's heart is not the less real for being not visible to a superficial observer, and so am daily led to hope and pray for a national acknowledgment of the claims of Jesus in the years to come in a country where hopeful signs are generally admitted at present to be conspicuous by their absence.

It must, however, be said that the Society's publications, including its Annual Reports, almost invariably publish whatever the missionaries write on the dark and disappointing side of the work, as the Committee's desire is that all the facts may, so far as possible, be grasped by the praying friends of the Society. At any rate, Mr. Gray's disappointment really means that he finds the need of Japan in comparison with parishes at home far greater than he had conceived it to be; and he, being the son of a missionary and of a C.M.S. Secretary, had exceptional opportunities of knowing the actual facts. The Bishop Poole Memorial Girls' School, under Miss K. A. S. Tristram, had a prosperous year. The number of girls went up from eighty to ninety-six. Several of the native staff of teachers are old pupils, and all except one are Christians. On Christmas Day, 1897, the mathematical master of the school was baptized. This man some years ago used to frequent the preaching places to intercept and oppose. Conversations and Bible study with one of the students of the Divinity School, now a catechist, greatly impressed him. This, however, was a long time since, and he was regarded by many of the workers as having heard so long without deciding as to be almost beyond hope. What brought him to decision was the change wrought by Divine Grace in his wife's character since her baptism, and the wonderful way in which her bad temper disappeared. Nine of the pupils of the school were also baptized, most of them being the first members of their several families to enter the Church. Miss Tristram notices in some of these girl-converts so marked a change of expression that it is almost difficult to believe they are the same girls. She gives some interesting particulars regarding two of them:—

The need of light bearers.

Girl converts.

One of the girls, who was baptized on Christmas Day, was led to this school in a curious way. Her brother having failed in some examination was greatly disappointed, and when he tried again prayed to the one true God, of whose existence somehow he had heard, though he knew nothing more. He passed his examination, and his sister was determined to go to some school where she could learn about the God of such power. There was great opposition at home to her coming, but, as she said, she went on praying till God took away all the hindrances and she was free to come here, her relations gladly consenting. If there is one fact more than another that she has taken in with her whole heart, it is that God hears her prayers, and one sees the effect in a growingly bright Christian life.

A Bible student.

Another girl of about fourteen, who was baptized in September, came to me early this month, as she had often done before, to ask for some explanations of parts in the Bible she did not understand. I found her at Revelation, and suggested that she should first study well some of the earlier and easier parts of the New Testament. But she had gone, she said, straight through, beginning with the Gospels, since the summer, and now had come to this book, and I found that she had a very fair knowledge of what she had been reading. She is now beginning at Genesis. For a few weeks, however, she has not been coming to ask anything, but last Sunday appeared again to know when I could help her. She knew I had been extra busy with baptism and confirmation preparation classes, so had not liked to come, but she had a number of places marked to ask me about. I have been struck not only by her earnest Bible-study, but her thoughtfulness for others, which has come out in this and in many other ways.

Correspondence is kept up with old pupils, and much cheer and encouragement is derived by the workers from reports which reach them of the usefulness and happiness in Christ's service of many of them. Of one Miss Tristram writes:—

A Japanese heiress elects to engage in Mission work.

One old pupil, the daughter of a wealthy merchant who had been a missionary's helper in the country for two years, lost her father a few weeks ago. She was the heiress, and we felt almost certain that the relations, assembled for the funeral and settling the affairs, would insist on a heathen marriage for her, as she is the only Christian in the family. They did their best, but she held firm, told them she wished to return to her Mission work, and in the end won the day. Considering the position of women here, and the wonderful power of "relations" in deciding even the small affairs of life, it seems little short of a miracle that she should be left free for this work. How long it will be for one cannot say, but we are intensely thankful for this, and that she has shown such strength of purpose, and probably when the question of marriage does come up again she will have some say in it. Meantime she is a most valuable and efficient worker.

On the other hand, some disappointments are mentioned. Two of the former pupils were married to heathen husbands. One of them came to reside near the school and died after a weary illness, and Miss Tristram believes she did return in simple faith and penitence to the Saviour, and after her death her husband began to attend church; the other was the means of leading her husband to Christ, and he became a candidate for baptism. Miss E. S. Fox was chiefly occupied in language study, but she gave some time to teaching in the school. An English Bible-class with the elder girls gave her much joy. Miss R. D. Howard (now at home) assists Miss Boulton in the charge of the Bible-Women's Home. Four students were admitted, and two passed out to engage in work, one at Hiroshima, the other in Osaka. Miss Howard states that in view of the approach of the period (July, 1899) fixed by the Treaty of 1894 for the opening of the interior of Japan to foreigners, the desire of almost all classes to learn English is such that the missionaries are beset with applications to give lessons. She herself had Bible-classes for students, doctors, telegraph clerks, and others in English and Japanese. One of these pupils, the principal of a public school, confessed his faith in baptism on Christmas Day, 1897, in spite of the opposition of family and friends. Evangelistic Efforts were engaged in more or less by all the agents and by the students in the Divinity class and the Bible-women's Home. Special meetings were organized in the different churches for the Heathen. In October meetings were held for six days in succession in the Church of the Saviour, and the district around was well visited beforehand, with the result that the meetings were well attended, many houses were opened for subsequent visiting, and several inquirers came forward. The Rev. T. Makioka's work was chiefly evangelistic, and by him and others preaching was carried on daily at one or other of the four preaching places in Osaka. The most fruitful of the evangelistic efforts of the year under review were those in which Miss Hamilton, of the Female Education Society, and Mr. Matsuda, head teacher of the Bishop Poole Girls' School, engaged among the policemen. With the permission of the Head Inspector, Miss Hamilton commenced classes for English, followed by a Bible lesson, in the spring of 1896. As that year drew to a close an effort was made to bring the men to a decision, and they were invited to meet the Rev. B. H. Terasawa, the pastor of Holy Trinity Church, and from ten to fifteen did so daily for a time, and eight of them decided to become followers of the Lord Jesus Christ. More than twenty of these policemen were baptized during 1897.

Twenty policemen baptized.

Miss B. J. Allen, of Nagasaki, during a visit to Osaka in the summer of 1897, went to see some of the temples. She thus describes one of them, the Tennoji:—

A Buddhist chapel to the memory of dead children.

> One chapel is dedicated to the memory of dead children. Everything there speaks of the lost darlings. The interior of the temple is piled with dolls, toys, bibs, pinafores, little geta (the Japanese clogs used instead of shoes); even the bell-rope is made of tiny children's garments, all of which have been brought by some mother with an aching heart, who sorrows indeed "as those that have no hope." There was no pause in the sad procession during the short time I stood there watching; one after another the poor women came and knelt before the shrine, while for a small fee the old priest murmured a prayer to Buddha and tolled the bell, which is supposed to help the little spirit to pass into the Buddhist Paradise. But there was no ray of light in the desolate mothers' faces as they turned to leave, only the dull resignation of despair.

Congregations.

The five Congregations connected with the Mission in Osaka receive the converts made by the evangelistic efforts into their communion. The Rev. T. Makioka is the presbyter in charge of St. Peter's; the Rev. B. H. Terasawa is in charge of Holy Trinity, as already mentioned; the Rev. S. M. Koba supervises the work in connexion with the Church of the Saviour; a lay pastor, Mr. Hori, labours in connexion with the Church of the Resurrection, under Mr. Price's supervision as presbyter-in-charge; and the Rev. Matsui, one of the new deacons, continues to labour in connexion with Jonan Church, also under Mr. Price's superintendence. The couple whose baptism Mr. Price mentioned in last year's Report (page 372) continue to be faithful members of the Jonan congregation, and their whole household is now Christian, their aged mother and adopted daughter having been baptized during the year. Mr. Price, writing in January, 1898, mentioned another interesting convert who was baptized in December:—

> He is a man of about forty years of age, and heard about Christianity first some twenty years ago from the Roman Catholics. He was to have been baptized, but before his baptism took place he seems to have left his teachers, and for some years lived a worldly life. Once in a quarrel he shot his uncle in the arm, and for this he was kept for some time in confinement awaiting trial. Whilst in prison he received from an acquaintance a copy of the Scriptures, and studied them a good deal. It was not, however, till last spring, when a friend brought him to hear some special preachings at the Jonan Church, that he received the Word and kept it. He was baptized a short time ago with much joy, and his wife is (D.V.) to be baptized in a few days.

Women's meetings.

Miss Howard held meetings for women connected with three of the above congregations. She writes:—

One woman I have been visiting lately was married more than a year ago to an engineer on board a steamer; since then he has only been home three times for a day or two each time, so she is always alone, and remarked sadly, "I have hardly become acquainted with my husband yet," as, of course, they were comparative strangers when they married. Christianity has indeed put new life into her. She was baptized this month, to her great joy and thankfulness.

It is intensely interesting to watch the gradual opening of the mind to the truth. One feels, indeed, as if one were on holy ground. Sometimes I am afraid to speak, lest I should in any way hinder the manifest working of the Spirit, and can only pray that hindrances may be removed and the light of the Gospel shed abroad in the heart.

HIROSHIMA.

Hopeless problems.

The Rev. J. Williams gives expression to some opinions he has formed on the sociological and political condition of Japan, which, after over twenty years in the country, he is entitled to do. The staple food of the country, rice, is four times the price it was selling at when he first went out in 1874, while the wages have generally only about doubled, and in the case of the class of smaller officials, their pay has not advanced even to that extent. The mass of the people are, he says, in a state of chronic poverty. Politically, the problems which exercise the minds of the more thoughtful are "how to graft new systems on to the old; how to enjoy constitutional ideals without giving up the figment of the Emperor's divinity; how to have the results of Christianity without Christianity itself." He refers to the loss HIROSHIMA has sustained by the going of the Rev. D. T. Terata to Formosa as a missionary of the Japan Church Missionary Society. There were six adult baptisms. One of these was a soldier, whose tone and manner as he answered to the baptismal questions showed, Mr. Williams says, that he realized something of the nature of the conflict to which he pledged himself. Several non-commissioned officers attend classes for English and Bible study, and the ladies, Miss A. Sander and Miss A. C. Bosanquet, visit the military and naval hospital. An interesting correspondence was maintained with some of the Kempei, or armed police, sent to Formosa, and some of these men, in daily peril as they are from the savage tribes of that island, found comfort and strength, Miss Bosanquet was informed, in reading the Bibles and other books sent to them. The ladies were encouraged by the openings for Work among Women and Children; the former were more accessible and more appreciative than in their first year among them (1896). They see a change in many of the children, some eighty in number attending the Sunday-schools. Miss Sander went out to neighbouring villages with a Bible-woman to hold children's and women's meetings. In one of these villages, which had the reputation of being very wicked, the men could not be kept out of the meetings, and some asked thoughtful questions which showed some measure of earnestness.

Miss H. S. Jackson remained at Fukuyama after Mrs. Edmonds left to come home in April, 1897. She found abundant opportunities for work. During the month of June no fewer than 864 women and girls and 182 men and boys visited the Mission house, most of whom were non-Christians, and Miss Jackson and her Bible-woman were welcomed by the inmates of a large number of houses. She writes:—

Seed-sowing at Fukuyama

Much of our work is seed-sowing—proportionately little reaping that can be seen by an outsider's eye—and yet there is continual encouragement and opportunity for praise to Him who is blessing our efforts, and through the working of whose gracious Spirit some souls are coming to the light. We, indeed, only sow and plant, but God giveth the increase. Some who have heard only a short time seem to spring to the light quite naturally, while others who have heard much longer are left far behind. More and more do I feel also that real prayer is a mighty power, and we have cause to thank God for temptations and persecutions withstood in Christ's name during the year.

In November an eight-days' special evangelistic Mission was conducted in the church. While the weather continued favourable about 400 were present daily at these meetings, who listened attentively and quietly to the consecutive teaching given in the addresses. Regarding the Christian congregation, Miss Jackson says:—

"Backslidden and hidden Christains."

Fukuyama, not less than all churches throughout Japan, has suffered from the anti-Christian wave of feeling which has chilled the enthusiasm and caused despondency to many a worker who remembers former years, and there are backslidden Christians and hidden Christians, which saddens our hearts, but the attendance at church of independent Christians is not decreasing, and those who attend do for the most part give as much as they can be expected to give in monthly subscriptions and weekly collections towards the expenses of the church, which is really larger than is required by the congregation, but is often also useful for special evangelistic meetings.

The work at Fuchiu and at Matsunaga is languishing for want of resident catechists. Both places are visited from Fukuyama from time to time. An earnest catechist is at Tomotsu; he leads a little evangelistic band of fellow Christians to preach in the surrounding villages.

The Misses Sander, Howard, and Jackson spent their summer holidays on an island a few miles from Hiroshima, named Miyajima, the "Temple Island." Miss Bosanquet writes:—

Holidays spent in precincts of Buddhist temple.

We stayed in the house belonging to and adjoining an old Buddhist temple, rich in treasure, standing high above the little town. We heard and saw a good deal of Buddhist rites and ceremonies. The kind old priest and his delightful acolyte often listened to Christian teaching, read our tracts, and willingly accepted New Testaments. There was less opposition than we expected in a place so crowded with Buddhist temples, Shinto shrines, pilgrims, and ancient associations.

And Miss Sander, while on the island, wrote:—

Idols everywhere.

This is a most lovely place, but not very cool. We are the only foreigners. We are living in the "Temple of Pure Light," in the priests' quarters. It is surrounded by beautiful scenery, but the idolatry spoils everything. This temple is 500 years old. There are eight different idols in the temple proper; the principal one, of course, is a Buddha. In the garden, in shrines in the wall, are stone idols; one, with children's clothes hanging round it, is Juzo, who conducts children to the five roads of the next world, and many mothers present their dead children's clothes to it, with prayers for their children's souls. In our sitting-room, too, are shrines with idols, now shut up! Idols everywhere!

HAMADA.

Hamada.

The Rev. H. G. Warren took up his residence at HAMADA in May, 1897, soon after his marriage with Miss McClenaghan, who had resided there with Miss F. M. Fugill since 1895. Work in the district was begun in 1882 by the Rev. H. (now Bishop) Evington, and from that time several missionaries and native clergymen visited Hamada at long intervals, but no clergyman resided there until the Rev. T. Makioka was placed there in 1895. Under these circumstances Mr. Warren was curious to ascertain how the converts baptized from time to time had stood, and he was not surprised to find the record a very sad one. Out of the ninety-eight baptized at Hamada before Mr. Makioka went thither, thirty-nine are known to be still living in the district, of whom twenty-five have lapsed; thirty-four have left the province (Iwami), of whom fifteen have lapsed and nineteen are still faithful; thirteen cannot be traced; and twelve have died. This is certainly a melancholy proof of the essential importance of making provision for the pastoral care of converts. Since Mr. Makioka took up his residence at Hamada the Church has been gradually growing, and no single case of a Christian having lapsed has occurred. Hamada is increasing rapidly in importance. The plain outside the town has been chosen as the site of some large new barracks, which, in the course of 1898, were to be ready for their inmates. Miss Fugill refers in her Annual Letter to quiet Bible readings with men and boys, to knitting meetings for girls, and to Sunday-school work. She says of the children:—

Necessity of providing for pastoral care of converts.

Lovable children.

I do so love the children, they are such dear little things, and so good; they learn so quickly, and know a good deal of the Sermon on the Mount, the Commandments, twenty-third Psalm, 1 Cor. xiii. &c. It is very sweet to see all the little heads bowed to the ground, and to hear them saying the Lord's Prayer.

The out-stations are not very easily worked from Hamada, and none of them has a resident catechist. Gotsu and Omori, to the east, are sixteen and forty miles respectively distant, and Masada and Kurodani are twenty-six and thirty-eight miles to the west. They have to be reached by road, and the whole district is mountainous.

MATSUYE.

Matsuye.

The Rev. B. Fowell Buxton at MATSUYE has the help of a little band of European fellow labourers whose names are not found in the Society's Report. Mr. and Mrs. Paget Wilkes and Miss Froste joined him during the year, and Miss Head and Miss Nash went out some time ago. Mr. Buxton wrote at the close of 1897:—

One more year has passed with its blessings and its trials. For one more year the Lord has been on the throne, expecting till His enemies are made His footstool. For one more year He has been long-suffering, delaying His coming because He is not willing that any should perish, but longs that all should come to repentance and live.

Few entering into life; many dying in darkness.

What have we been doing during this one more year of grace given to a condemned world? We rejoice to have had the privilege of offering forgiveness and life eternal in this large district to multitudes of lost souls. And we are thankful to have seen heavy-laden sinners coming to the cross and accepting pardon and life through the blood of the Lamb. But what are the ones and twos amongst the hundreds of thousands? What are they compared to the multitudes of funerals that are continually passing our doors?

Summoned by telegram to an anxious soul.

He is encouraged, however, to believe that there are true converts hidden from the knowledge of the under-shepherds, but known to the Great Shepherd of the sheep. On one occasion the evangelist at Yonago received a telegram summoning him to baptize a man at Neyu, twenty miles distant. He went, and found the man under deep conviction of sin. He had heard the Gospel preached in his village three or four years before by a lady missionary, but the seed had remained dormant until, after a night of revelry, conscience awoke. Thirty-six were baptized at Yonago during the year, nearly all adults. Among them were representatives of many classes: members of a rich merchant's family, young men in Government service or studying medicine, illiterate villagers, and members of the outcast beggars' community. The workers itinerated in all directions, along the coast, up into the mountains, in the towns and villages of the mainland and of the islands. Altogether fifty-four adults were baptized.

TOKUSHIMA.

Tokushima.

The missionaries at TOKUSHIMA, in the island of Shikoku, were the Revs. G. Chapman and R. H. Consterdine and Miss

E. M. S. Huhold. Mr. Chapman, however, was invited in the summer of 1897 to go to Osaka to take temporary charge of the Divinity Class. Miss Huhold's house is situated in a very poor district of Tokushima, and for a time her work was almost exclusively among that class, a work which is very dear to her. She mentions an old man to whom she had, without knowing him, given a tract; when she met him afterwards he showed her the tract preserved in a paper bag expressly made for it, to keep it from getting torn and soiled, and he said he was reading every day the wonderful news it contained. Latterly, however, Miss Huhold found opportunities of reaching the upper classes. She had supposed it was necessary to get an introduction before calling upon them, but she found by experiment that when she went to their houses, simply telling the ladies that as they had no opportunity of hearing the Gospel she had come to tell them, they were very pleased at her going. Several officials of high rank visit Miss Huhold for lessons in German, French, and English, on the understanding that half the time should be given to Bible study. She says of some of them:—

A tract treasured.

Access to homes of upper classes.

A public prosecutor who comes to me, together with two other judges and the editor of the Tokushima newspaper, to learn German, said to me when he came for the second time, "Please, before we have the German lesson, tell me only this one thing: I no longer doubt that there is a God, but how do you know that this God is Christ?" Gladly I told him why I know that this God is Christ. Another time the same one asked me, "How is it that those who have become Christians in Japan are chiefly lower-class people, and that only a few of the higher-class people have become Christians?" I said, "There are many reasons, but I only will tell you one, which is that the higher-class people have not the same opportunities to hear as the lower-class people. For instance, you yourself would never have heard if you had not come to my house for German." "No," he said, "I should never have heard." Another way in which their interest in the Bible comes out is this: when they first come, though they bring all sorts of German, French, or English books with them for me to read to them, they bring no Bible, expecting that I shall lend them one. And so I do, but, of course, I lend them a Japanese one; soon they get interested in the Bible, and they say, "Oh! we must have the best French, German, or English Bible there is in Japan," and they spare no money, but order themselves most beautiful Bibles from Yokohama, which, of course, they cannot yet read, but hope to be able to do so in a year or two. After again three or four weeks have elapsed, they say, "No, this will never do; we must have a Japanese Bible with us, then we shall be able to understand." And at last they go to our Bible-seller here in Tokushima, and they buy themselves a ten sen Bible. I cannot tell you how I rejoice to see this twopenny Bible appear on the table.

Officials of high rank instructed.

"We must have a Japanese Bible."

The public prosecutor whom I mentioned before, when he had been coming here once a week for about two months, said, "I think it will be with the Bible as with meat. When I was a child, people did scarcely eat any meat in Japan. Everybody in our house hated it, and could not even bear the smell of it. But it was only because we did not know it. Now we like it better than any other food. I think it will be the same with the Bible, for though we have hated Christianity and the Bible, after having come to know it, we shall like the Bible better than any other book."

"We shall like the Bible better than any other book."

"We marvel together."

It is a great pleasure to study the Bible with all these people, and though I cannot yet say we believe together in the Lord, and we love the Lord together, I can say that we marvel together at the great, great things which are written in the Bible.

The "Summer School" held at Muya in July, 1897, has been mentioned above (page 373). Miss Fox visited this out-station from Osaka and spent a fortnight there with a Bible-woman. The Christians of the place took advantage of this visit to arrange a number of evangelistic meetings in different houses.

II. DIOCESE OF SOUTH TOKIO.

THE Rev. and Mrs. C. T. Warren came home in June, 1897; and the Rev. and Mrs. J. M. Baldwin and Miss E. C. Payne arrived in England in May, 1898.

TOKIO.

Tokio.

The Rev. W. P. Buncombe reports "general advance in every branch of the work" at TOKIO and its out-stations. Twenty-five adults and ten children were baptized; and the membership of the congregation rose from 229 (baptized Christians) to 271; and the contributions advanced from 290 to 362 yen. The chief interest of the year's work in Tokio itself centred in the opening of a Mission hall in the Ginza, which is the finest street in the city. Mr. Buncombe thus describes it—the street:—

New Mission hall in main thoroughfare.

It is a broad street with wide pavements, and is lined on either side throughout its length with willow trees. Every night when it is not rough weather the outer part of the pavement on one side of the street is lined with stalls lighted with very varied kinds of lamps. At these stalls are sold articles of every description, from roasted beans to old curios. Here may be bought a suit of clothes, hats, walking sticks, swords, and books, all kinds of vegetables, sweets of course, carpenters' tools, buckets and other household utensils, toys, and quack medicines. Here is a stall where a man is ready to tell your fortune, there is another where another man is getting copper coins with a little peep-show. There is a regular fair, in fact, and this is every night, so there are always crowds of people from all parts, most of whom have nothing else to do but see and hear.

The house contains a preaching hall on the ground floor capable of seating some fifty people, and in this preaching is carried on nearly every evening, with audiences varying between seven and sixty, mostly belonging to the middle classes. After the preaching, those who are interested are invited to go upstairs, where there is a room large enough for a meeting of 100 or 120. Sometimes as many as twenty have adjourned to this room, and have followed with open Testaments the further exposition of the Gospel message. The Rev. H. Woodward, whose chief occupation was language study, took part in these meetings. In April, 1897, Miss Hamilton (F.E.S.), from Osaka, conducted an eight-days' Mission for women in this upper room. The ladies, Miss O. Julius and Miss K. M. Peacocke, find many doors of entrance for work among the women; and Miss A. P. Carr also, while studying the language, was not debarred the privilege now and then of taking a part in the work. Miss Julius paid occasional visits to the Red Cross Hospital in the city, a large and handsome building in European style, which the Empress visits to see the patients two or three times a year. She has a friend among the nurses —a young woman who, in the summer of 1896, before she had passed her examination for entrance to the hospital, visited her saying that she had heard that the best nurses were Christians, and therefore she wished to be taught about Christianity. Miss Julius also went once a week to speak to the children in a school near her house, being asked to do so by the schoolmaster, himself a Heathen. She invited the whole school of thirty children and the master and his family to her house to see lantern-slides of our Lord's life, and was delighted at their intelligent answers to her questions. The mother of one of these children, an advocate's wife, was so grateful for the trouble she took to teach her child about the True God, that she wrote to thank Miss Julius, and invited her to teach herself also, as she wanted to become a follower of Christ. Miss Peacocke and Miss Carr opened a class in the autumn of 1897 for teaching English to a number of policemen, each lesson being followed by Bible instruction. Miss Peacocke states that there are about 100 Christians among the Tokio police, many of whom first heard of Christ at classes for the study of English. The classes were held in the first instance in the house of one of the men, and his wife and daughter also heard the Bible teaching, and the wives of some of the other men were induced to attend a women's meeting. At the beginning of 1898, however, the Inspector of Police requested that the classes should in future be held at the police-station.

The Out-stations are all in Chiba Ken (or county), which lies to the north and east of Tokio Bay. They are Ichikawa, Boshu, Chorki, and Tokaichiba—the two last occupied during the past year. The ken has a population of about 1,100,000, who live mostly in villages and small towns, and very little has been done for their evangelization. Mr. Buncombe, with a little band of itinerants, went about this district in the summer of 1897, and found in a journey of 150 miles only three places besides the C.M.S. out-stations where any work was being carried on, and that on an exceedingly small scale. In October he visited the district again, and held 100 meetings and distributed 4,000 tracts and books.

Out-stations.

Mr. Buncombe believes there is general stirring among Japanese Christians, especially among the Christian workers. He was privileged to take part in five Conventions held at different stations during the year, and testifies to the fervent longing that exists after holiness of life, and for a deeper experience of the power of the Holy Spirit. In July the Japanese Evangelical Alliance—an almost purely Japanese association—held its triennial meeting at Tokio. Ten members belonging to different churches were selected to visit the towns of Japan as opportunities should occur, with a view to stirring up the Christians and arousing interest among non-Christians; and at a social meeting held at the close of the session a sum of 420 yen, about £45, was spontaneously subscribed by the Japanese members present towards defraying the cost of such efforts.

GIFU.

Gifu.

GIFU has been visited within the past few years by so many distressing calamities—earthquakes, floods, and typhoons—that the Rev. H. J. Hamilton, of the Canada Association, remarks with special satisfaction that the year 1897 was not an "eventful" one. It was marked, however, by several material evidences of progress in the Lord's work. A house for a Blind School was purchased and occupied in December, 1896; in July, 1897, a building was opened to serve temporarily as a church and preaching-hall; and, still later, buildings for preaching-houses were rented in two of the out-stations, Takasu and Kano, and land was purchased at Ogaki. The total cost of these purchases and building operations—including a church—was £220. A very touching and instructive incident is mentioned by Mr. Hamilton regarding one of the Christian families:—

A mother calls a meeting of thanksgiving for her son's happy death.

Early in the year one of our Christians, a young man of thirty, died after a long illness—an illness which was of great spiritual blessing to him. After his death his mother invited the Christians to a meeting of thanksgiving for her son's happy death. Some unbelievers came as well, and one of them was so struck by the entirely new aspect which Christianity gives to death that he himself determined to become a Christian, and a few months afterwards was baptized; a useful lesson, it seems to me, of how much could be done for the Lord by our very thankfulness if we all only began to thank Him as we ought for our countless blessings!

A judge baptized.

Fourteen adults were baptized, two of them belonging to Gifu. One of these was a judge of the Gifu Prefectural Court, who, with three other gentlemen, visited Miss E. C. Payne (now at home) for English conversation, and attended a Sunday morning Bible-class. Miss Payne says of him, "He is so whole-hearted and earnest, and is not afraid to confess his faith in Christ before his companions." The wives of these gentlemen visited Miss Payne weekly for Bible study, and had done so for over two years. House-to-house visiting Miss Payne regards as most important, but it occupies much time, proportionately to the people seen, as the ceremony of tea-drinking has to be observed before the subject which the missionary desires most to speak upon can be opened up.

Out-stations.

A catechist, Mr. Igi, from the Matsuye district, was placed, in February, 1897, at Imao, which had been for some time without a resident agent. Miss Tristram and Miss Fox visited the place from Osaka in the following Easter holidays. A catechist, Mr. Nishida, was also placed at Ogaki. Miss M. L. Pasley, of the New Zealand Association, who frequently visited this out-station, asks that prayer may go up on its behalf. Houses which, when she first went, were open to her were soon afterwards closed, and she had access at the end of the year to only three, in one of which a man and his wife were studying the Bible, and hoped to be baptized. She holds children's meetings both here and at Kano. Miss Payne held similar meetings at Kitagata, which sometimes were attended by a number of men and women who "sat on the mats and listened quietly the whole time."

NAGOYA.

Nagoya.

The four missionaries at NAGOYA are all connected with the Canada Association. They are the Rev. and Mrs. J. Cooper Robinson, Miss E. Trent, and Miss M. M. Young. Mr. Robinson laments the coldness of many of the older members of the congregation; a few of these are, however, showing signs of revived interest in spiritual things. An old man who married a heathen woman after his baptism, and became naturally very careless, confessed at a prayer-meeting his sin of indifference to the things of God and asked for the prayers of his brother Christians. Six young men were baptized. One was a school teacher, a class which contains the strongest opponents which confront Christianity in Japan. Mr. Robinson visits twice a week the Mitsui Bank to teach the clerks English and the Bible, in response to an earnest request from them to do so. This Bank is the oldest in Japan, and its employés occupy a good social position. The Yoro-In, or "Home for the Destitute," has nineteen inmates; the senior youth in the Home was baptized during the year. Miss Young, in her Annual Letter; gives an account of a week's programme of the occupations which engage Miss Trent and herself. The afternoons are spent in instructing pupils, visiting Christian women, being "at home" for Japanese visitors, calling on non-Christian women, holding a women's meeting for Bible study and prayer which is attended by all the women of the congregation and occasionally a few outsiders. The mornings are spent as follows:—

A back-slider asks for prayer.

Morning occupation.

The mornings of the first five working days of the week are given to study and work with our teachers. We arise at six o'clock, breakfast at 7.15, and have Japanese prayers for the servants and Bible-women as soon as possible after breakfast, so that we may be ready for our teachers at eight o'clock. Miss Trent and I take turns in leading this short Japanese morning service. We each undertake to give a little talk on the portion of Scripture for the day, and encourage the servants to ask questions. Our efforts at talking and explaining in this difficult language are, no doubt, full of mistakes, but the servants and Bible-women seem to enjoy it, and these heart-to-heart talks bring us more into sympathy with each other, besides strengthening our courage to speak. After morning prayers we go on with our lessons, generally with very little interruption, until twelve o'clock. At this hour we meet together in our own home or at Mr. Robinson's house, where we unite with Mr. and Mrs. Robinson in prayer, remembering, besides things in connexion with our own work, the places set apart for each day in the Cycle of Prayer for Missions in general, invoking God's blessing upon all this work that is known to be so awful in its needs by those who have any idea of what heathen darkness is.

Miss Young mentions that on Sunday afternoons at four all missionaries of all denominations working in Nagoya meet for united worship in the English language, which is an exceedingly refreshing service to all. At Ichinomîya a meeting held in the theatre in December was attended by about 700 people, but some roughs caused a disturbance and nearly set the building on fire by throwing hibachi—fire pots—at the preachers as they went out. Four persons have become catechumens there. At Tsushima also a meeting in the theatre attracted about 400, but here no interruption occurred.

TOYOHASHI.

Toyohashi

The Rev. J. M. Baldwin (now in England), of the Canada Association, was privileged to add three adults by baptism to the little community of seven baptized Christians at TOYOHASHI, which he opened as a C.M.S. station in 1896. One of them was a sergeant who first visited Mr. Baldwin for the study of English; and another was the wife of an army surgeon who is, he says, a very earnest and sincere Christian. A preaching-room has been rented in a central situation. The meetings are not largely attended, but there are always some present who appear to listen. The Rev. A. and Mrs. Lea arrived at Toyohashi just before Christmas, 1897, sent out by the Canada Association to occupy the station during Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin's furlough, under the Rev. J. C. Robinson's supervision. Mr. Baldwin and Mr. Lea rode on their bicycles to Futagawa, and their machines, leaning one against the other, made a music stand for Mr. Lea's use as he played the violin for the hymn-singing at the street preachings in four different parts of the town. Audiences averaging 100 were obtained at each place, and tracts were much in request. In July, 1897, and again in December, Mr. Baldwin visited Ono, a town some twenty-five miles north of Toyohashi, and Norimoto and Kawai, in the same neighbourhood, holding good evangelistic meetings in the hotels. Miya and Kamagori, towns ten miles west of Toyohashi, were also visited.

III. DIOCESE OF KIU-SHIU.

BISHOP AND MRS. EVINGTON came home in June, 1897, and the Bishop returned to Japan in January, 1898. Mrs. J. Harvey came home in January on medical grounds. The Rev. A. R. Fuller returned to the Mission in April.

Ordination. On March 6th, 1898, Bishop Evington admitted Mr. Kamesaburo Nakamura to deacon's orders at Kumamoto. The Rev. A. B. Hutchinson, who presented the candidate and preached the ordination sermon, wrote highly of Mr. Nakamura's examination papers, especially those on the Scriptures, the Articles, and pastoral work.

NAGASAKI.

Nagasaki. Upon Bishop Evington leaving NAGASAKI to attend the Lambeth Conference, the Rev. H. L. Bleby was requested temporarily to reside at this station in order to superintend the work. Miss E. M. Bernau took charge of the Girls' Boarding School when Mrs. J. Harvey left for England. She was struck at once with the happy tone of the school and with the knowledge of the Bible possessed by the girls. Miss Bernau superintends the Sunday-school on Deshima Island, which, she says, is very hopeful. It has seventy-five children. One of the catechumens was first interested through entering the Sunday-school out of curiosity, attracted by the singing. Such casual visitors are welcomed and taught by Miss B. J. Allen. An itinerating tour, which occupied ten days, was taken in the spring of 1897 round the Shimabara Peninsula by Miss Allen, accompanied by a catechist and the senior pupil in the girls' boarding school. Every night lantern slides were exhibited in a different place, and the audiences were always good, as the district was quite "untrodden ground" by Christian workers. After that Miss Allen spent two or three days monthly at Shimabara, staying at the little hotel. She usually had good meetings; and on one occasion, when the Rev. J. T. Ko, from Nagasaki, and the catechist, Mr. Soejima, from Fukuoka, were there, 300 people gathered in the theatre and listened most attentively. In the journey to and fro on the steamers Miss Allen was often asked by the passengers for a sekkyo, i.e., a discourse. A Buddhist priest argued with her, but not uncourteously, against Christianity, and subsequently he called upon her and asked to be introduced to a Japanese clergyman. He expressed himself as satisfied with Buddhism, but felt it was powerless to help the mass of mankind.

Kagoshima. Miss D. I. Hunter-Brown, of the New Zealand Association, and Miss H. S. Cockram send a joint Annual Letter reporting on their work at Kagoshima. The report is a much brighter one than that of 1896. The average attendance at the services was sixteen. The catechist, who went to Kagoshima at the close of "Clear, brave, Gospel addresses."

An "overflowing Christian"

1896, preaches "clear, brave, Gospel addresses," for which the ladies are deeply thankful. One man was baptized and six persons were admitted as catechumens. One of these last, a woman, is spoken of as a "real overflowing Christian," and as "perfectly fearless for God," and "so loving and bright that she draws all together." In lieu of a Bible-woman a former pupil of Bishop Poole's Memorial School at Osaka proved a very efficient help. This young woman had for a time a class of nine school girls, aged about eighteen, teaching them Chinese on the condition that at the end of every lesson they had a short Bible lesson. The teachers of the schools the girls attended interposed and stopped this class. School teachers also succeeded in dispersing the Sunday-school for a time, but the children slowly gathered again. Miss Hunter-Brown and Miss Cockram visited Sa-Kurajima, an island in the Bay of Kagoshima, and in April, 1897, the Loo-choo Islands. Miss Hunter-Brown addressed several meetings on these islands through an interpreter. On the Island of Okinawa there are three little congregations connected respectively with the Methodists, Baptists, and the Church of England (C.M.S.), and a united meeting was held for prayer, of which Miss Hunter-Brown wrote:—

Loo-choo Islands.

> There were forty present at the united monthly prayer-meeting, Christians and catechumens, mostly men, of course. The subject was, "Those in distress," with special reference to the Indian famine, the war in Crete, and Armenian sorrows. The leader, a Japanese worker from Kobe, was admirable, and indeed so were all who took part. The great point he made was, that they could not truly sympathize or pray unless they had made up their minds to do; the doing he proposed was to send help to India, but his chief reason for proposing this was the absolute necessity for truthfulness before prayer can bring down the blessing that it seeks, and in this way only could we prove that we are truly in earnest about helping those in distress. So something is to be sent up to the British Consul in Kobe from the Okinawa Christians of the three Churches. The leader said, "It is for our brothers in India; we have never seen them, never may see them, but there they are, and in trouble." I think the Okinawa people will have realized for the first time, may be, the brotherhood of all Christians, and how wide their family is now.

"For our brothers in India."

The Rev. J. B. Brandram, of Kumamoto, also visited the Loo-choo Islands during the year. The catechist, Kawai San, placed on Okinawa in 1896, has been compelled by the state of his health to leave, and a probationer catechist, who succeeded him as a stop gap, did not prove a success, but rather a hindrance to the work.

FUKUOKA.

Fukuoka.

The race for wealth and the absorption of capital in new industrial enterprises, which have been referred to above (page 370) as a prominent feature in the current history of New Japan, are especially noticeable in FUKUOKA and the populous and rich mineral district around it. The Rev. A. B. Hutchinson dwells upon these and other conditions which appear—but our human vision is a very fallible guide on this subject—to militate against the progress of the Kingdom of our Lord. He says:—

The race for wealth

Our work has been carried on during the year in the midst of a population strongly excited by the race for wealth. New companies have been formed, new railways projected, new steamships built and lines started, new coal and other mines opened, until nearly all available capital has been absorbed. The rich are rapidly growing richer, and the poor are feeling more and more keenly the pressure of poverty as the prices of the necessaries of life keep rising steadily. During the autumn gold has replaced silver as the standard of the country, a measure watched with keenest interest by the commercial class. Political agitation has been rife, and the year closes with the anxious attention of all men centred on the neighbouring Empire of China, the intrusive presence there of foreign Powers, whilst the question of peace or war in the near future occupies all minds. It is not to be wondered at that, under such conditions, the Gospel makes way but slowly.

Danger to the agents and Christians.

The chief danger of such conditions as Mr. Hutchinson refers to is lest the Japanese agents and Christians should become infected by the prevailing tone of society; then, indeed, slow progress would be a necessary consequence. And Mr. Hutchinson says that a tendency is distinctly manifest in the catechists connected with the several Missions to pander to the popular taste by preaching Nationalism and loyalty to the throne in the place of the Christian Gospel, and to forsake the Word of God for more lucrative secular pursuits. Mr. Hutchinson himself lost no less than three agents during the year through the temptations referred to.

Mr. Hutchinson had the whole district once more under his supervision, the Rev. J. Hind having come to England on furlough in the spring of 1897. The Christians number 443 and the catechumens forty-nine. Fukuoka and Hakata are practically one large town of 45,000 inhabitants, and on the average thirteen sermons were every week arranged for by Mr. Hutchinson, and preached by him and his fellow-workers; namely, at the church, at the central preaching-place, at Hakata preaching-place, at Yakui, at the Soldiers' Rest, and at Roppin Matsu. The musical portion of the services owes much to Miss E. A. P. Sells' persevering efforts, and has greatly improved. An English New Testament class is held by Mr. Hutchinson for young students. One of these, aged twenty-one, in the course of an interesting conversation which was started by the question, "Why did Christ so often say, 'I am the Light of the World,' and what did He mean by it?" remarked, "I am an earnest Buddhist; I pray to Sakya Sama, and also to the spirit of my dead father; I have read much of the New Testament; I admire Jesus Christ, but do not feel that I really need a Saviour." Mr. Hutchinson says that his words truthfully describe the position of thousands of the student class. Twenty-one adults were baptized; one of them (baptized in June, 1897) was a mining expert, Miwa San, who was led to Christ by the loving, prayerful teaching of his wife, herself baptized the previous February as the fruit of Miss Sells' work. The man's brother, who is keeper of the prison at Kokura, was baptized with his children in December. Of Miwa, Mr. Hutchinson says:—

"I admire Jesus Christ, but do not need a Saviour."

A mining expert relates his spiritual experiences.

You will be interested in Miwa's recent experience, which he related as follows:—"When I went to the hill country prospecting for mines, I thought, Now, I shall be alone, away from the crowds of the city, and so shall be quite free from sin; but, alas! I found that sin is present with me in my heart, so I read, again and again, St. Paul's Epistles and prayed for the Holy Spirit, that I might be filled with the Spirit, and so walk in the Spirit as to yield myself to God entirely, that He may keep me." It made me feel very thankful to hear this testimony simply and voluntarily given during a visit to my study.

Miss Sells and Miss Freeth, with three Bible-women, have access to seventy-six heathen homes, and they hold meetings for children. Miss Sells also visits the Out-stations with a Bible-woman, and is always most cordially welcomed by the Christians. Meetings for heathen women and children, sometimes with lantern pictures, are held and tracts are given. She was frequently much encouraged by the manifest interest of the people. One woman, on hearing for the first time the Life of Christ, and being told that He is alive now, said, "This is the first time I have heard of a living God, our gods are not like that." All the out-stations, except Karatsu and Kurume, yielded converts during the year. In these out-stations, about 100 communicants are scattered in little groups over a thousand square miles. The Waka-Matsu congregation undertook to contribute to the Pastors' Fund one-fourth of the cathechist's salary. Mr. Hutchinson completed the translation of Dale's The Atonement into Japanese.

"Our gods are not like that."

KUMAMOTO.

Kumamoto.

The ordination by Bishop Evington in March, 1898, at KUMAMOTO has been mentioned. The service had a retrospective interest and import. It was the outward consummation of an effort at self-support, whose success the Rev. J. B. Brandram unhesitatingly refers to as the chief feature of the progress of the year under review, the congregation having raised the sum required by the local Church Pastoral-Aid Society to entitle them to claim an ordained pastorate. The two preaching-places are in excellent positions, in the busiest thoroughfares of the town, and much precious seed was sown during the year. Mr. Brandram sought to influence students by means of special weekly lectures on Christianity, in Japanese and English.

Effort towards self-support.

Nearly 100 New Testaments were bought by these students. A Soldiers' Rest was opened through the generous gift of a friend in England. Miss H. Riddell had her first illness since arriving in Japan at the beginning of 1897. She writes most gratefully of the help rendered by her Japanese friends to carry on the work while she was laid aside, and she had the loving attendance of her niece, Miss A. H. Wright. A Bible-class for young men in Japanese is held on Monday afternoons. It was mainly through the influence of two young men who became Christians through this class, and who are now members of the Church Committee, that the congregation was roused to undertake the support of a pastor, as mentioned above. Eight members of the class were taught German by Miss G. Nott, and when she left for her furlough, in the spring of 1897, these young men gave her a farewell meeting, of which Miss Riddell writes:—

Gratitude of young men for Bible instruction.

After speeches of thanks and farewell to her had been given in German and English, one young man rose and said he had been asked by the others to speak in Japanese, for their hearts were too full to give expression in any other language on the subject of the Sunday Bible-class. The occasion was to say farewell to Miss Nott, but as they were all about to leave for the University, they wanted to try and say how much the Sunday Bible-class had been to them. The eight young men present were four of them doctors, three lawyers, and one, the speaker, about to enter the school for diplomatists; and much as they all appreciated the help given to them in their future career, some in German, some in English, each one felt that most important of all had been the help given towards making them better men. That they were ready to make a public acknowledgment of Christianity he was not prepared to say, but they all felt they were better men for the teaching of the Sunday Bible-class, and would be better men for it to the end of their days.

More than twenty members of the class left Kumamoto to go to the University during the year, but others took their places, and Miss Riddell says that both numbers and interest are increasing. Of another class of young men Miss Riddell says:—

Desire to study, not English, but the English Bible.

A class of young men, about twenty in number, whom I meet twice each week to read Macaulay and similar works, asked if I would substitute the Bible for Macaulay once each week, and let it be a Bible lesson instead of an English lesson. I declined, on the ground of my oft-repeated objection to use the Word of God as an English primer. But for some weeks it was perpetually urged upon me, both by speech and letter, that their desire was not to study English, but the English Bible, for it was evident that in Japan, with all its old and new civilization, there was something lacking, and they believed that it was the influence of the Bible. If the Bible has done for England what English people say it has, then it was the English Bible they wanted to study. Eventually I consented, beginning with the Book of Ecclesiastes. We meet from four to five on Monday afternoons, each man bringing his own English Bible. We sing some simple English hymns ("There is a green hill far away" is a favourite) to commence with, and close with a brief prayer in Japanese.

A third class for easy English conversation is held twice weekly, and is always crowded. At the close of the year four Government school teachers, the Director of Telegraphy in the garrison, two quartermasters from the garrison, some officers' sons, and others were among those who attended. The Leper Hospital continues to prosper. The house doctor, Dr. Miyake, who lives on the grounds with his family, is an excellent superintendent and a truly godly man. During a temporary illness of Dr. Miyake it became necessary to call in assistance from the Medical School at Kumamoto, and when the student who rendered this help left, he told his fellow students what he had seen and heard of Christianity in the hospital. The result of this was that six medical students began regularly to visit Miss Riddell for Bible instruction, and two of them were under preparation for baptism when Miss Riddell wrote. The patients do all the sweeping of the buildings and the gardening of the four acres of ground. Seeds most generously sent out by Messrs. Sutton & Sons, of Reading (and many other stations in all parts of the world make grateful acknowledgement of gifts from the same donors), were exceptionally successful, water melons and strawberries especially. One patient left, thinking himself well enough, and proposed to earn his living by selling a patent medicine for toothache. Of the twenty-four patients in the hospital at the end of the year, ten were Christians, eight of them having become so since entering; eight were confirmed by Bishop Evington in March, 1897. The wife and children of one of the patients were baptized during the year. Miss Allen, of Nagasaki, refers to the hospital which she saw during a visit to Kumamoto. She writes :—

Leper Hospital.

Medical Student inquirers.

Leper converts.

A Buddhist temple for affording succour to lepers.

> To appreciate the Leper Hospital properly one should go first, as I did, to the Hou Mijo ji or Buddhist temple for the worship of Kato Kiyomasa, who is supposed to be specially the deity who succours lepers. It is a scene of misery that once seen can never be forgotten—the long, long flight of steps leading up to the temple lined with lepers who crouch there begging, with their poor distorted features and maimed limbs, and then the interior of the temple is simply thronged with lepers in every state of disfigurement and misery, who rock themselves to and fro, repeating over and over again, some almost shouting in their despair, the same formula of hopeless prayer to the Buddha who cannot save. To go from this scene of dirt and misery to the clean, quiet rooms and sunny gardens of the hospital, and watch the looks of thankful resignation, nay, cheerfulness on the poor lepers' faces, can only be compared to the change described by Dante in his transit upwards from the infernal regions to the quiet resting-place before entering Paradise.

Miss Freeth, of Fukuoka, has described a Fox Temple which she went to while on a visit to this station :—

Worship of foxes.

> I daresay you have heard the fox is worshipped in Japan. People are supposed to be possessed by foxes, especially women. I believe it is really a form of hysteria. After going through a great many torii (arches)—at least a hundred, I should think—each one erected by people who have been cured, we came to a little house where three old priests lived. These men were supposed to be able to produce cures by incantations, charms, &c., and people possessed are brought to them. The avenue of torii went into a wood, and we soon came to a shrine where the prayers and offerings are offered. Besides the people who are possessed and their relatives, farmers also come in great numbers to beg the foxes not to eat their corn, and to propitiate them by their offerings. A priest there told us 2,000 came every month. The avenue of torii went on into the wood, and following it we came to two fox-holes; these had pretty little torii erected at their mouths for the foxes to go through, and food and cakes were placed inside for the foxes to eat. It is difficult to believe such things unless you see them.

Miss Riddell formed in 1894 a Japanese Branch of the Daily Prayer Union to pray for an outpouring of the Holy Spirit, and this has now 434 members scattered in all parts of Japan, China, Corea, Formosa, and the Pescadores. Miss Riddell also published in 1896 a translation of Daily Light, which is much appreciated. One catechist in Formosa wrote to Miss Riddell that he read it three times every day, first in the morning with his wife, then again by himself at noon, then again at night, and every time he read it "the taste was better than before." At Kaminomura, in Takachiho, seven adults were baptized, and several inquirers are under instruction.

The "taste better" on each successive reading.

OITA.

The Rev. H. L. Bleby was called away from OITA in the spring of 1897 to fill a vacancy at Nagasaki, though he continued responsible for the superintendence of the work. In the autumn the Rev. J. B. Brandram, of Kumamoto, was requested to take charge. The arrival of Misses E. M. Keen and B. Nottidge in the spring (1897) was a source of great encouragement to those interested in the work at this station; as also was the appointment of Mr. S. Painter to reside at Nobeoka, where he accepted an engagement to teach English in a school, receiving a house rent free as compensation. A report was circulated to the effect that the school was being "Christianized," but this was certainly premature, though some of the students began to read the Word of God. Mr. Painter says the words "finding out" express concisely and accurately his first year's experience in the Mission-field. The kindness of fellow workers, European and Japanese, was a most pleasant discovery; and the language and the people afforded not a few surprises; but, he adds:—

Oita.

Above all these things, it has been a year of "finding out" my own utter helplessness and God's almighty love. Perhaps there is nothing which makes us feel our dependence so much as to be placed right away among a people whose language we do not know, and to whom we cannot speak if we would. I think it brings home the remembrance that the work is entirely God's, and we but His instruments. Oh, that we always thought of this! But how good He has been; how wonderfully He has "gone before" and raised up friends and arranged everything.

A first year's discoveries.

IV. DIOCESE OF HOKKAIDO.

General impressions of Bishop Fyson regarding the work in Hokkaido.

BISHOP FYSON, whose arrival with Mrs. Fyson at Hakodate in December, 1896, was mentioned in last year's Report, visited all the stations during the year under review. He records his general impressions of the work and of the conditions under which it is carried on in this northern island:—

I found that the work in nearly all the stations and out-stations is in a very elementary stage; the groups of Christians are very small, and not able to do more than a very little as yet in the direction of self-support. And one notices a want of life and a lack of desire and effort on the part of the converts to make the Gospel known to their heathen neighbours, although there are certainly bright exceptions. Things seem to have been at a stand-still lately, and although progress has been made this last year, it has not been so to any marked extent.

Its elementary stage.

On the other hand, one cannot help feeling, taking a look all round, that there is much to be thankful for. The fact that there are in connexion with our own Society about forty native catechists and assistants working in the towns and villages in all quarters of the island; the fact that there are some fourteen church buildings, and that there are about twelve hundred baptized converts, half of whom are Ainu,—these facts are unmistakable evidence of progress, and something to be very thankful for. To my mind these little church buildings are worthy of special notice and thanksgiving. It is very encouraging and very delightful, after a long ride along the coast, or perhaps through the forest, to come upon an unmistakable Hokkaido church, all built almost on the same pattern, small and insignificant no doubt in the eyes of a European, but some of them, like the ones at Usu and Piratori, capable of seating 150 or 200 persons, standing out well on high ground, conspicuous for miles around, veritable cathedrals if compared with the huts amongst which they stand, some costing less than £10 to build; but all, larger or smaller, day by day, and specially on Sunday, keeping Christianity before the eyes of the people, silent witnesses to Jesus Christ. Thanks be to God Who put it into the hearts of those who lived and worked here before I came to set up so many of these little Christian sanctuaries.

Evidence of progress.

Buddhism strong in the island.

I have found, too, that Buddhism is still strong in this island; more so than I had expected. I had thought that as the majority of the people are new-comers, immigrants from other parts of Japan, they would probably have broken off from their old religious associations and be more open to the reception of Christian teaching; and no doubt this is true in many of the new settlements. But there is also in many places a determined clinging to their old faith, and in some of the older towns, as, for instance, Esashi, where Miss Oxlad has taken up her abode, Buddhism is entirely in possession; the people are altogether in the hands of the priests, and it is very difficult for Christianity to obtain a footing. And I am told that throughout Hokkaido the temples are well supported and are not allowed to fall into decay, as in many parts of the main island. These adherents of Buddhism, of course, belong, as a rule to the poorer, ill-educated classes; when you come to the educated amongst the middle and upper classes, you find that the prevailing attitude is one of pure indifference as regards religion. Leading educationalists, like the well-known Mr. Fukuzawa, of Tokio, publicly proclaim their disbelief in religion of any kind, and at the same time argue that as the mass of the people will have a religion, it is better to tolerate it as a means of keeping the country quiet and orderly, but that it is a matter of utter indifference which religion is adopted; it is merely a question of individual taste, just as some people prefer green tea and some black. It is not surprising, therefore, that students and others are led astray by teaching of this kind and grow up atheists or agnostics.

A question of individual taste.

The Bishop admitted the Rev. T. Ogawa to priest's orders on December 19th, 1897, at Hakodate. Ordination.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Nettleship came to England on furlough in March, 1898. The Rev. G. C. Niven was married to Miss J. A. Rawlings on December 11th, 1897, at Tokio.

The first Synod of the Hokkaido Diocese was held in June, 1897. One of the resolutions passed was a specially gratifying one, namely, that all the congregations should subscribe to a Central Pastoral-Aid Fund, from which a grant should be made to render one congregation, in the first instance, and by degrees others, independent of foreign aid. First Synod of Hokkaido Diocese.

HAKODATE.

HAKODATE is a town of 70,000 people, and the problem how to reach them presses upon the Rev. W. Andrews. The congregation is the largest in the island and is growing in numbers. Bishop Fyson confirmed twenty-one candidates in March, 1897. The annual devotional meetings, or "Summer School," were held in July, the Japanese Christians themselves taking a large share both in arranging and conducting the meetings, and, partly no doubt on this account, pronounced them the best that had been held. Mr. Andrews concurs in the same view. He says, "There was harmony and love all through the meetings, and at the end simple expressions of thankfulness for blessings received." The Preparandi Institution had fourteen students, six in their third year, four in their second, and the remainder in their first. Four of the advanced students from the Ainu Training School took their places with the Japanese students. Miss A. M. Tapson, who returned to Hakodate in December, 1896, after an absence of three years through ill-health, notices perceptible advance in respect to the attitude of the people towards the Gospel. Opportunities for Work among the Women are more numerous than they were. In addition to a Bible-woman Miss Tapson has a former pupil of the Poole Memorial School at Osaka, who is "a continual help and satisfaction." Bible-classes for the wives of the probationary catechists, meetings in the houses of the Christians for their friends and neighbours, children's meetings, visiting inquirers—these are some of the many avenues of useful service. Through a Women's Guild, which has 150 members, and which issues a little monthly paper with short Bible studies, communication is kept up with the Christians at the various out-stations. Esashi, some fifty miles from Hakodate, is described by Mr. Andrews as one of the hardest towns in the Hokkaido. The people, about 15,000, are very much under the control of the priests. Miss Oxlad, of the Female Education Society, is stationed there. Bishop Fyson refers to Emmanuel Village, which he visited, and which has been frequently mentioned in recent Reports :—

"The bounds of truth and love."

At one end of the settlement you notice a large boundary-post, with the inscription (of course in Japanese), "The Truth shall make you free." When you come to the boundary-post at the other end you notice the inscription is, "Love never faileth." Would that all villages and towns were kept within the bounds of truth and love! I found here a picturesque little church, very primitive, like all the surroundings, with plain thatched roof, but with glass windows and seats and some church furniture, and almost all built and provided by the few Christians themselves. They are regular backwood settlers, some of them living miles from the church, and on Sunday they shut up their houses and leave them to take care of themselves—or shall we say, rather, leave them in God's care—and the whole family comes off to church for morning and afternoon services, Sunday-school, and Bible-class. The Sunday I was there there was a hearty little congregation of thirty-five, babies included ; six were confirmed, and the Lord's Supper was administered. It was a real pleasure to worship with them.

The Rev. J. A. Cutten, who was transferred to Japan from the South China Mission, arrived at Hakodate in February, 1897, and applied himself to the study of Japanese. He writes, "I am extremely happy in the work here."

SAPPORO.

Sapporo.

Sapporo is the official capital of Hokkaido, and Bishop Fyson balanced its advantages for his own residence against those of Hakodate before he decided for the latter. Sapporo is an inland town, and therefore while more central geographically, lacks the advantage of steamboat communication with the coast stations; its population, moreover, is only 25,000, as compared with Hakodate's 70,000. The Bishop's first confirmation was held at Sapporo, and the first candidates were Ainu, four men and nine women, the service being in the Ainu language, the Rev. J. Batchelor interpreting. Twenty-nine altogether, including Japanese, were confirmed. Sixty-three Ainu were baptized, and thirty Japanese; and 133 Ainu were under preparation for baptism at the close of the year, and some 200 others were desirous to be instructed. The Ainu Rest House is, the Bishop says, the most noticeable feature of the work in the town :—

Ainu converts.

Rest house for Ainu.

It stands close to Mr. Batchelor's house, and is just a large Ainu hut with thatched straw roof and sides, and looks very strange in a place like Sapporo, where the houses are all in Japanese or European style, and some of them fine-looking buildings. Ainu men and women come in from the country districts for medical treatment, and are accommodated in this rest house, and medicine is supplied to them and treatment at the hospital. This is a great boon to the Ainu, who are, as a rule, very poor, and but for this home could not secure medical treatment at all. Whilst in the rest house they receive Christian instruction daily, and the direct results of this branch of the work have been very encouraging; some of Mr. Batchelor's most satisfactory converts have been brought in through this rest house.

During the year 160 sick Ainu entered the Rest House, and over sixty others as visitors. Mr. Batchelor had the satisfaction of seeing his Ainu translation of the New Testament in print and being circulated among the people, and he had, still better, evidence that it was studied. He says:—

In connexion with this work one thing gave me great joy the other day. It was at an Ainu prayer-meeting. One of the Ainu was praying, and I noticed that he used one or two words which are very seldom, if ever, heard in his district, but which are very common in some other districts. After the meeting was over, I asked him how it was he used some words in his prayer which were only spoken in certain districts other than his own, in which we then were. "Ah," he said, "those words occur in the Holy Scriptures, and when I pray to God I cannot help addressing Him in Scripture words; my heart does so of its own accord!" That young man loves his New Testament, and his words made me very thankful. Unless he read the Word he would not have used those words in his prayer, and it was only as being better than the ordinary run of words I have used them in my translation.

"I cannot help addressing God in Scripture words."

Miss M. Laurence was encouraged to hope that several members of a men's class, including a school teacher, a banking clerk, and a railway official, would become applicants for baptism, but, to her keen disappointment, they all left Sapporo. One of the women converts referred to above was the fruit of her Bible-woman's work. Miss Laurence visited Horobetsu and held there and at Maroran large meetings with lantern slides, as many as 150 people being present at one of them. Miss Laurence found in one of the colonist villages, reached by rail from Hakodate, a woman who had come there from the south fourteen years before and had never been a mile away from her own home since that time; she had never heard of the Christian religion. Bishop Fyson mentions a visit he paid to Ponseipu, a small Ainu village by the sea, and where he stayed a few days, sleeping in an Ainu hut. He says:—

Bishop Fyson a guest in an Ainu hut.

I was surprised to see how the men and women and children would come in from their homes, a mile or more distant, for morning and evening prayers, catechetical instruction, and hymn-singing, rain or fine, and how they seemed to enjoy these meetings. Some women came in on the Saturday night from villages six or seven miles distant for confirmation the next day. Some forty or fifty were present at the Sunday service, and they managed to squeeze in somehow, and ten were confirmed, and there are many inquirers in the neighbourhood.

Mr. Batchelor gives an extract from his note-book of a Sunday spent in an Ainu village containing only five huts. At a prayer-meeting on the Saturday evening twenty-four were present; at the Sunday morning service, again twenty-four, and six adults were baptized; at the afternoon service twenty-two were present; and at the evening service twenty-nine. The following morning at eight, twenty-seven were present at a prayer-meeting. Many of the people had walked two miles, and some six, to be present. Miss E. Bryant spent two months at Piratori, and writes of this period as a very happy time. Though she could hold little intercourse with the people, she found much interest in studying them. The first Harvest Thanksgiving service was held there in October, 1897.

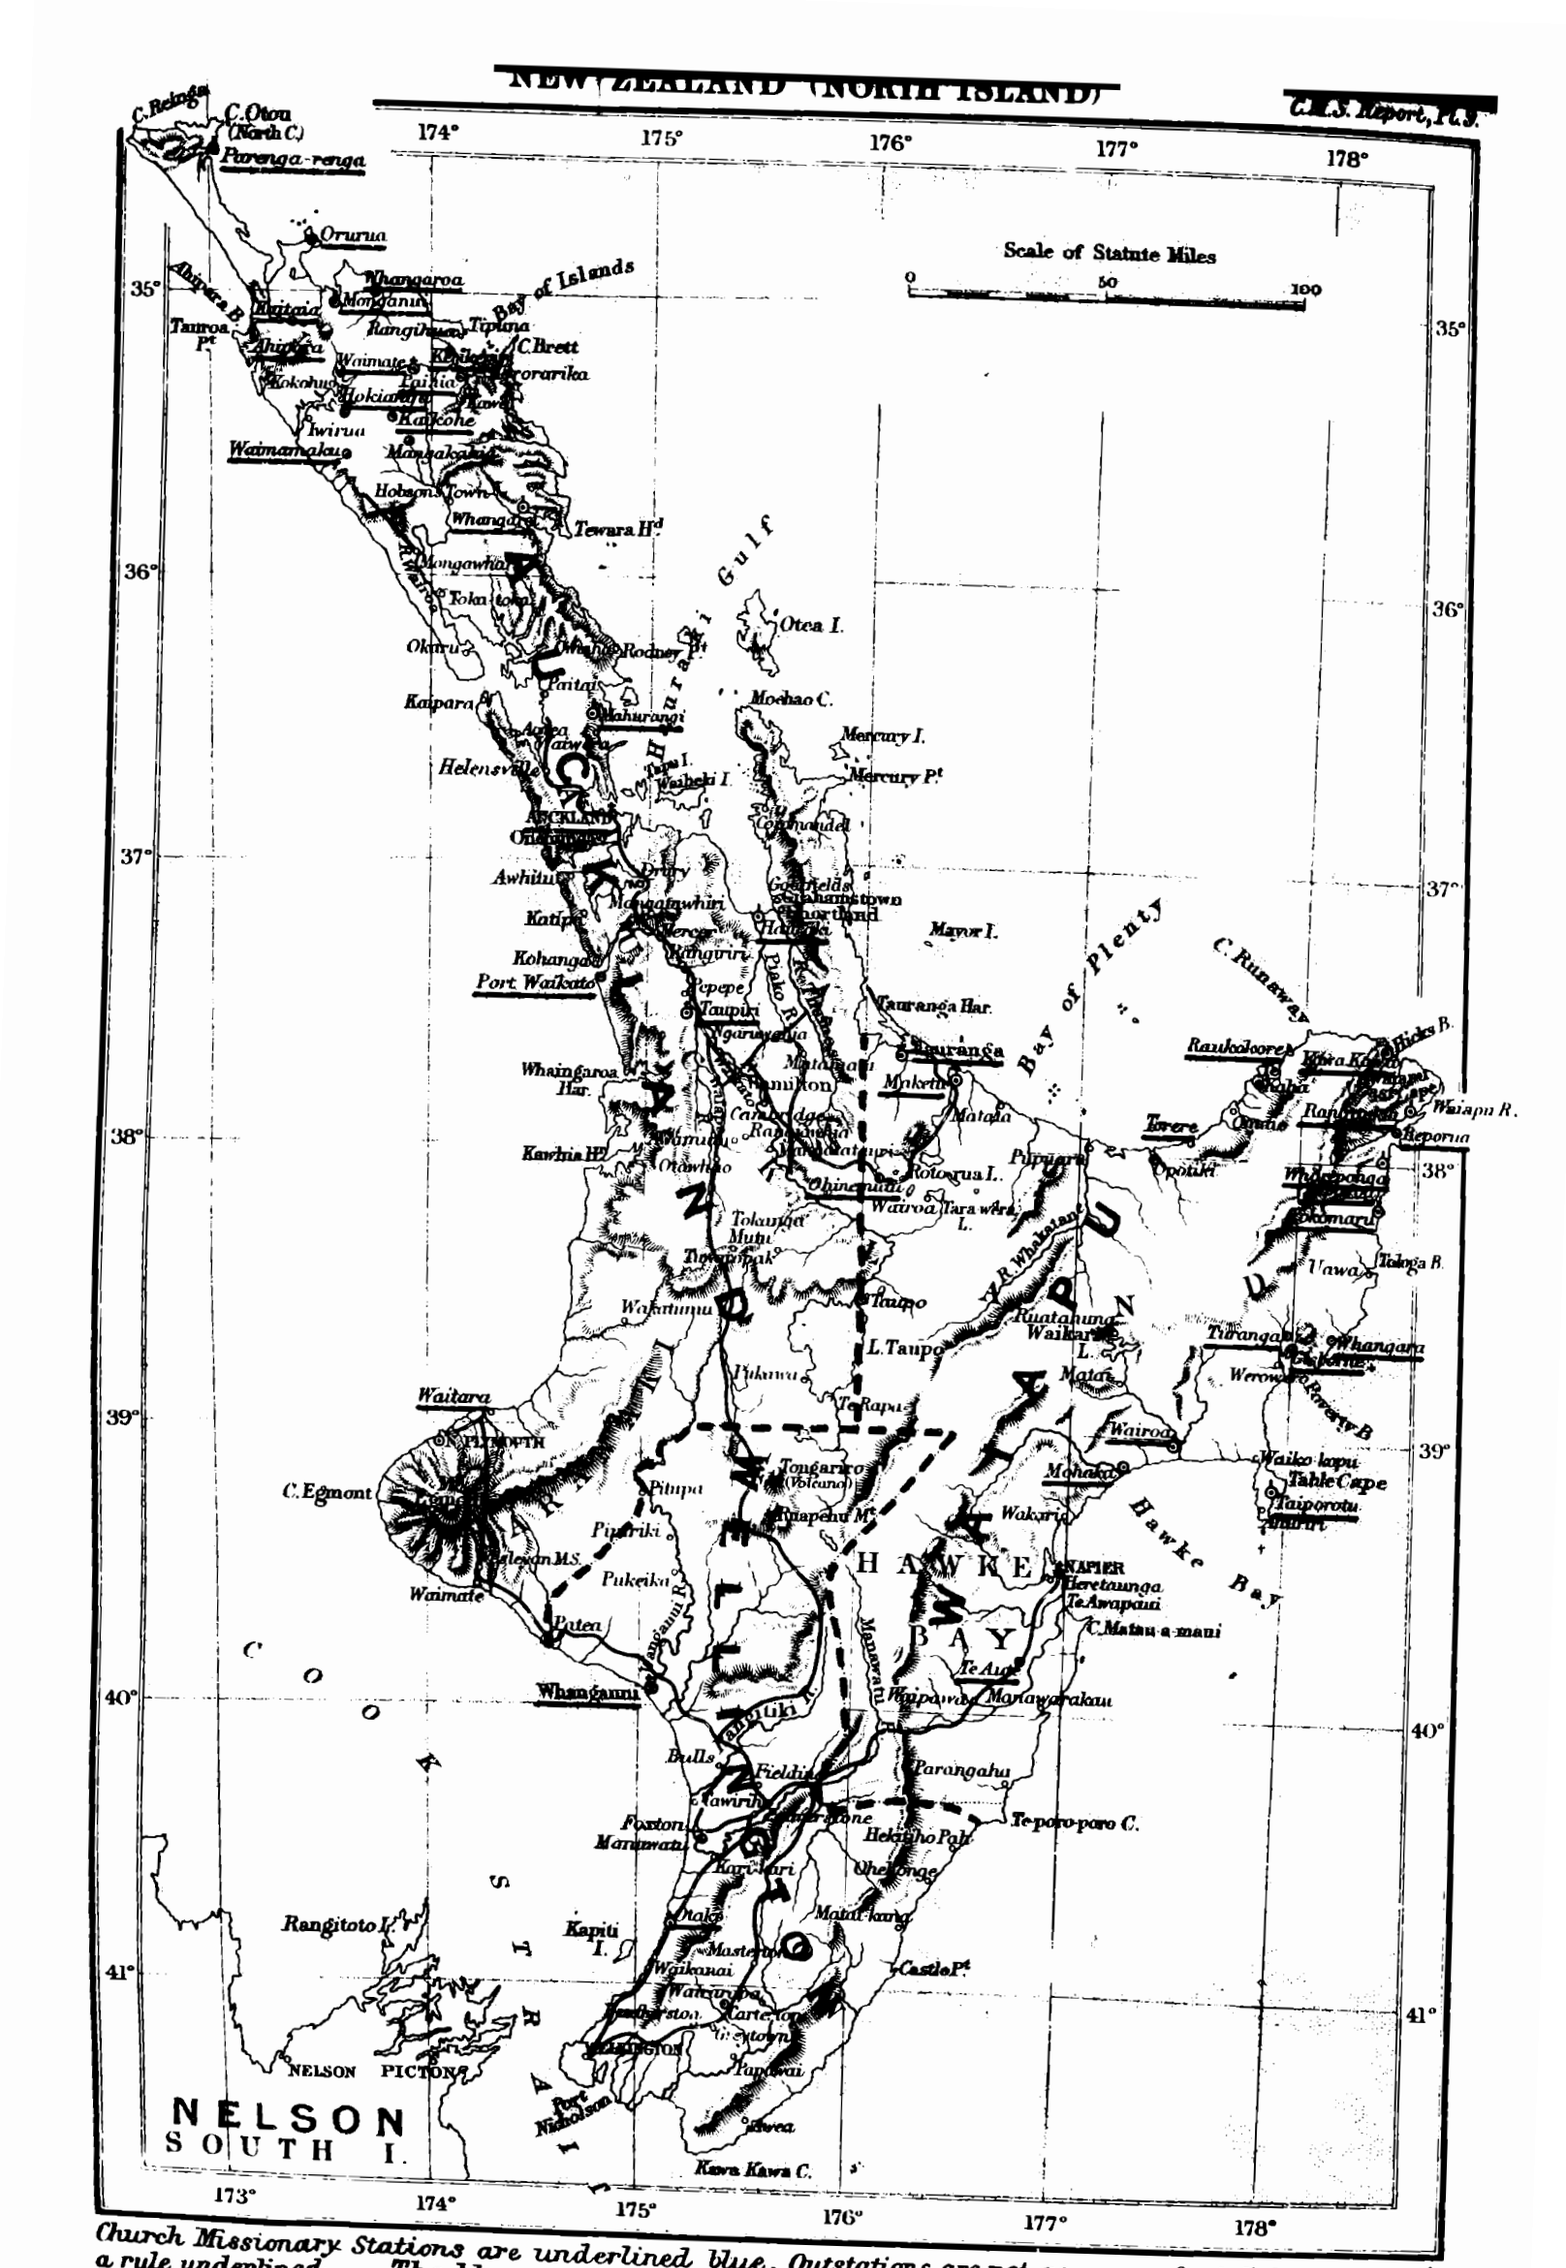
OTARU.

Otaru—a new station.

The Rev. G. C. Niven was instructed by the Conference in March, 1897, to take up his residence at OTARU, and to take charge of a part of the district which had previously been connected with Hakodate. He accordingly moved thither in the following June. He found four catechists and one Bible-woman already at work at Otaru and three out-stations. One of these, Bifai, was visited by Miss Laurence, of Sapporo, and Miss Tapson, of Hakodate, in the autumn.



KUSHIRO.

Kushiro.

The Rev. D. Marshall Lang (now on his way home) found the benefit of residing at KUSHIRO very great, he having previously, until October, 1896, superintended the work of the district from Hakodate. The schools, in which Miss L. Payne takes an active interest, are a prominent feature of the work. At Kushiro, a Japanese girls' school has forty-four pupils. The Ainu boys and girls who attend the school at Harutori can only do so in the autumn and winter, as at other times they are engaged in gathering edible seaweed. Two deaths occurred among those pupils who had been baptized. In one case an old Buddhist begged the parents to insist on a heathen funeral, and when he failed to prevail, he appeared at the grave and knelt down and repeated heathen prayers.

NEW ZEALAND MISSION.

The Mission to the Maoris of New Zealand was the second of the Society's Missions in order of time. It was undertaken at the invitation of Samuel Marsden, Chaplain in New South Wales, who landed on the Northern Island, with the first three men—lay agents—sent out as pioneers, in 1814, and preached the first Christian sermon to the Natives on Christmas Day of that year. Other missionaries followed, whose lives, which were entirely in the power of a race of ferocious cannibals, were frequently in apparently imminent danger. For eleven years no results were seen. The first conversion took place in 1825, and no other Natives were baptized for five years. Then began the marvellous movement which resulted in almost the whole Maori nation being brought under Christian instruction and civilizing influences, and which led Bishop Selwyn, on his arrival in his new diocese in 1842, to write: "We see here a whole nation of pagans converted to the faith. . . . Where will you find, throughout the Christian world, more signal manifestations of the presence of the Spirit, or more living evidences of the Kingdom of Christ?"

In 1840 New Zealand was made a British Colony, and emigration on a large scale ensued. The vices as well as the benefits of civilization were introduced, and the inevitable conflict of race began. The continual disputes about the sale and possession of land led to prolonged and bitter wars, which shook the Native Church to its foundations. In 1864 arose the "Pai Marire" or "Hau-hau" superstition, a strange compound of Christianity and Heathenism, which spread rapidly among the Natives. It was a party of Hau-haus who so barbarously murdered the missionary Völkner.

In 1883 a C.M.S. Mission Board, comprising the Bishops of Auckland, Waiapu, and Wellington, and other members, was established to administer the Society's grants, which diminish annually, and will cease (subject to personal claims) in a few years.

New Zealand in 1837.

It has been remarked that at the time when Queen Victoria ascended the throne the New Zealand Mission presented many features very similar to those which are witnessed in Uganda at the present time. The same eagerness for the translated Word of God, and the same earnestness among the converts in spreading the faith to distant tribes, were conspicuous then in the Maori Christian as now among the Waganda believers. It may be added, moreover, that just after the Queen came to the throne a French bishop and priests appeared in the Northern Island to introduce discord into the Native Maori Church, as has been done in recent years on the shores of the Victoria Nyanza. Three remarkable visits occurred about the same time. In 1835, Charles Darwin, in H.M.S. Beagle, arrived, and wrote his memorable eulogy of the Maori Mission: "The lesson of the missionary," he said, "is the enchanter's wand." In 1837, at the very time of the Queen's Accession, Samuel Marsden paid the island his seventh and last visit when over seventy years of age, and was carried about in a litter to see the thousands of Christians who, but a few years before, had been ferocious cannibals. And in the following year, New Zealand received its first episcopal visit from Bishop Broughton, Bishop of Australia, who went there at the request of the Church Missionary Society.

New Zealand did not obtain a Bishop of its own until four years after the Queen succeeded to the throne, when, in 1841 (the C.M.S. providing one half of the stipend and the Crown the other), Selwyn was consecrated. It is a singular fact that it was by inadvertence that the jurisdiction of Bishop Selwyn was made to include a large part of the Pacific Ocean. In his letters patent the boundaries were defined as from 50° south, not to 34° south, as intended, but to 34° north; and this mistake led long afterwards to Bishop Selwyn's undertaking the Melanesian Mission, to the episcopal oversight of which his own son, succeeding Bishop Patteson, was consecrated thirty-six years later, whose death at the beginning of 1898 has been mentioned in the obituary of the Society's Vice-presidents on an earlier page of this Report. In 1859 the dioceses of Wellington and Waiapu were constituted.

The Colonists and the Maoris.

In one particular the large measure of help which the C.M.S. has given to this, one of the earliest of its Missions, may have operated to its detriment, as it may have been due in part to this fact that the Colonial Church in New Zealand has never had its sympathies called out in any appreciable degree in behalf of the Natives to whose inheritance they have come into possession. This hindrance, if the fact is due to this cause, is about to terminate, as in 1903 the annual subsidy from C.M.S. funds, except the support of English missionaries on the Society's staff, will cease. It is gratifying to observe that several of the Gleaners' Union Branches in both the Northern and Southern Islands are making efforts in behalf of the Maoris. The Rev. A. F. Williams, of Te Aute, writes:—

> The European population is beginning to wake up to its long-neglected duty to the Maori race, and from Auckland and Dunedin we hear of people anxious to do something for the spiritual elevation of the Maoris. Many are learning the Maori language in order to be ready for any work to which they may be called. There are quite a number of ladies who are studying and longing to work among the Maori women as Bible-women or teachers. Our C.M.A. also is thinking of supporting women missionaries for the Maoris. Even the newspapers are taking the matter up with regard to the Waikato and other districts, where the Natives threw off Christianity owing to the wars and have since relapsed into Heathenism.

Reinforcement.

The New Zealand Church Missionary Association has proposed to the Committee the location of one of its accepted candidates for missionary service among the Maoris, to which the Committee have gladly agreed. Accordingly, Miss Rosamond Mary Blakiston, a grand-daughter of the late Primate of New Zealand, Dr. Harper, has been assigned to work in this Mission.

Death of Rev. R. Burrows.

The Rev. Robert Burrows died on July 22nd, in his eighty-fifth year. Mr. Burrows was a native of Woodchester, near Gloucester. After training at the Society's College, Islington, he was ordained deacon in 1839 by the Bishop of London, and sailed for the Bay of Islands the same year. For many years

Mr. Burrows was Secretary of the New Zealand Mission, and later he bore the chief burden of the work in the administration of the Society's landed property in the Northern Island. He laboured in both capacities with singular ability and zeal. The last office held by him, that of Secretary to the New Zealand Mission Trust Board, he resigned in 1896.

Missionary Conference.

At a meeting of the Mission Trust Board, held at Napier, in February, 1897, at which the Bishops of Wellington and Waiapu, and Archdeacons Williams and Clarke, and others, were present, it was decided to hold a Conference of all the C.M.S. missionaries in this Mission during the week following the Waiapu Diocesan Synod, viz., in November, 1897. No Conference had been held since 1881. An article by the Rev. J. E. Padfield, in the C.M. Intelligencer for December, 1896, on the "Three Years' Enterprise; a Call to Foreign Workers," suggested the proposal. Several of the missionaries in their Annual Letters refer to the Conference as a season of spiritual refreshment and encouragement. The following papers were read:—

First Session—(a) "The present condition and needs of the Maori Church," by Archdeacon Clarke. (b) "The possibility of spiritual life for the Maoris," by Archdeacon Williams.

Second Session—(a) "The instruments for the work—ourselves—the need of the Holy Spirit—confession," by the Rev. W. Goodyear. (b) "The promise of the Father—claim it," by the Rev. A. O. Williams.

Third Session: Methods—(a) "Past and present methods," by the Rev. J. McWilliam. (b) "Some difficulties besetting our native clergy, and suggestions for their removal," by the Rev. H. W. Williams. (c) "Missions to nominal Christian Maoris," by the Rev. A. F. Williams. (d) "Recovery of lapsed Maoris," by the Rev. G. Maunsell.

I. DIOCESE OF AUCKLAND.

Native Church Boards.

The Committee are as usual indebted to Archdeacon E. B. Clarke for a report of the work among the Maoris in the diocese of Auckland. The Native Church Board of the Archdeaconry of Waimate met in March, 1897, at Pupuke, Whangaroa, and was attended by all the eleven clergy and by eighteen lay representatives. The fact that in 1903 the Society's help would be withdrawn was dwelt upon, and the necessity for exertion, if the stipends of the clergy are to be maintained, was urged. Already the General Church Trust Board of the Diocese has found it necessary to reduce the grants from the Native Pastorate Fund, so that those in priests' orders only receive £50 instead of £60, and those in deacons' orders £48 instead of £50. The Church Board of the Southern portion of the diocese met at Pourewa, Whatiwhatihoe, in the King Country, in April. One of the resolutions which were carried is characterized by the Archdeacon as "quite unpractical"; it was to the effect that the name of the Maori "king" should be introduced into the prayer for the Royal Family! Another, expressing the desirability of establishing a native girls' school in Auckland, is heartily approved. The future of the Maori race is a problem which causes much anxiety to Archdeacon Clarke. He writes:—

An "unpractical proposal."

Future of Maori race

> If something is not done to control the reckless sale of their lands, in less than a generation the most of them will become paupers and a burden to the settlers. The Government have spent large sums in providing schools, but with few exceptions they have not resulted in the moral, social, and material elevation of those for whose benefit they were established. After years spent in superior schools such as Te Aute and St. Stephen's, where religious instruction is a prominent object, they return to their homes, it may be full of aspiration and plans of reforming and improving their people; but the task of overcoming innate prejudices and habits proves too great, and after a few futile attempts they inevitably fall back to their former manner of life. Alas! of many it may be said, "their last state is worse than their first."

It is something, however, that the aspiration to benefit their people is entertained by so many young Maoris of the leading families when they leave school. Prayer should be frequent and fervent on their behalf that they may be strengthened to persevere against all the impediments which obstruct reform. A feature which causes much discouragement to those who seek their spiritual welfare is their migratory habits. In the Northern part of Auckland Diocese, three churches, which were built in populous centres, at a cost of from £300 to £500 each, now stand many miles distant from the bulk of the people. Two churches, one at Waikare and the other at Matauri, were opened in March and July, 1897, respectively. The two Maori clergymen, the Revs. T. Hapimana and N. Tautau, who are stationed among the lapsed Christians of the Waikato district, have established an influence over their flocks. They are always invited to be present at their meetings, whether these be of a political or social character, or on the occasion of deaths, and these gatherings afford opportunities for preaching the Gospel and for social intercourse, of which they gladly avail themselves. The Rev. Wiki te Paa has been transferred from Waimamaku to Northern Wairoa, and the Rev. Hone T. Papahia visits Waimamaku from time to time from Hokianga.

II. DIOCESE OF WAIAPU.

Return to New Zealand of Bishop Williams.

Bishop Leonard Williams sailed in September from England, after his short visit in 1897. In an interview he had with the Committee two days before his departure he expressed the great pleasure it had been to him to be present at the Society's anniversary after forty-four years' absence from England, and also the joy and encouragement he had found in taking part in the Lambeth Conference, where such prominence had been given to missionary subjects.

In the Training Institution at GISBORNE the Rev. H. W. Williams had the assistance of Mr. Hector Hawkins. Three students of the Institution, accompanied by the Rev. G. Maunsell, went in January, 1897, to a meeting of the followers of Te Kooti at Ohiwa, near the spot where Te Kooti died, and were heartily received. Twelve students were in the Institution, of whom four entered during the year; and the hope was entertained that several recruits from Te Aute College would shortly be received. On this point the Rev. A. F. Williams says:— Gisborne Training Institution.

There has been another revival among the boys of Te Aute College, and a large number are attending my confirmation classes and are most earnest. There are some splendid Christian lads among them, and they are definitely praying that a certain number of themselves may offer this year for the Lord's work among the Maoris. I cannot help believing that if we could have trained native lay evangelists for the work, a number of these youths and young men would offer themselves willingly; whereas, at present, they do not feel called to the work of the settled ministry. I also believe that in some districts they would be more cordially received, and would do a better work, at present, as laymen than as ordained ministers. Revival among boys of Te Aute College.

The "Old Boys' Association," which was in contemplation when Mr. Williams wrote his Annual Letter of 1896, as mentioned in last year's Report, was duly formed at the beginning of 1897, and some very able papers were read at the inaugurating conference by former pupils and others on questions affecting the religious, moral, social, and educational interests of the Maori race. The general view of their condition was that it called for prompt action, and it was agreed that the papers read should be printed in English and Maori, and circulated, and that a second conference should be held in December, 1897, to which Europeans interested in the true welfare of the Natives should be invited. This was held on December 15th to 17th, and was most successful and encouraging. "Old Boys" Association.

The Rev. G. Maunsell, who resides at OPOTIKI, says that efforts are being made to provide the larger settlements of Maoris in his district with suitable places of worship instead of the huts, often dirty and untidy, which have hitherto been the only places available. At Te Kaha a sum of £78 is in hand towards the erection of a church, and Mr. Maunsell hoped this would be made up to £400 at a meeting to be held there on Christmas Day. The results of whale fishing had been devoted to this object, and some of the Maoris had undertaken work for settlers with the purpose of adding thereby to their contributions. Opotiki.

The Rev. W. Goodyear, of TAURANGA, says that while the services are well attended, and the Maoris are generally very ready to hear Gospel preaching, there is a manifest indisposition to come out decidedly on the Lord's side. At Maketu the faithful ministrations of the Rev. Rameka Hamiona were seconded by Miss Spencer (daughter of the Rev. S. M. Spencer), who has a class of elderly Maori women. Tauranga

III. DIOCESE OF WELLINGTON.

Puteki. THE Rev. A. O. Williams mentions a severe earthquake which damaged the Mission house at PUTEKI in December, 1897, but, mercifully, no one was injured. The prospects of the work at this station are very encouraging. The services are well attended both on Sundays and week-days, and the private life of the inhabitants, as to sobriety and morality, is irreproachable. A school for Maori children, established in 1894, and partly supported by Archdeacon S. Williams, has much to do with this. The Whanganui district is an extensive one, and services are held in some fifty centres by Maori lay readers, to whose self-sacrifice and devotion Mr. Williams bears witness. The Rev. Eruera Te Ngara is physically unable to perform adequately the duties of his district in the Valley of the Whanganui River, the arduous work of poling from village to village requiring a vigorous and younger man. In Rangitikei district the earnest labours of the Rev. Arona Te Hana were rewarded by the return en masse to the Church of the people in the neighbourhood of Te Pariki, who had been Hau-haus. Wairarapa was twice visited during the year by the Rev. A. F. Williams, of Te Aute. In the interval between his visits a so-called Maori prophet from the Otaki district took up his abode at Wairarapa, and professed to be able to heal diseases. He told the Maoris that all their troubles were the consequence of their attending church and partaking of the Holy Communion. The Rev. Mohi Turei has been transferred from Rangitukia, in the Waiapu Diocese, to Wairarapa, in order to shepherd the Christians.

NORTH-WEST CANADA MISSIONS.

These are Missions to the remnant of the Red Indian tribes scattered over the vast country formerly known as the Hudson's Bay Territory, now included in the Dominion of Canada. In 1822 the Rev. John West arrived at a trading settlement on the Red River, a little south of Lake Winnipeg, and began to gather the Indians round him. The first step in the great extension of the Mission was the sending forth from Red River, in 1840, of Henry Budd, a native teacher, trained up by Mr. West from his boyhood (afterwards the first native clergyman), to open a new station at Devon, 500 miles off. And now, from the United States border-line to the Arctic Ocean, and from Hudson's Bay to the Rocky Mountains, the praises of the Redeemer are sung by thousands of Indians, and in eleven different languages.

The Red River district is now the flourishing colonial Province of Manitoba, and a large part of the Society's work has developed into the settled ministrations of the Church in the Colony. One of the Society's churches has become the Cathedral of the Diocese of Rupert's Land, which was founded in 1849. That diocese, which has been highly privileged in its two first Bishops, Dr. Anderson (1849) and Dr. Machray (1865), was subdivided in 1872 into four parts, the three new dioceses being those of Moosonee, Athabasca, and Saskatchewan. To the two former Sees missionaries of the Society were appointed, the Rev. John Horden and the Rev. W. C. Bompas, and to the third an active co-worker in the country, Dr. McLean. Bishop McLean died in 1886, and was succeeded by Bishop Pinkham; Bishop Horden also died early in 1893, and was succeeded by Bishop Newnham. In 1884, in pursuance of a scheme formed by the Provincial Synod of the Ecclesiastical Province of Rupert's Land, the Diocese of Athabasca was divided, Dr. Bompas taking the Northern half as Bishop of Mackenzie River, and the Rev. R. Young, C.M.S. Missionary, being appointed to the Southern Division as Bishop of Athabasca. The Provincial Synod of 1890 sanctioned a division of the Mackenzie River Diocese, the territories to the west of the Rocky Mountains becoming the Diocese of Selkirk, and the region to the east retaining the name of Mackenzie River. Archdeacon Reeve was consecrated Bishop of the latter diocese in 1891, Bishop Bompas again taking the remoter diocese, that of Selkirk. In 1884 the Diocese of Qu'Appelle was formed out of the Dioceses of Rupert's Land and Saskatchewan, and has had successively Bishops Anson (1884) Burn (1893), and Grisdale (1896); and in 1887 the Diocese of Calgary was carved out of that of Saskatchewan, but has not yet received its own separate Diocesan.

The Society labours in all the above-named eight dioceses; but in that of Qu'Appelle the work is confined to one station, Touchwood Hills, opened in 1857.

In RUPERT'S LAND DIOCESE the Society's work was commenced in the Red River district in 1823; Fort Alexander was occupied in 1864; and Rainy Lake district in 1874. In MOOSONEE DIOCESE, Moose Factory was occupied in 1851; York, 1854; Albany, 1855; East Main Coast, 1877; Churchill, 1886. In SASKATCHEWAN DIOCESE, Cumberland and Devon were occupied in 1840; Stanley, 1850; Sandy Lake (Asisipi), 1875; Battleford, 1876; Prince Albert, 1879; Grand Rapids, 1881; and Fort Pitt, 1888. In CALGARY DIOCESE, Fort McLeod was occupied in 1880; Blackfoot Crossing in 1883; Sarcee Reserve in 1886. In ATHABASCA DIOCESE, Fort Chipewyan was occupied in 1867; Fort Vermilion, 1875; Lesser Slave Lake, 1887; Upper Peace River, 1888. MACKENZIE RIVER DIOCESE, Fort Simpson, 1858; Fort Norman, 1871; Fort McPherson, 1874; Fort Resolution, 1875; Herschel Island, 1897. SELKIRK DIOCESE, Rampart House, 1882; Buxton, 1887; Selkirk, 1892; Yukon (re-occupied), 1897; Klondyke, 1897.

Effects of discovery of gold at Klondyke.

THE discovery of gold in July, 1896, at "Thronduick" ("plenty of fish"), the Indian name for a creek falling into the Yukon River, which, under the name "Klondyke," has attained a world-wide notoriety, will doubtless modify, and indeed in some respects almost reverse the external conditions which have distinguished the vast region comprising the North-West Territories of the Dominion of Canada. The remotest corner of the Great Lone Land, to whose few civilized inhabitants a year or two ago an annual post was a grateful luxury, will probably ere many months be traversed by one or more railways, placing it within a few days' reach of the cities of Canada and America. Meantime the world is learning much of the rigours of the climate, and the inhospitable conditions of life. In the spring of 1897, for example, Mr. Hemlin, engineering expert of the British Columbian Government, was frozen to death while on his way to Klondyke. For well-nigh thirty years Bishop Bompas has resided and journeyed in those regions with only one brief visit home, and for the past several years his home has been at Forty Mile Creek (Buxton), within thirty miles of Dawson City, in the very heart of the richest goldfield the world has ever known, yet bearing uncomplainingly hardships and privations, with which it would be difficult indeed to find a parallel, that he may seek for Christ's sheep scattered over those wild mountains and among those Arctic snows. Archdeacon McDonald—whom the Times has mentioned as the first to draw attention to the existence of gold in the district, from having found a nugget in Birch Creek, 200 miles below Forty Mile Creek, in 1891—has resided more than thirty years at Fort McPherson, well within the Arctic circle.

Hardships uncomplainingly borne.

Government of North-West Territories.

The Dominion Parliament passed an Act in June, 1897, for the better government of the North-West Territories. In 1870, when the Territories were transferred from the Hudson's Bay Company to the Dominion Government, they were placed under the nominal administration of the Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba. Ten years later, when the population of Manitoba and the North-West Territories taken together had reached to something over 100,000 persons, these Territories were placed under a separate Lieutenant-Governor and Council, nominated by the Dominion, constituting practically a Crown Colony, the Crown rights being held by the Dominion Government. The first step towards organization was taken in 1882, when one-fifth of the area of the Territories, viz., 500,000 square miles, out of 2,500,000 square miles, was divided into the four administrative districts of Assiniboia, Saskatchewan, Alberta, and Athabasca. In 1886, by the "North-West Territories Act," a council was formed, partly nominated and partly elected, to assist the Governor, and a judicial system was introduced. In 1895, the hitherto unorganized portion of the Territories was divided into four new administrative districts, which were named Yukon, Mackenzie, Franklin, and Ungana. The effect of the Act of June, 1897, was defined by the Minister of the Interior as to "give to the people of the Territories a Government which shall not have the full powers of a provincial Government, but, in so far as they have power to deal with subjects, they shall do so in the same way as the other provinces. They will have Ministers who are responsible to the Legislature, and the rules and precedents which apply to the provincial Governments will apply to the Government of the Territories." Thus, in the space of less than twenty years, a district fifty times the size of England has passed through the stages from wilderness to Crown Colony, from Crown Colony to Representative Institutions, and from Representative Institutions to responsible Self-Government. These are the stages through which every self-governing Colony of the British Empire has passed, but in no other case have the changes in so vast a territory been so rapid, and in no other case have they been accomplished under the ægis of a subsidiary Government, the Dominion Government having throughout played to the North-West Territories the part played in the other self-governing Colonies by the Imperial Government itself.

Progress from "wilderness" to self-government.

Legitimate as the pride and satisfaction of the Mother Country may be in beholding the rapid multiplication and growth of the vast autonomous Colonies of the Empire, it is of the first importance that the problems consequent upon this rapid dispersion of her children, which confront the Bishops and clergy of the North-West, should not be forgotten. The Archbishop of Rupert's Land has drawn attention repeatedly to this, as it affects more especially his own diocese. He has stated, for example, that in Manitoba there are 786 school districts, in 740 of which the average attendance of children is under thirty, and 211 have not ten; that the majority of these diminutive centres of population in that most fertile land will in all probability become a considerable settlement in the course of a single generation; and that therefore provision should be made without delay for present and prospective spiritual needs. The Southern part of Rupert's Land Diocese is nearly as large as England, it contains some seventy parishes and Missions under clergy, with over 200 congregations; the average size of one of the Missions is about 400 square miles. Such are some of the facts regarding the oldest and nearest of the districts of the North-West. When the latest and most remote is considered, the affecting plaint of Bishop Bompas is heard that his diocese is "probably the poorest and most ill-supported diocese in the world, though just now almost untold wealth is being exhumed from its soil." Both Archbishop Machray and Bishop Bompas acknowledge in grateful terms the help afforded by the C.M.S. for the work among the Indians in their respective spheres. The former says, "Through the generous action of the Church Missionary Society, provision has been made for Bishops in the vast Indian territories. I cannot conceive how helpless I should have been, but for this wonderful help." And the latter writes:—

Problems confronting the Bishops.

Help afforded by the C.M.S.

> The Church Missionary Society provides the diocese this year with about £700, and the Colonial and Continental Church Society with £100, for the support of the seven Church clergy, with schools, &c., and including the Bishop's stipend. And provisions are almost at famine prices. For the rest they have only the precarious resource of voluntary contributions.

The Society's expenditure in Manitoba and the North-West during the year under review was £12,733.

Death of the Rev. S. W. Stagg.

The Rev. Samuel William Stagg, who went out in 1853, and laboured until 1865 at Fairford, died, on March 9th, 1898, at Kirby le Soken vicarage, in Essex, of which he had been incumbent since 1872.

I. DIOCESES OF RUPERT'S LAND AND QU'APPELLE.

Archdeacon R. Phair sends a helpful report of the Indian stations in the diocese of Rupert's Land. His systematic visitation of them is greatly appreciated by the missionaries and native clergy in charge, who welcome his wise and experienced counsels, and are refreshed and encouraged by his sympathy and spiritual intercourse.

St. Peter's Indian Settlement.

St. Peter's Indian Settlement is the oldest and largest of the Society's Indian Missions. Its area is about ten miles square. Over 1,200 Indians reside upon it, of whom 1,070 are baptized and in communion with the Church of England, while 264 are returned as communicants. Many of the native clergy and catechists labouring elsewhere in the diocese are from this parish, and Archdeacon Phair says, "If St. Peter's were the only witness in Western Canada to the untold power of Missions, it should be more than sufficient to convince the world that all donors to this work have been amply rewarded." Services are held at the large iron church and at four out-stations, distant respectively three, five, seven, and eighteen miles from the centre; cottage meetings also are held at eight places; six Sunday-schools have 300 pupils; a Temperance Society combats the evils of drunkenness—the great foe, as the Rev. J. Anderson observes, to the material and spiritual advancement of the Indian. About half the Indians live in comparatively airy and wholesome houses, containing two or three rooms or a second storey, while the remainder still occupy one-roomed log houses, and suffer in consequence, and die, especially in the winter, through the draughty and insanitary state of their abodes. The Dynevor Hospital, open to Indians from all parts of the diocese, and receiving sometimes inmates from the far North-West, is increasingly appreciated.

Pastoral agencies.

Dynevor Hospital.

Scanterbury, on the Brokenhead River, is under the charge of the Rev. R. E. Coates, who laments the influence of unprincipled white men met with by his Indians when absent from the Reserve, tempting them with offers of whisky, contrary to the law. There is no family now on the Reserve which is wholly heathen, all have one or more members Christian. The daughter of a medicine man and another adult were baptized during the year. A little log prayer-house was put up at Grand Marais. The Cree hymn-book, hitherto in use by these Indians, has now given place to one in their own vernacular—Ojibbeway.

No family wholly heathen at Scanterbury.

Fort Alexander, separated by a day's journey from Scanterbury, is near the mouth of Winnipeg River, which flows into Winnipeg Lake at its south-eastern corner. Archdeacon Phair writes in terms of warm commendation of the good work (both physical and spiritual—in building the material accessories and in promoting the spiritual edification of the people) of the Rev. E. Thomas. He adds, "The people under his charge have been taught not only to help themselves a good deal, but also to contribute towards the support of the Gospel among the sparsely-scattered settlements of white people." A recent convert remarked, "We were away in the night when the big praying-man came, and it was like the rising of the sun in the morning, showing us where to put our feet; the light has come into us and satisfied us." Nearly all these Indians now possess good houses, though small, and while cleanliness has not reached the superlative degree, Mr. Thomas states that many of the Indian women "keep their houses clean and nice." A short day's journey north of Fort Alexander is Black River, where the Rev. B. McKenzie is both pastor and schoolmaster. The school, however, averages only four pupils in the summer, and scarcely eight in the winter. The people are Christians, and "have a strong aversion," Archdeacon Phair writes, "to drinking, dancing, or gambling, and consider praying and singing much more enjoyable." Some of them gladly travel twenty miles to the Sunday services. Seven adults were baptized at Hole River. The native catechist and schoolmaster, Mr. J. Sinclair, has a most anxious post; the majority of the Indians being still Heathen, and mining and lumbering camps are close at hand; but the work is hopeful notwithstanding.

"Showing us where to put our feet."

Some 150 miles up Winnipeg River Islington is reached, where the Indians, under the Rev. J. A. Maggrah, are described by the Archdeacon as "a simple-minded, exceedingly primitive people, who know very little outside the truths of the Gospel they have been taught." This cannot be said of the Indians of Swan Lake, an out-station which has a majority of heathen Indians; nor of Les Dalles, another out-station, which is near to Rat Portage, a large mining and manufacturing centre.

"A simple-minded and primitive people."

Lac Seul is reached from Islington up the English River, and there the Rev. T. H. Pritchard labours with much encouragement. About two-thirds of his Indians reside on Trout Lake, and when these are at home in the summer, after the "bear hunt," the church is crowded by a most reverent and attentive congregation. The Lord's Day is observed with great strictness by these Indians, even those who are Heathen rest from labour by force of example, and "the man who fires a gun or otherwise engages in unnecessary toil," Mr. Pritchard says, "is a marked man, and is generally the subject of severe criticism by the other Indians." The importance of education is beginning to be realized by the Indians, and four children were sent to the Industrial School at Manitoba. At Wabuskang, an out-station, Mr. Pritchard baptized one of the leading Indians —the councillor—who was able to read, and possessed and treasured a Bible, Prayer-book, and hymn-book in his own vernacular. Heathenism still exists in this district, and the medicine man is not extinct, but it and his power are rapidly waning. An epidemic of influenza—la grippe is the local name—visited the neighbourhood at the beginning of 1897. Whole families were prostrated together, leaving no one to cut and haul the firewood, or visit the fish-net and rabbit-snares. Yet, notwithstanding cold abodes, scarcity of food, and absence of medical treatment or skilled nursing, only five deaths occurred.

Observance of the Lord's Day.

At Frenchman's Head, out of a population of eighty-five, there were sixty-eight cases of illness; but clothing and warm quilts sent by the Women's Auxiliary of Canada, and food relief sent by the Department of Indian Affairs, greatly diminished the suffering, and there were no immediately fatal cases. A small church was built under the supervision of the Rev. A. T. Norquay. The Rev. G. Prewer, of Wabigoon, has resigned his Indian work, and has sent no report for the year.

The Canada C.M. Association has generously undertaken to be responsible for the maintenance of the work in the Rainy River District, where the Rev. J. Johnston labours among a mostly heathen population. Gambling, drinking, and heathen dances are to be witnessed almost every day. Only nine of the Indians at Long Sault, where Mr. Johnston resides, have been baptized, and these have much to endure. One of them said, in explanation of the slow progress of the work, "It takes no small amount of pluck for an Indian to take and lay his bundle of Heathenism at the feet of the missionary and be baptized. I have done it, and therefore know what it is; it takes something more than the Indian to do it." There are schools at Manitou Rapids, Little Forks, and Hungry Hall. At the last-named place the majority of the adherents of this district reside, but are in danger of drifting back to Heathenism for lack of a resident agent.

Much courage needed to confess Christ.

Returning to Winnipeg, and thence proceeding in a north-westerly direction, the south of Lake Manitoba is reached.

About a hundred miles up its eastern shore is FAIRFORD, the station of the Rev. G. Bruce. Four out-stations are also under his supervision, at each of which is a teacher appointed by the Winnipeg Finance Committee, but mainly paid by the Government, namely, Crane River, Lower Fairford, Sandy Bay, and St. Martin's Lake. From the last-named the Rev. H. Cochrane was transferred in 1897 to Jackhead, which is about half-way up the western shore of Winnipeg Lake. He built a small church and baptized several adults during the year. Shoal River is close to the northern boundary of Rupert's Land Diocese on the western shore of Winnepegosis Lake. Mr. E. H. Bassing was in charge during the year. Archdeacon Phair, who visited this remotest station in the diocese in October, 1897, was surprised and delighted at the progress made during the past few years. He writes:—

Intelligent and attentive worshippers.

Success in an out-of-the-way place like this means a great deal when the isolation and peculiar difficulties are borne in mind. Mr. Bassing had the misfortune to lose his little house by fire in his absence one Christmas Day. Not the least discouraged he went to the bush, secured material, and with the aid of his people erected a Mission-house, schoolhouse, and nice little church, all of which I was delighted to find neatly fenced in and in good order. The church was well filled with intelligent and attentive worshippers on the occasion of my visit. It was pleasing to see the large proportion that waited to join us at the Lord's Table. I had several interviews with the Christians of this place, and was much impressed by their simple devotion and zeal for the things they have been taught. It is no easy matter to carry on work like this at a great distance from civilization, but all this is more than compensated for in the fact that our people are entirely removed from the influence of unprincipled men. It is quite refreshing to spend a time among Christian people, and not hear a bad word, or find any allusion to stealing or other vices too common among white people. Our Missions get on better when the Indians are by themselves.

The Winnipeg Finance Committee, at the suggestion of the Bishop of Qu'Appelle, decided to transfer Mr. Bassing to TOUCHWOOD HILLS, which is in the Qu'Appelle Diocese, in succession to the Rev. A. Cook, who has resigned.

II. DIOCESE OF MOOSONEE.

Bishop Newnham's brief visit to England.

BISHOP NEWNHAM paid a very brief visit—only a few days, indeed—to England in July, 1897. It afforded the Committee much pleasure to hear from his lips of the progress of the work around the dreary shores of Hudson's and James' Bays. The Bishop's sister, Miss G. Newnham, who spent two years at Moose Factory with the Bishop, has started a quarterly newspaper, The Moosonee Mailbag, for the purpose of affording information and stirring up interest in the work; while Miss E. L. Newnham, another sister, is the honorary secretary of the Moosonee Church Extension Fund, on which the Bishop largely relies for maintaining the work. From the footnote on the page giving the list of ordained agents (above, page xlviii.), it will be seen that the majority are supported from this Fund.

The Rev. E. J. Peck sailed to return to Cumberland Sound in July, 1897, and the Rev. and Mrs. J. Lofthouse came home in December from Fort Churchill.

Moose Factory.

The Rev. A. C. Ascah, who resigned a living in Canada in order that he might engage in missionary work, and who arrived at MOOSE FACTORY in September, 1896, with Bishop Newnham on his return from the General Synod at Winnepeg, reports upon the services, Sunday-school, Bible-classes, day-school (conducted by the Rev. I. J. Taylor), at this station. The moral tone of the Indians is improving, and the consumption of spirituous liquors is decreasing. The Rev. J. Sanders visits the several out-stations in the southern portion of the diocese from Biscotasing on the Canadian Pacific Railway. These are Matawakumma, Flying Post, Pigeon's Nest, Chapleau, Brunswick Post, Montizambert, and Missanabie. Rupert's House is at the mouth of Rupert's River, which falls into James' Bay at its south-eastern corner. This station is visited by Indians in the interior, and the Rev. E. Richards remarks on their eagerness to listen to the Gospel, but he does not think that many of them are truly renewed in heart.

Fort George.

About 200 miles north-west from Rupert's House, along the shore of James' Bay, is FORT GEORGE, the station of the Rev. W. G. Walton. The Indians here are inclined to regard religion as intended exclusively for the white man, and Mr. Walton fears the attendance of many of them at the services is actuated more by the wish to please him than the desire to worship God. They do attend in large numbers; the church is always crowded, and in the summer the heat is well-nigh unbearable. Mr. Walton made, as usual, two prolonged visits during the year to Great Whale River, where he meets the Eskimo from the further northern and eastern districts. These show more earnestness in regard to spiritual things, and their acknowledgments to Mr. Walton of failure to live up to their aspirations and convictions are often pathetic. A small iron church has been erected, and the Eskimo never weary of attending services while the opportunity lasts. Lantern slides were exhibited at most of the services, and the simple people remarked after seeing pictures of our Lord's life, "Now we shall believe, for we see what Jesus did is all true." A small band of Eskimo, to whom Mr. Walton went to say good-bye on their leaving, said to him, "Couldn't we go once more to church and have prayer?" And they did so, seeking God's blessing on them and theirs for another year.

Pathetic acknowledgments of failure in the Christian life.

"Couldn't we go once more to church and have prayer?"

Fort Albany.

FORT ALBANY is on the western coast of James' Bay, where the Albany River falls into it. Archdeacon T. Vincent sends a full report of the services, day and Sunday-schools, classes, &c. He repeats what he has said in previous years regarding the general practice of family prayer among both whites and Indians at Albany. Four adults were baptized—a married woman, a blind man, and two old women who had both been at one time wives of the blind man, but one of them had been put away several years before. Bishop Newnham describes a painful experience he had in visiting the station before he came to England in 1897 :—

Bishop Newnham in grave danger in a swamp.

My men having broken my canoe, and having to wait after mending it for the next tide, I determined to walk on till they caught up with me, as we were not far from Albany. I waded ashore and started to make a direct course across a few miles of swamp. But the swamp became bog, almost bottomless, and crossed by many a stream or ditch, and I was soon wet up to my waist. I did not want to turn back for fear my men would have passed on, so I struggled on hour after hour. I had been up since midnight, and had only had a mouthful of crust since the previous day; was heavily clad with high-wading boots, which were soon filled with water, and the sun was beating on me. There was no dry ground for me to sit down on and rest, so I rested against some willows drawn together, which bore a part of my weight, and thus I took a dog's sleep once or twice. For some time I walked barefooted and barelegged, as I could not lift my boots full of water; but my legs and feet were so torn by the willows that I had to don the boots again.

A merciful deliverance.

Thus I walked from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., and at last could only go a few yards at a time, my hands helping my legs to lift my feet, when my men, anxious about me, fired their gun, and I answered with a shout. They soon reached me, as I had almost reached the bank of the river near Albany, carried me to the canoe, and laid me under the tarpaulin, and I instantly fell asleep. We soon reached the Archdeacon's, who tended me most carefully, and after bathing my torn feet I again fell asleep instantly. However, next day, though dressing was pain, and movement worse, and climbing the pulpit stairs agony, yet I was able to perform all the duties arranged for me, beginning with Indian service at 6 a.m., when I preached. Then came 10.30., English confirmation, sermon, and administration of Holy Communion; 2.30, the same for the Indians, with seventy-six communicants. I was glad to rest in the evening, with my aching and torn feet and legs wrapped in cotton and vaseline. It was indeed a merciful deliverance, and I hope I was spared to do many years' work in the vineyard.

Fort Hope.

The out-stations visited by Archdeacon Vincent are English River and Long Lake. About 350 miles up the Albany River is Fort Hope, the station of the Rev. R. Faries. Numerous winter camps are generally found within a walk of one or two days of Fort Hope, and these Mr. Faries visits from time to time. An Ojibbeway chief at one of these camps, who at first opposed his work, is now frequently seen at the Sunday services, and invited Mr. Faries to teach his children "something about the great God and His Son Jesus Christ." During the winter most of the Indians are absent from Fort Hope, but occasionally one or more come in to sell the furs collected. On these occasions a visit to their pastor is never omitted, and although (being dressed through the winter in rabbit skins, which they never discard until worn out) the odour is a most offensive one, Mr. Faries rejoices to realize that in many instances a truly noble and Christian heart beats under the rough exterior. Some of the Fort Hope Indians hunt in the neighbourhood of Trout Lake, several hundred miles distant. These invariably have many questions to ask bearing on the Word of God and their spiritual experiences during their two short visits each year. One of them, a young man, is specially zealous, and is recognized as the religious leader of the party, and they all repose implicit confidence in him. These Indians brought Mr. Faries a brotherly letter from the Rev. William Dick, the C.M.S. clergyman at Trout Lake. During the summer, when the Indians are at home, Mr. Faries is kept busy from early morning till late at night. Three services are then held daily, and numerous classes come for instruction in the intervals between the services. At Martin's Falls, Mr. Faries met by appointment some Attawapiskat Indians, whom he had baptized in 1896, as mentioned in last year's Report (page 409). They showed great earnestness and sincerity. Two other young lads of their party were baptized. The Indians at Martin's Falls are very different in character from the above, being the most indifferent and unimpressionable to be found in the whole district. Those at Osnaburgh House, a five-days' journey up-stream from Fort Hope, whom he visited in the summer, Mr. Faries does not entirely trust. He learned that conjuring was practised among them in secret. Four services daily, with after-meetings after each one for those who desired advice, individual instruction, &c., were held during the visit, and two adults were baptized.

Christian hearts under a rough attire.

Upon the Rev. J. Lofthouse coming home, the Bishop placed Mr. Chapman at FORT CHURCHILL to carry on the work.

Mr. C. G. Sampson was alone at BLACKLEAD ISLAND, in Cumberland Bay, from September, 1896, when the Rev. E. J. Peck left to visit England, until August 23rd, 1897, when Mr. Peck returned. Mr. Peck took out materials for a new Mission-house, but when it was erected a large party of Eskimo from the shores of Frobisher Bay arrived with the intention of making Blacklead Island their home, and the house was used as a church, over a hundred being present. Mr. Sampson paid a visit to Kikkerton, of which he writes:—

Blacklead Island.

I was most hospitably received and entertained for eight days. I had several classes for adults and children to teach how to read, and visited every tupik several times, telling them of Jesus. My time was most profitably spent, for I acquired a greater knowledge of the language and realized much help from on high to carry on the services amidst much discomfort. We had a house in which the dogs are fed for a church or school; from floor to ceiling it was about 5 ft. 6 in., there was no door, and the walls at the side were made of pork, beef, and herring barrels; the floor was beautifully white but dreadfully cold, likewise the seats, which were all composed of snow. I had to stand over two smoking Eskimo lamps, with my head touching the floor above, and my shoulders the joists of the said floor. I am glad to say we were packed like sardines and had a splendid time singing hymns and reading the Gospel according to St. Luke. His Word will not return void. I found many of the people could read and write quite well, owing to the labours of Mr. Peck.

It was proposed that Mr. Sampson should go to Kikkerton in the summer of 1898, and possibly visit from thence a place called Padley, in the Davis Strait.

III. DIOCESES OF SASKATCHEWAN AND CALGARY.

At the request of Bishop Pinkham, Bishop Young, of Athabasca, accompanied by Archdeacon J. A. Mackay, visited the Mission stations of the Saskatchewan Diocese in the summer of 1897. On July 4th Bishop Young admitted the Rev. J. R. Matheson to priest's orders at Battleford. Ordination.

After a long illness the Rev. John Sinclair, a Cree Indian, who was educated at St. John's College, Manitoba, and was admitted to deacon's and priest's orders in 1880, died at Chemawawin. Death of the Rev. J. Sinclair.

The Indian Department of the Canadian Goverment has increased its maximum grant to Emmanuel College, Prince Albert, and the number of students has grown from twenty to fifty-three. More is done now than formerly in the way of industrial training. The Rev. G. S. Winter baptized a young man and his wife on November 14th, 1897, the first adult baptism that has been administered at Sturgeon Lake. The attendance at the services was very fluctuating, sometimes the school building in which they were held being full, at others, without any assignable cause, except possibly the covert hostility of some of the headmen, the attendance fell off greatly. One reason given by the Heathen for not embracing the Gospel is that they fear it would involve separation in the next world from their departed relatives. Prince Albert.

Bishop Young confirmed nine candidates at Sandy Lake. The aged chief of the Indians on the Reserve, Ahtahkakoop, died at the close of 1896. He was one of the chiefs who remained loyal to the Queen during the Indian rebellion of 1885, and about the same time he became a follower of the Lord Jesus Christ. The Government has promised to assign a Reserve to the Indians at Big River, White Fish Lake, and Stony Lake, most of whom are Heathen. Nepowewin is sixty or seventy miles from Prince Albert lower down the river, just below the junction of the North and South Saskatchewan Rivers. The Rev. J. C. Pritchard has been successful in enlisting the co-operation of several voluntary lay-helpers in his scattered district, and services are held at Sandy Lake.

three centres, Nepowewin, Pahonan, and Butler Settlement, every Sunday.

Stanley. Bishop Young in his visitation tour in August was struck with the "almost cathedral proportions" of the church at STANLEY, the northern station of the Rev. R. McLennan, situated on Churchill River. On Easter Day there were eighty-seven communicants in this church. The Bishop confirmed twenty-one and also fourteen at Big Stone, and eight at Pelican Narrows. The opening of a road from Prince Albert to Lac la Ronge is leading to consequences of great moment to the Indians of this district. Now the fisheries on which they have mainly depended are being invaded by white men, and the fish carried by horse teams to Prince Albert, to be shipped away by the ton, so that the fisheries are becoming exhausted. It is probable that they will remove to a Reserve allotted to them north of the Sturgeon Lake Reserve.

Devon. DEVON, some thirty miles from Prince Albert, about fifty miles from Cedar Lake, and 120 from Grand Rapids, where the Saskatchewan River empties itself into Lake Winnipeg, is the centre of an extensive district which contains 1,200 baptized Indian Christians, and 380 communicants. The Rev. J. Hines, since his return from furlough in June, 1896, has built four new churches at Devon, Moose Lake, Chemawawin, and Shoal Lake. Bishop Young dedicated three of them in August and September, and confirmed 152 candidates in the district. The church at Devon Mr. Hines believes is the largest in the diocese, but it was not large enough on the occasion of the Bishop's visit. Eleven candidates were from Shoal Lake and Red Earth, who had journeyed ninety miles in order to be confirmed. In the summer of 1897 Mr. Hines travelled 2,000 miles, most of the distance by water in his steam launch. The Rev. J. R. Settee finds that many of the Indians are leaving Cumberland, the majority having settled on Sturgeon River, which is better adapted for farming purposes, and he has removed thither himself. On one occasion, as he was returning to Cumberland from that place, whither he had been to baptize a child, he was shut up by the ice for a week on an island, four days of which he was without food.

Battleford. Ascending the North Saskatchewan River above Prince Albert, two stations, Battleford and Fort Pitt, are reached. At BATTLEFORD the Revs. R. Inkster, and D. D. McDonald labour on Red Pheasant and Thunderchild's Reserves, and there is an Industrial School under the Rev. E. K. Matheson. At FORT PITT the Rev. J. R. Matheson observes a striking change in the conduct of the heathen Indians; many of them have begun to attend church. A certain number of Roman Catholic Indians also attend on Mr. Matheson's ministry, and after the services eagerly ask him questions, so that his study, he says, is an "inquiry room" after every service.

The three stations in the Diocese of Calgary are at the extreme west, under the shadow of the Rocky Mountains. FORT MCLEOD is among the Blood Indians. The Rev. Arthur de B. Owen, an Englishman who was ordained by the Archbishop of Rupert's Land in 1895, and held the living of Snowflake, Manitoba, took charge of the Kissock Homes, with thirty-six boys and twenty-two girls, in July, 1897; and the Rev. E. F. Hockley, of the Canada C.M. Association, removed to the Reserve of the Chief, Red Crow, as a centre for itineration among the 1,300 Indians of the Blood tribe. These Indians are scattered in little groups over a distance of some fifty miles. Mr. Hockley observes a change in their attitude. They show greater respect, and are more careful to keep Sunday as a day of rest. Fort McLeod.

The Rev. H. W. G. Stocken had the joy of instructing for baptism four adults at BLACKFOOT CROSSING, one of whom was a minor chief, Little Axe. He attributes these results largely to the use of pictures, especially those of the Harris-Jones series, in illustration of the International Sunday-school Lessons, and those of the R.T.S. Dreams also appear to have been used by God to the same end. The Rev. C. H. P. Owen, B.A., of Wycliffe College, Toronto, has been placed in charge of the Boys' Home under Mr. Stocken. A hospital was opened in May, 1897, and Dr. Turner, M.D., St. Andrew's and Toronto, was placed in charge as an honorary worker, with his two daughters, one of whom is a trained and experienced nurse, as nurse and matron, both being supported by the Women's Auxiliary in Eastern Canada. Fifty-one in-patients were received during the first eight months, and 1,800 out-patients were treated. Blackfoot Crossing.

Archdeacon J. W. Tims is at SARCEE RESERVE, and reports a willingness on the part of the Indians to receive Christian instruction, which makes the work a pleasure. St. Barnabas Home has seventeen children. Sarcee Reserve.

IV. DIOCESE OF ATHABASCA.

BISHOP YOUNG visited Wapuskaw, Trout Lake, White Fish Lake, and Lesser Slave Lake at the beginning of 1897, and in the summer and autumn he made a visitation, as already mentioned, of the stations in the Saskatchewan Diocese, in response to an invitation from Bishop Pinkham. The Bishop has printed a Cree version of St. Mark's Gospel in the syllabic character with his printing press at Athabasca Landing. Its weight, in strong cloth covers, is only 4½ ozs., a great consideration for the roving Indian reader. Printing Press.

Lesser Slave Lake.

LESSER SLAVE LAKE, during the furlough of the Rev. G. Holmes, was under the charge of the Rev. W. G. White. His brother, Mr. A. S. White, who has given assistance for three years in the Mission, and has during that time acquired a knowledge of Cree, has been accepted as a candidate for training at Wycliffe College, Toronto, by the Canada C.M. Association. Another brother, Mr. C. D. White, arrived in January, 1898, to take charge of the boarding school, with some twenty children. He had laboured at White Fish Lake under the supervision of the Rev. W. G. White. The latter baptized five adult Indians, a man and four women, in February, 1897. The man baptized was the same who is referred to by Bishop Young in the following extract:—

A deeply-interesting incident occurred during my visit to White Fish Lake. While visiting the house of an unbaptized Indian, who had, however, with his wife frequently attended the services, Mr. White noticed on a ledge near the chimney an idol (these are generally kept in the background). Before he left he observed that it had been covered up. No remark was made at the time, but this led me, on the following Sunday, to take for my subject the First and Second Commandments, associating them with the scathing utterances against idols and the gracious invitations to trust in the Lord contained in the 115th Psalm. The man was seated near me. He grew restless and yet evidently convicted. Sometimes his head was buried in his hands, then he would look up and listen again. Some of the others said, "We did not come to hear these things; let us go." At the close of my address the man, evidently under conviction, spoke thus: "They liked our words; they were good. They liked us; but as for these customs, they were the customs of their fathers before them, and they did not want to give them up." My reply was that their and our fathers had done thus in ignorance, but that they now, like ourselves, knew through God's Word the right way, and I warned them of the danger of hearing and not doing it. It was with mixed feelings that I left the Mission, sorrowing that many still clung to their old superstitions, yet thankful for this collision, feeling sure that it would make them both think and, by God's grace, arouse their consciences. In searching out these recesses of the Great Lone Land, one learns how much of idolatry, devil-worship, and superstition still lingers among the Indians there.

Lingering idolatry.

This man, and the woman too, was brought to a decision by a still more painful exhibition of heathen ignorance and superstition. An alarm had been created, through simultaneous dreams of two sickly young Indian women to the effect that an outbreak of cannibalism, associated with their superstitious fear of evil spirits, was about to break out. Mr. White says:—

Fear of evil spirits.

I found the people very uneasy and alarmed, but much relieved that my brother and myself had come. The two poor young women and their husbands slept in the Mission-house the night before I got there. That night they asked us to come down to a house close by. We went, after asking God for His guiding presence, and found the house full of scared and solemnized people. We sang a hymn to reassure them. I read the Word to them, and told of God's tenderness for the sick and compassion for the poor, and that He alone could give the power to resist the Devil and all his works. We prayed with them, and after giving the poor sufferers some medicine, left the most solemn meeting I have ever seen in an Indian shack. On inquiry I found that the younger of the women had dreamt that a dead relation had come to her and offered her human flesh in a glass dish. The elder one dreamt much the same, until their mother became quite ill also from fear. On the next day a man and four women, including the sick ones, came to me asking for baptism. So on Sunday, 28th, I had the joy of baptizing five persons. In a day or two I started for home alone, leaving all better and reassured.

A few weeks later the same fears were revived among a little party of Indians living several miles from White Fish Lake, and were calmed in the same way by directing the poor ignorant people to look and trust in the Lord Jesus Christ.

Wapuskaw. WAPUSKAW is the central one of three settlements on the Wapuskaw River, situated on the shores of two lakes, about four miles apart. The Hudson's Bay Company has a store on the first lake; the Rev. C. R. Weaver resides on the second; and about ten miles distant from him at the end of the same lake is the third settlement. At the fishing season a large number of Indians from distant settlements collect on these lakes, and the Rev. M. Scott, of Fort Vermilion, visited the station in June to render assistance in visiting their encampments. In only one tent were they repulsed, that of a Roman Catholic Indian woman. The Roman Catholics have bought land and erected a church near the Company's store, and have rebaptized some of the children, but in other respects Mr. Weaver does not think the work has suffered through their influence. The boarding school has thirteen children. Two girls, fourteen years old, were brought by Mr. Weaver from Trout Lake, a settlement about seventy-five miles north of Wapuskaw, which he visited at the end of 1896. He found a little encampment at the end of one of the large lakes which had never been visited by a missionary before. It was a special mark of confidence and appreciation on the part of the Indians to commit the girls to Mr. Weaver's care. These girls made good progress in English. Bishop Young visited Trout Lake a few weeks after Mr. Weaver, and he relates another instance, and one which had a most tragic and terrible issue, of the superstitious fears to which the Indians are liable. He says: —

An Indian kills his son from superstitious fear. From Wapuskaw I proceeded with an Indian and a train of dogs to visit Trout Lake. I had an interview with the Indian who, during the previous winter, had slain his own son with an axe. The son had gone out of his mind, and was regarded by the Indians as a wetigoo, a sort of demoniacal possession. They have a great terror of such. Inspired by it, husbands have killed their wives, and sons assisted in killing their parents. He was an amiable-looking, elderly Indian, whose broad, pleasant face it was difficult to associate with the cruel deed. Being requested to do so, the old man gave a plain, unvarnished account of the affair, constantly saying that he did not want to do it, but was urged to it by his own and the fears of those about him. He had been in constant dread of being taken out for trial. I warned him that the Government suffered neither white men nor Indians to kill each other. I told him Christian people considered those out of their minds as objects for compassion and kind treatment rather than fit subjects for the axe. This cleared the way for talk about better things. Our guests did not leave till after ten o'clock, and my host remarked that he had not seen the old man so cheerful for a long time.

A member of the General Gordon Relief Expedition.

The Bishop's host during his short stay at Trout Lake, referred to in the above extract, was a Christian Indian from St. Peter's Settlement, Red River, in Rupert's Land diocese. He was one of the brigade of boatmen whom Lord (then Sir Garnet) Wolseley summoned to work the boats up the Nile Cataract during the General Gordon Relief Expedition. The Bishop baptized two adult Indians, young men, at Wapuskaw. The Rev. H. Robinson at Shaftesbury, on the Upper Peace River, does not write very hopefully of the Indian work. The white population attend the services fairly well, but the Indians are more regular in applying for food, clothing, medicines, and other temporal benefits than in seeking spiritual counsel. The Bishop highly appreciates Mr. Robinson's faithful ministrations. He has a good mastery of the Cree, and is a good traveller, able to make long and fast journeys with the dogs. Of the Rev. Mr. Scott also, of FORT VERMILION, the Bishop writes :—

"In weariness and painfulness, in journeyings often."

Though afflicted with much bodily infirmity, subject to rheumatism, sciatica, and great nervous prostration, he continues to prosecute, on foot in winter and by canoe in summer, journeys sometimes of two or three hundred miles, visiting the Indians in their camps, and feeling amply compensated for the fatigue whenever he comes in contact with those who are thirsting for instruction or give evidence of a genuine work of grace going on in their hearts.

On his journey to Wapuskaw, referred to above, Mr. Scott only met with one little encampment of Indians in the whole route of four hundred miles. On the way back he met with solitary huts at four different points and at long intervals. Mr. Scott says :—

Loneliness of missionary travel.

With the teeming millions of some other lands I am sure you will hardly realize the utter loneliness of missionary travel through this vast land of a few solitary dwellers in tents. There the missionary is saddened at the thought of the many whom, despite his utmost endeavour, he cannot reach. Here the missionary is likewise saddened and disappointed because of the very few, whom with like endeavour he cannot reach.

The Rev. A. J. Warwick has charge of the Irene Training School, with fourteen boarders.

Fort Chipewyan.

The Rev. J. R. Lucas, of FORT CHIPEWYAN, states that the Indians do not visit the station so much as formerly. Traders are now more wont, in their endeavours to "cut one another out," as the Bishop explains, to take their goods to the Indians at their camps, returning with the furs. When visiting them Mr. Lucas has not felt encouraged by the reception accorded to him. Mr. Lucas made a brief visit to England in the spring of 1897, leaving Mrs. Lucas and her sister, Miss Hatley, at Fort Chipewyan; the two being jointly responsible for the spiritual work of the station during his absence.

V. DIOCESE OF MACKENZIE RIVER.

Bishop Reeve visited Forts Wrigley, Norman, and McPherson, and Hay River in the summer of 1897. At Fort McPherson he admitted Mr. C. E. Whittaker, of the Canada Association, to deacon's orders in July, 1897. Ordination.

The Rev. J. J. Marsh, of Hay River, visited Eastern Canada to be married during the summer, and returned with his bride just before the Bishop arrived at the station. During his absence Miss Marsh and Miss Tims carried on the work. The Bishop says, "School was kept regularly, the scholars giving evidence of careful instruction. A simple service held for the Indians was well attended." A splendid crop of vegetables and a beautiful display of flowers, both from Messrs. Sutton's seeds, rewarded the ladies' labours in another sphere of activity. Hay River.

Bishop Reeve was in charge of Fort Simpson. Some of the Indians manifested an increasing desire for instruction. He confirmed four women. The Bishop during the winter spent the mornings in the school and the afternoons visiting and teaching six or eight women in their own homes, four of whom read through the greater part of the New Testament and committed to memory whole chapters. Other women were instructed by Mrs. Reeve. The Indians find committing to memory a most toilsome task. Two adults were baptized. Fort Wrigley, some 200 miles down the Mackenzie River, which was occupied by Mr. Webb in the summer of 1896, as mentioned last year, presented difficulties, especially that of scarcity of food. Two Indians were starved to death, and others would have perished but for the help rendered by Mr. Webb. Daily evening prayers were fairly well attended, the young were taught in school, and an elderly woman and six children were baptized. Two Romish priests have recently established themselves at the station, and the Bishop asks for much prayer in Mr. Webb's behalf. Fort Simpson.

The Rev. and Mrs. W. Spendlove are stationed at Fort Norman, 300 miles north of Fort Simpson.

During Archdeacon McDonald's absence at Winnipeg, the Rev. I. O. Stringer was in charge of the work at Fort McPherson (St. Matthew's Mission), on Peel River, some fifty miles north of the Arctic Circle. The attendance at the day-school averaged about fifteen. The Bishop's visit to the station in July, 1897, has been mentioned. He had an interview with four of the Christian leaders, to whom their respective parties of Indians look for spiritual teaching when away from the Fo McPherson.

station. One of them spoke of himself as "thirsty for the work," and described the difficulties of teaching during the long, cold, dark winter, in a smoky camp, with no light, except what was given by the flickering fire, and often experiencing great scarcity of food. Another said he felt like a little child learning to walk, and often needing to be picked up by the missionaries. A third, who with his party had suffered severely from short supplies of provisions, expressed thankfulness for hard times, because they drew them nearer to God. The Rev. J. Ttssiettla, the Indian deacon, accompanied one of the parties as their leader. This party had no food for several days, and three men and eleven children perished. Scarlet fever attacked the Indians at the Fort in the spring of 1897, every one of them suffering, but only one died. Mrs. Stringer's hospital experience proved of the greatest service during this time.

Thankful for hard times.

Without food for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Stringer, a fortnight after their arrival at Fort McPherson in July, 1896, proceeded further down the river to Mackenzie Bay, accompanied by Mr. (now the Rev.) C. E. Whittaker. They first visited the Huskies, the Eskimo inhabiting the village Kitligagzooit to the east of the river's mouth. As the summer whale hunt was just concluded, and eighty whales had been caught, whale meat was plentiful, and even Mrs. Stringer, fresh from Eastern Canada, partook of an occasional dish. The Huskies were very delighted to have a white lady in their midst. An incident occurred which threatened danger, but which happily had no serious consequences. The chief drank too freely from a bottle of liquor procured from a whale ship, and under the influence of the whisky became very violent towards Mr. Whittaker, and ordered the whole party to leave the village. The good-will of the people was shown by the prompt manner in which they seized and carried off their chief, and the matter was soon settled by a general shaking of hands, and the three remained several days longer at the village. Thence they proceeded westward to Herschel Island, which was reached on August 25th. There they lived for the next three weeks in a sod house, visiting the whaling ships around, and holding services on Sundays in the Whaling Company's house, and as often as possible for the Eskimo in another house. On their way back to Peel River, on September 25th and 26th, a terrific gale swept the coast just after the missionaries had entered the mouth of the Mackenzie River, still 100 miles from Fort McPherson, and they all, and especially Mrs. Stringer, had a trying experience. They reached the Fort on October 3rd, and were thankfully welcomed by Mr. Young (the lay helper, who had accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Stringer from Eastern Canada), who had been in charge, with only an Indian boy as companion, during their absence. Mr. Whittaker started again on January 7th, 1897, as soon as the sun returned, to revisit the same places. When he left the fort, the sun shone for an hour at noon, and when he arrived at Kitligagzooit, twelve days later, the sun was just returning there. The mercury registered 14° below zero on the warmest of these twelve days, and 57° below zero on the coldest night, and eight of the twelve nights Mr. Whittaker slept out of doors. He was cordially welcomed by the Huskies, but the cold was so intense that he was unable to stay longer than two weeks. He wrote:—

Slept out of doors with mercury at 57° below zero.

I remained at the village just two weeks, and a most uncomfortable time it was, principally on account of the cold. They are all in snow houses now, and the temperature required to preserve a snow house will not conduce to a white man's comfort. I suffered constantly and almost unremittingly with cold hands and feet, and no amount of clothing would keep them warm. My blood appeared to stagnate and to afford me no heat. Consequently I did little teaching, although, my ears and tongue being in good working order, I was able to learn and apply very many new words and usages, besides systematically augmenting our vocabulary. . . . The intense cold made me ravenously hungry, and although deer meat was plentiful, I craved fat, and at length was tempted to try some of the white whale that had lain in the ground since summer. It was strong, even burning my throat, but after a little I ate it with relish. It is eaten about half frozen, raw, of course.

Life in a snow house.

Occasionally I held service, with singing and prayers, but the truth was I could think of hardly anything else but how to get warm. Therefore, after two weeks I bade them good morning, and started for the island. No reference was made during my stay to the unpleasant episode of last summer. The chief was uniformly kind, and all the people friendly and courteous. In the house where I stayed were two Huskie families, seven of them and myself all in one room, about the size of an ordinary bedroom. There we ate, drank, slept, and lived the daily round. The houses are just such as you may see in any pictures of Arctic scenes. There is no fire in them except the big seal oil lamp, over which they do much of their cooking.

On February 2nd, Mr. Whittaker started for Herschel Island, and had a very uncomfortable experience in a gale:—

A night on the ice in a gale.

The nearest ship lay 150 miles off. My load was light, and dogs in good trim. By running to keep warm, and riding to rest, the ship was reached after three and a half days' travel. In that part of our parish there are no trees, driftwood is often hard to find, and willows very small. The third day, after an early breakfast, we left the land to cross the wide mouth of the Mackenzie, some twenty or twenty-five miles; but a gale came on, we lost the trail, and drove hard before the wind all day till after dark, and no land in sight. We had missed it and gone seaward. Having already made about fifty miles, we were tired, and, although the prospects were poor, decided to camp. The gale was still blowing, there was no wood, no fire, not even a tent, nor snow enough to build a house. Hastily pulling our deerskins and blankets out of the ledges, slewing the latter across the wind and spreading our bed, in the shelter we crept in. Fortunately I had a large cotton sheet, which served to cover us and keep out the driving snow, and the dogs kept our feet warm. The reading here (Peel River) for that night was 48 degs. below zero, but it was probably less there, as with that temperature and the wind we had, we would assuredly have been frozen. As it was I suffered more from fright than from cold. The night passed, as all such nights will, eventually, and I must have slept a little, but the spaces between were long and weary.

In the morning, after munching a quantity of sea-biscuits and frozen butter, a piece of each held in each fur mitten, we hastily broke camp and started on the run, taking our course by the wind, which was blowing unabated. Five hours' hard work brought us to the nearest ship, where I found warmth and welcome waiting, and during the next few days I made up for all I lost along the way—food, rest, and heat. And thankful I was to be safe aboard, as I was not at all sure, when we lay down the night before, whether we should rise or not. Both my servant and myself were very lame from the hard travelling.

Seamen frozen to death.

How merciful Mr. Whittaker's escape was appeared more clearly a few days later. On March 6th several men from the whale boats, attracted by the lovely weather, had gone out on the ice hunting, when suddenly a tornado of remarkable violence swept the coast, the mercury falling 45° in a few hours. Four seamen and two Eskimo were frozen to death within a mile of the ships. Mr. Whittaker buried the bodies the day following in the midst of another violent storm, and spoke on Luke xvii. 33. One of the victims of this terrific gale was a son of well-to-do parents in Switzerland. Many Eskimo of many different dialects, but all understanding the language of the Huskies, were on the island, and these attended with much interest at the services and teaching. After an eight days' walk of 200 miles Mr. Whittaker reached the Fort on April 3rd. Mr. Stringer and Mr. Young a few weeks later started again and visited first Herschel Island and then the Huskies. The Natives at the former place showed a growing eagerness to learn, but evil reports, spread by some of the ships' people to serve their own ends, produced a coldness on the part of the Huskies, which, however, gradually wore off. They returned on June 23rd.

Occupation of Herschel Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Stringer and Mr. Young went in the autumn to permanently occupy HERSCHEL ISLAND, which Bishop Reeve describes as "the most northerly inhabited spot in the British dominions, and, perhaps, the most inaccessible—a bleak, desolate, treeless island, ice-bound for nine months of the year, and surrounded by floating masses of it during the short summer."

IV. DIOCESE OF SELKIRK.

Ordination.

BISHOP BOMPAS admitted Mr. F. F. Flewelling to deacon's orders on March 28th, 1897. Mr. Flewelling went out from Eastern Canada in 1896. Mrs. Bompas sailed in July, 1897, to return to the Mission.

When the Diocese of Selkirk was formed in 1891 there were only two clergy within its boundaries, residing at two stations, at only one of which was there a school chapel. Now the staff, inadequate indeed still for the rapidly growing population, consists of the Bishop, one Archdeacon, and five other clergy, a schoolmaster and mistress, and nine native catechists. Most of the Indians within reach of the stations attend most regularly the Sunday and daily services, and many of them can read the New Testament in their own tongue. But the southern part of the diocese is still neglected. The material progress of the country has been extremely rapid during the same few years. In 1891 it was only a wild Indian waste, a few hundred miners at most being found at Forty Mile Creek. The discovery of gold in large quantities in 1896 attracted a considerable crowd of about 3,000 miners in the course of 1897, and their number was ever increasing. Daily wages were at £3, or six shillings the hour, and the price of provisions proportionately high. The introduction of spirituous liquors was enormous, and the mining camp, the Bishop says, "is a wild place."

Progress in Selkirk Diocese.

Buxton.

Buxton was named by the Bishop after Mr. T. Fowell Buxton, of Easneye, when the station was occupied in 1887. It still retains among the miners its old name "Forty Mile Creek," being supposed to be about that distance from Dawson City, called so after Dr. G. M. Dawson, Director of the Canadian Geological Survey. Bishop and Mrs. Bompas, and the Rev. and Mrs. B. Totty, reside there. The withdrawal of the miners to Klondyke, fifty miles further up the River Yukon, was an advantage to the Indian work at this station. The Indians electing to remain in the vicinity of the Mission rather than go after the miners was an indication that they desired to follow the better course and to avoid the ways of evil. Mr. Totty says, "It would cheer the hearts of friends at home to see how these people love their books, and I trust love their Saviour."

Klondyke.

The Rev. F. F. Flewelling was stationed at Klondyke, near Fort Reliance, which has been visited from time to time for thirty years past. The large influx of miners has exposed the Indians in this neighbourhood to grievous temptations, and Mr. Flewelling needs much patience and faith in the arduous work of encouraging and helping them to withstand the temptations to which they are suddenly exposed. Mr. Flewelling wrote in June, 1897:—

> Klondyke, or Dawson City, as it is now called, is a town of three or four thousand inhabitants this spring. The placer mines have proved to be wonderfully rich; it is claimed to be the richest in the world. . . .
> My work is entirely with the Indians in this place. Last autumn the Indians sold their rights to the old village site, being influenced by some white men, and so this spring were obliged to move off. The land question is rather complicated here. The nearest plot of undisputed ground lies about two miles below the old village, and to avoid any future trouble I made application to buy forty acres there for an Indian village. I am now living in a tent on this new site, and have men at work up the Yukon getting logs for my Mission-house, while I am busy clearing the ground—healthy, but blistering work. Owing to lack of funds I can at present only put up one building, which will have to be used as a dwelling-house, school, and church.

This is our spring season, and the flowers are in bloom. There are many varieties, and some very familiar ones, but all without scent. The prevailing colour is purple. This is the mosquito season, too, and they are maddening. They are everywhere in myriads, and their humming makes even the stout-hearted tremble. One has to eat, sleep, write, and do everything else that keeps one still, under mosquito-netting. The work is hard and discouraging, but when done for Christ's sake, and in His name, hope brightens, and there is more than a reward even here in the peace and quiet of His presence.

Still further up the Yukon is SELKIRK, which is awaiting the return of Archdeacon Canham from England. Rampart House has been abandoned as a Mission-station as it is no longer frequented by the Indians. FORT YUKON, the station in Alaska, which is the territory of the United States, has been reoccupied with the sanction of the American Bishop of Alaska. The Rev. J. Hawksley took up his abode there in the summer of 1897. It was first occupied by Mr. Kirkby about 1862.

Fort Yukon.

Mr. R. J. Bowen has been admitted to deacon's orders, and is stationed at Dawson City for work among the miners, and therefore is removed from the Society's list.

BRITISH COLUMBIA MISSION.

In 1856 Captain Prevost, R.N., drew the Society's attention to the savage state of the Tsimshean Indians on the coast of British Columbia, and a young schoolmaster, Mr. W. Duncan, was sent out. A great blessing was vouchsafed to his labours; and in 1862 the Christian settlement of Metlakahtla was founded. In 1881, however, Mr. Duncan refused to work on the lines of the Church of England, and ceased to be a missionary of the Society, and an unhappy schism among the Native Christians resulted. But peace was in God's good providence ultimately restored, though at a heavy cost. Prolonged disputes about the land ensued between Mr. Duncan's Indians and the Government; and in the summer of 1887 Mr. Duncan removed with some hundreds of the Indians to a place seventy miles distant, within the United States territory of Alaska. Since the departure of the disaffected party the conduct of the loyal Indians has been so excellent that the Government Commissioners sent in November, 1888, to report on the condition of these disturbed districts stated that the Metlakahtla Church Indians were in happy contrast to all others, and were a credit to their instructors.

The Diocese of British Columbia was subdivided in 1879; and the Rev. W. Ridley, formerly a Missionary of the Society in the Punjab, was appointed the first Bishop of Caledonia, the Northern Division; in his diocese, with the exception of one station, Alert Bay, the C.M.S. Mission Stations are situated.

Reinforcement.

BISHOP RIDLEY sailed in August, 1897 to return to the Mission. Miss M. West came home on sick leave in March, 1898, her state of health requiring that Miss R. M. Davies should accompany her. The latter returned in April, and with her Miss Alice Jane Edwards, who went to Sierra Leone in 1894, but, in consequence of health failing, was transferred to this Mission. Mr. Francis Edward Webb, M.B., of the Victoria C.M. Association, was the only other reinforcement sent out during the year.

Death of the Rev. L. S. Tugwell.

The Rev. Lewen Street Tugwell, who laboured for two years in this Mission, from 1860 to 1862, and was privileged to baptize the first Tsimshean converts on July 26th, 1861, died on January 10th, 1898, at Tunbridge Wells. He was cousin of Bishop Tugwell of Western Equatorial Africa.

Metlakahtla.

The missionaries stationed at METLAKAHTLA, during the whole or part of the year under review, were the Rev. W. Hogan, Dr. V. Ardagh, and four ladies, Misses A. J. Tyte, R. M. Davies, H. Jackson, and B. Davies. Mr. Hogan considers that the organization of the more ardent members of the congregation into an evangelistic band, which is called a "Church Army," has proved, and continues to prove, most helpful towards the promotion of their spiritual life. He gives an account of the usual Sunday engagements and employments. The Church Army assemble at their hall for prayer at 7 a.m.; they then march through the village singing and preaching; they attend Holy Communion in the church at 8.30; at 10 a.m. the Sunday-school meets, attended by over seventy boys and girls; at 11 there is a service in the vernacular; at 2.30 p.m. afternoon school and various Bible-classes are held; at 4 p.m. the Church Army again meet and march as in the morning, only this time they end their march at their hall, where they have prayer, singing, and preaching; at 7 p.m. there is an English service, attended by the Europeans, half-breeds, and the few Indians who know English; this service is followed by a choir practice; at 10 p.m. the bugle sounds as a signal to all to retire to their houses. Mr. Hogan says, "An Indian never thinks of doing any work on Sunday, never launches a boat, or shoots, or fishes." Mr. Hogan gives an instance of the generous devotion of these young Indians. When Miss West was very ill, and Dr. Ardagh desired to have a consultation with a brother medical man, a picked crew of the Church Army men volunteered to go to Kitkatla to fetch Dr. Webb from thence, a distance of sixty miles. Mr. Hogan says:—

Generous devotion of young Indians.

Part of the way they were exposed to the full fury of the open ocean; they accomplished 120 miles in two days and a half, and brought Dr. Webb. When they came they were drenched, but managed to keep the doctor dry. In how many places on our seaboard at home would you find a crew ready to go for a doctor from Holyhead to Kingstown in a dug-out canoe without a rib?

The day-school under Mr. Hogan has sixty-four on the roll, and an average daily attendance of over fifty. Mrs. Hogan teaches singing, sewing, and calisthenics. Mr. Hogan says of the school and of a visit to it by the Superintendent-General of Indian Affairs in British Columbia, accompanied by the Indian agent:—

The Superintendent-General examined the school and heard them examined. He heard them sing the whole story of "Cinderella," with actions and with marvellous accuracy, without the help of any musical instrument. He expressed himself "surprised and highly pleased at what he had seen and heard, and complimented Mrs. Hogan on the time and pains she must have taken to accomplish it." But it was with her a labour of love. One boy from Miss West's Home recited a piece describing the dashing charge of the Gordon Highlanders on Dargai, which pleased the Superintendent very much. Two years ago this boy could not speak without taking God's name in vain. He is now completely changed: so much for the grace of God and good training. I wish some of your Committee could listen to them repeating in the vernacular and in English that matchless doctrinal 100 Texts compiled by the Rev. A. Dallas; these are as well-known here now as in the Dublin schools. One little incident will show how the work proceeds. At one of our meetings I heard the father of one of our brightest Indian girls get up and repeat one of the 100 texts in the vernacular, showing that the little girl had taught the father, thus reversing the order of Timothy. They love to be able to quote a verse from memory.

The Superintendent-General of Indian Affairs examines Mission school.

Dr. Ardagh took an active share in the preaching, holding classes, &c. There were nine in-patients in the Hospital. The Indian Girls' Home has twenty-six children, whose behaviour, Miss Jackson says, would do credit to any similar institution in England. Four Hydah girls, three of them from Massett, entered the Home in the autumn, and it taxed the patience and persuasive powers of the ladies, Miss Tyte and Miss Jackson, to keep the peace between these newcomers and the Tsimshean children. The same ladies conduct a sewing class, attended by from six to twelve members. As usual during the salmon-fishing season, the missionaries left Metlakahtla for the fishing stations at the mouth of the Skeena River—Inverness, North Pacific, and Claxton, and there they were joined by missionaries from other stations. At Claxton, Dr. Ardagh has a small hospital, and from it he visited the other stations, and prescribed and dispensed for less serious ailments. Miss Tyte and Miss Jackson were together at "North Pacific" Cannery, living in a small "shack"—a lightly constructed wooden hut—in a wood some ten minutes' walk, and a very rough walk, from the "shacks" of the people. Here they held a little school for such children as they could collect, visited the people, nursed the sick among them, &c. Miss Tyte writes:—

Fishing stations.

Nursing in an Indian hut.

Nursing in the Indian summer residences is very different from nursing in a hospital, for they are only camping-out in wooden shacks, five or six families in one room, and with very few things for their use, and the few utensils they possess are generally in an unwashed state. We generally took anything we thought we should require when going to doctor our patients, but sometimes in school we would be called to see a sick one. The case of a sick man, in particular, is stamped on my memory. To gain admission to the house we had to mount a piece of board leaning against a platform in front of the shack: across the board narrow steps had been nailed to make it possible to get up and down. As we entered the one-room shack, the first thing meeting our gaze was a big man rolled in blankets, lying on the floor, close to a fire which was burning on the floor without any protection except the stones on which the logs were placed. Above the fire salmon was being smoked, and clothes were being aired. Around the room were arranged four wooden bedsteads, heaped with dirty blankets, rags, and clothes of all descriptions; over the floor were strewn boxes, bundles of rags, cooking utensils, and food. In one corner of the room, sitting on a bundle of rags, was a semi-idiot woman, half paralyzed; in another corner a young girl plaiting bark into a mat, with a baby at her side. By the sick man was sitting his wife, who did her best to make him comfortable, but being heathen from the interior their knowledge was very limited. The bread they produced for the poultice was of the heaviest, darkest description; they had great difficulty in finding any white rags, and could only give us hot tea to soak the bread. Truly such people need the soul-healing and civilizing influence of the Gospel of Jesus.

Kitkatla.

Bishop Ridley visited KITKATLA in January, 1897, and confirmed seventeen Indians, among whom were Chief Sheuksh and his wife Rose. The Rev. R. W. Gurd says of these, and of the other confirmees:—

Confirmation classes.

The preparation of these two was a special joy, and I may say privilege, because they were so regular in their attendances at the classes, so earnest in their desires to know the "way of God more perfectly," and evidently regarded the rite as an epoch in their life's history; and so it was, for they have both been regular communicants and faithful followers of the Lord Jesus. All the others have given satisfaction, with the exception of one whom I have just had to suspend.

From thirty to forty attend a weekly communicants' class, and two Bible classes are also held each week. Dr. Webb was stationed at Kitkatla on his arrival in the Mission in October, 1897, to await an opportunity of ascending the Stickine River to open up new work there.

Kincolith

Archdeacon W. H. Collison received a very warm welcome on his return to KINCOLITH, after furlough, in November, 1896. At his suggestion the Christian Indians invited the Indians of the nearest heathen encampment to spend the following Christmas season with them. He writes:—

Christian Indians invite heathen neighbours to spend Christmas with them.

This was accordingly done, and a large party of them came down the river, travelling part of the way by sleighs on the ice, and afterwards by canoes, on reaching tidal waters. Though drenched with falling sleet and benumbed with cold, as they approached the village they burst forth in one of their old war songs to indicate their triumph over the elements. They received a hearty Christian greeting, and were invited by our Christians to their homes. Thus for some three weeks we had our heathen guests present at our services, and also present at family prayer in the various houses where they were lodged. On several occasions they broke out in one of their dances on the street, in order, as they stated, to show their pleasure at the way in which they had been treated by the Christians. But the real cause was to throw off the spell or influence which they feared would rest on them if they remained passive amidst such surroundings. Notwithstanding, two of their number deserted their heathen friends, and were registered as catechumens, and after due preparation were baptized into the faith of Christ. Such was the result of this cast of the Gospel net.

The prayer-meetings and public services were well attended. The Saturday evening prayer-meetings and the early Sunday morning Communion services were especially times of refreshing, the Archdeacon states. As at Metlakahtla, the Church Army Evangelistic Band at this station march through the village before the bell rings for the Sunday morning early Communion. A new church, to replace the one burnt down in 1893, is well advanced. The people offered cheerfully towards the building fund. Archdeacon Collison says:—

Cheerful offerings.

The men brought their bear-traps and guns, whilst the women brought blankets, articles of clothing, and many of them divested themselves of their ear-rings and bracelets and presented them for this work of the Lord. One poor woman came forward with her skirt which she had preserved to wear on special occasions, and as she cast it down she turned to her friends and said, "Have we not heard in the 'Good News' of how they brought their garments and spread them in the way for the Lord Jesus, and shall we not do the same and prepare the way for Him in our midst?"

Three of the senior native teachers died during the year, each witnessing to the preciousness and faithfulness of the Saviour in the dying hour. The number of Nishka Indians who remain Heathen are now in a minority, and even they have given up the graver practices of Heathenism.

The Rev. J. B. McCullagh expresses a fear lest the religious enthusiasm of the past few years among the emotional Indians of this Mission should be followed by a reaction; and he especially dreads the influence of the Klondyke Goldfields from this point of view. He aims at giving his people, as the best safeguard against this prospective danger, a well-grounded conviction of Christian truth, and at the same time to promote a knowledge of industrial pursuits. He has formed a Y.M.C.A. or "Winter School" at AIYANSH for the purpose of giving systematic courses of religious instruction and also secular education, the members undertaking to attend daily throughout the course of three months' lessons. The day-school has twenty-six children on the roll, most of them girls, but also "a delightful bunch of little boys." All can read and write in their own language. Two of the young men started a turnery business, possessing between them two lathes and a fret-saw, and turned out fairly good work, for which they found a ready market among the Indians. One man put up a written notice on the village notice board to the effect that he was about to start next year (1898) a door and window sash manufactory, and there must be no competition, as the business was only just enough for one! The people show a surprising power of comprehending spiritual truths. Mr. McCullagh says:—

Aiyansh.

Industrial progress.

Comprehension of spiritual truths.

> Any one of those beautiful Keswick addresses published in the "Life of Faith" would be perfectly intelligible to, and highly appreciated by, the majority of our Native Christians. Indeed, I very often give them one of those addresses as a sermon.

Haselton and Giatwangak.

The Rev. J. Field baptized seven adults at HAZELTON; and at GIATWANGAK the Rev. A. E. Price baptized the same number. One of the chiefs of Giatwangak, named Dawallasqu, declared himself a believer in Christ. His son's illness and death was the means which led to this decision.

Massett.

The work at MASSETT, in Queen Charlotte's Island, is of a purely pastoral character, for only one whole family and a few individuals remain unbaptized, and these are under instruction for that rite. No persecution is experienced, the Rev. J. H. Keen writes, for the islanders rarely see visitors during the winter months, and during the summer, from June till September, they are most of them away on the mainland. When all the Hydahs are at home Mr. and Mrs. Keen were very fully occupied. The day-school had some sixty pupils, and the severest punishment Mr. Keen could inflict was to suspend a child from attendance. Mr. Keen has prepared the Gospels of St. Luke and St. John in Hydah for the printer. The Hydahs are acknowledged to be the best canoe builders along the coast. Some of their canoes are sixty feet long and seven wide, hewn out of one tree of red cedar, and will sell for 200 dols., or about £40. Mr. Keen accompanied his Indians in the summer to "River's Inlet," a cannery on the mainland, and there also were the Indians from Alert Bay, with the Rev. A. J. Hall. The two tribes, though speaking totally different languages, fraternized amicably as members of the same Church and servants of the same Master.

A holiday the severest punishment.

The average attendance at the Sunday services at ALERT BAY was 100, but on one occasion as many as 145 crowded into the church. Twenty-seven partook of the Holy Communion on Easter Day, 1897. The feature on which the Rev. A. J. Hall lays chief stress in the year's experience is the coming forward of five of the Christians as sick visitors and Sunday-school teachers. Each of them possesses a copy of Lessons on the Life of Our Lord, by Mr. Eugene Stock. Mr. Hall accompanied one of these five on a visit to a sick Indian, and he describes what he saw :— Alert Bay

He first entered a small cabin, where a young man, a confirmed invalid, was lying. I had never before enjoyed a similar pleasure. Thousands of times I had myself spoken and prayed with the sick, but on this occasion the Native walked up to and sat on the bed, while I remained seated near the door. He soon took from his pocket the Gospel of St. John, and by the light of his lantern read and explained the marriage feast at Cana. He appeared quite unconscious of my presence, and was natural and earnest. I watched all in the house, about eight persons, narrowly, and prayed and praised for the speaker. He spoke about twenty minutes, among other things urging the necessity of confessing Christ by baptism, and then quietly turning to me hinted he had finished, and I closed with prayer. The bright intelligence on the faces of both speaker and the invalid would have made a famous picture. He then led me to another house, where was a sick woman, her father, and two others. My friend had evidently often visited these people before, and again he went up to the bed and sat at the foot. After a few casual remarks, he produced his St. John, and read and explained the first part of chapter iii., about Nicodemus and the new birth. Here again he was very earnest, and I continued to pray while he spoke, watching with pleasure a sight which angels would delight to look upon. A native sick visitor.

Miss E. G. Beeching had charge of the Girls' Home, which has accommodation for twelve girls, but which is rarely full, as the parents are loath to part with their daughters, and the girls themselves do not take kindly to the unaccustomed discipline. The work has many discouragements and disappointments, as is natural; but there are also proofs that it is not in vain. A very affecting account of the death of a poor young heathen woman is given by Miss Beeching :—

"Having no hope and without God in the world," were the words which came to my mind as I knelt by the side of a poor Indian woman who was dying. She was lying on the floor on an old mattress of some kind, with a blanket thrown over her. Sitting near were her father and mother, and her only child, a little girl, at her feet, looking very miserable. The mother's face was bleeding where she had scratched it in grief for her dying daughter, that being the Indian custom to show their grief. How far it is sincere one cannot judge ; it makes them look very unsightly. The poor old father looked so miserable and hopeless, and muttering to himself, and every few minutes something would be said about her departure, not at all mindful of her hearing. The poor woman did not seem to mind it. At last our turn came, my fellow-worker and myself, to try and in some way speak to her about her soul, but it was so difficult, as all near wanted to know what we were saying, so I just leant over her and whispered the name of Jesus, and said a few simple words ; but she seemed not to understand or care to An affecting account of a heathen death.

listen, as she spoke of something quite different. Oh, how awful the death-chamber seemed to us; nothing but sadness, misery, dirt, and hopelessness! We could only pray in secret, and say a few words to the parents, who apparently were pleased to have sympathy shown them, and then leave, feeling very sad, which one often does in such cases among the Heathen.

Two days afterwards I went to see her again, but this time she was laid out for burial, although perfectly conscious, knowing all that was going on. I said a word for the Master, but, alas! no response. She watched me very closely, and I shall never forget the strange look upon her face. I again took her hand in mine and bade her good-bye, feeling that they were glad for me to go.

Just outside the door was a wooden box half her length, which was to be her coffin (in passing let me say that the corpse is doubled up), and I little thought that she would be put into it that night, as I feel sure that, had not her end been hastened, she would have lived a few days longer.

Mr. A. W. Corker has twenty-eight lads in the Industrial School. The senior boys who are baptized meet daily with Mr. Corker for prayer, and two of them have occasionally given public addresses at the Saturday evening prayer meeting. Miss C. Carleton spent several months at Gwayasdums, and Mr. Hall says that all observe an improvement in the Indians there. Several boys and girls from the tribe, the Zawadi-inuks, have entered the boarding schools at Alert Bay.

One of the missionaries in this Mission has suggested (and the suggestion is of sufficient importance and interest to form a suitable closing word in this Report) that on every Thursday, at 4 p.m. (the hour of the weekly prayer-meeting at the C.M. House, London), one hour should be set apart throughout the Society's Missions for special prayer for an out-pouring of the Holy Ghost on the Mission workers and their work everywhere. This, he says, would give a fresh and lasting blessing on the Three Years' Enterprise.

Reports of Special Funds.

REPORT OF THE WILLIAM CHARLES JONES INDIA NATIVE CHURCH FUND.

The interest of this Fund is available for assisting the Native Church Councils connected with the Church Missionary Society in India to employ more evangelistic labourers among the Heathen. Two important conditions are imposed regarding grants. It is necessary, before an application for a grant can be entertained, for a Native Council to show that the Christians whom it represents have actually engaged in aggressive evangelistic work through a Native Missionary Society, or that they are prepared so to do. It is necessary, also, that the Council be able to show that at least two-fifths of the cost of maintaining religious worship and pastoral work in its district has been raised from purely local sources; and that a definite sum has been contributed towards missionary work. The scheme also provides that the amount granted from the Fund to a Council shall not exceed the amount set apart by that Council for purely evangelistic purposes, or the amount raised by the Native Missionary Society in connexion with that Council.

Grants were made during 1897 to the following District Church Councils for the support of seventy-three evangelists:—

	Rs.

PRAYERS FOR MISSIONS,

SUITABLE TO BE USED AT MISSIONARY MEETINGS AND IN PRIVATE.

I.—From the Book of Common Prayer according to the use of the Church of Ireland.

Almighty God, who by Thy Son Jesus Christ didst give commandment to the Apostles that they should go into all the world, and preach the Gospel to every creature; grant to us whom Thou hast called into Thy Church a ready will to obey Thy Word, and fill us with a hearty desire to make Thy way known upon earth, Thy saving health among all nations. Look with compassion upon the heathen that have not known Thee, and on the multitudes that are scattered as sheep having no shepherd. O heavenly Father, Lord of the harvest, have respect, we beseech Thee, to our prayers, and send forth labourers into Thy harvest. Fit and prepare them by Thy grace for the work of the ministry; give them the spirit of power, and of love, and of a sound mind; strengthen them to endure hardness; and grant that Thy Holy Spirit may prosper their work, and that by their life and doctrine they may set forth Thy glory and set forward the salvation of all men; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

II.—For a Blessing on Missionaries and their Labours.

(By Archbishop Sumner.)

O most merciful Saviour and Redeemer, who wouldst not that any should perish, but that all men should be saved and come to the knowledge of the truth, fulfil Thy gracious promise to be present with those who are gone forth in Thy Name to preach the Gospel of Salvation in distant lands. Be with them in all perils by land or by water, in sickness and distress, in weariness and painfulness, in disappointment and persecution. Bless them, we beseech Thee, with Thy continual favour, and send Thy Holy Spirit to guide them into all truth. O Lord, let Thy ministers be clothed with righteousness, and grant that Thy word spoken by their mouths may never be spoken in vain. Endue them with power from on high, and so prosper Thy work in their hands, that the fulness of the Gentiles may be gathered in, and all Israel be saved.

Hear us, O Lord, for Thy mercy's sake, and grant that all who are saved by Thy Name may be one in Thee, and may abound more and more in prayers and in free-will offerings, for the extension of Thy kingdom throughout the world, to Thy honour and glory, who livest and reignest with the Father and the Holy Ghost, ever one God, world without end. Amen.

III.—For Missions and for Grace to help them.

(By Bishop Christopher Wordsworth.)

O Lord Jesus Christ, Saviour of mankind, who hast commanded Thy disciples to go into all the world and to preach the Gospel to every creature, and who hast declared that this Gospel of the Kingdom shall first be preached to all nations, and that then the end shall come; we humbly beseech Thee to raise up men full of faith and of the Holy Ghost, and send them forth to do the work of evangelists by spreading abroad the glad tidings of salvation; and so to fill us with Thy love, and to quicken us with Thy grace, that we may labour joyfully with them by prayers and offerings for their work, so that finally at Thy Second Coming to judge the world, we together with them, and with those who have received the Gospel at their hands, may rejoice in Thy presence with exceeding joy, and may praise Thee for evermore, our holy and most merciful Redeemer, our most worthy Judge Eternal, our most mighty Lord and God, to Whom, with the Father and the Holy Ghost, be all honour and glory now and for ever. Amen.

IV.

(By Bishop Cotton, of Calcutta.)

O God, who hast made of one blood all nations of men to dwell upon the face of Thy whole earth, and who didst send Thy blessed Son to preach peace to them that are afar off, and to them that are nigh, grant that all the people of heathen and Mohammedan lands may feel after Thee and find Thee; and hasten, O Lord, the fulfilment of Thy promise, to pour out Thy Spirit upon all flesh, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

PROPER FORMS OF A BENEFACTION TO THE SOCIETY BY WILL.

No. 1.—Form of a Bequest of a Common Legacy.

I give and bequeath to the Treasurer for the time being of the Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East the sum of Pounds *free of duty for the general purposes of the said Society such sum and the duty thereon to be paid within calendar months next after my death. And I declare that the receipt of the Treasurer for the time being of the said Society shall be an effectual discharge for the said Legacy.

No. II.—Form of Bequest of the Residue or a share of the Residue.

I give and bequeath unto the Treasurer for the time being of the Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East for the general purposes of the said Society my Residuary Real and Personal Estate [or if a share only of the Residue is intended to be given, then, instead of the words in Italics, say "such sum of money as shall be equal to one-fourth or one-half (according to the intention) of my whole Residuary Real and Personal Estate"]. And I declare that the receipt of the Treasurer for the time being of the said Society shall be an effectual discharge for the said Residue [or sum of money as the case may be]. And as to the remainder (if any) of my general Residuary Estate I bequeath the same, &c.

* If so intended.

NOTICE TO TREASURERS AND SECRETARIES OF ASSOCIATIONS.

End of Financial Year.

THE COMMITTEE OF THE CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY beg to remind the Treasurers and Secretaries of Associations that the Society's Financial year ends on the 31st of March.

Final Remittance.

It is earnestly requested that Associations will make their final remittance and forward their Contribution Lists immediately after closing their Accounts.

No Balances shown.

Sums remaining unpaid on the 31st of March are not shown in the Accounts as Balances. The Contribution Lists should therefore agree in total with the amounts actually paid to the Parent Society to that date.

Branches.

Where an Association has Branches connected with it, the Money and Accounts of the Branches must be forwarded to the Treasurer or Secretary of the Association some time before the date for forwarding to London. Branches not doing so in good time shall be considered as self-excluded.

Branch Associations should in every case, where practicable, forward their Money and Lists through the Association with which they are connected, and not direct to the Parent Society.

Contribution Lists and Accounts.

Lists and Accounts (if not sent with the money) must be forwarded not later than April 9th (see last paragraph but one). At the head of the List should be furnished the name of the Diocese, Archdeaconry, Deanery and County in which each parish is situate.

Accurate information essential.

It is very essential that this information should be given accurately to ensure correct entry in Annual Report.

Local Officers.

The date at which the Accounts of the Association are closed, and the names of the Local Officers, should be specified. Should no officers be named it will be assumed that they remain the same as in the previous Report, and the List will be so printed.

Forms of Account.

Printed Lists.

The Contribution Lists should be written legibly to avoid mistakes in printing, and made up in the manner in which the same are printed in the Parent Society's Report. Forms of Account and ruled paper with directions for filling up the form may be had on application to the Lay Secretary at the Society's House. Where the Account or the List is a printed one, two copies should be forwarded. It would greatly facilitate the work of adapting the Local Report for the Society's Report if the following arrangements were adopted:—

(1) Items of 10*s.* and over (In alphabetical order.)
(2) Items of under 10*s.* ... ... } With separate totals for each.

Appropriated Contributions. Special Funds and General Fund.

Particulars of Appropriated Contributions and Contributions to Special Funds paid through Associations are printed with the Lists to which they respectivley belong. All such particulars should be received not later than April 9th in each year, in order that the Society's General Fund Income for the year can be accurately ascertained before the Accounts are closed and audited.

Remittances should be made early in Financial Year.

The Committee take this opportunity of requesting that Local Treasurers will remit to the Parent Committee at the end of every quarter (or oftener in cases of large sums being received) any sum in their hands, over and above the amount required to meet disbursements, &c., the balance being remitted when the Local Accounts are closed for the year. This course would tend to equalise in a greater degree the Income and Expenditure in the earlier months of the Society's Financial year, and save the Society a considerable yearly sum.

RESPECTING REMITTANCES.

Remittances.

Remittances may be made through local Bankers, and their correspondents in London, to the account of the Society at WILLIAMS DEACON AND MANCHESTER AND SALFORD BANK, Limited, 20 Birchin Lane, London, in which case it is requested that advice of the same be sent by post addressed to the Lay Secretary.

Or Drafts may be forwarded direct to the C.M. House, payable to D. MARSHALL LANG, Lay Secretary of the Church Missionary Society, and crossed WILLIAMS DEACON AND MANCHESTER AND SALFORD BANK, Limited, acct. C.M.S.

Post Office and Postal Orders should be drawn on the General Post Office, and be made payable to D. MARSHALL LANG.
